6—Pronoun
7—Fellow
8—Glacial ridge
9—City in New Jersey
10—Priest's garment
11—River (Sp.)
16—Sooner than
18—Out of place
20—Burners
21—To halt
22—Female relative (pl.)
23—Slab of pain
25—To put off
26—Dirties
28—Father
29—Canvas shelter
32—To doctor
33—Compass point
36—Greek goddess
38—Entertainer
40—Ceremonies
42—Large bird
44—Stringed instrument
45—Wanders
46—Hole
47—Fish eggs
48—Small pony
49—Kind of parrot
50—Tricky
53—Railroad (abbr.)

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter

The opinions expressed by the columnists are their own and are not necessarily those of the Daily Tar Heel.

Member of the Associated Collegiate Press Association of the National Collegiate Press Association.	Complete Leased Wire of United Press	Represented for national advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc., 420 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y.

BARRON MILLS, Editor — HOWARD BAILEY, Bus. Mgr.

MANAGING EDITOR: Ed Joyner, Jr. — CIRCULATION MANAGER: Owen Lewis

SPORTS EDITORS: Bob Goldwater, Bill Carmichael

NEWS EDITOR: Chuck Hauser — ASST. BUS. MGRS.: Mary W. Sledge, T. E. Holden — SUBSCRIPTION MGR.: Charles Pattison

SOCIETY EDITOR: Jane Mears — ASST. CIRC. MGRS.: Randall Hudson, Don Snow — EDITORIAL ASSTS.: Bob Sain, Bill Buchan

NEWS STAFF: Raney Stanford, Donald MacDonald, Sally Woodhull, John Stump, Herb Nachman, Charlie Gibson, Gordon Huffines, Margaret Gaston, Mark Sumner, Paul Rothman, Elaine Patton, Jean Baskerville, Mary Ann Taber, Weddy Thorp, Emily Baker, Miriam Evans, Doris Weaver, Nancy Black, Helen Beam, Daniel Wallace, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.

SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Bill Kellam, Larry Fox, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher.

BUSINESS STAFF: James Crews, Jackie Rogers, Betty Huston, J. C. Brown, C. B. Mendenhall, Joe Williams, Randall Hudson, Gladys Cottrell, Al Petteway, Kathryn Colwell, W. S. Peebles, Grover Henson, Neal Howard, Jr., Lena Campbell, Ed Campbell, Al Carpenter.

FOR THIS ISSUE: NIGHT EDITOR: Herb Nachman — NIGHT SPORTS: Bill Carmichael

Netters, Linksmen Gain Victories Over Williams; Both Teams Battle Michigan In Home Action Today

Tennis Team Scores Whitewash Triumph For Eighth Straight

By Larry Fox

Everybody got into the act again on the varsity tennis courts yesterday, the Tar Heels hanging a 15-0 defeat on the shoulders of the visiting Williams netters with only one match going the full three sets.

The locals improved in their second match with the Massachusetts racquet-wielders. When the two teams met Wednesday Carolina dropped one singles encounter to triumph 14-1. Today the Wolverines from Michigan invade Chapel Hill to face the undefeated Tar Heels starting at 3 o'clock.

No. Two Game Tops

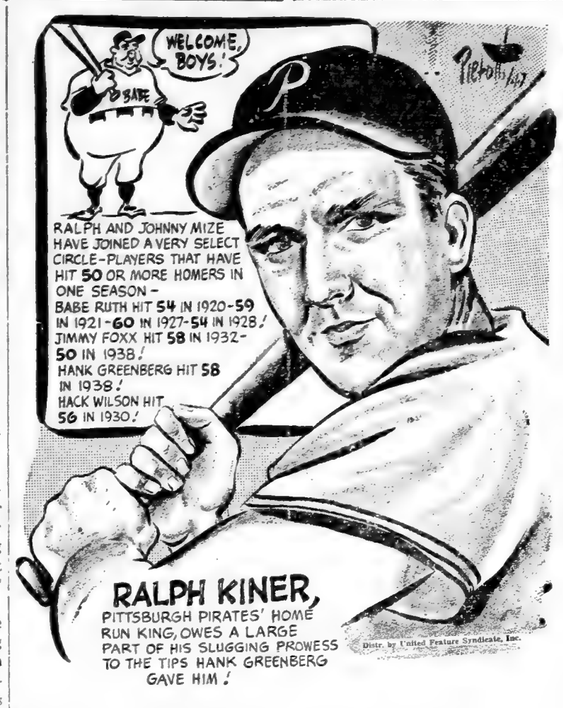
The feature match of the afternoon took place on the number two court where Clark Taylor came close to having his string of singles victories broken at seven by Stu Robinson, Williams' sophomore ace.

Taylor was on his game through the first set, winning handily, 6-3. However, Robinson found himself in the second canto and his well-placed shots forced Taylor into numerous errors to win, 6-4. The final set went to twelve games before Taylor captured a hard-fought 7-5 decision and the match.

Playing number one for the Tar Heels, Vic Seixas took both sets from Charley Schaaf with little difficulty, 6-1, 6-4.

Morris Wins Eighth

Fred Scribner, captain of the visitors, dropped his match to Charley Rice by a 6-2, 6-4 count. Ray Morris also won his eighth singles encounter of the campaign to keep pace with Taylor. He outplayed Dick Palmer, 6-4, 6-2.



Don Skakle also joined the select trio of undefeated solo players by outscoring Pete Thurber, 6-3, 6-4. Heath Alexander and Stan Gruner both won their singles matches without too much trouble. Alexander downed Russ Platt, 6-2, 6-0, and Gruner bested Lew Lincoln by straight 6-1 scores.

Sam Daniels took the initial canto from Ed Spencer, 6-3, but had to go play 14 games before winning the final set and the match, 8-6.

Jim Gallion defeated Williams' Pat Humphreys, 6-1, 6-4 and Les Dameron outscored Jack Mason, 9-7, 6-1, for the final Tar Heel singles wins.

Seixas and Taylor had a little more trouble with the Williams number two doubles team than

(See TENNIS, page 4)

Heavy Hitting, Late Rallies Feature Mural Softball Play

The first week of intramural softball play closed yesterday in a last flurry of heavy hitting and late game winning rallies.

No less than seven games were decided with a late inning rush that was not to be stopped. The tightest game of the afternoon was played between Emerson and Whitehead. Emerson took off with two in the first and held the lead all the way to win 2-1.

Mural Results

SOFTBALL

15	Club H-2-3	Wesley Rockets	8
10	Graham 1	Lewis 2	8
20	Sig Nu 1	Phi Lamb 1	14
25	Stanley Steamers	Alexander 1	9
15	Battlers	Old West	0
11	Aycock	Seiler Five	10
2	Emerson	Whitehead	1
14	Steele	Mangum 1	13
13	Phi Delt 2	St. Anthony	12
7	Stacy	Miller	4
6	Mangum 2	Med School	0
15	PiKA 2	SAE 1	1
19	Phi Delt 1	Chi Psi 2	13
13	Law School	Bombers	1
16	SAE 2	Beta 2	5
16	ATO 2	Beta 1	14

Ruffin forfeit over Clippers
Graham 2 forfeit over Everett

RIFLE SHOOTING

Tuesday

629	Zeta Psi	TEP 590
653	Sig Chi	Delt Sig 570

Wednesday

614	Stacy	Oakwood Drive 560

Mangum forfeit over Old East

Phi Delts Win

Phi Delt No. 2 was not to be defeated in their game with St. Anthony. They were trailing 14-7 in the bottom of the sixth when they came through with seven runs to deadlock the score. They came back in the next inning to push across the winning margin.

ATO No. 2 fought back with a five-run rally in the last frame to edge Beta No. 1, 16-14. Sig Nu No. 1 ended their game with Phi Lamb No. 1 with six tallies to decide a game that was called on account of darkness.

Stacy pulled the second triple play of the year as they defeated Miller 7-4. Another close one found Graham No. 1 the victor over Lewis No. 2 by 10-8.

Nine-Run Rally

Phi Delt No. 1 scored nine times in the fifth to take their contest with Chi Psi No. 2, 19-13. The fighting Aycock ball club saved their game with the Seiler Five by pushing across seven runs in the sixth inning to win, 11-10.

The Stanley Steamers coasted to a 25-9 decision over Alexander No. 1 by turning the game into a rout in the first rack with a 12-run splurge.

Exhibition Baseball Results

By United Press

The New York Yankees had little trouble in subduing Augusta, Ga., of the Sally League yesterday afternoon, 10-1, in an exhibition contest staged at Augusta. Frank Shea and Joe Page combined their pitching artistry in holding the Georgians to three hits while the Yanks collected 10 off three Augusta hurlers.

At Asheville, N. C., the Brooklyn Dodgers, led by fiery Leo Durocher, tamed the Asheville professionals by a 7-2 count. Some pinch pitching by work-horse Ralph Blanca spurred the Dodgers to victory. Four Asheville hurlers were blasted from the hill by powerful Dodger bats.

The Detroit Tigers, with Freddie Hutchinson and Hal Wagner as batterymates, defeated the Atlanta Crackers of the Southern Association easily at Atlanta yesterday by an 8-3 score. The Tigers knocked out 13 base bingles in notching the win.

At Clearwater, Fla., the two Philadelphia teams locked in a tight battle yesterday, which the Phils finally won, 4-3. The Phillies blasted Lou Brissie for 16 base hits while the Athletics could only touch Schoolboy Rowe for seven blows.

Other scores:

New York (N)	8	Cleveland	4
St. Louis (A)	7	Chicago (N)	6
Boston (A)	6	New Orleans (SA)	2
Wash.	11	Chattanooga (SA)	10

Dr. William T. Kohn

announces the opening of his office

for the practice of

OPTOMETRY

Visual Training — Contact Lenses

Call 3686

Office Hours Daily and by Appointment — Monday-Friday 9:00-5:00, Saturday 9:00-1:00

Chapel Hill

over Carolina Coffee Shop

Today

CAROLINA

Undefeated Golfers Cop 22-5 Decision For Fourth in Row

By Billy Carmichael III

The Ward-less Tar Heel golf team found themselves able to carry on creditably in the absence of their ace yesterday afternoon as they drubbed a weak-shooting Williams College sextet, 22-5, at the Hope Valley country club.

It was the locals' fourth straight win of the season and possibly their poorest performance of the year. But when the chips were down, the lads of Coach Chuck Erickson proved they had the winning shoots in their bags and came home with points to spare.

The Carolina golfers will seek their fifth win of the season this afternoon at Hope Valley, facing Michigan, Big Nine champions. The match will begin at 1:30.

Footballer Bob Cox moved up to the No. 1 spot for the afternoon and found himself confronted with more than he was prepared for in the person of visitor Buckie Marchese. Marchese banged his way around the par-70 layout in the best of style to card a 36-35, one over par total for the day.

Cox Tallies

Cox, in trying to match the efforts of his opponent, did score one of the best Tar Heel tallies of the day, a 76, and salvaged a point for the winners.

Jack Brantley, playing in the first foursome with Cox, shot another point-winning round in shutting out his rival, 3-0, and ably assisting Cox in grabbing the best ball points for the Carolina entry.

Roy McKenzie led the way in the second foursome, also registering a whitewash win while partner Harvey Oliver was spotting Williams's Bill Cole one point while winning two himself. The best ball in this foursome was halved, each team netting one and a half points.

Brooks Stars

At the No. 5 post up-and-coming Frank Brooks, who plays each shot for keeps, tied Cox for the top Tar Heel honors with a 37-38-76 total. The Siler City freshman added another clean sweep to the Carolina slate, notching a 3-0 win and coupled with Dan Nyimicz to gather the match points in the final quartet.

Nyimicz, breaking into the lineup for the first time in two years, got off to a shaky start and was even at the turn. But on the

(See GOLFERS, page 4)

Ward's 78 Trails Mangrum at Masters'

(Special to the Daily Tar Heel)

Augusta, Ga., April 8—North Carolina's Harvie Ward found the big time competition of the Masters' invitational golf tournament a little tough as pro Lloyd Mangrum took a first round lead in the feature links event.

Ward carded a 39-39—78 to place way down the list of 64 starters in the event. It was only the second time the Tar Heel ace had played the course though, and the experts around the Augusta National country club still rate the Tarboro lad a threat for amateur honors.

Mangrum took an early lead in the tourney, firing a 69, three under-par for one of the toughest courses in the nation.

Tied for second place at 70 are Ed Furgol, Ben Hogan, Claude Harmon, and Herman Keiser.

Jayvees Prepare For PJC Contest

In hopes of notching their second win of the current campaign, Carolina's diamond jayvees will meet the Presbyterian Junior college nine of Maxton tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

This will be their last contest until the April 17, when Coach Henry House's men meet High Point High school in a return engagement after having dropped a 3-0 decision to the Bisons last Tuesday.

Two changes will grace the Tar Babies' lineup tomorrow. Bill McGinn is slated to take care of the mound chores and Stan Goodman will probably get the nod at the keystone sack. The rest of the lineup will be the same except that Jake Carter will open at first only if a southpaw does the tossing for Presbyterian.

No information is available on the Maxton aggregation at the present time, but this will be the first encounter of the Housemen against a team of college standing. On the outcome of this game, most of the predictions for the jayvees' Big Three metings will be based.

The first of these loop affairs will be against the Blue Imps of Duke on April 21 and will be followed by a tussel with State's juniors three days later.

SENIOR LIFESAVING

All persons interested in senior lifesaving are requested to be at the pool Monday afternoon for the first session, Swimming coach Dick Jamerson announced yesterday.

Classes of one-hour duration at 3, 4, and 5 o'clock will be conducted. Jamerson warned that no persons will be permitted to start the course after Monday's classes.

Tar Heel Nine Drubs Gamecocks 16-6; Club Moves On To Clemson

By Jack Wade

Columbia, S. C., April 8—The heavy hitting of the touring North Carolina baseball club went on a 10-run display in the sixth and seventh innings here today to provide the Tar Heels with their first Southern conference triumph of the season, a 16-6 win over South Carolina.

Behind 6-5 up until the sizzling sixth, the Tar Heels exploded for six runs in that frame, then came back in the next to drive in four more. Rip Ryan's homer down the left-field line, the team's first round-tripper of the year, highlighted the sixth-inning splurge. Whitey Black of the winners and Ted Parone of the losers also hit for the circuit.

The Tar Heels continue their jaunt through the Palmetto state this morning when they move on to Clemson to oppose the Tigers, loop champions last season. Southpaw Vinnie DiLorenzo will shoot for his second win of the year and will probably be opposed by "Nig" Griffith, who twirled a three-hitter against Davidson earlier this week.

Robinson Second

Frank Robinson, North Carolina's top righthander, went all the way on the mound to register his second success of the campaign. The Cana Cannonball ran into trouble in the early innings but settled down after the fourth to pitch shutout ball the rest of the way. He aided his own cause by collecting three hits, a feat also accomplished by Ryan and Jim Hobbs.

After the visitors from north of the state line had pushed across two markers in the first, the Gamecocks came right back in their half of the inning to knock out half of their hits for the contest and take a 3-2 lead. Parone's four-master was the big blow in the rally.

Gamecocks Keep Lead

Both teams came up with a total of three runs in the third and fourth stanzas and the home forces continued to maintain their one-run advantage until the sixth. The six-run outburst saw the Tar Heels make the most of homer, several walks, and a pair of errors to take over permanent control of the ball game.

First Loop Win

UNC	AB	R	H	PO	A
Black, cf	4	3	2	1	0
Hayworth, 3b	5	2	0	0	3
Jones, rf	4	2	0	0	0
Kelly, lf	4	2	2	1	0
Hobbs, 1b	6	3	3	15	1
Varney, c	2	0	0	4	0
Cheek, c	3	1	2	2	0
Ryan, ss	6	1	3	1	3
Branch, 2b	4	0	0	3	4
Robinson, p	5	2	3	0	1
Totals	43	16	15	27	12

USC	AB	R	H	PO	A
Bergiazchi, 2b	5	1	1	4	5
Sykes, ss	3	1	1	3	2
Willis, ss	1	0	0	0	1
Pinkerton, 3b	4	1	1	2	2
Johnson, 1b	4	1	2	8	1
Parone, rf	4	2	2	2	0
Chinnes, lf	4	0	2	3	0
Cribb, cf	3	0	1	0	1
a-Andrews	1	0	0	0	0
Dusenbury, cf	1	0	0	0	0
Scott, c	3	0	0	5	0
Youngue, c	0	0	0	0	1
Long, p	2	0	0	0	1
Szakazsi, p	1	0	0	0	0
Sherer, p	0	0	0	0	0
Rivers, p	0	0	0	0	0
a—batted for Cribb.
Totals	36	6	10	27	14

UNC	202	106	410	16
USC	301	200	000	6

Summary: Errors: Varney, Branch 2, Bergiazchi, Johnson, Cribb. Runs batted in: Black, Kelly, Hobbs 3, Cheek 2, Ryan 3, Johnson 2, Parone 2. Home runs: Ryan, Black, Parone. Three-base hits: Cheek. Two-base hits: Kelly, Hobbs, Johnson. Stolen bases: Parone, Bergiazchi. Sacrifice: Black. Base on balls—off: Robinson 5, Long 2, Szakazsi 3, Rivers 1. Struck out—by: Robinson 3, Szakazsi 1, Sherer 1, losing pitcher: Szakazsi.

TrackmenContinueConditioningWorkouts For Tomorrow's Meet With Georgia Tech

The sun came out yesterday afternoon and so did Coach Dale Ranson and his trackmen to continue their conditioning workouts for the meet with the speedy Georgia Tech cindermen tomorrow afternoon on Fetzer field.

Prospects for a Carolina victory weren't too bright yesterday for the Tar Heels have lost the three men—Floyd "Chunk" Simmons, Jack Milne, and Norm McLeod—who gaved the local forces to a 66 1-2 to 64 1-2 win over the Georgians last year at Atlanta.

Last weekend the Wrecks rambled over the Floridans, 88-38. In running over the Orangemen, the Atlantans captured 12 out of a possible 15 first places.

Coach Ranson, after a consultation with his right hand man, Ralph "Sunshine" Casey, announced the following probable starting lineup for tomorrow's clash.

Pole Vault—Hickman, Russell, House.

High Jump—Moody, Joyner, Smith, Saunders.

Broad Jump—Briley, Moody, Corpening, Hubbard.

Shot—Seligman, Ogden, Hansen.

Discus—Seligman, Klosterman, Ogden.

Javelin—Kirk, Bauer, Vestal.

Mile—Miller, Magill, Hunt.

440—Lentz, Spain, White.

120 High Hurdles—Taylor, Morrow, Heggie.

100 Willis, Ingram, Nelson, Ballou.

880—Mackenzie, Hooper Bristol.

220—Nelson, Willis, Ingram.

Two Mile—Magill, Miller, Herty

220 Low Hurdles—Shultz, Morrow, Heggie, Moody.

Mile Relay—(four of following) Mackenzie, Spain, White, Crimmins, Burnham, Nelson, Sutton.

REHDERS

CHAPEL HILL FLOWER SHOP

Opposite Post Office Corner

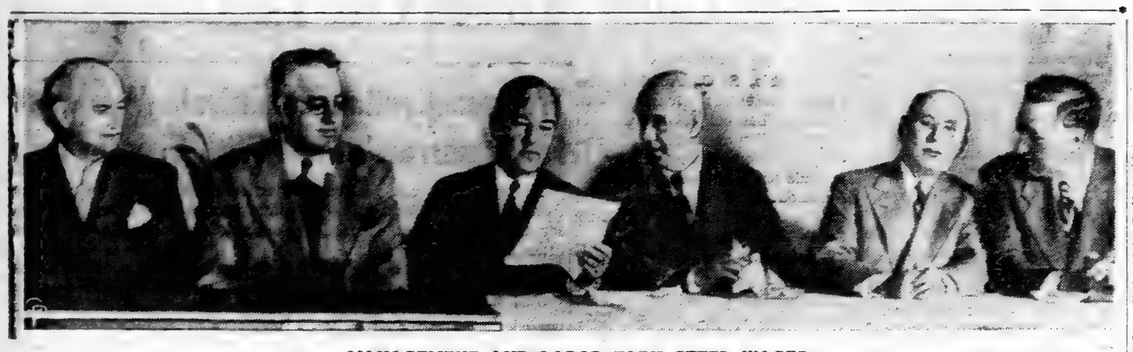
GET GROOMED for THE WEEKEND

VILLAGE BARBER SHOP

Across from the Post Office

Start the Day Right . . .

HAVE A WHOLESOME BREAKFAST at the



CAROLINA COFFEE SHOP

Featuring: Fresh Orange Juice, Eggs, Hot Cakes and Waffles

Open 6:30 A.M. till 10 A.M.—Daily except Sunday

Deadline Extended In Carolina Magazine Photo Contest

MANAGEMENT AND LABOR TALK STEEL WAGES

REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STEEL WORKERS Union and of U. S. Steel Corp., sit down in Pittsburgh for wage negotiations affecting more than 600 basic steel and fabricating companies that employ about 650,000 persons. Shown (l. to r.) are: F. J. Burtt, of American Steel & Wire Co.; E. E. Moore, of Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp.; John A. Stephens, of U. S. Steel Corp.; Philip Murray, CIO President; Van A. Bittner, of the Steel Workers Union and James J. Thimmes, of the Steel Workers. The union indicated it wanted a substantial increase. (International Soundphoto)

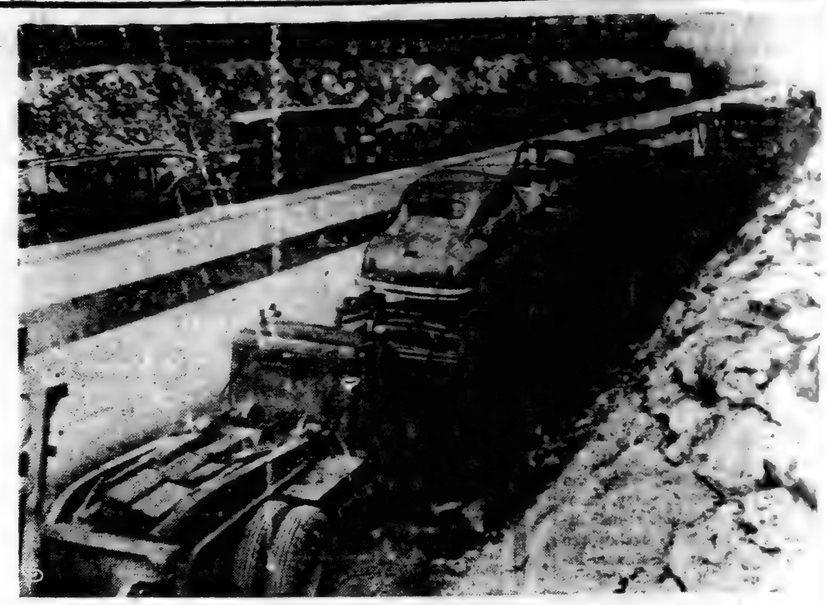
First Prize $25; Winning Picture To Be Published

By John Stump

Extension of the deadline for submission of photographs in the Carolina Magazine snapshot contest was announced yesterday by Mag Editor Fred Jacobson. Formerly set for April 9, is has now been moved up to April 15, Jacobson revealed.

The editor explained with his announcement that the final date for the competition was moved back "in order to give everyone on the campus an opportunity to compete for the prizes to be awarded and as a concession to those who had requested that it be moved forward.

Among the latter number, Jacobson declared, are many contestants who have not yet completed the photo they wish to enter or who felt that in the extra week a better subject might be found.



First Prize Worth $25

First prize in the competition, which opened March 25, is $25 in merchandise from Foister's camera store. Foister's has donated the prize as a service to the students here, Jacobson said.

Publication in the May issue of the Carolina magazine awaits the winning photograph and the 12 runners-up, each of which will receive honorable mention.

As previously announced before, any student at the University is eligible to enter any previously unpublished photo of which he has ownership or rights of publication.

Jacobson affirmed last night that he was "quite happy" to have received the entries already submitted. It was his belief that the contest would do much to increase interest in amateur photography on the campus.

TRUCK 'SIT-DOWN' PROTESTS STATE WEIGHT LAW

HEAVY FREIGHT TRUCKS line both sides of the Pennsylvania Turnpike near Carlisle, Pa., as more than 1,000 drivers state their own version of a "sit-down" strike. The men were protesting against the state law which sets a 45,000-pound limit for both truck and load. The drivers claim that many trucks themselves weigh 25,000 pounds and that a 100,000-pound limit is necessary for a "pay-load." (International Soundphoto)

CCUN Announces Plans For Spring; Mock General Assembly To Be Held

Following a recent meeting of the Carolina Chapter of the North Carolina Division of the Collegiate Council for the United Nations, Chairman Edie Knight released plans for the spring quarter.

Activity in the local chapter will center around four meetings to be held during the quarter, three of which will parallel and concern themselves with the problems of different councils in the United Nations, and the fourth will be a mock General Assembly.

"We hope in this manner to present to the campus a series of interesting and instructive meeting that will illustrate the processes and problems of the United Nations today," Chairman Knight said.

The first program is a mock meeting of the Security Council of the United Nations, to be held Monday night at eight o'clock in the auditorium on the fourth floor of the Alumni building. The local chapter of CCUN has invited eleven campus organizations to participate in the program, each organization representing a nation currently sitting on the actual United Nations Security Council. The meeting will be conducted according to the rules of procedure established by the United Nations governing the Security Council.

The topic for discussion that will come before the mock Council is the current Czechoslovakian situation. Delegates attending the meeting will come prepared with facts and opinions based on the country they are to represent on the Council, but will attempt to reach a conclusion based on the evidence set forth during the discussion, not necessarily a decision induced by precedence from Lake Success.

Any information pertaining to the quarter's program may be obtained by contacting Edie Knight at the CCUN office in Graham Memorial. The Carolina Chapter again expressed its need for personnel to actively assist in presenting programs on the international situation, and requested that all interested persons contact the Chapter Chairman.

Campus Calendar

4:00 p. m.—Literary Quarterly, Grail.

4:30 p. m.—Hadyn club, Roland Parker lounge No. 1.

7:30 p. m.—Hillel, Roland Parker No. 1.

8:00 p. m.—Wallace for President club, Bingham hall auditorium.

SP MEETING

There will be a meeting of the Student party this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Roland Parker lounge 2. All members are urged to attend as many important matters will be discussed.

ARMY DAY CAKE FOR THE GENERAL

REPRESENTING THE 350,000 young members of the American Automobile Association School Safety Patrol, these boys get their share of an Army Day greeting cake they presented to Army Chief of Staff Omar Bradley in Washington. Gen. Bradley is obviously enjoying his gift. The youngsters are sons of World War II veterans. (International)

Sessions Announces Manuscript Deadline

Bill Sessions, literary editor of the Carolina Magazine, yesterday announced the deadline for submitting short stories to be considered for the next issue of the Mag.

Final selections of six short stories will be made Tuesday night, April 13. Sessions said that all stories must be in by Monday at the latest.

-Elections-

295) on the runoff field, leaving Jerry Pence behind with his 467 independent ballots.

Len Szafaryn (UP — 1,802) beat out Vic Seixas (CP-SP — 1,143) for CAA president and Bill Pritchard (UP — 1,656) won over Vinnie DiLorenzo (CP — 1,154) for the vice-president's spot.

Ed Joyner (CP) polled 1,437 votes and Pete Gerns (CP-SP) took 1,424 to walk away with the senior positions on the Publications board and Chuck Hauser (SP) took the junior seat on the board with 1,480 votes to John Stump's (UP-CP) 1,254.

A runoff is scheduled between Billy Carmichael (UP — 1,343) and Bill Buchan (SP — 878) for the member-at-large position, while Hal Bursley (CP) fell by the wayside with 626 ballots.

Winners in the men's division of the Student council race were Wayne Brenegan (CP-UP — 1,397), Marty Carmichael (UP — 1,173) and Fred Thompson (SP — 929). Runnerup was George Sibold (UP) with 911.

Council members-at-large are Bill Mackie (SP — 1,589), Sam Magill (SP-UP — 1,612) and Weddy Thorp (UP — 1,218). Runnerup in this case was Stuart Bondurant with a close 1,174 votes on the UP ticket.

-SP-CP-

work together, but that in all other situations, it was not now feasible.

He was seconded by Walt Arnold who called for the formation of a tradition whereby the SP and CP get together in the town and afford the "UP bloc vote" some rivalry. He commented that such a move would be good for Student government.

In statements made after the meeting, Al Lowenstien and Gran Childress summed up this phase of the discussion by stating that the UP is now benefitting by SP-CP disunity in legislature elections.

Childress developed his feelings further by declaring that the group's failure to reach a definite series of conclusions was due to "obvious political affiliations at the present time" and his belief that "the feasibility of an amalgamation seems to be the basic conclusion.

Whe adjournment was moved, the only formal motion that had been passed was one made by Monroe Landreth, under which it was decided to discuss candidates of both parties at each party meeting.

-Tennis-

(continued from page 3)

with the number one duo from Williamstown, Mass. yesterday when they won in twelve straight games. However, they disposed of Palmer and Robinson, 6-0, 6-4.

Scribner and Schaaf gave the Carolina supporters quite a scare in the opening set when they raised the score to seven-all before bowing to Morris and Rice, 9-7. The Blue and White netters took the second set, 6-3. Alexander and Skakle disposed of Mason-Thurber easily, by 6-2, 6-0.

The Gand Ds had it on the next two courts. Gruner and Gallion teamed to defeat Lincoln and Spencer, 7-5, 6-3. Daniels and Dameron combined to clinch the Carolina shutout by defeating Humphreys and Platt, 6-3, 6-3.

-Golfers-

(Continued from page 3)

back nine the winter season cager found the range to score two and a half out of a possible three points.

The summary:

Marchese (W) defeated Cox, 2-1. Brantley (C) defeated Quinlan, 3-0. Best ball to Carolina, 3-0.

McKenzie (C) defeated Whitley, 3-0. Oliver (C) defeated Cole, 2-1. Best ball, halved, 1 1-2-1 1-2.

Brooks (C) defeated Burke, 3-0. Nyimicz (C) defeated Wells, 2 1-2-1-2. Best ball to Carolina, 3-0.

CLASSIFIED

(1-120-1)

FOR RENT 6A

ROOM AND BOARD FOR MEN ONLY. Inquire at Rock House. Poplar Ave., Carrboro. (1-C118-1)

ROOM AVAILABLE NOW AND FOR Summer School to male student. One block from campus. Phone 3341 between 1 and 2 p.m. (1-117-1)

FOR SALE 6B

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed and being completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogerson Drive. Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. Telephone F-2906. (1-ch1x2-1)

24 FOOT GLIDER HOUSE TRAILER. Immediate occupancy. Lot 76 University Married Couples Trailer Court. (1-106-1)

LADIES ENGLISH BIKE FOR SALE. Good condition. $20.00 Call F-2162. (1-116-1)

27 FT. HOUSE TRAILER. SLEEPS four. 82 Pittsboro Road Trailer Court. Inquire between 5 and 6 p.m. (1-115-1)

FOR SALE AUTOMOTIVE 6BB

1941 PACKARD CONVERTIBLE. Excellent motor, good body, and fair tires. Radio and heater. Call 4881.

HELP WANTED: MALE 8B

TWO OR MORE UMPIRES TO REFeree night games of softball for Carrboro Athletic Club. Wages $1.50 per night. Call Harold Dark, 4167, Carrboro. (ch 1x1)

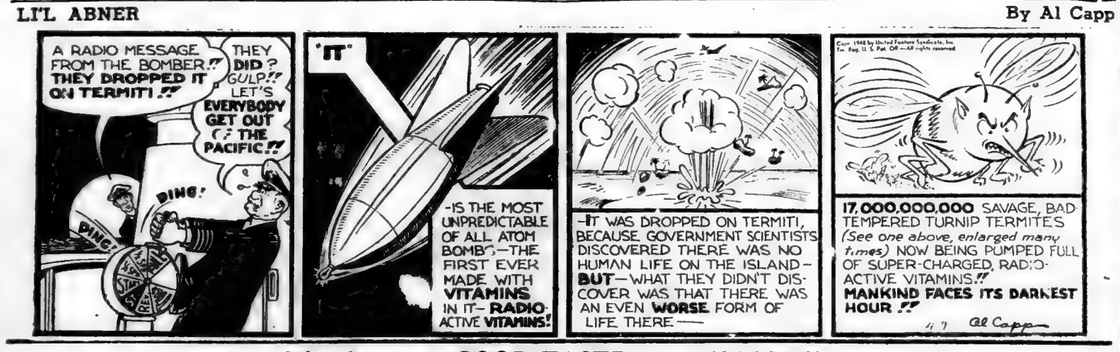
LOST 12

SHELL CORDOVAN WALLET WITH valuable papers. $45-$55 inside. Liberal reward for recovery. Fred Page, 111 Pickard Lane. Phone 7381. (1-119-1)

PLATINUM DINNER RING SET WITH three diamonds. Reward for return to Elinor Woltz. Phone 4066. (1-122-1)

RIDERS WANTED 18A

RIDERS WANTED FROM DURHAM. Leave at 8:30 A.M. every morning. Return at 1:00 P.M. every day except Monday and Tuesday. Call Durham L-5752. (1-121-1)



SERVICES OFFERED 19

ALL MAKES OF LAWN MOWERS repaired, machine sharpened. Axes, hatchets, scythes also sharpened. Tripps Lawn Mower Repair Shop or see John Tripp, Carrboro Shoe Shop. (ch 1x1)

WANTED TO RENT 24B

APARTMENT FOR TWO YEARS FOR couple. Write 821 Second St., Durham. Phone X-5012. (1-113-1)

LI'L ABNER By Al Capp

Cameras in Stock

- Kodak
- Leica
- Ansco
- Voightlander
- Zeiss
- Speed Graphic
- Ciro-Flex
- Argus

FOISTER'S CAMERA SHOP

—TODAY—
VILLAGE

Jerry the Tailor
OVER
N. C. CAFETERIA

Ridgeway's
OPTICIANS
Complete Eyeglass Service
Prompt attention to all mail orders
PROFESSIONAL BUILDING
Raleigh N. C.

NATIONAL Bohemian BEER
Bottle—17c Case—$3.75
POTATO CHIPS—CIGARETTES—SANDWICHES
THE SHACK
120 West Rosemary Street
Just a Whisper Off Franklin Street

The Oriental
CHINESE-AMERICAN RESTAURANT
116 E. Parrish Street
Durham, N. C.

It's always in GOOD TASTE — at HARRY'S

Pritchard-Bright & Co.
Invites you to visit their new store at your earliest convenience and inspect the newest things in men's fashionable apparel.
"TOMORROW'S STYLES — TODAY"
Suits . . . Sports Wear . . .
Luggage . . . Stetson Shoes
UNIVERSITY STORE
Washington Duke Hotel Bldg.
Chapel Hill Street
Representative, Victor Johnson, 205 Everett

FURNITURE . . .

• Upholstered • Refinished
• Repaired • Made to Order
Charles Valentine's Cabinet Shop
Phone 9367 — Pittsboro Rd.

University Florist
"For the Best in Flowers"
Pick Theatre Bldg
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Telephone 9916

This man is your registered pharmacist. When you bring your prescriptions here, you can depend on him to fill them with the finest ingredients.
SLOAN Drug Co.

The BUCCANEER
NOW OFFERS CURB SERVICE
OPEN SUNDAY — 1 PM - 9 PM
Sandwiches Made in Our Own Kitchen
THICK MILK SHAKES
We Use
FARMERS DAIRY COOPERATIVE MILK AND ICE CREAM
—Featuring—
Take-Home Packages Served on the Curb
• PINTS • QUARTS • HALF GALLONS
PLENTY OF PARKING SPACE
The BUCCANEER
AIRPORT ROAD CHAPEL HILL

Bull's Head Book Shop
U.N.C. Library
Chapel Hill, N. C.

WEATHER
Fair and warmer in the afternoon.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
Milk Departs
General Anticipation
Dedmond Support

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SATURDAY, APRIL 10, 1943 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | NO. 137

CLAUDE RAYBORN, Greensboro (seated) as "Nicholby," and Gordon R. Bennett, Knoxville, Tenn., as "Judge Gentry," from a scene in the first act of the Playmakers production of Gene A. McLain's orginal full length play, "Call Back Yesterday," which is being repeated Monday for the delegates assembled in Chapel Hill at the Southeastern theater meeting.

Free Reservations Available For Call Back Yesterday

John W. Parker, business manager of the Playmakers, announced last night that reserved seat tickets for "Call Back Yesterday," the full-length play to be presented Monday night for delegates to the Southeastern theater meeting, can be picked up at the Playmaker business office in Swain hall, or at the box office Monday night.

Tickets to the special performance are being offered without charge but all seats are reserved as in regular performances. A large block of tickets was turned over to the Southeastern meeting, and the supply being offered is limited.

The theater assembly, which is being sponsored by the Playmakers in collaboration with the National Theater conference, will open with a luncheon meeting on Monday at the Carolina Inn. Delegates from 14 Southern states are scheduled to attend.

Melville Broughton Says He Opposes Advertising of Alcoholic Beverages

Raleigh, April 9 — (UP) — Former Governor J. M. Broughton, a candidate for the United States Senate, has written the Allied Church league that he is opposed to extensive advertising of liquor and will favor any legislation to curb ads designed to tempt young people.

Broughton has written the executive director of the Church league that he does not consider it appropriate for a senatorial candidate to take a stand on the issue of a statewide liquor referendum.

Broughton's letter says, "In the event of my election to the United States Senate, I would favor every reasonable proposal designed to bring about a decrease in the sale and use of intoxicating beverages throughout the United States."

Beyond Proper Limits

The former governor says that he is not sufficiently familiar with the Capper bill to discuss it, but says he feels that advertising of alcoholic beverages has gone beyond all proper and reasonable limits.

"In my opinion," says Broughton, "this constitutes a serious menace to the welfare and morals of the people generally, and I would favor any legislation that would curb such dangerous and evil tendencies."

Broughton adds that he, personally, favors a statewide liquor referendum, but he has written the Allied Church league that he will not appear before any committee of the General Assembly in respect to a referendum. He says he would consider that entirely inappropriate.

He adds that he does not consider the question of a referendum on the sale of alcoholic beverages in North Carolina is an issue involved in the campaign for the senate.

Campus Republican Meet Duke GOP's

The Young Republican club played host to the officers of the Young Republican club of Duke here Thursday night. The visiting officers came to discuss mutual policies and possible future plans or both organizations.

The visiting officers were Carl S. Burgert, president; Miss Henri Secrest, vice president; Charles Cooper, secretary; Bill Newcomb, treasurer; and Ned Ferris, publicity director.

Plans for the campus spring picnic are being completed. The date for the affair will be April 17.

Rally Committee Sets Colorful Card Stunts For Blue-White Game

A list of colorful card stunts under the new cheering system has been released by the Rally committee. The stunts will be used for the first time at the Blue-White game on May 1.

The feature stunt will be a black and white head of Coach Carl Snavely. The card stunt will show Snavely with a crown on his head and the words "King Carl" in letters shown in the background.

Invisible Pen

Another attraction will be a white "U. N. C." which will appear diagonally across the card section with a blue background. There will also be a blue-white combination with the upper half in white and the lower in blue so that the word "blue" will appear to be written across the upper half of the combination as if by an invisable pen. This stunt will be in honor of the Blue-White squads. When the word "blue" is completed, the word "white" will appear on the blue background in the lower half of the section.

Since the game is scheduled during the Tex Beneke weekend the committe has planned a stunt to greet Beneke and his orchestra.

"Welcome Tex"

The word "welcome" with "Tex" written in the upper right hand corner and a picture of a saxaphone in the lower left hand corner will appear diagonally across the card section.

Also during the game, the card section will produce a caricature sketch of a Rameses and a plug for the air show which will take place the following day. Last stunt of the game will be a large "Beat Duke" which will be flashed across the section.

The committee announced that before each home game, on Friday a drawing of stunts will be placed on display in the "Y".

Physician Describes Procedures Needed For Sight Restoring

Emphasizing the success with which eye surgery can be used to restore sight, Dr. Frederick W. Stocker, one of the country's foremost eye specialists now practicing at McPherson Hospital in Durham, spoke to group of interested students and faculty last Thursday night in the medical school auditorium.

His talk, sponsored by the Beta Iota chapter of the University professional medical fraternity, Alpha Kappa Kappa, under the auspices of the national Eye Bank for Sight Restoration, was on his own surgical specialty, the corneal transplant.

Operation Described

Many persons who have superficial injuries to the front of the eye cannot see because of resulting scar tissue, Dr. Stocker explained. This scarred material can be removed and replaced by similar material taken from another human eye. This operation is called a "corneal transplant" and is the method sponsored and aided by the Eye Bank organization.

Dr. Stocker described this procedure and illustrated it with a motion picture showing in detail its delicacy and resulting success. By progress slides following the picture, the eminent physician demonstrated how successful the technique has been in restoring sight to many of the blind. He emphasized that thousands would benefit from this operation if enough human eyes were available to provide material for transplantings.

University Group Programs

Nelson O'Quinn, president of the University chapter of the AKK, said in connection with the need for the encouraging people to donate their eyes upon death to this work, said his fraternity has adopted this program as a permanent objective of the group.

"Every member of our organization in the University medical school has agreed to will their eyes to this worthy cause, as a contribution to sight restoration," O'Quinn added.

APPLICATIONS FOR DEGREE

All candidates for the A. B.-L.L.B. degree or the B. S. in Medicine degree who will have successfully completed their first year of Law school or Medical School by this June, should file an application-for-degree card this week in 203 South Building, College of Arts and Sciences.

State Mason Speaks To University Lodge

Grand Master Luther T. Hartsell, Jr., of the Grand Lodge of North Carolina addressed a special meeting of the Brazen Pillows Thursday night in Phi hall.

Speaking informally on certain phases of Free Masonery the grand master pointed out that in this age of "isms" masonery is one of the few institutions in the world that recognized individuality.

Following Mr. Hartsell's address Dr. W. E. Caldwell, J.G.W., representing the University lodge, presented the grand master with an honorary membership in the University lodge at Chapel Hill.

The Brazen Pillows will have its first social function since its organization last quarter when the student-masons play host to 50 orphans from Oxford Orphanage on April 24 at the Carolina-State baseball game.

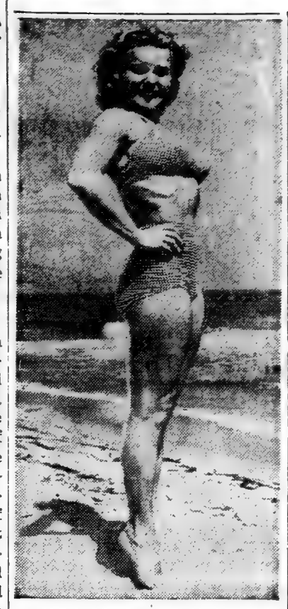
Beer Thirst of Carolina Students Diverted Into Thriving Enterprise for Two Veterans

By Owen Lewis

The thirst for beer among Carolina students that has filled up so much space for DTH columnists has been diverted into a thriving business enterprise by two Winston-Salem veterans, Eddie Katzin and Marvin Miller.

They have founded the K and M beer delivery service in a hole-in-the-wall office at 119 1-2 N. Columbia street, and guarantee to deliver the wholesome malt beverage by the case to any address in town, and fraternity and rooming house residents are thus relieved of the strenuous task of toting up their suds.

Katzin, who was in the navy for two years, and Miller who pulled a like hitch as a dogface, dreamed up their enterprise after worrying for some time about how they could stretch their government allowances to cover all the expenses of a university career. They couldn't stretch the money that far, they decided, but if they converted it into a business, they thought they might multiply their take considerably.



The next logical step was the hops hopping, which has already solved some of the financial difficulties.

Both men are sophomores and plan to major in Commerce. Their partnership gives them ample opportunity to put into practice the economic theories they are exposed to in the classroom.

Both are A. E. Pi fraternity members, but they don't spend much time at the house any longer. They keep long hours, 11 a. m. to 11:30 p. m., and have to cram their classes and studies into the quiet hours when Carolina gentlemen have temporarily sated their thirst.

They say that fraternities are their best customers, and look forward to a prolonged session of balmy spring weather, when they expect picnics and other outdoor activities to provide a minor boom in the beer delivery business.

SP, Rubish Endorse Charlie Long for Presidency; Charlie Gibson Backed for Tarnation Editorship

WINNER OF A $1,000 award, Abbye Stockton, 30, Santa Monica, Cal., now wears the title of the best "Venus of 1948." A bit more muscular and far more outdoorsy than the lady of the classic Greek myths, Miss Stockton is 5-foot, 11-inches tall; weighs 116 pounds; has a 23 and a half inch waist measurement; 34-inch hips and a 36 and seven-eighths inch bust.
(International Soundphoto)

Big Concert Series Slated Next Year

The Student Entertainment committee and the North Carolina Symphony society has announced plans for a big-name five-concert series for next year. Plans call for the series to be climaxed by a North Carolina program featuring a native North Carolina artist.

This artist's performance will give him or her an opportunity to appear in public and to perhaps be launched on a career. The person will be chosen by competitive auditions given by the Symphony society. The several winners in the auditions will appear in various places throughout the state, and the one chosen best of these will give the fifth concert here at the University.

The Student Legislature has given to the Student Entertainment committee $6,000 for the concert series. The committee, with Scotty Venable as chairman, has met twice with Mr. Al Pikutis and Mr. William Erwin, representatives for the Symphony. Plans have been made for securing four famous artists for the performances, their names will be announced later. The series will be without charge to and exclusively for students.

Members of the Student Entertainment committee are: Scotty Venable, Tom Eller, Billy Carmichael, III, Bill Shuford, Ruth Evans, Dr. Sam Selden, and Dr. William Newman.

British Set Curfew On Palestine Roads

Palestine, April 9 — (UP) — A dusk-to-dawn curfew has been ordered for all roads in Palestine in an effort to stop Arab and Jewish military movements.

The Britich imposed the curfew to check violence in the Holy Land following the fierce battle of Kastel in which Arabs and Jews fought for six days for the control of the strategic village. The Arabs fought their way into Kastel yesterday — and the Jews recaptured it today.

A spokesman for Jewish forces claims two-hundred Arabs were killed when the Jewish underground captured another Arab village just outside of Jerusalem.

Marshall Escapes Unharmed From South American Riot

Washington, April 9 —(UP) — The State Department reports that Secretary of State Marshall escaped injury in an outbreak of violence in Bogota, Colombia. A mob attacked the presidential palace where the Pan-American conference is being held after a Colombian political leader was shot. However, Marshall is safe.

A combined dispatch transmitted to Washington by 10 press and radio correspondents covering the conference said that a revolution has broken out. It said that fires have broken out and there is widespread looting.

Riotinng Prevails

Mobs of rioters marched on the presidential palace in Bogota where the 21 nations are meeting and were attacked by government troops. At least eight persons were killed in the gunfire outside the capital building.

The revolution has broken up the inter-American conference. But apparently the delegates are safe. A terse message to the State Department in Washington says that Secretary of State Marshall escaped injury.

Most of the other details of the revolt came in a brief news dispatch compiled by correspondents of the three American news agencies and newspaper and radio men covering the conferences. Their combined story was sent to Washington over United States government facilities after regular communications were interrupted.

The dispatch said that left wing revolutionaries seized partial control of Bogota.

Mob Invades Capital

The mob invaded the capital yelling for a rebellion after a leftist liberal leader was shot and wounded in the streets of Bogota His assassin was taken from police and kicked to death by followers of the political leader Jorge Eliecer Gaitan.

The combined news report says the Columbian government is powerless. It adds that the American embassy was bombed by the revolutionaries. However, the bomb was small and only windows were broken.

The dispatch also says that the riot and revolt has been furthered by inflammatory broadcasts over the captured government radio. Speakers over the radio urged widespread revolt as thousands of Bogotans looted liquor and hardware stores, set fires, and overturned trolly cars.

The rebel-controled radio says that a new government has been set up, although this has not yet been confirmed.

Three Nations Ask Russians to Agree To Return Trieste

Trieste, April 9 — (UP) — The United States, Britain, and France have again asked the Kremlin to join them in giving Trieste back to Italy.

Since this is the second time the question has been brought up, the joint maneuver obviously is aimed at making Russia show her hand before the critical Italian elections April 18.

The question is a sore spot for Russia. If the Soviet agreet to revise the Italian peace treaty, it will be a blow to Marshall Tito's Communist government in Yugoslavia. If the Russians say "no", there will be strong anti-Communist feelings on the eve of the elections.

Thus far, the Soviet Union has ignored an original proposal to make Trieste, now a free territory, Italian. The latest proposal made in similar notices was delivered to the Soviet embassies in Washington, London and Paris.

In Trieste itself, Allied intelligence agents say Yugoslavia is expected to seal off its zone on all but one main highway in two weeks. It is believed the Yugoslavs will claim they are acting to clamp down on Italian underground activities and to prevent refugees from fleeing into the American and British zone.

Amendment Started To Oust Communists

Washington, April 9 — (UP) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities in a sweeping new law to crack down on American Communists has called for a constitutional amendment to make it illegal to advocate overthrow of the United States goverment by any means — violent or peaceful.

As the law now reads, it is only illegal to seek overthrow of the government by force or violence. Republican Representative Nixon of California says the proposed change would make the Communist party as it now stands illegal.

THE "FLAG of Liberation", which was flying over the U. S. Capitol when the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor, is presented to Congressmen in Army Day ceremonies in Washington. The flag was raised in victory over the anxious capitol of Rome, Berlin, and Tokyo. Shown (l. to r.) are: House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr. (R-Mass.); Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich.); Senate President; and Major General Hobart R. Day, commanding general of Washington military district.
(International Soundphoto)

Former Candidate Expresses Thanks, Urges Large Vote

By Herb Nachman

The Student party yesterday voted to back Charlie Long for Student body president and Charlie Gibson for Tarnation editor in next Tuesday's runoff.

Later in the afternoon, Mike Rubish, SP presidential candidate who was knocked out of the race in the general election, announced that he would also back Long.

Long, an independent candidate, will be opposed by Jess Dedmond, CP-UP, in the runoff.

Tarnation Runoff

In the runoff for the Tarnation editorship will be Gibson, the Campus party nominee, and Bob Smith and Tom Wharton, University party candidates for co-editorship of the humor magazine.

Rubish, in announcing he would back Long, expressed his thanks to his supporters in the general election, and congraulated both Dedmond and Long on their being in the runoff.

He mentioned that the coming year will be a definite test of strength for student government. "It will be this year that student government leaders must be men who have principles, integrity and character; they must be men who will work for the student body and not for themselves or their political parties," Rubish said.

Urges Vote

His statement of endorsement for Long urged students to go to the polls and vote in the runoff Tuesday.

"I cannot urge you enough to go to the polls Tuesday and elect the man who has retained his principles and integrity even when they were contributing to his defeat; the man who realized that victory is not all that matters when principles are involved; the man who knows his own mind and sticks to it; who sees at once what, in given circumstances, is to be done and does it. Charles Long is the only hope that you have of retaining and improving student government.

Truman Advisors Warn Consumers To Use Economy

Washington, April 9 — (UP — President Truman's top economic experts said tonight that the nation must tighten its belt to prevent more inflation under the new defense program.

The warning that this country must adopt spartan measures to keep on an even keel comes from the latest report of the President's council of economic advisors. It is the first time the surveys have been made public. Mr. Truman evidently released this data to emphasize the need for economic self-discipline in view of the stepped up defense and foreign aid programs.

The council calls for reduced government spending and for price, wage, and ration controls in certain critical industries. The economic experts also say that the new tax law increases the pressure of inflation. They call for increased taxes if future military expenses are not offset by reduced government costs in other fields.

PAPER DRIVE

Residents of Victory Village are urged to leave all available waste paper in front of their homes at 2 o'clock on Sunday afternoon in co-operation with a drive to raise money for the new Chapel Hill recreation center.

The paper will be collected at that time by students of the Chapel Hill high school who are anxious to finance recreational facilities soon to be installed in the old Methodist church.

Wait for the General, Boys

Earlier this week an Eisenhower-for-President club was born on campus, following on the heels of the formation of a state organization for the same purpose.

What about Ike, anyway?

We are reminded of two gentlemen of the horsey set who were sitting one day in the grandstand at a horse show. They were considering a sleek, handsome animal being led—somewhat against his will—by the stands.

"That's a fine looking horse there," the first man pointed out. "Looks like he could do anything out there that has to be done. I've never seen him in a show, though. Have you?"

"No," the second gentleman answered, "but he won the Kentucky Derby last year."

"Check!" said the first man. "That's good enough for me. He'll be a fine show horse."

That small incident is no more illogical than the current Eisenhower-for-President boom. Certainly, the Derby winner might also be able to turn in some fancy work; the General might become a great president. But we cannot know until the horse shows what he's got; we cannot know about Eisenhower until he states his position on domestic and international affairs.

Is he a civil rights champion or a careful conservative? Is he pro-labor or pro-Wall street? Does he believe that war is imminent or that peace can be won?

At least four national groups don't seem to care. Supporting Ike before he opens his mouth are the Liberal party, the ADA, the CIO and a large part of the Democratic party.

We Americans are practical people—at least, we're supposed to be. And, if we may strain our animal metaphor a bit: we don't count our chickens before they're hatched; we don't buy a pig in a poke.

Wait for the General, boys.—B.S.

Have We Forgotten?

War talk is everywhere in Chapel Hill—at academic teas, at Jeff's and at Harry's, at meetings of campus organizations, in the dorms, in the frat houses.

Everyone says war is imminent. Though some of us were barely unswaddled in 1938, we make comparisons between the ominous events of that last pre-World War II year and the one in which we now live.

Of course, we are not alone in our game of viewing with alarm.

The daily papers have it that surplus war material plants are being withdrawn from the market, that wartime manufacturing lobbyists are arriving en masse on Capitol Hill, that the Munitions board—a procurement agency for all services—will quiz 11,000 factory owners about what reconversion they can do.

There seems to be no sensible reason for doubting that war is coming up within the year; the government is preparing and it is usually careful in matters of this nature.

We suppose that the Russians want a war; we don't know. We have a hunch that a major part of this nation either wants a war or believes that one is unavoidable.

Yet—somehow—another war is too big for our imagination. We cannot feel, though we cannot help but believe, that there will be war.

Can it be that we have all forgotten the destruction, the misery of World War II? Can it be that we have forgotten while the dead are still being buried?

We are afraid that it can be.—B.S.

Winn and Committee Worked

Setting up an efficient machine-process for operating the spring elections on this campus is no easy job. In addition to dealing with some 300-odd candidates, their political parties, the Elections Board also must tend to the printing of ballots, conducting various meetings, and operating the polls on election day.

Al Winn and his committee have done a commendable job. They as a group have worked tirelessly, giving their free time for the benefit of the student body. After the polls closed Tuesday, the work had hardly begun, for over 3,000 ballots had to be counted. Some complaints were heard about the disorganization of the counting, but as a whole, the entire process went off according to schedule.

For their work, the student body owes a round of applause to the Election Board.—B.B.

Carolina Carousel

This Boy Melton Doesn't Give Up

By R. Foo Giduz

So the Mallaman will have to pack up his campaign guffaws until the next elections, it seems. . . . C.C. was much gratified with the high vote the "burly photog" pulled down, and nearly everyone was surprised.—Except Melton! . . . He's still trying to figure out what happened to those lost 1200 votes he thought he had in the poke. . . . (After all, he was counting ballots!) . . . And though "Artless Art" announced yesterday he planned to protest the election on grounds of illegal campaign practices on the parts of his potential ex-staff members, Bobby Goldwater and Bill Carmichael, III, he offers, via the Carousel, his sincere congratulations to Joyner Triply, the new editor. . . . "It's the code of the hills," quoth effusive Art. And incidentally, I hereby announce my candidacy for editor in the 1949 elections. . . ."—Fellas, y'just can't get the Mellaman down!

And a few points of unsolicited and probably unnecessary advice on our own part to new Editor Ed, an experienced newshawk and a fine man to lose out to, if we must:—Eddie, make the DTH a driving force on the campus, instead of a student governmental whipping boy . . . It's not hard to do. . . just keep up with the current campus scene, look at both sides of all questions, then take a positive stand and try to accomplish something constructive. . .Don't try to please everybody . . . But keep it live . . . and finally you should pardon that we again quote form the late Josephus Daniels, one of the livest young octogenarians ever to tackle type lice: "We newspapermen must keep. . . the elbow touch with the people. The greatest crime in this game is to be dull. . .and to be afraid to go against the grain . . ." —Might sound schmaltzy, Eddie, but it's sincere. . .

A call to all y'all Tar Heels to join in Monday afternoon in the kickoff organizational meeting of the campus Albright-for-Governor committee. . . . No we're not resigned machine politics, and believe the Raleigh Challenger can get into the second primary. . . . And we can use your active help. . . . That's 5 o'clock, second floor Graham Memorial, day after tomorrow.

Graham in Oak Ridge

Dr. Frank Graham is in Oak Ridge, Tenn., today, where he is scheduled to make a dinner address before the American Physical society. The University president is head of the Institute of Nuclear Physics, an organization of 14 colleges which work with the government atomic scientists on research projects at the Tennessee center.

He will return to Chapel Hill tonight, following the meeting.

"I shoulda knowed that a guy low-down enough to put rocks in his snowballs would put rocks in his pillow."

This 'n That

On Departed Editor Mills

By Bill Buchan

In addition to the readjustment (if such is necessary) of a new boss, it is also slightly disconcerting to watch the old boss pack up and head for new territories.

As editor of a school paper, especially a daily publication, life is not particularly enjoyable at times. Especially when you never know who is going to come in the door next with a complaint or a 12 page masterpiece that "has to be printed". It's not much fun either, running interference for an entire staff and taking the blame for all their mistakes.

Yet, the editor who has just departed, and those before him, will swear that the year as chief spokesman for his fellow students has been a fruitful year and that all-in-all, things have gone pretty well. When you sit in the editorial office day after day and see the people who come in, some of them only once, others constantly, you sorta decide that being editor of the Daily Tar Heel isn't much fun after all.

Barron Mills received a lot of criticism (along with much praise) for his work during the last year. He adopted a policy for operating the paper, especially the edit page, and followed through with that policy the entire time, despite approval or disapproval. He'd be the last to admit it, but more often than not, his day began in the Daily Tar Heel offices soon after eight in the morning and didn't end until after midnight that night—seven nights a week.

For reward, the editor receives a lot: $10 per week, much criticism, the loss of some so-called friends, and a few words of praise. Barron isn't the first editor to do the work he has done in the past year. He won't be the last. The point is and the best time to make points is inbetween regimes") that editors of the DTH are hard-working, human beings who have one of the most thankless jobs (along with various student government offices) on the campus. The point is, that the editors of your newspaper sacrifice much of their personal time and activity to devote it to the DTH. The point is, when you are inclined to criticise, go right ahead, but remember also, that it aint' much fun.

About Mr. Joyner—, well, the DTH staff and the three political parties seem to have it when they all endorsed him for the editorship. Poor guy, he was a pretty regular fella when he was sane.

One last bitter note—to the 800-odd individuals who wasted their votes in the editorship race—you really should have won. T'would have been an interesting newspaper to read.

Playmakers Experimentals

Timely 'Cantata' Tops Bill

By Roland Giduz

Climaxed by 'the experimental of experimentals to end all experimentals," the Playmakers' 122nd bill of original student-written one-act plays, presented last night and Thursday, proved to be the most interesting trio of dramatic endeavors in a long time, if not the best all-around set in many ways.

"The Atom Cantata," a 21st-century fantasy aptly tagged "the experimental of experimentals. . ." by its author Sam Hirsch, defies adequate legitimate criticism by a 20th-century layman. But a review of its fascinating plot is much in order. On an overall operatic motif the "Cantata" is projected into the year 2048. Animals have taken over the world, subjugated man, and given the atomic bomb a brain. With a Bikini-like idea the animals send the bomb to destroy the last remaining humans on earth, but the bomb-with-a-brain also has a conscience and dramatically turns around and destroys its creators.

Imagine that plot and its settings if you can. Big question raised by everyone was 'What was the author's intention.," which Hirsch left to the audience to answer. The message seemed to the reviewer simply to point out the stupidity of man in his use and misuse of atomic energy and non-recognition of its true effects. And a graphic and timely topic it was, too.

Author Hirsch, with two hit one-acters currently to his credit, "Subway Rhapsody," and "The Shiksa," attained the ultimate of something-or-other in "the Atom Cantata." Likewise the good direction of muscian Harold Schiffman cannot be overlooked. From the cast of 20 actors top credits are due Edgar Vom Lehn for superior and understandable singing, and a mock animal trio of Jack Clinard, Richard Cox, and Milton Bliss, for their clever rendition and routine which was reminiscent of Broadway musical styles.

Blessed with a top-flight cast of veteran actors, Robert Rolnik's "The Binkle Plan", brought down rolls of laughter from the rafters. The plot was a natural for the opportunities it gave each actor to outdo the others. Top "outdoer" was easily David Samples who played the part of Albert Binkle, a temperamental tax expert who was all too unartistically un-temperamental during his New England seacoast vacation.

There was old Captain Jedediah Suggs who rented to the Binkles (Samples and his "wife," Lib Savage) his fisherman's cod-storage cabin; Naomi Sunshine, a story-book Vargavulgar artist's model, adequately portrayed by Rusty Kirsch; Maxwell Miranda, oh-so-arty artists' colony art teacher of the lower Greenwich Village type; and a slapstick but little-to-long and involved plot of how an artist who should have stayed a frustrated "milquetoastish" tax expert, became a completely frustrated painter, and fiscal genius.

Though the plot took in too much, it was well carried through. This was due in no small part to the direction of Frederick Johnson and some Revels-reminiscent effective "ham-acting" on the part of the entire cast.

Author Robert Barr took an interesting theme in "Spanish Moss" and spun a yarn around it about how a disabled old man vainly and somewhat comically tried to give himself up as a guinea pig to a useful scientific project. The development of his happy-ending alternative rejuvenation was quite unique. Though poorly cast, "Spanish Moss" was generally skillfully written, with the exception of inadequate clarification of necessary background facts for the play. The duet of old Professor Whittington, played by Nathaniel White, and his daughter Beatrice, acted by Eleanor Woodson, were exceptions to the generally poor casting.

Regrettably there is not space here to properly review the plays. The reviewer's purpose is mainly to give credit where due and stimulate interest in the Experimentals generally. They are indeed a valuable part of Carolina life, and the best proof of this will come when you see them for yourself.

Advice

Stop Sneezes With Pollen

Dallas, Tex., —(UP)— A Virginia allergist says pollen shots properly administered bring relief to 80 per cent of the patients.

Dr. Oscar Swineford, Jr., of the University of Virginia, was one of several speakers attending the Dallas Southern Clinical Society's 17th annual conference.

A great deal of all hay fever, Dr. Swinford said is caused by sensitiveness to a specific pollen, the invisible fertilizing dust which drifts through the air while a plant is going to seed.

Patients are given shots of the pollen or pollens to which they are allergic by mixing the pollen with a simple solution.

Dr. Swinford said, "we don't just know why these shots relieve people with hay fever. We can't tell, except by trial methods with each individual, just how big a dose he should get, how often he should be shot or how long the treatment should continue."

Pollen hay fever is seasonal with individuals, the physician added, but collectively a year-round disease.

Write Away

Support For Jess Dedmond

Editor:

Representing a publication, which, because it has been constantly besieged by confusion-inspiring enactments of publicity-seeking campus politicians, has never been able to develop into the sort of humor mag the majority of the campus voted for—and wants, I should very much like to recommend to the student body the candidacy of Jess Dedmond for the presidency of the student body.

In my opinion, Dedmond represents a new high in local political sanity. He has, in all matters, acted with dignity and common-sense. He has never participated in any of those activities, which, through their inherent sensationalism, have brought discredit both to student government and to the university.

If there is any one quality lacking in student government (and student activities, for that matter) it is the quality of stability. More than any one of his opponents, Dedmond has this quality. He has consistently refused to support measures designed to benefit any one group — or class — of students. He has executed all student government duties entrusted to him with dispatch, efficienty, and with a complete lack of self-adulation.

His critics — they are few, but vociferous — have carried on one of the most reprehensible campaigns of distortion and half-truths that have yet been witnessed on this campus. Their attacks have been at all times destructive, and they have never yet been abie to balance their own candidate's record with that of Dedmond's. It is indicative of the comparative quality of the two presidential candidates, when you recall that one of them has devoted his time and efforts toward formulating a constructive, sensible, and feasible platform of campaign pledges, while the other has occupied himself with the defamation of his opponent's character.

Getting back to publications, I should like to state the obvious: All of them are of inferior quality, and none of them are even of partial satisfaction to the student body (Tarnation included). We are all doing the best we can, but we do need a lot of real aid and encouragement, and I'm not speaking of referendums either. It is for the reason that I believe that Jess Dedmond, with his common-sense, non-hysterical policies, is the person who will do most aid to these publications, that I earnestly urge all interested students to go to the polls next Tuesday and cast their votes for him.

Tookie Hodgson

Lea's Plan

Editor:

I have a much better suggestion for preparing for national emergencies than stirring up a war scare to support UMT. Its a plan figured out by Homer Lea some years ago. Homer Lea, who was probably the world's greatest military strategist, spent practically all his days from childhood on studying and practicing military strategy. His having lived in the earlier days might bring the comment that his strategy is obsolete now but I don't think so. The Japanese didn't think so when they followed his plan for the conquest of the Philippines almost to the letter.

His strategy didn't depend upon the number of men and the men he would have wouldn't have to be conscripted. He proposed that the Military consist of a proportional number of the population and that these men be highly trained, disciplined and highly paid. Why highly paid? someone might ask. For one thing it would attract better men in large enough numbers to fill the compliment of the armed forces. Another reason for a more highly paid and educated military today would dispense with the so called necessity for universal military training.

This would eliminate the "green-horns" that the Armed Forces are compelled to take in the draft. It would man the Military with professional soldiers. A professional and experienced soldier is far superior to a green horn. This was evidenced in the late Pacific War. The U. S. Marines (all professional soldiers) stood ground against fantastic numbers of the Japanese (UMT conscripted) army.

I say—Why not have a million SOLDIERS instead of about three million draftees. By doing this the one million could be better equipped, better paid, and more capable of utilizing the equipment they have. It would be everything a modern army should be and the program, even with higher pay and more modern equipment, would be much less costly and much more satisfactory than UMT. The figures here were used for comparison.

Bill Z. Blackwell

Loose Practice

Editor:

Mr. Daymond Turner in Wednesday's TAR HEEL adopted a rather loose practice of Washington, Hamilton, Thomas Jefferson as advocates of powerful U. S. armies and navies.

Let me emphasize that I do not believe what any of these men thought about armament is relevant to an era of atomic bombs. I would, nevertheless, like to protect the memory of Thomas Jefferson from a bit of unthoughtful slander.

Quoting directly from Thomas Jefferson, his Notes on Virginia, Query XII:

"A land army would be useless for offense, and not the best nor safest instrument of defense. For either of these purposes, the sea is the field on which we should meet an European enemy. On that element it is necessary we should possess some power. To aim at such a navy as the greater nations of Europe possess, would be foolish and wicked waste of the energies of our countrymen. It would be to pull on our own heads the load of military expense which makes the European laborer go supperless to bed, and moistens his bread with the sweat of his brows. . . They can attack us by detachment only, and it will suffice to make ourselves equal to what they may detach."

Chas. E. Johnson, Jr.

CP MEETING

The Campus party will meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock in Roland Parker lounge 2 of Graham Memorial, Party Chairman Bob Haire announced yesterday.

FIELD VISIT

Miss Ruth W. Hay, professor in public health nursing, is making a field visit to the Visiting Nurse association, Louisville, Ky., and Cuyahoga county Health department, Cleveland, Ohio, on April 7-15. Public health nursing students are doing field work in these two areas. In Ohio, she will attend the field conference called by the Ohio state board of Health. Representatives from universities using Ohio Field Training centers, U. S. Public Health service, and Kellogg foundation, have been invited to attend this conference.

Columnists

There will be a meeting of all Daily Tar Heel editorial columnists at three o'clock on Sunday afternoon. Columnists will meet in the DTH editor's office.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

The opinions expressed by the columnists are their own and are not necessarily those of the Daily Tar Heel.

Member of the Associated Collegiate Press Association of the National Collegiate Press Association.

Complete Leased Wire of United Press

Represented for national advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc., 420 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y.

BARRON MILLS, Editor — HOWARD BAILEY, Bus. Mgr.

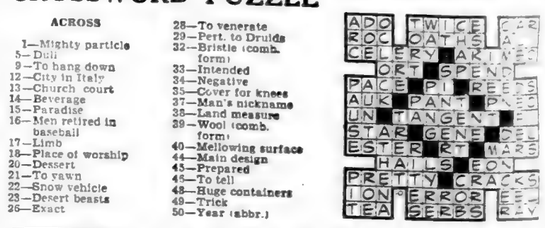
MANAGING EDITOR: Ed Joyner, Jr. — CIRCULATION MANAGER: Owen Lewis

SPORTS EDITORS: Bob Goldwater, Bill Carmichael

NEWS EDITOR: Chuck Hauser — ASST. BUS. MGRS.: Mary W. Sledge, T. E. Holden — SUBSCRIPTION MGR.: Charles Pattison

SOCIETY EDITOR: Jane Mears — ASST. CIRC. MGRS.: Randall Hudson, Don Snow — EDITORIAL ASSTS.: Bob Sain, Bill Buchan

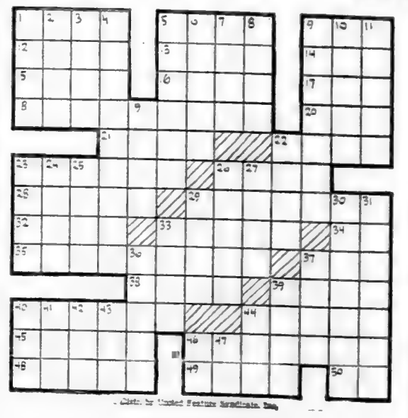
NEWS STAFF: Raney Stanford, Donald MacDonald, Sally Woodhull, John Stump, Herb Nachman, Charlie Gibson, Gordon Huffines, Margaret Gaston, Mark Sumner, Paul Rothman, Elaine Patton, Jean Baskerville, Mary Ann Taber, Weddy Thorp, Emily Baker, Miriam Evans, Doris Weaver, Nancy Black, Helen Beam, Daniel Wallace, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.



SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Bill Kellam, Larry Fox, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher.

BUSINESS STAFF: James Crews, Jackie Rogers, Betty Huston, J. C. Brown, C. B. Mendenhall, Joe Williams, Randall Hudson, Gladys Cottrell, Al Petteway, Kathryn Colwell, W. S. Peebles, Grover Henson, Neal Howard, Jr., Lena Campbell, Ed Campbell, Al Carpenter.

FOR THIS ISSUE: NIGHT EDITOR: Charlie Gibson — NIGHT SPORTS: Bill Kellam



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

ACROSS

1—Mighty particle
5—Dill
9—To hang down
12—City in Italy
13—Church court
14—Beverage
15—Paradise
16—Men retired in baseball
17—Limb
18—Place of worship
20—Dessert
21—To yawn
22—Snow vehicle
23—Desert beasts
26—Exact
28—To venerate
29—Pert. to Druids
32—Bristle (comb. form)
33—Intended
34—Negative
35—Cover for knees
37—Man's nickname
38—Land measure
39—Wool (comb. form)
40—Mellowing surface
44—Main design
45—Prepared
47—To tell
48—Huge containers
49—Trick
50—Year (abbr.)

DOWN

1—God of war
2—West Indian bird
3—Sign
4—Zoo
5—Whits
6—Cosmetic
7—Aleutian island
8—Low
9—Fastened
10—Lofty pest
11—Gambled
19—High wind
22—Article of clothing
23—Keg
24—City near Red Sea
25—Speck
26—Hint
27—Norse poem
29—Game animal
30—Silliness
31—Cone-bearing tree
33—Isinglass
36—Gasps
37—Facts
39—Knowledge
40—To tap lightly
41—Wing
42—A number
43—To annoy
44—Woman's title
46—Near (abbr.)
47—Gold (symbol)

Trackmen Open Duel Meet Season Against Mighty Georgia Tech Here Today

Tar Heels Exchange Victories With Michigan

Tennis Team Scores Ninth Straight Win With 9-2 Decision

By Mel Horowitz

For the ninth time in 12 days, the Carolina tennis squad met and conquered an invader on their home courts by soundly trouncing the Wolverines of the University of Michigan, 9-2, yesterday afternoon.

It was a typical day of Carolina tennis, the outcome was never in doubt. This encounter marks the end of a strenuous surge of activity for the charges of Coach John Kenfield. They will have a three-day rest before meeting the Wolfpack of State in Raleigh Tuesday in their first Southern conference match.

Seven Singles Wins

Carolina showed a marked superiority over the Wolverines in the singles by winning seven of eight. Clark Taylor and Ray Morris won their ninth consecutive matches without a defeat while team captain Vic Seixas triumphed for the eighth time against one setback.

Maintaining the top-flight form he has shown since losing to Dick Savitt of Cornell, Seixas stopped Michigan's ace, Andy Paton, very handily, 6-2, 6-3. The Midwesterner was never in an advantageous position although he made a strong bid in the second set.

Taylor extended his string of undefeated meetings to nine by defeating Fred Otto, 6-3, 6-3. Despite the steady attack of the Wolverine, Taylor seemed unbeatable and was not extended to the limit.

One-Sided Affair

In the afternoon's most one-sided singles affair, Carolina's undefeated Ray Morris completely outclassed Gil Mikulich in the second set to win a 6-3, 6-1 decition. Morris looked very good in continuing his winning way.

Don Skakle came out on the right side of the ledger when he conquered Dick Lincoln 6-3, 6-3 in another good match. The Tar Heel's drive and power were just too much for Lincoln.

The best contest of the match was Charlie Rice's hard-earned victory over Jack Hersh. The Michigan boy opened up with everything he had and managed to annex the first set, 6-4. But the tide turned and Rice went on to outclass him, 6-1 in the second set and a 6-3 conquest in the third set to leave the courts with the victor's laurels:

Gordon Naugle looked as if he might gain the Wolverine's first victory after an 8-6 victory in the first set on court six. But Heath Alexander came back strong to overpower him 6-0, 6-3 in the remaining two sets and continue the Carolina wins.

In the other singles matches, Sam Daniels won over Learman 6-4, 6-2 while the only Tar Heel defeat in the singles came when Stan Gruner lost a closely contested battle to Don Mackey 7-9, 6-3. 6-3.

The summary:

Singles — Seixas (C) over Pa-

(See TENNIS, page 4)

DiLorenzo Handcuffs Clemson, 12-1; Team At Furman For Third Tour Tilt

(Special to the Daily Tar Heel)

Clemson, S. C., April 9—North Carolina's hard hitting Tar Heels slammed out their second straight victory of their current march through South Carolina this afternoon behind the southpaw slants of Vinnie DiLorenzo as the visitors battered Clemson College, last year's District 3 NCAA champs, 12-1.

DiLorenzo had the Tigers in complete control throughout the game except for a brief uprising staged by the bottom of the Clemson batting order in the eighth inning. The Tigers put together two single and a passed ball to push over their lone run of the day.

Face Furman

Tomorrow the North Carolinians move on to Greenville, S. C., where they'll face Furman University's impotent baseballers in the final game of the swing through the Palmetto state. Righthander Ray Blair was named by coach Walter Rabb as the Tar Heels' starting pitcher.

North Carolina iced the decision early in the game—the second inning, to be exact—when they exploded for seven runs to chase Clemson starter Joe Asbill to the showers.

Low-slung Andy Tranavitch, making his first start of the season behind the plate, opened the scoring splurge with a double. Jim Hamilton was safe on a fielder's choice and DiLorenzo who fanned 13 today to run his strikeout total to 37 in 27 innings, drew a base on balls to fill the sacks.

Black Hits

Kenny Black's single was good for two runs but Hayworth lofted a fly to the outfield for the second out. Frank Jones' one-baser chased across DiLorenzo and Black. Jim Kelly's single and Jack Brasington's free ticket again loaded the bases.

Rip Ryan, who has been battering fences all season with his lengthy clouts, came through with a single that scored Jones and Kelly. Brasington tallied on the play when Culberson fumbled the relay from the outfield. Tranavitch's long outfield fly ended the inning.

The Tar Heels came back in the third with two more. DiLorenzo, Black, and Hayworth singled in succession to produce one run and then Black tagged up and scored on Jones' long fly.

History Repeats

History repeated itself in the ninth when Tranavitch once more opened the Carolina scoring with a hit—this time a single. Doc. Cranford walked and both runners advanced on an error by Moore, the Tiger receiver.

DiLorenzo, who hits almost as well as he pitches, brought in both men with a line single into right field. The New Jersey leftie then tallied on a miscue by Culberson, the Clemson shortstop.

DiLorenzo limited the Tigers to four hits. A double by H. Hamilton in the second, two one-basers in the eighth, and a pinch single in the ninth by Bosdell. The locals tallied their lone run when Jones singled to left, moved to second on a passed ball, and scored on Mathew's single to right.

Tiger Held

UNC	AB	R	H	PO	A
Black, cf	6	2	2	1	0
Hayworth, 3b	6	0	2	0	1
Jones, rf	6	1	2	1	0
Kelly, lf	5	1	1	2	0
Brasington, 1b	2	1	0	6	0
Gregory, 1b	2	0	1	4	0
Ryan, ss	5	0	1	0	3
Tranavitch, c	5	2	3	13	0
J. Hamilton, 2b	3	1	0	0	1
Cranford, 2b	0	1	0	0	1
DiLorenzo, p	4	3	2	0	3
Totals	44	12	14	27	9
Clemson	AB	R	H	PO	A
Mathews, cf	3	0	1	3	0
Ulmer, 2b	4	0	0	1	5
Culberson, ss	4	0	0	4	0
Gillespie, 3b	4	0	0	1	2
Deanhardt, lf	3	0	0	2	0
a-Bosdell	1	0	1	0	0
H. Hamilton, rf	4	0	1	2	0
Moore, c	3	0	0	1	1
Jones, 1b	3	1	1	13	1
Asbill, p	0	0	0	0	0
Fleming, p	3	0	0	0	0
Totals	32	1	4	27	9

a-batted for Deanhardt in 9th.

UNC	072	000	003	12
Clemson	000	000	010	1

Summary: Errors: Tranavitch, Ryan, Culberson 2, Deanhardt, Moore. Jones. Runs batted in: Black 2, Hayworth 2, Jones 3, Ryan 2, DiLorenzo 2, Mathews. Two-base hits: Tranavitch, H. Hamilton. Stolen bases: Gregory, Mathews. Base on balls—off: Asbill 2, Fleming 2. Struck out—by: DiLorenzo 13, Asbill 1. Losing pitcher: Asbill.

Baseball Briefs

By United Press

MARCHILDON ON

Moultrie, Ga., April 9—The ace of the Philadelphia Athletics mound staff—Phil Marchildon—held Moultrie of the Georgia-Florida League to four hits today as the A's won, 11-0.

The A's pounded two Moultrie pitchers for 17 hits, including homers by veteran Barney McCosky and rookie Billy Demars.

TOURISTS GET BUSINESS

Asheville, N. C., April 9—The Brooklyn Dodgers rolled to their 23rd straight victory over minor league competition today, downing the Asheville Tourists, 10-to-2.

The veteran Preacher Roe went the route for the Dodgers, giving up nine hits while his mates pounded three Asheville hurlers for 10 safeties. Shortstop Peewee Reese paced the Brooklyn attack with three hits and five runs batted in.

REDS REVOLT

Florence, S. C., April 9—The Cincinnati Reds hopped on Johnny Sain for nine runs in the first three innings today to crush the Boston Braves, 13-4.

Sain gave up 10 hits before bowing out in favor of Clyde Shoun. Johnny Beazley finished up for the Braves. Rookie Howie Fox held the Beantowners to three scattered singles in the first seven innings. Earl Torgeson's three-run homer in the eighth and Jeff Heath's four-bagger in the ninth accounted for all the Boston runs

Duke, State in Big Four Tilt Today

Durham, April 9 —(UP)— Duke's powerful Blue Devils open the defense of their 1947 Big Four championship tomorrow afternoon when they face State's diamond Wolfpack in Coombs Park.

The Blue Devils will be seeking their first victory in the mid-state loop competition while the West Raleigh lads will be slugging for win number two. Earlier this week, Wake Forest's Demon Deacons provided the Aggies with their first loop success, a 5-3 decision.

Hard hitting leftfielder Stu Erickson, boasting a .366 batting average, will lead the Blue Devils into the fray. The slugging picketman also leads the team in doubles and runs batted in.

Rightfielder Ed Perini, currently hitting .500, and catcher Ed McCarthy, with a .385 average, are leading the team in hitting but neither has seen action in every game.

UNC Riflemen Second in Three-Way Match

Competing in a three-way rifle match with NROTC units of Villanova and Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute last weekend, North Carolina naval marksmen registered a combined score of 805 of a possible 1000 to take second place behind the RPI team, with a 9-4 total.

Members of the UNC team and their individual scores were: H. P. Schoolfield 177, H. L. Fremd 159, C. R. Stamey, Jr. 159, T. J. Peterson 155, and J. Brooks 155.

The local team fired in the William Randolph Hearst rifle match in January in competition with 71 teams representing 52 NROTC college units. The Carolina group finished 30th in the scoring with a total count of 832.

The UNC riflemen will take part in another match next Saturday against the Duke team on Naval field in Durham.

Todd Leads Masters' At End of 36 Holes

Augusta, Ga., April 9—North Carolina's Harvie Ward shot another 78 in the Master's Invitational here today to remain down among the pack at the end of the first 36 holes of play.

Harry Todd of Dallas took the midway lead in the big affair by virtue of firing a five-under-par 67 to notch a total of 139 for the first two rounds.

Bantam Ben Hogan added a 71 to his first-round 70 for a 36-hole card of 141. Lloyd Mangrum, Jim Ferrier, Bobby Locke, Herman Keiser, and Ed Furgol are deadlocked at 142. Mangrum, the opening round leader with a 68, had bad luck on the first nine today and took a one-over-par 73.

Byron Nelson, coming out of retirement for the Masters' and Bob Hamilton both reached the halfway mark in 144.

The field will tee off for another 18 holes tomorrow and the big affair will wind up Sunday when the final round will be shot.

CARD SHARP

Mobile, Ala., April 9—The St. Louis Cardinals unleased a 15-hit attack off three Mobile pitchers today to beat the Southern Association club, 8-to-2. The game was called after eight innings to allow the Redbirds to catch a train for Houston.

Junior Varsity Opposes PJC Today; Game Is First for Emerson 'New Look'

For the first time this year, Emerson field will be in use for a game this afternoon when the Carolina jayvees meet Presbyterian Junior college of Maxton with the first pitch slated to be thrown at three bells.

Recently returned to playable condition after a long seige of dug-up turf, the field will be getting its first bit of collegiate competition for the season. Four varsity home games were transferred to distant parks earlier this year, and the jayvees played their first scrap of the campaign on Southwest Emerson, in deep center field of the regular diamond.

One-All Record

Coach Henry House's charges at present are boasting a one and one record with an 8-4 triumph over Greensboro and a 3-0 whitewash at the hands of the potent High Point Bisons. Today's game will be the last activity for the Tar Babies until next Saturday when they meet the Bisons in a return engagement.

The starting lineup this afternoon will be practically the same that opened the last two frays. Zero Allen will be in center, Don Ward in left, and Ed Lamb will round out the outfield in right. John Center is slated to be on hand at the hot corner and Joe Brookshire will plug the hole at short.

If a portsider does the chunking for PJC, Jake Carter will start at first. Either Bill Walsh or Charlie Garganus will don the mask and Bill McGinn is expected to get the mound chores. for the second time this annum.

New Starter

The only new face in the starting nine will be at second where Stan Goodman is getting the call over "Boll" Weavel. Both Ralph Brake and Ed Gaston will be on hand should pitching assistance be needed.

Three men to watch as possible future stars for the varsity are Brookshire at short, Center at third, and Allen, who cover ground in center like a jackrabbit.

Nothing here is known as to the power of the Presbyterian lads, but they are expected to give the Housemen a good deal of trouble. They are the first collegiate club that the Tar Babies have met this season.

Ray Morris Winner In GM Table Tennis

Tennis star Ray Morris defeated Bob Grubbs in two out of three games to capture the Graham Memorial table tennis tournament Thursday night.

Morris took the first game, 26-24, but Grubbs rallied to take the second, 21-18. However, Morris came back to cop the finale and the championship. by a 21-15 triumph.

Previously Morris had defeated Archie Goodwin and Grubbs had downed Tom Scheinman in the semi-final round. This was the fourth GM tourney in which Morris has emerged the victor.

Wolverine Linksmen Hand Carolina Crew First Loss, 24-12

By Billy Carmichael III

The power of Michigan plus the absence of Harvie Ward proved an obstacle that the Carolina golf team couldn't quite overcome yesterday afternoon at Hope Valley and the local linksmen went down to their first defeat of the season, 24-12.

The Tar Heels just weren't on their game from the no. 1 post to the no. 8 position—two extra individual matches being played by agreement—and the result was that the Midwesterners ran lukewarm to capture the match.

The charges of Coach Chuck Erickson were in the hole from the start. Bob Cox, the Tar Heel No. 1 man lost a 3-0 decision to Ed Schalon, who turned in the best round of the afternoon, an 38-37-75.

Brantley Scores

Jack Brantley, playing in the same foursome, brought home a pair of points for Carolina while giving up a single tally to guest Pete Elliott, brother of the Michigan All-American Bump. The visitors gathered all but a half a point the best ball and were off to a fine start.

In the second foursome Roy McKenzie became the second Tar Heel to be whitewashed, losing 3-0, while partner Harvey Oliver playing at the No. 4 slot also failed to score in dropping his match by a similar tally. The two did manage to salvage a point in the best ball competition to drop the foursome, 8-1.

Beaudry Wins

In the third quartet, newcomer Pete Beaudry became one of the few successful Tar Heels of the day, taking a 2-1 win over his opponent while freshman Frank Brooks came true in like style to notch two and a half points while dropping a half a counter. The match play was split by the two teams at 1 1-2-1 1-2.

The extra foursome saw the visitors score extra points at the Carolinians' expense. Dan Nyimicz carded a 2 1-2-1-2 victory for the day's action, but his runnermate Bob Hays was rather unsuccessful in his first effort, losing 3-0. The best ball also went to Michigan, 3-0.

The Tar Heels were definitely off their game at least for the afternoon. Beaudry, Brooks and Nyimicz turned in the best cards of the day, a trio of 77's which is not the usual caliber of Carolina performance. Cox and Brantley registered 79's.

The summary:

Schalon (M) defeated Cox, 3-0. Brantley (C) defeated Elliott, 2-1. Best ball to Michigan, 2 1-2-1-2.

Keesler (M) defeated McKenzie, 3-0. Carlson (M) defeated Oliver, 3-0. Best ball to Michigan, 2-1.

Beaudry (C) defeated Beath, 2-1. Brooks (C) defeated Cohn. 2 1-2-1-2. Best ball halved, 1 1-2-1 1-2.

Nyimicz (C) defeated Messinger, 2 1-2-1-2. Macallum (M) defeated Hays, 3-0. Best ball to Michigan, 3-0.

Engineers Favored to Topple Locals; Fowlkes to Feature Visiting Talent

By Bill Kellam

Georgia Tech's powerful tracksters will ramble into town this morning and head for Emerson field where, in the track classic of the season, the Georgians are favored to wreck Carolina's cindermen in today's meet starting at 2 o'clock.

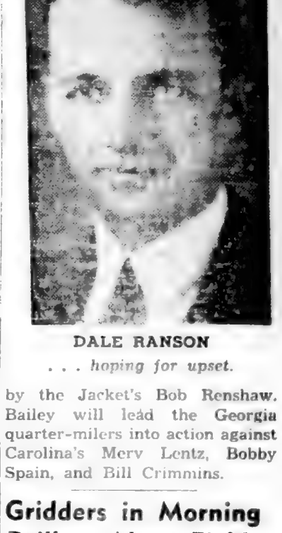
Buddy Fowlkes, the Techmen's seemingly jet-propelled one-man team, will lead the visitors' into action against the home forces. Only last week, in the Tech rout of Florida, Fowlkes almost outscored the Orangemen singlefootedly as he ran off with the blue ribbon honors in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, the 220 low hurdles, and the broad jump.

Last year, in the 66 and one-half to 64 and one half Carolina victory, Fowlkes tied for first in the 100, took second in the low hurdles behind former Carolinian Chunk Simmons, and finished first in the broad jump. Fowlkes also set the broad jump record in the 1947 Indoor meet.

Sprint Duel

The sprints, which will feature a duel between Carolina's cinder sensation, Don Nelson, and Fowlkes, and the mile run, in which Jimmy Miller and the Yellow Jackets' Jack Corriden will dash it out, rank among the features of the meet.

Sam Magill and Tech's freshman Red Smith former Southeastern conference two-mile champ Dave Durst expected to stage another of the meet's top races. Dick Taylor and Bob Morrow will have some top notch competition in the high hurdles from Tech's Bob Coons, Dave Forward, and Bill Fleming, who finished second, third, and fourth behind Simmons in last year's meet.



Bob Seligman will find the going plenty rough in the weights division. Cager Spider Nolan of the visitors', who tied for second in this event with Seligman in the Florida relays, will chunk for the discus for Tech. Nolan, who won the javelin throw in last year's meet, is slated to oppose Carolina's Fred Bauer and Bob Kirk.

Weight Battle

Gridder Bobby Davis and Seligman will toss it out for the honors in the shot put. Jack Moody will be favored to take the high jump without too much trouble, but the Yellow Tornadoes will probably take the pole vault event.

The pole vault event will see Hank Hickman of Carolina and Resier and Dykes of Tech fighting out the three-way tie that they ended up in during the Florida relays.

Julian MacKenzie will be out to avenge last year's 880 victory

DALE RANSON

. . . hoping for upset.

by the Jacket's Bob Renshaw. Bailey will lead the Georgia quarter-milers into action against Carolina's Merv Lentz, Bobby Spain, and Bill Crimmins.

Gridders in Morning Drill on Navy Field

Football Coach Carl Snavely will send his brawny charges through their second full dress scrimmage of the spring practice sessions at 10 o'clock this morning.

The full dress workout is slated for Navy field and the public and student body is cordially invited to attend. This morning's scrimmage marks the end of the second week of workouts.

University Florist
"For the Best in Flowers"
Pick Theatre Bldg.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Telephone 9318

CAROLINA
Today

"ADVENTURES OF CASANOVA"
starring
ARTURO DE CORDOVA • LUCILLE BREMER
TURHAN BEY • NIGEL NASH
LATE SHOW TONIGHT
SUNDAY — MONDAY

TWO BLOCKS WEST OF CITY HALL
You'll Find A Solution To All Laundry Problems
HELPY-SELFY
AUTOMATIC LAUNDRY
Bendix Machines
W. Rosemary St.

Start the Day Right . . .
HAVE A WHOLESOME BREAKFAST
at the
CAROLINA COFFEE SHOP
Featuring: Fresh Orange Juice, Eggs, Hot Cakes and Waffles
OPEN 6:30 A.M. TILL 10 A.M.—DAILY EXCEPT SUNDAY

Cameras in Stock
- Kodak
- Leica
- Ansco
- Voightlander
- Zeiss
- Speed Graphic
- Ciro-Flex
- Argus

FOISTER'S CAMERA SHOP

Dr. William T. Kohn
announces the opening of his office
for the practice of
OPTOMETRY
Visual Training
Contact Lenses
Call 3686
Office Hours Daily and by Appointment
Monday-Friday 9:00-5:00
Saturday 9:00-1:00
Chapel Hill
over Carolina Coffee Shop

JUST RECEIVED AT
The YOUNG MEN'S SHOP
- Seersucker Cord Jackets
- Light Weight Corduroy Jackets
- White Formal Jackets

The YOUNG MEN'S SHOP
East Main at Church
DURHAM, NORTH CAROLINA

Christian Seminars Schedule First Meet Here Sunday Night

Tomorrow night marks the beginning of seminars in Christian living to be given by Wesley foundation each Sunday for six weeks. The meetings will center about the topics: "The Christian and Other Religions," "Towards a World-Wide Christianity," "The Christian's Stand on Civil Rights," and "Religion and Psychological Adjustment."

Prof. Warren Ashby, Methodist minister and University Philosophy Professor will lead the seminar on "The Christian and Other Religions." He will be aided by Prof. Martin Lean, teacher of Philosophy representing Humanism; Iman Selim, on behalf of Mohammedanism; Al Lowenstein for Judaism; and Uttam Chand for Hinduism and Buddhism.

"The Christian's Stand on Civil Rights" will be led by Prof. Howard K. Beale of the University History Department. Prof. Beale is also sponsor of the Carolina Political Union. Viewpoints on the report of the President's Commission on Civil Rights will be aired at this seminar.

Mr. Charles E. Elliot of the Psychology Department will lead discussions concerning common personality problems and the value of religion in helping to solve them in the seminar on "Religion and Psychological Adjustment."

Reverend J. Robert Nelson, director of Wesley foundation, will lead the seminar entitled, "Toward a World-Wide Community." Reverend Nelson plans to accept relief work with the American Friends Service Committee in Germany this summer, and begin his study at the University of Zurich in Switzerland this fall.

These seminars are offered for the benefit of students of all denominations, as a result of the success of similar ones last fall. At that time over 125 students gathered for four successive Sunday night to discuss allied subjects.

BOOMERANG

A man who spent a lot of time in a prison by choice, will now put some time there by command.

A. D. Martin worked as secretary to the warden of the Oklahoma State prison. And while on the job, he was charged with making off with nearly four-thousand dollars belonging to the prison canteen.

Today, a jury sent him back to prison — an inmate instead of an employe.

STEPPING BRISKLY down Constitution Avenue in Washington, D. C., reserve units and a reactivated Third Infantry regiment approach the reviewing stand with the colors during a stirring Army Day parade. Below, saluting from the reviewing stand as the colors pass, are, left to right: Secretary of Army Kenneth C. Royall of Goldsboro, Secretary of Defense James Forrestal, President Harry S. Truman, and Vice Admiral Earl W. Mills. Admiral William H. Leahy (partly hidden) stands directly behind the nation's chief executive. (International Soundphoto)

AMONG the 15 persons killed when a Russian fighter plane rammed a British transport craft over Berlin was Mrs. Frances Clough (above), 25, formerly of Detroit, Mich., and now the wife of an Englishman. She was returning to Berlin to get release papers from U. S. War Department.

MONEY GIVAWAY

A lot of people still look a gift horse in the mouth. Two men handed out 200 one-dollar bills in downtown Columbus, Ohio, today. It was a publicity stunt by an auto agency. It took only four minutes to pass the bucks although several skeptical people refused to accept them. One cynical citizen did take a dollar but remarked, "Thats the cheapest thing they could give away these days — money!"

South Florida Cut Off by Suwannee

Tallahassee, Fla., April 9—(UP)—The main Gulf Coast highway gave up before the rushing waters of the angry Suwanee river late today, virtually isolating North from South Florida.

The Florida highway patrol reported that U. S. 19 was closed at 4 o'clock at Fannin Springs and Oldtown, cutting the last link with South Florida, except through Valdosta, Georgia.

U. S. 19 had been the only road across the rampaging Suwannee to stay open. Others closed earlier this week, but it has been under four inches of water all day, and heavy traffic had been warned to take it at their own risk.

G. I. INSURANCE

According to a recently released bulletin from the Veterans Administration all vets who wish to have their National Service Life insurance re-instated must do this before the 31st of July, if they wish to do so without taking a physical examination.

STUDENT PARTY

The Student party will meet at 7 o'clock Monday night in Roland Parker lounge 1 of Graham Memorial. Members are asked to note the change of time for the meeting. Chairman Gran Childress announced that the meeting would be a short but important one.

CLASSIFIED

FOR RENT 6A

ROOM AND BOARD FOR MEN ONLY. Inquire at Rock House. Poplar Ave., Carrboro. (1-C118-1)

FOR SALE 6B

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed and being completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogerson Drive. Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. Telephone F-2905. (1-ch1x2-1)

27 FT. HOUSE TRAILER, SLEEPS four. 82 Pittsboro Road Trailer Court. Inquire between 5 and 6 p.m. (1-115-1)

18 FOOT MARYLAND HOUSE TRAILER, in good condition, ideal for couple, reasonably priced. See A. W. Jones, 83 Univ. Trailer Court. (1-124-1)

FOR SALE AUTOMOTIVE 6BB

1941 PACKARD CONVERTIBLE. Excellent motor, good body, and fair tires. Radio and heater. Call 4881. (1-120-1)

LOST 12

BROWN WALLET WITH GOLD INITIALS F.C.H. Contains important papers. Finder may keep money and return wallet to 303 E. Rosemary St. or phone F-3111. (1-114-1)

PLATINUM DINNER RING SET WITH three diamonds. Reward for return to Elinor Woltz. Phone 4066. (1-122-1)

SERVICES OFFERED 19

COMPLETE MODERN RADIO APpliance service shop now open and ready to serve you. We call for, deliver. Johnson-Strowd-Ward Furniture, 422 W. Franklin. Telephone F-3491. (ch 1x1)

WANTED TO RENT 24B

APARTMENT FOR TWO YEARS FOR couple. Write 821 Second St., Durham. Phone X-5012. (1-113-1)

$50.00 REWARD FOR FURNISHED two or three room apartment, veteran student and wife. Must be within walking distance of campus. Urgently needed. Write Box 1101, Chapel Hill. (1-125-1)

TODAY

VILLAGE

FLOWERS
for
Every Occasion

Every order of flowers dew-fresh, and arrangements artistically designed.

WEST-WILLIAMS FLOWER SHOP

Carrboro

House Committee Explains New Draft Bill; Soft Coal Situation Promises Good Fight

Registration Calls For Men Aged 18-30, Including Veterans

Washington, April 9 — (UP) — The House Armed Services committee has revealed the "who, what and why" of its proposed draft bill.

First, the bill provides for the registration of all men 18 through 30 including veterans. Men from 19 to 25 could be inducted for two-year hitches, but veterans of more than one year's service are exempt. Veterans of less than one year's service could be drafted unless they joined the reserve corps or the national guard. And no one could be drafted under the bill, until the president informs Congress that the armed services have failed to raise enough men through voluntary enlistments.

There is some hope that enlistments might increase if the threat of a new draft law were strong enough.

The bill contains most of the veterans' benefits of the old World War II law. It entitles draftees to the GI Bill of Rights, and in addition promises them their old job back after the war.

Chairman Andrews of the House committee says the bill will get top priority when it reaches the House floor.

Senate leaders are moving slower with two bills to provide for a draft and universal military training. Chairman Taft of the Senate Republican Policy committee promises Senate action as soon as possible, but he doubts if either of the bills will be ready for floor action next week or even the week after.

Chairman Gurney of the Senate Armed Services committee confirms this statement. He says there's a lot of work to be done on the bills before they're ready for debate.

SOFT COAL MINE operators' spokesman crosses his fingers as he shows newsmen the letter from the UAM chief John L. Lewis in which the latter declared that the proposal for conference was "abviously not in good faith". Lewis would be present if "qualified and proper" and if the officials were authorized. (International Soundphoto)

Bingo Scheduled Again This Evening

"Joker" John Van Hecke will be back at the mike tonight in the main lounge of Graham Memorial for the regular Saturday night bingo session. The games will start at 8 o'clock and continue until about 11 o'clock.

There will be several sets of five games each. A charge of two cents per card a game is the only cost to the players. Players may buy as many cards as they wish to play. The last game of the night is the Grand prize game at a cost of ten cent per card, winner take all. Whenever possible, the cash prize will be awarded to the person who calls "Bingo" first.

All the money taken in for each game is given as the prize for each game. "Joker" John promises that he will refrain from telling too many awful "jokes" tonight.

–Tennis–

(continued from page 3)

ton, 6-2, 6-3; Taylor (C) over Otto, 6-3, 6-3; Morris (C) over Mikulich, 6-3, 6-1; Rice (C) over Hersh, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3; Mackey (M) over Gruner, 7-9, 6-3, 6-3; Daniels (C) over Learman, 6-4, 6-2.

Doubles — Seixas- Taylor (C) over Paton-Otto, 6-1, 6-1; Hersh-Mikulich (M) over Morris-Rice, 7-5, 4-6, 12-10; Alexander-Skakle (C) over Naugle-Lincoln, 6-0, 6-3.

Lewis Tips Hand In Federal Court On Petition Case

By Joan Marble

Washington, April 9—(UP)—It's beginning to look like a fight to the finish in the soft coal dispute.

Government experts have been hoping that John L. Lewis might relent and order his striking coal miners back to work this week.

The burly mine boss has given few hints as to his battle plans. He's maintained a stony silence high up in his baronial offices on the sixth floor of the mine workers headquarters.

Tips His Hand

But today Lewis tipped his hand. He sent his union lawyers into federal court to ask for dismissal of a mine operators petition. This petition asks for appointment of a third, so-called "neutral" trustee for the miners welfare fund.

The whole mine strike centers around this welfare fund. And the fact that Lewis is pressing this issue at this time indicates he's not planning to back down on anything.

In fact, it now appears that Lewis intends to fight a long court battle over current differences with mine operators. Legal observers say this latest action alone may drag out the court fight for another ten days. And it may even postpone that court order forcing the miners to go back to work.

Lloyd Electric Co.

Sales & Service

For

- L&H Electric Stoves
- Jud-Whitehead & Red Crown Hot Water Heaters

We specialize in wiring new construction and in general repair.

DU PONT Digest

For Students of Science and Engineering

Many Theoretical and Applied Studies Behind Development of "Cordura" Rayon

Stronger, lighter tires made possible by teamwork of Du Pont chemists, engineers, and physicists

On the surface, the viscose process for rayon seems fairly simple. Cellulose from cotton or wood is steeped in NaOH to give alkali cellulose, which is treated with CS_2 to form cellulose xanthate. Adding NaOH gives molasses-like "viscose," which is squirted through spinnerets into a coagulating bath of acid and salt to form from 500 to 1,000 filaments simultaneously:

$$R^*\text{-OH} + NaOH \longrightarrow R\text{-ONa} + H_2O$$
(cellulose) (alkali cellulose)

$$R\text{-ONa} + CS_2 \longrightarrow R\text{-O-C(=S)-SNa}$$
(cellulose xanthate)

$$R\text{-O-C(=S)-SNa} + H_2SO_4 \longrightarrow R\text{-OH} + CS_2 + NaHSO_4$$
(cellulose)

$R^* = C_6H_7O_2(OH)_2$

Du Pont scientists were working to improve on the properties of rayon made by this process when, in 1928, a rubber company asked for a rayon yarn that would be stronger than cotton for tire cords. The problem was given to a team of organic, physical, and analytical chemists, chemical and mechanical engineers, and physicists.

Theoretical and Applied Studies

In developing the new improved rayon, a number of theoretical studies were carried out: for example, (1) rates of diffusion of the coagulating bath into the viscose filaments, (2) the mechanism of coagulation of viscose, (3) the relationship between fiber structure and properties by x-rays, and (4) a phase study of spinning baths.

Concurrently, applied research was necessary. This proceeded along many lines, but the main problem was to perfect the spinning technique. It was known that a short delay in the bath between the spinneret and the stretching operation allowed greater tension on the filaments. Du Pont engineers, therefore, designed a series of rollers, each revolving faster than the previous one, to increase the tension gradually.

In addition, a textile finish was developed that combined just the right amount of plasticizing action and lubricating power, allowing the filaments to twist evenly in forming the cord. A new adhesive was prepared to join the yarn with rubber. New twisting techniques for cord manufacture were found, since the usual methods caused loss in rayon strength.

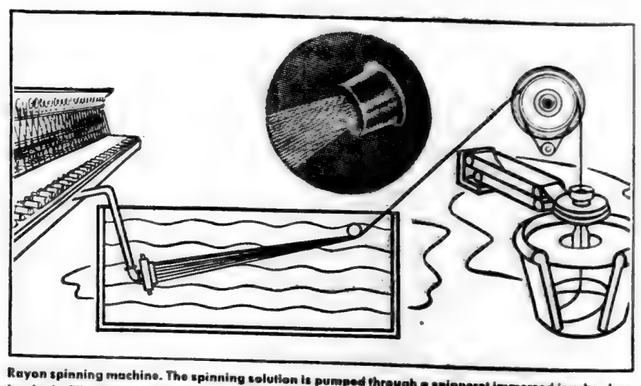
Engineering Problems Solved

Chemical and mechanical engineers were faced with the design and operation of equipment for more than 15 different types of unit operations. Equipment had to operate every minute of the day, yet turn out perfectly uniform yarn. It was necessary to filter the viscose so carefully that it would pass through spinning jet holes less than 4/1000th of an inch without plugging. Some of the most exacting temperature and humidity control applications in the chemical industry were required.

Out of this cooperation among scientists—ranging from studies of cellulose as a high polymer to design of enormous plants—came a new product, "Cordura" high-tenacity rayon, as strong as mild steel, yet able to stand up under repeated flexing. Today, this yarn is almost 100% stronger than 20 years ago. Tires made with it are less bulky and cooler running, yet give greater mileage under the most punishing operating conditions. In "Cordura," men of Du Pont have made one of their most important contributions to the automotive industry.

Determination of spinning tension by C. S. McCandlish, Chemical Engineer, Northwestern University '44, and A. I. Whitten, Ph. D., Physical Chemistry, Duke University '35.

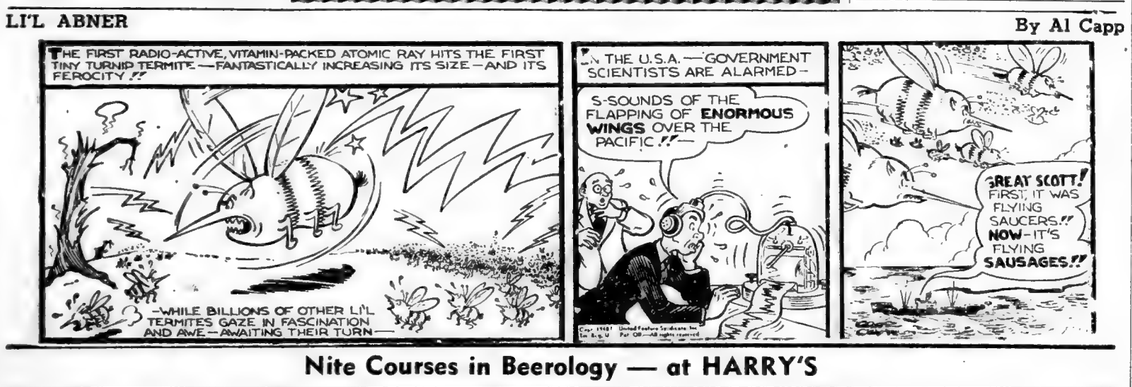
Questions College Men ask about working with Du Pont



How are new men engaged?

Most college men make their first contact through Personnel Division representatives who visit many campuses periodically. Those interested may ask their college authorities when Du Pont men will next conduct interviews. Write for booklet, "The Du Pont Company and the College Graduate," 2518 Nemours Building, Wilmington 98, Del.

DU PONT
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.



BETTER THINGS FOR BETTER LIVING
...THROUGH CHEMISTRY

More facts about Du Pont — Listen to "Cavalcade of America" Monday Nights, NBC Coast to Coast

Rayon spinning machine. The spinning solution is pumped through a spinneret immersed in a hardening bath. Filaments are guided over a rotating glass wheel and down into the whirling collecting bucket. Inset shows close-up of spinneret; each hole forms a filament.

LI'L ABNER — By Al Capp

Nite Courses in Beerology — at HARRY'S

LIBRARY (Periodical Dept)
University of North Carolina
Chapel Hill, N. C.

WEATHER

Mild with scattered showers.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS

Springtime
Coed Portrait
The People, Yes

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SUNDAY, APRIL 11, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | NO. 138

Co-Editors Receive Kerr Endorsement

In a statement yesterday afternoon, Tom Kerr, losing candidate for the editorship of Tarnation, bucked his party's stand to endorse Bob Smith and Tom Wharton as co-editors of the humor mag.

TOM KERR

Thanking those who worked for and supported him, Kerr asked his voters to back the co-editors against Charlie Gibson in next Tuesday's runoff.

He said, "After several days thought on this issue, I have decided to back Bob Smith and Tom Wharton because they are willing to openly face the voters with the real issues. Charlie Gibson, with whom I have discussed this at length, is unwilling to let the student body know where he stands on the Tarnation matter except to say he wants to be editor.

"Messers. Smith and Wharton are not experienced editors, but they are bent on organizing an efficient, well-run mag with all the talent available. This attitude of frankness on an election issue to the present very clowdy, is highly commendable and merits the conscientious student's consideration and vote."

Kerr, present assistant editor of Tarnation, fell in third spot last Tuesday with 586 votes, to be excluded from the runoff.

He was at the Orange printshop Friday afternoon when the Student party endorsed Charlie Gibson, but he said later he felt confident of Smith's and Wharton's election as "this is not a party matter."

Charles M. Johnson Accused of Losing $1,000,000 Yearly

Nashville, April 10 —(UP)—W. Kerr Scott tonight accused one of his rival candidates for governor, state Treasurer Charles M. Johnson, of "losing a million dollars a year for the taxpayers."

Scott said Johnson has lost the money by holding state funds in bank accounts instead of investing them in securities.

The former agriculture commissioner said a 1943 state law gives the state treasurer power to invest funds in interest-bearing securities which are readily cashable. Instead, said Scott, Johnson has stored away millions in surplus funds in bank accounts which earn no interest.

Said Scott, "The people's money, in sums up to $50,000,000 in a single bank, is in the hands of bankers who are paying nothing and lending it back to some of the people at varying rates of interest," and Scott said he does not blame the banks.

"If I were the banker I suppose I would be grateful for those interest-free millions ladled out to me from Raleigh," Scott said. "I might even be grateful enough to support the state treasurer for governor."

Johnson reported earlier this week more than $171,000,000 salted away in 239 bank accounts. Johnson's report showed some 135-million dollars was invested in securities.

New Officers Picked For Delta Sigma Pi

At a regular meeting of Delta Sigma Pi, international commerce fraternity, the following officers were elected for the coming year: head master, Hubert Aenchbacher; senior warden, John McPhaul; junior warden, Milton Hinnant; scribe, Melvin Finch; treasurer, Fred Pierce; historian, Hoke Steelman; master of ceremonies, Monore Landreth; and master of festivities, Pete Dobbins.

Delta Sigma Pi, only commerce fraternity on the campus, has outlined as its prime aims to aid in the development of better commerce students and businessmen. Several professional trips to large industrial plants in North Carolina and professional banquets are planned in the near future.

PLATFORMS TODAY

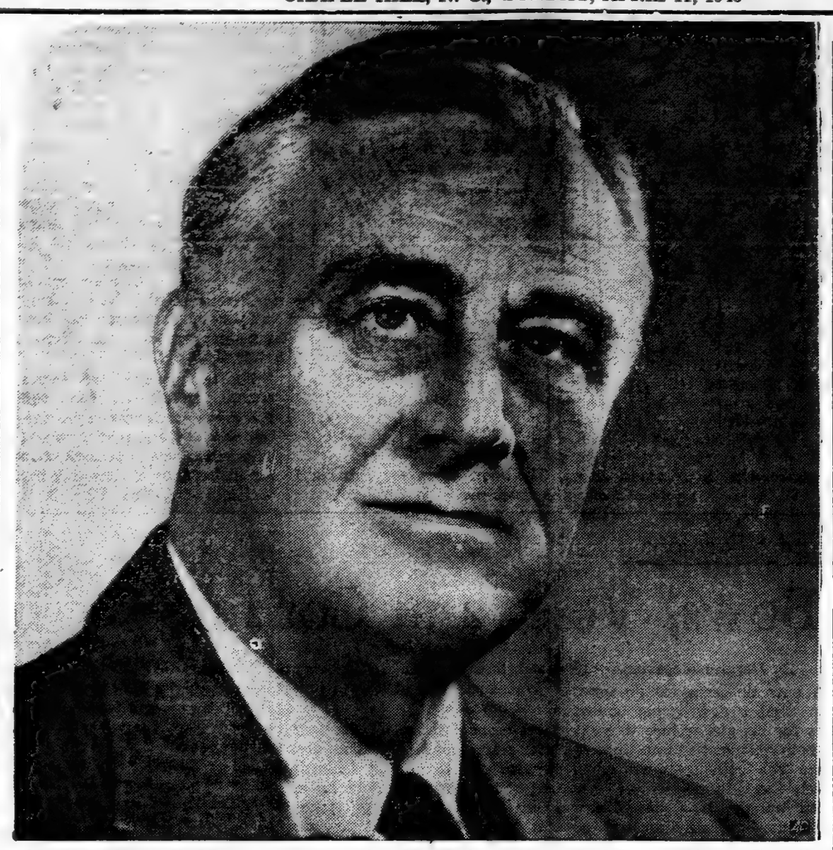
On the front page of today's Daily Tar Heel will be found the platforms of the two candidates in the runoff for head cheerleader next Tuesday, Norm Sper and Charlie Stancell. The platforms were not printed last week due to unforseen circumstances for which the DTH was not to blame.

Installation Is Set for Wednesday

In an effort to unify into a more compact cooperative group the coeds elected to office in last week's elections, a mass coed installation service is planned for Wednesday night at 9 o'clock in the Presbyterian church.

Taking part in the impressive candlelight installation service will be coeds elected to offices in the Women's Athletic association, Coed Senate, Women's council, YWCA, Legislature, and also house presidents.

The YWCA Planning committee, headed by Rachel Woodley, has charge of the program, which it is hoped will help coeds realize their position as campus leaders rather than merely as heads of single groups.



Justice Seawell To Address Group

Associate Justice A. A. F. Seawell of the state Supreme Court will address members of Phi Delta Theta fraternity tonight at 7 o'clock when 14 new initiates will be honored at a pledge banquet in the Carolina Inn ballroom.

Justice Seawell resided in Chapel Hill for several years before his appointment to the Supreme Court bench. He was a member of the University class of 1889.

Tonight's banquet will climax six months' orientation of the new pledge class. Bill Lane, chapter president, will preside at the program and Ralph Strayhorn, preceptor, is in charge of arrangements.

New members who will be received into the chapter today following formal initiation are as follows: William Parker Andrews, Flat Rock; Joseph Bach, Upper Darby, Pa.; Harry Eugene Buchanan, Hendersonville; George Carter Carr, Leland, Fla.; Johnny Lester Clements, Crew, Va.; George Crowell, Lenoir; Edwin Davenport, Rocky Mount; Garrett Fitzgibbons, Jr., Cartersville, Ga.; Bobby Johnson, Atlanta, Ga.; Garland Jonas, Ponte Vedro Beach, Fla.; Harold Floyd Rouse, Farmville; Jack Stokes, Norfolk, Va.; Jim Phillips Thomas, Baltimore, Md.; and Andrew Williams, Jr., Hamlet.

IT WAS THREE YEARS ago tomorrow that America's heroic war-time president, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, died at the "Little White House" in Warm Springs, Georgia. On April 12, 1945, the courageous leader who brought the United States out of the depression, and all but victoriously through World War II, passed away before the final victory. The whole nation will remember a great man tomorrow, who died in the service of his country.

Local Political Thunder Is Stolen by Senator Aspirants

By United Press

The pitch of North Carolina's voices was rising this week but the silent written words of the two Democratic Senatorial candidates seemed to steal the political thunder.

Both incumbent William B. Umstead and challenger J. Melville Broughton outlined their stand on North Carolina's liquor question in answer to questionnaires sent out by the Allied Church league.

Both say they personally favor a statewide referendum on the liquor issue.

But while Broughton says he definitely would not appear before a committee of the state General Assembly to urge a referendum, if he is elected senator, Umstead has left that door open. Umstead admits that he doubts if it would be proper for him to appear as a senator before a General Assembly committee to urge a statewide referendum, but he has not said he would not do so. He says he would like to talk it over before deciding.

Strong Stand

Broughton has taken a strong stand on that point. He says that in his knowledge no United States senator has appeared before a state General Assembly committee in North Carolina to support or oppose any purely state measure, and he adds that for him to do so would be "entirely inappropriate."

The Allied Church league also asked the senatorial candidates to express their views on national advertising of liquor. The league asked them whether they would support the Capper bill—not in congress—which would bar liquor ads from interstate commerce.

Umstead says he will support the Capper bill.

Broughton says he is not sufficiently acquainted with the Capper bill to say yes or no to that question, but he says he believes advertising of alcoholic beverages has gone beyond all proper and reasonable limits and is a serious menace to the welfare and morals of the people generally.

Broughton has phrased his stand, "I would favor every reasonable proposal designed to bring about a decrease in the sale and use of intoxicating beverages throughout the United States."

Ask Continuance For Whiskey Case

Greensboro, April 10 —(UP)—A third continuance has been ordered in Greensboro in the case of charging seven men with conspiring illegally to handle $1,900,000 worth ow whiskey.

Judge E. Earle Rives of municipal county court has continued the case until June 8 despite the plea of defense attorneys that the men be tried immediately or the case be dropped.

Defense attorneys pointed out that some of the defendants were indicted last August, and said they suffered from the repeated continuances of the case.

Assistant Solicitor James E. Coltrance asked for another continuance because he said a new move will be made Tuesday in Baltimore affecting North Carolina's attempts to extradite one of the defendants. The state seeks to bring Baltimore liquor dealer Sam Gildar to Greensboro for the trial.

FEW PEOPLE HAVE

Provincetown, Mass —(UP)—Ralph Snow says he's never read nor heard of a bigger egg than the five-yolk, 31-ounce one laid by one of his Rhode Island Reds.

Alleged Attacker Leaves No Traces

Williamston, April 10—(UP)—The Martin county sheriff says officers have found no trace of a Negro who reportedly tried to attack a 19-year-old bride near Parmele.

Sheriff C. B. Roebuck says Mrs. Cary Bryant reported a Negro grabbed her in the kitchen of her rural home. The sheriff quotes Mrs. Bryant as saying the attacker was in the house when she returned from carrying water to her husband in the field yesterday.

Roebuck reports no tracks were found on the grass and the wind wiped out any footprints that might have been made in the sandy road nearby. He says Mrs. Bryant was able to describe the assailant only as about 22 years old, wearing a cap and overalls.

The sheriff says bloodhounds were unable to pick up any scent.

Mrs. Bryant says she fought her attacker, overturning furniture. She says she fainted, but the Negro fled.

TOWN GIRLS

At a Town Girls' supper meeting, held on Monday night at the Episcopal parrish house, officers for the coming year were elected. The new officers, who will take over their duties after the Leadership Program, include: Carolyn Guthrie, president; Lexsy Pierson, vice-president; Betsy Emory, secretary; Marie Sparrow, treasurer; and Patty Winslow and Mary Mac Kear as co-social chairmen.

Stancell Lists Plans, Aims

"1. Get back the Carolina spirit of prewar days. That can be accomplished through giving yells at the proper time and not giving "Hold That Line" when we have the ball.

"2. Full cooperation and understanding with the student body.

"3. Organized pep rallies both at home and away given on time and at a stated place.

"4. Entertainment along with pep rallies such as presentation of interesting speakers and the football team.

"5. Definite arrangements for caravans for games played away from home.

"6. An organized method of transportation for those who desire it.

"7. Intention for better cooperation between the cheering squad and the band which has in the past been noticeably light.

"8. Improvement of the public address system.

"9. If elected, I feel that the card stunts are a real necessity to create the spirit at Carolina which has not appeared on the East coast to any extent. It will be a definite asset to the University in carrying out the true Carolina spirit.

"If elected, I would like to announce that I will turn the entire card system over to Norm Sper. However, in view of these facts I feel that the cheering squad itself will need separate attention.

"So let's join together this coming fall to create an All-America cheering section to back an All-America team."

First Public Function of Golden Fleece Scheduled For Next Monday Night

Return Engagement of Polgar Scheduled for Tomorrow Night

By Sally Woodhull

In his second campus appearance in a week's time, Dr. Franz Polgar, internationally famous telepathist, memory expert, and hypnotist, will appear in Memorial hall tomorrow night at 8 o'clock under the sponsorship of the Student Entertainment committee.

In his show last week, Polgar successfully hypnotised a number of students, persuading them in turn that they were children, peanut vendors, crusaders against long skirts, or anything else that might serve his purpose. Each of the subjects behaved in the manner Polgar suggested, and the show proved highly entertaining to the large audience.

For Mere 50c

Tomorrow night's performance, open to students and townspeople alike, will again benefit the Student Entertainment fund. The committee will present a series of concerts next year free of charge to students, but in order to pay the debt incurred while student entertainment was on a voluntary basis, funds must be raised. Price of the show is 50 cents, and tickets may be obtained at the door.

As a demonstration of his telepathetic powers, Polgar last week found his check, hidden without his knowledge in the shoe of a coed. This was nothing, according to Pence James' writing in the Saturday Evening Post, compared to some of the feats he had performed. In one city they hid an object under the upper plate in a man's mouth. In Chicago he found a war stamp hidden in an office on the fourteenth floor of a skyscraper.

In New York he found an object concealed miles away, proceeding to the spot and giving the driver directions, although no one ever told Polgar orally where to go.

State Briefs

Kerr Scott Attacks Tidewater Company

Tarboro, April 10—(UP)—Gubernatorial candidate W. Kerr Scott renewed his attack today on the Tidewater Power company of Wilmington.

Scott, speaking at Tarboro to representatives of 14 rural electrification co-operatives, said that most power companies are selling electricity at low rates to rural users, but that an exception to this is the Tidewater Company, which serves 16 Southeastern counties. Scott claimed that the rates of the Tidewater Power company are strangling the development of those Southeastern counties of North Carolina.

Scott said only three other states last year had more new electrified farms than North Carolina, and at the end of the year only 129,000 farms were still without electric power in the state. He said that made a total of 160,000 farms served by more than 40,000 miles of electric rural lines.

Due Process

Winston-Salem, April 10—(UP)—Sometimes it takes months or even years to complete the trial of a man on criminal charges, but a Negro trusty in Winston-Salem is an example that sometimes the law can be fast. Otto Jackson was arrested on charges of stealing the purse of a county building employee, tried, convicted and sentenced to 12 months on the roads—all on the same day and without leaving the second floor of the county building.

Handwriting Case

Greensboro, April 10—(UP)—Attorneys for a Guilford county Negro say they will appeal to the state Supreme Court to try to prove that the last will and testament of his sister was in her own handwriting.

Whitsett is seeking to gain the estate of his sister, Vergie Whitsett, but other relatives claim the handwriting of the will is not the same as that of other samples of the dead woman's writing.

Bus Victim

Mount Airy, April 10—(UP)—Funeral services will be held tomorrow for a truck driver of Pilot Mountain, who was killed in a collision with a Greyhound bus. The wreck killed 57-year-old Elmer R. Slawter. The huge bus overturned in a field but luckily it was operating without passengers. It was driven by George F. Bush of Winston-Salem, who received minor injuries.

STATE STUDENT LEG.

All students who have been selected to represent the University at the State Student Legislature in Raleigh this coming weekend will meet at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in Roland Parker 1 of GM to consider important business, according to Pete Gerns, who is in charge of the delegation.

HIDDEN TOOTH

Columbus, O., —(UP)— Mrs. Lela Gasser believed 23 years ago that her visits to the dentist were a thing of the past.

That was when she paid her "final" visit to have her teeth pulled and dental plates made. Now she has just been back in a dentist's chair having a tooth pulled.

Mrs. Gasser, mother of two children, was baffled by a lump in the roof of her mouth. X-rays revealed an impacted cuspid, which a dentist removed.

Outstanding Men To Be Tapped In Solemn Services

By Charlie Gibson

The Golden Fleece, highest men's honorary organization on campus, will conduct its forty-fifth annual tapping ceremonies of new members Monday evening, April 19, in Memorial hall at 8 o'clock. In keeping with the secret nature of the organization, the number and names of the men to be tapped will not be revealed until the ceremonies one week from tomorrow.

A group spokesman stated that because of the impressiveness and solemnity of the service the doors will be locked directly at 8 o'clock, and all who wish to attend the ceremonies should be in their seats by that time. The usual Monday evening religion classes which Frank W. Hanft, University law professor, is conducting in Memorial hall will be finished by 7:50 before the Fleece rituals.

Valkyrie Sing

The annual Valkyrie Sing will be held following the tapping. This event will give fraternity, sorority, and dormitory men and women an opportunity to compete vocally for loving cup awards given by the Valkyries, similar honorary organization for coeds.

The tapping of new members into the men's honorary order marks the Fleece's only public meeting each year. It has been a practice since the group's formation forty-five years ago to conduct meetings and activities in utmost secrecy. Since its officers' names are withheld from the public during the year but are always announced at the tapping, the Jason, the Grammateus, and the Christopher for the past year will be recognized next Monday.

14 Last Year

Members of the Fleece are chosen for their intellectual and moral character, their relentless fidelity to duties, ideals, scholarship, and dilligence. The order does not set a specified number for membership each year but selects each member in proportion to the number of men on campus who are deemed worthy of membership. Last year 14 men gained admission into the order.

At present the 18 students and the 9 faculty members in the Fleece do not as a group sponsor any campus action. However, individually they work towards a common aim, all tasks being instigated without public credit.

Norm Sper Releases Platform

"1. More unity is needed at Carolina. In the past Carolina hasn't had the unity to give the student body the benefit of cooperative cheering. In order to have more unity I plan to have a cheering section, or card section as it will be called, that will cover sections 17 and 18. Aisle 17 will be blocked off in order to give a solid block. I have proposed card stunts that will be used in this section. That alone will bring the unity that we so badly need.

"2. New cheers. I was a student at UCLA where cheering and half-time entertainment is paramount. I propose to bring some of their ideas to Carolina, which will give us new blood in the form of cheers.

"3. We need to know our songs. To accomplish this purpose I propose to have a recording made of all our songs and have them played in Lenoir hall on Friday afternoon and Saturday noon during football season. This should also give added spirit for Saturday's game.

"4. I propose to have a four-foot platform erected at the base of the football stadium that will cover the length of the card section. The cheerleaders will give their yells from the platform which will have two eight-foot amplifiers at each end. This will make it possible for everyone to hear what cheers are called for by the head cheerleader.

"5. If elected, I can assure the student body that my job will not end after football season, but will carry on until after spring track. I propose to lead cheers during the basketball season, using the loud speaker to announce the various yells so that everyone will be able to hear the name of the cheer when it is announced.

"Finally," Sper said, "Whether elected or not, it is my desire to cary out as much of my plans as the head cheerleader will allow."

CORPORATE COMMUNION

Bishop Edwin A. Penick of the Episcopal church will offer a Corporate Communion service at 8 o'clock this morning for all students and town people whom he has confirmed in the past.

At 11 o'clock, Bishop Penick will preach and administer confirmation and at 6 o'clock tonight a supper will be held in the Parrish house in honor of all Episcopal students in the University.

Springtime for Henry?

This is definitely not the springtime Henry Wallace wanted it to be.

Of late, Wallace has been running into trouble at every turn. Even in his home state—Iowa—he found it, not long ago, more than difficult to get a place to speak. While visiting a friend in that same state, he decided to hold a press conference. His friend offered his apartment and Wallace accepted. As the press men came in the door, the landlord of the building stood in the hall, deadly serious, handing them little cards stating that the views expressed upstairs by Henry Wallace were not necessarily those of the apartment owner.

Last summer Wallace was in Chapel Hill and, although not as many persons listened to him as attended a football game some months later, he wasn't given any trouble.

Even after he announced his candidacy it was safe to be seen with him. Now, however, his speeches are picketed and earlier this week his campaign manager and a couple of men in his retinue were worked over by picketers moving into a meeting.

If Wallace expected this spring to be a period of growth for his party (which, by the way, is due to be legally named by his strategy board within the next few days) he was only half right. He has gained new supporters but certainly not in the number that he had expected.

No, Henry Wallace probably isn't happy this spring.

But if Henry isn't, think of his wife Ilo. Look Magazine reported last week that "she is extremely sensitive to the catcalls and criticism of her husband's enemies, and hopes he will soon retire from politics so they can live at their farm."

We wonder how his farm is doing this spring.—B.S.

Guest Editorial: Coed Portrait

An editorial writer of The Mesa College Criterion sketches a college girl:

"She is a little too fat and usually has some trouble with her skin. She diets spasmodically for both faults and keeps them almost under control. Her hair looks nice most of the time, but she insists it's a mess and she doesn't know what she's going to do with it. She wears a sweater, a skirt, saddle shoes, and anklets because all the other girls do, and she loves being one of the group. She looks well washed and brushed and attractive.

"She has an inferiority complex, she says—just an awful one. She invariably thinks of herself as shy and she says she hates to meet people. She finds her own actions and reactions fascinating. She likes to tell how tired she is, and how many hours sleep she's had since Friday. She falls asleep in class. Her powers of concentration are just gone at the end of half an hour of listening to that man, she says, and she gets so bored she could just die. She likes to fix you firmly with her eye and tell you she has eight themes and 2,000 words due Monday, and if you think she's done any of it you're wrong, she says. She's perpetually appalled at the amount of work she has to do.

"If you probe ever so slightly you will suddenly be face to face with her serious side. She will confide it, as a fault, that she is not all gay exterior. She thinks everyone should believe in something and then live by it, and she wishes she knew more about good music. She feels a lot better about Art since she took that appreciation course and knows what to look for. She looks forward to that time when she'll be able to catch up on her reading. There just isn't time for it while you're in school."

"I can't help it, Comrade Judge. The more decadent Prokofieff gets, the more he sends me."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Navy Says Its Job Is Offense

By Drew Pearson

Washington.—Long before the Senate Armed Services Committee this week summoned Secretary of Defense Forrestal and Secretary of Air Symington to hear their opposing views on air power, the Navy—which Forrestal favors — had secretly circulated a memo to Congressmen claiming that the Navy should be the sole deliverer of the atomic bomb against the enemy.

In other words, the old Army-Navy battle supposed to have been stopped by unification is hotter than ever.

The first part of this secret memo pointed out that the Navy was in danger of becoming obsolete, and that it should assume a new offensive role for itself—that of dropping the atomic bomb. The A-bomb, it was argued, should be carried by an airplane carrier close to enemy shores, then catapulted in special Navy bombers for the last-leg flight over enemy territory.

In the final installment of the Navy's secret memo, it is claimed that the Air Forces should now be relegated to the job of defending the USA. The B-29s which pounded Germany and Japan toward the end of the last war, according to the Navy, should now be virtually grounded, with offensive fighting left to the Navy.

The United States, argues the Navy, has now become like England in 1938 and must resort to a net of interceptor planes over its shores to keep off the enemy.

Concluding portions of the Navy's amazing memo used in the new Army and Navy tug-of-war are given below. The Air Forces' point of view regarding all this will follow in an early column.

"The following are the advantages of the carrier task force bomber for atomic attack:

"No amphibious task forces required to seize overseas bases.

"The logistic problem of supplying overseas bases is eliminated.

"Operations are conducted from a mobile base and enemy dissipates his resources in trying to find it.

"1500 mile range is built into carrier instead of into airplane.

"20 knot wind plus catapult always available for take-off.

"Submarine recoveries eliminate landing gear.

"So much for the future role of the Navy. What becomes of the Air Forces if the Navy takes over the role of strategic bombing? There is plenty left for the Air Forces to do. In view of the nature of a future war, it is possible that in a future war the mission of the Air Forces may be more important than that of the Navy.

"It has always been a military axiom that the best defense is a well-directed offense. In our national defense planning we have therefore given much higher priority to planning for the offense than to the defense. With the advent of the A-bomb, and the increased range of heavy bomber aircraft, we are forced to modify this axiom.

"In the past we have always regarded taking the offensive against the enemy and carrying the war to his own country as the most important objective of all. This is still important, for unless we do this, we cannot break his will to fight. But in the past carrying the war to the enemy was in itself the best way of insuring the security of our homeland. This is no longer true.

"With the possession of the A-bomb by an enemy, attacking his country no longer insures the security of ours. Each country now has the capability of ruining each other simultaneously. It will be impossible to bomb the enemy air force out of existence on the ground by a surprise attack, while it has the capability to do this to us.

"Since attack on the enemy is no longer our best means of defense, the importance of an effective continental warning and interceptor fighter defens increased. Current develop are rapidly bringing us to th sition that England wa 1938. England set up a li command and warning net t was able to beat off the L waffe and win the Battle of B ain in 1941. Setting up a s system for the United S should now be the primary jective of our Air Forces. In next war, preventing the d tation of our own country will be a more important job than de tating the enemy's country.

"Since this country has all it wants, our long-range strategy is essentially defensive, hanging to what we've got and defending our way of life. If we get into a war, destroying the enemy's country is not our end. It is simply the means toward an end, which is protecting our own country. In the past taking the offensive has been the most effective means of accomplishing our end, but it is not any more.

"It appears therefore that it entirely unsound for us to put great emphasis on a strategic air striking force at the expense of leaving ourselves open to retaliation, or to a Pearl Harbor on an atomic scale. The most important job of the Air Forces has now become the defense of the United States, intercepting and knocking down an enemy attack.

"There is no use in saying that the best place to stop an enemy air attack is on the ground. That way is no longer possible for any country, particularly for this country. We can't hit first, so we must have a defense that will intercept and destroy the first surprise attack. We certainly can't destroy the first attack on the ground because no one will know that the war has started until this attack is in the air.

"If this first attack gets through it may do so much damage that even if we win the war eventually, it will be a fruitless victory. Until we have an air-tight defense system it is possible for mutual knock-out blows to be landed almost simultaneously by both sides, so the net result of the whole war might be simply to provide more 'lebensraum' for the small countries who remain neutral.

Esquire Fashions

Bows, Vests and Corduroy

By Esquire Magazine

A bow tie seems to do for a man what a new spring bonnet does for his girl friend; it perks up both his mood and his appearance. The college crowd (than which there is no perkier) has taken up the bow tie with a vengeance—probably because the casual character of these ties fits in so well with the sport jackets and slacks and other casual clothes that are worn around the campus. Except for some of the neophytes who are restricted to wearing the freshman necktie to match their beanies, nearly every college man owns at least a couple of bow ties.

Preferences range all the way from plain, small polka dots and striped reps to figured foulards that reflect the new Bold Look. Three shapes are in good standing: one is the straight bow tie with straight ends; another is the straight bow tie with pointed ends; and the third is the butterfly shaped bow tie. They've got fashion by the throat!

Here's something to add color to your outfit—the odd waistcoat in wool flannel. The design that we've seen on nearly every campus we've looked over is the classic tattersal check — these are as popular as a "snap course." We've seen them in blue and brown checks on a white or yellow ground, and in black and blue on white, and even in red and black on white.

The designs of which we've seen only a few—not because they're not as popular (far from it) but because they're still so hard to come by—are the waistcoats of brightly colored tartan plaids. These Bold Look patterns come in combinations of blue, red, green and grey, and they catch the eye even more quickly than do the tattersal checked waistcoats. They've been available in such limited numbers that some shops have had trouble meeting the demand for them.

They look especially good when teamed up with tweeds—the plainer the tweed the better—or plain grey flannel suits. And another good thing about the waistcoat: they give us back the use of pockets that were lost to us when the undergrad—for the same inexplicable reasons that control all campus fads—stopped wearing a vest.

It was bound to happen: corduroy jackets went over so big when they first came out that now college men are wearing trousers—and even sport shirts—of corduroy as well. It's a good rugged fabric—particularly well suited to knocking about the campus in after classes. The favorite jacket is the three-button single-breasted model with a center vent and a flap over the chest pocket. Natural tan and dark brown are the favorite colors. Trousers come in the same natural tan and dark brown, but it isn't very often that corduroy jackets and corduroy trousers are worn at the same time.

Sports shirts are made of pin wale corduroy—a fabric with a finer cord. Besides the same tan and brown, these shirts come in soft bluish tones, grey, and bright red. Being washable, the corduroy makes a practical sport shirt as well as a durable one. And it's the only material we know of that doesn't look messy when it's unpressed.

The People, Yes -- And Then Again, No

By Sandy Grady

These are the days when every politician and editorialist keeps a wary but blood-shot eye on the doings of that slumbering beast, the Carolina Voter. It is a time of making many small X's on many ballots and counting these X's and shouting huzzah if they happen to tally in the right direction. There is much talk about what "they"—the Average Carolina Joes—are going to do about this and that.

It is open season on reading the campus mind, and you can't raise a damp rock without finding two bright lads figuring out the student trend. Everyone is eager to lift a finger beside his nose, draw sagely on a pipe, and make sounds like a minor-league Gallup.

The time has come when any opinion a guy has—an Average Carolina Joe, that is—will be seriously considered simply because he is a potential voter, a Cipher Among the Seven Thousand. The politicos will listen to anybody because they must have an ear to the ground, a hand on the pulse of the people—keeping their nose to the grindstone, and staying on the ball at the same time, I suppose.

The editorial columns have run the gamut of emotions in an attempt to get the voter out of his sack and over to the polls. They have pled and teased and shouted and tried to shame him into doing his duty. When only half of the student body has been tugged to the polls by candidates, political machinery, printed barrages, and habit, everyone is pretty perturbed—not quite understanding why the merry-go-round of cliques and hot air didn't make any difference to the other half.

Everyone is interested in the masses and their lack of interest these days. I guess we're just a bunch of fat, happy sheep being herded through a field, but I sure wish those damn sheep dogs would be quiet.

There are always complaints after elections that "you can't ever tell what people are going to do." It's like MacArthur said yesterday. The General had been walloped pretty badly by Stassen in the Wisconsin presidential primary, and the Japanese couldn't understand how it happened. MacArthur said, "That is one of our great American customs: voting independently and without restraint." He sounded a little bewildered himself though.

The campus politicians could save a lot of trouble by hiring this man, Kinsey. Get Kinsey and his crew to make a thorough check of the Carolina population, watching their habits and thoughts with a scientific eye. Then, with the help on an old Algebra text and a steel tape, they could find exactly what the average personality is. Get the student who dove-tails into this and—behold!—you've got the Average Carolina Joe.

You've got the masses right there in the flesh. He's just a guy who eats in Lenoir, gets beered up at Harry's, has a girl in Blatz City, hates Wallace, wants the Cardinals to win the pennant, plays "Now is the Hour" on the jukes, hates eight o'clock classes, scratches himself with his left hand, and has a saber wound across his back.

They can hang this Average Joe by his heels somewhere in Graham Memorial, put a cage around him, give him pencil and paper, and no more trouble about voting, trends, the public, mass opinion, and so on. Let this guy listen to the editorial didactics; let politicians rant polemics at him until they are weary. Let him make the magic X's. We'll draft him into a hero, a martyr, an oracle—A Man of the People.

Public polls will make him a shrine. Gallup and Roper will pay him homage with a special column in their poll releases. He will be the target for all the concentrated pull-and-take between the Masses and the Bosses. The rest of us may go our blissful, undiscovered, un-assertive ways. It may not be democratic, but it's simpler.

Yet until this plan goes into effect, we'll go on looking like that cartoon of the circle of psychiatrists, each one looking at the back of the next man's head.

Let us, brother, keep a wet finger in the wind—not saying which one.

Hollywood

Hollywolf Conway Looks the Part

By Patricia Clary

Hollywood —(UP)— The title of the "biggest wolf in Hollywood" has been given to actor Tom Conway.

Conway insists it's only because he happens to look like a wolf.

Actually, he says, he's a home-loving, contented husband, utterly harmless off the screen, and no more a wolf than the falcon he has played for years in the "Falcon" series.

"The biggest wolf in Hollywood was what Universal-International producer Lester Cowan demanded for the role of Whitfield Savory, the department store owner in "One Touch of Venus," who stalks Ava Gardner, who's Venus.

Conway, they decided, fitted the character of the rich and predatory Savory even better than such conventional movie wolves as Vincent Price, Franchot Tone and Clifton Webb.

It's by far the best part to date for Conway, brother of the actor George Sanders.

A trick of fate started Conway's career on the English stage.

"I was a saleman for a safety glass company." Conway explained. "One day I tried to sell a casting director an order of glass. This man couldn't get his mind on my sales talk. He kept trying to sell me on being in his play. He said I was just the type he needed.

"I told him I had a quota of sales to make; I couldn't spend all day talking theater. So we struck a bargain; I took the part and he bought up the rest of my glass quota."

Write Away

Fitzgerald for Childress

Editor:

I wish to express my appreciation to those who supported me in the recent election. Being defeated, however, isn't as bad as it could have been, due to the well known abilities of my opponents.

The parties have shown that they were interested in more than just winning an election in their selection of these men; they were interested, and succeeded, in selecting capable and experienced men.

After careful consideration, however, I wish to direct your attention to the Student Party candidate, Gran Childress. I have worked with Gran since entering this University in various phases of campus activities, and I have seen examples of his conscientious and capable work.

Gran has worked with this phase of Student Government through the Student Legislature, and is qualified in every way to fulfill the position to the best interest of the student body. I would appreciate your serious consideration of this request for his support.

Earl Fitzgerald

Injustice

We of the tennis team feel that a great injustice has been done to our captain—Vic Seixas. Since we have been with him more than any other group of people and are the only group of people that have seen him in action in all parts of the country, we feel that we can best speak for him.

We know that he is a fine sportsman and a true gentleman and regret that the campus may have been given a false impression of his character by the letter appearing in the DTH on Monday. Coach Kenfield believes, as we do, that Vic is one of the finest sportsmen ever to play on a Carolina team.

We believe that the writer either does not know what sportsmanship is or knows, but wanted to undermine Vic's political status.

We also feel that the Campus might like to know what rules of tennis etiquette should be followed by a spectator at a tennis match. They are very simple and one can follow them and still give wholehearted support to his team.

Rule 1. No applause or other noise should be made while a point is in play. As soon as the point is over you have a chance to express yourself.

Rule 2. It is not considered proper in the tennis world to cheer or applaud when the opposing team makes an error.

In further regard to the letter attacking Vic's sportsmanship, we feel sure that the Campus has seen many examples of such letters in the past, and is well aware of Vic's true character.

Sam Daniels
Charles Rice
Heath Alexander
Don Skakle
E. Ray Morris
Clark Taylor
Stan Grimes

WHAT'S UP in Graham Memorial

Polgar, master of the mind, will give another of his corking good shows tomorrow night in Memorial. If you missed it last time, don't let it happen again! It's really a show worth seeing, and in addition to giving yourself a good time, you'll be giving the Student Entertainment committee a good start if you'll hand over your four bits for a ticket.

As spring gets springier and we all get more feverish, picture-taking takes its lead, and Boo Coulter, who runs the GM darkroom, is all set to lead you all to better pix. Darkroom facilities and lessons as well are available. Ask in the GM information office.

The bridge tournament will be Monday this week, instead of Tuesday, its usual night

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

The opinions expressed by the columnists are their own and are not necessarily those of the Daily Tar Heel.

Member of the Associated Collegiate Press Association of the National Collegiate Press Association.

Complete Leased Wire of United Press

Represented for national advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc., 420 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y.

BARRON MILLS, Editor — HOWARD BAILEY, Bus. Mgr.

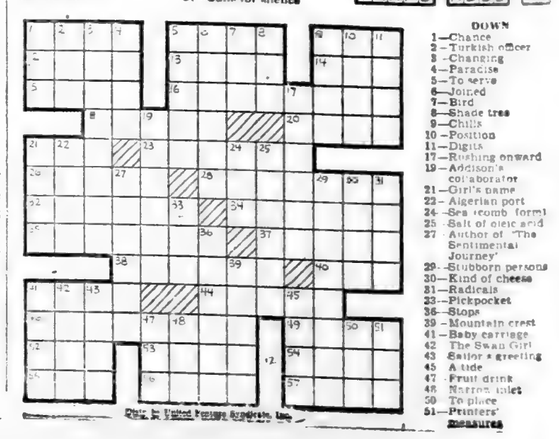
MANAGING EDITOR: Ed Joyner, Jr. — CIRCULATION MANAGER: Owen Lewis

SPORTS EDITORS: Bob Goldwater, Bill Carmichael

NEWS EDITOR: Chuck Hauser — ASST. BUS. MGRS.: Mary W. Sledge, T. E. Holden — SUBSCRIPTION MGR.: Charles Pattison

SOCIETY EDITOR: Jane Mears — ASST. CIRC. MGRS.: Randall Hudson, Don Snow — EDITORIAL ASSTS.: Bob Sain, Bill Buchan

NEWS STAFF: Raney Stanford, Donald MacDonald, Sally Woodhull, John Stump, Herb Nachman, Charlie Gibson, Gordon Huffines, Margaret Gaston, Mark Sumner, Paul Rothman, Elaine Patton, Jean Baskerville, Mary Ann Taber, Weddy Thorp, Emily Baker, Miriam Evans, Doris Weaver, Nancy Black, Helen Beam, Daniel Wallace, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.



SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Bill Kellam, Larry Fox, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher.

BUSINESS STAFF: James Crews, Jackie Rogers, Betty Huston, J. C. Brown, C. B. Mendenhall, Joe Williams, Randall Hudson, Gladys Cottrell, Al Petteway, Kathryn Colwell, W. S. Peebles, Grover Henson, Neal Howard, Jr., Lena Campbell, Ed Campbell, Al Carpenter.

FOR THIS ISSUE: NIGHT EDITOR: Chuck Hauser — NIGHT SPORTS: Larry Fox

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZEL

ACROSS

1—Rodent
5—Cunning
9—Clever
12—Old
13—Dye indigo
14—Murk
15—To cover with stone
16—Small bird
18—Something set in
20—Snares
21—Distress call
23—Quiver
26—To get up
28—Misleader
32—Raved
34—To live
35—Saintly
37—In front
38—To go over again
40—His Majesty's Ship (abbr.)
41—Scheme
44—Sphere of action
45—To practice for a play
49—Gaelic
52—Commotion
53—Course of feeding
54—Seaport near Red Sea
55—Spring month
56—To comfort
57—Calls for silence

DOWN

1—Chance
2—Turkish officer
3—Changing
4—Paracise
5—To serve
6—Joined
7—Bird
8—Shade tree
9—Chills
10—Position
11—Digits
17—Rushing onward
19—Addison's collaborator
21—Girl's name
22—Algerian port
24—Sea (comb. form)
25—Salt of oleic acid
27—Author of "The Sentimental Journey"
29—Stubborn persons
30—Kind of cheese
31—Radicals
33—Pickpocket
36—Stops
39—Mountain crest
41—Baby carriage
42—The Swan Girl
43—Sailor's greeting
45—A tide
47—Fruit drink
48—Narrow inlet
50—To place
51—Printers' measures

Underrated Tar Heel Trackmen Drop Close 69-62 Decision To Georgia Tech

Jayvee Nine Gains Easy Victory Over PJC

CAROLINA 10, FURMAN 2

(Special to the Daily Tar Heel)

Greenville, S. C., April 10 — North Carolina's baseball team defeated the Furman Hurricanes, 10-2, here this afternoon behind the six-hit pitching of Ray Blair to complete their three-game South Carolina trip with three victories.

Ott Evans was the big gun in the Tar Heel offense, getting three safe blows in five trips to the plate. Co-captain Jim Hayworth, Kenny Black, Jim Hobbs, and Jim Kelly got a pair of hits apeice.

Furman — 000 010 010— 2 6 9
UNC — 120 020 230—10 14 2

The batteries: Blair and Tranavitch, Varney. Fizemore, O' Shields, Pearson, Lollis and Phillips.

Though not looking over a field of clover, baseball coaches Bunn Hearn (left) and Walter Rabb are shown above surveying their charges at practice on the dusty diamond of Emerson field.

Chrisler Planning Michigan Athletic Expansion Soon

By United Press

It looks like Michigan may start an expensive program of athletic expansion, under the direction of Orban "Fritz" Crisler. At least, that's what observers are predicting after a news conference held by Crisler today.

The conference was called to give Crisler a chance to answer rumors since he resigned as football coach of the Wolverines to take over full time as athletic director. Benny Oosterbaan replaced Crisler as grid coach. And there was a report that Crisler would quit Michigan because of a dispute with college officials over a 10-million-dollar athletic expansion program.

Those rumors persisted, and other reports—of big money offers from private industry—were heard around the Ann Arbor campus. So, today Crisler called in reporters to get the facts, right from the horse's mouth.

Chrisler explained "My roots are too deep in the University of Michigan and college athletics to leave my position." The coach who led the Wolverines to the Rose Bowl championship and a strong claim for the national title added that just last week he had turned down an offer from a Detroit auto supply outfit. That offer called for $50,000 a year, and still is available to Chrisler.

Duke Frosh Down Tar Baby Netters, 7-2; Take All Doubles to Mar Carolina Opener

The Duke freshman tennis team swept the doubles matches and almost everything else in sight to defeat the Carolina yearlings here in the locals' opening game, 7-2.

Guy Kirby and Dan McLeod provided the only Tar Baby victories yesterday afternoon by capturing their singles matches.

Kirby, playing number four, defeated Bob Shakleford, 7-5, 6-2. On the next court to win, McLeod had to go the full three sets before downing Bob Silkett. McLeod took the first route, 6-4, but Silkett fought back to annex the next set, 6-2, and tie the score. McLeod took the final set to win the match, 6-4.

The summary:

Singles—Carlos (D) defeated Luxenberg, 6-4, 6-0. Warmath (D) defeated Southerland, 6-2 2-6, 6-0. Tapley (D) defeated Kenan, 6-2, 7-5. Kirby (C) defeated Shakleford, 7-5, 6-2. McLeod (C) defeated Silkett, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4. Melton (D) defeated Kidd, 2-6, 6-1, 6-6.

Doubles—Carlos-Tapley (D) defeated Southerland-Luxenberg 4-6, 6-3, 6-3. Warmath-Shakleford (D) defeated Kenan-Kirby, 6-3, 9-7. Silkett-Dozier (C) defeated McLeod-Kidd, 6-2, 6-1.

Sutherland Operated On; Condition Grave

Pittsburgh, April 10 —(UP)— Coach Jock Sutherland of the Pittsburgh Steelers in the National Football League is a "desperately sick" man. The veteran coach has suffered a brain lesion and his doctor says Sutherland is in a very serious way.

The announcement was made after Sutherland was returned from Wickliffe, Kentucky, in a private plane. Sutherland was found near the Kentucky town Wednesday, wandering through a field in a dazed condition. At that time, it was felt that he was a victim of amnesia.

The 59-year-old coach had been in good health until a few weeks ago, when he complained of severe headaches. He had left Pittsburgh recently on a trip through the midwest.

Immediately following the statement on his condition, doctors took Sutherland to the operating room at West Penn hospital in Pittsburgh.

Mural Track Meet Begins This Tuesday

The big news of the week in the intramurals will be the big four day track meet to be held on Fetzer Field Monday through Thursday from 4-6 o'clock.

Track trials in the 60 and 100 yard dashes and field events will be held on all four days. A representative of the intramural department will be present at all the trials to record the name and organization of each entrant.

Track and field men from both the dormitory and fraternity divisions will participate in the following classes: 60-yard dash, 100-yard dash, 300-yard run, 3-4 mile run, 70-yard high hurdles, 120-yard low hurdles, 440-yard relay, 880 yard relay, shot put, pole vault, discus throw, high jump and broad jump. All winners will receive intramural medals.

Track Rules

Normal rules covering entries in intramurals will be followed. No spike shoes will be allowed and their is no limit to the number of events a man may enter. Each organization will be permitted to enter as many men as they wish in the 60 and 100-yard dashes, but in all other events no more than four may compete.

Entries are made at the time the trials are attempted, and all men equalling or surpassing the qualifying marks will advance to the semi-finals on Tuesday, April 20. They are as follows: pole vault 8' 6", shot put 34', discus throw 90', high jump 5' 3" and broad jump 18' 6".

Individuals will run against the clock and the 24 best times in each event will qualify for the Tuesday semi-finals. Trials in the 300-yard run, trials and semi-finals in the high and low hurdles, the semi-finals in the other events (except the pole vault and high jump) will be held Tuesday with those qualifying moving into the finals on Wednesday, April 21.

Softball Play

Softball play is carded for only two days this week due to the home varsity games on Tuesday against Wake Forest and on Thursday against Furman.

Thursday, April 15 is the last day for entering the intramural horseshoe competition.

McGinn Allows One Hit in Going Route For Second Victory

By Dick Jenrette

Bill McGinn, a hard-working lefthander from Charlotte, turned in a sparkling one-hit pitching performance at Emerson field yesterday afternoon as the Carolina Jayvees scored a 6-1 victory over Presbyterian Junior College.

With the exception of a roller down third base in the first inning which was hit too slowly to be fielded properly, McGinn held complete mastery over the visitors. Eleven bases on balls marred an otherwise great mound job.

Jerry Allen, centerfielder for Coach Henry House's locals, got the Tar Babies off to a good start in the first inning driving a liner into deep left for a home run. Carolina got two more runners on base in the initial frame but was unable to score.

In the third inning, Carolina scored what turned out to be the winning run of the game. With one out, John Senter lofted a long fly to left which went for a three-base hit. Don Ward struck out, but Ed Lamb came through with a clean single over second base to score Senter.

The visiting Presbyterian nine narrowed the lead to 2-1 with an unearned run in the fourth, when Leon Bizzell led off with a walk. Pitcher Vernon Tarlton sent a grounder down third which Senter fielded nicely, but the throw to first went into the dirt. Bizzell came all the way home on the play.

A single Tar Baby tally in the lucky seventh made McGinn's victory a bit more safe. It was accomplished on successive singles by Allen and Joe Brookshire and Senter's long fly to right which brought in Allen. Three walks, a passed ball, wild pitch and Pitcher McGinn's single produced the final three runs in the eighth inning.

Second Win

The win was the second of the season for McGinn against no defeats. In recording his triumph he struck out six batters and was particularly effective with men on base. He left nine Presbyterian runners stranded.

One-Hitter!

The box:

PJC	AB	R	H	O	A
Wood, 2b	3	0	0	1	2
Elliot, 3b	3	0	1	1	4
Knox, lf	3	0	0	1	0
Siceloff, 1b	4	0	0	10	0
Hodge, c	3	0	0	6	1
Coats, ss	3	0	0	3	2
McConeghy, cf	3	0	0	1	0
Bizzell, rf	1	1	0	1	0
Tarlton, p	3	0	0	0	2
Rowe, p	1	0	0	0	1
Totals	27	1	1	24	12
UNC Jayvees	AB	R	H	O	A
Allen, cf	4	2	2	0	0
Brookshire, ss	5	0	1	1	2
Senter, 3b	2	1	1	1	3
Ward, lf	4	0	0	3	0
Lamb, rf	3	1	1	1	0
Garganus, c	4	0	0	10	2
Goodman, 2b	2	1	0	4	4
Carter, 1b	3	0	0	7	2
a-Walsh	0	1	0	0	0
Quarles, 1b	0	0	0	0	0
McGinn, p	4	0	1	0	1
Totals	31	6	6	27	14

a-batted for Carter in 8th.

PJC 000 010 000—1
UNC Jayvees 101 000 13x—6

Summary: Errors: Elliot 2, Senter. Runs batted in: Allen, Senter, Lamb, McGinn. Three-base hits: Senter. Home runs: Allen. Base on balls—off: McGinn 11, Tarlton 6. Struck out—by: McGinn 6, Tarlton 4. Losing Pitcher: Tarlton. Umpires: Dodson, Lee. Time: 3:00.

Harmon Takes Lead In Masters' Tourney

Augusta, Ga., April 10—(UP)—Harvey. Ward, number one golfer at the University of North Carolina, shot an 81 here in the Masters' tournament for a 54-hole total of 237.

Claude Harmon took over the lead today with a three-round card of 209. Harmon now has a two-stroke advantage over Chick Harbert who stroked a 70 today.

Harmon added a three-under-par 69 today to a pair of 70's Harry Todd, yesterday's leader, had a bad day and couldn't do any better than an 80 for a 219 total, dropping to a tie for twelfth place.

Cary Middlecoff also shot a 69 today to move into third place with a 214 score. Ed Furgol is fourth, one stroke behind.

Stanky Saves Day; With Pinch Single

Columbia, S. C., April 10—(UP)—Eddie Stanky proved to the Boston Braves that he was well worth the price they paid to get him from the Brooklyn Dodgers, when he came into the game in the ninth inning with the bases loaded and promptly belted a single to give the Braves a 3-2 win over the Cincinnati Reds.

Bill Voiselle opened for the Braves by giving up two runs, but settled down to pitch to only 15 men in the next five innings. Ed Wright and rookie Jim Pendergast finished up for the Braves.

State Nine Outlasts Duke for 18-14 Win

Durham, April 10 —(UP)— It was hardly a pitchers' battle when the Duke and State baseball teams clashed in a Big Four contest here this afternoon.

When the smoke had cleared and the eighth pitcher had been shelled from the mound, the Wolfpack was on top by the astronomical score of 18-14.

State took an early lead, sandwiching two-run first and third innings around a five-run second frame. The Blue Devils matched each of the two-tally outbursts with one of their own. Two runs coming home on Stu Erickson's home run in the third.

State got two more runs in the fourth, but Duke came back with a seven-run outburst in the bottom half of the inning to tie the score. They went ahead their next time at bat, but the Wolfpack poured six runs across the plate in their half of the ninth to clinch the verdict.

Jack McComas paced the State attack with five safeties.

Monday's Murals

4:00 Field 1—Mud Dobbers vs. Alexander 2; Field 2—KA 1 vs. Zeta 1; Field 3—Phi Gam 2 vs. Kap Sig 1; Field 4—TEP 1 vs. Delt Sig 2; Field 5—TEP 2 vs. DKE 2; Field 6—Lamb Chi 2 vs. Sig Nu 2; Field 7—KA 2 vs. Zeta 2; Field 8—Sig Chi vs. Phi Kap 2; Field 9—ATO 1 vs. PiKA 1.

5:00 Field 1—Old East vs. Nash; Field 2—Lewis 1 vs. Geology Dept.; Field 3—Phi Gam 1 vs. Lamb Chi 1; Field 4—Pi Lamb 2 vs. Phi Delt Chi, Field 5—Phi Delt 3 vs. Kap Psi; Field 6—Phi Gam 3 vs. Pi Kap Phi, Field 7—Sig Chi 1 vs. Phi Kap 1; Field 8—Delt Sig 1 vs. Chi Phi 1; Field 9—Chi Psi 1 vs. Kap Sig 2.

Ransonmen Tally Seven First Places; Georgian Depth Proves Victory Margin

By Mel Horowitz

Carolina's greatly underrated cinderpathers extended the potent Yellow Jackets of Georgia Tech all the way before finally succumbing 69-62, to the invaders from Atlanta in the last event before about 1000 fans at Fetzer Field yesterday.

It was a case of too little, but not always too late for the Tar Heels as they annexed seven first places — the same number as the Engineers. Tech just had too much depth.

Running true to form, the Jackets captured all three places in both the 100-yard dash and the 220. However, their victory in the 100 almost proved fatal since Buddy Fowlkes, the Engineers' individual star, turned his ankle and was not able to compete in any other event.

With thirteen events having been run off, there remained only the mile relay. The Techmen were leading Carolina by the slim margin of two points, 64-62. But the Tar Heels were not able to overcome the Atlanta quartet and thereby went the meet.

Individual high point man for the meet was Carolina's Jack Moody with blue ribbons in the high and broad jumps for ten points. Top man for Tech was George Bailey who copped a first in the 220, a second in the 100, and ran anchor on the mile relay.

The first, and probably the best run of the afternoon was the mile. Getting off to a fast start, Mark Burnham led the field for two laps, but then faded. Jack Corridan of Tech grabbed the lead and kept in front up to the final turn where Jimmy Miller breezed past him almost as if he were standing still.

Coach Ranson's men broke the tape in both hurdles events, but Fowlkes was not able to perform against them. In the field events, Carolina looked very strong with Bob Seligman copping a first and second in the discus and shot, respectively. Bob Kirk notched a second in the javelin while Moody was above the field in the jumps. In the heralded pole vault rematch, Charlie Reiser of Tech and Hank Hickman once again tied at 12 feet 4 inches.

Sam Magill ran a great race in the two mile to win handily. Taking a long lead on the first lap, he continually increased it and was a good thirty yards in front of Tech's Red Smith. Miller managed to eke out a third place with a burst of speed in the final stretch.

Once again Bob Renshaw demonstrated his ability to conquer Julian MacKenzie as he passed the Carolina half-miler in the stretch after MacKenzie had led all the way. Renshaw's kick was exceptional and he seemed stronger at the finish while MacKenzie faltered.

Tar Heels Winded

Shot Put—1. Bergman (GT); 2. Seligman (UNC); 3 Nolan (GT). Distance: 48 feet 8 and 3-4 inches.

One Mile Run—1. Miller (UNC); 2. Corridan (GT); 3. Burnham (UNC). Time: 4:26.8.

High Jump—1. Moody (UNC); 2. tie between Joyner (UNC) and Smith (UNC). Height: 6 feet, 3 inches.

440-yard run—1. Stowers (GT); 2. Lansing (GT); 3. Anderson (GT). Time: 49.5.

Javelin—1. Nolan (GT); 2. Kirk (UNC); 3. Vestal (UNC). Distance: 173 feet.

100-yard dash—1. Faukes (GT); 2. Bailey (GT); 3. Queen (GT). Time: 9.9.

120-yard High Hurdles—1. Taylor (UNC); 2. Coons (GT); 3. Morrow (UNC). Time: 15.0.

880-yard run—1. Renshaw (GT); 2. MacKenzie (UNC); 3. Ghormley (GT). Time 1:56.4.

Pole Vault—1. Tie between Hickman (UNC) and Reiser (GT). 3. Russel (UNC). Height: 12 feet, four inches.

220-yard dash—1. Bailey (GT); 2. Stowers (GT); 3. Queen (GT). Time: 22.0.

Discus—1. Seligman (UNC); 2. Bergman (GT); 3. Nolan (GT). Distance: 146 feet, three inches.

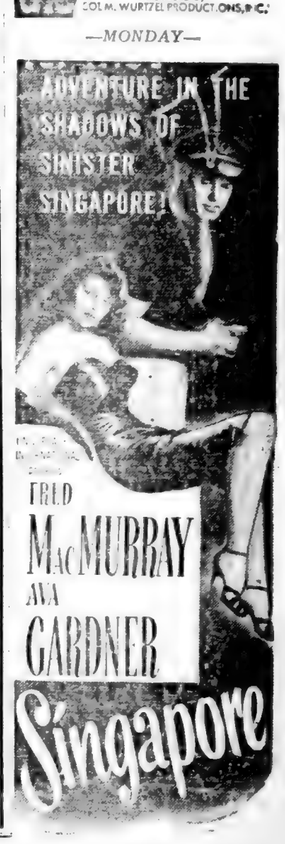
Two-Mile Run—1. Magill (UNC); 2. Smith (GT); 3. Miller (UNC). Time: 9:57.4.

Broad Jump—1. Moody (UNC); 2. Bailey (UNC); 3. Hubbard (UNC). Distance: 22 feet, 7-8 inches.

220-yard low hurdles—1. Shultz (UNC); 2. Coons (GT); 3. Morrow (UNC). Time: 24.4.

One Mile Relay—1. Georgia Tech (Queen, Anderson, Lansing, Bailey); 2. North Carolina (Crimmings, Burnham, McKenzie, Nelson). Time: 3:26.

SENIOR LIFESAVING



Senior lifesaving classes under the direction of swimming coach Dick Jamerson will get under way tomorrow afternoon in Bowman Gray pool.

Classes of one-hour duration will be conducted at 3, 4 and 5 o'clock. Jamerson warned that no persons will be permitted to start the course after tomorrow.

TODAY
VILLAGE

—MONDAY—

Start the Day Right . . .
HAVE A WHOLESOME BREAKFAST
at the
CAROLINA COFFEE SHOP
Featuring: Fresh Orange Juice, Eggs, Hot Cakes and Waffles
OPEN 6:30 A.M. TILL 10 A.M.—DAILY EXCEPT SUNDAY

All Occasions
Flowers say it better
REHDERS
CHAPEL HILL FLOWER SHOP
Opposite Post Office corner

Cameras in Stock
- Kodak
- Leica
- Ansco
- Voightlander
- Zeiss
- Speed Graphic
- Ciro-Flex
- Argus

FOISTER'S CAMERA SHOP

SUNDAY — MONDAY
CAROLINA

Sandwiches —
Shakes —
Sodas —
SLOAN Drug Co.

Survey Shows . . . Big League Pilots Not Always Star Players . . . Managerial Talent

By United Press

New York, April 10—Just because your youngster can't hit a baseball with a ten-foot pole or catch a fly ball with a bushel basket, don't give up hope. He could still wind up as a major league manager, and a good one, too.

A survey of 1948 managers shows that many never set the majors on fire. In fact one of them—Joe McCarthy—one of the best in the business—couldn't even make the big time.

McCarthy was a third baseman shuffling around the minor leagues. Yet he took over a run-down Chicago Cub team and piloted it to a Worlds Series in 1930. Then he moved over to the New York Yankees and won so many pennants that the Yankees almost won permanent possession of the bunting.

McCarthy Back

Now McCarthy is back in harness with the Boston Red Sox. And his club stands a good chance of knocking the championship right out from under the Yankees.

The real old [illegible] among the managers is Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics. Connie has put together [illegible] broken up—some of the best teams in baseball. Yet Mack played only a few years in the majors as a catcher with Washington and Pittsburgh. And he is remembered as a [illegible] of as a player.

Billy Southworth, [illegible] manager of the Boston Braves, is another good example. Billy is admittedly one of the greatest managers in baseball. Yet his major league playing experience consisted of a two-year hitch as outfielder from 1921-1923 with the Braves.

Unassisted Triple Play

Observers are ready to admit that Johnny Neun, Cincinnati manager, knows baseball inside and out. The record backs them up. Neun spent four years with Detroit as a first baseman and two more years with the Boston Braves. Johnny's greatest claim to fame is that he made an unassisted triple play back in 1920 with Detroit.

Eddie Dyer, skipper of the St. Louis Cardinals, was up and down with the Cardinals six different years as a southpaw pitcher. He wasn't a howling success. His overall record was 15 wins and 15 losses.

Naturally, some present day managers were stars during their playing days. Mel Ott of the New York Giants practically rewrote the record book while he roamed right field for the Giants.

Catcher to Manager

Stocky Steve O'Neill of the Detroit Tigers was a top-flight catcher with Cleveland from 1911-1923. The new manager of the St. Louis Browns, Zach Taylor, wore the mask and mitt for the Brooklyn Dodgers, Giants, Chicago Cubs and Yankees. Another newcomer to the ranks of the managers, Joe Kuhel, was a top first baseman with Washington, the same club he will manage this year.

Bucky Harris of the New York Yankees was hailed as the wonder boy when he took over Washington and led the Senators to a pennant while he was playing second base.

One of the greatest pitchers ever to toe the slab was Ted Lyons, the present manager of the Chicago White Sox. Lyons walked off a college campus, joined the Chisox and stuck with them for over 20 years.

Star Infielder

Leo Durocher, the wordy manager of Brooklyn, never could hit the size of his hat. But Leo had the surest pair of hands and the snappiest throw in baseball when he played for the Yank, Cardinals and Dodgers. Billy Meyer of Pittsburgh was a first-string catcher with the Philadelphia Athletics. Lou Boudreau, manager of the Cleveland Indians, was 24 when he took over and, still the boss at 30, he remains one of the best shortstops in the majors.

But as we mentioned before, don't worry if your youngster seems to have 10 thumbs when he goes after a ground ball. He still has a good chance to manage big leaguers. Connie Mack, Eddie Dyer, and Joe McCarthy will vouch for that.

Pictured above are the girls who sponsored the May Frolics dance Friday and last night. Top row, left to right: Kathryn Fulton, Roanoke, Va., with Willie Alston; Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Marjorie Beasley, Spartanburg, S. C., with Robert Beasley, Zeta Psi; Joan Delfosse, Chicago, Ill., with Carl Durham, Jr., Simga Nu, and Weddy Thorp, Rocky Mount, with Thurman Williams, Jr., Delta Kappa Epsilon.

Center: Saso Morris, New Bern, with Walt Jones, Kappa Sigma; Annabelle Cribb, Spartanburg, S. C., with Jack Thompson, Sigma Chi; Jean De Hart, Winston-Salem, with Ed Baity, Kappa Sigma.

Bottom row: Eleanor Rousseau, Winston-Salem, with Howard Gray, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Sallie Robertson, Washington, N. C., with Howard Walters, Delta Kappa Epsilon; Alice Womble, Greensboro, with Richard K. Bowles, Beta Theta Pi; and Jannie Fair, Lincolnton, with Cliff Frazier, Beta Theta Pi.

Society Asides

May Frolics Brings Life Agents To UNC

By Weddy Thorp

"And a good time was had by all. . . ." Well, UNC can chalk up just one more GOOD weekend, because although rather quiet, May Frolics this year have been quite successful.

The festivities got underway Friday afternoon with a huge get-together at Hogan's lake. Sensation of the affair was the appearance of Life photographers, who were taking pictures like ninety all afternoon.

The dance Friday night was "breaky" although the gym wasn't too crowded. As usual, the race was on to see old friends on hand for the occasion. Everybody seemed to be having a mighty good time, and Tony Pastor was well on the way toward making a Carolina name for himself at that time.

Yesterday with concert, parties, and dance brought the weekend to a glorious close, and today finds Carolina lad and lasses with memories of a good, good time.

May Day

On Tex Beneke weekend there will be an added attraction for Sunday. The annual May Day is to be held that day. Coeds will vote Tuesday for the queen, maids of honor, and court. All senior girls are eligible for the positions, so be thinking about who you want.

Maybe the campus will settle down a little with elections and what-not over, but lest we forget, there are still the run-offs to spark-plug political activity. Should be interesting.

Something else to look forward to is the Glee club concert coming up this month. That promises to be worth waiting for.

So with a fond look backward and the prospect of things to come, Carolina spring activities are well underway.

ADPi Officers Are Installed Wednesday

Installation of Alpha Delta Pi's officers for the coming year took place Wednesday evening at the regular weekly chapter meeting.

At that time Katherine McMillian, Laurinburg, assumed her duties as the new president of ADPi. Prior to her entrance into Carolina, Katherine attended Peace college in Raleigh and was president of her sorority there.

Grace Blades, Apex, a transfer from Brenau college, was installed as vice-president. Mary Louise Powe is taking up her second term as recording secretary. Ann Keen, Macon, Ga., was elected treasurer.

Other officers include: Rita Adams, Troy, house-manager; Sarah Jane Farlow, Augusta, Ga., social chairman; Helen Stephenson, Shelby, rush chairman; Mary Lou Williams, Reidsville, chaplain; Shelly Roper, Lincolnton, guard; Gayle Hancock, Lexington, historian; Iris Lee Bost, Concord, scholarship chairman; and Fran Angus, Brooklyn, N. Y., chapter reporter.

CAMPUS PARTY

The Campus Party will meet in Graham Memorial at 7:30 tomorrow night to discuss pertinent business before the run-off elections Tuesday. All candidates, party members, and interested persons are urged to attend.

Ball Game Featured At Deke and Chi O Hogan's Lake Party

Monday night the Dekes entertained the Chi O's at a picnic supper at Hogan's lake to celebrate together their foundings. The year marks the 97th anniversary of Beta chapter of DKE and the 53rd year since Chi O's national founding.

A big feature of the party was the baseball game which included two teams of approximately 30 members each. Just which side finally conquered remains in doubt, as neither team had the opportunity to get all of its players up to bat before dark. Team captains Bill Thorp and Tag Montague finally comprised with a 220-220 score.

After supper served by the lake, songs were sung around an open fire before returning to Chapel Hill.

Daily Tar Heel Society

Chi Omega Founder's Day Is Celebrated by Local Chapter

The annual Chi Omega Founder's Day banquet was held at the Carolina Inn on Monday night.

The banquet commemorated the national founding of the sorority on April 5, 1895, at the University of Arkansas.

Chancellor House was guest speaker for the occasion. He played a few selections on his harmonica, and spoke on the place of the sorority in campus life.

Following his address, Joan Butler, Epsilon Beta chapter president, announced that Carolyn Gaither had been selected as the outstanding active of the year, and also ranked highest in scholarship in the chapter.

Marjorie Yokely was named outstanding pledge, and Stella Lassiter was cited for her scholastic average. All three girls were awarded cups for these honors.

Dinner was served in the ballroom, Chi Omega songs were sung, and the banquet ended with the tradition Friendship circle.

Special guests for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. R. B. House, Miss Katherine Carmichael, and the following Chi Omega alumnae: Mrs. R. D. W. Connor, Mrs. Guy B. Johnson, Mrs. R. W. Linker, Mrs. J. C. Lyons, and Mrs. Ernest Mackie.

SP MEETING

The Student party will meet at 7 o'clock tomorrow night in Roland Parker lounge 1 of Graham Memorial. Members are asked to note the change of time for the meeting. Chairman Gran Childress announced that the meeting would be a short but important one.

POINTED HINT TAKEN

Centralia, Ill., —(UP)— Two mothers of Centralia bobbysoxers have their own way of letting their daughters' boy friends know when it's time to leave. The boys ignored polite requests that they go. The mothers got together and called police. A squad car arrived just as the persistent suitors headed for home.

Society Notes

Newly elected officers for the musical sorority, Sigma Alpha Iota, include the following girls: Gwyne Howard, president; Mary Helen ZumBrunnen, vice-president; Martha Adaire, secretary; Lillian Messicks, treasurer; Sybil Drake, chaplain, and Ferne Hughes, publicity chairman.

Alpha Delta Pi initiated two new members, Mary Anna Dunbar, Laurinburg, and Marilyn Strohkorb, Richmond Va., on Friday afternoon. The sorority also pledged a new girl, Ann Royster, Shelby, on Wednesday.

Betty Simmons and Brent Woodson, both '46 coeds, have been spending this week at the Chi O house.

Jean Patterson of Greensboro has announced her engagement to David Williams of Yadkinville. The wedding will take place June 26.

The three law school fraternities will begin rushing in the next week. They will have smokers for the rushees and a more detailed announcement of rushing rules, etc., will be forthcoming early this week.

Tuesday evening the ADPi's entertained the Sigma Nu's at a supper party from six to eight The group enjoyed singing after supper.

Betty Smith, Miami, Fla., became a pledge of Chi Omega sorority last Sunday afternoon.

Initiation Finished For Pi Kappa Alpha

In an impressive ceremony Monday night, 24 pledges of Pi Kappa Alpha's pledge class were made brothers in the fraternity.

The following pledges were initiated: Len Szafaryn, Mal Kenny, Gene Sharpe, Howard Quinn, Otis Poteat, Reginald Carver, Moncue Sibley, Jake McGirt, Wallace Kirby, Julian Hamrick, Charles Bryan, and Charlie Bartlett.

David Adams, John Chambers, Ed Darnell, Aubrey Dixon, Ed Fleming, Al Dyson, Monroe Gardner, Louis Godwin, Harry Horton, historian: Iris Lee Bost, Con-Bennett Stephenson, and Johnny Jordon.

Former officers of the pledge class were: Harry Horton, president; Bob Hall, vice-president; and Mal Kenny, secretary-treasurer.

Campus Calendar

3:30 p.m.—People interested in forthcoming Hillel publication, Hillel office, "Y"

4:30 p.m.—Chi Delta Phi, Grail room.

5:00 p.m.—Albright for Governor club, Roland Parker lounge No. 1.

7:15 p.m.—Interfraternity council, Roland Parker lounge No. 2.

7:30 p.m.—Bridge tournament, main lounge.

7:30 p.m.—International Relations club, Roland Parker lounge No. 1.

7:30 p.m.—University club, Roland Parker lounge No. 3

8:30 p.m.—Cancer committee, Grail room.

9:00 p.m.—Student Party, Roland Parker lounge No. 1

9:00 p.m.—Pi Kappa Phi, Roland Parker lounge No. 2.

CLASSIFIED

FOR RENT 6A

ROOM AND BOARD FOR MEN ONLY. Inquire at Rock House. Poplar Ave., Carrboro. (1-C118-1)

FOR SALE 6B

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed and being completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogerson Drive.Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. Telephone F-2906. (1-ch1x2-1)

LADIES ENGLISH BIKE FOR SALE. Good condition. $20.00 Call F-2162. (1-116-1)

27 FT. HOUSE TRAILER, SLEEPS four. 82 Pittsboro Road Trailer Court. Inquire between 5 and 6 p.m. (1-115-1)

ATTRACTIVE TWO BEDROOM house, 31 Oakwood Drive, Chapel Hill. Excellent location, spacious grounds. Owner leaving town. Phone F3216, Hector MacLean. (1-126-1)

18 FOOT MARYLAND HOUSE TRAILer, in good condition, ideal for couple, reasonably priced. See A. W. Jones, 83 Univ. Trailer Court. (1-124-1)

LOST 12

BUFF COLOR FEMALE COCKER puppy 8 months—answers "Candy"—Rabies tag No. 203. Owner's name inked on collar. Finder contact Bill Oden, 205 Jackson Circle. Reward. (1-127-1)

WANTED TO RENT 24B

APARTMENT FOR TWO YEARS FOR couple. Write 821 Second St., Durham. Phone X-5012. (1-113-1)

$50.00 REWARD FOR FURNISHED two or three room apartment, veteran student and wife. Must be within walking distance of campus. Urgently needed. Write Box 1101, Chapel Hill. (1-125-1)

FOR YOUR FLOWERS CALL
WEST-WILLIAMS FLOWER SHOP
Telephone 9906
P. O. Building, Carrboro

University Florist
"For the Best in Flowers"
Pick Theatre Bldg.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Telephone [illegible]16

Lloyd Electric Co.
Sales & Service
For
• L&H Electric Stoves
• Jud-Whitehead & Red Crown Hot Water Heaters
We specialize in wiring new construction and in general repair.

LI'L ABNER By Al Capp

Breakfast served at any hour — at HARRY'S

WEATHER
Cloudy and slightly cooler with scattered thundershowers.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
If F. D. R. Were Alive
New Editor
Politics Are Confusing

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., TUESDAY, APRIL 13, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | NO. 139

Inter-America Meet Will Continue, Says Report from Bogota

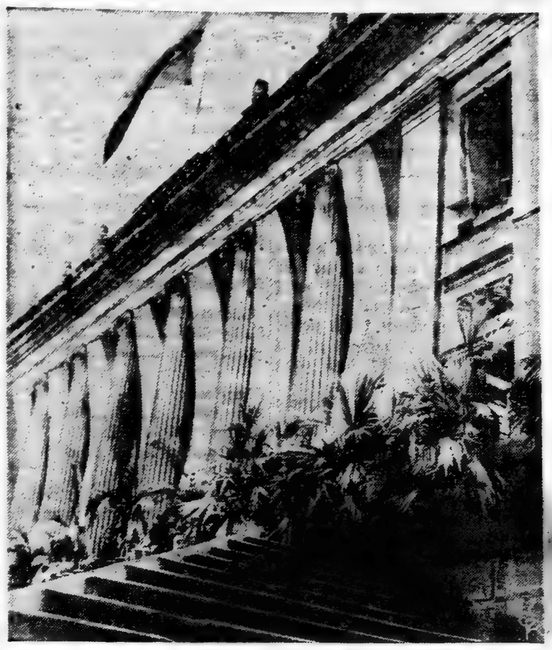
Bogota, April 12 —(UP)— The government of Colombia broadcast a message today over its radio in riot-torn Bogota which said; "Communism cannot triumph over Colombia and other nations of the Western Hemisphere."

Thus Colombia announced that the Inter-American conference of 21 nations plans to carry on in Bogota in spite of the weekend of bloodshed, looting and burning which wrecked the heart of the Colombian capital.

The Colombian government has broken off relations with Moscow. It charged that the uprising was inspired by Communist, including two Soviet agents. It said 15 foreign agents, including the Russians, were caught in the act.

The uprising began Friday after a Liberal party leader was assassinated, raged out of control for 19 hours before the Colombian government got things under control. At least 300 persons were killed and the city was damaged to the extent of $20,000,000 or more.

No Americans were reported hurt, but U. S. Air Force planes still are evacuating people from Bogota and flying in medical supplies for the Americans.



Tea Sunday to Honor Graduating Women

Miss Katherine Carmichael, dean of women, will entertain the senior women graduating in June with a tea Sunday from 4 to 6 o'clock in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

Invitations have been sent to all senior women whose names are listed as June graduates in the office of the dean of women. Any coed planning to graduate in June who does not receive an invitation is requested to come by the office of the dean of women as soon as possible to add her name to the list.

GEOLOGY LECTURE

Dr. John W. Huddle of the Geology department will speak on "The Geology of the Uinta Mountains" tonight at 8 o'clock in room 203, New East. The lecture is being sponsored by Sigma Gamma Epsilon and will be illustrated with color slides. All interested persons are cordially invited to attend.

THIS PHOTO of part of the magnificent Capitol in Bogota, Colombia, was made before looting mobs of revolutionaries tore through it in a bloody insurrection. Tehy broke glass doors and windows, wrecked furniture and set several room afire. Early reports from the strife-torn city placed the death toll at more than 100 and injured at 200. (International)

Dick Wofford Backs Stancell In Runoff; Cites Experience, Capability of Nominee

Charlie Stancell, University party candidate for head cheerleader, yesterday was given the backing of Dick Wofford, former Campus party candidate for the same position.

In a statement released late yesterday afternoon, Wofford scored Stancell's qualifications for the position and asked all voters to take them into account before going to vote.

Forced to Withdraw

Wofford, himself, was forced late in the campaign to withdraw from the cheerleader's race, but up until this time, he had not endorsed any other candidate for the post.

The text of his statement was: "Through years of experience and display of determined enthusiasm Charlie Stancell has established himself as the most capable man to take over the head cheerleader's position for the coming year.

Special Effort

"The student body should make a special effort to place him in the position, he so definitely warrants."

Wofford yesterday added verbally that he believed that Stancell's bid for election would be successful if the people who know and respect him would make the effort to get out and vote.

"I have maintained silence until now," Wofford said, "but in the interests of good Carolina cheering, I feel that I have no other course than to back Charlie Stancell."

Phi To Discuss Tax Abolishment

The Philanthropic assembly will discuss abolishing the state sales tax in the meeting tonight at 7:30 in the assembly hall, fourth floor New East building.

John Giles has been appointed recording secretary for this quarter and Robert Coulter chaplain.

The Ways and Means Committee will meet at 4 o'clock this afternoon and the Executive committee will meet at 5 o'clock in the Phi hall.

Speaker Ernie House urged that all members attend the meeting tonight, because a special closed meeting will be held immediately following the regular meeting.

EISENHOWER CLUB

The Eisenhower for President club will hold its second meeting this evening at 7 o'clock in Roland Parker lounges 1 and 2 of Graham Memorial.

Chairman James Smith yesterday asked that all members and interested persons make every effort to attend.

Tickets Go on Sale This Afternoon For Musical-Comedy 'Sweep It Clean'

Tickets for the new musical-comedy, "Sweep It Clean," will be on sale this afternoon at Ledbetter-Pickards and the Y.M.C.A. Reservations can be made by phoning 5661 between 9 and 12:30 in the morning and 2 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon and at the Playmakers business office, Swain hall, after April 18.

All seating for the musical to be presented April 20 and 21 is unreserved, but a limit of 1,000 tickets for each night are being sold. The new seating arrangement eliminates the necessity of selling unsatisfactory seats on the sides and balcony of Memorial hall.

Being presented by students in the dramatic art and music departments for the benefit of the Koch Memorial fund, the political musical has the endorsement of the Playmaker faculty and the Koch Memorial committee.

With 14 musical members and a cast and crew of 60, the show has the costuming and technical facilities of the Playmakers. Book and lyrics were written by Bob Barr and Louise Myers with original music by Frank Groseclose, and staged by Marty Jacobs.

Students Cast Ballots In Runoff Today

Valkyrie Sing To Feature Seasons, Gay 90's Review

Sixteen Groups In Competition To Prove Talent

Everything from a gay nineties review to a description of the four seasons at Carolina will be featured at the annual Valkyrie Sing to take place in Memorial hall next Monday night at 8:30.

Sixteen groups of fraternity, sorority, and dormitory men and women will be in competition to prove their vocal talent. Any other organization which wishes to enter the Sing can still do so by contacting Miriam Evans in Smith dormitory or Bill Lloyd at the Pi Phi house immediately.

Faculty Judges

The winning entries in the men and women's divisions will be selected by three faculty judges on the basis of harmony, stage presence, and originality in staging. Loving cups will be presented to the two groups picked as best in the event next Monday.

The three judges are Robert Shenkam of the University radio department, Gene Stryker from the music department, and Robert "Spike" Nelson, assistant pastor of the Methodist church.

Rules Listed

Rules for the contesting groups are as follows:

(1) No less than eight persons may compose a group with everyone required to sing and not just merely to be a part of a pantomine.

(2) All singers must be active members of their respective groups, no outside help or alumni assistance being allowed.

(3) Pantomine is permissible, but no dancing or dialogue will be allowed.

(4) Accompaniment is acceptable as long as performances are limited to nine minutes.

(5) A maximum of five dollars may be spent on costumes and properties. Any lighting desired may be used if an entrance fee of one dollar is paid to cover the cost.

Dress rehearsals will be held Thursday and Sunday. The Valkyries will secure a lighting technician to help each organization with its staging preparations. A 30-minute rehearsal period for the lighting supervision can be reserved.

Preceding the Sing, the Golden Fleece, highest men's honorary organization on campus, will tap new members behind locked doors. Although the Sing does not begin until 8:30, it is advisable that all entrants be on hand when the doors are locked for the tapping ceremonies at 8 o'clock.

Winners of last year's Valkyrie Sing were the Phi Gamma Delta sorority and the Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

YW Musical Group Will Inaugurate Hymnal Programs

In order to increase the understanding and appreciation of hymns, the YWCA Music committee, in cooperation with the Worship committee, will inaugurate at tonight's dormitory vesper programs a series of programs of hymnology.

Starting tonight and continuing through spring quarter, the weekly vesper programs will emphasize the understanding and art of singing hymns. The first program will include excerpts from a sermon of the appreciation of hymns and several hymns suggested by it.

Ferne Hughes is chairman of the Music committee, which has planned the programs, and other members assisting her include Mary Glen Slater, Tet Hoffner, and Betsy Green.

CPU Sponsors Hass' Speech In Hill Hall

Eric Hass, editor of the Weekly People, official newspaper of the Socialist Labor party, will speak Thursday night on the contrast of the Wallace reform and the Socialist revolution.

Hass, speaking under the auspices of the Carolina Political union, non-partisan campus political discussion group, will speak in Hill hall at 8 o'clock. After the speech there will be an open question period. Following the speech and question period there will be a reception in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

Hass has been editor of the party newspaper since 1938 when he was elected to that post by Party members. He is the fourth editor of the Weekly People in its 55 years of continuous publication.

The oldest Socialistic party in the United States, the Labor party has been running presidential candidates since 1892. In 1944 its candidates polled over 45,000 votes.

Rhodes Scholars To Be Cut in '48

This is the last year for war service scholarships under the Rhodes scholarships plan. This year the United States will return to its regular quota of 32 Rhodes scholars per year instead of 48 as in the last two years. War service candidates will, however, be eligible this year. After this year war service scholarships will be discontinued. The 32 appointments authorized for 1948 will be divided between candidates for regular and war service scholarships at the discretion of committees of selection in accordance with the merits of applicants appearing before them.

Henderson Donald Henderson, history major, won a Rhodes scholarship last year. He had an excellent war record, and finished his undergraduate studies in an amazingly short time. Many of his courses were completed through taking exams. This Rhodes scholar had as a hobby the studying of medieval history.

Another Rhodes scholar here is Robert E. McGee, a graduate student in English who is now completing his Ph. D.

C. P. Spruill, dean of the general college, is the University representative of the Rhodes scholarships from whom copies of the memorandum of regulations, application blanks, and other information may be obtained. Spruill, who is also a Rhodes scholar, has his office in 308 South building.

PARLIAMENTRY LAW CLASS

After a successful first meeting, the Political Science department has decided to continue its non-credit course in parliamentry procedure. Because of the demand for the course by the students, R. H. Hamilton will continue instruction in the course which meets every Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in 105 Caldwell hall.

Student leaders, fraternity presidents, newly-elected campus officers and all other interested parties are invited to be present at the Tuesday night lectures, which last for one hour.

RUSSIANS DELAY TRAVEL

Vienna, April 12 —(UP)— The Russians have held up British and American travel between Vienna and the Western occupation zones of Austria. The Russian command has refused to meet with the British to talk over the matter.

Humber Address To Concern International Party Politics

By Herb Nachman

Robert Lee Humber, Rhodes scholar and renowned World Federalist, will speak at 8 o'clock tonight in Gerrard hall on "Party Politics in International Affairs."

ROBERT LEE HUMBER

The Young Democrats club is sponsoring Humber's appearance on the campus. Humber is best known for his world famous resolution, "The Declaration of the Federation of the World."

One-Man Crusade

A complete story of his one-man crusade for World Federation was given the Greenville, N. C., attorney in the "Christian Herald" and was condensed in "Reader's Digest," May 1946, by O. K. Armstrong.

In advancing his movement, Humber has approached the various state assemblies and legislators. Since he started his crusade in 1940, his resolution has been adopted by the North Carolina legislature, March 13, 1941, and has subsequently been adopted by 14 other states and has been adopted by one house or is being considered in the legislatures or some 19 others.

Phi Beta at Oxford

Humber graduated with an A. B. degree from Wake Forest in 1918 and received his L.L.B. degree there in 1921. He went on to obtain his master's at Harvard in 1926 and received the Rhodes scholar from North Carolina to Oxford University in England. He received his B.Litt. in 1923 and was a Phi Beta Kappa.

He was American Field service fellow at the University of Paris from 1926 to 1928 and was admitted to the North Carolina bar in 1920. Also in 1920 he served in the Tutor department of Harvard in government, history and economics. From 1930 to 1940 he was a lawyer and business executive in Paris and served as a second lieutenant artillery in World War I where he first got the idea for his World Federation crusade.

When Humber took his resolution to the state capital at Raleigh, a vigorous debate was touched off on the matter. One objection was raised that has since become familiar to Humber: "This matter requires more study." To which a senator made what Humber considers an admirable reply: "The progress of civilization cannot wait for my colleague's intellectual development." In the end the resolution passed by comfortable majorities.

By "federation", Humber is quoted as meaning an organization within which each country would retain its domestic sovereignty, delegating to a world government only such powers as are needed to maintain law and

(See HUMBER, page 4)

CCUN Executives Will Meet Today To Plan Program

The Collegiate Council for the United Nations' second executive committee meeting of the spring quarter will be held this afternoon in the CCUN office in Graham Memorial at 3 o'clock.

All members of the Carolina chapter are requested to meet with the state staff to discuss programs for the quarter. Future plans call for an increased effort by CCUN on this campus and throughout the state to reinforce support of the United Nations in the face of the present critical international situation.

Both the Carolina chapter and the state staff expressed a need for public relations and administrative personnel to take active part in the stepped-up program. All interested persons are cordially invited to attend the meeting set for this afternoon, which will include on its agenda further planning for the mock meeting of the United Nations Security Council scheduled by the Carolina chapter for next Tuesday night.

The council plans to hold a meeting of its staffs each Tuesday during the quarter.

BROTHER MATCHES BROTHER

Newton, Ill., —(UP)— Two brothers here became fathers on the same day. A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kerner and a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Neil Kerner.

Ray Says Work To Start Soon On Bond Issue Improvements

By Charles Craven

Work will begin soon on permanent improvements provided for in the municipal bond issue which was recently approved by an overwhelming majority of Chapel Hill voters, City Manager G. W. Ray announced yesterday.

It is expected that the Board of Aldermen in a meeting to be held tomorrow night will determine when the street repairing and construction on the newly proposed sewage disposal plant will begin.

Ray pointed out that some of the streets could not be repaired until work on the sewage system is completed. This is because excavations will have to be made in a few of the streets.

The city manager declared that the construction on the sewage disposal plant and repair work on the present sewage system would last one year to 18 months.

Thirty-five thousand dollars of the $260,000 bond issue is allocated for tar-paving and asphalting of nine unpaved streets, and for the seal-coating of 20 streets.

The streets to be asphalted or tar-paved are as follows: West Cameron, Graham, Whitaker, Roberson, Nunn, Lindsay, McDade, Noble and Hooper lane.

The following streets will be seal-coated: Pritchard, Carr, Short, North, Henderson, Pine, North Boundary, Glenburnie, East Rosemary, Tenny Circle, Park Place, Senlac Road, McCauley, Ransom, University Drive, Ridge Lane, Wilson, Patterson Place, Vance and Glandon Drive.

Dedmond-Long Fight Will Be Featured In Balloting Today

Local politics hits its second climax of the spring within a week today as students cast their ballots in the runoff of the April general elections.

The four usual polling places will be open at Gerrard hall, Aycock dormitory, Ruffin and Alderman dorms. ID cards will be absolutely necessary to be able to vote.

Polls will be open at 9 o'clock this morning and close at 6 o'clock this evening, according to the elections laws.

Presidential Battle

The presidential battle between Jess Dedmond (CP-UP) and Charlie Long (SP) will be the feature attraction of the day, followed closely by two other important battles, one in publications and the other on the head cheerleader.

Charlie Gibson (SP-CP) faces Tom Wharton and Bob Smith (UP) in the race for the editorship of Tarnation, while Norm Sper (SP) butts heads with Charlie Stancell (UP) over the head cheerleader spot.

Also in publications, Bill Carmichael (UP) opposes Bill Buchan (SP) for the sole remaining seat on the Publications board as member-at-large.

Other runoffs are scheduled for Legislature and coed positions.

A. R. A. Will Hear Col. Wade Tonight

The Air Reserve association will meet tonight at 7:30 in 103 Bingham hall. Colonel Leigh Wade, public information officer of the 14th Air Force, will be the main speaker at the meeting.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss all phases of the pay-bill proposed for members of the reserve, prospects of summer training, and a potential all-weather squadron at the Raleigh-Durham airport, dependent upon the density of population of the reserve personnel in this area.

Also in line for discussion will be how to obtain the three highest grade reserve enlisted men commissions.

A panel discussion on the problems of the Air Reserve and the opportunities offered by it will be held following Colonel Wade's address. Immediately after the panel discussion, there will be an open question period.

The main meeting at Bingham hall will be preceded by a dinner meeting at the Carolina Inn in honor of the guest speakers and the executive committee of the local Air Reserve.

Delegates To Raleigh Must Attend Meeting

The following students, UNC delegates to the State Student Legislature to be held in Raleigh this weekend, are to attend a meeting of all delegates to be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Roland Parker lounge 1:

Charlie Long, Dortch Warriner, Al Lowenstein, James Southerland, Hurshell Keener, Bill Jernigan, John Giles, Bill Duncan, Tom Shelton, Herb Mitchell, Wayne Brenengen, Russell Baldwin, Dick Simpson, Herbert Alexander, Tom Eller, Jack Folger, Ed Davenport, Jake Wicker, John Zucker, Ernest House, Chuck Hauser, Bill Buchan, Roland Giduz, Gran Childress, Mary Ann Daniel, Annie Ben Beal, Emily Baker, Pat McNutt, Chet Zumbrunnen, Earl Fitzgerald, Sally Woodhull.

Pete Gerns, who is heading the delegation has called this meeting for the purpose of submitting resolutions to the committee on legislation and to inform the delegation of what has been planned for the coming weekend. Gerns announced that all representatives will be excused from both Friday and Saturday classes.

Ten U.N.C. Students Enlist In Marine Reserve

Ten University students have been accepted for enlistment in the U. S. Marine Corps reserve for assignment to the Platoon Leaders class, Captain Lawrence W. Smith, Jr., USMC, announced yesterday.

Those who will be sworn in for the summer officer training program held at Marine Corps schools, Quantico, Va., are George B. Shields, Newport News, Va.; Thomas G. Hurysz, Chapel Hill; James G. Murphy and Stuart W. Cramer, both of Charlotte; James S. Northrup, Concord; Morgan P. Morris, Tryon; Donald B. Scott, Washington; William W. Brickell, Halifax; Joseph E. Murphy, College Park, Ga., and James T. Tanner, of Rutherfordton.

Gordon W. Poindexter, corporal in the inactive Marine Corps reserve, has requested the Commandant of the Marine Corps to transfer him to Class III (d) for the program.

The Platoon Leaders class designed for college and university juniors, sophomores and freshmen permits students to train for six-week periods during the summer months, and on graduation from a selected educational institutional be commissioned in the U. S. Marine Corps reserve.

Vacancies in the University of North Carolina quota exist. Any eligible unmarried male students between 18 and 23 who are interested in procuring a Marine Reserve commission are requested to see Captain Smith at the Naval armory, or Walter W. Talley, Sergeant, UMCR, at the Alpha Tau Omega house.

Captain Smith announced yesterday that the beginning dates for the summer encampment at Quantico will be June 27 and July 25 for the freshmen and sophomores, and June 20 and July 11 for the junior enrollees.

The Marine officer pointed out that freshmen and sophomores for the program and who request active duty for training the period beginning July 25 will have sufficient time to complete the first session of UNC summer school which ends July 20. The junior enrollees will not have sufficient time to attend both summer school and the Marine Corps training period.

If Roosevelt Were Alive?

The American people and the citizens of the world were shocked three years ago yesterday at the sudden death of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, beloved president of the United States. Almost without notice, the man who had led the United States out of its worse depression and through most of World War II met death at Warm Springs, Georgia, his famed "little White House."

Today, three years later, the world can take little pride in the progress that has been made towards "peace." Continuous haggling, and polite back-stabbing have highlighted all attempts to bring the world as one body towards understanding. American diplomats, along with those of other nations, have fought a difficult battle to settle strategic problems involving the freedoms and rights of the little people. Time and again, they have met opposition and have been forced to either abandon their efforts or compromise them.

Many people have asked whether or not Roosevelt would have been able to avoid these conflicts if he had lived. His critics, and there were many, are quick to point out that the great leader made many mistakes during the last months he lived, especially at Yalta. They argue, still, over his precedent-breaking third and fourth term elections. Yet, it is hard to imagine just how well we as a nation would have progressed without his leadership from 1932 to 1945. Naturally, if FDR had not been here in 1940, and 44, someone else would have performed the jobs which he did. It is another question, however, if that other person would have performed the duties as well. For the record, there is the performance of the man who succeeded him as president.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt gave his life, without reservations, for the country he loved. With every ounce of strength he possessed, he lived, worked and fought for a peaceful world. It was our loss that he died several weeks before the great victory in Europe was realized. In his death, however, he gave to the American people and the people of the world a challenge to fight continuously for a real and lasting peace. So far we have made little progress towards that realization. On the contrary, we are evidently going straight in the other direction. Only through sincere prayers on the part of the people and sincere efforts on the part of our leaders can we avoid war at this late stage.

Franklin Roosevelt died three years ago for peace. Can't we as citizens of the world live and work for peace today? —B.B.

New Editor Takes Over

With this edition a new editor assumes the duty and the privilege of carrying on the tradition of the Daily Tar Heel.

It is a proud tradition. Since 1893 the Tar Heel, now the Daily Tar Heel, has served the students of this university.

The job of the new editor, like that of all the editors who have preceded him in the last 55 years, will be to serve the students of the University. To do this job he will be on duty not only at the Daily Tar Heel offices but at any place he may be and at any time.

No sweeping changes will be observed in this issue of the paper. Definite changes will be made, but they will be made gradually. The changes will not be made merely for the sake of change but for the sake of introducing something better.

Before elections the new editor made one promise—a promise to give you, the students, the best paper he could. Included in that promise were the following points:

1. Assembly of the best staff possible to give you the best paper possible.

2. Complete coverage of campus news, accurately reported and impartially presented.

3. Complete and interesting coverage of news in sports.

4. A strong editorial stand on all campus questions. The editorial page, in contrast to the news pages, will be as partial as the editor can make it. This partiality, however, will be directed not for or against individual persons and organizations as such, but for or against the individual actions—or inaction—of those persons and organizations.

5. The staff of the Daily Tar Heel shall always bear in mind that this paper belongs to every student at the University and that we, the staff, are here to serve you, the students.

This is the program which the new editor will carry out to the best of his ability.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.

Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ..... ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager ..... T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor .... Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors .. Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associate Editors ..... Bob Sain, Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady
Society Editor ..... Weddy Thorp
Photographer ... Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. ..... Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. ... C. B. Mendenhall
Subscription Mgrs. ... Jim King, Chan Pegram
Asst. Business Mgrs. .. Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. ... Randall Hudson, Don Snow

NEWS STAFF: Herb Nachman, Charlie Gibson, Sally Woodhull, John Stump, Gordon Huffines, Jack Brown, Stewart McKeel, Margaret Gaston, Dan Wallace, Charlie Craven, Mark Sumner, Emily Baker, Doris Weaver, Harriet Sipple, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.

SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Larry Fox, Bill Kellam, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher, Mel Horowitz, Faith Adams, Anne Wells.

BUSINESS STAFF: James Crews, Jackie Rogers, J. C. Brown, Joe Williams, Gladys Cottrell, Bill Peebles, Neal Howard, Jr., Vin Snell, Candy Jonas, Kathryn McLean, Jim Brown, Baxter Morris, Ed Warton, Leonard Dudley, Jean Williams, Charmian Griffin.

Offices are located on the second floor of Graham Memorial with night office at Colonial Press, Inc., Carrboro. Telephones: Editorial, F-3361; Business, F-3371; Night office, 3337. Mailing address, Box 1080.

The Brassy Taste

'The Binkle Plan' Was Excellent

By Bob Sain

It is a mite late to point out that I was much impressed by an experimental production called "The Binkle Plan" last Thursday and Friday nights.

Friend Foo Giduz reviewed the Playmaker laboratory shows and he, too, found "The Binkle Plan" to be pleasant. I would not attempt to add to his review except that I think two men—Frederick Johnson and David Samples—deserve a little more credit than Giduz gave them.

Johnson directed and Samples was Mr. Binkle, about whom the play was written. They once again showed themselves to be an impressive team; they had worked together earlier this year, with equally telling effect in the Oscar Wilde play, "The Importance of Being Earnest."

Samples, Covington, Lib Savage, James Reilly—were all excellently cast.

I bring this up again because its the first time I've ever gone back on the second night to see an experimental.

* * *

This might not be a bad time to clarify my position as reviewer for the DTH. I've heard that some in the DA department think I'm inclined to take myself a little too seriously in reviewing plays.

Be it known that I'm aware of my shortcomings as a judge of dramatic productions.

My only qualifications for the job consist of two eyes, two ears and the feat of having read a few plays, seen a few plays.

It might clear things up if I say that I'm just a member of the audience, the black mass in front of the stage. I say I like a show or I don't like a show. It means nothing more than that.

Someone must review the plays. They are not reviewed to help the actors or the directors or the department as a whole. The department, naturally, knows more about it than I do. The primary purpose of a review is to get names into the paper.

If I happen to appear to criticize rather than review, I apologize.

People shouldn't take things so seriously, anyway.

WHAT'S UP in Graham Memorial

Bob Coulter, who runs the GM darkroom, has got big plans for picture taking this spring. If you'd like to join his class in photo composition, sign up in the GM office this week. The possibilities for fun and information, he says, are unlimited.

He talks about photo hikes to explore the beauties of Chapel Hill that you don't see on your dashes to classes, and about picnics and all-day affairs that should be good. He'll tell you all about it if you'll stop by the GM office Monday through Thursday from 2 to 3 o'clock, or on Saturday morning.

"The Ministry of Information has told the people you have jumped out your window as a protest against Western imperialism. I represent the Ministry of Information."

This 'n That

Politics Are Contusing

By Bill Buchan

As of six o'clock tonight all the fuss will be over except the counting. All the various and sundry politicians can retire to their private cells and hibernate for another year. That is, all except those who were elected.

For an inexperienced observer, the political scene on the Carolina campus can be a bit horrifying. As time goes by, I suppose, the individual gets used to all the shouting and minor catcalls that are passed from one candidate to another. Charges, accusations, and endorsements are the order of the day with each and every candidate who is lucky enough to get a party backing swearing to correct all evils that are known on the campus.

Handbills, placards and various other forms of propaganda are plastered all over the campus in every conceivable place, only to be torn down within a half hour by the "opposition". The easiest way to make a fortune in two weeks that I know would be to get the business from all campus candidates for the printing of their handbills. You'd never know that we were on a "GI bill existance" from the cash forked over for publicity.

We have heard of one ingenious character who has salvaged one copy of each individual handbill distributed with the "what I am going to do" platforms. "I shall check," says this young man, "to see who lives up to what they promised. If they don't, I shall see that numerous other people know about it when the next election rolls around." (A word to the wise, et cetera, et cetera, et cetera.)

As the "Average Carolina Joe", keep a sharp eye out during the coming year for DTH headlines on the redistricting bill, the appellate power to the Student Council, improvements in conditions at Lenior Hall, and changes in cheer leading at Kenan Stadium. All the subjects have received wide attention from one side or another. Guys running for office have promised to change them. If they do, (and you agree that they should be changed,) remember them and support them next year. If they don't fulfill their campaign promises, remember that too, and work against them next year.

And a suggestion—to the orientation chairman, whoever he might be—why not give new students a complete lecture on Carolina politics, how they operate, and what the "Average Carolina Joe" is to expect from them. If such a program was carried out, there would undoubtedly be more response and interest in elections.

Zerolina Zerosel

Giduz Gives Poll-day Poop

By R. Foo Giduz

Gives the final poll-day for the year, and likewise the final unpredictable, unreliable Giduz elexion prediixions. . . . In true-to-form runoff election voting habits, only about a third of the student body, or about 2200, will probably turn out to ballot today. . . . And the small turnout, of course, will as always be helpful to the bloc-voting University Party. . . . Other than to sagely say that, C.C. will confine his sucker-bait soothsaying to what he hopes for, rather'n what he predicts. . . .

—And we again and hereby give our personal "kiss of death" backing to "Chubby Cholly" Long for the presidency. . . . Natcherly. Notice that this time "pro-Long" poop has not monopolized the election-day edit page. . . . Maybe that will help him! . . . And let it be further noted that Charlie Gibson will be happy to and has already "openly faced the voters with real issues" in his race for Tarnation editorship. . . . Tom Kerrnation in Sunday's DTH statement endorsing Smith-Wharton, wrongfully (only our opinion) accused the C.P.-S.P. endorsee of dodging issues.

Concerning Norm Cheer's (rhymes with Sper) allegedly running for the cheer leadership solely on a "card-stunt" platform, leave us have it known Norm has already started work on a number of new innovations in addition to this one all-important "card stunt" promotion . . . viz. expanded rally plans, some secret cheering section "gadgets" (to be released soon), and year-round cheering organization. . . . What we need is new blood! . . . You should excusing our humble opinions.

—Latest "word" to women from the Dean's office, which we recently see posted around in the coedorms, carries peculiar implications.—Sez: "It is strongly advised that . . . women students should use only those walks that are well-lighted and much used. It is also advised that women students should avoid walking alone on campus. Whenever possible they should walk in groups of two or more.—Katherine Kennedy Carmichael. . . . All most admirable admonitions, too, men. . . .

A huzzah for the anti-alone-walking advice. . . . But leave us face it: How many "well-lighted" paths are also "much used?"

Write Away

Hodgson For Wharton, Smith

Editor:

I wish to concur with Mr. Tom Kerr's endorsement of Tom Wharton and Bob Smith for the co-editorship of Tarnation magazine. Although I respect their opponent's ability, I think his talents do not lay in the field of college humor, and that he would be of much more use on the staff of the new forthcoming literary magazine.

Tookie Hodgson

Gibson Replies

Editor:

Now is the time for all blasphemed men to come to the aid of their self-respect. Much as I dislike replying to mud-throwing, I request that voters think about the editorial qualifications of the Tarnation candidates and then go to the polls.

The voters might ask a couple prominent journalists two questions. Tookie Hodgson, sir, if I am not a qualified candidate, why did you propose co-editorship with me two or three months ago when you supposed the combination magazine a sure bet to win the referendum? Tom Kerr, if you have repeatedly stated that the board of editors, both fine fellows, are a very talented artist and a good writer but do not yet know what the score is as far as editorial responsibilities go, what reason can you have for supporting them in print?

Charlie Gibson

Experience

Editor:

In regard to the run off election for Head Cheerleader between Norman Sper and Charlie Stancell there seems to be too much emphasis placed on card display tricks and not enough emphasis on the cheering squad itself.

In the past the University club and the Cheerio club, when active, and the Monogram club always managed such activities and the head cheerleader was consulted about the arrangement of the program to be followed. Mr. Stancell has personally informed me that he will, if elected, perform all types of stunts that will improve the spirit of the cheering section.

It seems to me that when a head cheerleader is elected he should have had previous experience—is not experience the best teacher!

I've been reading Sper (pronounced as cheer) for many weeks, are we selecting a head cheerleader on rhyme or ability? if ability—I'll stand with "Stancell".

Jack Girard

Campus Forum

Poll Gives Dedmond Lead

By Pete Gerns

Today, Jess Dedmond and Charlie Long oppose each other in the run-off for student government's biggest plum: Gran Childress and Bob Kirby vie for the secretary-treasurership; and Norm Sper and Charles Stancell seek the post of cheerleader.

The Forum polled one hundred students at both the Y court and Lenoir hall with "How will you vote in tomorrow's run-off election:? Here are the results:

Office and Contender	YMCA	Lenoir	April 12 Average	April 8 Average	Change
President of the Student Body
Dedmond (CP-UP)	68	62	65	68	—3
Long (Ind)	28	36	32	30	2
No Opinion	4	2	3	2
Secretary-Treasurer
Childress (SP)	34	58	46	41
Kirby (UP)	38	24	31	37	—6
No Opinion	28	18	23	22
Cheerleader
Sper (SP)	54	60	57	58	—1
Stancell (UP)	42	36	39	38	1
No Opinion	4	4	4	4

The following reasons were given by students quoted below when asked: "Why are you voting for . . .?"

JESS DEDMOND. "I think he'll make a better president."—Jim Ragland.

"Jess will make a good president because he has more leadership."—Gene Allen.

CHARLES LONG. "He's the type of person who has the courage to voice his own convictions and carry them out."—John Williams.

"I think he knows more about student government; he is qualified and has initiative to give everyone a fair deal."—Al Taylor.

GRAN CHILDRESS. "I vote for him because I think that he is the best qualified and has the best platform."—Henry Boone.

"I believe that Childress is more capable and the best man for this particular job."—Thomas Watson.

BOB KIRBY. "I think he's more qualified to handle the office of secretary-treasurer; party affiliation in the race for this post is immaterial."—Charlie Crawley.

"I know from past experience, especially from having worked with him in class administration, that Kirby is the better man."—Dan Davis.

NORM SPER. "I think he's the best man; he has got some original ideas and we need some changes here."—James Curry.

"I like Sper's platform because he is introducing the card section system."—Ben Parker.

CHARLES STANCELL. He is the better qualified man, knows more about it. He is the backbone of the cheering squad."—Fred Daniels.

"I think he has better insight into the needs of a cheering section by virtue of his experience and proven ability."—Herb Hendricks.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Truman Confident He Will Be Nominated

By Drew Pearson

Washington — President Truman remains cooly confident that he will head the Democratic ticket this year, despite both Southern-Northern opposition.

He made this quite clear during a chat with young Representative George Smathers of Florida the other day, when Smathers, accompanied by Leonce Legendre, assistant adjutant of the American Legion, invited him to address the Legion national convention next October in Miami. Without batting an eye, Truman replied:

"I'd certainly like to be there, but I'm going to be in a reasonably hot political campaign at that time."

Because of this, he added, some people might think he was using the Legion convention as a political platform. However, when Smathers and Legendre suggested he could make a strictly non-political speech, preferably on preparedness, the President promised to think it over.

In gay mood, he took a Legion service cap from his desk drawer and donned it at a jaunty angle. Pointing to the insignia, "Independence, Mo., Legion Post 21," he remarked:

"That's my real post—number 21—though I also belong to Post 340 in Kansas City. I'd prefer to have Number 21 on my convention certificate, if that can be arranged."

Note—The President also showed his guests some of the recent gadgets he has received through the mails, including a bow tie that lights up with the slogan, "Elect Harry Truman."

Franklin D. Roosevelt's grave continues to attract people from all over the world. It also continues to attract the interest of the governments of the world.

Just recently, the Chinese Government founded a National Chinese Library, and has written to the Roosevelt Memorial Foundation asking for some of FDR's personal possessions, also some radio recordings of his voice, especially his speech, "Rendezvous With Destiny," and every type of book written about Roosevelt.

Another interesting request came from Liberia recently—permission to dedicate one wing of a new Liberian hospital to FDR.

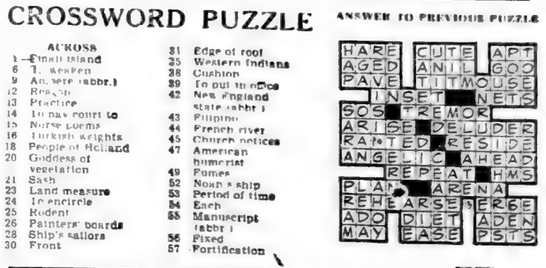
Col. Alexander Jelisarov, Russian delegate on the Allied Control Council of Berlin, forgot one important fact when he boasted that the Russians alone liberated Europe and that if the British were worried about Berlin, "Why didn't they get there first?"

He forgot that, three years ago today, American troops were in Potsdam, the suburbs of Berlin. Suddenly, the day after President Roosevelt's death, they were ordered out, back to the River Elbe.

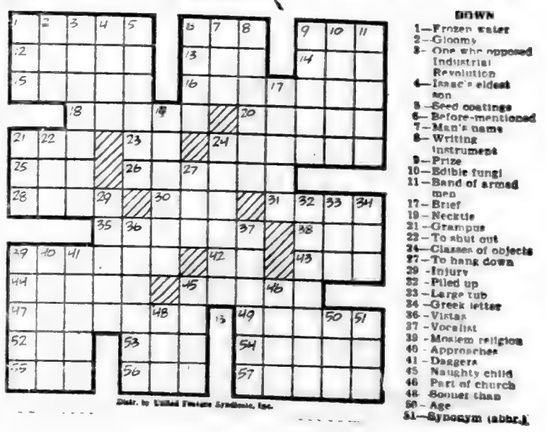
The order came after vigorous almost savage protests by the Russians claiming that the Red Army, not the American Army was to occupy Berlin. This commitment apparently had been made at Yalta.

If American troops had remained in Berlin, the present dynamite-laden situation in that city might have been different.

However, though we can't turn back the clock, it is important to recall that at that time the USA was leaning over backward to cooperate with the Russians—not slapping them down as claimed by the boys around Henry Wallace.



Also, it's important to note that Stalin had laid his political plans very carefully for the future. He was supposed to take Berlin by a certain date. Instead, his offensive delayed to take Vienna—which he also wanted. Then when the American Army, pushing ahead with the sole motive of winning the war in a hurry, got to the edge of Berlin, Stalin sent one of the most savage notes in history to FDR.



Roosevelt received it the day before he died. It was answered for him later.

(See PEARSON, page 4)

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

ACROSS

1—Small island
6—To weaken
9—Answer (abbr.)
12—Reason
13—Practice
14—To pay court to
15—Nurse Lorris
16—Turkish weights
18—People of Holland
20—Goddess of vegetation
21—Sash
23—Land measure
24—To encircle
25—Rodent
26—Painters' boards
28—Ship's sailors
30—Front
31—Edge of roof
35—Western Indians
36—Cushion
39—To put in office
42—New England state (abbr.)
43—Filipino
44—French river
45—Church notices
47—American humorist
49—Fumes
52—Noah's ship
53—Period of time
54—Each
55—Manuscript (abbr.)
56—Fixed
57—Fortification

DOWN

1—Frozen water
2—Gloams
3—One who opposed Industrial Revolution
4—Isaac's eldest son
5—Seed coatings
6—Before-mentioned
7—Man's name
8—Writing instrument
9—Prize
10—Edible fungi
11—Band of armed men
17—Brief
19—Necktie
21—Grampus
22—To abut out
24—Classes of objects
27—To hang down
29—Injury
32—Piled up
33—Large tub
34—Greek letter
36—Vistas
37—Vocalist
38—Moslem religion
40—Approaches
41—Daggers
45—Naughty child
46—Part of church
48—Sooner than
50—Age
51—Synonym (abbr.)

Tar Heels Battle Wake Forest on Emerson Today in Big Four Opener

Netters Open Loop Play, Facing State in Raleigh This Afternoon

Carolina's undefeated tennis team will be seeking their tenth win of the current campaign this afternoon when the local netters invade the dusty domains of State college to face the Wolfpack at 3 o'clock.

The match will be the Tar Heels' first conference test of the season and will give loop tennis enthusiasts a chance to see if the Carolina lads have the needed strength to dethrone the current champions of the circuit, William and Mary.

What the State entry will have to throw against the might of Coach John Kenfield is not known as the home team for the afternoon is of untried quality.

Whatever the situation, the Tar Heels will be keyed to the top of their game in case they are pushed to the limit.

Kenfield's Crew After Ninth in a Row; Little Known of Untried Wolfpack Team

Good Practice

The heavy invasion of Northern temas during the past weeks has given the locals a chance to play a lot of competition in a short length of time. All of which play has aided the Blue and White netters in climbing to near the pinnacle of perfection in the shortest period of time.

Veteran Vic Seixas, unshaken by public outburst last week will be in his usual No. 1 spot to display his usual combination of top flight tennis and sportsmanship. Playing right behind Seixas will be Clark Taylor, undefeated in competition this season and like the team itself, looking for his tenth straight win.

Another undefeated performer will be at the No. 3 position for the Carolinians in the person of Ray Morris. Morris' game has progressed steadily since the beginning of the season and it is doubted that he will taste initial defeat today.

Rice in Fourth Spot

At No. 4 will be another veteran performer, hard-stroking Charlie Rice, while the No. 5 slot will be filled by up-and-coming Heath Alexander. Completing the singles lineup for the Tar Heels will probably be Stan Gruner who though a late starter this season, is fast rounding into shape.

The doubles should find Seixas and Taylor performing first to be followed by Morris and Rice with Gruner and Duke Wilder or Don Skakle and Alexander rounding out the Tar Heel program.

Trackmen Seeking Initial Win Against Cavaliers Tomorrow

Carolina track enthusiasts will be treated to another afternoon of top notch cinder competition tomorrow when Carolina's once-beaten thinclads meet the University of Virginia huffers and puffers on Fetzer field.

The Tar Heels will be seeking their first victory of the current season while the Cavaliers, 77-50 victors over VMI last Saturday, will be out to make two in a row against Southern conference competition.

Carolina Favored

The home forces will probably be classed as slight favorites tomorrow although the meet could go either way. Heading the 35-man Wahoo squad will be ace sprinter Walt Galliford, who took the 100 and 220 yard dashes against VMI with the excellent times of 9.7 and 21.3 seconds, respectively.

The numerous Virginia traveling squad is the largest ever to be brought to Chapel Hill by the Old Dominionmen in the lengthy Carolina-Virginia rivalry.

Although they took only seven of 14 first places against the Cadets, the Cavaliers' depth proved to be the difference last weekend as they dominated the runner-up spots almost completely.

Strong Sprinters

In the person of Joe Kuppenberge the locals will run up against another speedy sprinter for this Charlottesville flash finished right behind Galliford in both the aforementioned events to cop the runner-up honors.

Dick Taylor and Bob Morrow will run into some rough competition in the high and low hurdle events. Don Mohler of the Wahoos found the highs and lows easy obstacles to clear against the Bellhops for he took the blue ribbon honors in both events. He toured the lanes in 15.1 and 25.2 seconds, respectively.

Troxell of Virginia won the mile in the rather slow time of 4:48.5. Jimmy Miller won that event against Tech in the good time of 4:26.8 and should have little trouble in repeating his excellent winning performance.

(See BASEBALL, page 4)

Robinson Gets Starting Nod for Locals; Hearnmen Seeking Fourth Conference Win

By Bob Goldwater

Spurred on by the triple incentive of playing at home for the first time this season, the desire to open their Big Four slate successfully, and the hopes of maintaining their unbeaten Southern conference showing, Carolina's baseballers will play hosts to the Demon Deacons of Wake Forest this afternoon in a 4 o'clock tiff on Emerson field.

Easy victors in three straight loop contests on a tour of South Carolina last week, the Tar Heels will be up against slightly tougher competition when they square off against the Deacs for their Big Four inaugural. With six of last year's starters back to lead the way, the Foresters are acknowledged to have one of the top clubs in both the fast four-team race and the complete SC picture.

Wake Forest has a 3-1 circuit mark, having downed South Carolina twice over the past weekend and having split a pair of games with N. C. State earlier this season.

Keep to Schedule

Following a mound schedule started last week on the Palmetto trip, Coach Bunn Hearn will call on righthander Frank Robinson to handle the mound chores this afternoon. In his last outing, the Cana Cannonball mastered South Carolina in a 15-6 slugfest. His record also includes a 5-2 win over Michigan State.

With a number of mound aces from which to choose, Wake Forest mentor Frank Novesel is expected to counter with either southpaw Moe Bauer or rightie Dale Blackwell, a freshman, was the loser to State last week, by a 5-3 count, in the Deacons' lone Big Four affair to date. Harry Nicholas, the Foresters' prize rookie, is another possible slab starter.

Lineup Depends

The rest of the Carolina starting lineup behind Robinson depends on the physical condition of two players and the pitching selection of the Wake Forest coach. Co-Captain Jim Hayworth and catcher Andy Tranavitch both suffered minor injuries in the Furman clash Saturday and may miss today's activities.

Should neither be ready to see action, the only change in the probable lineup will be necessitated by who Novesel decides to use on the mound. And figuring on Bauer as being the opening hurler, Coach Hearn is expected to use Whitey Black, Jim Kelly and Frank Jones in the outfield, Will Hobbs, Dallas Branch, Rip Ryan and Jim Hamilton around the inner line of defense, and Emmett Cheek behind the plate.

SC Standings

	W	L	R	OR
Wash. & Lee	5	0	43	16
North Carolina	3	0	37	9
VPI	1	0	5	3
Richmond	1	0	9	8
Wake Forest	3	1	25	12
Duke	3	2	36	39
N. C. State	2	2	24	23
Davidson	2	5	26	44
Furman	1	3	16	35
So. Carolina	1	4	29	47
Clemson	1	5	18	31
Maryland	0	0	0	0
Citadel	0	0	0	0
W & M	0	0	0	0
VMI	0	0	0	0
Geo. Washington	0	1	8	9

Ward is Mastered But All the Wiser

Golfer Harvie Ward returned from the Masters' golf tournament in Augusta a wiser and better golfer.

The Tar Heel linksman had spent four days hitting the ball around the famed Augusta National course with America's best. He carded a 78 the first day, duplicated this score the second, zoomed to 81 the third, and came back to finish with a 79 for a 317 for 72 holes.

This score placed Ward pretty far down the list of performers, but the card was good enough to tie for fifth place among the nine amateurs in the competition.

According to Ward, he had never hit the ball better, but it was the tricky rolling greens of Augusta layout that ran the Tar Heel's tally upward. Together with three fellow North Carolinians, Johnny Palmer, Skip Alexander and Dick Chapman Ward found the putting a wee bit more difficult than it is on most courses, and when the field is as strong as it is in the Masters', the putting is usually the payoff.

Top honors in the tournament went to Claude Harmon, who finished nine strokes under par with 279 to outdistance his nearest rival by five swings

MONOGRAM MEETING

There will be an important meeting of the Monogram Club tonight at 7:30 in 304 Woollen.

President Bill Pritchard announced that plans will be made for the spring party next weekend. All members that plan on attending this affair are asked to be on hand for tonight's meeting.

SHOWN ABOVE picking a fast one out of ball bag is today's Tar Heel starting pitcher, Frank Robinson of Cana. Robinson is unbeaten in two starts this season, having overpowerd Michigan State and South Carolina.

Bosox Encounter Reds Today In Training Contest at Durham

Baseball fans in this section will be able to witness a big league exhibition game at Durham Athletic park this afternoon when the Boston Red Sox of the American League meet the Cincinnati Reds of the senior circuit in a tilt slated to get under way at two o'clock.

The Red Sox will be gunning for revenge over the Reds since the Ciney entry topped Manager Joe McCarthy's crew at Charlotte yesterday afternoon, 9-7. Although Herman Wehmeier gave up 12 Red Hose hits, Manager Johnny Neun's Cincinnati boys bunched nine bingles in an eight-run-fifth inning spree to top a 6-0 Boston lead. Bob McCall and Charlie Stobbs were on the mound for Boston while Birdie Tabbetts was their battery mate.

After the game at Durham, the two teams will move on to Roanoke,Va., for an exhibition clash Wednesday afternoon.

The Red Sox will be playing without key man Ted Williams, leading batter in the junior circuit last year with a .343 mark, who is taking a rest at Boston until the team arrives there. Nevertheless, such outstanding stars as Johnny Pesky, Red Sox third sacker, who played with the Carolina Pre-Flight club in 1943, Bobby Doerr, Vern Stephens, Stan Spence, and Dom DiMaggio will be present.

For the Cincinnati club, Johnny Vander Meer, pitcher who broke into organized ball with the Durham Bulls in 1936, and Grady Hatton, third sacker of Greensboro ORD fame, will be two of the top performers accompanying the Reds to Durham today.

The Red Sox made their headquarters at the Washington Duke Hotel in Durham last night while the Redlegs were quartered here in Chapel Hill at the Carolina Inn.

Regional Swim Title Taken by Greenbaum

1948 Carolina swimming co-captain Jesse Greenbaum returned Carolina swimming to the national tank limelight last Saturday when he won the 100-yard freestyle event in the South Atlantic AAU swimming championships held in Annapolis.

The Tar Heel ace won the indoor crown in the time of 54.5 seconds. He had bettered this mark during the past season while performing for Dick Jamerson's Blue Dolphins. the 1948 Southern conference champs.

Bill Despres of N. C. State won the 300-yard National Junior individual medley title with a time of 3:41.8.

Coed Mural Softball Entries Due Today

The women's athletic department announced yesterday that all girls who wish to enter intramural softball must sign up in the gym not later than 5 o'clock this afternoon. All girls who have an "A" medical rating are eligible.

Nine players must be present to play the game. Otherwise the team with less than nine present will forfeit. It is suggested that all teams have from ten to 15 players available before registering.

All teams must sign up for the hours during which they wish to practice. Equipment will be furnished by the locker room. Practice games will be played on Kenan stadium.

Ted Haigler Pitches No-Hitter In Mural SoftballTournament

The pitcher finally turned the tables on the batter in the intramural softball play yesterday afternoon when Ted Haigler, on the Phi Gam No. 2 club, twirled a neat five inning no-hitter over Kappa Sigma No. 1. It had to be called when his teammates pounded their opponents for 13 runs in the sixth to win 20-0.

Haigler, who also notched two no-hitters in 1945, set seven men down on strike-outs, while issuing only two free tickets.

One other tight contest featured the opening day of the second week of play. Phi Delt No. 3 pushed across one run in the seventh to edge Kap Psi, 4-3.

Heavy hitting laurels for the day went to ATO No. 1 who lambasted PiKA No. 1 for 16 tallys in the top of the third to end the game 21-0.

It looked like all the Phi Gams had on their hitting clothes, for the No. 3 outfit, not to be outdone by the No. 2 team, also went on a spree to rack up 13 runs in the fifth to rout Pi Kap Phi, 21-5.

There will be a meeting of all people who are interested in forming an archery group for organized practice and instruction tonight in room 302 Woollen Gymnasium at 7:30.

Sig Chi No. 2 rallied for seven runs in the sixth to come from behind and defeat Phi Kap No. 2 in a close see-saw struggle, 16-15.

Delt Sig No. 1 swung for distance hitting in their game with Chi Phi No. 1 and really smacked the ball around for a 10-2 victory. Led by Bob Callahan, who blasted out five hits, the Commerce boys collected a total of 31 hits, including one home run and 11 doubles.

Mural Results

15	Mud Dobbers	Alexander 2	7
28	Old East	Nash	13
17	Zeta 1	KA 1	5
20	Phi Gam 2	Kap Sig 1	0
13	Lamb Chi 1	Phi Gam 1	1
22	TEP	Delt Sig 2	2
12	Pi Lamb 2	Phi Delt Chi	4
9	DKE 2	TEP 2	3
4	Phi Delt	Kap Psi	3
12	Sig Nu 2	Lamb Chi 2	6
21	Phi Gam 3	Pi Kap Phi	5
21	Zeta 2	KA 2	5
7	Phi Kap 1	Sig Chi 1	2
16	Sig Chi 2	Phi Kap 2	15
10	Delt Sig 1	Chi Phi 1	2
21	ATO 1	PiKA 1	0
14	Kap Sig 2	Chi Psi 1	3

Lewis I forfeit over Geology Dept.

Lloyd Electric Co.
F-3862 CARRBORO
Sales & Service
For
• L&H ELECTRIC STOVES
• JUD-WHITEHEAD & RED CROWN HOT WATER HEATERS
We specialize in wiring new construction and in general repair.

Planning Any
Week-Ends at the Beach
in April & May?
We have 16 apartments and a 10 room house for house parties at Wrightsville up until June 1st.
For Rates-Reservations
Write
ALLEN BARBEE
Box 243
Spring Hope, N. C.

Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra
DIMITRI MITROPOULAS, Conductor
PERCY GRAINGER, Pianist
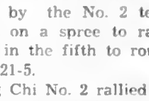
PAGE AUDITORIUM, DUKE UNIVERSITY
Thursday, April 15th, at 8:15 P.M.
Tickets—$2.50, $3.00, $3.50, and $4.00 (inc. tax)
Mr. Grainger will play the Grieg Concerto
On Sale: Room 201 Men's Union
For Reservations
Phone Durham 112 Ext. 270; or Write
J. Foster Barnes, Duke University, Durham, N. C.

EXHIBITION
WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY
APRIL 14th AND 15th
At Varsity Store
GENTLEMEN'S APPAREL FOR SPRING AND SUMMER USAGE HAS BEEN EXECUTED IN THE FAMOUS FINCHLEY MANNER WITH FULL REGARD ACCORDED DEPENDABILITY AND TASTEFUL, EXCLUSIVE STYLING.
GENTLEMEN'S SUITS
TOPCOATS • TUXEDOS • SPORTSWEAR
HATS • HABERDASHERY • SHOES
Finchley
FIFTH AVE., AT 46th ST., NEW YORK

Bull's Head Bookshop
Missouri Waltz
Browse — Rent — Buy



DON'T BE A WALLFLOWER BUT BE ASSURED THAT YOU KNOW HOW TO DANCE CORRECTLY. SMILE IN AMAZEMENT AFTER YOUR FIRST DANCE LESSON WITH WHERRY.
The secret of learning to dance lies with an expert teacher whose interest is in your progress. Why? Because your progress and satisfaction is the WHERRY Studio's best advertising. WHERRY students learn through expert analysis and demonstration, concentrated effort and practical experience.
Dancing is walking to music. Learn the art of mastering an exact lead for executing beautiful steps and foot patterns on the dance floor. The co-ordination of lead and dance steps can not be over emphasized. Women should be familiar with all dance steps, know how to relax with proper amount of resistance and understand delayed action of foot movement to follow a gentleman's lead. She must have proper body balance and back control.
Remember that you can not fool your dance partner. You either know how to dance or you don't. You can be assured that if you have never had formal ballroom dance training that you do not know how. Ballroom dancing is an art—the most fascinating one you can imagine. Only when you realize your mistakes can you correct them. No man or woman has a right to either ask a person to a dance or to accept an invitation unless you've had dance training.
Girls interested in modeling and keeping beautiful figures can not afford to miss instruction at the WHERRY studio.
Learn charm with your dancing and be a social success. Turn dull evenings at home to exciting dates at parties.
Records kept of your progress.
Enroll today and be confident and glamorous for that next dance.
WHERRY STUDIO
"If You Can Walk, You Can Dance"
FOX TROT JITTER BUG WALTZ
TANGO SAMBA RUMBA
6 Lessons $15 Couples—6 Lessons $25
Small Groups — Per Person — 10 Lessons $15
219 E. FRANKLIN ST. FOR APPOINTMENTS PHONE 9291

55 Years Experience
3 PHARMACISTS
EUBANKS DRUG CO.
WE DELIVER
(Without charge)

FURNITURE . . .

• Upholstered • Refinished
• Repaired • Made to Order
Charles Valentine's Cabinet Shop
PHONE 9367 — PITTSBORO RD.

ATLANTIC
Bock and Regular Beer
3.75
Delivered Ice Cold
to home at no extra cost
CALL
3536
"You save by the case with us."
K & M
BEER DELIVERY SERVICE
119½ Columbia Street
Call 3536

Mrs. Arnold Nash To Address Dames

Mrs. Arnold Nash, wife of the professor of religion, will speak on "Marriage and the Community" at the Carolina Dames club meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in Roland Parker lounge of Graham Memorial.

The Carolina Dames have been invited by the Duke Dames to a fashion show staged by Baldwin's department store of Durham at 8 o'clock Friday night in the Union ballroom on West campus, Duke. Mrs. Ruth Bradley and Mrs. Walt Pupa of the Carolina Dames will be among the models.

All members of the club are especially urged to attend the meeting for officers will be elected tonight for next year. All students wives are invited to attend the meeting and the fashion show.

STASSEN PREDICTS

Washington, April 12 —(UP)— Harold Stassen predicts that he will get at least 300 votes for the Republican Presidential nomination on the first convention ballot.

KANTWET PADS
For The
BASSINET ,CRIB
PLAYPEN, STROLLER
And
HIGH CHAIR
BABY SHOP

TWO BLOCKS WEST OF CITY HALL
You'll Find A Solution To All Laundry Problems
HELPY-SELFY
AUTOMATIC LAUNDRY
Bendix Machines
W. Rosemary St.

Ed Joyner Takes Over Editorship

Ed Joyner, Jr., rising senior from Wilson, took over the editorship of the Daily Tar Heel yesterday a week in advance of the official inauguration date for all campus officers next Tuesday.

Early installation of the new editor resulted from the departure of former editor Barron Mills last Wednesday to become editor of the Alamance News in Graham. In the interim between editors the campus daily was edited by Bill Buchan and Bob Sain of the editorial staff.

Joyner, endorsed by the DTH staff and supported by all three campus parties, won the editorship in last Tuesday's elections over Art Melton, independent candidate.

In making staff appointments for the coming year Joyner named Chuck Hauser, former news editor, to the position of managing editor. T. E. Holden, who has served as business manager since the graduation of Howard Bailey in March, will hold that job permanently.

Billy Carmichael, III, and Bob Goldwater will continue as sports editors until the end of the spring quarter, while Weddy Thorp will serve as society editor. All appointments were made subject to approval of the Publications board, Joyner pointed out.

"I do not intend to make any drastic changes immediately either in the form or content of the paper," Joyner said. "Definite changes will be made but they will be introduced gradually and will be directed toward the general betterment of the paper."

CHUCK HAUSER

BARRON MILLS, former Daily Tar Heel editor, is now working as editor of the Alamance News, with offices in Graham.

PLASTIC CASKETS

Houston, Tex., —(UP)—Plastics derived from petroleum products are being used in the manufacture of caskets in Houston.

Dan E. Bloxson, president of the Southwestern Plastics Co., said his company has manufactured about 100 plastic caskets since September, 1946.

The plastic going into the caskets is not affected by fresh or salt water, ground chemicals or decay, Bloxson said.

RUSSIA HAS KNOWHOW

Washington, April 12 —(UP)— Defense Secretary Forrestal says Russia has the knowhow but not the industrial means to make the atom bomb. Forrestal says the odds favor peace, but that a Draft and Universal Military Training would keep the odds that way.

CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE 6B

MAN'S ENGLISH BICYCLE, 3 SPEED gears $45. Phone 7551. (1-123-1)

ALMOST NEW INNER SPRING MATtress for double bed. Forced to move and must sell. Call 6726 evenings. (1-134-1)

TRAVELITE ALUMIMIN HOUSE trailer 27 ft., sleeps four, stainless steel sink. Forest Hills. Phone 3196. (ch 1x1)

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed and being completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogerson Drive.Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. Telephone F-2906. (1-ch1x2-1)

ATTRACTIVE TWO BEDROOM house, 31 Oakwood Drive, Chapel Hill. Excellent location, spacious grounds, Owner leaving town. Phone F3216, Hector MacLean. (1-126-1)

27 FT. HOUSE TRAILER, SLEEPS four. 82 Pittsboro Road Trailer Court. Inquire between 5 and 6 p.m. (1-115-1)

FOR SALE AUTOMOTIVE 6BB

'39 PLYMOUTH FOUR DOOR SEDAN. Radio, heater and four good tires. Motor in excellent condition. T. H. Yates, Phone F-3951. (ch 1x1)

BEST LOOKING, BEST RUNNING Jeep on campus—new spare and other extras. Dial 9611 or see at 306 McCauley Street after 12 noon. (1-131-1)

1937 FORD TUDOR, EXCELLENT condition, extra clean, new seat covers. New Engine, generator, carburetor, tie rod ends, drag link, brake cables and brake lining, good tires, good paint, sealed beam headlights. Economical transportation. Will sacrifice. Thomas M. Bradford, Lot 66, University Trailer Ct., Pittsboro Rd. (1-128-1)

1946 DODGE "TOWN SEDAN" CUStom. Excellent condition. Radio, heater, tailor made seat covers. Inquire at University Trailer Ct. No. 60 after 1:00. (1-130-1)

LOST 12

KEY CHAIN CONTAINING FIVE OR six keys and miniature license No. 264-224. Reward if returned to Hill Bakery. (ch 1x1)

AT HOGAN'S LAKE FRIDAY AFTERnoon one yellow gold Wittnauer wrist watch. Has a sweep second hand, gold facing. Please return c|o DTH and receive reward. (1-132-1)

RIDERS WANTED 18A

RIDERS WANTED FROM DURHAM. Leave at 8:30 A.M. every morning. Return at 1:00 P.M. every day except Monday and Tuesday. Call Durham L-5752. (1-121-1)

SERVICES OFFERED 19

ALL MAKES OF LAWN MOWERS repaired, machine sharpened. Axes, hatchets, scythes also sharpened. Tripps Lawn Mower Repair Shop or see John Tripp, Carrboro Shoe Shop. (ch 1x1)

COMPLETE MODERN RADIO APpliance service shop now open and ready to serve you. We call for, deliver. Johnson-Strowd-Ward Furniture, 422 W. Franklin. Telephone F-3491. (ch 1x1)

24 HOUR RADIO REPAIRS. OGBURN Furniture Co., Phone 5841. (ch 1x1)

WANTED 24

IF YOU HAVE A CLEAN USED CAR for sale see us first. Strowd Motor Co., Your Ford Dealer, Phone 5161. (ch 1x1)

WANTED TO RENT 24B

SOLD OUT—STUDENT AND WIFE forced to vacate room because house has been sold. Need room from May 1st until June graduation. Call 6726 evenings. (1-133-1)

$50.00 REWARD FOR FURNISHED two or three room apartment, veteran student and wife. Must be within walking distance of campus. Urgently needed. Write Box 1101, Chapel Hill. (1-125-1)

APARTMENT FOR TWO YEARS FOR couple. Write 821 Second St., Durham. Phone X-5012. (1-113-1)

PRESCRIPTIONS
Filled Promptly
ACCURACY AND DEPENDABILITY
—at—
SUTTON'S DRUG STORE

You'll brag about
SOMETHING BRAND NEW IN SLACKS
BRAGGS
FLIP THE HORIZONTAL ZIPPER
PAT PENDING
IT'S ADJUSTABLE!
Solid Comfort! Just make a bee-line for BRAGGS—the new-style slacks you let in and out at the waist with a flip of a horizontal zipper!
Good Looks—Plus! BRAGGS can't be beat for smart styling. They fit you smoothly, neatly—with no bulge, no gap, no bunching. Yes, and they come in the very finest fabrics—in all the popular shades.
Top-Notch Tailoring! Can't beat 'em for quality, either. "Techni-Tailored" by Gordon, BRAGGS boast full-cut pleats, welt seams, dropped belt-loops and custom-stitch pockets. Best of all, BRAGGS fit every smart man in town with pleated style in sizes from 29 to 38 inclusive, plain in sizes 40, 42, 44.
EXCLUSIVE WITH
Carolina Sport Shop

At the Head of the Class
SEAM-FREE NYLONS
WITH PATENTED HEEL
Seam-free nylons identified by the Seal of the DANCING TWINS are leagues ahead in loveliness and fit. Special patented heel* assures perfect fit at ankle, heel and instep; the Gussetoe spells comfort. And there are no twisting seams! Look for them under leading brand names at your favorite college shop or store.
DANCING TWINS
*U. S. Pat. No. 2388649

RECORDS
For the FIRST TIME in Chapel Hill—
RCA's complete catalog of classical and popular records.
Ab's Intimate Bookshop

-Pearson-

(continued from page 3)

More than one lobbyist is eagerly watching the row between California Congressmen and California State officials over the question of how one phase of the oil lobby is going to be paid.

When California Congressmen heard that California taxpayers were to be nicked $25,000 to pay for a high-powered Washington publicity agent, plus the expenses of State Attorney General Fred Hauser, they held a protest meeting. Congressmen Dick Welch of San Francisco and John Phillips of Banning were appointed a committee to urge Governor Warren to veto the $25,000.

They phoned him immediately. Warren was ill. Three times since they have tried. Up to this writing, no luck.

Meanwhile, Everett Matton, Deputy Attorney General of California, called on Welch in high dither, explained that the money had already been spent for the expenses of California's legal staff to come to Washington. Also $500 a week was promised to Eugene Kelly, Washington ex-newsman, for high-powered tidelands oil publicity.

"The money might be necessary," growled Welch, "but which is most important—the money or votes? You better forget about the money."

He urged that news of the lobbying fund had already caused a lot of damage.

Mattoon tried to belittle the statement of Senator John Evan, Los Angeles Republican, that the fund would be used to pay luncheon checks for mid-Western Congressmen in Washington.

"Any explanation you might have," snapped Welch, "couldn't be made on the floor of the House."

Worried, Mattoon flew back to Sacramento to try to neutralize the California delegation's attempted phone calls to Governor Warren.

One of the hottest Senate feuds is between two New England Republicans—Tobey of New Hampshire and Brewster of Maine. On the surface their banter may seem pleasant, but there is real bitterness beneath. They disagree on just about everything.

Tobey was presiding over the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee last week, when Brewster a member of the committee, persisted in challenging committee procedure.

"The Senator is just making a stump speech," observed the sharp-tongued Tobey. "The Senator is good at that."

"But not the equal of the Senator from New Hampshire," was Brewster's acid reply.

"I'll accept that," shot back Tobey without even batting an eye.

-Baseball-

(continued from page 3)

Should a righthander be the choice, backstop Sid Varney and first-baseman John Gregory will take over at those positions.

Batting Records

Batting records thus far for the home forces show that outfielder Ott Evans and Robinson are the unofficial leaders in the hitting department with four safeties in eight trips, for .500 averages. Of those who have played every game, Black is the leader, with 11 for 31 for a .355 mark. Kelly and Hayworth are close behind with .333 and .323, respectively.

Leading the Deacon offense is third-baseman Gene Hooks, who has clipped the ball at a .473 pace in 21 official at bats. Other returnees in the Wake lineup include the keystone combination of Art Hoch and Charlie Teague, catcher Russ Batchelor, and outfielders Carl Haggard and Art Fulghum.

Campus Calendar

3:00 p. m.—All delegates to State Student Legislature, Roland Parker No. 1.

5:00 p. m.—Pan Hellenic council, Grail room.

7:00 p. m.—Sigma Kappa Epsilon, Grail room.

7:00 p. m.—Coed Senate, Horace Williams lounge.

7:00 p. m.—Parliamentary Procedure course, 105 Caldwell.

7:30 p. m.—Phi Assembly, 4th floor, New East.

7:30 p. m.—Dames club, main lounge.

8:00 p. m.—Delta Tau Delta, Grail room.

9:00 p. m—Alpha Epsilon Delta, Grail room.

10:00 p. m.—BVP, Trailer Park.

MINERS WORKING

Washington, April 12—(UP)—The striking soft coal miners have started back to work on orders from John L. Lewis.

CAROLINA
WEDNESDAY

-Humber-

(Continued from page 1)

order among nations.

He sees it as a vital objective beyond the United Nations, and to preach it, Humber has traveled more than 300,000 miles and talked to hundreds of civic clubs, women's organizations, colleges and public forums during the past five years.

When he first tried out his idea, Humber invited 39 of his neighbors to his cottage on Davis Island on the Atlantic coast. Humber read the declaration, explained its meaning and called for comments. He told the guests that they were invited to consider something which might prove of historic importance, a declaration on World Federation.

His declaration was accepted unanimously by the small group and from this first grass... meeting Humber has spread ... crusade from coast to coast ... ercoming every conceivable ... of physical and political opp... tion and indifference.

His notes are filled with q... similar to this one from ... nadian delegate, "Federati... the ultimate answer. When ... Congress is ready, Canada ... join."

University Florist
"For the Best in Flowers"
Pick Theatre Bldg
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Telephone 9816

Dr. William T. Kohn
announces the opening of his office
for the practice of
OPTOMETRY
Visual Training
Contact Lenses
Call 3686
Office Hours Daily and by Appointment
Monday-Friday 9:00-5:00
Saturday 9:00-1:00
Chapel Hill
over Carolina Coffee Shop

SPRING SPECIALS
SAVE NOW — REDUCTIONS
A 50% CUT
on all our stock of Bathrobes
Save by buying now—a bathrobe for those leisure moments.

PYJAMAS 33%
JAYSON
RENSELLO
DAYTON
GOLF JACKETS 25%
BATAMAC — REVERE
STARTS TUESDAY — ENDS SATURDAY
SHOP EARLY WHILE WE STILL HAVE A COMPLETE STOCK
JACK LIPMAN'S

LI'L ABNER — By Al Capp

Have you tried HARRY'S Kosher Dill-icious Pickles?

WEATHER
Fair and continued warm.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
Negro Vote
Typesetters' Fun
Been a Great Day

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 14, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | NO. 140

Dedmond Sweeps Into Presidency On Light Vote

Kay Kyser Will Deliver Address To Golden Fleece

Private Meeting Will Hear 1927 Fleece Initiate Talk

KAY KYSER

By Charlie Gibson

Kay Kyser will return to Carolina next Monday night. His trip this time will be to speak before an undisclosed number of men who are to be tapped into the Order of the Golden Fleece, highest men's honorary organization on campus, in public ceremonies beginning at 8 o'clock in Memorial hall.

The same James Kerne Kyser who was initiated into the Fleece in 1927 will speak privately at a post-tapping banquet in honor of those this year whose leadership, service, and character meet the qualifications for Fleece membership.

7:50 Deadline

What some people consider to be the University's most impressive ritual, the tapping will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. Because of the suspense of the ceremony, the doors to Memorial hall will be locked the minute the tapping starts. It is advisable that anyone who wishes to see the services or to attend the Valkyrie Sing which follows the program immediately should be in his seat before 7:50.

After the reading of the myth of Jason and his quest for the Golden Fleece to symbolize heroic achievement, black robed figures will stalk the darkened auditorium, seeking those who are to be honored. After this procedure the order will disclose the names of its officers for the first time this year.

There will be no limit to the

(See KYSER, page 4)

Bouldin Replaces Miss MacDonald As Council Head

Helen Bouldin, rising senior and member of the Chi Omega sorority, was elected to the post of chairman of the Women's Honor Council at a business meeting Monday evening replacing Donleen McDonald. Miss Bouldin is also chairman of the Orientation committee.

Tenn Mason, up and coming junior and member of the Delta Delta Delta sorority, retained her position as secretary of the Women's Honor council.

Pete Burks Elected As YMCA President; Britt Gives Report

Pete Burks, junior from Charlotte and sociology major, was elected president of the Y.M.C.A. for the coming year in Thursday night's election.

Sam Magill of Shanghai, China was re-elected vice-president. Ed Strain of Rome, Georgia, will serve as secretary-treasurer.

They will succeed Charlie Foley, president, and Charlie Britt, secretary-treasurer.

These officers will be installed at a ceremony to be held next Tuesday. Within the next few weeks the incoming president will select his cabinet, made up of committee chairmen.

Charles Britt, secretary, gave a report on this year's activities of the Y.M.C.A. The "Y" publishes the Student Directory, the Freshman handbook, and is in charge of lost and found articles. It also looks after the bulletin board in the "Y". The Y.M.C.A. was co-sponsor of the W. S. S. F. drive, the clothing drive, and the Friends Institute on Applied Religion. A pre-college retreat and social activities were held for the freshmen.

The Natural Bridge winter conference was one of the highlights of the year. This was attended by about 65 students from here and other schools.

Delegates were sent to the Southern Area Student council at Atlanta and to the United Nations seminar. Work has also been done in the Chapel Hill Hi-Y.

Sophomores Elected To CPU Membership

Edlyn Freerks, sophomore from Spruce Pine, and Erwin Danziger, sophomore from Chapel Hill, were recently elected to membership in the Carolina Political union. Membership in the group is held to thirty under the constitution of the CPU.

Application blanks can be obtained at the Y information office or from Pete Gerns, secretary. All prospective members are interviewed by the membership committee and the union membership itself before joining, with the majority of questions directed at the applicant covering the field of economics and political science. At present there are ten vacancies to be filled by June.

UMT Meeting Hears Discussion On Dratt

Profound observations on current world affairs were voiced by a retired brigadier general and five faculty members last Tuesday night in Hill hall.

Approximately 300 persons listened to discussions by the distinguished group sponsored by the campus committee for universal military training. Chancellar Robert B. House introduced the speakers and served as moderator during an open forum at the conclusion of the addresses.

Brig. Gen. Madison Pearson, a veteran of the African campaign in the late war and formerly a staff member of the War Department in Washington, vigorously declared that universal military training and the draft law were virtually important to the safety of this country. He asserted that push-button warfare in the event of war now is "nothing but a figment of the imagination of some dreamer."

The General declared should war come today there would be some changes in military strategy but that the tactics and strategy used would look essentially the same as they did in the last war.

(See UMT, page 4)

Delegates to State Student Legislature Draw Up Eleven Resolutions for Assembly

Eleven resolutions to be presented at the State Student Legislative assembly by the Carolina delegation were drawn up yesterday at a meeting of delegates headed by Pete Gerns. The bills will be submitted to the Committee on Legislation of the Legislature's Executive council, which will draw up the calendar for the assembly.

Registration for the Legislature will take place at 11 o'clock Friday morning in the capital building, and the body will convene in joint session at 1:30 Friday afternoon. Other sessions of the group will be held Friday evening and Saturday morning and afternoon.

Resolutions to be submitted by the Carolina delegation propose the following: Ennactment of a selective service law; establishment of universal military training; the strengthening of the United Nations into a workable world government; favoring federal aid to education on the basis of need and population; abolishing of the electoral college in presidential elections.

A bill recommending that the North Carolina General Assembly fail to ratify the constitutional amendment limiting the number of terms a president may serve will be submitted by the group. The strengthening of the power of North Carolina governor is the purpose of a resolution calling for the use of the short ballot and for the addition of the veto to the governor's powers.

Other resolutions include one calling for a state planning commission; one favoring North Carolina tax reform, specifying central assessment of property values; the abolishment of the Umstead law; and state responsibility for the building of schools.

A resolution calling for the abolition of county option on the liquor question was tabled because it was felt that student opinion would be overwhelmingly against such a measure's being introduced. Aid to highways will not be submitted because of the group's feeling that aid to education was more important.

Students to Hear Frederich A. Hyek Talk on Europe

One of the most distinguished European critics of socialistic economic planning will be heard tonight at 8 o'clock in Hill Hall when Professor Frederich A. Hyek will lecture on "Planning and Reconstruction in Europe."

Author of the best-seller "The Road to Serfdom" published by the University of Chicago Press in 1944, Professor Hyek, a well-known economist, is professor of economics at the London School of Economics and Political Science of the University of London.

Professor Hyek has written many books on economics, and Mr. C. B. Robinson, Chairman of the Faculty on Lectures here, stated that his lectures contain such points of view that are of great interest.

His lecture on "Planning and Reconstruction in Europe" will be followed by seminars on Thursday and Friday afternoons at 4 o'clock in Bingham hall. These seminars are principally for students of economics and political science, but any interested persons are invited to attend.

GASTONIA CLUB

The Gastonia-Carolina club meets tonight at 7:30 in Horace Williams lounge, Graham Memorial to discuss plans for the social function to be held this Friday. Committee reports on the progress made in plans for the Spring dance will also be made tonight. Members are asked to bring $1 to the meeting to cover expenses for Friday's function.

Eaton Presents Bill Giving Group Power Over Export of Arms

Washington, April 13—(UP)—Chairman Charles Eaton of the House Foreign Affairs committee introduced a bill today to give the National Munitions Control board authority over the export of arms. The bill by the New Jersey Republican would accomplish just about what President Truman asked for a year ago.

At that time, the president told Congress that the only control over the export of arms and ammunition came under the Neutrality act of 1939. He described that act as "particularly ineffective" in dealing with current problems.

Under the 1939 act, said Truman, the secretary of state has to treat peaceful and trouble-making nations alike by licensing the export of arms to both—so long as no treaty is violated.

The bill sponsored by Eaton would give the Munitions Control board authority to screen the shipment of arms overseas and register the makers and exporters of the arms. The board could also check more fully into international arms traffic. In addition, export controls could also be placed on machinery normally used to manufacture arms.

Armstrong to Attend Registrars Meeting

Mr. Roy Armstrong, dean of admissions, will attend the annual meeting of the American Association of Collegiate Registrars April 19 to 22 in Philadelphia. Armstrong, who is chairman of the North Carolina Attendance committee, is also vice-president of the North Carolina Association of Collegiate Registrars.

The activities of the association are not only directed toward maintaining high standards in the registrar's field of administrative work but are also related to educational matters of national scope.

TARNATION BUSINESS STAFF

All students who wish to work on the Tarnation business staff in the coming year are requested to meet at the Tarnation office in Graham Memorial at 5 p. m. this afternoon.

Kirby, Sper Win in Runoff Voting; Wharton-Smith, Carmichael Triumph

By Chuck Hauser

Jess Dedmond was swept into the presidency of the student body by a light vote of 2,253 in yesterday's runoff balloting in the spring general elections.

Less than a third of the student body gave the position of secretary-treasurer to Bob Kirby, the editorship of Tarnation to Tom Wharton and Bob Smith, the post of head cheerleader to Norm Sper and the one remaining seat on the Publications board to Billy Carmichael III.

Breakdown on the presidential balloting shows that Dedmond (CP-UP) took a total of 1,520 votes to Charlie Long's 708, with 857 in Gerrard to Long's 412, 120 in Alderman to 61, 192 in Ruffin to 116 and 351 in Aycock to 119.

CHAIRMAN of the House Armed Services Committee, Rep. Walter G. Andrews (R-N. Y.) has announced in Washington that hearings will start at once on a bill which would increase by 210,000 the number of men requested by Secretary of Defense James Forrestal. The measure would increase the draft total to 1,644,000 men. (International)

In the race for secretary-treasurer, Bob Kirby (UP) piled up a vote of 1,182 to defeat Gran Childress (SP) who polled a total of 930. The breakdown: Gerrard — Kirby, 760, Childress, 457; Alderman — Kirby, 93, Childress, 81; Ruffin — Kirby, 114, Childress, 166; Aycock — Kirby, 215, Childress, 226.

For the Tarnation editorship Charlie Gibson (CP) lost out to Tom Wharton and Bob Smith (UP) with 995 to the co-editors' 1,119. Gibson took 508 in Gerrard to their 687, 102 in Alderman to 74, 134 in Ruffin to 155, and 251 in Aycock to their 203.

Norm Sper (SP) captured the head cheerleaders' spot with 1,188 votes to Charlie Stancell's 1,008 on the UP ticket. The breakdown: Gerrard — Sper, 621, Stancell, 624; Alderman — Sper, 114, Stancell, 65; Ruffin — Sper, 201, Stancell, 106; Aycock — Sper, 252, Stancell, 213.

For the final seat on the Publications board as member-at large, Billy Cahmichael (UP nosed out Bill Buchan (SP) with 1,029 ballots to 1,004, a difference of 25 votes.

Carmichael took 652 in Ger-

(See ELECTION, page 4)

Coed Officers Will Be Installed In Candlelight Ceremony Tonight

By Virginia Foreword

Installation of all coeds elected to campus offices in spring elections will be held in the Presbyterian church tonight at 9 o'clock.

Donleen McDonald will preside at the candlelight ceremony which will see 70 girls take their places as campus leaders.

Following invocation by Mr. Charles Jones, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Elizabeth Royall will singe "Guide Thou Our Steps." Twig Branch will give the charge to new officers.

Coeds being installed will include: WAA officers, president either Becky Holton or Randy Hudson (runoff), B. A. Pope, vice president, Lucile Arnott, secretary; Doris Beasley, treasurer; and Carolyn Gurthrie, awards chairman.

Girls elected to Legislature are Marietta Duke, Hilda Sharkey, and five of the following: Mary Ann Daniel, Barbara Cashion, Kate Conner, Emily Ogburn, Pat McNutt, Lindsay Tate, and Ann Wells (run-off).

Coed Senate members installed tonight will be Speaker either Teeny Royall or Frances Angas (run-off) Abie Middleton, Tandy Lacy, Betty McDonald, Emily Ogburn, Kit Finney, Carter Taylor, Ruth Lassiter, Nanie Blalick, Willie Marjorie Riddick, Emily Baker, Phyllis Bradshaw, Barbara Ann Covington, Sally Jackson, Jean McKeithan, Jane Pointer, and Elinor Woltz.

Women's Honor council induc-

(See COEDS, page 4)

Little Girl Melts Police Hearts; Keeps Crying, 'I Want My Mommy'

Newark, N. J., April 13—(UP)—You may think police of Newark, New Jersey, are hard men, but their hearts are not that hard that a child cannot melt them.

Today, the Newark police are sending out appeals to the little girl's mother. They say they will get the child's father a job if only he or the mother will come for little Georgianna. They say she keeps crying over and over again, "I want my mommy."

Here is how Georgianna first started to break the hearts of the policemen in Newark.

There were two traffic violators waiting their turn in court. They looked down and saw a little girl staring up at them. She had big blue eyes.

She was barely knee high, and from under her maroon bonnet peeked a cluster of blonde curls. On the lapel of her snow suit was pinned a note. It began, "To whom it may concern."

The traffic law violators called police. An official of the Missing Persons bureau, Herman Cohen, began to read it. The note said, "You may think I'm a mother without a heart, but I have no choice but to do what I am doing."

The note was hard to read. Tears had stained the ink.

The note went on to say, "If you could only take care of her a month until my husband and I can get some money and a place for my baby to stay, I will call for her or my husband will . . ." The note also said, "We cannot

(See GIRL, page 4)

New Rent Controls Call for 60-Day Notice On Evictions, May Effect Student Families

According to an announcement by rent control officials yesterday landlords must give tenants 60-day notices before eviction under normal circumstances.

It was further stated that housing accomodations termed "non-housekeeping furnished rooms in private homes where there are no more than two paying guests" are no longer subject to rent control.

The rent control office recently released the following information: "Under a new law, rent controls are continued in effect through March 31, 1949, under the administrattion of the Housing Expediter. The new law makes no automatic change in rent ceilings and for most tenants their maximum rents under the law are the same as those which were in effect on June 30, 1947, with the following three types of exceptions: (1) Where a landlord and tenant had voluntarily entered into a written lease increasing the rent up to 15 per cent. (2) Where the local rent office had issued an individual adjustment order changing the rent. (3) Where the Housing Expediter had approved a general increase in the rent level in a rent area or portion of an area in response to a recommendation of a local rent advisory board.

"Tenants who have not signed voluntary lease increases are protected for the life of the Housing and Rent Act of 1948, through March 31, 1949.

"Tenants who signed leases on or before last December 31 agreeing to an increase in rent up to 15 per cent are protected by those leases which must run at least through December 31, 1948, and if they expire before March 31, 1949, the new law protects them through the latter date.

"The new law gives landlords the right to enter into new lease agreements with tenants, provided they are valid written leases entered into voluntary and in good faith on or before December 31, 1948 and they expire on or after December 31, 1949 at a maximum rent which is no more than 15 per cent above what the ceiling would have been in the absence of a lease on March 30, 1948, the day the new law was enacted. A copy of such lease must be filed within 15 days after execution with the local rent office."

Rent control officials urge students desiring information concerning rent controls to contact the local rent office, phone F-3331.

FINAL EXAMINATION SCHEDULE
SPRING QUARTER, 1948

Tuesday, June 1, at 3 o'clock	All 1 o'clock classes
Wednesday, June 2, at 8:30 o'clock	(a) All 12 o'clock, Tuesday and Thursday classes; (b) all 3 o'clock classes; (c) all Commerce 71 and 72 classes; (d) any other courses not otherwise provided for by this schedule.
Wednesday, June 2, at 2 o'clock	All 8 o'clock classes
Thursday, June 3, at 8:30 o'clock	All 9 o'clock classes
Thursday, June 3, at 2 o'clock	All 10 o'clock classes
Friday, June 4, at 8:30 o'clock	all 11 o'clock classes, meeting MWF or M through F
Friday, June 4, at 2 o'clock	All 12 o'clock classes, Meeting MWF or M through F
Saturday, June 5, at 8:30 o'clock	Common Examinations. (All French, German, and Spanish courses numbered 1, 2, 3, and 4.)
Saturday, June 5, at 2 o'clock	All 2 o'clock classes and Zool. 105

Annie Ben Surprised Again to Find Herself In the Show Instead of Being a Spectator

Annie Ben Beale got cheated again Monday night.

The first time was Monday a week ago, when Ben put on her best new-look duds and sauntered over to catch a glimpse of Mr. Franz Polgar, hypnotist extraordinary.

And, just for kicks, Ben decided that she'd like to be one of Polgar's subjects. No hypnotist ever had it so good. The perfect subject, Annie Ben went out like a light without even half trying.

So Ben went back to see Polgar again Monday evening, determined this time that she would watch the show—not be a part of it.

The first hypnotism stunt the master mentalist performed was the mass hypnosis of a large group of students who had volunteered to come up on the stage.

"I'm going to count to 10," Polgar explained. "As I count you will begin to grow very sleepy. Your arms will get heavy . . . so heavy that you cannot lift your hands. . . your eyelids will close and you will not be able to open them."

And so it went. From one to ten the great Polgar counted. Most of the subjects on the stage quietly passed into a deep sleep. The commotion in the audience behind them did not wake them up. Laughter, craning necks and general confusion shook Memorial hall.

One lone, red-headed figure in the audience was slumped over in her seat. Annie Ben had gone to sleep again.

She was led up on the stage and seated. When Polgar awakened her a few minutes later, a look of amazement come over her face. It quickly turned to one of anger as she glared back into the audience.

"Jim..." was all she could say. She explained later that her date, Jim Blount, had promised not to let her go up on the stage if anything happened. And look where she wound up!

The most confusing part of the whole thing, Ben explained, was when, at the end of the show, she tried to get up out of her chair to leave.

"It was the funniest thing you could imagine," she pointed out. "I was stuck to the chair."

Graham Memorial Director Bill Shuford who was handling the business end of the Polgar show, walked up to Annie yesterday with a crisp one dollar bill.

"What's that for?" asked the hypnotic red-head.

"Just giving you your money back," Bill explained, "seeing as how you bought tickets for each of the Polgar shows and then missed seeing them."

Move To Exploit Negro Vote

It is a sad commentary upon the integrity of the political parties in America that they develop a social conscience in regard to minorities only when they are angling for the vote of those minorities. This is especially true in the case of the Negro race. First and still the most flagrant example of the exploitation of the Negro in an attempt to win his vote came in the early reconstruction era following the Civil War. During that period carpetbaggers of the North and scalawags of the South, seeking to gain control of the southern states with the aid of the Negro, overran the South spreading the rumor of "40 acres and a mule" for every liberated slave. Since that time every newly-formed third party, seeking to draw its strength from the minorities, has made a bid for Negro support with fantastic promises of wonderful benefits. If these promises were made sincerely and honestly, we would have no complaint with them. They seldom are.

The third party headed by Henry Wallace is no exception to this precedent. In a bi-racial meeting held here February 28-29 the party laid the groundwork for its big for Negro support in this area. Henry Wallace in a speech delivered by proxy played up the theme of racial discrimination, attacking particularly the system of separate schools for Negroes and whites. Not in direct words but through intimations he held forth the dream of complete social equality to the Negro. "The time to strke is now," he said.

The local Wallace for president club last Friday night took steps to follow up this bid for the Negro vote. At a meeting in Bingham hall its members made charges that whites of Chapel Hill and vicinity are applying pressure to local Negroes economically. They quoted local Negroes as saying their white employers have warned them to "either stop running with Liberals or lose their jobs." They made tentative plans for an early meeting with Negroes of this area to form a joint Wallace club. The group voted unanimously its intention of forming a Negro Wallace faction as a countermeasure against white "discrimination."

If these charges are true, then certainly the practices in question should be exposed and denounced as undemocratic and un-American. However, it should be pointed out that only a few members of the Wallace club ever took a sincere interest in the welfare of the Negro at any time prior to their affiliation with the club. The rest, therefore, would appear to be concerned only with the advancement of the interests of their party.

The Negro should weigh this consideration carefully and recognize this latest action for what it is—a political move designed to exploit the Negro vote.

Pan-Americana

Twenty Latin republics with a population of 133 million people stretch south from the Rio Grande to Cape Horn. Their destiny has long been bound up with that of their northern neighbor, the United States. Our relations have not always been friendly. The U. S. has cooperated often—but we have also needlessly antagonized these states frequently.

Today, we celebrate Pan-American Day. Its motto—Cooperation, Keynote of the Americas—was also the theme of the Bogota conference where the chief subjects on the agenda were the establishment of an Inter-American Defense Council as a permanent military agency of the inter-American system, and an agreement for economic cooperation among the Americas—an agreement which meant in effect agreement on how much help the U. S. could give. Apparently, this help was not forthcoming right away: Truman's request of Congress to allot 500 million dollars to Latin America was greeted with indifferent shrugging of shoulders at Bogota. What is 500 million when compared with 5 billion going to Europe?

It was internal political rivalry in Colombia which broke up the meeting at Bogota. But it casts its shadow over a conference which was to serve as an important link in hemisphere relations. For once, all nations were assembled. For once, they seemed sincere in their desire to work for the same goal. The conference will go on. At present it seems that it has been only temporarily disrupted.

We must continue to work together. Slowly, our neighbors to the south have pulled out from under our covetous grasp and insincere paternalism. We are slowly again making enemies down there. They were good enough as allies during the war. They are good enough as friends now.

Today, then, let us look forward to better cooperation between the states south of the Rio Grande and the U. S. It's one way to work toward peace.

—Guest written by Peter Gerns.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina. Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.

Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ..... ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager ..... T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor .... Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors .. Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associate Editors ..... Bob Sain, Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady
Society Editor ..... Weddy Thorp
Photographer ... Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. ..... Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. .. C. B. Mendenhall
Subscription Mgrs. .... Jim King, Chan Pegram
Asst. Business Mgrs. . Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. .... Randall Hudson, Don Snow.

Offices are located on the second floor of Graham Memorial with night office at Colonial Press, Inc., Carrboro. Telephones: Editorial, F-3361; Business, F-3371; Night office, 3337. Mailing address, Box 1080.

"I use him for low gear on hills."

Round and About

It's Been A Great Day

By John Stump

An election day and a sunny day arrive at this university about once in a blue moon; to be exact, elections come twice a year and, to keep in good with the Chapel Hill Chamber of Commerce, we'll admit that sunny days come a little oftener.

But when the two arrive simultaneously, the brilliance and warmth of both the politicians and Ole Sol lull the campus into a state of contented peace.

Saleeb smiles in front of Stacy, Bob Kirby shakes hands in the Y court, and Gran Childress writes that the evils of Lenoir hall go out as soon as the election is over.

If your hand and your eardrums can take it, it's a mighty pleasant day. Nobody goes to classes, at least not if he's ever gotten interested enough in politics to read one of the posters that the nominees put up.

Everybody just stands around the Y court and greets everybody else like he was his brother and had just emerged safely from Lower Slobbovia.

And all of a sudden everybody is for exactly the same things; Al Lowenstein is wearing an Eisenhower button and Miles Smith is running an Eisenhower meeting. Everybody is bringing the prices down at Lenoir hall, everybody is getting us seats on the 50 yard line for the Sugar Bowl game, deploring clique politics, and the coeds are wearing a Gibson garter (or was that last week?)

We're all happy, most of us are voting, and by noon a few of the politicians are leaving the Y court long enough to go back to the room and get some more literature. And by four o'clock, most of them are getting their roommates out to the polls and beginning to ask if anyone knows how it is going.

Pretty soon, the polls close, the counting starts, some candidates lose, some of them win, but all of them relax—especially now that the runoff is over.

So it's been a great day, even if it rains tomorrow.

Interest In Religion

Expected Decline Of College Morals Did Not Arrive

Lubbock, Texas. — (IP) — The expected post-war breakdown of morals among college students in regard to sex behavior and the use of alcohol did not arrive, according to Dr. Charles E. McAllister, who recently completed a survey of conditions at 98 leading publicly controlled colleges and universities in the United States.

Dr. McAllister, dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Evangelist, Spokane, Wash.' who is nationally recognized as an outstanding minister, lecturer and writer, delivered a series of addresses at Texas Technological College.

The speaker reported an increasing interest among college students in basic moral codes and in religion, but said that religious education is unsatisfactory, as it is presented in most schools today.

His suggestions were that religious material be presented on as high an academic level as any other subject and that it be presented on a broad, non-sectarian basis.

Dr. McAllister also called attention to the high percentage of cheating on examinations in our colleges and universities. This is definitely a moral breakdown, he said.

GETS HIS CHOICE

Aztec, N. M. (U.P.)—Alf Utton started out drilling for a water well, but struck oil after a short distance. He kept on, only to hit a combination of gas, oil and water.

Way You'll Never Be

Hooded Men Look For Lost Chord In Hill Hall

By Raney Stanford

I know the University of North Carolina well; I have known every nook and cranny of its hallowed ground for years. Yet I've never been in the Hill Hall of Music. And that's not all; you're never going to find me there, not if I can help it. I know what's going on in there; you don't have to tell me. I've never actually seen any hooded men carrying blacksnake whips coiled under their arms, but the soul-wracked cries of pain that issue forth from these musty walls are horribly plain to every ear. There are ominous black straps on the walls of the tiny cubicles; and I know "They" are always down in the basement, stoking the fires, always heating the irons——

"They" must be seeking the Lost Chord. No one has told me this, but it is so obvious I'm surprised that no one has thought of it. Someone has this Chord, whether the unknown possessor is aware of it or not, and "They" mean to keep on their inquisition until they find it.

Perhaps the search is nearing an end; for as I scurried past the dread structure the other day, I chanced to hear a few chords come shuddering forth that were very rare indeed. The Lost Chord in question may or may not have been among them, but I fervently hope the ones I heard do become lost themselves, and aren't found again for at least a generation or two.

So in lieu of any definite information on the subject, I'll still continue to pass Hill Hall on the dead run. "They" aren't going to get hold of me. I'm not musically minded at all, but a little quiz session on the rack won't be necessary to prove it. And at night I won't go within a mile of the place. I can almost hear the stealthy footfalls behind me now.....

Baby Has Town

A-Bubble Over A Tooth

By Robert Branson

Manila —(UP)— The mystery of Elvy Mendoza's golden tooth has the sleepy country suburb of Marilao all a-bubble.

Elvy is a chubby, curly-haired 19-month-old Filipino girl. She is by all signs a perfectly normal baby—except for the sharp golden incisor rooted deep in the center of her lower gum, just below her natural teeth.

Nobody knows how it got there. Elvy's parents and grandparents and the neighbors all cross themselvs and swear it grew. They say it started cutting through the gum last Aug. 10. They marked the date on the calendar because it was Elvy's first tooth.

"It grow maybe five, six months," said Federico Mendoza, Elvy's 32-year-old truckdriver father. "Then it stop. Real gold."

When the word got to Manila, a caravan of newspapermen rolled out along the rutted dusty roads to the bamboo house on stilts where Elvy, her mother and father, two sisters and three brown dogs live behind a cornfield.

Senora Mendoza held Elvy's mouth open and everyone got a look at the miraculous tooth. It was just the size of the other baby teeth but it was unmistakeably of gold. It protruded from the gum like a miniature gilded tombstone, smooth and glistening.

To demonstrate that "it real tooth," Elvy's father grasped it between a strong brown thumb and forefinger and tugged until Elvy howled.

Marilao people have different opinions about the tooth.

Federico Mendoza took it as "a sign." He decided at once to turn "the new leaf," he says, and to give up "the bad habits." He says he has been a happier man ever since.

The grandparents, a white-haired, barefoot couple who smoke homemade cheroots wrapped in newspaper, are nervous, about all the publicity. They fear news of the gold may draw "holduppers" to Marilao.

The village herb doctor, widely regarded as an oracle, predicted that the tooth was the first of 3,003 miracles which would occur in Marilao.

Many of the townsfolk think there may be much in what the herb doctor says. Shortly after he made the prediction, a two-headed, two-tailed water buffalo was reported to have been born on a near-by farm. And in February a woodcutter found a picture of the Holy Virgin embedded in the trunk of a freshly-sawed tamarind tree, they say.

At Conventions

No Girlie-Girlie Stuff Planned

By Robert Musel

New York —(UP)—The man who will entertain many of the delegates to the Democratic and Republican national conventions in Philadelphia is against too much frivolity.

He says that in this hour of national emergency he plans to keep everybody's mind on the job of picking a president.

"I could fill the town with beautiful chorus and showgirls, not to mention dancers with or without veils," said pleasant little Frank Palumbo. He is the inventor of the "depression proof" night club, The Click. He made it click.

"I could have had the pick of the nation's lovelies," he continued. "But I figure this isn't the time for looking. It's the time for acting. So I got plans all laid out for entertainment that will never clash with the serious business before the conventions."

And what is Palumbo's solution? In two words, Frank Sinatra.

"Yes," he said seriously, "Frankie is one of my big reliances. He's got the soothing kind of voice that won't jangle the nerves of a delegate after a hard day on the convention floor. Frankie will keep them calm and reasonable—which is what the nation needs today."

Palumbo said he also had Xavier Cugat rounded up.

"Cugat is playing ball with us. He will give out with his less violent tempos. Nice medium rhumbas and things. I wouldn't want a disocated sacroiliac to be blamed on me. One vote either way may mean a lot."

Palumbo dropped into New York from Philadelphia to pick up more entertainers, and coincidentally, to see how his psychological warfare against New York night clubs is going. Smack in the Broadway white light district is his sign: "If You Wanna Have Fun Come to Philly."

"I'm putting one up on Picadilly in London and on the Rue de la Paix in Paris," he said. "Philadelphia figures in plenty of vaudeville jokes like Flatbush and Brooklyn, but we can prove our night life is better than any of them now."

Palumbo owns a string of clubs and restaurants but his "depression proof idea" is his pet.

"It's like a telescope," he said. "Business is good—then we open up full. On duller nights we retract a few sections. It's hard to lose that way."

Up In The Clouds

More Fun For The Typesetters

By Tom Kerr

April is busting out all over, and all the jobless scribblers on publication row are eagerly writing quaint little columns about same for the DTH. As if anyone cared or needed to be told that the sap is rising.

Seems that Life photoed Carolina at its best last week-end Now all we have to do is wait to see our roommate downing a healthy brew at Hogan's Lake. Rumored that a few of the Carolina lovelies were caught napping on the Spencer roof. Guess that shot will stay on the darkroom wall. Tough.

Politics not worth writing about. Politicians very much interested, no one else cares, but frustrated columnists can't find anything else to express an opinion on.

Figure if I have to write a column, I had better find something to crusade for. How about raising at the book ex, no. Let's try to stop ing the grass grow. That's worth The only thing really worth writing type on around these parts is the new "Sex in Spring" lipstick shade. But we're going to plug the Student Legislature instead.

Strictly for the record, the show on Thursday nights is going up in the Di hall at seven-thirty. There's no thirty-six cent charge attached, seats are plentiful, cigarette smoke comes within two feet of the floor, intermission at 8:30 time, and the acts are terrific. Take a break from E. Carrington's emporium Thursday and peek in on what goes on up with our legislators.

On the other side of the picture, it really wouldn't do any harm for our lively law-makers to have a little more representative audience. You can't learn anything by dropping around, so why not give it a chance. As the radio commercials say, "just try it once, and you too will see what makes Sammy run."

Latest poop in publication circles is the loss of Mauldin's talent to one and all. Seems ole Bill was convincing too many editors that he was pink. Frankly, he had something lethargic America could use more of. So now we are going to have to fill in his space for a little while with tripe like this. Should be fun for the typesetters.

The Brassy Taste

How Stupid Can You Get?

By Bob Sain

They thought I was crazy when they saw me pouring beer (good beer) down a gopher hole in the arboretum—but it wasn't

(Loud bronxo's from the zoology department: "There are no gophers in the arboretum.)

Maybe no, zoeboys, but there's always Athelstan Boniface. I poured beer down the gopher hole, waved a goose-quill pen and up genied Boniface like something out of "Arabian Nights."

He wiped foam from his upper lips, tossed his raven hair off his forehead and growled: "You filthy misanthrope, you left me down there all winter. Me and the gophers and the chipmunks. Not to mention squirrels. You're about as dirty as a beer hall at midnight.

"Ath," I said, "I'm sorry. But last fall I just got tired of talking with you all the time and quoting you so I decided to let you rest."

"Yeah," he said, "and now you need me. Is that it?"

"Yes," I muttered meekly. "I'm getting dull."

Athelstan ran a long finger along his jaw. "I know you're getting dull. I've been reading the DTH. All you write about is music and Playmakers and people. How dull can you get?"

"Well, what should I do?"

"Write something different," he suggested brilliantly.

"Like what?"

"Write something mean."

"But, Ath," I said, "have a heart. I've been listening to Noel Coward and Gertrude Lawrence this afternoon. I can't write anything mean."

"Well," he said, "write something stupid."

"That I can do," I said.

"Then go ahead and sell something."

"Okay, I will. Would you like to join Alcoholics Unanimous? We got a charter already . . ."

"I can't join organizations. I'm an apparition," he said.

"You don't drink like an apparition," I said, handing him another bottle.

"This sort of thing keeps me in a creative mood," he said.

"But about Alcoholics Unanimous, . .we need you and your ilk."

"You mean gophers and chipmunks and squirrels?"

"We got Buchan and Grady and some other people . . ."

"Aw hell!" he said, diving back into the gopher hole, pulling the case with him. "This is as dull as it ever was."

"Ath," I muttered after him, "You're so right."

I told my stenographer she could go home.

WHAT'S UP in Graham Memorial

They tell us that in the spring, things happen. Well, if the Rendezvous is a good example, and we think it is, they are so right! Things are always happening down there.

All decked out in new spring colors, the Rendezvous is the place for a dance and a snack on a lovely evening. Featuring toasted sandwiches, cokes, coffee, candy and so on, the snack bar is open afternoons as well as evenings. What's more, it's cool down there where it's hot elsewhere!

OIL SCARCITY

Canberra, Australia —(UP)— The Australian motorist is not likely to be able to buy all the gasoline he wants until 1951 at the earliest, it is predicted by Eric Avery, general manager of the Shell Company of Australia.

Avery, returned from tour of the United States, Britain and the Netherlands, said he believed the war-caused oil shortage might last as long as 1953 before world production can catch up with demand.

Hollywood Film Shop

How Big Is A Leprechaun?

By Patricia Clary

Hollywood, —(UP)— A riddle as unanswerable as "how high is up" has been plaguing the million-dollar minds at 20th Century-Fox: how big is a leprechaun?

Movie-makers with such problems usually send them to the research department. But no encyclopedias, reference books or historical societies can answer the question, because nobody's ever seen a leprechaun.

One of those fairy shoemakers of Irish folklore who keep pots of gold buried in the woods plays a top role in "Leave It to the Irish." He gave director Henry Koster a knotty casting problem.

"Leprechauns are little fellows, about knee high," actress Maureen O'Hara and Geraldine Fitzgerald, who believe implicitly in them, assured Koster.

"I have friends who have friends who've seen them in the woods." Miss O'Hara insisted. "Sometime you almost step on them."

Koster thought about signing a midget or a child to play the part. Then he considered using camera tricks to dwarf a full-size actor.

Picks Six-Footer

"It's all hearsay," he decided. "Nobody ever really saw a leprechaun. Nobody knows whether they're gnomes or giants."

So he picked Cecil Kellaway one of Hollywood's finest actors, and one of its biggest. He stands six feet.

The Irish around the studio were horrified by a six-foot leprechaun. They said he'd never get away with it.

"People thought nobody could play Santa Claus," Koster pointed out, "and look at Edmund Gwenn. Kellaway is going to be to leprechauns what Gwenn has been to Santa Claus."

Gwenn won an academy Award for playing Santa Claus in "Miracle on 34th Street." Twentieth hopes Kellaway, twice a nominee will do the same next year.

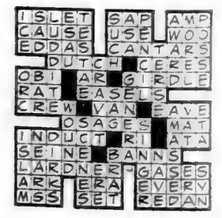
Kellaway, who is half Irish and has a little of Killarney in his talk, plays his leprechaun stooped over and with knees sagging.

Ears Enlarged

"I've been suffering from charley horse ever since the picture started," he said.

He wears elf shoes that turn up at the toes, a dirty green vest and baggy trousers, a rumpled peaked hat and a stringy artist's tie. The makeup men have enlarged his ears.

"They look a little like a donkey's, I'm afraid," he said, "but I prefer to say they're gnome-like, or elfish."



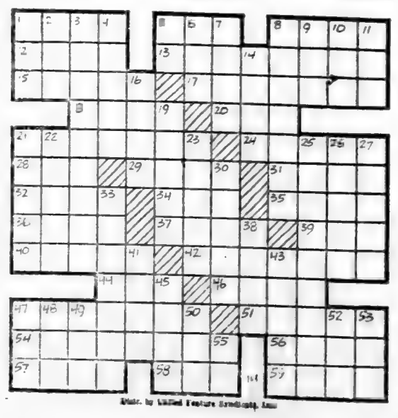
Kellaway made many visits to Ireland as an actor before he started in the movies eight years ago.

"I regret to confess. I've never seen a leprechaun," he said. "But I believe in them, anyway. I'm trying to do a good job because I wouldn't want them to put a curse on me."

And if any leprechauns read this, he hopes, they'll write it and tell him how big they are.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE



ACROSS

1—To complain
5—Taxi
8—Buddhist dialect
12—Part in play
13—Sudden showers
15—To desire
17—What we enjoy
18—Vegetable
20—Empty talk
21—Declarers
24—Fiery
28—French plural article
29—Spear's platform
31—Bill of fare
32—Upon
34—To fondle
35—Uncles (dial.)
36—To peck
37—Urged
39—Painting, in general
40—To denude
42—Actuality
44—Prefix: new
46—Chart
47—Swords
51—Downy duck
54—Classified
56—City in Nevada
57—Ache
58—Body of water
59—Stretched

DOWN

1—To weep
2—Fish eggs
3—White stone
4—Kind of hat
5—Baseball position (abbr.)
6—Man's nickname
7—Small town (coll.)
8—To venture
9—Assistance
10—Sign of Zodiac
11—A belief
14—Actual
16—Poverty
19—Snares
21—Spills
22—Belief
23—French title
25—What is left
26—Lifeless
27—Covered with dust
30—Precipitous
33—Notion
38—Valley
41—To look closely
43—Scottish lord
45—Worthless scraps
47—To hit
48—Man's name
49—Greek letter
50—To observe
52—Chemical suffix
53—To propel a boat
55—Father (coll.)

Robinson's Two-Hitter, Cheek's Homer Give Tar Heels 1-0 Win Over Deacons

Cana Righthander Notches Third Victory In Tight Pitching Battle Against Bauer

By Bob Goldwater

A mighty 400-foot wallop by catcher Emmett Cheek provided Carolina with the winning margin in a tight 1-0 pitching duel between the Tar Heels' Frank Robinson and Wake Forrest's Moe Bauer yesterday afternoon before an Emerson stadium throng of over 5,000 fans.

The triumph — their fourth straight in Southern conference play — also sent the locals off to a fast start in their 12-game Big Four schedule. N. C. State leads the four-team pack with two consecutive wins and the Tar Heels are close behind with one. Duke and Wake Forest, with one and two setbacks respectively, will battle for third place in the Deacons' park this afternoon.

Hardly Deserved to Lose

Much as Robinson deserved to win with a classy two-hitter, Bauer hardly deserved the fate following. The Foresters' sophomore southpaw allowed but four hits — no two in the same inning — and, with the exception of one pitch, controlled the Tar Heel batting punch as much as Robinson did the Deacon attack. Only the one throw to Cheek kept the battle from moving into overtime.

The tell-tale blow came in the fifth inning at a time when only one hit had been struck in the ball game — that by Frank Jones in the first frame. Two men were out when Cheek, batting eighth in the order, came up.

Likes Third Pitch

After looking over the Bauer's first two offerings, the husky backstop took a liking to the third and proceeded to give it one long ride — into deep left center field on the fly and all the way to the fence some 460 feet from home plate on the roll.

And that was the ball game! Except for Cheek, no base runners on either team found their way as far as third base, and Charlie Teague, the lone Deacon to move as far as second, had to steal his way there after getting to first on an infield error.

Bauer gave up two more hits after Cheek's four-master. Second-baseman Dallas Branch dumped a single behind third in the eighth and Co-Captain Jim Hayworth picked up a two-bagger in the ninth. Rightfielder Vic Matney gave it the old college try on Hayworth's low-flying knock, but couldn't quite reach far enough to make the catch.

Five-Inning No-Hitter

While Bauer was managing to keep out of danger, Robinson was proceeding even better. He had a no-hitter for five frames, but Art Hoch opened the sixth with a clean single into left to dispel such thoughts. Willie Warren

(See BASEBALL, page 4)

EMMETT CHEEK
. . . strikes [illegible]

One Wallop!

Wake Forest	AB	R	H	PO	A
Hoch, ss	4	0	1	3	4
Rogers, cf	4	0	0	0	0
Teague, 2b	3	0	0	1	3
Fulghum, lf	3	0	0	2	0
Matney, rf	3	0	0	3	0
Hooks, 3b	3	0	0	1	1
Warren, 1b	3	0	0	7	0
Batchelor, c	1	0	0	3	0
Bauer, p	1	0	0	0	1
a-Wrenn	1	0	0	0	0
Mustian, p	0	0	0	0	1
Totals	26	0	2	24	5

Carolina	AB	R	H	PO	A
Black, cf	4	0	0	2	0
Hayworth, 3b	3	[illegible]	[illegible]	1	5
Jones, rf	4	[illegible]	[illegible]	2	[illegible]
Kelly, lf	4	0	[illegible]	2	0
Hobbs, 1b	3	[illegible]	[illegible]	17	1
Ryan, ss	2	0	[illegible]	2	2
Branch, 2b	3	[illegible]	[illegible]	2	2
Cheek, c	2	1	[illegible]	[illegible]	1
Robinson, p	2	[illegible]	0	0	5
Totals	27	1	4	27	16

a-Batted for Bauer [illegible]th.

Wake Forest	000	000	000
Carolina	000	010	00x

Summary: Errors: Branch. Runs batted in: Cheek. Home Run: Cheek. Two-base hits: Hayworth. Stolen bases: Teague. Sacrifice: Bauer. Double plays: Hooks—Teague—Warren. Ryan—Branch—Hobbs. Base on balls—off: Robinson 2, Bauer 4. Struck out—by: Robinson 1, Bauer 3. Hits—off Bauer—3 in 7 inn., Mustian 1 in 1 inn. Left on bases: WF 2, UNC 4. Losing pitcher: Bauer. Umpires: Murral and Powell.

Carolina Netmen Register Clean Sweep Over State

Mural Cinder Trials Today

Time trials for next week's intramural track meet will continue today and wind up tomorrow, the intramural department announced yesterday.

Trials are being held in the 60 and 100-yard dashes with the 24 fastest men in each division qualifying for next week's semi-finals. Separate competition is being held for the dormitory and fraternity divisions.

Qualifying is also in process for the five field events—the broad and high jumps, the discus throw, the shot put and the pole vault. Qualifying in these events will be on the basis of those performing to certain certified standards.

Normal intramural entry rules will be observed for the meet with "A" medical rating being required of each competitor. No spiked shoes will be allowed.

Each organization is allowed to enter as many men as they wish in the dashes and field events.

Today's Murals

SOFTBALL

4:00—Field 1: Sig Eps vs. Phi Delt 1; 2: ZBT vs. Beta 1; 3: SAE 1 vs. Chi Psi 2; 4: Whitehead vs. Battlers; 5: Mangum 2 vs. Miller; 6: ATO 2 vs. PiKA 2; 7: Mangum 1 vs. Everett; 8: Seiler Five vs. Graham 1; 9: AEPi vs. Phi Delt 2.

5:00—Alexander 1 vs. Bombers; 2: Sig Nu 1 vs. Beta 2; 3: Pi Lamb 2 vs. Phi Gam 2; 4: St. A vs. SAE 2; 5: Wesley Rockets vs. Lewis 2; 6: Emerson vs. Steele; 7: Oakwood Drive vs. Aycock; 8: Misfits vs. Club H-2-3; 9: Old West vs. Graham 2.

RIFLE FIRING

4:00—Sigma Chi vs. Kappa Alpha.

7:30—Old West vs. Grads.

Coed Tennis Group To Organize Today

Election of a chairman heads the agenda of this afternoon's meeting of the newly-formed coed tennis club, set for 4 o'clock in the women's gym, according to its sponsor, Miss Frances Burns, instructor in the physical education department.

Practice of advanced strokes and special instructions for each member are aims of the club, as well as sponsoring of both tournaments within the club and the approaching coed intramural tournament.

Cincinnati Reds Conquer Boston Red Sox In 8-6 Exhibition Encounter in Durham

Durham, April 13 — The emphasis was on hitting this afternoon when the Boston Red Sox and the Cincinnati Reds squared off in an inter-league exhibition contest. The Reds hammered out a close 8-6 victory over the World's champions.

Dom DiMaggio, little center gardner for the Bosox, led the hitting assault for both teams with four for five, including a triple. Both teams bashed out 15 hits apiece.

The American league representative proved the weaker fielding club, committing four errors.

Early Lead

The Reds took the lead in the bottom half of the first inning. Frank Baumholtz, Cincinnati lead-off man, opened with a double, scoring on Johnny Wyrostek's two-bagger and rightfielder Sam Mele's error. Wyrostek went to third on the miscue and scored on Grady Hatton's single. Mickey Harris, pitching for the Sox, then tightened up and, after getting Hank Sauer on a fly to left field, he forced Babe Young to hit into a double play.

Cincinnati counted once in the second inning, but it took a two-run splurge by the junior loop outfit to spur them on to even greater batting feats.

Wyrostek started off the big inning by slamming the first ball over the right field wall for a home run. A single and a pair of doubles sandwiched around a base on balls provided the remainder of the tallies.

The Bosox roared back in the next frame for two more runs. Harris singled and was brought home by DiMaggio's double. Dimag in turn was sent in on Pesky's one-base knock.

Settles Down

Harris settled down to shut the Reds out for the next four innings, but his mates didn't get him any runs until the top of the eighth when they dented the plate once on three singles. The National leaguers matched this run in their half of the frame and also disposed of starting pitcher Harris, who was forced to retire after a line drive off the bat of Buster Adams paused briefly on his left leg before continuinig on its journey. The Sox counted once more in the ninth, but fell two runs short of tying the count.

Tommy Hughes and Howie Fox did the chunking for the winners. Hughes getting credit for the win. Harris, who was replaced by Denny Galehouse, was tagged with the loss.

Boston (A)	002 200 011—6-15-2
Cinn. (N)	214 000 01x—8-15-1

Third Round Nears In Coed Badminton

Thirteen matches remain to be played in the second round of the coed intramural badminton tournament. They must be played off by Thursday night.

Matches to be played off are: Joyce Adams vs. Emily Baker, Peppy Lucas vs. Nancy Walker, Corinne Grimsley vs. Jean Somervell, Bunny Davis vs. Molly Blackburn, Sibyle Mitchell vs. Helen Bouldin, Estelly Jones vs. Sarah Walker, Carolyn Driver vs. Faith Adams, Pat Winslow vs. Ella Gray Wilson, Mary Ruth Davis vs. Doris Beasley, Marshall Spears vs. Helen Crockford, Frances Green vs. B. A. Pope, Ann Bumgardner vs. Elizabeth Browning, and Scotty Dellinger vs. Emily Ogburn.

Vandals in Cars Do Damage to Emerson

The destructive hand of vandalism struck out Monday night when two unidentified automobiles apparently in playful pursuit of each other, raced back and forth the diamond of Emerson field doing a large amount of damage.

The field had been recently restored to playing condition following the construction of a steam tunnel and the first strands of new grass were coming into view on the infield.

The two cars sped back and forth across the playing field, swerving at each base and going over the pitcher's mound on several occasions. The field was restored to playing condition by game time yesterday, but the damage to the sod will take several weeks to grow back.

Linksmen Leave For Wahoo Match

Carolina's once-beaten golf team will shove off for the University of Virginia this afternoon in an attempt to get back into the win column tomorrow at the expense of the Cavaliers in Charlottesville.

The Tar Heel linksmen will be at full strength for the match with Harvie Ward back from the Masters' and on the basis of comparative scores for the season, the local entry should take the Virginians into camp.

Coach Chuck Erickson will carry a full squad with him together with a couple of spares just in case. Making the trip along with Ward will be Bob Cox, Harvey Oliver, Frank Brooks, Jack Brantley, and Dan Nyimicz.

The team will drive to Charlottesville, arriving tonight, with the match scheduled 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Manager Bob Whelan will complete the party.

Carolina Captures Tenth Win; Engage Cavaliers Here Today

Raleigh, April 13 — Carolina's tennis team showed this afternoon that their nine previous victories weren't triumphs of southern climate over cold northern winds when they trounced State college netters, 9-0 in the Tar Heel's first Southern conference match.

Tomorrow the Blue and White takes on the University of Virginia raquet-weilders in Chapel Hill at 3 o'clock in what should be a close match. The final count last year was far from close, but each of the individual encounters were hard-fought. Hal Burroughs, Cavalier ace, had Vic Seixas at match point at one time in their battle.

The Tar Heel's had little dificulty in taking any of today's matches — in fact only the final set in the number two doubles contest went as far as deuce.

First Southern Foe

Carolina's victims up until now had all been clubs from up north making their southern training trips to get the kinks out of their games after a long cold winter. Many teams hadn't been outdoors for more than a week. However, today's triumph proved that it wasn't due to the weather and Coach John Kenfield's charges could roll up a big score against a local school.

Ray Morris and Charley Rice were the "victims" of the State "uprising". After taking the first set, 6-3, the duo eased up on Angelo Montesanti and Charley Boney and the second canto went 14 games before the Tar Heels came out on top, 8-6.

Everybody, but Seixas and Ray Morris had at least one whitewashing to his credit.

The summary:

Singles — Seixas (C) defeated Culbertson, 6-1, 6-2. Taylor (C) defeated Boney, 6-0, 6-1. Morris (C) defeated Guirette, 6-1, 6-1. Rice (C) defeated Montesanti, 6-0, 6-3. Skakle (C) defeated Kohn, 6-0, 6-1. Alexander (C) defeated Sherrill, 6-4, 6-0.

Doubles — Seixas-Taylor (C) defeated Culbertson-Guirette, 6-2, 6-1. Morris-Rice (C) defeated Montesanti-Boney, 6-3, 8-6. Skakle-Wilder (C) defeated Messich-Ragan, 6-3, 6-4.

Ridgeway's
OPTICIANS
Complete Eyeglass Service
Prompt attention to all mail orders
PROFESSIONAL BUILDING
Raleigh N. C.

JOHN WAYNE
ANN DVORAK
FLAME OF BARBARY COAST
featuring
JOSEPH SCHILDKRAUT
and
WILLIAM FRAWLEY
VIRGINIA GREY
TODAY
VILLAGE

Jayvee Nine Drilling for High Point Contest Saturday; May Play Duke at Durham Tomorrow

The freshman baseball team had a day off yesterday so that they could either view the contest between the varsity and Wake Forest or journey to Durham to watch the big leaguers in action.

The jayvees will resume drills today in preparation for their return match with the High Point Bisons Saturday. The last time the two nines met the Bisons shut the Housemen out, 3-0, in the furniture city.

A game with Duke to be played in Durham tomorrow is in the tentative stage. Ed Gaston will start on the hill for the Tar Babies if the Blue Imps furnish the opposition.

Ralph Brake will open against the Pointers on Saturday in search of his first decision. Gaston's last assignment was against High Point when he came in to relieve starter Les Sharpe.

Bill McGinn. who has received credit for both the Tar Baby's victories didn't get a rest with the remainder of his teammates. He pitched batting practice for the varsity yesterday before they took the field against the Deacons.

In eighteen innings of work the freshman lefthander has given up exactly five hits. Four were struck out by the Greensboro Whirlies in the Tar Baby's opening game. His last time out McGinn let Presbyterian Junior college down with a single infield safety.

The 20 men that McGinn has whiffed and the fact that none of the hits were for extra bases speak well for the southpaw chunker, but. like so many portsiders, McGinn has a tendency towards wildness. Twenty-one men have received free passes in the 18 innings and one man was hit by one of his slants.

Regular hitting and fielding drills will mark todays workout with some attention being given to play situations.

With the exception of second base, the usual line-up will open against High Point or Duke, if the contest is scheduled. "Boll" Waevil and Stan Goodman are waging a spirited fight for permanent possession of the keystone sack and Coach Henry House is trying to give both boys a chance to show what they can do.

Lloyd Electric Co.
F-3862 CARRBORO
Sales & Service
For
• L&H ELECTRIC STOVES
• JUD-WHITEHEAD & RED CROWN HOT WATER HEATERS
We specialize in wiring new construction and in general repair.

What Powell's
COLONIAL HOUSE SYSTEM
GRILLED TARHEELIAS
CAROLINA WAFFLES
Rosemary St.—Opp. City Hall

Dr. William T. Kohn
announces the opening of his office
for the practice of
OPTOMETRY
Visual Training
Contact Lenses
Call 3686
Office Hours Daily and by Appointment
Monday-Friday 9:00-5:00
Saturday 9:00-1:00
Chapel Hill
over Carolina Coffee Shop

THE WORLD'S GREATEST MUSICAL STARS LOVE IT!
"MAGNIFICENT" says RISE STEVENS
"BEAUTIFUL" says GLADYS SWARTHOUT
"STIRRING" says RICHARD BONELLI
Song of My Heart
The screen's first great love story set to the music of TCHAIKOVSKY!
TODAY
CAROLINA

Sixteen Million Three Hundred Thousand
PEOPLE TRAVELED BY CAROLINA TRAILWAYS IN 1947
That vast group, your neighbors, was made up of intercity and cross country travelers, daily workers, students, and shoppers intent on securing convenient and comfortable transportation at the lowest possible cost. That's why they chose to go by our popular Cream and Crimson buses and why more people are turning daily to Trailways for essential and pleasure travel.
You, too, will like the frequent departures which enable you to travel at convenient hours. You will like our courteous safe drivers and you'll save money too! Begin now — travel Trailways.
For schedules and fares, call
CHAPEL HILL BUS STATION
311 W. FRANKLIN ST. PHONE 4281
9 trips daily to GREENSBORO SALISBURY ASHEVILLE CHARLOTTE
3 trips daily to DANVILLE LYNCHBURG WASHINGTON NEW YORK
(other Washington schedules via Durham)
21 trips daily to Durham & Raleigh
NATIONAL TRAILWAYS BUS SYSTEM
Carolina TRAILWAYS

Theater Meet Hears Talk By Paul Green

Paul Green, Pulitzer prize-winning playwright and author of "The Lost Colony" and "The Common Glory", yesterday addressed the Southeastern Theatre Conference which began a two-day session at the University yesterday morning.

Delegates from theatre groups in 14 Southeastern states are attending.

Subject of Green's talk was "Our Opportunities in the South," and he spoke to the afternoon session of the assembly in the Playmaker theater, following reports from the different sections of the South. Margo Jones, Broadway director and managing director of Theater 48, Dallas, Texas, made the opening address of the meeting at a luncheon, following a message of greeting from Chancellor Robert B. House.

A report on theater activity in Kentucky, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia was given by Leo Brady, instructor of playwritting at Catholic University, and Robert Dale Martin reported on activities in Georgia, the Carolinas and Tennessee. Martin is director of the Augusta Players, Augusta, Ga.

A survey of theater work in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Louisiana, and Mississippi was given by Wilbur Stout, Mississippi Southern college, Hattiesburg, Miss.

Last night the group attended a special performance of Gene A. McLain's new play, "Call Back Yesterday," which was recently given its premiere by the Playmakers. Playmaker Director Samuel Selden introduced the playwright, and a discussion followed the presentation.

-Baseball-

(Continued from page 3)

started the eighth with another line safety and that was all in the way of power display for the Deacons on this particular afternoon.

The triumph was the third of the year for the Cana Cannonball, who now leads the Carolina mound staff in that respect. Vinnie DiLorenzo, slated to hurl tomorrow against Furman, sports a 2-0 record and Ray Blair has the credit for the team's other win.

Tar Heel hurlers have given up exactly 11 hits and three runs in the last three games. DiLorenzo won a three-hit, 12-1 affair over Clemson last Friday and Blair followed with a six-hit, 10-2 triumph.

-Girl-

(Continued from page 1)

keep her ourselves because we have only three cents now. It hurts me very much even while writing this note."

Cohen cleared his throat and read on. The note added, "Baby has not eaten all day. Her name is Georgianna and she is Catholic."

is Catholic."

Georgianna looked gravely at Cohen, and he said, "I guess we can forget about any charges of abandonment in this case if the parents will come back."

ITALIAN POLICE check through machine guns, belts of ammunition and small arms which they found cached in the walls of a farm house near Milan. It was believed that the collection of equipment was part of a mass of Communist supplies secreted in the vicinity. The search was one of many being made before the crucial April 18 election. (International)

DORM ROOMS AVAILABLE

These students are now eligible for dormitory rooms. If they do not claim them by tomorrow their deposits will be refunded and their applications cancelled.

Frontis Clyde Allen, Ayers, Kenneth Aubrey, Blalock, Jack Staten, Boone, Samuel V., Coward, Reid Carr, Davis, Gene Torrence, Hamilton, Harry H. Harrell, William Norwood, Martin, Billy Sloan, Remsburg, Robert Louis, Reynolds, Jr., George Montgomery, Ross, Bobby Hunter, Williams, James Randolph, Young, Jr., Hough Douglas.

-Kyser-

(Continued from page 1)

number of men who may be tapped since the current roster of Fleecemen select their own additions on the basis of the percentage of men students on campus deemed qualified.

In it 45 years, the Fleece has already honored 440 people. Its roll lists such prominent dignitaries as O. Max Gardner and J. C. B. Ehringhaus, ex-governors, and R. Mayne Albright, a present gubernatorial candidate; Horace Williams, Frank P. Graham, Jefferson B. Fordham, and Robert B. House, educators; Robert M. Hanes and T. C. Boushell, bankers; Thomas Wolfe, author, and Hatcher Hughes, Pulitzer Prize winner in the drama field: J. Wallace Winborne, Supreme Court justice, and Walter P. Stacy, chief justice of the State Supreme Court; William B. Umstead, U. S. Senator; Niles W. Bond and Dr. Eben Alexander, U. S. envoys to Japan and Greece, respectively; Gordon Gray and A. L. M. Wiggins, U. S. undersecretaries of the Army and Treasury; Sheppard Strudwick, a move actor better known as John Sheppard; and Thor Johnson, conductor of the Cincinnati symphony.

These and all other living Fleece alumni will be invited to Monday evening's ceremony. As alumni and as University faculty members and students, members of the Fleece perform no public activities as a group. Instead, they work individually to better the campus, state, and nation.

-UMT-

(Continued from page 1)

General Pearson tartly stated, "If someone tells you of push-button warfare, get the details and let the Army and Navy know about it."

In declaring that the United States must have strength to insure respect for the democratic way of life General Pearson called for universal military training and the draft in order to build fighting forces to minimum requirements. He also stated that island bases and other strategic points outside of the United States should be implemented for the air force which would be a telling arm of defense in the event of an attack on this country.

In presenting a geographical approach to the subject, Dr. Samuel T. Emory of the geograhpy department pointed out that Russia holds the strategic core of the European land mass and is pressing against the western perimeter of this core in order that she may control the whole of Europe. Dr. Emory declared that the importance of Russia's position has been recognized in the past by other powers. He named Nazi Germany as one of these powers.

Dr. C. H. Pegg of the history department condoned the Marshall Plan as a means of filling the "power vacuums" left in Europe as a consequence of the last war. He declared that by putting the weakened nations of western Europe on their feet Russia would be halted.

Dr. Nathan Rosen of the physics department expressed his belief that mediation should be stressed and that UMT is not necessarily a solution of the problem because of the nature of modern weapons.

Dr. C. B. Robson of the department of political science stated that the United Nations can provide a collective security for members working together. He said, however, that "the UN is definitely not a world government."

HouseAppropriationsCommitteePassesAviationBill

Symington Says Russia Building Great Air Force

Washington, April 13 —(UP)— The House rushed a large aviation spending bill through committee today shortly after Air Secretary Symington warned that Russia is outproducing America 12 to 1 in air power.

building the World's greatest air Symington says Russia is force in order to, as he put it, "Reach a decision with this country."

The House Appropriations committee then okayed the $2,000,000,000 aviation bill and agreed to start floor debate on the measure tomorrow.

This appropriation boost will give the air forces and Navy a total of $4,000,000,000 dollars to spend in the aircraft industry. Most of it will go to buy more than 3,000 planes.

"The Russian air force is a lot bigger than ours and getting bigger every day," he testified, "The Russians seem to want to reach a decision with this country and they want to reach it in the air."

Symington went along with other military leaders urging prompt action on the draft law. He said the air forces can raise all the men they need through recruiting, but the Army and Navy need the draft law to keep rard to Buchan's 531, 100 in Alderman to 73, 109 in Ruffin to 158, and 178 in Aycock to Buchan's 242.

-Election-

(Continued from page 1)

With ballot-counting beginning in Graham Memorial at approximately 7:15, Charlie Long conceded to Jess Dedmond shortly after 9 o'clock. Long submitted the following statement to the Daily Tar Heel shortly before presstime last night:

"I wish to congratulate Mr. Dedmond on winning the election and thank all those students who voted for me in the presidential race.

"Especially do I want to express my appreciation for those who gave their time and energies in conducting the campaign in my behalf. It is my wholehearted belief that the Student party which endorsed me in the runoff race should accept the vote tendered to them as a mandate to continue the fight for the things for which we jointly stood in the campaign.

"Finally, I wish to pledge my support to the incoming administration, whenever and where ever possible, to carry forward our system of government on the high level of principles, justice and right."

JUST to make sure that the cameras can roll on time, John Ridgely Howard, the son of star Dorothy Lamour, helps his mother with her coiffure on a Hollywood movie lot. Judging by her expression, Johnnie seems to be putting too much enthusiasm into his work. (International)

Movie Filmed In N. C. Will Be Shown Here

"The New Tobacco Land—U. S. A." a technicolor movie filmed largely in North Carolina, will be shown at several outdoor locations on campus in the next few days by the local Chesterfield representatives. Tonight's showing will be at 7:30 on the lawn in front of Graham Memorial, and at other times it will be shown in fraternity court and dormitory quadrangles.

Produced by Louis de Rochemont, producer of the March of Time and of such films as "The House on 92nd Street," the film is heralded as an accurate study of tobaccoland.

Students May Register For Courses To Be Held In Germany This Summer

Students may now register for three International Holiday courses which will be held in Germany next summer at the Universities of Munich, Heidelberg, and Marburg from July 24 through August 13.

Each course will be for three weeks' duration, and enrollment in each university will be 100 foreign and 200 German students.

The planning for these courses has been a joint project of the university faculties and of military government education officers. These committees have agreed to waive tuition costs to entering foreign students, have selected the courses and professors, and have arranged for living accomodations.

The total living costs at the university will be $50 for foreign students. This does not include transportation to or from the university city, but includes room, board, and all fees. Scholarships are available for foreign students.

The purpose of the course is to foster international understanding among university students. This is the first large-scale attempt to carry out such a project in the American zone.

Courses being offered are political science, economics, sociology, history, comparative religion and others. These courses will be built around a general theme such as "Man in Today's World." Eminent foreign professors from Rome, Zurich, Paris, London, and from America will constitute the faculty, together with German professors from German universities.

Foreign students who wish to enroll should register airmail with Office of Cultural Exchange Education and Cultural Relations Division, APO 742, c/o Postmaster New York. This letter of registration, which will be considered enrollment except under unusual circumstances, must include the following material:

1. A short personal history 2. Major and minor fields of study 3. Type and extent of student extra-curricular activity participation. 4. The German university preferred. 5. A statement of the student's facility with the German language. 6. A statement of scholarship need and reasons for request. 7. A certification by the student's university or college that he or she is in good standing and is recommended for enrollment.

-Coeds-

(Continued from page 1)

tees will be Hilda Sharkey, Sue Stokes, Bail Hancock, Joan Lucus, and Jean Roberts.

Interdorm council members inducted at the ceremony will include Sue Stokes, president, Sally Jackson, Ann Wells, Mocile Day, Ann Carlton, Mary Glenn Salder, Nan Reed, Mary Jo Cain, Betty Ann Covington, Joan Lucas, Rita Adams, and Tandy Lacy.

Officers for YWCA will be Mary Ann Danel, president; Miria Davis, vice-president; Sally Woodhull, secretary; Peggy Egerton, membership chairman; Virginia Nash, treasurer and members of the YWCA cabinet.

IT HAPPENED IN KANSAS

Coffeyville, Kan., —(UP)—The name perhaps played no part in the result, but Bob Dry finished second in a high school free style swimming match here. The winner was Dick Stein.

CICA MEETING

There will be a meeting of the Carolina Independent Coed Association tonight at 7 o'clock in the Y building.

KANTWET PADS
For The
BASSINET ,CRIB
PLAYPEN, STROLLER
And
HIGH CHAIR
BABY SHOP

CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE 5B

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed and being completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogerson Drive. Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. Telephone F-2906. (1-chlx2-1)

27 FT. HOUSE TRAILER, SLEEPS four. 82 Pittsboro Road Trailer Court. Inquire between 5 and 6 p.m. (1-115-1)

ATTRACTIVE TWO BEDROOM house, 31 Oakwood Drive, Chapel Hill. Excellent location, spacious grounds, Owner leaving town. Phone F3216, Hector MacLean. (1-126-1)

MUST SELL 22 FOOT NATIONAL house trailer. Will sleep 4. Butane gas stove, kitchenware, electric heater. $475 cash. Excellent buy! Apply 230 Nash Hall Trailer Court. (1-135-1)

MAN'S ENGLISH BICYCLE, 3 SPEED gears $45. Phone 7551. (1-123-1)

ALMOST NEW INNER SPRING MATtress for double bed. Forced to move and must sell. Call 6726 evenings. (1-134-1)

LARGE TABLE MODEL RCA-VICTOR Radio-Phonograph. Automatic changer. Fine tone. Call Stricklin, 9881, evenings from 8:30 to 11. (1-129-1)

FOR SALE AUTOMOTIVE 6BB

1937 FORD TUDOR. EXCELLENT condition, extra clean, new seat covers. New Engine, generator, carburetor, tie rod ends, drag link, brake cables and brake lining, good tires, good paint, sealed beam headlights. Radio and heater. Economical transportation. Thomas M. Bradford, Lot 66, University Trailer Ct., Pittsboro Rd. (1-128-2)

BEST LOOKING, BEST RUNNING Jeep on campus—new spare and other extras. Dial 9611 or see at 306 McCauley Street after 12 noon. (1-131-1)

'39 PLYMOUTH FOUR DOOR SEDAN. Radio, heater and four good tires. Motor in excellent condition. T. H. Yates, Phone F-3951. (ch 1x1)

LOST 12

AT HOGAN'S LAKE FRIDAY AFTERnoon one yellow gold Wittnauer wrist watch. Has a sweep second hand, gold facing. Please return c|o DTH and receive reward. (1-132-1)

KEY CHAIN CONTAINING FIVE OR six keys and miniature license No. 264-224. Reward if returned to Hill Bakery. (ch 1x1)

RED COCKER SPANIEL — FEMALE. Answers to name of "Folly." If found, please call F-3051. (1-139-1)

SAE FRAT PIN. REWARD TO FINDer. Phone F-2031. (1-138-1)

WANTED TO RENT 24B

APARTMENT FOR TWO YEARS FOR couple. Write 821 Second St., Durham. Phone X-5012. (1-113-1)

$50.00 REWARD FOR FURNISHED two or three room apartment, veteran student and wife. Must be within walking distance of campus. Urgently needed. Write Box 1101, Chapel Hill. (1-125-1)

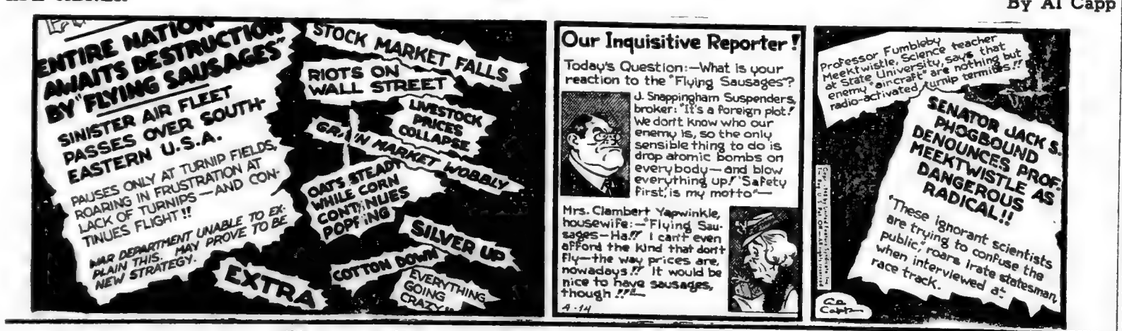
SOLD OUT—STUDENT AND WIFE forced to vacate room because house has been sold. Need room from May 1st until June graduation. Call 6726 evenings. (1-133-1)

WANTED 24

IF YOU HAVE A CLEAN USED CAR for sale see us first. Strowd Motor Co., Your Ford Dealer, Phone 5161. (ch 1x1)

WANT TO GIVE AWAY ONE OF TWO adorable five-weeks-old kittens. Your choice. See Hobart McKeever, 215½ Cameron Ave. (1-136-1)

FOR RENT 6A



24 FOOT GLIDER HOUSE TRAILER lot number 76 University married couples Trailer Court or box 701 Chapel Hill. (1-137-1)

REHDERS
CHAPEL HILL FLOWER SHOP
Opposite Post Office Corner

Hot Weather Calls for Haircuts—Therefore We are Calling You
CAROLINA BARBER SHOP

University Florist
"For the Best in Flowers"
Pick Theatre Bldg.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Telephone 9816

LI'L ABNER — By Al Capp

Cheese Blintzes today — at HARRY'S

FOR EXTRA HEAVY DATES

Arrow Sussex Collar Shirts With French Cuffs

For special occasions nothing is more successful than an Arrow Sussex. Looks especially smart with a Windsor knot tie!

Sussex is the favorite widespread collar shirt of college men and is made in fine Gordon oxford cloth as well as broadcloth.

Sussex comes in white, solid colors, and stripes with either french or plain cuffs and is Sanforized labeled, guaranteeing less than 1% shrinkage . . . $3.50 and up.

ARROW SHIRTS and TIES
UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • SPORTS SHIRTS

Follow the ARROW
TO Varsity

NOW AVAILABLE AT
SUTTON'S DRUG STORE

April-May nail lacquer creamy and luminous, 1.00.
Superb lip pencil, 1.25, 1.75, 2.50.
Matching rouge, 1.50.
prices plus taxes

SUTTON'S Drug Store
The most complete line of cosmetics in the South
"Your Walgreen Agency"

WEATHER
Cloudy and cooler.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
No Race Track
A Look at Lewis
Come and See Us

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., THURSDAY, APRIL 15, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | NO. 141

UNABLE TO STOP A LARGE TRUCK from entering the strike-bound Cudahy meat-packing plant in Kansas City, Kansas, a picket (right) hurls a stick toward the windshield. A group of idle strikers (center) look on. The picket had sought to halt the truck and search it for workers seeking to cross the lines. (International)

Campus Groups Sign Up for Valkyrie Sing; Winners To Be Presented With Loving Cups

Fourteen campus organizations have entered the annual Valkyrie Sing which will be held Monday evening in Memorial hall, according to an announcement by Bill Lloyd and Miriam Evans, co-chairmen.

The groups which have entered the contest are Sigma Chi, Sigma Nu, Phi Delta Theta, Delta Kappa Epsilon, and Lambda Chi Alpha.

Everett, McIver, and Smith Omega, Delta Delta Delta, Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Gamma Delta, and Sigma Alpha Iota, music sorority.

The winners in the men and women's groups will be presented with loving cups. Last years winners were Phi Gamma Delta and Alpha Delta Pi. Judges for the event will be Robert Schenkkan of the Radio department, Gene Stryker of the Music department, and Robert "Spike" Nelson, assistant pastor of the Methodist church.

Preceding the Valkyrie Sing, The Order of the Golden Fleece, highest men's honorary on the campus, will tap new members.

Valkyries, sponsors of the Sing, is the highest women's honorary organization on campus, and is limited in membership to two per cent of the coed enrollment. Membership is based on outstanding leadership, character, sound judgment, unselfish service to the campus, and fine scholarship.

Current officers of Valkyries are Jo Fishel, president; Marshall Spears, vice-president; Julia Ross, secretary; Bill Lloyd, treasurer; and Barbara Cashion, alumnae secretary.

Bill Favoring Sales Tax Abolishment Is Defeated by Phi Assembly, 10-7

The Phi assembly passed by a 10-7 vote Tuesday night a bill favoring the abolition of the three per cent sales tax now levied on retail sales in North Carolina. In a vote taken of the entire delegation a 14-9 majority favored the bill.

Speaking in favor of the bill, Wimb Erwin said, "Sales tax is regressive and should be progressive. A man who has the ability to pay should be taxed accordingly and the poor people in the country should not have to suffer."

Ernie House stated "The great inequity and injustice of the sales tax is the main objection. If we continue to make the poorer classes pay sales tax, we cannot expect them to raise their standards."

Page Harris brought out that "there is at the present time a tremendous surplus in the State treasury and that the sales tax law was passed in 1932 as an emergency measure. If the state feels that the $27,000,000 a year that it is now receiving is necessary, I suggest taxes be raised on alcoholic beverages."

Charlie Britt in upholding the opposition said, "Today, all food articles except a few are exempt from sales tax. Tax from sales varies uniformly with business conditions. If North Carolina raises its taxes on industries, we will see a large exodus of industries to states where there is a lower tax rate."

A substitute resolution introduced by Pete Gerns favoring modeling North Carolina sales tax on Ohio's state system was defeated after a few minutes of discussion.

In an executive meeting held following the regular session Herman Seiber was chosen to represent the Phi at the CCUN Little Assembly Tuesday night.

Quarterly Board Makes Decisions

In a meeting of the Executive committee and Faculty Advisory committee of the Carolina Quarterly, recently committee members decided that the editorial board of the proposed quarterly should consist of an editor-in-chief, an assistant editor, a board of executive editors, composed of a literary editor, a poetry editor, a make-up editor a current affairs editor and a feature editor.

After the original Editor-in-chief is selected by the two committees, his successor will be chosen from submitted applications by the committees, the incumbent editor and business manager.

In a report made by the Production and Costs committee, it was shown that after investigation of six print shops that the best rates for publication of the proposed quarterly were offered by the Orange Print Shop in Chapel Hill.

YW Committee Heads Selected by Daniels

Coeds to serve as chairmen of YWCA committees for the next year have been picked by Mary Ann Daniel, new president, with the approval of "Y" secretary Mrs. Betty Rose Dowden and the executive council. Chairmen were appointed from girls chosen to the Y Junior council earlier in the year.

Chairmen are Emily Baker, public affairs; Virginia Forward and Tenn Mason, publicity; Jean McKeithan, member-at-large, representative to CRIL; Helen Neighbors, Cabinet worship; Sue Stokes and Teeny Royall, worship; Gray Sanders, race relations; Ann Carlton, international club; Emily Ogburn, recreation; and B. A. Pope, Mary Glenn Slader and Jean Somervell, "Y"-Teens;

Betty Parkinson, dorm stores; Ann Wells, public affairs; Sally Woodhull and Edie Knight, WSSF; Pat McNutt, Religion in Life week; Kathryn Hovis, library; Majorie Yokeley, Ida Constable, and Bert Kaplan, social service; Janie Pointer and Gwyn Howard, music; and Faith Adams careers.

Council Report Given By Donnie MacDonald

A report describing the work of the Women's Honor council during the past year was given by Donleen MacDonald at a meeting of the Coed Senate Tuesday night.

This report was followed with an account by Ann Wells of the CCUN conference in Chicago to which she was a representative.

Plans were then made for the orientation of new Senate members that they might become acquainted with their duties for the coming year.

Barbara Cashion, speaker, requested that each member make a complete report of their committee work done this year presenting the accomplishments and problems which confronted them.

These reports along with suggestions from the committees will serve as part of the orientation program for the new Senate members.

A bill was also passed by the Senate donating $100 to the KE society, Honorary Pharmaceutical group, after a petition had been presented by Lynn Blanchard who discussed the expense of the society in detail.

CP LEGISLATORS

Old and newly-elected Campus party legislators have been asked to attend a meeting to be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Roland Parker lounge No. 2 of Graham Memorial.

WNC Club to Have Party at Hogans Lake

The day next week for the Western North Carolina club's "free-flowing" party at Hogans Lake will be decided tonight at a meeting of the club in Roland Parker lounge at 7:30, announced club president Bud Reagan yesterday.

"Tentative plans for a beach party of club members will be discussed at tonights meeting," said Reagan, "and it is imperative that as many of the members be present as possible."

UP LEGISLATORS

There will be an "urgent" meeting of University party members of the Student Legislature at 3 o'clock this afternoon in Graham Memorial.

Saleeby, Barnes Lead Classes; Boren, Smith Capture Council Posts

By John Stump

Dick Boren and Charles Smith annexed runoff triumphes Tuesday by 935 and 832 votes respectively to edge into Men's honor council junior posts ahead of Charlie Loudermilk who polled 661 votes. All three candidates had been nominated by the non-partisan selection board.

In runoff votes for six months terms in the Student Legislature, Bob Allen (SP) with 624 votes, John Rosser (CP) who polled 518, and Durwood Jones who was named on 489 ballots took the three seats being contested. The trio defeated Bob Baxter (SP) 450 and Bob Payne (SP) 449 in a close race which saw no UP nominees entered.

On the women's side of the Legislature picture. winning runoff nominees were Barbara Cashion, Kate Conner, Mary Ann Daniel, Patsy McNutt, and Ann Wells. The vote totaled Cashion, 153; Connor, 123; Daniels, 131; Emily Ogburn, 121; McNutt, 170; Lindsay Tate, 120; and Wells, 130.

Other coeds elected in the light balloting held this week include Francis Angas who bested Teenie Royall by a 106 to 69 margin in the runoff contest for speaker of the Coed Senate and Randy Hudson who outlasted Becky Holton, 97 to 76, to become president of the Women's Athletic Association.

The new slate of sophomore and senior class officers, some of whom were elected a week ago

(See ELECTIONS, page 4)

Training Program for Coed Officers Starts Next Week Under Coed Senate

A practical training program for all newly elected coed officers will be given under the direction of the Coed Senate Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday nights of next week, according to an announcement made yesterday by Sadie Pearson, chairman of the program.

Although aimed particularly at acquainting new officers with their duties and the responsibility they hold, the program will be open to all interested coeds, who are particularly urged to attend the mass meeting which will aid them in cooperating with their newly elected leaders.

"Leadership-Followship" will be the topic of the first mass meeting, to be held Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in the main lounge of Graham Memorial. Mrs. Betty Rose Dowden, executive secretary of the YWCA and the Rev. Charles M. Jones of the Presbyterian church will speak.

Other mass meetings will be Wednesday at 5 o'clock, when Barbara Cashion will speak on "Student Government;" and Wednesday at 7 o'clock, when Dr. Ned Woodhouse of the political science department will speak on "Parliamentary Procedure."

In addition to the mass meetings, which are of interest to all coeds, discussion groups involving the duties of particular offices will be led by senior women who have held positions. All those who will be leading discussion groups are requested to attend a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock on the second floor of the "Y" building.

April 'Popular Government' Includes Survey of N. C. Elections Regulations

The April issue of "Popular Government," a monthly publication by the Institute of Government here, includes a complete survey of North Carolina election laws and regulations, Institute of Government officials announced yesterday.

Serving as an elections guidebook, the current issue of the magazine will be sent to election officers throughout the state.

Henry W. Lewis of the Institue staff compiled the material which went into the guidebook issue of the publication. The information is entitled, "Instructions for Use in Party Primaries and General Elections."

The study is prefaced by the following statement by judge Hubert E. Olive and Raymond C. Maxwell, chairman and secretary of the State Board of Elections:

"We have reviewed the election law material in this issue of "Popular Government' and find it to be an accurate study of the law as interpreted by the State Board of Elections. We recommend that it be used not only by all officials, but by teachers, civic organizations and all citizens interested in learning about the election procedures of North Carolina."

The following statement was recently released by the Institute of Government:

"North Carolina's election laws come in for close study by election officials, candidates, and

(See LAWS, page 4)

Eric Hass Will Lecture in Hill Hall Tonight; CPU Sponsoring Noted Socialist Organizer

Eric Hass, national organizer for the Socialist Labor party and editor of the party newspaper, the "Weekly People," will speak in Hill hall tonight at 8 o'clock.

Hass, appearing under the auspices of the Carolina Political union, campus non-partisan political discussion group, is one in a series of guest speakers who will present different sides of American politics. He will speak on the contrast of the Wallce Reforms and the Socialist revolution.

For several years Hass was toured by the party as a national organizer, principally on the West coast, where he is well-known both as a platform and a radio speaker.

A three-times candidate for the United States Senate for the Socialist Labor party, Hass was mayor of New York City in 1941 and 1945, and attorney-general of the state of New York in 1942.

ERIC HASS

Hass is the author of a number of pamphlets which include an analysis and exposure of John L. Lewis, chief of the United Mine Workers.

WITH THE QUEENSBORO BRIDGE in the background, New York firemen are shown as they continued to pour water on the remains of a marble plant after fire swept through it. Five alarms were turned in before the conflagration, which resulted in damages estimated at $750,000, was brought under control. Nine firemen were hurt battling the blaze which threatened nearby oil storage tanks and a lumber yard. (International)

Dogs, Horses, Chariot March on Y Court Along With 13 Other Weird Campus Leaders

By Charlie Gibson

Yesterday around noon the University's tradition-steeped Y court was invaded by 13 weirdly-dressed characters, 12 dissatisfied dogs, three horses, a chariot, and an amazed crowd of onlookers.

More than half of the throng present, excluding animals, found it hard to believe that this was a "ceremony" honoring distinguished student leaders selected for membership in the Order of the Grail, campus honorary organization.

The entire affair was more like something Dali, Disney, and Durante would produce. General commotion began when Emile Saleeby appeared as the Town Crier, wearing a suit made of funny papers and riding a glue-factory fugitive that in its youth might have been a white stallion.

Rain? Naturally!

The mob Saleeby summoned to the Y court witnessed utter — ah — well, what would you call it in print? Anyway, it was worth standing in the inevitable rain to see before a temporary recess in Gerrard hall.

Monroe Landreth was betogaed as Julius Caseer, completely equipped with a horse-drawn chariot that may be a manure wagon again by now. Norm Sper twitched here and there as an attractive young coed with "department store accessories" and thrilled a mixed audience with advice as to "How to Catch a Man."

Rain-Wet Diaper

Jim Godwin's diaper was all rain-wet before he gave a tongue-tied recitation on the "Disadvantages of Being a Baby." Meigs Golden as a black-faced mammy insisted that he was a qualified authority on "Homemaking" since he was a carpenter in the last war and built a well-received house in Raleigh for a lady named Katherine.

Stan "Twinkletoes" Marzyck in dainty white tights stole the show with his 265-pound demonstration of ballet dancing. In another terpsichorean fete, Jess Dedmond's imitation of a fan-dancing "Stormy' was rather strained because of excessive fans and clothing, not to mention miscast physique.

Hunting in Aboretum

Len Butt was a red Indian chief, carrying a full-sized drum as a tom-tom and reminiscing in one-syllable words of "Happy Days in the Arboretum before Woman and White Man Came." Pioneer Bob Haire in a coon-skin cap gave a dissertation on "Squirrel Shooting" before General Paige Harris in an officer's jacket, medals, and red flannel made a stirring recruiting speech that sounded hung-over from one of the UMT meetings.

Steve Millikan in a scholarly cap and gown presented a revealing lecture on marriage with pin-up illustrations. Earl Fitzgerald plunked at a "gitar" and did his bit as a torch-singer.

Dog Biscuits

But it was Ed Joyner whose tardy entrance almost convulsed the assembly. Joyner as Rip Van

(See GRAIL, page 4)

Humber Believes 55 to 57 Countries Would Participate in World Order

"I believe that 55 to 57 nations would join in a world order now," declared Robert Lee Humber in an address sponsored Tuesday night by the campus Young Democrat club, "if the United States would take the initative." The topic of his address was "Party Politics in International Affairs."

Humber, a renowned World Federalist, went on to say that almost every small nation was willing to join a world federation, and that of the five great nations, China, France, and Britain had expressed acceptance of such an organization if it should be founded.

Stir Up Opinion

In the United States, Humber said that it was just a matter of "stirring up public opinion." He declared that "the sovereignty of America is still in the village green.

As for Russia, Humber said, "Only Russia can speak for Russia; I will not attempt to."

According to Humber, the force of nationalism, which has ruled the world for 160 years since the decline of feudalism, is now revealing its incapacity to govern human society. To replace the force of nationalism, he called for a world federation "to stand for a world order based on world justice, law."

World Federation

"Do on a world level what we have done on a national level, a state level," said Humber. He stated that until we get an effective world federation, there will be no real world order, just suspended wars.

"Remember," he said, "we are behind the United Nations as a first step."

Humber's "federation" means an organization within which each country would retain its domestic sovereignty, delegating to the world government only such powers as are needed to maintain law and order among nations.

"If we get rid of this fighting war," Humber stated, "we can get down to the real war, war against ignorance, poverty, and disease. Time is running out, and it is shorter than we think."

Humber said that "there has been in the Democratic party an emphasis on liberalism in international affairs."

He was of the opinion that Woodrow Wilson "gave to America a reputation which still persists. The common men knew

(See HUMBER, page 4)

Wallace Group To Hear Reports

The Wallace club will hear a report on the National Students for Wallace convention from Bill Evans, graduate student, and Claude Dunnigan of Chapel Hill at 7:30 in Bingham 103 tomorrow night.

The convention was held at the University of Chicago last weekend, with college students from 46 states attending the gathering which was held in conjunction with the convention of the Progressive party. Third-party candidates Henry A. Wallace and Senator Glen Taylor spoke at the meeting.

Evans and Dunnigan will report on the growth of the third party, its platform, and the activities and plans of the National Students for Wallace. They will also give excerpts from the speech made by Wallace before the 21,000 people at the Chicago stadium.

All members of the club and any interested persons are invited to attend the meeting.

Bill Richardson, president of the Campus Wallace club who also attended the Chicago convention, will speak this weekend before the New Jersey state committee for Wallace.

Deadline Is Extended For May Issue of Mag

The deadline for the May issue of the Carolina Magazine has been extended to Saturday, April 17.

This is the last day that material will be accepted for the May issue. All features, short stories, and vignettes should be turned in by that date. Any student in the creative writing classes of Eaton and Phillip Russel who has back material should turn this material in by the deadline.

The May issue of the mag is to be the issue that carries a special section on the celebrated author Thomas Wolfe. All poems, stories, and other works on Wolfe should be turned in as soon as possible.

No Race Track

Persons who commit acts of vandalism probably seldom think of themselves as vandals. But their acts are no less destructive because they are done unthinkingly rather than maliciously.

The persons who used Emerson field as a race track Monday night probably do not consider themselves vandals. Nevertheless they did a masterful job of tearing up the baseball diamond. Two games had already been called off last week because of the poor condition of the field and the diamond had just been worked into shape for opening of the baseball season. It was only by dint of much extra work and expense that Monday night's damage was repaired in time for the game with Wake Forest yesterday afternoon.

This is not the first time that unthinking or uncaring students have done damage to the University's athletic fields by driving automobiles over them. These athletic fields are maintained for the enjoyment of the whole student body. It is not the privilege of a few to destroy them.

In issuing a request that such acts not be repeated, Tom Eller, president of the student body, said yesterday, "I am certain that the actions were done in thoughtless fun, and I am equally certain that students will respond in the way they usually do — with their best cooperation."

We think that request could have been couched in much stronger language.

The U.N. In Action

One of the more progressive moves on campus recently is the planned Mock Security Council of the UN, set for next Tuesday night by the Carolina Chapter of CCUN. Eleven organizations on campus have been invited to attend with one delegate and two advisors. Each of the delegates will represent one of the elecen countries on the council.

The meeting will give students an excellent opportunity to have an inside view of the happenings of one branch of the United aNtions and will, if the delegates prepare their cases sincerely, present points on the operations of the various nations in the Security Council.

The mock council will discuss as their main issue the Communist coup in Czechoslavakia. Highlight of the assembly, according to student interest, will be the appearance of the Communist Party in Chapel Hill to represent the interests of Russia at the meeting. Contrary to possible opinion, the invitation to the Communists was not extended as a jibe at that organization, but rather because the sponsors of the program felt that the members of the party could best represent Russia's participation in the Czech affair.

The meeting Tuesday is the first of a series of four meetings which will represent various other groups of the UN, climaxing with a meeting of the General Assembly.

Only through such programs as this can we as a nation learn the aims and ideals of the United Nations. Such programs, if those participating go about their duties conscientiously, can show us — the little people of the United Nations — what the leaders in Lake Success are attempting to accomplish.

—B.B.

Come To See Us

The Daily Tar Heel belongs to the students of the University. We said that in our campaign statement, and we meant it. If you don't like the way the paper is being run, come in and kick. If there are things you do like, let us know. If you would like to work on the staff, come in and offer your services. We'll appreciate it.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.

Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ..... ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager ..... T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor .... Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors .. Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associate Editors ..... Bob Sain, Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady
Society Editor ..... Weddy Thorp
Photographer ... Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. ..... Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. ... C. B. Mendenhall
Subscription Mgrs. ... Jim King, Chan Pegram
Asst. Business Mgrs. .. Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. ... Randall Hudson, Don Snow

NEWS STAFF: Herb Nachman, Charlie Gibson, Sally Woodhull, John Stump, Gordon Huffines, Jack Brown, Stewart McKeel, Margaret Gaston, Dan Wallace, Charlie Craven, Mark Sumner, Emily Baker, Doris Weaver, Harriet Sipple, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.

SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Larry Fox, Bill Kellam, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher, Mel Horowitz, Faith Adams, Anne Wells.

BUSINESS STAFF: James Crews, Jackie Rogers, J. C. Brown, Joe Williams, Gladys Cottrell, Bill Peebles, Neal Howard, Jr., Vin Snell, Candy Jonas, Kathryn McLean, Jim Brown, Baxter Morris, Ed Warton, Leonard Dudley, Jean Williams, Charmian Griffin.

Offices are located on the second floor of Graham Memorial with night office at Colonial Press, Inc., Carrboro. Telephones: Editorial, F-3361; Business, F-3371; Night office, 3337. Mailing address, Box 1080.

Carolina Carousel

Smart Politics: Form New Party To Abolish Them

By R. Foo Giduz

So now that its' all over except the carrying out of campaign promises, we wonder if the "third party" lads over at Wake Forest didn't have the right idea after all. . .Seems they don't like Baptist campus politics so they formed a new party (in five minutes, natch) with a four-plank platform spear-headed by a pledge to "Abolish all political organizations of the student body." . . .And there, good buddies, are pu-robably some trewly shrewd politicians!—Sounds like the surest vote-getting platform yet to us.

Other planks in their platform are: (2) Abolish office of vice-president of the student body; (3) Abolish compulsory class attendance; (4) Rejuvenate campus spirit. . . ."Dunno what the name of this bunch is, but suggest they use the already well-defined handles of "Abolition" or "Prohibition Party."

And there was another neat no-no note posted in Kenan Hall last week, too. . . .Sed in effect: "Women may not play cards or dance on Sundays in the parlors of the dormitories. . ." To which we may unjustifiably ask:—Other places, ok?. . .Can't tell what will come from the hundres of snaps which Lifotog Lisa Larson took around the campus this past weekend. . .Allegedly she was snapping a series to be run in a few weeks (some in technicolor) on the theme of "spring comes to a college campus." When and if Life runs this speard here's hoping they include the entire campus and not just the fraternity side, in which Mme. Larson seemed all too interested. . .

—Never hurts to hear the minority's side of the picture, gents. . .C. C. highly recommends you go to hear Socialist Labor party leader Eric Hass speak in Hill Hall tonight. . . Wallace Weekly subscribers should like him. . . .And watch out for two top-flight nationally known speakers to talk at UNC under CPU sponsorship this quarter. . .

Got a titter t'other day. . . Winstan Broadfoot, the campus' No. 1 rugged individualist liberal, wearing a "Mr. Roberts for President" button. (joke!). . . .In a hot argument with an Eisenhower man. . .Trying to keep from splitting his sides laughing!

WHAT'S UP in Graham Memorial

Last Saturday night's bingo session was a grand success, with a big crowd and nice opts. "Joker John" Van Hecke will be on hand again this Saturday night to call, and he insists there's no better way to spend your time and very little of your money.

Tonight's recorded dinner music will feature Brahms' Symphony No. 1; the Habanera, from Bizet's opera Carmen; and Delibes' Coppelia Ballet Suit.

"Only yestiddy we wuz teasin' him about havin' to wear his poppa's old shoes."

Of Students in Quandaries

A Quiz Kid, Yet

By Sergei Burgess

Of Students in Quandaries today unveils a new service for the benefit of students in quandaries. Today we innau . . . inaug . . begin our question and answer service. If you have a question you want answered, send it to us and be assured that we'll devote several seconds of thought to it daily.

1st question: What is the origin of the word "Whiffenpoof" as in Whiffenpoof song?

Answer: The word "Whiffenpoof" stems from the French word "Poof" which can mean anything, and from the Greek word Jove which is the first name of every Greek god. The words joined somewhere in Asia eighteen hundred years ago when Julius Caesar and his Mongoi hoardes swept through Russia. There is, however, another school of thought which insists that it comes from Jacques L. Whiffenpoof, who founded the Greater University of New Jersey in Durham, N. C. in 1777.

2nd question: How does one get a date with a coed around here?

Answer: There are several schools of though on this topic. I haven't much idea, though. I would suggest marrying one, if you could. If you do find a better answer, however, let me know and I'll make the best use possible of it.

3rd question: What will be the final score of the Carolina-Texas football game next fall?

Answer: According to the best words we can get down at the gym the final will be Carolina-89, Texas-0. At the same time word is here from our roving correspondent in Texas that the final will be Carolina-0, Texas-89. A good coin can settle the score by being spun into the air and caught.

4th question: How many more hours do I need to graduate?

Answer: You're asking me that?

5th question: How can I eat here in Chapel Hill without having to pay the prices these joints charge?

Answer: Simply sleep all day so you won't have to eat, and then stay awake all night so you can still do your homework. It does sound a little logical.

6th question: When is Ed Joyner going to fire you?

Answer: That's hitting a little below the belt, don't you think? (Ed. note: .Maybe you had better see me in my office, Burgess.)

7th question: What ever happened to that damned green hair of yours?

Answer: If you'll read through the latest American magazine, you'll see that Sergie can be a bit prophetic at times. Nice color pic of a chick with blonde, green, pink, red, et all, colored hair.

And now, shut up until next week!

EMORY, VANCE AWAY

Dr. Samuel T. Emory of the geology and geography department and Dr. Rupert B. Vance of the Sociology department will attend a meeting of the Committee of the Association of Learned Societies on April 17 and 18 at Princeton university. Both Dr. Emory and Dr. Vance are presenting papers.

Dr. Emory also spoke to the student body at Saint Mary's school in Raleigh Monday on "The Influence of Geography on History."

Write Away

A Plug For World Government

Editor:

First of all it must be clear that the English department does not necessarily share the opinions expressed by one of its members.

Second, I would like to thank Mr. Randall McLeod for some restrained and intelligent criticism.

However, my allusion to Hitler was not designed to make anyone inactive and passive; it was to suggest an alternate line of action. The purpose of my article was not to show cause for complacency, nor was it to give solace to anyone who would like to gloat over America's shortcomings. On the contrary.

Now is the time for the boldest action ever undertaken on an international scale. We must propose that the ultimate sovereignty of all land belongs not to the nations but to the world. As a South Carolinian has the right to move to New York or California without a passport, so all people must have a free world passport and a bill of individual rights, guaranteed by a world government, which cannot be revoked by national or state governments anywhere. A bill of rights not just for Americans in America but for everyone in the world must be agreed upon—and soon.

It has been argued that America would have to sacrifice too much to realize any such scheme. The wealth and support we would lend to a genuine world government would be greater than that of any other nation. In letting down our immigration barriers, we would sacrifice our relatively high standard of living (our racial integrity!). We would be pulled down towards the level of the poorer regions of the earth.

This is the real argument even if it is based on a greedy interest in our own prosperity. We have an alternative. We can fight wars against anyone who tries to enter the United States; in fact, we can fight preventative wars against anyone who might conceivably enter the United States. Which will be the more expensive procedure, the more inhuman?

Of course, it has been argued that the U. S. S. R. would never agree to a world government even if America did agree to it. Since it is, perhaps, the only alternative to war a new international conference should, at least, be called to discuss its possibilities.

An international government based primarily on the maintenance of national rights, as is the present United Nations government, can no more avoid war and disintegration than could any federal government based upon an exclusive consideration of states' rights.

The loyalty which sustained the Federal Union was the loyalty of the individual to the federal government, a recognition of a loyalty which trancended that due the state. The federal government was sustained actually on the basis of its pledge to guarantee Constitutional rights to its individual citizens, a guarantee which was a guard against state and local tyranny.

A shift of our highest loyalty to a world government, a government which would guarante individual rights to all the citizens of the world is now our best (if not our only) hope for peace and integrity. There would be then only one treason—treason to the world government.

The last two efforts to found a world government did not recognize as its basis the individual citizen of the world. Until this mistake is rectified, any world government is absurd. There can be no world government without world citizens—just as there could never have been an effective United States government without United States citizens.

The United States is still in a strong position to lay the foundations for an effective international government if it is willing to take the lead in negating absolute national sovereignty. We have never tried to decide with non-Americans what rights every man and woman in the world should be guaranteed. We have been too much absorbed in the reactionary and futile consideration of how the sovereign rights of every nation and state should be guaranteed.

Is all of us too dreamy and impractical for an atomic age? It depends, perhaps, upon your point of view.

Charles E. Johnson, Jr.

No Fools

Editor:

In view of our American monopoly of the atomic bomb and of the present obvious anti-communist and warlike policies of American capitalism, the Russians would be fools if they did not

1. Instantly seize the initiative in Europe.

2. Promptly drive Americans and allies out of both Europe and Asia.

3. Reduce American air bases to such an extent that Soviet Russia will be safe from atomic attack.

This means war, of course; but war is the apparent intention of the present American government; and it is the definite duty of the Soviet Union to protect the Soviet people from atomic bombardment. Such a war is obviously an act of self-denfense.

The Russians are no fools.

The Truman policies have logically led to the impending war. Policies such as those advocated by Henry Wallace would have prevented this dire danger.

An American fascist clique engineered Truman into the White House and led us to the brink of this awful cataclysm.

The American people do not want war. If they get the chance, they will vote Wallace into the Presidency. The danger time is between now and November—is NOW.

The American people should refuse to go like sheep to the slaughter, and should refuse to slaughter.

They should speak up in no uncertain terms NOW, while there is still time, and reverse the rush to world disaster.

Our allegiance is neither to capitalism nor to Americanism, but to humanity. War is contrar to humanity.

We should go to Europe a to Asia as individuals and friends, not as armies; and create, not destroy.

We can stop juggling atomic bombs and start wavi the flag of world brotherh Russians and Americans brothers too. We alone can pr vent the war that greedy leade are brewing.

Our watch dogs are not a home. They are on the neighbor side of the fence. They are n wagging their tails. They ar baring their teeth.

Let's call the watch dogs hom Let's extend the hand of friend ship. Let's be one humanity throughout the world.

We can do it.

Vernon Ward

(Eds. note: This letter was sent to the Tar Heel from Southol N. Y. The writer claims to be an alumnus of the University. Obviously, letters printed in the column do not represent the opinions of this newspaper.)

Easy For Stars Vacations Come

By Patricia Clary

Hollywood —(UP)— Movie making these days resembles a year-round vacation, in some ways.

Take Tyrone Power, for instance, who in one year travels to the vacation spots of Mexico, Sun Valley and Italy, all expenses paid and drawing a couple of thousand dollars a week besides.

The resemblance to a vacation stops right there, Power says. He visits the world's best vacation spots, all right, but he can't get a vacation. He works harder than he does at home.

"Locations are no vacation," he said emphatically. "You have to get up early; you have to work hard under uncomfortable conditions."

And studios aren't anxious to delay the expensive location stay by giving their stars time off for sight-seeing.

Power's location trips are a result of the new movie colony epidemic, especially virulent at 20th Century-Fox, of making movies in their actual settings. Critics say it makes them more realistic.

"Captain From Castile" took Power to the Mexican resort of Acapulco and other towns for several months. When he finishes "Leave It to the Irish," he goes to Sun Valley, Ida., the new resort for "That Wonderful Urge." And he expects to leave in July to star in 20th Century-Fox's "Prince of Foxes" in Italy.

Whether the studio will make the latter picture depends on the outcome of Italy's spring elections.

"And that," Power said gloomily, "will be about the least important result of the elections."

Power's trip to Sun Valley is for skiing scenes with Gene Tierney. Miss Tierney's a good skier, but Power says he's not.

"I'm a 50-50 skier," he said. "I spend 50 per cent of my time on my skies and 50 per cent on my backside."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

A Look At Lewis Through The Key-Hole

By Drew Pearson

Here is the inside story of what happened when Speaker Joe Martin summoned John L. Lewis and operator-spokesman Ezra Van Horn to his office to hear some "suggestions" about ending the coal dispute.

When the two visitors sat down, the speaker began: "I have a proposal that I believe will be beneficial to both sides, and particularly to the country, in getting the mines back to work. I know you are both reasonable men and want to see this strike settled as much as we all do.

"Gentlemen, we can't let it continue any longer. We cannot permit our factories to close for lack of coal and we can't stand a transportation shortage if we are to fulfill our obligations to our nwepople and to the world under the European aid program."

Martin paused briefly to let this sink in, then added:

"We've got to sit down like Americans and keep on sitting until we reach an agreement. This will mean some sacrificing on both sides, but that's the way we do things in a democracy. I have to make concessions all the time on legislation before the Congress. No man makes more concessions than I do.

"With Communists spreading terror in other parts of the world, I want to remind you that we in this country are not even safe from totalitarianism unless we keep our guard up and our factories running at top production. I don't want to sound pessimistic, but that's a possibility.

"As long as one major industry is closed down—especially the coal industry, which affects our whole economy—we are endangering not only our own country at a time when we can least afford it, but also the peace of the world."

Lewis and Van Horn sat silently through Martin's patriotic appeal, taking it all in, but waiting for the other to say something. Lewis chewed imperturbably on an unlighted cigar. Martin continued:

"Now, I am going to propose to you a man whom I hope you will accept as a public trustee for the purpose of negotiating your dispute. I have been talking to him about this for the last week and he has agreed to serve if you want him. He's a man of judicial temperament, who hasn't involved himself in this dispute and who has the respect of people generally. He can be counted on to be fair.

"I am referring to Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire."

Lewis pretended to look surprised, started to say something, then changed his mind. John L. is a great actor. He not only quotes Shakespear, but acts Shakespear. So probably Coal-Operator-Spokesmen Van Horn did not know that just one year ago Lewis had proposed Senator Bridges to Secretary of the Interior Krug as the man to arbitrate the coal dispute between the government and the miners.

In other words, the look of surprise on Lewis's face was only feigned. He had known in advance that his friend, Senator Bridges, was to be proposed as umpire by Speaker Martin. That was why he came to the meeting so readily.

That was also why Martin didn't have to do any real urging.

"Come on, now," he pretended to urge, "what do you say?"

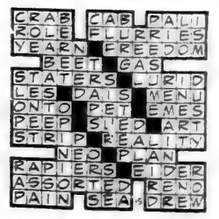
"That sounds all right to me," replied the miners' boss. "I'll accept him."

Martin looked at Van Horn.

"I'll take him," quickly added the operator-spokesman.

"Now that we have agreed," Martin suggested. "Why not elect him right here on the spot? You can do so, as the other two trustees."

Martin then put in a long-distance phone call to Bridges in New York, who informed the speaker that he was scheduled to make an address at a "Freedom Rally" in New York the following afternoon and wouldn't be back in Washington until Monday.



"Can't you do better than that?" inquired Martin. "Time is essential."

"All right, I'll fly down to-

(See PEARSON, page 4)

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

ACROSS

1—Money
5—To clean
8—To reject
12—Drug source
13—Man's name
14—Egg-shaped
15—Act of retaliation
17—Cash box
18—S-shaped worm
19—Hideout
20—Judith Anderson's play
21—On behalf of
22—To weary
23—Backless chair
26—Torso bone
27—Clear profit
30—Skin opening
31—To delve
32—Mark of wound
33—Black cuckoo
34—Help
35—Wood bird
36—Microbe
38—Dull finish
39—Living
41—Wire measure
42—Dance step
45—Departed
46—Cheap apartment
48—Dash
49—Took food
50—Sea bird
51—To flavor
52—Place to sleep
53—To pour

DOWN

1—Concern
2—Beverages
3—Soaks up
4—Pronoun
5—Stingy person
6—City in Algiers
7—Chum
8—He casts a ballot
9—Indication
10—Story
11—Jug
16—Image
20—Mass of people
21—Enemy
22—Large
23—Resort
24—Heavy weight
25—First
26—To free
28—Hearing organ
29—To attempt
31—Obscure
32—To place
34—Part of "to be"
35—Glen
37—Occasion
38—Dug for iron
39—Grows old
40—Girl's name
41—To deal out
42—French priest
43—One of Henry VIII's wives
44—Stalk
46—Label
47—Joined

Netmen Top Virginia, 5-1, Before Rains Come

Morris Loses First As Racquetmen Win Eleventh Straight

By Billy Carmichael, III

Jupiter Pluvius proved to be as much competition for the Tar Heel tennis team yesterday afternoon as the visiting University of Virginia did, with the locals being forced to concede three matches to the rain while dropping but one to the Cavaliers.

The existing weather conditions thus left the final score at 5-1 in favor of the Tar Heels which is the minimum winning score under the circumstances, but enough tally to give the charges of Coach John Kenfield their 11th straight win of the season.

The Tar Heels' sole singles loss came at the No. 3 position when previously unbeaten Ray Morris met his match in the person of Bill Wyche of the visiting team. The two battled with storm-like fury through two exciting sets, each one pushed passed duece game score, with the Virginian lad each time having the little extra push to annex final victory. The scores were 8-6, 7-5.

Morris Loss

Morris' loss came after the Carolina team had taken a two-match lead. Vic Seixas, Tar Heel No. 1 man, showed the scattering of a gallery just why he was playing that position when he vanished his game, but outclassed opponent in a 6-4, 6-2 win.

No. 2 man Clark Taylor displayed equal ability when he erased a Mr. Rixey of the Charlottesville crew in identical sets of 6-2. Taylor played some of his best tennis of the season and was never in trouble.

Farther down the single's line, all was not as well. Charlie Rice at the No. 4 slot seemed affected by Morris plight on the next court as he dropped the opening set of his match, 8-6. After that, the Tar Heel netter seemed to settle down a bit, weathering an equally tough second set, 8-6, and going on to win the final set and the match by a 6-3 score.

Skakle Wins

Don Skakle, playing the No. 5 position, had first set trouble too, being pushed to the limit to overcome his eventual victim 7-5 in the first canto, and coming back in the second set to take an easy 6-1 triumph.

Heath Alexander turned in the winning point for the Tar Heels just before the clouds opened up and rained down their postponing moisture as he turned back the last of the invaders, 8-6, 6-3. Alexander too, had to turn on a little steam in the first set.

The doubles were rained out and will not be replayed at a later date since the decision was final and the match will stand.

The summary:

Seixas (C) defeated Burrows, 6-4, 6-2. Taylor (C) defeated Rixey, 6-2, 6-2. Wyche (V) defeated Morris, 8-6, 7-5. Rice (C) defeated Horsely, 6-8, 8-6, 6-3. Skakle (C) defeated Ballentine, 7-5, 6-1. Alexander (C) defeated Nunox, 8-6, 6-3.

Virginia Track Team Here Today; UNC Linksmen In Charlottesville

Local Cinder Squad Seeks First Victory

Carolina's hustling trackmen will be out to prove to the University of Virginia's Cavaliers that they should have brought their horses with them when the thinclads representing the two schools clash this afternoon at 3:30 p. m. on Fetzer field.

The locals will be seeking to break into the victory column for the first time this year with a win which would even their record at one-and-one. The field events will start at 3:30 while the track action is set for 4 o'clock.

Lost to Duke

The Cavaliers hit town this morning, fresh from a 67 1-2-58 1-2 loss to Duke Monday afternoon. They also saw action last Friday, taking a 76-50 decision over VMI. At the same time last weekend, Carolina was dropping a hotly-contested meet to Georgia Tech, by a 69-62 count, on the scene of today's cinder festivities.

Coach Dale Ranson was noncommittal when queried yesterday about his charges' chances, but he did point out that his team was in pretty good shape. He commented that he expected the feature events of the day to be the dashes and hurdles.

The Carolina mentor also released his starting lineup for the meet. The list of openers shows few new faces from the crew that performed in the dual meet opener against Georgia Tech.

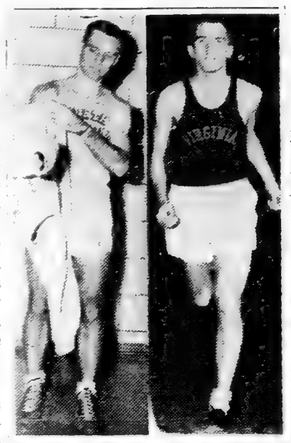
Strong in Hurdles

Though they swept the 100 and two-mile events against the Blue Devils, the Cavaliers are considered especially potent in the hurdles, where Bill and Dan Mohler are in the habit of finishing one-two. Dick Taylor and Bob Morrow will be on hand to try and break that habit.

DAN AND BILL MOHLER

Today's battle marks the last appearance in collegiate competition for the locals until the Penn Relays in Philadelphia on April 23-24.

By mutual agreement between the coaches there will be no mile relay in today's meet.



Today's lineup:

Pole vault—Hickman Russell, House.

High jump—Moody, Joyner, Saunders.

Shot put—Seligman, Ogden, Perry.

(See TRACK, page 4)

Carolina's JIMMY MILLER, left, and Virginia's GEORGE TROXEL are likely candidates for the one-two positions in the one-mile run at today's track meet.

Time Running Out For Mural Track, Horseshoe Entries

Time has almost run out on all prospective entrants in the intramural horseshoe and track tourneys, it was announced by the intramural office yesterday.

This afternoon at 6 o'clock is the deadline for entry in the horseshoe competition. A five-man team, composed of two doubles combinations and one singles player, is required for each team. No further applicants will be accepted after today's closing time.

On Monday will be the last day of try-outs for the semi-finals of the track meet to be held on Tuesday. All intramural managers are asked to turn in their entry sheets in the distance events by 6 o'clock today. Four men will be allowed to compete in the 70-yard high hurdles, 120-yard low hurdles, 300-yard run, and the 440 and 880 yard relays from each dormitory and fraternity organization. Names of these competitors are to be on the sheets due this afternoon.

Softball play was curtailed by yesterday's rain but heavy hitting continued to be the keynote in most of the contests that were played.

Mural Results

22 Phi Delt 1	Sig Eps 2
19 Bombers	Alexander 1 3
11 Beta 1	ZBT 9
6 Phi Gam 2	Pi Lamb 2 0
12 Battlers	Whitehead 7
14 St. Anthony	SAE 2 8
15 Mangum 2	Miller 0
13 Pi KA 2	ATO 2 1
16 Emerson	Steele 10
6 Phi Delt 2	AEPi 1

Rained Out

Misfits vs. Club H-2-3.

Forfeits

Sig Nu 1 over Beta 2.
Chi Psi 2 over SAE 1.
Mangum 1 over Everett.
Oakwood Drive over Aycock.
Graham 1 over Seiler Five.
Graham 2 over Old West.

TABLE TENNIS TONIGHT

Graham Memorial will conduct its usual Thursday evening table tennis tournament this evening starting at 7:30 in the GM game room.

Golf Team Competes In First Road Test

(Special to the Daily Tar Heel)

Charlottesville, Va., April 14—North Carolina's once-beaten golf team arrived here tonight for their first road test of the year tomorrow against the linksmen of the University of Virginia.

The Tar Heels—six players, coach and manager—rode into town by car for the big test between two of the south's leading golf powers.

Harvie Ward headed the Carolina playing delegation and the Tarboro Terror had in his company Bob Cox, Jack Brantley, Frank Brooks, Harvey Oliver and Dan Nyimicz. Coach Chuck Erickson, the Tar Heel mentor, made the trip at the last minute and manager Bob Whelan rounded out the party.

First Foursome

In tomorrow's competition, Ward will return to his No. 1 post he left vacant last week while at the Masters in Augusta and Jack Brantley will be at the No. 2 post to complete the first foursome.

Bob Cox will be at his old No. 3 position masterminding the second quartet for the Tar Heels and playing in the immediate company of Harvey Oliver, who is fast becoming a reliable operator at the No. 4 slot.

Frank Brooks, the Siler City freshman who has shown great promise in his first five matches will be at No. 5 with Dan Nyimicz the crew-cut lad from Rahway, N. J., finishing out the Tar Heel entry.

Seek Fifth Win

The boys from Chapel Hill will be seeking to return to the victory trail against the home team of Virginians, as they are still a slight bit stunned from their loss to Michigan last Friday. Previously, the Tar Heels had won their first four contests, stopping Harvard, Georgetown, Davidson and Williams in that order.

The Virginia six will offer a stiff match for the Tar Heels. They have beaten Harvard, Williams and Georgetown and just about to the same tune that the Carolina swingsters did. Impressed by this matching of performance Coach Erickson's charges are not taking the match lightly.

Track Co-Captains

Distance star Jimmy Miller and weight-thrower Bob Seligman were elected co-captains of the 1948 track team at a squad meeting held yesterday.

Both men are Southern conference champions at their respective specialties. Miller, a native of Erie, Pa. but now a resident of Chapel Hill, is co-holder of the two-mile title with teammate Sam Magill. He is also former loop cross-country champion.

Seligman, from Brooklyn, is the current possesser of the conference shot put and discus crowns. Big Bob is in his third year with the Carolina track team, while Miller is in his fourth year of competition.

Baseball Briefs

By United Press

YANKS AT ROAD'S END

Indianapolis, April 14 — The world champion New York Yankees ended their spring training road trip today with a 3-2 victory over Indianapolis.

The Bronx Bombers got only six hits, but made good use of them. Billy Johnson's double in the sixth, with two out, was the deciding hit, as the Yankees came through with two runs. The win was the 23rd for the Yankees against 11 defeats this spring.

Kennedy Canned arm arm arm

KENNEDY CANNED

Topeka, Kan., April 14 — The New York Giants finally have given up on southpaw Monte Kennedy — at least, for the time being.

Kennedy has been optioned to the Giant's American association farm club in Minneapolis. One of Kennedy's main drawbacks has been lack of control.

Manager Mel Ott made it clear that Kennedy is subject to 24 hour recall — and the way the Giant pitching staff is shaping up, the chances are that a hurry up call will be sent out for Kennedy before the season is very old.

BASEBALL EXHIBITIONS

Nashville (SA) 4 Detroit (A) 1
Pittsburgh (N) 9 Chicago (A) 2
St. Louis (N) 9 Chicago (N) 4
Philadelphia 7 Wisahntngo arm
Philadelphia 7 Washington 1
St. Louis (A) 7 Paris, Tex. 0
Cleveland (A) 7 New York (N) 5

Rain Postpones Wake Forest Attempt to Break Duke Jinx

Wake Forest, April 14 —(UP—Rain has postponed Wake Forest's attempt to end Duke's bullying of Demon Deacon teams on all sports fronts.

The baseball game scheduled for this afternoon has been postponed until tomorrow because of rain. And that means that Blue Devils can enjoy at least one more day of complete superiority before the Deacons send their diamond club into the breach.

Since about this time of year in 1946, Wake Forest has failed to win a single victory over Duke in any of the five sports in which they compete. In baseball, football, basketball, golf and tennis, the results have all been just the way Duke wanted them.

Duke has won two victories each in football, tennis and golf. But the Blue Devils have trounced Deacon teams four times on the basketball courts and five times on the baseball diamond.

Despite the fact that baseball appears to be their most vulnerable sport, the Deacons have hopes of ending the series of Duke victories with a showdown on the diamond. And towards that end, the Foresters will call on freshman pitcher Harry Nicholas to stifle the Blue Devil batting punch while they proceed — they hope — to give the Duke hurler some hard knocks.

Tar Heels Take On Furman Nine In Return Encounter Here Today

By Larry Fox

The Purple Hurricanes from Furman roar into Emerson stadium this afternoon at 4 o'clock to wreak revenge on the Carolina baseball team for the 10-2 defeat the Tar Heels handed them last week.

Last time out, Carolina took a thriller from Wake Forest. The only run of the game was tallied by Emmett Cheek on a line-drive four-bagger to left-centerfield in the fifth inning. Frank Robinson hurled two-hit ball to shutout the Deacons and earn his third win.

Coach Bunn Hearn has three pitchers whom he may call on to open against the Hurricanes. It is Vinnie DiLorenzo's turn to take the hill, but Tommy Andrew or Dean Cassell may get the assignment.

Three-Hitter

DiLorenzo's last mound achievement was a three-hitter over Clemson for one of three Tar Heel wins on the recent South Carolina journey.

Cassell and Andrew did the pitching in the Tar Heels' one loss of the season, to Pennsylvania by a 7-5 count. Cassell started the game, but left in the sixth inning.

The Quakers tied it up in that inning and iced the decision with a ninth-inning rally against Andrew, who was charged with the loss although a little better support by his mates would have saved the game.

Ray Blair did the chunking against Furman in the Palmetto state, limiting the Hurricanes to six hits.

Furman Attack

First baseman John Little leads the Furman attack. Bill Phillips, who got one of the sextet of safeties off Blair, does the receiving for the Hurricanes. Bob Stewart anchors the infield from his shortstop position.

None of the Furman pitchers should prove very strange to the Tar Heels, for they saw four of them in action last week and hit all with equal ease.

John Gregory will be given the nod at first base this afternoon over Will Hobbs and Jack Brasington, although the latter has been hitting the ball well in practice all week.

Either Co-Captain Jim Hamilton or Dallas Branch will open at the keystone sack. Both men are waging a spirited battle for permanent possession of the position.

Otherwise, the lineup will be the same one that opened against Wake Forest.

To Lead Off

Kenny Black, who went three for-six against the Hurricanes, will lead off and play centerfield for the Hearnmen. Co-Captain Jim Hayworth will occupy the hot corner as usual and will follow Black at bat. Frank Jones and Ott Evans are both candidates for the rightfield berth. Evans got four hits in five trips to the plate against Furman and that may weigh in his favor.

Big Four batting champion Jim Kelly will be in the clean-up post to be followed by Gregory. Rip Ryan at short is next on the list to be followed by Hamilton or Branch.

Cheek will supply the needed punch in the bottom of the order by batting eighth.

Carolina Jayvees Engage Duke Baby Imps In Durham; Gaston Named as Hill Choice

By Bill Kellam

Carolina's hustling jayvees will open Little Big Three play this afternoon in Duke's Coombs park when they battle the Blue Imps at 3:30 o'clock. The Tar Babies will be seeking their third victory in four starts.

Coach Henry House will open with a brand new battery combo this afternoon. Freshman right-hander Ed Gaston, who turned in a scoreless three inning stint against High Point high last week, will start on the mound for the locals while husky yearling Bill Walsh will take care of the receiving chores.

Stan Goodman and Boll Weavil will divide the duties around the keystone sack, Joe Brookshire will start at short, John "Sleepy" Senter at third, Jake Carter at first, Don Ward in left, Zero Allen in center, and Ed Lamb in right. Wild Bill McGinn, the owner of the two previous jayvee victories, will be available for relief duty.

The Blue Imps have broken even in their two starts thus far this season. In their opener, the junior Coombsmen were blanked by Julius Moore, Durham high's ace righthander, 3-0. Last week the Duke jayvees edged the State juniors in Raleigh.

Charlie Garganus and Allen are currently pacing the Housemen at the plate with .333 averages in three games. Weavil is also hitting .333 but he has only played in two games.

Chunker McGinn boasts the next best average, a .250 mark compiled in the two contests in which he has appeared. Brookshire is currently sporting a .214 batting mark.

CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE 6B

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed and being completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogerson Drive. Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. Telephone F-2906. (1-ch1x2-1)

24 FOOT GLIDER HOUSE TRAILER. Lot number 76, University Trailer Court for married couples, or box 701, Chapel Hill. (1-137-1)

ATTRACTIVE TWO BEDROOM house, 31 Oakwood Drive, Chapel Hill. Excellent location, spacious grounds. Owner leaving town. Phone F3216, Hector MacLean. (1-126-1)

ALMOST NEW INNER SPRING MATtress for double bed. Forced to move and must sell. Call 6726 evenings. (1-134-1)

NEW ELECTRIC APARTMENT STOVE, still crated. $117.00. Call 5346. (1-141-1)

LARGE TABLE MODEL RCA-VICTOR Radio-Phonograph. Automatic changer. Fine tone. Call Stricklin, 9881, evenings from 8:30 to 11. (1-129-1)

MUST SELL 22 FOOT NATIONAL house trailer. Will sleep 4. Butane gas stove, kitchenware, electric heater. $475 cash. Excellent buy! Apply 230 Nash Hall Trailer Court. (1-135-1)

FOR SALE AUTOMOTIVE 6BB

'39 PLYMOUTH FOUR DOOR SEDAN. Radio, heater and four good tires. Motor in excellent condition. T. H. Yates, Phone F-3951. (ch 1x1)

1937 FORD TUDOR, EXCELLENT condition, extra clean, new seat covers. New Engine, generator, carburetor, tie rod ends, drag link, brake cables and brake lining, good tires, good paint, sealed beam headlights. Radio and heater. Economical transportation. Thomas M. Bradford, Lot 66, University Trailer Ct., Pittsboro Rd. (1-128-2)

HELP WANTED: MALE 8B

ONE BASS FIDDLE PLAYER TO play with small band. Good proposition for right man. See Jimmy Powell, Crabtree Body Shop, telephone 9056. (1-2000-1)

LOST 12

KEY CHAIN CONTAINING FIVE OR six keys and miniature license No. 264-224. Reward if returned to Hill Bakery. (ch 1x1)

SAE FRAT PIN. REWARD TO FINDer. Phone F-2031. (1-138-1)

RED COCKER SPANIEL — FEMALE. Answers to name of "Folly." If found, please call F-3051. (1-139-1)

RIDERS WANTED 10A

LEAVE RALEIGH 8:00, RETURN AT 2:00 daily. Call Raleigh 9790 before 5:00 p. m. (1-0140-1)

SERVICES OFFERED 19

COMPLETE MODERN RADIO APpliance service shop now open and ready to serve you. We call for, deliver. Johnson-Strowd-Ward Furniture, 422 W. Franklin. Telephone F-3491. (ch 1x1)

24 HOUR RADIO REPAIRS. OGBURN Furniture Co., Phone 5841. (ch 1x1)

WANTED 24

IF YOU HAVE A CLEAN USED CAR for sale see us first. Strowd Motor Co., Your Ford Dealer, Phone 5161. (ch 1x1)

WANTED TO RENT 24B

SOLD OUT—STUDENT AND WIFE forced to vacate room because house has been sold. Need room from May 1st until June graduation. Call 6726 evenings. (1-133-1)

University Florist
"For the Best in Flowers"
Pick Theatre Bldg.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Telephone 9816

Dr. William Kohn
OPTOMETRIST
Phone 3685
Over Carolina Coffee Shop
Monday-Friday 9:00-5:00
Saturday 9:00-1:00

Louis, Walcott Ink Contract For June Championship Bout

New York, April 14—(UP)—The return fight between heavyweight champion Joe Louis and Jersey Joe Walcott was made official tonight.

Louis and Walcott signed a contract today to meet in a 15-round bout at Yankee stadium in New York on June 23. Each fighter posted a $5,000 guarantee for the title match.

Under the agreed terms, Louis will receive 40 per cent of the gate, while Walcott will get 20 per cent. Louis will also pocket 40 per cent of the radio, television and motion picture proceeds. Walcott gets 22½ per cent of the movie money and 20 per cent of radio and television profits.

Both fighters agreed to terms some time ago, but the actual signing had to be put off until Louis returned from a European exhibition tour. The champ returned to this country on Monday, and some observers said he looked about 235 pounds.

Louis admitted not going near a scale since he went abroad, but expects to get down to about 215 pounds for the June fight. He weighed 211 last December when he took a split decision from Jersey Joe.

PRESCRIPTIONS
Filled Promptly
ACCURACY AND DEPENDABILITY
—at—
SUTTON'S DRUG STORE

! - LAST THREE DAYS - !
PAJAMAS 1-2 Off
BATHROBES 1-3 Off
GOLF JACKETS 1-4 Off
GET THESE OUTSTANDING VALUES
—at—
JACK LIPMAN'S

HY ! !
DO YOU KNOW—
"WHAT'S COOKING?"
It's our gay and glorious cartoon show party.
A gorgeous galaxy of popular and amusing cartoons to thrill you.
VILLAGE Today

Treat Yourself to Our Tasty
ICE CREAM
If you love ice cream at its best, call for DAIRYLAND ICE CREAM from our local dealers or our dairy store. Dairyland Ice Cream is made fresh daily from pure milk and cream under close supervision of specially trained personnel.
It is always made to a standard and not for a price. Eat more of this healthy dessert.

Farmers Dairy Cooperative

-Elections-

(Continued from page 1)

Tuesday in the first round of balloting and two of whom had to edge into office in spirited run-off contests, is headed by Emile Saleeby, president-elect of the senior class and Kyle Barnes who holds a similar position in the sophomore group.

Saleeby polled 450 SP-CP ballots to overcome UP nominee Jack Girard who tallied 327 markers in the first election. UP choice Barnes meanwhile was burying Hurshell Keener, a SP-CP candidate by a 297 to 160 tally.

For vice president of the sophomore class, Marvin Nathan (UP-CP) bested SP's Bill Swain by a 267-188 tally and in the senior class, triply endorsed Ed Davenport swept into office without opposition. Only vote recorded against Davenport was a write-in for Hogan's goat.

Also, in the first voting, CP-SP's Mintie Cantrell defeated UP nominee Rita Adams by a 377-327 margin and UP Calvin Koontz and UP-CP Jack Thompson took the social chairmanship of the sophomore and senior classes respectively without opposition. Only other first ballot decision found doubly endorsed Barbara Bess dropping UP nominee Herb Nachman by a 254-169 count in the fight for sophomore class secretary.

Runoff triumphes in the class elections were gained by Wayne Brenegan and Jim Gwynn who will become Secretary of the Senior class and treasurer of the sophomore class respectively.

-Track-

(Continued from page 3)

Javelin—Baldwin, Kirk, Vestal.
Discus—Seligman, Klosterman, Ogden.
Broad jump—Briley, Moody, Hubbard.
Mile—Miller, Herty, Martin.
440—White, Lentz, Spain, Crimmins.
100—Willis, Ingram, Nelson, Ballou.
High hurdles—Heggie, Taylor Morrow.
880—MacKenzie, Hooper, Burk.
220—Nelson, Willis, White.
Two mile—Magill, Miller, Hunt.
Low hurdles—Heggie, Schultz, Moody, Morrow, Taylor.

-Laws-

(Continued from page 1)

politically-minded citizens whenever there are primaries and elections in the offing. During this election year, however, with a third party making its presence felt, there is more than the usual interest in the State's election laws and regulations.

WORLD FEDERALIST

"World Government in the Light of Present Day Events" will be the topic of the weekly meeting of the World Federalists at 5 o'clock in the Grail room this afternoon. The discussion will be a continuation of last week's topics which centered about the United World Federalist's attitudes toward the draft, UMT, and Russia.

EYE! HAVE US FILL THE PRESCRIPTION
Durham Optical Co
215 W. MAIN ST. TEL. F 2141
OPTICIANS

Piano Soloist to be Featured In Symphony Tonight At Duke

Percy Grainger piano soloist, will appear in concert with the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra under the direction of Dimitri Mitropoulos tonight at 8:15 in Page auditorium at Duke university.

Featured on the program will be the following series; "Overture to Sicilian Vespers," by Verdi; "Symphony in B-flat Major," by Chusson; three pieces from "The Damnation of Faust," by Berlioz; and "Concerto for Piano and Orchestra in A minor," by Grieg.

Mitropoluos is a native of Athens, Grece, where he attended the conservatory, and later completed his musical studies in Berlin.

He has been guest conductor of the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra and the Orchestre Symphonique de Paris. Engagements followed this in Great Britain, Italy, Russia, and other European countries. His American debut was with the Boston Symphony Orchestra in 1936.

PERCY GRANGER

He has also conducted Orchestras of New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Chicago, Rochester, the N.B.C. Symphony Orchestra, and, since 1944, has served as Musical Director of the summer concerts at Robin Hood Dell in Philadelphia.

Junior Women Elected as Advisors; Group Chosen by Special Committee

Fifty-three junior women have been selected to serve as student advisers for the coming year. A special committee headed by Helen Bouldin, chairman of Women's Orientation, chose these girls from recommendations submitted by dormitory hostesses, counselors, and last year's student advisers. They were considered on the basis of the following qualifications: reliabiliy, maturity, friendliness, tact, and the desire to serve. An academic average of at least "C" was also a requirement.

The following girls were selected: Archer House: Martha Whitner, Mary Dillard; Smith: Lillian Dillard, Alice Middleton, Nan Reid, Charlotte Rosenberg; McIver: Faith Adams, Mintie Cantrell, Maria Davis, Kit Finney, Gayle Hancock, Randy Hudson, Camilla Jonas, Betty Long, Mary Neely, Tommie Olive, Betty Ruth Perkinson, Teeny Royall; Spencer: Iris Lee Bost, Kate Conner, Ida Constable, Martha Davis, Betsy White Fountain, Jacqueline Goodwin, Marty Hinkle, Eloise Jacobi, Grey Saunders, Mary Glen Slater, Mary Ann Taber; Alderman: Barbara Cashion, Nina Davis, Peggy Egerton, Becky Holton, Jane Hunter, Bertha Kaplan, Jean McKeithen, Patricia McNutt, Helen Neighbors, Emily Ogburn, Mary Cornelia Pegram, Barbara Ann Pope, Sally Woodhull, Anne Carleton; town: Esther Cheek, Carolyn Guthrie, Bootsie Lyons, Helen Phillips, Hilda Sharkey, Nancy Shields; ADPi: Rita Adams; Pi Phi: Weddy Thorpe; Tri Delta: Elinor Woltz; Alpha Gamma Delta: Jean Somervell; Chi Omega: Patricia Muirhead.

A training program will be held in May to acquaint the new advisers with their duties and the orientation program for the fall.

-Humber-

(Continued from page 1)

Wilson; they respected him. He was bigger than the party on partisan lines. He was definitely struggling for something with an emphasis on human value."

He pointed out that the League of Nations recognized Wilson as its founder, in spite of the fact that the United States failed to join the organization. "He (Wilson) began to organize the world community," said Humber.

The outstanding significance of Franklin Roosevelt's leadership, according to Humber, was that "he was groping for something, he did not always have it, that represented human values."

Humber declared that the European Recovery program is a great step in the direction of world co-operation.

"We do not want eye-dropping relief, we want recovery," said Humber in referring to the efforts made by Taft and Hoover to cut the appropriations for the ERP from 17 billion dollars over a four year period to five or six billion dollars.

UP MEETING

The University party meets this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Graham Memorial, according to UP chairman Thurman Williams. All representatives are urged to attend.

We excel in neat Haircuts and Smooth Shaves
University Barber Shop

-Grail-

(Continued from page 1)

Winkle had little time left to tell of "What I've Been Dreaming All These Years" when he was kept busy bribing a dozen assistants with dog buscuits to keep them quiet. There were even a few stray hounds trying to crash the act since the whole ritual obviously had all its participants strictly leading a dogs' life.

All the clowning was a prelude to last night when the 13 neophyte Grailsmen wore clothes again and stood at embarassing stations throughout the campus, chanting debasing statements about themselves. It is said that a serious initiation followed later in the evening to remind the men that their fate was really an honor.

RECORDS
COLUMBIA PRESENTS
Paul Roberson's recital album of popular favorites
A Columbia Masterwork
Ab's Intimate Bookshop

Lab Theater to Give Production by Gogal On April 24, 25, 26

"The Inspector General" by Nikolai Gogol will be the next play presented by the Laboratory theater in the main lounge of Graham Memorial on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, April 24, 25 and 26 at 8:30.

A three-act satire on official crookedness and human stupidity, the play is conceded to be one of the finest European comedies. Under the direction of James Byrd, "The Inspector General" follows "The Importance of Being Ernest" and "Fashion" in the Laboratory theater's season of admission-free comedy.

The cast includes James Geiger in his second political role within a week following his performance in "Sweep It Clean," James Riley as the fake inspector-general, Bob Barr who was seen this year in "Saint Joan" and "Enemy of the People," Buddy Westover, director of "The Importance of Being Ernest" and Eleanor Ringer noted for the title role of "Saint Joan."

Other members of the cast are Pete Strader, Karl Harrell, Mac Shaw, Murray McCain, Phyllis Isenhour, Helen Brown, Frank Echols, George Upchurch, Bill Ayers, Edna Dooley, Marty Jacobs, Gloria Gunn, Reggie Kachigian, Mary Jo Cain, and Pat Palmer. James Shaver will stage manage and Betty Young is technical advisor.

—Pearson—

(Continued from page 2)

night and return by plane tomorrow in time to keep my engagement, if a meeting can be aranged Sunday morning," replied Bridges.

Lloyd Electric Co.
F-3862 CARRBORO
Sales & Service
For
• L&H Electric Stoves
• Jud-Whitehead & Red Crown Hot Water Heaters
We specialize in wiring new construction and in general repair.

TODAY
CAROLINA

Enjoy "Old-Fashioned"
SUNDAY QUALITY AT WEEKDAY PRICES!
We're featuring Ann Page Foods this week at your A&P... foods of old-fashioned goodness at thrifty prices. Made in our own modern Ann Page food factories, Ann Page "Sunday Quality" saves you money on every meal ...every day in the week!
ANN PAGE FOODS
A&P's FINEST

SALAD DRESSING	Ann Page	Pt. Jar	33c
SPAGHETTI	Ann Page Prepared	2 15½-Oz. Cans	23c
SPARKLE	Ann Page Gelatin Desserts	3 Pkgs.	19c
PRESERVES	Ann Page Peach	1-Lb. Jar	23c
GRAPE JAM	Ann Page	1-Lb. Jar	21c
MACARONI	Ann Page	3 8-Oz. Pkgs.	25c
BEANS	Ann Page with Pork & Tom. Sauce	2 16-Oz. Cans	25c
VINEGAR	Ann Page Cider	Qt. Bot.	19c
MARMALADE	Ann Page Orange	16-Oz. Jar	21c

WHITE HOUSE EVAPORATED
MILK
3 Tall Cans 39c

PEANUT BUTTER	Sultana	1-Lb. Jar	31c
NECTAR TEA		¼-Lb. Pkg.	27c
RED BEANS	Sultana with Chili Gravy	2 16-Oz. Cans	23c
APPLE BUTTER	Sultana	28-Oz. Jar	19c

Tastes Better-Costs Less!

Thousands who have changed to A&P Coffee from other coffees of comparable quality save up to 12¢ a pound*... and enjoy bean-fresh, Custom Ground coffee that tastes better, cup after cup. Why don't you change—now!
*Savings are even greater on 3 and 5-lb. purchases.

RED & WHITE	3 Lb. Bag	$1.15
	1-Lb. Bag	40
RED & YELLOW	3 Lb. Bag	$1.24
	1-Lb. Bag	43
THOMPSON'S WHITE	3 Lb. Bag	$1.29
	1-Lb. Bag	45

A&P SUPER MARKETS

MARVEL BREAD

Regular Pan	16-Oz. Loaf	13c
Sandwich or Reg. Pan	1½-Lb. Loaf	18c
Home Style	1½-Lb. Loaf	18c

SUNNYFIELD Self-Rising FLOUR
5-Lb. Bag 31c 10-Lb. Bag 88c
A&P's Own Shortening dexo
3-Lb. Can $1.11
SUNNYFIELD CORN FLAKES
8-Oz. Pkg. 12c
WESSON OIL Pt. Can 40c
SNOWDRIFT 3-Lb. Can $1.17
BLUE WHITE FLAKES Pkg. 9c
SWEETHEART SOAP Reg. Bar 10c

CAMAY SOAP 2 Bath Size 29c
IVORY SOAP Reg. Bar 11c
VEL Lge Pkg. 31c
CAMAY SOAP Reg. Bar 10c
SWAN SOAP Reg. Bar 11c

SHOWERS OF SAVINGS

IONA PEAS		3 No. 2 Cans	29c
CHEESE	Mild American	Lb.	49c
STRINGLESS BEANS	Iona	2 No. 2 Cans	25c
PEACHES	Thank You Brand Sliced Freestone	11-Oz. Can	10c
TOMATO SOUP	Campbell's	3 10½-Oz. Cans	29c
APPLE SAUCE	A&P Fancy	2 No. 2 Cans	25c
IONA CORN	White or Golden	No. 2 Can	17c
YAMS	Gulf's Best Sweet Potato	2 No. 2½ Cans	25c

Fresh Fruits & Vegetables

CARROTS	2 bunches	23c
ORANGES (Large Florida)	2 doz	49c
GRAPEFRUIT (Large)	5 for	27c
APPLES (Winesap)	4 pounds	39c
CAULIFLOWER	2 lbs	39c
POTATOES (New White)	5 lbs	43c
ONIONS (Yellow)	lb	15c

Fine Quality Meats

SMOKE DPICNIC HAMS (Short shank)	lb	49c
SLICED BACON (Morrell Pride)	lb	69c
ROLL SAUSAGE (Swift Brookfield)	lb	45c
STEAKS (Porterhouse, T-Bone, Club, Sirloin Pin-Bone, Round Boneless)	lb	89c
PORK ROAST (Loin or Rib End)	lb	49c
VEAL ROAST (Chuck or Shoulder)	lb	69c
LAMB (Shoulder or Chuck)	lb	49c
HAMBURGER	lb	49c
STEW (Brisket or plate)	lb	35c
FRYERS (Table Dressed)	lb	68c
HENS (Table Dressed)	lb	56c
CROKERS	lb	25c
ROE SHAD	lb	49c
BUCK SHAD	lb	33c

A&P SUPER MARKETS

LI'L ABNER By Al Capp

Let us squeeze you — a FRESH ORANGE JUICE — HARRY'S

WEATHER
Fair and warmer.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
Your Number's Up
Dogs and More Dogs
Beer vs. Basic Morals

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., FRIDAY, APRIL, 16, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | NO. 142

Crisp Gives Report On Chicago Forum

By Gordon Huffines

Bill Crisp, one of three University delegates to the Intercollegiate Conference on the United Nations held in Chicago March 24-26, reported on the actions of the mock assembly to the last "lameduck" session of the Student Legislature last night.

Sponsored by the University of Chicago, the conference was attended by delegates from 51 colleges, each representing a member of the UN. The University delegation, John Stump, Ann Wells, and Crisp represented New Zealand.

Reporting on the assembly, which he presided over as president, Crisp said that the mock collegiate assembly was "uncannily realistic." The delegates gained an impression of the obstacles confronting the UN and the conflicts which come before the General Assembly daily, he asserted.

Russian Columbia

Crisp said that the actions of the Columbia university delegation, which represented the Soviet Union, greatly added to the realistic effect of the conference. The "Soviet" delegation quickly organized the delegations representing the Slavic countries and presented an united bloc on all the issues that came before the assembly.

Reporting on the actions of the conference, Crisp explained that the work was accomplished in three main committees. The issue of race relations came before the Human Rights committee in the form of a proposal that the "U N" look into the racial issue in the United States.

Objection Over-Ruled

Crisp, as president of the assembly, objected to the proposal on the grounds that the problem was not within their jurisdiction. Over-ruling his objections, Crisp said, the committee reported out a favorable bill recommending that the UN recommend Truman's Civil Rights program to the United States.

Official representatives of various organizations also appeared before the assembly, Crisp reported. He also stated that Wallacites and Communist members picketed the mock UN assembly for two days.

Only definite action taken by the Legislature last night was the passage of a bill to present Speaker Jack Folger with a key for his services as presiding officer during the past year.

FLYING SERVICE VERSATILE

Carlsbad, N. M. —(UP)— The Carlsbad Flying Service has been incorporated with a capital stock of $50,000 for the purpose of "rain making, crop dusting, or coyote hunting."

Filipino President Dies After Pledging Aid to United States

Manila, April 15 — (UP) — Fifty-six-year-old President Manuel Roxas of the Philippines died last night at the United States Air Force base at Clark field, north of Manila.

The news was withheld until three hours after his death. He died of a cerebral hemorrhage at 10 o'clock.

Roxas fainted yesterday as he stood in a very hot sun at the airfield. He has pledged that the Philippines would back the United States if another war came.

He died hours later with his family physicin attending him. His wife and mother also were at his bedside. It had been reported that he was recovering satisfactorily, and had been removed to a hospital in Manila. That report said he was suffering from high blood pressure.

AKD Fraternity Chooses Officers

The University of North Carolina's Alpha chapter of Alpha Kappa Delta, national honorary sociological fraternity, in a meeting yesterday elected officers for the coming academic year.

The new officers elected were: Felton D. Freeman, president; Albert E. Lovejoy, vice-president; Barbara Chartier, secretary-treasurer; and Mary Beall, social chairman.

The initiation of new members was conducted by Dr. Nicholas J. Demerath, chapter advisor who emphasized Alpha Kappa Delta's purpose to further the science of sociology. Those initiated included Anne S. Dellinger, Dr. Arthur E. Fink, Thomas McDade, Walter North, and Hugh Wilson.

Earl D. Brewer, chairman of the banquet committee, reported that Dr. Louis Wirth, eminent sociologist of the University of Chicago, will be the guest speaker at the banquet to be held Monday, May 3.

Melton Protests DTHE ditorship Election; Charges Expense Account Filed Incomplete

An 800-word protest filed by Art Melton, defeated independent candidate for the editorship of the Daily Tar Heel, has been reviewed by the Elections board. The protest concerns the election of Ed Joyner to the position.

Melton protested the election on the grounds that a classified ad which appeared in the DTH on the day of the general election, and signed by Bob Goldwater and Billy Carmichael III, had not been included in Joyner's expense account as campaign publicity.

Al Winn, chairman of the Elections board, said that the case will come up before the Student council at its next session. Winn said Melton's statement was reviewed by the board and the report which will be submitted to the council will be unfavorable to the protest.

Scotty Venable, attorney general for student government, will be present at the council session.

Melton lodged his protest on the grounds that the ad carried the words, "Vote for Ed Joyner," and should therefore be submitted as an expense.

Other points brought out in the protest were:

1. According to the elections laws if there is any doubt concerning a candidate's expense, he must submit it to the Elections board for judgment. Melton claims this was not complied with.

2. Melton brough out that the printing of the ad was not done by students and therefore should have been included on Joyner's expense account.

3. The protest points out that the candidate had knowledge of the ad since he was managing editor of the DTH at the time and was responsible for everything that went in the paper.

4. Melton also protested that Billy Carmichael, III, and Bob Goldwater, DTH co-sports editors were equally guilty of the elections laws violation since the laws had been read to both Carmichael and Joyner at the candidates' mass meeting.

IN SIMPLE CEREMONIES, high officials and dignitaries from all over the world pay tribute to the memory of Franklin D. Roosevelt on the third anniversary of his death. Above, during the wreath-laying at his grave in Hyde Park, N. Y., are (l. to r.): T. F. Tsiang, Chinese delegate to the United Nations; Henry Morgenthau, Jr.; Trygve Lie, Secretary-General of the U. N. and Elliott Roosevelt, one of FDR's sons. (International)

Dramatic Association Festival Has Full Schedule for Weekend

The 25th annual festival of the Carolina Dramatic association is now in full swing, with a schedule of play productions by high schools, colleges, and community groups slated for today and tomorrow. The festival opened Tuesday night, following the Southeastern Theater meeting, and will continue through Saturday evening.

One act plays scheduled for this morning include: "Back Home" presented by Greensboro high school, "The House of Greed" by Gray high school, Winston-Salem, and "Sunday Cost Five Pesos" by Lee Edwards high Asheville.

Afternoon Feature

The afternoon session will feature three plays including: "The Summoning of Everyman" by St. Genevieve-of-the-Pines, Asheville, "Reaction" by Mars Hill college, and "Four on a Heath" by Campbell college, Buies Creek.

The evening meeting, to be held in Studio A, Swain hall, will be devoted to an informal discussion of play production and technical problems connected with the activities of the member groups.

Season tickets, or single admission tickets, for the festival may be obtained in the Green room of the Playmaker theater. Sessions begin at 10 o'clock in the morning and 2 and 7:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Carolina Dramatic association is made up of school, college, and community drama groups from all sections of North Carolina. The current festival will be concluded Saturday evening, with the final bill of plays and the presentation of awards.

ANTI-RED LEGISLATION

Washington, April 15 —(UP)— Republican Representative Donald Jackson of California has called on Congress for strict anti-Communist legislation

Durham Station Will Broadcast 'Sweep' Preview

A musical prevue of "Sweep It Clean," the new musical-comedy to be presented next Tuesday and Wednesday for the Koch Memorial fund in Memorial hall, will be broadcast from radio station WDUK at 6 o'clock Monday evening. The 15-minute program includes the two love songs sung by romantic leads Hilda Frances Lawrence and Sam Greene.

Other show songs include the political duet from the second act rally with Forest Covington and Sam Greene and "Mid-Afternoon Blues" jazzed by Hilda Frances Lawrence.

The program begins with the opening song "It's Election Time" and ends with the title song "Sweep It Clean" played by composer Frank Groseclose. Other music from the show will be played during the day until show time Tuesday.

Rendezvous Program Will Star Imitators

Three imitators from Winston-Salem, here for the Carolina Dramatic association festival, will provide entertainment for tonight's floor show at the Rendezvous.

A half hour show of the entertainment will begin at 9:30 and will also feature popular campus artist Skip Mann who will play the piano and sing.

Eleventh Annual State Student Legislature Meets In Raleigh Today; 32 Delegates Represent Carolina

Bicameral Assembly To Meet in Capitol, County Court House

By Chuck Hauser
(Special to the Daily Tar Heel)

Raleigh — The 11th annual State Student Legislative assembly convenes here this morning with colleges and universities all over the state represented.

The student General Assembly will meet in the regular assembly chambers in the capitol building while the Senate will perform its functions in the Wake county court house across the street.

Meeting in Rotunda

All Carolina delegates will gather in the rotunda of the capitol at 11 o'clock this morning, preparatory to registering for the assembly. The first session begins at 1:15 this afternoon.

Representatives will have to provide their own transportation here from Chapel Hill, for which they will be reimbursed by the Debate council. The council will also handle all registration fees for University delegates.

Second session of the legislature will meet at 7 o'clock this evening and continue until 9 o'clock. The third session is scheduled for 9 to 12 noon tomorrow, and the final meeting from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

President of the temporary executive council of the group is Charlie Long, UNC student, and the secretary is Frances Thompson of Meredith college here in Raleigh. Chet Zum Brunnen of Carolina is a member of the Executive council.

Begun in 1937

The legislature was begun in 1937 by the Pi Kappa Alpha debating society at State college and was carried on by that organization until the 1945 session, when the executive council gained control of the project.

During the 1945 meeting the decision was made to admit representatives the following year from Negro colleges in the state. According to observers the interracial group worked together in perfect harmony, but the race question was admittedly part of the cause for the attempted cancellation of this year's assembly by State college students on the executive council last fall.

CHARGES DENIED

Washington, April 15 —(UP)— The American ambassador to Russia says that N. B. C. Correspondent Robert Magidoff has denied Soviet charges that he engaged in espionage while carrying on his news activities in Moscow.

Lieutenant General Walter Bedell Smith adds that he personally can deny charges that the United States correspondent was given espionage instructions through the American embassy. Dispatches from the Russian capital report that Magidoff has been ordered to leave the Soviet Union within three days.

BACK FROM MOSCOW, where he signed a treaty of friendship and mutual aid with the Soviet Union, Bulgarian Prime Minister Georgi Dimitrov is shown addressing a huge gathering of his countrymen. Speaking from the balcony of the Council of Ministers Building in Sofia, the Premier insisted that the pact had many advantages. Standing in right background is Vassil Kolarov, Minister of Foreign Affairs. (International)

Cancer Society Is Now Staging Drive on Campus to Raise Funds

The American Cancer society is staging a drive this week at the University to solicite funds to be used by the society to combat the cancer menace. According to the society, 188,000 Americans, or one every three minutes, will die of cancer this year. Cancer strikes, on the average, one out of every two homes.

Johnny Clampitt, chairman of the student drive, said yesterday that he is contacting the dormitory presidents to ask that they help collect money for this cause.

"I hope that each dormitory president will appoint a man on each floor to make the rounds to get any amount the students feel they can give. The dorm presidents that I have already contacted have been very cooperative," Clampitt said.

In the fraternities each president is urged to ask one of the members to take charge of the collections. Any contributions made are to be turned over to Mr. Roy Armstrong on the second floor of South building or to Johnny Clampitt at the Alpha Tau Omega house.

The A.C.S. reports that the price of cancer to this nation runs as high as $2,000,000,000 a year. Cancer's toll means a cost of $14 for every man, woman, and child in the United States.

An annual expenditure of 18 cents per person for research, clinics, detection centers, public education, and services to those afflicted with cancer is made. During World War II, which cost each American $640 a year, cancer killed more than twice as many Americans as were killed in combat, according to the A.C.S.

WC, State, Duke, GC Students Are Methodist Guests

Students of Women's college, Greensboro college, State college and Duke university will be the guests of the Chapel Hill Wesley foundation, Methodist student group, at a Recreation conference this weekend. Ed Buckner, Chairman of the Recreation committee announced yesterday that plans for the activities have been completed.

Registration of the visiting students will begin at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The late part of the afternoon will be spent in a "get acquainted" period and two seminars.

Stunt skits will be given at an informal banquet tomorrow night with impromtu participation by students of the neighboring schools. Following this, there will be folk and square dancing.

Coed Officers Are Installed By Candlelight

"Each coed officer, because she is looked to for leadership by fellow coeds has an obligation to fulfill not only the duties of her office but to set an example in personal conduct," said Miss Twig Branch in her charge to new officers at the candlelight installation ceremony at the Presbyterian church Wednesday night.

Miss Branch pointed out further that each girl has an obligation to all other coed organizations as well as her own, because one cannot function without the cooperation of all.

Donleen McDonald presided at the candlelight ceremony, which saw some 70 coeds installed as campus leaders.

Retiring president of the various coed associations lighted the candle of the incoming president who in turn lighted the candles of the other officers. Following the candlelighting the old president gave the oath of office to the incoming officers.

Among those installed were new leaders in the WAA, Legislature, Coed Senate, YWCA, Womens Honor Council, and Interdorm Council.

Teenie Royall, chairman of the program committee said yesterday that the joint installation would become an annual affair with the purpose of helping coeds realize their position as campus leaders rather than merely heads of single groups.

Phi Mu Alpha Picks Officers for Year

New officers were elected and installed at the Tuesday meeting of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, Alpha Rho chapter of the national honorary music fraternity in Hill hall.

They include the following: David McAdams, Burlington, national councilman; Howard Myers, Winston-Salem, president; Carl Perry, Schoolfield, Va., vice-president; Kermit Albertson, High Point, secretary; Richard Cox, Raleigh, treasurer; William Waters, Roanoke Rapids, historian; John Kiser, Hickory, alumni secretary; and Samuel Andrews, Albermarle, warden.

Plans for a picnic with Sigma Alpha Iota, the music sorority, were discussed, and the date was set for Friday, April 23.

Conservation, Wildlife Expert Will Lecture Before Last of Series Offered by Bird Club

Alexander Sprunt, Jr., conservation and wildlife authority, will speak at the last in the series of nature movie-lectures sponsored jointly by the Chapel Hill Bird club and the National Audubon society, to be held in the Pick theater tonight at 8 o'clock.

"Our Living Earth," a color film designed to show the meaning and importance of conservation, also will be shown.

Sprunt, a native of Charleston, S. C. and a graduate of Davidson college, has long been active with the Audubon society. For many years he supervised the work of Audubon wardens in the society's tremendous sanctuary areas. Vast colonies of birds, among them the most beautiful and spectacular in this country, egrets, spoonbills, cranes and herons of many kinds, have been saved from complete extinction by the protection the sanctuaries afford.

Currently Sprunt is at work preparing a book on the birds of South Carolina. He was awarded a Guggenheim grant to enable him to prepare the book. A collection of his scientific articles and stories of the out-of-doors has been published under the title "Dwellers of the Silences." These pieces originally appeared in leading magazines throughout the country.

Wildlife and conservation have been his main interests since childhood. As a boy he worked as a volunteer in the Charleston museum. Later he held the position of Curator of Ornithology there. He is also well known through his leadership of the Audubon Wildlife tours at Bull's island, S. C. and Lake Okeechobee, Florida.

The film to be shown deals with the basic principles of conservation. Entitled "Our Living Earth," it shows, in color, the teamwork of the many different forces which make the land into a living, productive organism. Highlights are the erosive effect of a single rain drop, shown in slow motion, time lapse studies of the unfolding of flowers, and the processes of the building up of the soil.

Scholars and Athletes . . . . . . Sit Side by Side

Fleece Founded To Improve Campus Spirit

By Charlie Gibson

For the 45th time in University history Memorial hall will be the scene of a Golden Fleece tapping next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. This will be the campus's one opportunity during the year to see a public ceremony of its leading honorary organization.

Black-robed figures with fleeces across their shoulders will stalk among the audience, followed by spotlights as they search for an undisclosed number of men whom the organization has selected for membership on the basis of character and service to the University.

The Jason of the Fleece for the past year as well as other officers will be revealed for the first time. However, there will be no reference to the work the group has done jointly on campus since all possible accomplishments for the University's good are made individually and secretly, according to the ethics of the order.

A little younger than the twentieth century itself, the Fleece was founded by Dr. Henry Horace Williams, Carolina's famous philosopher-scholar, in 1903 with the initiation of eight students, including Phillips Russell, now a member of the English department.

The Fleece was founded to satisfy a definite campus need, according to Dr. Williams. In an editorial in the Daily Tar Heel for May 8, 1938, he stated, "On the campus at the time of its foundation there were eight different cliques of students and there was no University spirit. There were two or three fraternity cliques, and some dormitories which had rallied into separate groups. There were a group of scholars, a group of gay and giddy men, and a group of athletes. We figured out the plan. . . and decided to select one outstanding man for each clique for membership. These eight men were brought around the table so that little groups on the campus would perish, so that a University spirit would be created. It was quite a shock when the greatest scholar and the finest athlete sat side by side at the same table."

Williams' idea clicked. In successive years the DTH as well as the campus at large made a sport of predicting the Fleece initiates along with the football scores. In recent years it has become customary to honor sincere, prominent faculty members with membership, one professor usually is tapped along with each crop of students.

Prior to the actual tapping Monday evening, Dr. U. T. Holmes of the English department will read the myth of Jason and his search for the golden fleece, symbolizing moral achievement. After the tapping, the Valkyries, coed honorary society, will present its annual Sing with fraternities, sororities, and dormitories competing for two loving cups.

Your Number's Up

If you hadn't heard about it, they're putting your name in that old gold fish bowl again. Behind many frosted-glass doors across the land, there are men who are quietly giving you a number and putting you on a list.

Every time the medal-chested men in Prague or Budapest or St. Petersburg begin issuing angry akases our way, the serge-suited ones on Capitol Hill begin shouting for manpower. There will be much making of talk between the Defense Secretary and Congress, but in the end they always put your name in the bowl. This nation is always sure that two million guys decked out in the same number of uniforms can destroy any enemy, come rockets, radar, and high water.

Knowing this, it would be slightly surprising to see us prepare for the next war in a more business-like manner. (Any enterprise into which a nation pours its resources and population every decade or so gets to be a business.)

Even if every misfit and high schooler in these states were stuck in GI shoes, we couldn't frighten a country of Russia's vastness. Realizing this, and keeping one eye on the vaunted A-bomb, why do not our leaders get the vision of mammoth batallions out of their heads and remember the true striking arm in the next war — the air force.

Listen to what Secretary of Air Stuart Symington told the boys on the Senate Armed Forces Committee the other day:

"We said three years ago your Air Force was going to hell and we say it again this year. We say that no matter how hard you try to fix it, you are not going to have an adequate Air Force by the time the Russians have the bomb. It is too late."

Those last four words hit you pretty hard. You have to figure that Symington is plugging for his branch of service just as much as the rest of the brass, but he sounds more like a sincere, desperate man than a gold-braid lobbyist.

This country now has a 55-group Air Force. They are talking of expanding to 70, but General "Toughy" Spaatz says, "You can't win a war with 70 groups, but you can prevent the enemy from winning . . ."

This is the time to break the vicious circle of America's blundering out of one war into another. There is much ado over UMT, but we may be forgetting the country's real power.

Like we said though, they're putting your name in that bowl.—S.G.

The Professor Knows

Things have been pretty tough for the last few days. Creamy clouds have been moseying along over Franklin Street, perfumed zephyrs whispering through dorm windows, and the dogs have done nothing but lie around in the grass and snore.

If you want to get in the mood of things, listen to what a professor of hygiene at Harvard said recently:

"Twelve hours of sleep surely do a student more good on an exam than twelve hours of studying."

Any amateur rationlist can get a strangle-holt on that statement. What the doc really means, see, is that hitting the sack regularly is much more important than keeping an eye on an English textbook. Let's have absolute apathy, men.

We thought we'd pass this along to you to remember, if the urge became too great to leave the hammock and look under the tennis rackets for a textbook.

After all, it's April and all the dogs are sleeping in the cool shadowy grass and animals never make a mistake, do they?

Pass a hunk of that lotus down this way, brother. —S.G.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.

Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ..... ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager ..... T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor .... Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors .. Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associate Editors ..... Bob Sain, Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady
Society Editor ..... Weddy Thorp
Photographer ... Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. ..... Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. .. C. B. Mendenhall
Subscription Mgrs. .... Jim King, Chan Pegram
Asst. Business Mgrs. .. Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. .... Randall Hudson, Don Snow

NEWS STAFF: Herb Nachman, Charlie Gibson, Sally Woodhull, John Stump, Gordon Huffines, Jack Brown, Stewart McKeel, Margaret Gaston, Dan Wallace, Charlie Craven, Mark Sumner, Emily Baker, Doris Weaver, Harriet Sipple, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.

SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Larry Fox, Bill Kellam, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher, Mel Horowitz, Faith Adams, Anne Wells.

BUSINESS STAFF: James Crews, Jackie Rogers, J. C. Brown, Joe Williams, Gladys Cottrell, Bill Peebles, Neal Howard, Jr., Vin Snell, Candy Jonas, Kathryn McLean, Jim Brown, Baxter Morris, Ed Warton, Leonard Dudley, Jean Williams, Charmian Griffin.

Offices are located on the second floor of Graham Memorial with night office at Colonial Press, Inc., Carrboro. Telephones: Editorial, F-3361; Business, F-3371; Night office, 3337. Mailing address, Box 1080.

This 'n That

Dogs and More Dogs Take Over Office Of Daily Tar Heel

By Bill Buchan

It comes to be a sad state of affairs when you come up to your office to work and find not one, not two, but ten dogs lounging around in all four of the offices. There were canines of all sizes, styles and sexes. — black, and whathaveyou.

Genial Ed, the bossman, was madly chasing over the campus looking for more, but not one word would he release as to the whys and wherefores. Margaret Gaston's entrance into Gerrard Hall explained the whole matter, as far as the Grail initiation was concerned. Pretty good show, considering the impromtu acts and tales of woe presented. Especially good in our feeble opinion was dictator Saleebee, Jim Godwin and Norm Sper.

Farbeit from me to even pretend to be a movie reviewer, but I cannot remember when I was more disappointed in a picture than in the famous "Gentleman's Agreement". Something was definitely lacking, though I couldn't say what. Maybe it was a fast moving plot, or more conversation and background music—anyway, as presented, it certainly wasn't the best picture of 1947.

While the picture had a fine story to tell, it was done so continuously that after the first five minutes we were all wondering which incident would be played up next. "The Best Years of Our Lives" was a fine motion picture, far excelling any others produced in 1946. "Gentleman's Agreement" definitely did not fill the bill.

* * *

Not that I have anything against coloring maps with pretty red, green and yellow pencils or against looking through microscopes at onion skins and things of that sort, but I don't think they will be particularly helpful in years to come when, and if, I get into the newspaper business. People keep talking about having the educational system changed in order to include only the subjects directly pertaining to one's chosen field, but no one does anything about it. Meanwhile we poor disinterested stoops keep using brightly colored crayons and drawing pictures of cells. (I'm seriously considering changing my major to art.)

There must be some good in all this variety of courses, but as yet I, for one, can't see it. Seems an awful boring waste of time, but I suppose we all must have our ups and downs. (Note to any* misinterpreting Botany or Geography professors: Not that I don't like your particular subjects, I just ain't interested!)

* * *

It's off to Raleigh for the State Student Legislature for a large group of Carolina "bigwigs" this weekend. The campus will probably be noticably quiet without them. Chances are, however, that the state capitol will not be so quiet. Rumors have it that several of the state officials are going to be "out of town" on business, just an accident of course. In the meantime, the younger generation will take over and attempt to perform some of the things that regular legislators don't get around to doing. The session will be interesting to watch and read about. Look for it in your DTH and state papers.

Write Away

Needing Two Million

Editor:

A week or so ago, a number of editorials appeared in the Tar Heel concerning the urgent need for a new Student Union building. I whole-heartedly agree that the numerous benefits of our Student Union should have better accommodations, but I am afraid that I am not up to handing out information as to where two million dollars are to be found. Wish I could. However, I would like to pass along an idea that may or may not have been discussed before. I suppose all of the student body remembers the spacious dining room in the basement of Lenoir Dining Hall, known as the "Pine Room." During the Fall Quarter, the dining hall management stopped serving meals in the Pine Room, saying that it was operating with a deficit. At present this room, the most elaborately finished room in the building, is used for nothing except occasional movies for the employees and the lobby and men's room as a dressing room for self-help students escaping the hot regular dressing room.

The suggestion is this: can not this large room be put to some use in the present crowded campus conditions? The most logical use seems to me to be as a supplement or replacement to the Rendezvous Room. The Pine Room is much larger than the Rendezvous and more attractively finished. A large portion of the floor space could be adapted as a stage for shows and still more room would be left for tables and dancing than the entire room at GM can offer. Moreover, there are close at hand first-class kitchen facilities. With the addition of a bit of fountain equipment the room would be fitted to serve as an excellent "night-club", offering fountain service, sandwiches, short orders, and even dinners. Certainly there are a few objections, such as isolation from GM, some of the dorms, et cetra. However, I don't believe that anyone would deny that such a set-up would be a definite asset to campus social life. Finally, I sincerely believe that, under student management, the Pine Room, as a stepped-up and bettered Rendezvous could operate without losing money.

To be sure, a little work all around will be needed, but would it not be worthwhile? Such an arrangement proving successful, the precious Rendezvous space might be devoted to some other use (meeting place or auditorium) while Student Union is functioning under cramped conditions. What stands in the way? I can see nothing insurmountable, except possibly lack of initiative. I don't think we student workers would mind dressing elsewhere in face of such a project. I don't see how the dining hall management could raise much objection to a reasonable arrangement. The space is not being used now.

Come Out and Fight

Editor:

The campus anti-anti-UMT committee has consistently refused to debate the question of conscription on a platform with an opposition speaker. The real reason, I believe, came out at the meeting they sponsored Monday night.

Their speakers gave us only two choices: either we fail to arm and thus risk war, or we arm through UMT and conscription, and try to prevent war by threats of force and balances of power. But they admitted that the second choice had always lead to war. The possibility of any third choice, such as world government or international organization, they dismissed as impractical. It seems that there are too many nationalities, languages, rivalries, etc. No, their only proposal involved building a big army, threatening the use of force to get our own way, and anxiously trying to delay the war which they admit follows a policy of brute force.

In open debate such proposals are bound to be questioned. Few people will accept it as one of only two choices. Most are willing to give the third choice some consideration. Therefore proponents of UMT have refused to debate.

For their meeting Monday night the anti-anti-UMT group selected a moderator who opened the program with an attack on opponents of UMT. Now it is the duty of a moderator to conduct a meeting as fairly and impartially as possible. It is a gross abuse of his privilege to inject his own opinions into a meeting and it is unfair to both sides.

If arguments for peacetime conscription are as sound as its supporters would have us believe, then they should be willing, even eager, to debate this vital issue fairly on its own merits.

Henry Adams

To The Red Of Face

Editor:

Last night there was held in Hill Music Hall a meeting of at least local importance, namely that presided over by Chancellor House and addressed by several members of the University faculty on the subject of Universal Military Training. Yet, not even a mention of it shows up in the Daily Tar Heel this morning.

How come? Were you asleep or merely prejudiced in favor of the anti-arguments? And did you feel at complete liberty to decide arbitrarily what events are newsworthy and what events are not? Certainly you considered the noisy meeting of recent date where the anti-UMT exponents had a field day, or would have had but for "rioting." That was more spectacular, of course, for a newswriter; but you still have your editorial page (save the mark) if you wish to comment. for one, wished to know what was said and done at the meeting.

Mary Hunter

Ed. Note: Due to printshop deadlines most night events do not appear in the following morning's paper. This meeting, held Monday night, was reported in Wednesday's edition.

WHAT'S UP in Graham Memorial

Among things coming up next week at Graham Memorial are a benefit bridge on Thursday night given by the Junior Service league of Chapel Hill — tickets are now on sale in the information office — and a new production by the Laboratory theater — remember what a good job they did on "The Importance of Being Earnest" and "Fashion?"

Grand Canyon Suite by Grofe and Symphony No. 1 by Mozart will be heard on tonight's recorded dinner music program at 6:30 in the main lounge.

If you're looking for a cool main lounge tomorrow night and jine the bingo crowd.

Campus Forum

Need A New Building

By Pete Gerns

The apparent lack of facilities in Graham Memorial has been called to the attention of Campus Forum with the request to find out what students generally think about the situation there.

"Do you think that Graham Memorial's facilities are adequate for our student body?" was asked of the following students:

"The building is too small to take care of students who would like to use it—just about like waiting in line to use a telephone." Frank Kilpatrick.

"The building should be enlarged so as to accommodate greater numbers and should be equipped for entertainment of greater variety of occasions." Ruth Bradley.

"Under the circumstances Graham Memorial is doing a wonderful job in its quality and concentration. As the student body is enlarged so should the facilities for student entertainment: therefore, an enlarged program is needed." Gene Turner.

"For this size of university the facilities are limited for the proper recreation." Sam Brinkley.

"I think that Graham Memorial is adequate to take care of the students." Craig Howard.

"This recommendation for improving Graham Memorial is made without facts on finances, etc. Let's have more information on the source of funds.

However, I know that the facilities for meetings of campus organizations are very inadequate." Paul Moorhead.

"I do not think that Graham Memorial is adequate to meet current student needs. It is serving efficiently under the present size of the student body but is unable to perform as was originally intended." H. P. Lenz.

"If the administration expects the size of the university to remain static, i. e., approximately 7000 students, it is obviously inadequate. I would like to see better facilities for musical recreation that is, a dozen or so individual sound proofed booths equipped with phonographs." Bob Price.

Campus Forum wants to take this opportunity to thank all students polled during election time for their cooperation with this column.

The Brassy Taste

Beer Vs. Basic Morals

By Bob Sain

I was standing the other day in the hot sun supervising a group of workmen who were installing a beer pipe between the University Cafe and Gopher Hole 122 in the arboretum where my friend the poet, Athelstan Boniface, hung out—or hung in, depending on his state of mind.

I had just shouted my final "tote that barge, lift that bale" when I heard Boniface making ectoplasmic sounds back of a hydrangea bush. He peeked over the flowers the sun glittering on his early fifteenth century sallet.

"Psst! Come here,' he whispered.

I slunk over, careful not to let the workmen see me leave since Boniface is a most retiring creature.

"What's your trouble, Ath? I'm just getting this thing fixed so. . . ."

"Precisely," he interrupted. "That is precisely what I wanted to tell you about. Stop it. Right now."

"But, Ath," I said, "I get tired of carrying all those cases down here. It'll be more. . . ."

"Hold!" he snapped. "Get that pipe away from here. Didn't you read the Daily Tar Heel Wednesday?"

Meekly, I answered, "No. I couldn't read Wednesday. After Tuesday night I couldn't even see."

"Well," he said. "That's just the point. Dr. Charles E. McAllister, outstanding minister, lecturer and writer, points out therein that there has been no post-war breakdown of morals among college students in regard to the use of alcohol. It is our duty to do right by Dr. McAllister. We must let our increasing interest in basic moral codes and in religion come to the fore."

"I don't understand," I said, looking blank.

"This is it," Ath explained. "You and the bunch mustn't continue to frequent the University Cafe and. . . ."

"Hey, Ath, speaking of the University," I interjected, "I saw the strangest thing happen up there Monday night. You know this girl Annie Ben Beale, she was supposed to have been sitting in the audience at that hypnotist's show in GM. Well they think it was something miraculous that she was hypnotised in the audience while this joe with the eyes was working on some people on the stage. Seems she just went right off into a coma and they led her up to the stage while she was asleep. Anyway, that wasn't so much. This hypnotist was awfully good because while he was hypnotising those people on the stage he got Bill Buchan all the way up at the University Cafe. At the very moment when this Beale girl coma-ed, Buchan did the same thing—right across the table. That hypnotist has a lot on the eyeball."

"That is the sort of thing we will have to stop," Ath said, holding his sallet under the end of the pipe and getting some of the liquid that was just beginning to flow.

"This dissipation must end," he said pausing to quaff, "it must end for Dr. McAllister's sake."

Abashed, I bowed my head and said, "I'll do what I can."

As I turned back toward town Ath took another drink from his sallet and shouted after me, "See if you can get Budweiser routed into this pipe. They're sending Schlitz now."

I said again, "I'll do what I can."

Mudville Mutterings

Dogs And Kiddie Carts

Bill Goulding took over officially Monday night as the new village mayor. Bill replaces Perry Payne who resigned recently because of conflicting activities.

The council heard reports from members of the rent investigation committee. According to committee members some progress is being made but nothing definite has been promised so far as to what action the F.P.H.A. will take on changing village rent rates and rent divisions.

Things Are Bad All Over

Grand Forks, N. D. — (IP) — Married veterans at the University of North Dakota, residing in 196 four-room units, have a living standard equal to that of student-veteran families at other midwestern universities.

A recent survey of eight midwest colleges revealed their temporary housing projects were similar to UND's. Rentals here cost the veterans from $18.95 to $35 per month, depending upon their income. The rental includes electricity for "normal use." Under the public housing authority's regulations, rent cannot exceed 21½ per cent of the resident's income.

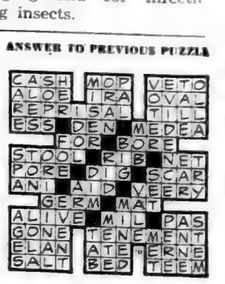
At the University of Iowa, four unfurnished apartment units cost $31 to $42 monthly.

At Purdue University, 590 apartments in converted barracks rent for $35 plus $6.50 for gas for three-room units and $40 plus $8.50 for gas for four rooms.

University of Wisconsin has four apartments renting for only $25 — but they are 34 miles from the campus. The $25 includes all utilities except heat.

Converted barracks buildings contain four-room apartments at the University of Missouri renting for $32.50 per month. The rental includes water and "electricity for lighting only."

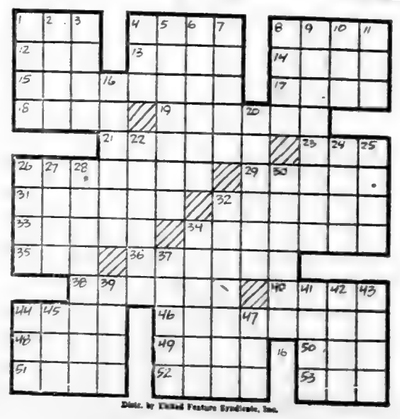
Man's best friend is presenting another problem. According to reports there has been one dog in the village definitely suspected of having rabies and another about which there was some doubt. The council moved to inform citizens that a dog which was suspected of having rabies should be isolated if possible. If he must be killed, do not destroy the body and by all means call the police. This is for your own protection because if the dog is destroyed there is no way of knowing if he was infected with rabies or not.



The council also requested that all people who own dogs should have them innoculated and tagged.

Another item coming up this week is the baby buggy traffic menace. There have been complaints that the large armada of buggies swooping through the streets in the afternoons tie up traffic considerably. The council suggests that the buggy pushers should try to keep as nearly in single file as possible to avoid accidents.

From another quarter this week comes a plea for sanitation. It appears that everyone isn't as careful as he should be about garbage disposal. The garbage should be wrapped and the cans should be carefully closed. Unprotected garbage is an excellent breeding ground for infectious carrying insects.



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

ACROSS

1—Ape
4—Presidential aspirant
8—Quarrel
12—To steal
13—Winged
14—Pert. to aircraft
15—Time over regular hours
17—Leg joint
18—Bristle
19—Low-growing plants
21—Partridge
23—A number
26—Mottoes
29—Living space
31—Edible plant
32—Girl's name
33—To one side
34—Canvas shoe
35—Nickname of former Irish premier
36—Large antelopes
38—Sword-shaped, as leaf
40—The Orient
44—Wind instrument
46—Column
48—Part of fence
49—Ireland
50—Native metal
51—High
52—The Swan Girl
53—Favorite

DOWN

1—God of love
2—To wander
3—To encourage
4—To make lace
5—Divorcee's income
6—Noted
7—Lock of hair
8—Jap wine
9—Sluice for water
10—Part of "to be"
11—Digit
16—Shredded
20—Closed tightly
22—Street shows
24—Nickname for Edith
25—Close
26—Mackerel-like fish
27—— majesty
28—Kind of oil (two words)
30—Prejudices
32—Phylum of worms
34—Sarcasm
37—Part of coat
39—Girl's nickname
41—Above
42—Dry
43—Allowance for waste
44—Worthless scrap
45—Sheeps' cry
47—Collection of literary bits

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Baseballers Rally To Topple Furman, 4-3; Trackmen, Golfers Top Virginia

Locals Win SC Tilt With Two in Ninth; DiLorenzo Fans 16

By Bob Goldwater

What was easy pickings for Carolina's baseball crew last week became quite a stumbling block yesterday afternoon in Emerson stadium, but the Tar Heels managed to come up with two runs in the last of the ninth inning and thus annex a 4-3 Southern conference decision over Furman.

Behind 3-2 as the contest moved into the home stretch, the locals put together one single, a triple, and a walk with the bases loaded to avert what came close to being a major upset. The Tar Heels coasted to a 10-2 victory over the Palmetto lads while on a three-game tour last weekend.

Fifth in Loop

The win—number five on the Carolina conference slate—moved the Blue and White batters to within one-half game of the loop leaders, Washington and Lee. The Generals downed VPI, 7-2, on Tuesday for their sixth circuit triumph.

Man of the hour for Carolina's winning efforts yesterday was centerfielder Whitey Black, whose two triples figured in all four Tar Heel tallies. The first, coming in the seventh frame when the home forces were laboring under a three-run deficit, drove in his team's first run, and Black himself scored a moment later.

His second three-bagger in the ninth gave Black another RBI, this one the tying marker. Three straight walks followed and Black strolled across with the winning tally.

DiLorenzo Wins Third

Of those greeting Black as he registered the clincher, none appeared happier at the team's seventh win than Vinnie DiLorenzo, who went all the way to gain his third straight success of the year. The New Jersey southpaw fanned 16 Furman batters in running his strikeout total for the season to 51 for 36 innings. Every member of the Furman club was retired at least once via the three-whiff route, and six of the first seven Hurricane putouts came through that method.

But despite their inability to connect with DiLorenzo's offerings with any degree of regularity, the Furman batters were able to jump off to a 3-0 advantage at the end of six frames. They picked up one in the third on two singles, passed ball that advanced both runners, and Bob Stewart's loft to left. But the budding rally was nipped on the same play when Ino Little, who made the second of the two safeties, was doubled going into third.

In the sixth inning, Furman increased the gap by two runs. A brace of doubles, by Stewart and Luther Barnett, accounted for one and Jack McDowell's single after two men were retired brought in the other.

Tar Heels Tally

Carolina finally got around to the pesky habit of scoring in the lucky seventh. DiLorenzo started things by getting to first on a roller that first-baseman Little fumbled. Black then came through with his first three-bagger, a long clout to right-center field. Jim Hayworth slapped an infield grounder and Furman third-baseman Barnett made the play at home—but Black beat the peg.

That still left Carolina short one run. Emmett Cheek, home-run hero of Tuesday's Wake Forest victory, opened the ninth

(See BASEBALL, page 4)

Merriwell Finish

Furman	AB	R	H	PO	A
Shelton, 2b	4	1	1	1	4
Little, 1b	5	0	1	14	0
Stewart, ss	4	1	1	1	1
Barnett, 3b	4	1	2	1	3
Phillips, c	3	0	0	3	1
Kerr, rf	4	0	2	3	0
McDowell, lf	4	0	1	0	0
Moates, cf	4	0	1	2	0
Turk, p	4	0	0	0	5
Totals	36	3	9*	25	15

Carolina	AB	R	H	PO	A
Black, cf	4	2	2	1	0
Hayworth, 3b	4	0	0	1	2
Evans, rf	2	0	1	0	0
Jones, rf	2	0	0	1	0
Kelly, lf	4	0	0	1	1
Gregory, 1b	2	0	0	6	0
Ryan, ss	4	0	0	1	1
Branch, 2b	2	0	0	1	0
a-Hobbs	1	0	0	0	0
Hamilton, 2b	1	0	0	1	0
Cheek, c	4	1	1	14	2
DiLorenzo, p	3	1	1	0	1
Totals	34	4	8	27	8

a-batted for Branch in 5th.

*One out when winning run was scored.

Furman	001	002	000	3
Carolina	000	000	202	4

Summary: Errors: Moates, Little, Barnett, Ryan. Runs batted in: Barnett, McDowell, Hayworth, Black 2, Kelly. Three-base hits: Black 2. Two base hits: Stewart, Barnett, Ryan. Stolen bases: Moates, Hayworth. Sacrifice: DiLorenzo. Double plays: Kelly-Ryan-Hayworth. Base on balls—off: DiLorenzo 1, Turk 4. Struck out—by: DiLorenzo 16, Turk 3. Left on bases: Furman 8, Carolina 11. Passed ball: Cheek. Hit by pitcher: Shelton (by DiLorenzo). Umpires: Murray and Powell. Time: 2:11.

Jayvees Drop 8-5 Decision To Dukesters

By Bill Kellam

Durham, April 15 — Carolina's jayvee baseballers inaugurated a "Be Kind to Duke Week" in Coombs park this afternoon and consequently they presented the Millionaires' Blue Imp baseballers with a drawn-out 8-5 victory, completely nullifying Ed Gaston's three-hit mound effort.

Two bad innings — the first two — proved to be the downfall of the local junior nine. During these two fatal frames, the Blue Imps pushed over all their runs without the aid of a hit.

This display of Duke batting prowess saw three runs pushed across on an error, a walk, two stolen bases, a hit batsman, two wild pitches, and an outfield fly—score in the first frame and the remainder tally in the second inning on three cases on balls, three miscues, and a stolen base. One batted ball went out of the infield on the fly during all this activity.

The Housemen came back in the top of the second to push over two runs on singles by Don Ward and Zero Allen, two boots by the Duke infield, Allen's stolen base, and Bolt Weavil's run-scoring single into right field.

Hefty Bill Walsh accounted for the next Carolina tally when he slammed one of starling and winning pitcher Dick Faley's nothing balls into the center field hedge.

Allen scored another run in the eighth when he was hit by Klein, moved to third on Jake Carter's one-base, and scored on Gaston's blast to the left field hedge.

The Carolinians added their final run in the ninth when John Senter strolled, moved to second when Ed Lamo walked, and scored on White's wild pitch.

Carolina	020 001 011—5 5 4
Duke	350-000-00x—8 3 1

Seligman, Moody Pace Tracksters In First Triumph

By Buddy Vaden

Carolina's speedy cinder squad chalked up their initial triumph of the season at the expense of the visiting Cavaliers from Charlottesville by taking 11 first places and five runner-up spots to collect a total of 78 and two-thirds points to the Virginians' 47 and one-third.

The local lads completely dominated the field events, taking first place in each of the six divisions. Jack Moody and Bob Seligman led the Tar Heels to victory by collecting ten points each. Moody collected his four firsts in the broad and high jumps. Seligman took top spot honors in both the shot put and discus throw.

Jimmy Miller added another mile run victory to his long list of triumphs by outclassing the rest of the field. Miller took an early lead and held it all the way without trouble. Halfway through the third lap, after a 2:11 half-mile, Carolina's Mark Burnham took over the second spot from Virginia's Ed Peltz and finished easily in that position.

Virginia Cops Three

Virginia captured both the first and second spots in the 120 yard high hurdles, the 440-yard run, and the 100-yard dash. Former Tar Heel Walter Galliford won the 100 in 10 seconds flat. Cavalier Jim Taylor led all the way in the 440, while teammate Bill Mohler and his brother Dan captured top laurels in the hurdle event.

In the 880, local Julian McKenzie walked away from the rest of the field to win the event in 1:59. Teammate Frank Hooper just missed the second spot by ten yards. He was running in front of Virginia's George Laubscher until the last 100 yards, when Laubscher put on the steam.

In what proved to be the closest race of the meet, Tar Heel John Nelson nosed out fleetfooted Walt Galliford in a true photo finish in the 220-yard dash. Nelson led until the final ten yards when Galliford surged ahead. However, Nelson had a burst of speed left himself and crossed the tape two-tenths of a second ahead of the Cavalier flash.

Magill Scores Again

In the two miles run old reliable Sam Magill showed fine form by topping all his opponents in a one-sided race that saw him and Miller lead the pack all the way for a 9:46.9 race. Magill was 100 yards out in front of Miller after 4:25, mile and stretched the gap 25 more yards during the last four laps. After one and a quarter miles, Tar Heel Jim Hunt was running in third spot behind Magill and Miller, but dropped down to fourth behind Agnes Blakely of Virginia after another lap.

Almost a Runaway

Pole vault: Hickman (C), Roller (V), three way tie for third between Russell (C), House (C), and Debutts (V). 12 ft. 3 in.

High Jump: Moody (C), Joyner (C), Saunders (C). 6 ft. 3 in.

Shot Put: Seligman (C), Armstrong (V), Ogden, (C). 46 ft. 8 3-4 in.

Javelin Throw: Kirk (C), Vestal (C), Baldwin (C). 169 ft 4 in.

Discus: Seligman (C) Mott (V), Coch (V). 139 ft. 7 in.

Broad Jump: Moody (C) Rawley (V), Briley (C). 22 ft 3 1-2 in.

Mile run: Miller (C), Burnham (C). Peltz (V). 4:27.3.

440 yd. dash: Taylor (V) Redford (V), White (C). 51.5.

100 yd. dash: Galliford (V), Knappenberger (V), Willis (C). 10.0.

120 yd. high hurdles: W. Mohler (V). D. Mohler (V), Morrow (C). 15.0.

880 yd. run: McKenzie (C) Laubscher (V), Hooper (C). 1:59.0.

220 yd. dash: Nelson (C), Galliford (V), Knappenberger (V). 22.6.

Two-mile run: Magill (C), Miller (C), Blake (V). 9:46.9.

220 yd. low hurdles: Morrow (C), Schultz (C), W. Mohler (V). 25.0.

Wake Forest Defeats Duke Ball Club, 8-5

Wake Forest, April 15 —(UP)—Wake Forest college finally overcame the jinx that the Blue Devils of Duke had held over them for the past year as they tallied seven runs in a big third inning to outlast their visitors, 7-4.

The Deacons scored their tallies on a single hit, but it was combined with three errors, two bases on balls, and a hit batter to do the damage.

Duke rallied with a run in the fifth and three in the ninth, but could not quite get back into the ball game. Nicholas was the winning pitcher for Wake Forest.

EXHIBITION BASEBALL

At Evansville, Ill.

Cleveland (A)	000	000	000	—0	4	0
N. York (N)	200	000	00x	—2	4	0

At Lexington, Ky.

Cincinnati (N)	303	000	011	—8
Syracuse (Int)	001	122	000	—6

At Baltimore, Md.

Boston (A)	000	110	100	—3	5	2
B'more (Int)	000	010	000	—1	7	1

At Little Rock Arkansas.

St. Louis (N)	000	001	012	—4	9	3
Chicago (N)	022	000	02x	—6	8	0

MONOGRAM NOTICE

The Monogram club party scheduled for this week-end has been postponed until next week-end president Bill Pritchard announced yesterday.

REHDERS
CHAPEL HILL FLOWER SHOP
Opposite Post Office Corner

! - LAST THREE DAYS - !

BATHROBES 1-2 Off
PAJAMAS 1-3 Off
GOLF JACKETS 1-4 Off

GET THESE OUTSTANDING VALUES
—at—
JACK LIPMAN'S

Ward, Oliver Pace Linksmen to Fifth Victory of Season

Charlottesville, Va., April 15—The visiting North Carolina golf team proved a little too potent for the host University of Virginia team here this afternoon as the Tar Heels stroked their way to a 17 1-2 to 9 1-2 victory.

The win was the fifth of the season for the Carolina team with a single loss to Michigan the only blemishing mark on their slate.

The Tar Heel swingsters seem to be hitting the woods and irons to a point of near perfection that their opponents were not able to match.

Ward Stars

Harvie Ward, the Carolina No. 1 man turned in the top round of the afternoon, a one-over-par 73, being closely followed by teammate Harvey Oliver who scored a 74 for the afternoon's effort.

Ward's round was enough of tally to gain a 2-1/ victory over his opponent, a Mr. Roberts, who played nine good holes of golf but countered with nine bad ones. Oliver, playing the No. 2 post, turned in a shutout 3-0 win. The two Tar Heels teamed to capture the best ball, 2 1-2-1-2 and the Carolina entry was off to a good start.

In the second foursome Virginia got back into the match as Bob Cox at the No. 3 post for North Carolina was forced to be content with a 1 1-2—1 1-2 split for his 18-hole match. His running mate, Jack Brantley was not as fortunate, dropping a 2-1 decision to Fred Phillips of the Cavaliers. The Tar Heels also lost the best ball, 2-1, and the match became one of extreme interest.

Brooks Scores

But in the final foursome, young Frank Brooks, the Siler City freshman put the match in the Carolina bag when he whitewashed his opponent at the No. 5 competition and steadied the best ball through to a 2 1-2—1-2 win for the visitors.

The final match saw Dan Nyimicz drop one point more to the Virginians as he lost 2-1, but the ex-basketball star did contribute to the match ball proceedings and thereby have a part in the Tar Heel triumph.

The summary:

Ward (C) defeated Loving, 2-1.
Oliver (C) defeated Roberts, 3-0. Best ball to Carolina, 2 1-2—1-2.
Cox (C) halved with Cooper, 1 1-2—1 1-2. Phillips (V) defeated Brantley, 2-1. Best ball to Virginia, 2-1.
Brooks (C) defeated Holtzworth, 3-0. McElwain (V) defeated Nyimicz, 2-1. Best ball to Carolina, 2 1-2—1-2.

Netters To Meet Highly-Touted Cincinnati Courtmen Here Today

By Larry Fox

Marshall Chambers, Former Frosh Star Here Heads Impressive List of Visitors

Operation number 12 will be performed on the varsity tennis courts this afternoon beginning at 3 o'clock when the Carolina tennis team plays host to the touring University of Cincinnati netters.

The Tar Heels took their 11th victory of the campaign Wednesday, topping Virginia, 5-1, in an abbreviated match curtailed by heavy rains after the singles contests had been completed.

A record was broken that day when Ray Morris went down to defeat at the hands of Cavalier Bill Wyche after winning his first 10 solo encounters.

Chambers Star

The Cincinnati club is headed by Marshall Chambers, who played his freshman tennis here back in 1941. At that time Chambers was number one on the yearling squad. He injured his back that summer and never played for the varsity at Carolina.

After returning from the service, Chambers, a native of Cincinnati enrolled in school there. At present, he is rated second in Ohio Valley men's singles competition.

Charley Thomas, who follows Chambers in the Cincinnati lineup is ranked third in the Ohio conference, but holds a decision over Tony Trabert, number one in the area.

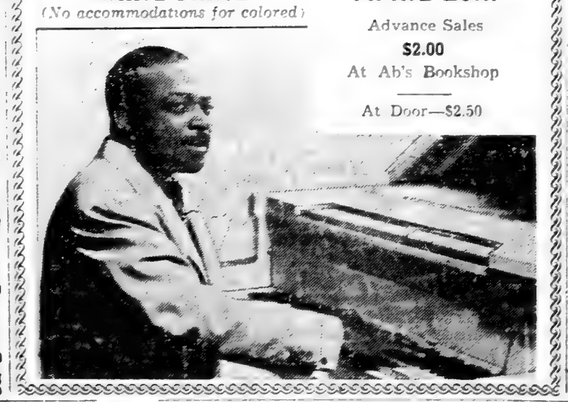
Rated High

Norman Appel and Raymond Hensley rate sixth and seventh in their conference, respectively, while Ernest Spiller, Cincinnati's number five player, is rated in the 15th slot. Thorgny Haanes rounds out the top six.

The outfit is about the same team which won all but one of their 14 matches last year. Wednesday, the Cincinnatians shutout Tennessee, 9-0 and yesterday they played Davidson college.

The singles lineup for Carolina will probably be unchanged, but the doubles pairings are still undecided. Vic Seixas and Clark Taylor will probably make up the number one duo and Morris and Charley Rice are expected to perform on the number two court.

Freshman at Duke



The freshman tennis squad will also see action today, but they will be playing over in Durham against the Blue Imps, who already hold a 7-2 decision over the Tar Babies.

Several changes in the Carolina lineup are expected but two boys are pretty sure of berths on the top six. Guy Kirby and Don McLeod, who made all of Carolina's points by taking their singles matches, will be on the roster.

Fordham University
SCHOOL OF LAW
NEW YORK
THREE-YEAR DAY COURSE
FOUR-YEAR EVENING COURSE
CO-EDUCATIONAL
Member Assn of American Law Schools
Accredited College Degree
Required for Admission
Veterans of World War II who have completed two years of college work toward accredited degree may matriculate within one year of honorable discharge.
Full transcript of record required in every case
FIRST YEAR CLASS BEGINS
September 27, 1948
For further information address
Registrar, Fordham University School of Law
302 Broadway, New York 7, N. Y.

M-G-M presents "B.F.'s daughter"
BARBARA STANWYCK · VAN HEFLIN
CHARLES COBURN
—TODAY—
CAROLINA

COUNT BASIE
And His Orchestra
PLANTERS WAREHOUSE
DURHAM
WHITE DANCE
(No accommodations for colored)
FRIDAY — 8 - 12 p.m.
APRIL 20th
Advance Sales
$2.00
At Ab's Bookshop
At Door—$2.50

Two things every college man should know!

1. This is a poet. Is naturally granted poetic license. But not in passing exams, where it would help. Would have fared better in 18th century. Today horrible fate awaits as radio jingle writer.

2. These are "Manhattan" pajamas. Many people wax poetic over them. They're tailored for real bedtime comfort . . . plenty of arm and leg room to eliminate binding and creeping. See the exclusive "Manhattan" patterns today.
CAMPUS FAVORITE—
Manhattan
THE MANHATTAN SHIRT COMPANY
Copr. 1948, The Manhattan Shirt Co.

Terrace View Supper Club
—Now—
ROOF GARDEN OPEN
2:00 P.M. — 'TIL ?
Never a Cover Charge — Minimum on Weekends
GRADE "A" RESTAURANT
Sunday — 5 p.m. 'til 8 p.m.
REAL SPAGHETTI DINNER—all you can eat—75c
Under New Management—
See "Bill"
—Now—
STAG TAP ROOM
Mondays and Thursdays — Male Stags Only
Wednesdays — Female Stags Only

Explosions, Fires Sweep Army Arsenal Near Rio De Janeiro; 40 Supposed Dead

Injured Estimated At 300; Cause Not Determined as Yet

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, April 15 —(UP)—A huge ammunition dump outside of Rio de Janeiro blew up today, and first reports indicate that the casualty toll may be high.

The first word from the scene, a suburb about 10 miles from Rio says that at least 40 persons are dead and nearly 300 others hurt. The series of blasts almost destroyed one of the major storage depots of the Brazilian army.

All available fire-figthing equipment was sent to the scene, but latest dispatches report flames were still raging out of control at nightfall.

The commander of the suburb, a military community of barracks and army posts, has ordered the immediate evacuation of all residents. The Brazilian minister of war is personally directing relief operations.

THE DEATH OF President Franklin D. Roosevelt on April 12, 1945, raised Harry S. Truman into the nation's highest office. The Chief Executive celebrated his third anniversary in office with work as usual. He only took time out to pose for this picture at the White House with a floral gift sent by an admirer to mark the occasion. (International Soundphoto)

Epidemics Rage Within Bogota; Damage Mounts

Bogota, Colombia, April 15 — (UP) — Bogota, once the city of beauty, is a city of corpses today.

Epidemics are threatening the Colombian capital razed six days ago by an uprising that took up to 800 lives.

There are not enough gravediggers to bury the dead, and even if there were, the followers of the assassinated liberal party leader, Jorge Eliecer Gaitan, would not let them touch his body, not until President Mariano Ospina Perez is ousted.

That is the way the political crisis stands today — just as grave as it was last Friday when the assassination sent mobs into frenzy.

The violence is ended, but the situation grows worse. Workers refuse to go back to their jobs — to the big task of cleaning up $250,000,000 worth of damage and destruction.

The central unions called a strike Friday, a few hours after the assassination. Since then, the government has asked the public works employees to return — to clean up the streets.

So far the workers have given no sign of complying. Even the Liberal party — which the government took in on a coalition basis after the revolution — has had no reply from its back-to-work appeal.

Despite the obstacles the Inter-American conference delegates are trying to carry on in wrecked the epidemic-threatened Bogota.

Plans Under Way For 1948 French House

STUDENTS AT last summer's French house are shown posed on the front steps of the building the group occupied. This year the organization will be located in St. Anthony hall and annex. Prof. Hugo Giduz, director, is third from the left on the top row.

Plans are well under way for the 1948 French house which will open in St. Anthony hall and annex on the campus this summer, it was announced today by Prof. Hugo Giduz, who will again direct the six-week program.

Limited in enrollment, the French house is open to both graduate and undergraduate students, who will eat together, study together and join in all recreation and entertainment—in French. No English will be spoken. The girls will live in the house.

According to Professor Giduz, the value of the French house "lies in the fact that its occupants 'live French'."

Registration for this summer's program, June 10 to July 20, is already well advanced, he says.

Assisting Professor Giduz will be Prof. Rene Hardre, well known member of the French faculty at the Women's college, whose son was a member of the staff last year. Professor Hardre was director of similar French houses at Sewanee, Middlebury, Vt., and at Atlanta. His new book on French conversation, to be published next year, will be used this summer in manuscript form.

Also assisting will be Mrs. Charlotte V. Huse, who has been associated with the French house for three years.

Plans for this summer call for at least one major production of a French play as well as numerous short skits performed by members of the House.

All Daily Tar Heel staff members and other persons who turn in material for DTH use are reminded that this office adheres to a strict 4 p.m. deadline.

-Baseball-

(Continued from page 3)

with a single to center, and DiLorenzo helped out with a well-placed sacrifice. Whereupon Black repeated his three-base feat, this time a well-tagged knock that centerfielder Lamon Moates couldn't reach.

After Jim Hayworth walked and stole second, Frank Jones was given an intentional free pass to load the bases. With Jim Kelly at the plate, the Furman outfield moved in with the hope of making a play at the plate. But pitcher Glen Turk, after holding the locals to eight hits, suddenly found himself unable to find the range, and Kelly walked.

So did Black—from third to home to the showers.

Two Hits Each

Barnett and Bill Kerr both contributed two hits each to pace the Furman attack. Rip Ryan's double and single was second high in the Carolina offense to Black's two triples.

The Tar Heels depart from conference play tomorrow in a night contest at Greenville against that city's entry in the Coastal Plain league.

Fifty-Two Years of Medicinal Drugs Described in Pharmacy School Speech

Describing his study from nature of the fundamental principles of the crude medicinal drug business over a period of 52 years, R. T. Greer, of Lenoir, veteran wholesale dealer dealer in botonical drugs, said in an address before the University Pharmacy School students here that North Carolina produces about 200 different medicinal plants.

"The medical or pharmaceutical manufacturers of the world have known for a long time that North Carolina produces all the plants which are recognized as such by the Pure Food and Drug department of the federal government and so listed by the United States Pharmacopoeia and National Formulary," Greer said.

Among some of the common botanical harvested in North Carolina Mr. Greer named wild cherry bark, black haw, balm of Gilead buds, passion flower and Golden seal. The latter, he said, being as "dependable as quinine."

UNC OFFICE HOURS

All offices in the University have adopted new office hours which are in effect now. Monday through Friday offices will open at 8:30 in the morning and close at 4:30 in the afternoon. On Saturdays office hours are 8:30 to 12:30. Prior to this University offices on week days were open from 9 to 5, and on Saturday from 9 to 1.

Campus Calendar

7:30 p. m.—Hillel services, Roland Parker 1.

7:30 p. m.—Wallace club, Roland Parker 2 and 3.

Ice Cold Atlantic
Bock & Regular Beer
$3.75 Per case delivered
K & M
Beer Delivery Service
phone 3536

FURNITURE . . .
• Upholstered • Refinished
• Repaired • Made to Order
Charles Valentine's Cabinet Shop
PHONE 9367 — PITTSBORO RD.

Whid Powell's
COLONIAL HOUSE SYSTEM
GRILLED TARHELLIAS
CAROLINA WAFFLES
Rosemary St.—Opp. City Hall

Ridgeway's
OPTICIANS
Complete Eyeglass Service
Prompt attention to all mail orders
PROFESSIONAL BUILDING
Raleigh N. C.

Hear the Truth from—
HENRY WALLACE
—About—
• Nationalized Aircraft Industry!
• Secret Iran Treaty!
• War Drive!
In excerpts from a speech at a Chicago Convention before 21,000 people.
Straight from U.N.C. delegates to National Students - for - Wallace Convention, representing 46 states
7:30 FRIDAY NITE APRIL 16
BINGHAM 103

CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE 6B (1-130-1)

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed and being completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogerson Drive. Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. Telephone F-2906. (1-ch1x2-1)

ATTRACTIVE TWO BEDROOM house, 31 Oakwood Drive, Chapel Hill. Excellent location, spacious grounds. Owner leaving town. Phone F3216, Hector MacLean. (1-126-1)

MUST SELL 22 FOOT NATIONAL house trailer. Will sleep 4. Butane gas stove, kitchenware, electric heater. $475 cash. Excellent buy! Apply 230 Nash Hall Trailer Court. (1-135-1

24 FOOT GLIDER HOUSE TRAILER. Lot number 76, University Trailer Court for married couples, or box 701, Chapel Hill. (1-137-1)

FRIGADAIRE, AND BUILT IN OIL range, both in good condition. See on Center Avenue, Carrboro or call Florence Stout at telephone company after, six. (1-c144-1)

FOR SALE AUTOMOTIVE 6BB

'39 PLYMOUTH FOUR DOOR SEDAN. Radio, heater and four good tires. Motor in excellent condition. T. H. Yates, Phone F-3951. (ch 1x1)

1946 DODGE "TOWN SEDAN" CUSTOM. Excellent condition. Radio, heater, tailor made seat covers. Inquire at University Trailer Ct. No. 60 after 1:00.

LOST 12

KEY CHAIN CONTAINING FIVE OR six keys and miniature license No. 264-224. Reward if returned to Hill Bakery. (ch 1x1)

SERVICES OFFERED 19

ALL MAKES OF LAWN MOWERS repaired, machine sharpened. Axes, hatchets, scythes also sharpened. Tripps Lawn Mower Repair Shop or see John Tripp, Carrboro Shoe Shop. (ch 1x1) Inquire between 5 and 6 p.m. (1-115-1)

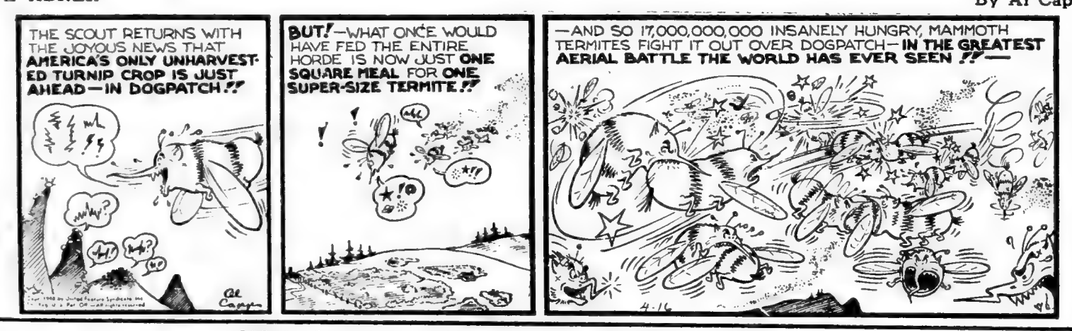
Jerry the Tailor
OVER
N. C. CAFETERIA

University Florist
"For the Best in Flowers"
Pick Theatre Bldg.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Telephone 6816

Look Your Best
—For—
This Important Weekend
TAR HEEL BARBER SHOP

Lloyd Electric Co.
F-3862 CARRBORO
Sales & Service
For
• L&H ELECTRIC STOVES
• JUD-WHITEHEAD & RED CROWN HOT WATER HEATERS
We specialize in wiring new construction and in general repair.

SHE WAS A RENEGADE
AFFILIATED PRODUCTIONS presents
RENEGADE GIRL
starring
Alan CURTIS • Ann SAVAGE
Edward BROPHY • Russell WADE
TODAY
VILLAGE



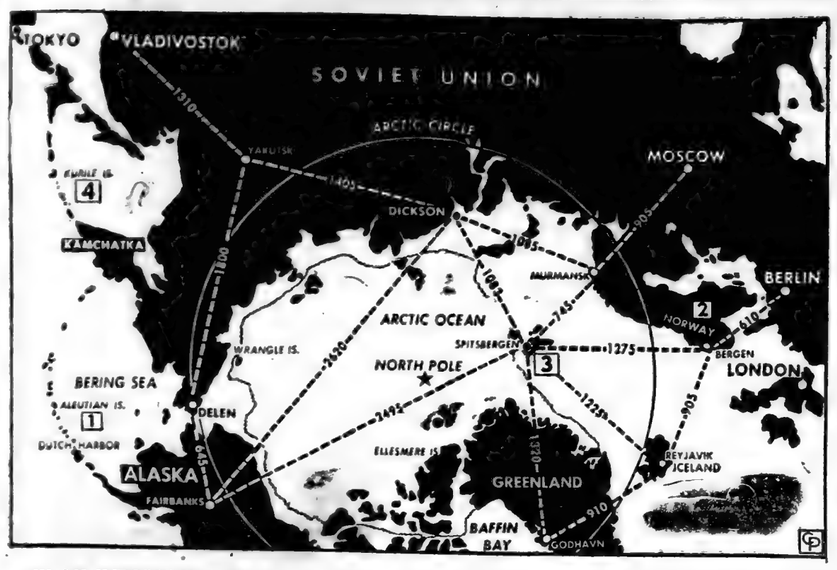
The ORIENTAL
CHINESE-AMERICAN RESTAURANT
116 E. Parrish Street
Durham, N. C.

Let's Get together
PHILIP MORRIS is so much better to smoke!
PHILIP MORRIS offers the smoker an extra benefit found in no other cigarette. For PHILIP MORRIS is the ONE, the ONLY cigarette recognized by leading nose and throat specialists as definitely less irritating.
Remember: Less irritation means more smoking enjoyment for you.
Yes! If every smoker knew what PHILIP MORRIS smokers know, they'd ALL change to PHILIP MORRIS.

CALL FOR PHILIP MORRIS
TRY A PACK . . . TODAY

LI'L ABNER By Al Capp

Wait for me — I'm going to HARRY'S — too.



WEATHER
Fair and mild.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
A Question
Sunday Prices
Battle of Ideas

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., | SATURDAY, APRIL 17, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | NO. 143

Mock State Assembly Elects 3 U.N.C. Students

IN AN IMPORTANT MOVE to bolster U. S. defenses in the Arctic, the joint Army, Navy and Air Force plans to restrict the Aleutian Islands (1) for all but military use. At the same time, announcement was made that a U. S. carrier force will visit Norway (2) on a "goodwill mission" April 29. Since the Scandinavian countries have been reportedly under Russian pressure, this action has focused attention on that area. No effort is made to minimize the importance of strengthening Norway's hold on her strategic polar islands. Spitsbergen (3) has been a particular subject of rumor and discussion because of its proximity to Greenland, Iceland, and hence, the North American coastline. As the map shows, the Aleutians stretch almost to Russian-held Kamchatka and the Kurile Islands (4). Also they serve to guard the approach to Alaska. (International)

'Capitalism Done For' Hass Tells Audience

By Charlie Craven

The Socialist Labor Party would overthrow the present system of government in this country by making effective certain provisions found in Article five of the Constitution of the United States, Eric Haas asserted last Thursday night.

Hass, national organizer for the Socialist Labor party, told about 35 persons in Hill hall that "everywhere the great majority of people believe that Capitalism is done for, that is, the thinking people." The address sponsored by the Carolina Political Union, non-partisan discussion group.

Constitutional Amendment

Article V of the federal constitution, to which Hass referred, provides a menas of constitutional amendment by a specific majority of the legislatures of the several states and by a specific majority of the two houses of Congress.

"The United States is heading toward state despotism, toward power concentrated in the hands of a few," he said. "This trend working classes quit following their leaders and rely on the theories of Marx and Engels."

Based on Manifesto

Hass stated that the principles of his party are based on the Communist Manifesto but are opposed to the political precepts of the Russian government.

The speaker claimed that the aim of his party is to "work to a maximum degree for a peaceful revolution." He continued, "The Socialist Labor party is attempting to impress people with the imminent fall of capitalism and to design an orderly change."

In striking out at Henry Wallace, Hass stated that the Third party candidate "has not a single

(See HASS, page 4)

Opposition Voiced On Preparedness

Washington, April 16 — (UP) Congress has heard a great many arguments lately in favor of the Draft and Universal Military Training. Today it heard from the opposition.

George Harper, a spokesman for the conference of Methodist Youth, told the House Armed Forces committee that Congress should not adopt the Draft until it has lost hope for the peace. He said that enactment of the Draft Law would serve notice on the world that America was basing its foreign policy on force.

Samuel Levering, a spokesman for the Quakers, argued that partial mobilization for war will lead to war, not to peace.

However, preparedness plans continue.

The new director of Civilian Defense Planning, Russell Hopley, told a Nebraska audience that our Civil Defense will be able to operate in six months or possibly sooner.

In New Orleans, a high railroad official said American railroads are preparing themselves for the possibiliyt of another war.

At the same time, the Army has moved to bolster its defenses in Alaska. It has ordered some 8,000 troops to the northern outpost.

Umstead Act Gets Vote for Repeal; Other Bills Treated

(Special to the Daily Tar Heel)

By Chuck Hauser

Raleigh, April 16 — The 11th annual N. C. Student Legislature assembly slogged through miles of red tape here today to finally elect three Carolina students to top positions in the legislature — Gran Childress, Charlie Long, and Pete Gerns.

Gerns was unanimously elected by acclamation to the post of Parliamentarian of the House of Representatives.

Childress was picked in a joint session of the Legislature as interim secretary-treasurer for the coming year. Long was elected to the post of Speaker of the House of Representatives on the first ballot, with two persons opposing him.

Interim president of the student assembly is Charles Cooper of Duke University, while President of the Senate is Henry Huff, a Wake Forest student.

Speakers pro tempore of both the Senate and House are Negroes. The former is John Kelly of Agriculture and Technical college in Greensboro, and the latter is Thomas Byers, of Johnson C. Smith university of Charlotte.

The well-known Umstead act was repealed by the mock House of Representatives of the student group. The actual Umstead measure prohibits agencies of Carolina, State College, Woman's College and ECTC from selling any items except actual classroom supplies in competition with outside merchants. The statute prohibits eating establishments run by thoses uch as Lenoir hall, from selling food at prices lower than those prevailing commercially off the campus.

The Repeal bill, passed by the Student Legislature states that materials sold by college agencies must be confined to items useful to students while they are attending college. It goes on to allow college eating places to charge less than commercial prices, and concludes by providing that the student will be presented to both the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate of the true North Carolina General Assembly at its next session.

The Senate passed a bill this afternoon which provides for graduate schools for Negroes within the greater University of North Carolina. These schools are to be equal in standards and requirements to other graduate units under the Greater university.

Another bill passed by the House states that when a Negro is involved in a criminal court case, at least one-third of the jury shall be composed of Negroes.

Likewise, it states that when a woman is the defendant in a case, at least one-third of the jury

(See LEGISLATURE, page 4)

Hurwitz Will Address Drama Festival Today

Albert Hurwitz of the drama department of Yale university will speak to the members attending the Carolina Dramatic association drama festival in the Playmaker theater here at 11 o'clock this morning. The session will be open to the public, and all interested students are cordially invited to attend.

ALBERT HURWITZ

Hurwitz will take on "Visualizing the History of the Theatre", and his lecture will be built around a special exhibit, including a scale model of a classical Greek theater, a model of an attic player, costume plates, and special projects.

Talks to Contest

He will talk after the costume and make-up contests, which are scheduled for 10 o'clock. The morning session will open with a director's breakfast at the Carolina Inn. The breakfast will be a business meeting and new officers for the coming year will be elected.

Seven plays, including three originals, will be presented during the afternoon and evening sessions before President Graham presents the awards at 10 o'clock tonight.

Afternoon Session

The afternoon session will feature productions including: "The Loop" by the Cunningham School of Speech, Gastonia ;original plays are, "The Man Who Looked Like God" written by Lou Hershaw, presented by the Quill and Que Players, Asheville; "The Will of the Gods" by Bob Grahl, produced by Lee Edwards high school, Asheville; and "One for the Book" by Dorothy Summerrow, Florence Young, and Naomi Cunningham, presented by the Literature department of the Gastonia Woman's club.

Tonight will see productions of "Balcony Scene" by Rocky Mount high school, "Echo" by Central High, Charlotte, and "A Wedding" by Reynolds High, Winston-Salem.

Cyrano Production Will Hold Tryouts

Foster Fitz-Simons, who will direct the Carolina Playmaker's Forest Theatre production, "Cyrano de Bergerac" by Edmond Rostand, disclosed last night that public tryouts for the big outdoor production will be held next Tuesday afternoon.

The tryouts, which are open to everybody, will be at 4 o'clock in the open air Forest Theatre in Battle park. In case of rain, the tryouts will be in Memorial hall.

"This play, which will be the biggest Playmaker production of the year, will require a large cast," Fitz-Simons said, "and we cordially invite anyone interested to try out for a role."

"Cyrano de Bergerac" will be the fifth major production of the Playmakers' thirtieth season and will be presented on May 21, 22, 23.

'Queen of the May' Turns Out to be GI

Oxford, Mississippi — (UP) — Students at the University of Mississippi turned out to vote for the traditional "Queen of the May." When the votes were counted, it was found that the school had a Queen all right, only the queen was a man, a former GI named Fred Carney.

School authorities promptly stepped in to squelch the gag and ruled that the write-in votes the former GI says he is going to enter the race in a run-off election, on his slogan: "You don't want someone routine for your Queen."

CPU Has Scheduled Pepper, Broughton

Florida's Senator Claude Pepper and North Carolina's ex-governor J. Melville Broughton are scheduled to appear here during the last week in this month, a Carolina Political Union spokesman said last night.

The two speakers are appearing in the series which is being sponsored by the CPU, campus non-partisan political discussion group.

Broughton will speak on April 27, and Pepper is scheduled to appear April 30. Both lectures will be held in Hill hall.

A CORRECTION

The Count Basie Dance will be held in Durham's Planters Warehouse Tuesday April 20th, instead of Friday as announced in yesterday's Tar Heel.

Quarterly Finance Group Organizing Campaign For Author's Sponsorship

Success hopes for the proposed Carolina literary quarterly are soaring following a recent meeting of the magazine's Finance committee, at which tentative plans were set forth for both the sponsorship and financing of the new literary publication.

The Finance committee, meeting in Graham Memorial, voted its approval of launching a campaign in which leading North Carolina authors and columnists will be asked to serve as sponsors for the quarterly.

Angus McKellar, committee chairman, presided over the meeting which heard and condensed into a workable plan the ideas of committee members, including Billy Carmichael, III, Sally Woodhull, James Street, Jr., and James Dickinson.

A joint meeting of the Faculty Advisory council and the Finance committee is set for 4 o'clock Monday in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial, McKellar announced. It is hoped this meeting will give the green light to a full-scale publicity program, intended to reach every literary minded person in the state including alumni, newspapermen, business men, teachers and school students alike.

The prospectus of the new quarterly, recently released, blueprints a magazine of quality and proportions never before exceeded on this campus or in North Carolina.

The proposed magazine, in composition, will feature 50 per cent student's contributions and 50 per cent professional offerings, with a minimum of advertising space.

The quarterly is being created as a state magazine, published by and for the people of the state, and intended to higher the literary status of the state.

A proposed 64-page publication, the quarterly will endeavor to help reach each other, to become better acquainted with one another. Sentiments may be voiced, state's traditions and oddities can be illuminated and the state's four sections will be knitted more closely together in unpredicted harmony.

The Finance committe, already $2,000 having been under-written for the quarterly, is working for donations to increase that figure to an amount which will assure publication of the magazine for at least one year, or longer, depending upon the generosity of interested persons.

ORDER OF SHIEK

There will be an organizational meeting Tuesday night at 8:30 in Gerrard hall for members of the Order of the Shiek. Announcement of the meeting was made by Jim Thrash, acting secretary.

Marine Corps Grad Program Offers Men Early Commissions

The Marine Corps Civilian College Graduate program offers qualified young men an immediate commission in the regular Marine Corps, provided they have received a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university.

On enlisting he must agree to serve on active duty for two years, during which time he will be given ample opportunity to consider making Marine Corps his career or to return to civilian life.

Upon appointment the officer is assigned to the next class of the Basic school at Quantico, Va., where he undergoes fundamental Marine Corps indoctrination and officer's training as a second lieutenant.

To be qualified the individual must be a male citizen of the United States. He must be more than 20 and less than 25 years of age on July 1. Both married and single applicants are equally eligible.

An unmarried second lieutenant with less than three years service received, including quarters and subsistence allowance, approximately $250 per month. A married second lieutenant receives an increase of approximately $40 per month.

Anyone wishing to file application may submit a request between 90 and 120 days prior to his graduation for application in order that they may be completed by him and returned to Marine Corps headquarters. Request for application forms and any requests for additional information may be addressed to the Commandant of the Marine Corps, Washington 25, D. C.

French Club Will Give Benefit Drama in GM

Graham Memorial will sponsor the French club's benefit presentation of the romantic drama, "Henri III et sa Cour" by Alexandre Dumas, in the original French at the Playmakers Theater at 8:30 April 22 and 23.

There will be no admission charges. However souvenir programs, according to the custom in French theaters, will be sold. Those attending may donate any amount they wish in exchange for these programs, which will be in French and will contain a synopsis in English. The proceeds will be sent to the American Aid to France.

Feller Will Speak Next Week in N.C.

Dr. Will Feller, professor of mathematics at Cornell university, will spend next week in Chapel Hill and Raleigh visiting the Institute of Statistics here and at N. C. State. He will give several lectures and lead seminar discussions on statistical and mathematical problems.

Dr. Feller, born in Yugoslavia and recipient of a Ph. D. degree from Goettingen, became in pre-Hitler days director of the Laboratory of Applied Mathematics at the University of Kiel, Germany, but later moved to Stockholm where he carried on extensive research in pure and applied mathematics, including problems of statistics, probability and actuarial work.

Coming to this country before the war he joined the mathematics department of Brown university, and became also executive editor of "Mathematical Reviews." He became professor of mathematics at Cornell university in 1946.

The first of Dr. Feller's North Carolina lectures, all of which are open to the public, will be held Monday, April 19, in Patterson hall at State college. He will speak there at 4:15 Monday afternoon on "Creation and Extinction, Genes, Family Names and Chain Reactions."

The remainder of the week he will spend in Chapel Hill, where he will deliver a series of three lectures on "Fluctuation Theory of Recurrent Events." These will be Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 8 o'clock and Friday at 4 o'clock in Phillips hall.

On Wednesday, April 21, a joint meeting of the Statistics colloquium and the Duke-Carolina Mathematics seminar will be held in 320 Phillips hall at 4 o'clock, to hear Professor Feller speak on "New Light on Limit Theorems of Probability." This meeting will be preceded by tea at 3:30 o'clock for the mathematicians, statisticians and their guests.

Campus Getting New Spring Look; 2,000 Shrubs Are To Be Distributed

The campus is getting new touches for its spring dress, reported J. S. Bennett, Director of Operations at the university yesterday.

Two thousand new shrubs are being distributed over the campus and new grass will be planted in some of the bare spots that mar the campus.

The hedges lining the campus walks are now in the process of being trimmed, and old, overgrown hedges will be replaced by new ones.

The Director stated that the grounds around some of the dormitories could be kept in better shape if the students would be more co-operative, particularly, in such ways as using the regular walks instead of beating new paths through the lawns.

Repairs on campus streets that were damaged by the recent winter will be made between now and June, and arrangements to that effect are now being made.

The puzzle of the disappearing benches at the "Y" court was solved by Mr. Bennett when he pointed out that students often appropriate the benches for use on other parts of the campus and sometimes fail to bring them back. He said that university employees had to go out and bring the benches back to the "Y" court on several occasions.

HEAVY APRIL RAINS went to work in the Pittsburgh, Pa., area, even if some of the soft coal miners didn't. This scene of River avenue well illustrates what happened. A flood of sizable proportions swamps an auto while arks and shacks are completely-surrounded. (International)

Schenkkan Is Brute . . . . . . Gives "B" on Course

Student Enters Class On Stretcher

By Miriam Evans

Most University professors don't give their students so much work to do that when they finish it they are ready for the nearest rest home. However, an exception to this was proved last quarter by lanky Sigma Chi John Clayton.

Dramatic Script Writing, Radio 74, is taught by Robert Schenkkan, who requires a great deal of work from the chosen few who are allowed to take the course. If a student isn't taking Music Appreciation 41 and Philsophy 41 along with Schenkkan's course, maybe it wouldn't be so hard to write, rewrite, and rewrite the rewrites of two orginal radio scripts, plus one documentary and one adaptation.

On Friday, March 12, the last day of classes before exams, eleven weary people dragged themselves up the steps to Swain hall at 12 o'clock and creeped to their seats. The professor entered, smiled cheerily at his little class, called the roll, and discovered that Clayton, the 12th of his slaves, was absent.

"Anybody seen Clayton?" inquired Schenkkan anxiously.

Somebody murmered something about his not feeling too well during the previous period; and after understanding remarks from the absentee's friends, one of the aspiring radio writers began to read a script.

About 12:15, the door of the room swung open and in marched Hank Beebe and Jim Blount, fraternity brothers of Clayton, wearing white jackets and carrying a stretcher between them.

On the stretcher, with his arms hanging limply to the floor, was Clayton himself. The carriers marched to the front of the room and placed the stretcher at Schenkkan's feet, giving him a 'you brute you" look.

When the laughter of the class and professor had subsided, Clayton picked himself up and collapsed in the nearest chair after he had bowed graciously to the two friends who had given him the free ride.

Clayton's toil was rewarded... he got a "B" on the course.

In Answer To A Question

During the runoff election last Tuesday we were urging a student of Old West dorm to step across the street to Gerrard hall and register his vote.

"Why should I?" he said. "If we were picking the trustees or the administration officials or whoever sets the policy of the University and has power to do something, I'd vote in every election. But the only student officers who have any powers that actually affect the students are the Men's Honor council members who can kick you out of school and the editors who control the publications. Why should I vote for the other officers?"

We pointed out the fact that the Student Legislature sets the amount of student fees and apportions the money to the organizations on campus, including publications. But we were momentarily stumped by the question concerning what powers the other officers have that actually touch students where they live. We went back to the office and re-read our copy of the student constitution. Then we went down the hall and talked with Tom Eller, who is just finishing a year as student body president and knows the importance of student government if anyone does.

The answer, of course, was that almost every office in student government has powers that touch closely the lives of students. These powers are all enumerated in the constitution, but it takes specific instances to give real meaning to the plainly-written words.

We found a satisfactory answer to the question "Why should I vote?" But more than half the students here must have asked themselves that question and come up with the wrong answer. Otherwise more than half of them would have voted in the April 6 elections and more than a third in the runoffs. Evidently there is much ignorance about the functions of student government. Few students remember the information given them during freshman orientation. Fewer still know what is contained in the student constitution. To refresh their memories and give them a clearer picture of what goes on after their votes are counted, Gordon Huffines, DTH student government reporter, will begin on this page next week a series of interpretative articles concerning the duties and powers of campus officers.

Lower Sunday Prices

Those students who are unfortunate enough to have to eat three times a day, seven days a week find it unreasonable that prices in Chapel Hill restaurants and cafes go up from ten to fifteen cents on each item on Sunday.

During the football season, the DTH received a letter from one student who stated that when he protested on the raise in prices that the waitress gave him "regular" student rates. This system, whether right or wrong, is not in force now. If it could be logically explained why it is necessary for the cafe owners to raise their prices, then possibly we could accept without complaint. However, none of them are starving or nearing bankruptcy, and according to the standing lines for meals at noon and supper, there certainly can be no decrease in the amount of business.

Rumor has it that the mighty "Chapel Hill Merchants Association" set the ruling and therefore the students must accept it. If necessary to demonstrate student reaction to the high prices, students would be wise to buy their meals on Sunday in Lenoir Hall, where the prices remain the same throughout the week.

The famous Umstead Act prohibits private business enterprises by students who are low in cash, thus forcing the student body to purchase all their necessary goods from the stores on Franklin Street. It would seem that that advantage over us would be enough to satisfy them. Yet, without too much noticeable protest, we pay from forty to sixty cents extra on Sunday for three meals.

If the only way to have the increase in prices removed is by boycotting the cafes, then they should be boycotted.

—B.B.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.

Member Associated Collegiate Press.

Editor ..... ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager ..... T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor .... Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors .. Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associate Editors ..... Bob Sain, Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady
Society Editor ..... Weddy Thorp
Photographer ... Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. ..... Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. ... C. B. Mendenhall
Subscription Mgrs. ... Jim King, Chan Pegram
Asst. Business Mgrs. .. Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. ... Randall Hudson, Don Snow

NEWS STAFF: Herb Nachman, Charlie Gibson, Sally Woodhull, John Stump, Gordon Huffines, Jack Brown, Stewart McKeel, Margaret Gaston, Dan Wallace, Charlie Craven, Mark Sumner, Emily Baker, Doris Weaver, Harriet Sipple, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.

SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Larry Fox, Bill Kellam, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher, Mel Horowitz, Faith Adams, Anne Wells.

BUSINESS STAFF: James Crews, Jackie Rogers, J. C. Brown, Joe Williams, Gladys Cottrell, Bill Peebles, Neal Howard, Jr., Vin Snell, Candy Jonas, Kathryn McLean, Jim Brown, Baxter Morris, Ed Warton, Leonard Dudley, Jean Williams, Charmian Griffin.

Offices are located on the second floor of Graham Memorial with night office at Colonial Press, Inc., Carrboro. Telephones: Editorial, F-3361; Business, F-3371; Night office, 3337. Mailing address, Box 1080.

Carolina Carousel

Are Liberals Out Ot Style?

By R. Foo Giduz

Just got to thinking the other day about the changes now taking place in the pattern of student thinking in our alleged "southern center of liberalism." . . .Of course, the whole country is now swinging to the "right" in its views, too. . . . But it's sort of struck the Carouseler recently that it's no longer in the vogue to be a liberal of any sort around UNC. . .Going out of style like short skirts.

It has been said that college education broadens one's views and usually makes him more of a constructive liberal thinker. But as of recent those who hark back to the "good old days" are coming to be the more pedestaled paragons of up-and-coming American youth . . .Now mind you, we do not damn any such trend. . .But we are somewhat annoyed over one result it is bringing about.

When considering liberals it seems that the average student has come around to grading them all against how close to being a Communist they are. . .Wherein lies the lie. Gentlemen, the majority of "we" local liberals, even of varying degrees, are just as anti-Communist as the solid mass of Conservative thinkers. . .And no closer to Communism than they are. Regardless of what agreement Communists may have on some specific issues with the Godalmighty Carolina campus liberal thinker, there's always a solid unbridgeable gulf between those who believ in Capitalism and those who advocate Communism. . .Kindly consider it.

Closing daymare of diatripe:

—Wondering if the SP-CP merger is going to come off as planned. . .Campus Party was mighty unwilling to assist SP during the run-off. . .Will they get wise and merge as they should!. . .Two's good government. Three's disapation. . .

No sooner is he elected to office, than he moves into an office. That is, Norm (Cheer) Speer has already taken over an office in the old filter plant for cheering squad preparations. . .It's a full-time job the way he's going at it. . .And it WILL be good. . . C. C. has some of the healthiest size feet on the campus anyhow, but what with spring days and oooshy Carolina mud being what they are he often feels like it's Barefoot time on the Hill. . . .Any other hillbillies around?. . .Bill (rhymes with Pill) Carmichael is telling a lousy one yesterday afternoon:. . .Sez the Injun to the Mermaid: "How?". . .

National election year seems to be becoming fruitful for voteran students. . .H. R. 5588, which is all set up to pass any day now, provides a nice fat pension hike for all service-disabled vets with dependents. . . Of which there are many, many in school. . .And our "Big Inch" from Capitol Hill warns not to be too optimistic over recent favorable housing developments. . . Though finally out of committee and due for a vote soon, the TEW-and-a-half year old measure to give the country a decent long-range housing program will be godawfully inefectually amended and watered down to worse than nothing before passage. . . It looks like to us.

Write Away

A Wallace Man Explains

Letters submitted to the Write Away column must be double-spaced, typewritten, and shall not exceed 300 words. All contributions must contain signature, telephone number, and address of the author. (Names will be withheld upon request.) Letters which contain obscene or libelous statements or letters which do not comply with these stipulations will not be published.

Editor:

Presumably, the article appearing in day - before - yesterday's Tar Heel under the heading "Move to Exploit Negro Vote" was written by Mr. Ed Joyner, newly elected editor of the paper. I, as a member of the Wallace club, am rather bewildered at this piece of work, for I thought that even though many people differed with us, all those that think knew exactly what we stood for. Mr. Joyner evidently does not have the slightest idea about the true state of affairs. He is, I have been led to believe, a thinking person, and therefore his comments were rather hard to understand.

In order to help him realize the true facts in the case, I believe that a few short questions are in order. Brief answers will be presented to help him over the rough spots.

In the first place, exactly what is a liberal? In order to avoid confusion, let us go to the dictionary. Messrs. Funk and Wagnalls say that a liberal is a person "free from narrowness and bigotry . . . inclined to democratic or republican ideas, as opposed to monarchial or aristocratic." Presuming that Mr. Joyner knows what the democratic ideals are in regard to racial discrimination and exploitation, and presuming that he can look up the word bigotry, we will continue.

Isn't it true that Henry Wallace has been known throughout his entire political career as a true liberal? Hasn't he always fought for the minority race groups in America? Hasn't he always insisted that his speeches be made to unsegregated audiences? Is it then anything but logical that other liberals who believe in the same things that he does should want to join him in a party organization where they can work together for the much needed reforms that they have been working for as individual? Isn't it rather illogical for a person to say "I am not for this and that, so I will join an organization whose very name is representative of all those things that I am against? Wallace is a liberal, and a leader of liberals, so certainly his party would not consist of reactionaries who favor the "status quo" regarding the Negro.

Finally, as far as Mr. Joyner's statement is concerned about "only a few" Wallace club members ever taking a sincere interest in Negro welfare, I would like to state that it is completely, definitely, and undeniably false and untrue. It is taken for granted that editorial writings should represent the editor's opinions, but it is also a common impression that opinion should be based on fact. Such a statement as Joyner's is based on ignorance, not fact. Mr. Joyner, a non-Wallacite, may know more about the club than do the members, although it seems hardly possible, and if so, I would like to see if he can offer any proof for such a foolish statement.

The poor editor seems to be one of the hysterical, emotional unfortunates that believes every word he reads in the newspapers and hears on the radio.

Come on, Ed, people with such childish outlooks should only be seen, not heard, and certainly not read.

David Orr

Appreciation

(Editor's Note: The following letter from Mrs. John Booker, was received by President of the Student Body Tom Eller as a note of appreciation for flowers sent to Dr. Booker's funeral.)

Dear Tom,

I was very deeply touched by the beautiful flowers that the Student Government sent in memory of John. Did you see it, because it was lovely—white roses and carnations and gardenias.

I didn't know who to write to but thought you'd give this note to the Student Government.

Thank you and them more than I can say,

Cordially,
Nell Battle Booker

WHAT'S UP in Graham Memorial

Maybe it's hard to believe, for those of us who haven't begun to study yet this quarter, but with the exam schedule already published it's time to start making your reservations to go home in June. Bob Watson, director of the Graham Memorial travel bureau, says he'll be taking requests for seats on trains and planes going anywhere you want to go.

Don't forget about bingo tonight They'll start calling about 8 o'clock, but they'll welcome you any time you care to drop by the main lounge.

Just Here

Berry Would Exile All Unpopular Campus Wheels

By Larry Berry

Taking up from where we were when the interruption came last week, the discussion was centering on the misanthropic element of our school. "We do seem to have among us a number of persons whose common object seems to be the degradation of the remaining representatives of homo sapiens. Many people call the final product of their sadistic little minds stagnation, a thing which is very prevalent today. I am condemning no one in particular, but all of you who take such ironic pleasure in beating down cerebrums until they no longer are capable of functioning properly, will very merrily drop dead in the Y court. 'Busy not thyself in matters which appertain to others' (that explains the seemingly ludicrous title last week) might be a hint to me that what I am saying is rightfully the business of our administration and faculty. According to tradition they shape us into well-educated human beings. At present that field is wide open."

Yesterday I was reading along in a Greek History text book and came across an idea which I believe in modified form would be of unlimited vaule to us. During the sixth century B. C. the archon (king) decided that a corking good bit of strategy would be to allow people to vote for the person they thought most likely to wreck the set-up of their government and lives. This manner of election was known as ostracism and the person elected annually by the people was sent on a ten year exile.

This could evolve on the Carolina campus into a plan whereby the person elected would have to swear off all articulated subversive thoughts for a year. At present I think we could show an improvement on the Greeks in holding the elections quarterly and having them in the various branches of student activity. We can easily see that a person who is messing up the student government because of his action would be just the type the Playmakers might be hunting to play a character role. The improvement would also be noticed in the attitude of the people on campus who continually sulk. I believe these would form into organizations, the ostracized and those who were not elected. Instead of sulking, these groups would provide much amusement for the campus by jeering at each other. This election would also give moral stimulus for those candidates who never seem to get enough votes for office. Many of them would find just how advisable transfer to Duke would be, while others would find how little attention the campus actually pays them.

I do not know at present who is most likely to be ostracized, but I do know that we have a number of people at Carolina who are asking for it by their poor performance.

Dress As You Please

Slacks Modern, Says Kentuckyite

Frankfort, Ky., —(UP)—There is "wide latitude of opinion on what constitutes modesty and decency in dress," in the opinion of Kentucky's assistant attorney general, M. B. Holifield.

He contends that school boards had legal authority to require girls to wear slacks in gymnasium classes.

Holifield, 76-year-old lawyer and locally noted Biblican student, differed sharply with a Henderson, Ky., woman. She had protested that Henderson school authorities, in requiring girls to wear slacks and shorts on the gymnasium floor, were violating Biblical commands as well as the 1944 manuel of the Church of the Nazarene.

"When it comes to determination of what is modest and decent in dress, a wide latitude of opinion exists in the United States" Holifield said. "We are acquainted with refined, cultured and devout Christian women who do not hesitate to wear shorts in public and the modern bathing suit while on the beach.

"Seventy-five years ago, we had a different conception of indecency and immodesty from that which prevails today.

Poop For The Group

Foreign Schools Offer Variety

By Raney Stanford

Pouring into South building every day are dozens of circulars from various agencies announcing openings in various foreign schools for American students. And constantly seeking information about these opportunities are ex-GI's with memories, and non-veterans with itchy feet and questing minds. And then there are those of us whom perhaps have wondered about the chances but just never got around to looking into it.

Getting an education overseas is still a pretty hard deal to swing, but the ways and means are becoming easier every day, for foreign governments welcome the American student and that green stuff he uses for money. Many schools will probably consider your money as the only qualification needed for entrance, so it's a good idea to investigate schools approved by the State department and other reputable agencies. And also have a pretty good idea as to what manner of book-learning you want.

The money problem is the biggest obstacle, especially in European culture centers. Students can attend under the GI Bill, but in most cases Uncle Sam only covers tuition. Traveling and living expenses must be met by the student, and anything more nourishing than bread and water will cost a little money in Europe today. currencies, cigarettes and other could be difficult to get out of for along these lines is being fore applying for a passport

Britain through rationing has controlled costs fairly well, but with the existence of a program for their own citizens similar to our GI Bill, educational institutions are crowded, and the openings for Americans are restricted to exceptional and special students.

Living elsewhere on the continent is not quite like home but probably can be managed without resorting to peddling foreign currencies, cigarettes an dother such negotiables which bring in more money than gold but might lead you into situations which could be difficult to get out for some time.

Some scholarships are available for special courses, and under the recently-passed Fulbright Act a definite program is along these lines is being worked out. Under this law the money obtained from the sale of surplus U. S. equipment overseas will be placed in a scholarship fund for use by qualified students in study abroad. Veterans and graduate students are to receive preference in this set-up, and the only definite arrangement so far has with schools in Burma and China, but at least 20 other countries are under consideration for participation under this act.

The Institute of International Education, a private foundation which keeps tabs on foreign education developments, advises the student considering overseas study to get admitted and have a definite residence lined up before applying for a passport. Credit transfers and entrance requirements should also be worked out beforehand through the various college administrations.

Interested students can get full details and keep abreast of the developments by writing to the State department, to the above-mentioned agency, and by watching bulletin boards in South building and the library.

This Changing World

World-Wide Battle Of Ideas

By Bill Robertson

At the present time the human race appears to be engaged in a world-wide battle of ideas. This battle takes all sorts of forms—at least it appears to do so in the eyes of the participants.

America's gift to England, the rather well-to-do Lady Astor, sees it in the form of "Christianity" versus "Socialism". The ruling class in Japan sees it as "Shintoism" versus "Marxism". Franco sees it as "Spanish Culture" versus "Bolshevism." "Wall Street businessmen see it as "American Free Enterprise" versus socialist "Totalitarianism".

But the Marxists themselves, and millions of progressive and democratic people throughout the world, see this battle in quite a different light. A writer for a leading journal in the Soviet Union has expressed the following thought concerning "the battle of ideas" in World War II:

The Soviet ideas of the equal rights of races and nations, the ideas of the friendship of peoples, (have) won a complete victory over the fascist ideas of bestial nationalism and race hatred.

And, discussing the nature of these ideas further, he makes it quite clear that he is speaking about "The Thing" against which the Hearsts and the Luces rave:

The invincible strength of the Soviet ideas lies in the fact that they rest on Marxist-Leninist Theory—the only scientific world outlook of modern times. The truth and vitality of this theory s verified by practice. . . .

Now it must be admitted that this kind of talk allows us to develop an outlook of democratic optimism. For, first of all, it is obvious that the right side won the war. Further, since it is true that there is no basic difference between the democratic aspirations of hundreds of millions of people and the theories of Marxism-Leninism, then it is no accident that such bitter enemies of the people as Quisling, Hitler, Mussolini, and Tojo were all violent red-baiters.

Lastly, the "startling" growth of the Third Party Movement, and progressive ideas in general, can only be viewed as something quite natural and inevitable. For it could hardly be expected that, after such a world-wide victory over "the forces of decay" on the battle-fields, there would be no similar struggle against them here at home—and with similar results!

The Good Word

Let Us' Ho-Hum, Be Casual

By Sandy Grady

There are many methods of amusing one's self in this town. One can decorate one's walls with bottle caps or read Henry Miller or play Run-Sheep-Run with a bunch of the fellows. It is a place of infinite pleasures and one is never at a loss over what to do. But sometimes —

You have to listen to the radio.

It's pretty deadening to the spirit, but you can't move in any orbit these days without listening to the radio. It is a Greek Chorus with Edward Murrow and Al Jolson in the leads. They have radios that look like suitcases, radios that look like wrist watches, and most bewildering of all, radios disguised like radios.

There is obviously no escape, Jack. Let us grow attennae out of our ears, bow to Arthur Godfrey, and honestly try to divest ourselves of unpleasing breath.

Knowing all this and being wisely passive about the whole damn thing, let us ask a question:

What about disc jockeys?

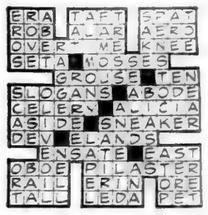
This is a slice of airwave phenomena which the advertisers have had little to do with, and the vast popularity of these men is probably a little surprising. Any cross-roads station that doesn't have a man with a bow-tie and packing-box full of old Sammy Kaye records would probably be outruled by the FCC for perverting the American idea.

And, on the average, they provide the most acceptable, vigorous, and freshest programs the listener gets on the dial. A jockey knows that he is an outlaw, not quite in line with the other noise that broadcasting systems emit most of the day, and he makes the most of it.

The vogue right now — when it comes to keeping fresh and different — is being casual. When you get that I'm-just-sort-of-talking-to-myself attitude, Jack, you're in. The jockey who can talk the slowest and most amiable is the paragon. One of the jockeys favorite devices for appearing nonchalant is describing what is going on about them, such as:

"Well. . .pardon me while I light a cigarette. . .yeah, there's a match. . .uh, that got it. . . did you hear that match strike . . .well, here's a platter by Harry James. . .umm, I just scratching my back a little..."

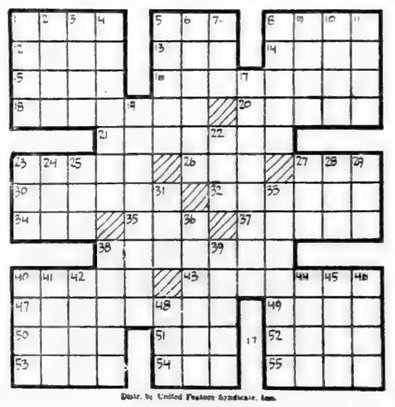
As I said, they are a little fascinated by the whole thing and want you to feel right at home with them. There was one jock in the Eastern part of the state who used to constantly eat popcorn. "Hear that crunching sound," he would drawl. "That's because I'm eating popcorn."



And then there's Kurt Webster in Charlotte who had a strange fetish a few weeks back. He would get long-distance calls from people up North on those famed automobile telephones, and Webster would insist on the caller blowing his car horn over the air. "Hear that horn . . . listen to that . . ."

Casualness is the idea, and you can see where the end will be Sometime a jockey will be so casual he wont say a thing for a whole hour, won't play a record, wont make the slightest noise, he'll be too nonchalant

That big empty peaceful silence.



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

ACROSS

1—Garbed
5—Church seat
8—To tumble
12—To aspire
13—Beverage
14—Region
15—To assert
16—Filling with holes
18—Lived
20—Small islands
21—To merit
23—Metal fastener
26—To glimpse
27—Native metal
30—Stage whispers
32—Surgeon's cylindrical saw
34—Precious stone
35—Cheer
37—Small insects
38—Covered with steel
40—Angry
43—To give off, as heat waves
47—Inhabitant
49—Same
50—Ship's bottom
51—Leader of Confederate Army
52—Great Lake
53—Long, thin board
54—To compute
55—Soaks up

DOWN

1—To burn
2—To have affection
3—Copies
4—Molded
5—Peels
6—Strikes out
7—To marry
8—Untrue
9—Seed cover
10—Smooth
11—Falls behind
17—Separated
19—Discouraged
22—To soak
23—Tatter
24—Jap shrine
25—Vigor
27—Former price fixer
28—Rodent
29—Printers' measures
31—Our Uncle
33—Edible plants
36—Having antlers
38—On an angle
39—Priced
40—Annoys
41—Part of movie film
42—Confused
44—Pert to aircraft
45—To stumble
46—Examines
48—High note

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Tar Heel Netmen Shutout Cincinnati, 9-0, for 12th Win

The Sporting Picture

By Billy Carmichael III

Lack of Lacrosse

CAROLINA—THE HOME OF THE COMPLETE ATHLETIC PROGRAM could use one addition, it might be thought, and that addition would be to return the budding American sport of lacrosse to the spring athletic agenda. Lacrosse was played, for the matter of background at the University before the war, but attempts to revive the game last year seemed to have been met by the attitude of give the game back to the Indians from hence it came.

The cause of all this revival enthusiasm may be the spring or it may be the interest raised by a contest played in the Durham Athletic park recently between Duke and Maryland, two of the nation's better teams, which drew a crowd in the neighborhood of 3,000 spectators. 'Twas the novelty of the thing that got a lot of them there, but there were those who seemed interested enough to come back in the future.

Of course, as in any sport, the prime principle would not be to promote lacrosse as a spectator undertaking, but rather as a competitive endeavor designed to give more students a chance to take part in the varsity athletic program.

How High the Interest

THE INTEREST IN THE SPORT AT CAROLINA seems to be great enough to warrant bringing it back from its current grave. Much of the old equipment is still an hand, and the University athletic department has never been one to falter financially when the opportunity to better is program presented itself. . .

Lacrosse is a sectional sport. Its greatest interest centers around Baltimore—John Hopkins University being the current collegiate champions—with its northern reach touching the Military Academy at West Point and its southern span halting at Duke. Maryland and Navy are two of Carolina's frequent opponents in other sports who also take an active part in the sport.

Outside of this scope lacrosse has not spread, partially because of the heavy athletic program now carried by most schools, but mainly because few have realized the possibilities of the competition.

Troubles, Troubles, Troubles

THE LOCAL TROUBLE WHICH BLOCKS THE RETURN of the sport to Carolina is very logical. The lack of neighboring opponents causes schedule difficulties and the lack of experienced lacrosse experts in the athletic field poses the problem of where to find a coach who can be coordinated into the general athletic program.

If these obstacles can be overcome, there would still be some personal sentiments on the campus to be surpassed, but it seems unfair that individuals would penalize many because of their own personal feelings on the sport.

For the benefit of the uninitiated, lacrosse is a game played with wooden sticks having a gut web on the end which is used for the catching and throwing of a rubber ball about the size of a baseball.

The objective to the game is to throw or otherwise progress the ball into the opponent's goal more times than the opponent can into yours. This may be done by passing or running the ball up the field while opponents tagged madly behind. The catch comes in the fact that the other fellow may hack away at your stick with his which adds a touch of roughness to the game. Pads and helmets are worn though, mother.

There are ten on a side to start with but both teams are soon usually playing with less, since time penalties are inflicted for infractions which means the bad boys spent a lot of their time on the sidelines.

Tough and Tumble

THE ROUGHNESS OF THE SPORT mentioned above is another objection to the competition. The possibilities of major or minor maim seem unlimited to the spectator and tend to turn some against the game.

Along that line they tell a story about when the game was first introduced at Carolina and the first practice was held. The coach finished his opening remarks with the cry of "if you can't use your stick on the ball, use it on the opponents." Then scrimmage was called, only to find the manager had forgotten to bring the pellets. "To hell with the balls," cried one of the candidates, "let's get on with the game."

Thus is the plight of the poor game of lacrosse, which seems to be an athletic orphan which nobody wants. The truth is that lacrosse is a North Carolina as Charlie Justice and was played by the Cherokee Indians of this state long before convertibles and bottle beer were ever heard of. It should be at least allowed to die in its own bed.

— United Press Post Scripts —

Raleigh, April 16 —(UP)— Coach Peahead Walter of Wake Forest has paid a visit to a young high school football star in Wilson. The prospect that "Peahead" was looking over was Dickie Davis the best passer of the Wilson high school team last season.

Young Davis has spent much of the last two weks visiting Wake Forest and South Carolina. And both Coach Walker and Coach Rex Enright of South Carolina reportedly are interested in securing his services.

Davis has planned a trip this weekend to the University of North Carolina where he will talk to Coach Carl Snavely.

SUGGS REACHES FINALS

Pinehurst, N. C., April 16—(UP)—Little Louise Suggs of Lithia Springs, Georgia, and Grace Lenczyk of Hartford, Connecticut, have reached the finals of the North and South Women's Golf tourney. Miss Suggs trimmed Carol Diringer of Tiffin, Ohio, 6-and-5. And Miss Lenczyk beat Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Chapel Hill, North Carolina, 3-and-2.

Diamondmen Meet Greenville Away Tonignt Jayvees Tackle Bisons Here This Afternoon

Harry Beason Set For Initial Trial In Night Contest

By Larry Fox

The Carolina baseball team will take time out from its Southern conference competition and play its first after-dark contest of the season this evening against the Greenville professionals at the Coastal Plain league team's home park.

The Tar Heels probably won't face anybody tougher on the Class D outfit than Glen Turk, Furman pitcher who handcuffed the locals for six innings before he weakened to blow a three-run lead and allow a 4-3 Carolina victory.

One o'clock is departure time for the Hearnmen. The baseballers will spend the night in Greenville, where they will be feted by a local club and return to Chapel Hill after breakfast.

Hayworth Out

This will be the opening home game for the Greenies, whose expected debut Thursday night was cancelled.

Jim Hayworth will have to miss the Greenville clash because of an injured arm, but Harry Beason, last year's right fielder, has just recovered from an old injury and is back in shape. He and Kenny Black will share the middle-field duty.

Hayworth first injured his arm in the first Furman game when he fell on it while trying to field a ground ball. He reinjured it against the same Hurricanes Thursday sliding into second base.

Beason a star outer-gardner with the 1947 aggregation, injured himself in the spring and aggravated it last summer. He has been working out with the team all spring, but has been slow rounding into shape. The return of Beason may complicate Coach Hearn's rightfield problem even more by giving him another candidate for the berth.

Good Record

The Tar Heels generally do pretty well against the pro clubs, but they generally meet them early in the spring, before play-for-pay boys have done much training.

Yesterday the baseballers engaged in an informal contest with the jayvees. Buster Stevenson did the chunking for the varsity while Cahoon left-handed them for the Tar Babies.

Coach Hearn plans to use about 13 men in the contest. Black and Beason will alternate in centerfield and Ott Evans and Frank Jones will split the rightfield duty.

Andrew and Cassell

Either Jim Hobbs or John Gregory will open at first base with the other coming in midway in the game.

Jim Hamilton will fill in at the hot corner for his injured buddy and Emmett Cheek and Sid Varney will do the receiving.

Pitching choices for the arc-light engagement are Tommy Andrew and Dean Cassell. The two last saw action together against Pennsylvania several weeks ago.

AT AUGUSTA, GA., Claude Harmon (right) of Mamaroneck, N. Y., admires the plaque he has just received from Bobby Jones, for winning the Masters Golf Tournament with a record-tying total of 279. Harmon's first-place check was good for $2,500.

Juniors to Seek Third Win of Year Against High Point

By Bill Kellam

Seeking their third victory in five starts, Carolina's jayvee baseball team will return to action on the local stock car race track at 3 o'clock this afternoon when they meet High Point's Bison diamondmen.

The Emerson field clash will see freshman Ralph Brake, who had previously been troubled by a pulled muscle in his back, making his 1948 mound debut for the locals. Charlie Garganus is slated to handle the receiving chores.

A couple of other new faces will grace the Carolina starting lineup this afternoon. Stan Goodman will open at second and Jake Carter will start at first. Boll Weavil is slated to take over at the keystone sack for the Housemen midway in the game.

Out for Revenge

The locals will be slugging to avenge the 3-0 setback handed them by the bobby soxers in High Point several weeks ago. As in the Duke fracas on Thursday, the Carolinians knocked the ball all over the lot whenever no one was in scoring position.

Coach House's charges spent yesterday afternoon in an intra-squad game against the varsity. This contest was staged to give the inactive varsity hurlers a chance to get a workout under game conditions—something that the schedule doesn't enable them to do.

Correct Mistakes

The jayvee mentor also devoted a part of yesterday's session to pointing out the numerous mistakes committed by the juniors during the Duke defeat. In the Durham debacle, the men of House gave away eight runs to the victors, several walks, four errors, two wild pitches, and a passed ball accounting for them. Coach House also devoted some time to correcting faulty batting stances, for the Carolina stickwork has been far from sensational this season.

Others slated to start against High Point include Joe Brookshire—who hit the ball hard but straight at the fielders during the Duke game—at short, John Senter at third, Don Ward in left, Zero Allen—currently leading the team with a .455 batting average—in center, and Ed Lamb in right.

Freshman Tennis Crew Drops Second Encounter to Duke Blue Imps in Durham

Carolina's freshman tennis team suffered its second defeat of the season at the hands of Duke University's Blue Imps yesterday in Durham by a six-three score.

Tom Sutherland, playing in the number three slot for Carolina gained the Tar Heels' first triumph by trouncing Duke's Tapley, 6-0, 6-3.

Number four man Guy Kirby followed in Sutherland's footsteps by downing Shack in a three set match, 6-4, 4-6, and 6-3.

Conrad Stewart, playing the number six position on the Blue and White team gained the final Tar Heel triumph by winning over Melton, 6-3, 6-1.

Frank Carlos, Duke's first-ranking freshman allowed Carolina's Paul Keener to take only one game in a match that saw Carlos lead all the way and finish up with a 6-1, 6-0 win.

Jack Warmath of Duke found no trouble in taking Bob Luxenberg, 6-1, 6-4.

Duke made a clean sweep of the doubles matches, taking the first 6-2, 6-0. In the second the Blue Imps team of Warmath and Shack took an easy first set from Sutherland and Kirby, 6-3, but found it tougher going in the second, having to carry the set to 14 games before coming out on top, 8-6.

In the final match of the day it was again Duke, but by a smaller margin.

Champion Marksmen To Appear at Kenan

Campus gunnery enthusiasts will be presented with an exhibition of shooting as it should be on Thursday, April 22, in Kenan stadium when Wilbur Cox, one of the world's greatest marksmen, will stage a show sponsored by the intramural department and the Orange County Wild Life association.

This show is being held to promote interest in marksmanship in conjunction with the campus rifle championships. Gates four and five — those at the bell tower end of the stadium — will be open and the spectators are requested to sit in the north end of the west stands.

Mr. Cox will also demonstrate a number of safety precautions necessary for good marksmanship.

Number Two Doubles is Feature Action Wednesday's Duke Match Next on Slate

By DTH Sports Staff

The North Carolina Tar Heel tennis team waded through the visiting Bearcats of Cincinnati as easily as if they were sailing down the Ohio yesterday afternoon when they pounded out a 9-0 shutout win on the local courts.

It was the Tar Heels' twelfth win of the season and their sixth shutout of the year. Only in the No. 1 doubles competition did the lads of Coach John Kenfield receive any serious competition from their victors.

In that match which developed to be the feature attraction of the afternoon, Carolina's Vic Seixas and Clark Taylor dropped a hard-fought first set to their opponents before storming back to take the match by a 5-7, 6-0, 6-0 score.

Chambers Missing

The big match between Seixas and former Tar Heel yearling star, Marshall Chambers, failed to materialize as the Cincinnati star did not even make the trip due to scholastic ineligibility.

Chamber's replacement, Chuck Thomas, put up a game battle but proved to be no match for the brilliant Seixas who had one of his better days in disposing of his competitor in 6-0, 6-3 fashion.

Taylor at the No. 2 post also was at the top of his game when he dropped but one game while licking Norm Appel of the Ohioians, 6-0, 6-1. Taylor continues to play the best tennis of his college career.

Charlie Rice moved up to the No. 3 position for the day and after a shaky first set, found the new post to his liking in taking the measure of Ray Hensley. Ray Morris go back on the victory trail on the next court by also winning in fine style.

The final singles matches were also pretty much all Carolina Don Skakle had as little trouble in his match in disposing of Ernie Spiller as Heath Alexander had in topping Bob Kiefer, 6-1, 6-1

The Tar Heels will be idle until Wednesday when they resume activity against neighboring Duke. The test will be the second Conference test of the season for the Kenfield crew, the locals having whitewashed State earlier this week.

The other two doubles matches were pure routine with the exception of the first set of the Morris-Rice clash. This went to 20 games before the Blue and White entry could pulled the set out of the fire and race through the second to win the match. Skakle and Alexander had little trouble in their competition.

The summary:

Singles—Seixas (C) defeated Thomas, 6-0, 6-3. Taylor (C) defeated Appel, 6-0, 6-1. Rice (C) defeated Hensley, 8-6, 6-2. Morris (C) defeated Haanes, 6-3, 6-3. Skakle (C) defeated Spiller, 6-4, 6-0. Alexander (C) defeated Kiefer, 6-1, 6-1.

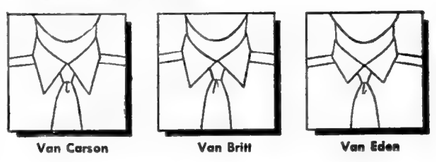
Doubles — Seixas-Taylor (C) defeated Appel-Haanes, 5-7, 6-0, 6-4. Morris-Rice (C) defeated Thomas-Spiller, 11-9, 6-2. Skakle-Alexander (C) defeated Hensley-Conway, 6-2, 6-2.

FOOTBALL SCRIMMAGE

The football team will stage a scrimmage tomorrow morning at 10:30 in Kenan stadium to close out the third week of spring training. Spectators are invited to attend.

VILLAGE — Now Playing

Invisible Resoling
Good As New



Practically as good as new, yes! And you'll get miles of wear, hours of comfort from your old shoes after we've repaired them.

CARRBORO Shoe Shop

LATE SHOW TONIGHT
SUNDAY — MONDAY
CAROLINA

smart collars

for smart scholars

Van Heusen puts variety into collar design—gives you short-points, long-points, wide-spreads, button-downs . . . all featuring new low-setting "Comfort Contour" collar styling. These and many more campus favorites on fine white broadcloths and oxfords and in exclusive patterns all boasting Van Heusen magic sewmanship. Sanforized—a new shirt free if your Van Heusen shrinks out of size! $3.50, $3.95 and $4.95. PHILLIPS-JONES CORP., NEW YORK 1, NEW YORK.

You're the man most likely to succeed in

Van Heusen Shirts

TIES · SPORT SHIRTS · PAJAMAS

. . . and thousands of them are working at top speed for YOU

Wires . . . wires . . . wires by the hundreds of thousands! Imagine picking out each pair . . . leading it to its proper terminals in a telephone central office . . . soldering it there!

That must be done on each new switchboard or dial switching installation before it can handle your calls.

Bell telephone central office equipment is installed by Western Electric and this job today requires a mobile force of more than 31,000 installers. They are installing more central office equipment now than ever before.

For sixty-six years, Western Electric has been a part of your Bell telephone service helping to make it the world's best at the lowest possible cost.

Western Electric

A UNIT OF THE BELL SYSTEM SINCE 1882

MRS. MABELLE NARDIN, U. S. Embassy clerk in Bogota, Colombia, is aided down the steps of a 20th Troop Carrier Squadron plane after landing in Balboa, Canal Zone. Mrs. Nardin was injured when she jumped from a window during the revolution. The plane carried 32 other Embassy employees whe were evacuated from the riot-torn capital. (International)

White Man Flogged in Atlanta Police Believe KKK Is Involved

Atlanta, April 16 — (UP) — Fulton county detectives in Atlanta have opened an investigation into the flogging of a white man by four masked raiders. The police are tracing what may be links with the Ku Klux Klan.

Four men have already been arrested and charged with assault and battery.

Criminal court Judge Ralph McLellan has bound them over for the Grand Jury under bond of $1,000 each after the victim identified them.

After an investigation of only about two hours the Grand Jury returned indictments charging assault and battery and attempt to murder.

County Police Chief F. Neal Ellis says that 23-year-old Joseph Berry was stripped and beaten with a long, wide leather strap. He was beaten, says Ellis, "nearly to death."

One Hour for Lunch!

Enjoy Our Tempting Meals and Speedy Service

Open 6.30 A.M. to 7 P.M. except Sundays

Carrboro Cafeteria

CLASSIFIED

ANNOUNCEMENT 1

MY WARMEST THANKS TO THE owner of the Kaiser-Frazer who so kindly drove me to the infirmary on Wednesday. Ralph E. Grimes. (1-149-1)

FOR SALE 6B

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed and being completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogerson Drive. Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. Telephone F-2906. (1-ch1x2-1)

24 FOOT GLIDER HOUSE TRAILER. Lot number 76, University Trailer Court for married couples, or box 701, Chapel Hill. (1-137-1)

ATTRACTIVE TWO BEDROOM house, 31 Oakwood Drive, Chapel Hill Excellent location, spacious grounds, Owner leaving town. Phone F3216, Hector MacLean. (1-126-1)

MUST SELL 22 FOOT NATIONAL house trailer. Will sleep 4. Butane gas stove, kitchenware, electric heater. $475 cash. Excellent buy! Apply 230 Nash Hall Trailer Court. (1-135-1)

FURNITURE FOR COMPLETE LIVING room, dinette, Kitchen. Also small pieces of furniture. Call Mrs. Altschul 110 Berman Court from 11 a.m. til 7 p.m. Opposite new high school. (ch-1x1)

FOR SALE AUTOMOTIVE 6BB

'39 PLYMOUTH FOUR DOOR SEDAN. Radio, heater and four good tires. Motor in excellent condition. T. H. Yates, Phone F-3951. (ch 1x1)

HELP WANTED: MALE 8B

ONE BASS FIDDLE PLAYER TO play with small band. Good proposition for right man. See Jimmy Powell, Crabtree Body Shop, telephone 9056. (1-2000-1)

LOST 12

KEY CHAIN CONTAINING FIVE OR six keys and miniature license No. 264-224. Reward if returned to Hill Bakery. (ch 1x1)

SOLID BLACK CAT IN THE VICINITY of Church and Rosemary Sts. Finder call 3982 after 5:30 p.m. (1-148-1)

PAIR OF SHELL-RIMMED GLASSES between Aycock and Bingham. Finder please return them to 201 Aycock for reward (1-146-1)

SERVICES OFFERED 19

COMPLETE MODERN RADIO APpliance service shop now open and ready to serve you. We call for, deliver. Johnson-Strowd-Ward Furniture, 422 W. Franklin. Telephone F-3491. (ch 1x1)

ICE COLD SCHLITZ

- MILLER HIGHLIFE
- PABST and Other Popular Brands

Delivered at No Extra Cost

Call 3536

K & M Beer Delivery Service

University Florist

"For the Best in Flowers"

Pick Theatre Bldg.

Chapel Hill, N. C.

Telephone 6816

Ohio State Head Hits Communists

Columbus, Ohio, April 16 — (UP) — Ohio State university today withdrew recognition from the Progressive Citizens committee as a campus student organization. The university warned its faculty and students that it wants no Communists on its campus.

In announcing the action, Dr. Howard L. Bevis, University President said:

"The Progressive Citizens committee was given recognition on the campus upon the filing of a statement of purposes and objectives of a highly desirable character. It now clearly appears that it pursues purposes and objectives quite at variance with those set forth with its application."

Dr. Bevis says he favors free and objective discussion of political issues, but adds, he is "wholeheartedly opposed to Communistic propaganda."

"I believe Communism stands for the overthrow of our government and would use force to accomplish it," he says. "A state university cannot properly devote its facilities, human or material, to the dissemination of such doctrine.

Says Dr. Bevis, "I will not, knowingly, have Communists on our faculty, if I can prevent it."

-Hass-

(Continued from page 1)

idea that has not been tried by the New Deal in attempting to avert depression."

Wallace-Baruch

"The progressive capitalism of Henry Wallace and the non-progressive capitalism of Bernard Baruch both depend upon exploitation," said Hass. "Mr. Wallace has only one suggestion for averting war. It is essentially to place faith in the United Nations," he continued.

will never change unless the

The editor of the "Peoples Weekly", Socialist Labor party publication, declared that the UN is an impossibility in a capatilistic world. The UN is attempting "to build peace on a system of dry rot," he said.

Acording to Hass, Wallace is assuming a trio of myths to be true; "The myth of solving capitalistic problems in a capitalistic way, the myth that he could prevent depression and the myth that he is a friend of the working man."

"No United Nations organization can prevent war," continued the Labor party leader. "The time bomb is already set for the next world explosion," he said.

DAV List Plans For Cartoon Contest; Subject of Entries Must Concern GI's

Johnson Says He Isn't Costing Taxpayers One Million Yearly

Raleigh, April 16 — (UP) — State Treasurer Charles M. Johnson today denied charges that he is costing taxpayers $1,000,000 a year as a result of not investing state funds in interest bearing securities.

The statement of the treasurer and candidate for governor comes in answer to a request for information from Fred L. Davis, editor of the "Zebulon Record." The newspaper is supporting Johnson's rival — candidate W. Kerr Scott.

Davis asked Johnson to explain what steps he took to get the General Assembly to direct that all state funds except those needed for operating expenses should be invested in interest-paying bonds.

Johnson declared he had the bill drawn. He said that he supported it before the Legislative committee. The bill passed.

Johnson said the state has no inactive deposits, that they are all subject to withdrawal without notice. He added that all deposits are fully secured by state and federal bonds.

Meanwhile in Lumberton today Johnson attacked what he called "muddled market conditions in North Carolina."

He said, "The fact is inescapable that marketing is one of the weakest spots in the agricultural picture of the state. Part of the solution is the construction of grain elevators and feed mills.

State Briefs

Dog Against Coon Said 'Inhumane'

Charlotte, April 16 —(UP)— Governor Cherry has been asked to take action against the holding of any contests in Stokes county pitching dog against coon, or vice versa.

The Mecklenburg county society incorporated has wired North Carolina's chief executive urging him to prohibit the "sport" which the organization has heard will be held in Stokes county tomorrow.

The society terms coon-on-a-log contests as "inhumane violation of state laws."

Ex-Convict Suicide

North Wilkesboro, April 16—(UP)—An ex-convict has died in North Wilkesboro from what law enforcement officers say was a self-inflicted shotgun wound. The dead man's wife is in serious condition from a shotgun wound n the neck.

Sheriff C. G. Poindexter says 40-year-old Koonce Prevette shot his wife, Rachel, at their home near Wilkesboro last night and then turned the gun on himself.

Poindexter says Prevette had served a prison term for shooting his father in the leg. The couple have four children.

Morganton Drowning

Morganton, April 16 —(UP)— A second body has been recovered in the drowning of four men on Lake James near Morganton.

Officers say the body of Gordon Edward Mull, a 24-year-old fisherman, was found last night. Previously, searchers located the body of Yates Webb of Spruce Pine.

Officers say Harold Singleton and George Mull of Morganton are still missing. The four apparently drowned when their boat capsized during a midnight fishing trip.

-Legislature-

(Continued from page 1)

shall be composed of women. A requirement that all jurymen must be high school graduates was amended out of the bill before it was passed.

The Senate also approved a bill favoring courses on World government in all high schools an state colleges in North Carolina.

Purpose of Contest Is To Aid Interest In Disabled Vets

By Sam McKeel

The Disabled American Veterans has announced plans for their 1948 cartoon contest.

In announcing the contest for this year the DAV said that the contest of 1947 was such a success that the contest was being made an annual affair.

The purpose of the 1948 contest is to promote a continuing interest in the cause of the men and women who were disabled in the service of this country.

The staffs of all publications are invited to take part in the 1948 contest by submitting cartoon entries. Prizes will be awarded on a first, second, and third basis. First prize is $250 second prize is $150; and third prize is $100.

Rules for the contest are:

1. Subject of the cartoon must be one dealing with the problems of the disabled veteran and the furtherance of his cause.

2. Entries must be cartoons published between the time of receipt of this announcement and the deadline for entries, which is July 15.

3. Original cartoon must be submitted with printed tear sheet to Julian J. Jackson, Director DAV publicity, room 2801, 11 S. La Salle street, Chicago, Illinois.

4. Judging will take place at the 1948 DAV national convention in New York city, August 15-21.

5. The DAV reserves the right to use the cartoons to help further the cause of the disabled veteran.

Some topic suggested by the DAV for editorial cartoons are:

Dependency Allowance — the fact that single disabled veterans gets the same compensation that the married disabled veterans receive. Letters reaching the DAV national headquarters show that while we are sending 6 billion dollars to Europe under the Marshall Plan, many of our disabled veterans and their families are living in the United States in poverty.

Need For New Hospitals—Veterans organizations have pointed out both to Congress and the public that the government's program for building new veterans hospitals is preceeding at a snail's pace. The DAV can use three times as many beds for disabled vets as now exist or are being planned.

Mental Disabilities—A large number of the vets drawing disabilities from the Veterans Administration have been awarded compensation because of neuropsychosis. Many employers and many people look with disfavor on the "N. P." It is the contention of the DAV, however, that a man with war-incurred mental disability is just as disabled as the man with a serious physical disability.

Out-Patient Treatment—In the past vets have had to travel a long distance in many cases to receive treatment, now, with the out-patient treament vets can receive treatment in their home towns. Although the Veterans Administration has admitted that it lacks funds to carry out this program the way it should be, it has said that it will not ask Congress for a much needed deficiency appropriation.

Employment Of Disabled Veterans—A survey showed that of 1,000 manufacturers surveyed, 55 per cent of these plants are not employing disabled vets. Many of these disabled vets can do good work if they capitalize on their capabilities instead of their disabilities.

Further information on the contest can be obtained from the Daily Tar Heel office.

THE 205TH ANNIVERSARY of the birth of Thomas Jefferson was observed with special ceremonies at the Jefferson Memorial in Washington. Here, Lt. Col. W. D. Crittenberger, White House military aide, places President Truman's wreath at the base of the statue of the third President of the United States. The program was sponsored by the District of Columbia Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. (International)

Western Powers Exert Effort For Right-wing Italian Vote

Washington, April 11 — (UP — The western powers made a last-minute effort tonight to clinch a rightwing victory in the Italian elections.

The United States, Britain and France reminded Russia publicly that she alone is blocking the return of Trieste to Italy.

The three powers sent diplomatic notes to Soviet embassies in Washington, London and Paris again calling upon Russia to approve plans to place the Adriatic port under the Italian flag.

There is little reason to believe that Russia will change its mind on the issue. The Soviet attitude is expected to hurt the chances of the Communist in the election and the Italian people go to the polls in a little more than 24 hours.

The United States delivered still another jab at the Communist cause tonight through a short-wave radio broadcast to Italy.

Attorney General Tom Clark warned the Italian people that those who subscribe to Communism can never enter the United States, even to visit relatives. He made it clear that a Red victory would cut Italy off from all American help under the Marshall program.

HE'S BRAGGING

MINNEAPOLIS, (UP)—In 27 years, the city's marriage license clerk, Carl E. Bruce, has issued permits to wed to 75,000 couples. "Most of them have been successful," he says.

Lloyd Electric Co.

F-3862 CARRBORO

Sales & Service

For

- L&H ELECTRIC STOVES
- JUD-WHITEHEAD & RED CROWN HOT WATER HEATERS

We specialize in wiring new construction and in general repair.

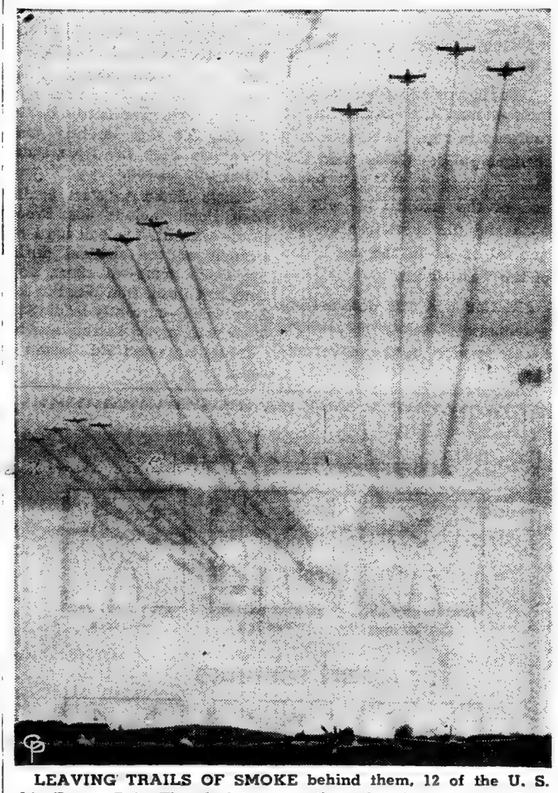
TWO BLOCKS WEST OF CITY HALL

You'll Find A Solution To All Laundry Problems

HELPY-SELFY

AUTOMATIC LAUNDRY

Bendix Machines



W. Rosemary St.

TIP FOR YOUR CAREER

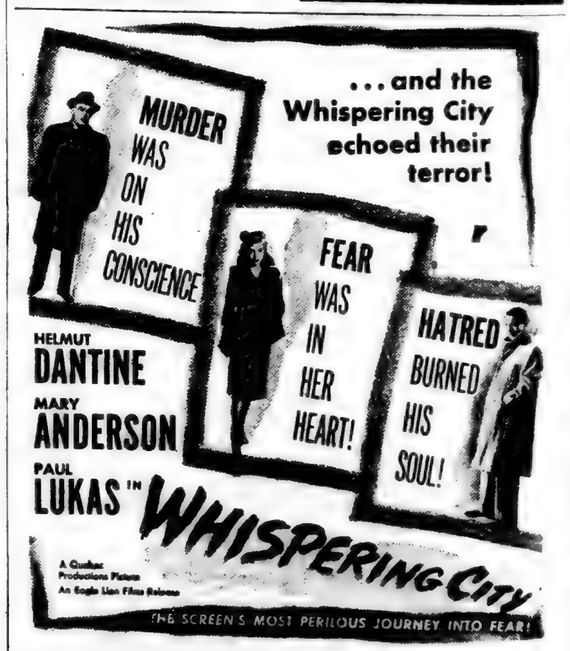
- Top your college education with Gibbs secretarial training and be prepared to "go places" in business. Four-city placement. Write College Course Dean.

KATHARINE GIBBS

NEW YORK 17 ... 230 Park Ave.
BOSTON 16 ... 90 Marlborough St.
CHICAGO 11 ... 51 East Superior St.
PROVIDENCE 6 ... 155 Angell St.

LEAVING TRAILS OF SMOKE behind them, 12 of the U. S. Air Forces P-84 Thunderjets roar through the sky over Dow Field, near Bangor, Maine. The sleek craft, streaking over the field at better than 600 miles an hour, belong to the 14th Fighter Group, first full Air Force unit to be equipped with the new jet-type fighter craft. (International)

LI'L ABNER By Al Capp



Going on a Picnic?—We got the Makin's—at HARRY'S

"Nuts to those crackers! Where's my Dentyne Chewing Gum?"

"You'd think that bird was human the way he goes for Dentyne! I can't blame him though. I sure go for Dentyne's refreshing, long-lasting flavor myself. I like the way Dentyne Chewing Gum helps keep my teeth white, too!"

Dentyne Gum—Made Only by Adams

CAROLINA NOW PLAYING

WEATHER
Fair and milder

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
564 Question
Discrimination
Poem to Congress

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SUNDAY, APRIL, 18, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | NO. 144

Golden Fleece To Tap New Members Tomorrow Evening

Catawba Team Takes Playwright's Award

RUTH GROCE and Johnny Young (bottom) of Catawba college, were awarded the $100 first prize last night in the Carolina Dramatic association's Betty Smith playwriting award for their comedy "While the Milk Clabbered." Betty Barkesdale (top right) of Lee Edwards high school, Asheville, was awarded $50 second prize for her play, "Oh, Brother," and Lou Harshaw (top left) of West Asheville, received the $25 third prize for her play, "The Man Who Looked Like God."

A young playwriting team, composed of two Catawba college students, Johnny Young and Ruth Hubbard Groce, won first prize of $100 in the coveted Betty Smith Awards with their play, "While the Milk Clabbered", it was announced last night at the final program of the week-long State Drama Festival held at the University of North Carolina under the sponsorship of the Carolina Dramatic Association.

Runners-up were Bette Barksdale of Lee Edwards High, Asheville, who won the $50 second prize for her play, "Oh, Brother", and Lou Harshaw, West Asheville, who was awarded the $25 third prize for her play, "The Man Who Looked Like God."

The awards were presented by President Frank P. Graham of the University.

Other Entries

Other original plays entered in the competition were given special CDA awards, along with the Betty Smith Award winners. They were: "Will of the Gods", by Bob Grahl, Lee Edwards High, Asheville; "Disturb Not the Dead" by Lemuel C. Roberson, Atlantic Christian College; "One for the Book", by Dorothy Summerrow, Florence Young and Naomi Cunningham, all of Gastonia; "Trail of Tears", by Elizabeth Welch, Salem College, and "Lisbuth", by Naomi Cunningham, Gastonia.

Awards in play production were given to The Masque and Wig, Boyden High School, Salisbury; The Dramateers, Greenville High; The Spotlighters, Tabor City High; the Lenoir Rhyne Playmakers; and the Beaux and Belles, Lee Edwards High, Asheville.

Honorable Mention

Awarded honorable mention: Laurinburg High School, Flora MacDonald High Players; Rock Springs High School, Denver; Meredith College Little Theatre; Reynolds High Players, Winston-Salem; Hendersonville High Dramatics Club; Greensboro Senior High Playmasters; Gray High Dramatics Club, Winston-Salem; and Campbell College Dramatics Club.

Officers elected to head the CD A during the coming years are president, Mrs. Doris C. Hollsworth of Atlantic Christian college in Wilson; vice president, Hubert Philpott of Central high school in Charlotte; and executive secretary, John W. Parker, head of the University Bureau of Community Drama.

Wallacites Hear Convention Report

Bill Exans and Claude Dunnigan, local delegates to the National Students for Wallace convention held last weekend in Chicago, presented a detailed report of the convention at the Wallace club meeting last Friday.

In his report Dunnigan said that a delegation to the convention from the University of Oklahoma was stopped three times by the police, and once taken to headquarters and detained two hours without any charges.

At Northwestern, according to Dunnigan's report, three students were suspended for thirty days for posting Wallace handbills.

Dunnigan reported that several resolutions were adopted at the convention, including one against Universal Military Training and another against the suppression of free speech on American campuses.

In the business session of the local meeting, the group defeated a motion to participate in a mock UN assembly to be sponsored soon by the CCUN.

Jacobson Announces Mag Contest Is Over

According to Fred Jacobson, editor of the Carolina Magazine, the photography contest is "all over except the shouting."

In refering to the contest that the mag has been sporsoring, Jacobson said that "the only photographs which we could accept now would be the ones for whose lateness the photographer had an extraordinary excuse."

Jacobson also said that the mag has been "very well satisfied" with the response to the contest and expects to publish the names of the winners in the May issue. The winning picture will also be published at the time, with the photographer who entered the picture winning $25 in merchandise from Foister's camera store.

Student Government Officers Take Oath On Tuesday Evening

All newly elected student officers will be inaugurated at a mass meeting in Gerrard hall Tuesday night at 8:30. President Tom Eller said yesterday that arrangements were being made to secure the services of Dr. Frank Graham in making the charge and administering the oath to new campus leaders.

"The inauguration will represent the conclusion of the 1947-48 Student Government administration, and as of that meeting the responsibility for Student Government will be in the hands of the new officers," Eller brought out.

An informal banquet will be held for student leaders and University administration officials at 7 o'clock in the Carolina Inn preceding the inauguration. The banquet, which is being sponsored by the Student Orientation committee, will give new student leaders a chance to become acquainted with administration officials. Eller said that reply cards had been mailed to approximately 50 student officers and 12 University administrators.

Jess Dedmond, newly elected president of the student body and Tom Eller, retiring president, are scheduled to speak at the inauguration ceremonies. Vice-president Jack Folger will preside over the meeting.

Urging the attendance of all new campus leaders, Eller said that although many of the officers would be sworn into ofice with their own organizations he hopes that as many as possible would be present to take the mass oath which will be administered Tuesday night.

Eller also pointed out that the inauguration ceremonies were being held at 8:30 so that coeds would be able to attend the meeting.

Geologist Society Appoints Huddle To Lecture Group

The American Association of Petroleum Geologists, which sponsors distinguished geologists on lecture tours in various sections of the country, has appointed Dr. John W. Huddle of the University Geology department as a member of the lecture group this spring.

Dr. Huddle, who has done a large amount of work for the United States Geological Survey, will speak on "Devonian and Mississippian Paleogeography of Northeastern Arizona" before geological societies in 11 cities in six states between April 23 and May 15. These lectures are sponsored by the American Association of Petroleum Geologists in cooperation with local organizations.

Goldstein Receives Best Pledge Award

Henry Goldstein, of Mampton, Va., was presented the Pi Lambda Phi pledge cup last week for outstanding grades and athletic participation. Ex-president Merv Lentz presented the award at a banquet honoring the new brothers.

The other new brothers are Stanley Goodman, Norfolk; Robert Kaufman, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.; Robert Luxenberg, N. Y.; Stephen Platt, Far Rockway, N. Y.; Julian Scheer, Richmond; James Rones, High Point; Jerry Weiss, Chase City, Va.; Stephen Wollman, Mt. Vernon; and Sherman Nearman who was initiated last quarter.

Eventful Session . . .

State Student Legislators Pass Elections Bill, Subsidy Increase For All Instructors

. . . Reaches Adjournment

Provision for State-wide ABC Stores, Sales Tax on Luxuries Also Approved

By Chuck Hauser

(Special to the Daily Tar Heel)

Raleigh, April 17 — The upper and lower houses of the State Student Legislative assembly adjourned shortly before 5 o'clock this afternoon after having passed 14 laws, resolutions and repeals.

The lower house of the 11-year old assembly, under the direction of Speaker Charlie Long, triumphantly wound up its last piece of business at 4:40 by abolishing the "gag rule" in the House of Representatives. The bill was passed by the Senate earlier in the day.

One of the most controversial bills to come before the two assemblies was a measure to change the North Carolina elections laws. Passed overwhelmingly in the Senate yesterday, it was defeated in the House at about the same time; but when the bill was brought onto the floor for reconsideration today the delegates of the mock lower house approved it with a 46 to 30 vote.

Advocacy of the measure by two Wallace-buttoned students from Duke university apparently had no effect of the passage of the measure today, because unexpected sources from all parts of the floor began pointing out that the proposal would not only permit Henry Wallace to get his name on the state ballot with ease, but would allow gubernatorial candidates such as Mayne Albright or Kerr Scott, if defeated in the primaries, to run for the post as independents.

Approximately 200 delegates from 20 colleges and universities in North Carolina attended the two-day meeting which convened in the House chambers of the State capital and in the auditorium of an Episcopal church across the street, where the Senate sat after it was discovered at the last minute that neiher the regular Senate chambers nor the Wake county court house were available.

The student Capitol hill lawmakers also passed a bill today which grant 20 per cent salary increases to all state public school teachers, but they were careful to amend it first to include professors and instructors in state-supported colleges and universities.

To support the extra cost of the salaries to the state, the mock assembly passed another amendment to provide for a one per cent sales tax on luxury items costing over $100. The tax was to be graded to provide for a three per cent cut when the price on the article reaches $1,000.

Yesterday the assembly passed legislation abolishing the three per cent sales tax in effect in the state at present.

Another important bill given the green light by the two assembly houses was a measure to provide for state-wide alcoholic beverage control stores. The proposal abolished county option and installed the new ABC set-up without state-wide referendum.

The bill, introduced by delegates from Catawba college, was brought to the mock General Assembly by Pfeiffer college, but the Pfeiffer delegates received last minute orders from their school administration that it would definitely be frowned upon if they were to introduce such a bill.

Student Leaders, Faculty Members Will Be Honored

By Charlie Gibson

When the Order of the Golden Fleece, the University's highest honorary society for men, taps an undisclosed number of new members tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in Memorial hall, the campus will get an opportunity to witness what is generally considered to be the University's most impressive ceremony.

The doors to Memorial hall will be locked the moment the tapping services begin to avoid late comers' spoiling the solemity and suspense. To attend the tapping or the Valkyrie Sing which follows it immediately, the audience should be seated by 7:50.

Names Secret

Prior to the initiation rituals in the Fleece's one public meeting of the year, the names of the new members are kept secret, leaving those who are to be honored completely unnotified beforehand.

During the tapping Fleece officers for '47-'48 will be revealed for the first time.

Black-robed figures with fleece across their shoulders will stalk around the auditorium, searching for those men whose character and service has qualified them for membership in this 45-year-old organization which has worked secretly for University welfare and advancement.

Present Members

Students who are now members of the Fleece are: Jack Fitch, Charles Vance, Bill Crisp, Laurie Hooper, Bill McNeely, Winston Broadfoot, Wewey Dorsett, Charlie Fulton, Lennox McLendon, Bob Paxton, Bob Stockton, Charlie Warren, Don McCoy, Ray Jefferies, Ralph Strayhorn, Tom Eller, Bill Miller, and Kenneth Black.

Those who were tapped either originally as students or more recently outstanding faculty members are: C. P. Russell, Frank P. Graham, E. R. Rankin, Robert B. House, H. G. Baity, E. L. Mackie, A. M. Coates, J. B. Linker, C. P. Spruill, E. H. Hartsell, J. M. Saunders, W. T. Couch, E. A. Cameron, W. S. Spearman, H. T. Lefler, H. K. Russell, W. M. Shuford, and F. W. Hart.

Newly-Elected Coed Officers to Inauguarate Organizational Training Sessions on Tuesday

Newly elected officers of all coed organizations will attend training sessions Tuesday and Wednesday nights of this week at which speeches on general topics and informal discussions of particular offices will be held.

All coeds are invited to attend the mass meetings in connection with the program, to be held in Graham Memorial's main lounge Tuesday at 7 o'clock, Wednesday at 5 o'clock, and Wednesday at 7. Leadership and fellowship, student government, and parliamentary procedure are the topics of these sessions.

New officers are especially urged to attend these meetings, will be followed by the informal discussions led by students who have held the positions to be discussed.

Ruth Evans and Bill Lloyd will lead the discussion on presidents and vice-presidents; Julia Ross and Betsy Ann Barbee, secretaries; and Marshall Spears and Helen Xanthos, treasurers, all on Tuesday night.

Wednesday at 5:20 Annie Ben Beale will speak on Student Legislature, Barbara Cashion on Coed senate, and Donleen McDonald on Women's council.

At 7:30 Wednesday Bootsie McWilliams and Norma Hotard will discuss house presidents; Scotty Dellinger and Cattie Holt, social chairmen; and Sally Woodhull and Miriam Evans, publicity chairmen.

The program will close with a formal banquet Thursday night at the Carolina Inn, at which Chancellor Rober House will be the speaker.

Ohio River Flood Hits Four States

CINCINNATI, April 17 (UP)—The flooded Ohia river tonight is nearing a predicted crest of 64 and one-third feet here and at Newport, Kentuckey.

Although the river level has been stationary at two-tenths of an inch below the expected crest, plans are being rushed to evacuate families threatened by the raging waters.

Weather bureau reports late this evening give little solace to those who had been hoping that the river would recede. Latest dispatches indicate a further rise before midnight.

At Parkersburg, West Virginia, an ironic note was introduced as the waters temporarily crested beneath a billboard at the river's edge.

Cups to Be Offered in Valkyrie Sing; Oganizations Here in Competition

The annual Valkyrie Sing, sponsored by the highest women's honor society on campus, will be presented tomorrow evening in Memorial hall, immediately following the tapping of the Golden Fleece.

The Sing, presents many campus organizations in competition for the silver loving cups. The groups which have entered are, Phi Kappa Sigma, Sigma Ku, Sigma Chi, Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Delta Theta, Pi Lambda Phi, Delta Kappa Epsillon and Everett dorm.

Pi Beta Phi, Delta Delta Delta, Chi Omega, Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Delta Pi, Sigma Alpha Iota, music sorority, Smith Dormitory and McIver dormitory.

Judges for the Sing are Robert Schenkkan, of the Radio department, Gene Stryker of the Music department, and Robert "Spike" Nelson, assistant pastor of the University Methodist church. The judges will rate the contestants as to music, orginality, and stage presence. Last year's winners were Phi Gamma Delta, in the men's group and Alpha Delta Pi in the women's group.

Valkyries is the highest women's honorary society on the campus, its membership being limited to two per cent of the total coed enrollment. Membership is based on outstanding leadership, sound judgement, character, unselfish service to the campus, and fine scholarship.

Science Readers Will Reorganize Tomorrow Night

A reorganizational meeting of the Carolina Science Fiction association will be held tomorrow night at 9 o'clock in the Horace Williams lounge of Graham Memorial.

The association is a club composed of students interested in speculative fiction, called "science fiction." These studies are based on science, usually speculative.

"They are based on possibilities, not probabilities," explained Fred Burgess, member of the association which has been inactive on the campus since fall.

"An example of this type of story," said Burgess, is the work of Jules Verne of H. G. Wells. In later years, however, names frequently associated with science fiction are Philip Wylie, A. E. van Vogt, Robern Heinlein and Willy Ley."

An invitation to attend is also extended to fans of fantasy or the supernatural.

Tickets Go On Sale Tomorrow For Symphony

Tomorrow students will be given the opportunity to buy a membership to the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra series at an all-time low price of $1, Dean Fred H. Weaver, chairman of the drive to help raise money to support the orchestra, reports. The orchestra will perform here next Friday, April 23, at Hill hall.

Tomorrow, Tuesday, and Wednesday tickets go on sale at the "Y". The lowest membership to the series is $2, but students can buy this same membership, which entirles the owner admittance to any concert by the orchestra, for $1. Tickets will go on sale at the door next Friday night to students for $1.20, and to non-students for $2.50.

Dean Weaver pointed out that any person holding a membership card is entitled to attend any concert given by the N. C. Symphony. Last season the orchestra performed 115 concerts in 58 cities and towns, and more than 100,000 children and 50,000 adults heard them.

One of the principle objectives of the N. C. Symphony is to make available to people of the entire state the best in orchestra music, according to Dean Weaver.

The North Carolina Symphony Orchestra, under Dr. Benjamin Swalin, receives a subsidy of $12,000 a year from the state. Other support is derived from a membership that numbers 13,00. the orchestra depended almost entirely on the services of volunteer players until the 1946 season when it gave 104 concerts, more than half of which were special, free programs for 73,000 school children. It was, therefore, necessary for the orchestra to establish itself on a permanent and professional basis.

Governor R. Gregg Cherry, in speaking of the orchestra has said, "I am proud of the fact that North Carolina has a State Symphony Orchestra, and I take especial pride in the fact that the Legislature of North Carolina was the first in the nation to place an orchestra in its budget along with other state institutions and to make an appropriation for it."

During the current season, the repertoire includes such works as Beethoven's Seventh Symphony; Franck Symphony in D minor; Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony; Haydn, "Surprise" Symphony; piano concertos by Grieg, Schumann, Rachmaninoff, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Mozart, Bach, and MacDowell

THE POLISHED performance of the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra which will perform here next Friday in Hill hall is the result of weeks of hard work, one rehearsal after another, demonstrated in a section of the Symphony pictured above. The Orchestra is directed by Dr. Benjamin Swalin.

In Italy: A $64 Question

Will the world have war or peace within the next year?

That's the question that's been bothering most of us ever since the Bear and the Eagle tangled diplomatic claws. It may well be answered today in Italy — in the sprawling political center of Rome, in the fishing villages on the Ligurian sea, in the small, tree-shaded country towns along the Po river, in the northern industrial cities of Turin, Milan and Florence.

Today an election is being held to fill the seats of the Italian Constituent assembly. Ordinarily such an election probably would rate six inches of gray type on page two of the New York Times. But this year it's been sharing front-page space with the coming presidential election in this country.

The issue is this: the Communist party of Italy, and the Socialist party, both being led now by Moscow-trained Palmiro Togliatti, could possibly win a plurality in the election. Lawfully that would result in the formation of a Communist-Socialist cabinet for Italy.

However, even if the Communist-Socialist party — "The Popular Democratic Front" — should win the election, Italian president de Nicola might ignore parliamentary rules and ask a center or rightist minority party to form a cabinet.

Italian Communists, who have been working hard to win today's election, would, no doubt, resent having their efforts go for naught. A civil war could easily result.

Many authorities doubt that the Communists will start a civil war. It is possible that Moscow will forbid Communist leaders to take action until Russia is able to give enough assistance to assure success. (This assistance would come into Communist-dominated northern Italy by underground railway from Yugoslavia.)

But we remember Togliatti's statement:

"The working masses are on democratic ground when they resort to manifestations of violence to avert even the embryonic danger of fascism."

We remember, too, what Luigi Longo, number two Italian Communist and head of a couple of hundred thousand armed Communist partisans, said only a few weeks ago in Bologna:

"Even if we win the election, I doubt that the government will cede power to the Communists. What then? We will chase them out."

Italy is ready for civil war. People are ragged and hungry in Milan and Turin; in Rome's working class sections — the cobble-streeted Trastevere and Tiburtina — children froze to death last winter and many starved. These are the conditions that give rise to civil war.

If the civil war does come, the first skirmishes will probably be between police and Communists; then such fascist groups might rally perhaps 400,000 armed men to join the battle against Communists. It is even possible that the United States might land Marines and infantrymen to keep order.

Of course such action by the United States would be protested by Russia, which would like to see Italy as its western outpost. Russia might then move troops through Yugoslavia.

The cold war would be a hot war.

It will pay to watch the returns from the Italian election today

—B.S.

In Recognition of Service

Most people have a natural distrust of secret organizations. They doubt the motives of any group which will not declare its objectives and reveal its operations.

There are, however, two secret organizations on this campus, which have acquired high reputations for anonymous service to the University. One of these is the Grail. The other is the Golden Fleece.

The only way to judge an organization which keeps its actions secret is through the men who claim membership in it. Since its inception in 1903 the Fleece has tapped such men as Frank P. Graham, Robert B. House, and Phillips Russell of this University; former governors O. Max Gardner and J. C. B. Ehringhaus, and present candidate for governor R. Mayne Albright; Thomas Wolfe, author, and Hatcher Hughes, Pulitzer price winner in drama; Thor Johnson, conductor of the Cincinatti symphony; J. Wallace Winborne, supreme court justice, and Walter P. Stacy, chief justice of the state supreme court.

Tomorrow night in Memorial auditorium the Fleece will hold its 45th annual tapping. As yet no one but members of the Fleece knows how many will be tapped or who they will be. But judging from the records of former Fleece members it seems a good bet that those who are tapped tomorrow night will richly deserve membership in the highest honorary fraternity at the University.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.

Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ..... ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager ..... T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor .... Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors .. Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associate Editors ..... Bob Sain, Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady
Society Editor ..... Weddy Thorp
Photographer ... Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. ..... Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. ... C. B. Mendenhall
Subscription Mgrs. .... Jim King, Chan Pegram
Asst. Business Mgrs. .. Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. .... Randall Hudson, Don Snow

Things to Know About Italian Election Today

By Drew Pearson

Washington.—Things to know about 1948's most important election so far:

When the Italian people begin voting today it will be the first real election since before Mussolini. It will also be the first time in history that Italian women have voted. . . About 24,000,000 people are expected to vote, or 93 per cent of those eligible. Percentage-wise this is about twice as many as turn out for an American election. . . .The Italian Communist party numbers 2,200,000, making it the largest Communist party in the world outside Russia. They control 6,000,000 members of the Italian General Confederation of Labor, one of the largest organized labor groups in Europe. . . . Communists also control 400,000 ex-partisans who fought underground against Mussolini. . .About 250,000 of these partisans are well-armed and trained for more guerrilla warfare.

In 1946, in a limited election, the Communist and left-wing Socialists were split, each polling about 4,000,000 votes. Today the Communists and left-wing Socialists are united. . . .Chief parties opposing the Communist coalition are the Christian Democrats and the rightist Catholic party . . .In 1946 these together polled 8,000,000 votes—slightly less than the Communists and left-wing Socialists combined. . . .Thus other independent parties hold the balance of power in Italy.

There are a total of 99 political parties in Italy with 6,742 candidates running for office. The offices to be filled are 574 members of the Assembly (similar to U.S. House of Representatives) and 237 members of the Senate. These 237 Italian Senators will join 114 other honorary Senators already chosen. Of these 114 Senators already sitting, 45 are Communists or pro-Communists. The remaining 69 are anti-Communist. . . Rome, the largest voting district, has 22 parties. Each party is identified on the ballot by a symbol. This is to give illiterate voters a chance to recognize different parties.

Polls open at 6 A.M. Sunday, closing at 10 P.M. the same day. Next day, Monday, the polls open again at 7 A.M., closing at 2 P.M. —in other words, the Italians will have two days of balloting. . . Counting the ballots begins immediately after 2 P.M. Monday. . . Election results are not expected to be indicative until late Monday night and definite returns are not expected until Wednesday, April 21. . .Voters are divided into two groups—those over 25 years of age and those under 25. . .Voters over 25 receive two ballots, one to elect members of the Assembly and one to elect members of the Senate. . .Voters under 25 receive only one electoral ballot to elect members of the Assembly.

Three weeks after the election the new Parliament convenes. Its first job is to elect a President, which must be a two-thirds vote of both Assembly and Senate. If the Communist elect more than one-third of the new Parliament the election of a President may be debated for weeks. . .After the President's election, his first job is to select a Premier to form his Government. This is done only after talks with Parliament leaders. . . At present Premier de Gasperi has no Communists sitting in his Cabinet, although the Communists form the largest single party in Italy. . .Communists are sure to demand representation in the new Cabinet, which may touch off riots and revolution. Next Italian crisis is expected around May 8 over formation of the new Cabinet.

Republican National Chairman Carroll Reece swears a Washington taxi driver with whom he rode didn't know he was talking to a Republican.

"What do you think of President Truman?"

"Truman?" replied the driver. "Why, he's the greatest we ever had. Now, you take Roosevelt. All Roosevelt did was divide the country into groups fighting each other. But Truman has the whole country united — against himself."

Short Break

A President in Our Midst

By Tom Kerr

Seems a body can't even go about his insignificant business on campus without hearing hushed rumors of another party in five minutes. All of which ought to keep the Carrboro constabulary busy, not to mention the resulting capitalistic smiles in Milwaukee. Along this line, Inside Tip Service, Inc. has it that one of the local hustlers is busy preparing where-to-buy-it-and-how-much on all party ingredients. This should be quite a service to those brilliant enough to get their weekend studying out of the way by 3 p.m. Friday. All our Carolina genius has to do (when this project is finished) is call up and get the complete poop on procurring the necessaries for the happy holiday.

Rolling around on the lawn in front of Hill hall the other pm, we (editorial) were beating our head against the soggy turf in vain attempt to find subject matter for a DTH column, when (lo and behold) we espied a middle-aged couple attentively scanning the inscription on some sort of monument.

Flash—we're in. It then happens that we, too, roll up to what later turns out to be an obelisk and cast a blood-shot eye on the inscription. After finding out that this hunk of stone is "in grateful acknowledgement of their obligation to the first President of this University Joseph Caldwell D.D.," we read further only to discover that the above-mentioned "they" refers to the president of the United States, governor of North Carolina, and other alumni. This being so dedicated in the year of our lord 1847.

Now, as any sucker who has read thus far can plainly see, we were of course thrown into a state of complete confusion by the inclusion of the president of the United States among the alumni.

So we hobbled off to the Library where two acquaintances, of the specie "library scientist" promptly came to our rescue with a barrage of dusty tomes.

All of this expended energy led us to a world-shaking set of facts, (i. e.) One James K. Polk attended this university from the fall of 1815 until his glorious graduation in 1818. He later found himself president of the land, and at this time contracted a Philadelphia firm to chisel an obelisk in memory of Dr. Caldwell.

Now, if you don't believe all this, you just roll along among the trees between Hill hall and the Alumni building and see for yourself. It's true. . .yep, all true . . .and it filled up a column, too.

More Write Away

No Skin Off Their Teeth

Editor:

Why is it that a student can't go into the Armory store during a ball game? The atletic dept. already has the money so why should they care if a student, ID card and all gets in. It is certinaly no skin off their teeth and it is as inconvenient as the very mischief to go back to the room just to get a ticket that you are not going to use.

My sentiments are to tell the person or persons responsible to go jump in the lake (that is provided that they are well weighted with ticket stubs).

Stephen B. Bugher, Jr.

Record

Editor:

The Young Democrats club of the University concluded last week a series of addresses presenting to the student body some of North Carolina's leading citizens. As a matter of record, and with a brief statement of the texts of their speeches, they are listed here in order of their appearance.

Jonathan Daniels, editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, "Liberalism in the Democratic Party" in which he emphasized the programs and principles of the Democratic party in the nation since 1828, including the later programs of Federal aid to veterans, FHA, TVA, development of the atom bomb, justice for management and labor alike in so far as was equitable, and the principles underlying the Civil Rights Program.

D. Hiden Ramsey, general manager of the Asheville Citizen-Times, "The Democratic Party in North Carolina," who offered as a matter of record, the progress of North Carolina under the Democratic party. Examples are the education system, the increase in financial reserve and stability, abolition of the poll tax, and the placement of the State among the leaders of the South and the nation by a successive line of unblemished governors.

Robert Lee Humber, proponent of the Federation of the World, "The Democratic Party in International Affairs", in which he cited the attitude of the peoples of the world toward some of the leading Democrats—Woodrow Wilson, and Franklin Roosevelt, the work of certain other Democrats in establishing the "Good Neighbor" policy, and the present foreign policy as evidenced by President Truman's speech on Navy day, 1945, as evidence of the principles and work of the Democratic party.

To those of you who have attended these lectures, we of the Young Democrats club express our appreciation for your participation, and sincerely hope that they have been of some benefit to you. To those of you who did not attend, we sincerely regret that you could not have taken advantage of this opportunity to acquire a first hand knowledge of the Democratic party and its work, and the more definite questions arising in the "qeustion and answer" period concerning the current issues on domestic and foreign policy.

To those members of the faculty, administration, students, and townspeople, who have helped to make possible these presentations, we give our sincere thanks, for it is only through you, that any organization can be a success.

To those who are interested in becoming a part of an organization designed to convey to the student body the principles and personalties of the Democratic Party—The Party of the People—who wish to align themselves with a party founded on liberalism and equality, and whose primary interest is the interest in the people, the Young Democrats club extends a cordial invitation to become a member.

Bill Cooke, YDC

Yock!

Editor:

I see where the Tarnation staff has finally been moved to a more appropriate office in the basement of the Graham Memorial. . . .next to the Men's Room.

Donald MacDonald

Write Away

The Meaning Of Discrimination

Letters submitted to the Write Away column must be double-spaced, typewritten, and shall not exceed 300 words. All contributions must contain signature, telephone number, and address of the author. (Names will be withheld upon request.) Letters which contain obscene or libelous statements or letters which do not comply with these stipulations will not be published

Editor:

What does the word discrimination mean as it is used today? To me it means judgment against a man for something irrelevant. Thus refusal to admit a man to the University of North Carolina because his skin is more highly pigmented than ours or refusal to allow a woman to teach because she is not a man are cases of discrimination. Such decisions are irrelevancies and would remind us of something from "Alice in Wonderland, if we were not inured to them.

The University of North Carolina's discrimination against women as professors is what angers me most as I write this letter, simply because I am a woman and not a Negro. That a co-educational system which admits women undergraduates on an equal footing with men should hold up its hand afterward and say, "Thou Shalt not Teach" seems to me unjust.

When I first arrived in Chapel Hill last fall, I imagined the University of North Carolina as a liberal institution. Didn't it call itself one? But that myth has been dissipated for me, until spring finds me a disillusioned—woman. The University of North Carolina like the crab is moving backward in a time when it needs to move forward and this because of the power of certain men in key administrative and professorial positions, the example of the Department of Romance Languages being, perhaps, the most notorious.

These men are, I think, most dangerous when they call themselves liberals or "just plain middle of the road folks". In either case their self-appointed function is the same: to oppose change and to set themselves up as superior to those they look upon as either reactionary or radical. Actually their superiority complex makes them the most dangerous of reactionaries.

Makes them the enemy of the Negro and the woman in the South today who find themselves doomed respectively to an unskilled or white collar position in life. Place a broom or a harmonica in a Negro's hand, and he is acceptable. We don't mind being looked after or entertained by a man even if he isn't a "pinko-gray" like ourselves (E. M. Forster's appellation for the so-called white race). Place a shorthand pad or a nursing bottle in a woman's hand, and she is likewise acceptable. We don't mind having our routine and mental tasks accomplished by someone of "inferior sex" either.

But let the women who dares to rear her head above the sea of domesticity and challenge the Department of Romance Languages tremble! She may be summa cum laude and holder of a European fellowship, it's not enough. She will spend all winter on campus and never be asked for a personal interview. She will offer theses in support of her application, they will never be asked for. And in the end she will be turned down for the one unforgivable sin: she is a woman. Is this "Carolina liberalism"?

Elaine H. Johnson

Reply, Challenge

Editor:

The purpose of this letter is twofold: to reply to a criticism that has been made, and to accept a challenge that has been issued.

First, the criticism: the opponents of UMT are insisting that the proponents of UMT have refused to participate in a debate which would expose both of the viewpoints on the issues presented by compulsory military training. While I was in Chicago two weeks ago, Miss Martha Aiken, acting under the erroneous impression that I was opposed to UMT, forwarded a telegram to me which consisted of one hundred forty-seven words of request that I should speak in opposition to UMT at the now infamously remembered Gerrard Hall meeting. On returning to Chapel Hill I informed Martha that, I was in favor of UMT, I appreciated the invitation and would like to speak in favor of UMT at that meeting. My offer, however, was not accepted due, as Martha explained, to the fact that the meeting was to be conducted not for the purpose of hearing both sides of the issue, but for the presentation of anti-UMT sentiment only. In answer to the criticism that the proponents of UMT have been reluctant to participate in public debate on the question, and without intending to cast any adverse reflection whatsoever on Miss Aiken's initial invitation, I think it only fair to point out that, if any reluctance to participate in open debate has been shown at all, the opponents, not the proponents, of UMT were the first to show it.

Second, the challenge: in Friday's TAR HEEL a letter, written by Henry Adams and captioned by the words "Come Out And Fight," issued a polite [illegible] to those who favor UMT [illegible] mit themselves and the [illegible] of their arguments to public [illegible] praisal in the form of a debate. I hereby accept that challenge. I invite any other proponent of UMT who wishes to do so to join me in accepting this challenge, but, should such a challenge not be forthcoming, I assure the opponents of UMT that I stand ready, willing, and [illegible] cerely hope) competent to debate singlehandedly, any number of them at any time and in any [illegible] they choose to name. I am confident that the Editor of the TAR HEEL will be perfectly willing to act as an intermediary for the purpose of bringing both sides into personal contact and making the necessary arrangements.

But, in view of my answer to the current criticism, I believe that if such a debate is arranged it will be the opponents, not the proponents, of UMT who are accepting the initial challenge.

Bill Crisp

Poem To Congress

Dazzled by brass, flanked fore and aft,
The Truman boys call for a draft.
Blundering: "A fire may start! Don't shout!
Let's pour on fuel to put it out!"
I'd like to hint that what is best is
To change the fuel for asbestos.

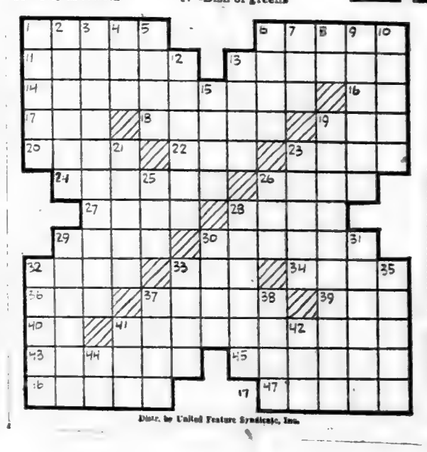
The Army launch their long-dear plan
To get control of every man.
Truman with power over all our fate,—
The little losing candidate!
Not quite with selfless purity
They name a draft "security",
Despite our large reserves and strength
They still incite this warlike length;
It's really cause for some dejection
That this plan comes before election.

"Preventive war", oh Forrestal?
It may prevent all life,—that's all.
What isn't right and isn't nice is
How soldier-strategists stir crisis.
Eleven billion dollars?—shucks!
They ask four billion further bucks.
If this were spent in aiding Europe
Democracy'd be in the stirrup.

A leader wise, not dilatory,
Could give a plan not military,
A leader strong and lyrical
Could turn the tide with miracle,
Without being weak and not destructive,—
But with a program that's constructive:
Saying: "We'll feed", saying: "We'll build",
Defining freedom for the world,
Saying: "America's for peace,—"
Just get that in your noodles, please;
Neither imperialist nor bad,
Most of us aren't money-mad;
And though we too have made mistakes
We'll work things out for all our sakes."

Truman's program trouble breeds,—
Why should you follow where he leads?
Power to him now would just be draft—
Cry out for peace! Oppose the draft!

Name Witheld



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

ACROSS

1—Flowers
6—Wild
11—Makes happy
13—Havoc
14—Printed matter
16—Sodium (symb.)
17—Hail!
18—To dodge
19—To nit
20—To shout
22—Monkey
23—Places
24—Stone throwers
26—Man
27—Arrow poison
28—City in Latvia
29—To cook in slow, simmering manner
30—To delay
32—Observed
33—Chemist's workshop (coll.)
34—Male title of respect (pl.)
36—Those in power
37—Lubricated
39—Gold (Sp.)
40—Musical note
41—Extra
43—Makes reparation for offense
45—Dignified
46—Transmits
47—Dish of greens

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

DOWN

1—To pass from one to another
2—Fruit (pl.)
3—Followers
4—Summer (Fr.)
5—Dry
6—Passage money
7—Night before
8—Sun god
9—Related on father's side
10—Jumps
12—Beastly
13—Uncouth
15—Last bugle call
19—Pert. to kinship
21—Kind of cloth
23—Folktales
25—Fresh
26—Wire measure
28—Wagers again
29—Congressional body
30—East Indian island
31—Mistakes
32—Man's name
33—Covers
35—Shod
37—Lyric poems
38—Departs life
41—Conjunction
42—Harem room
44—Upon

Monday Last Day For Horseshoe Entries, Track Meet Qualifying

The other phases of the spring intramural program will get action in earnest this week. Softball started two weeks ago will be joined by track, horseshoes and tennis.

Monday is the day for qualifying in the track events and dashes in the track meet is tomorrow. Men who haven't come out must be out tomorrow if they want to compete.

The horseshoe deadline was extended until 6 o'clock tomorrow. Horseshoe competition begins Thursday.

The semi-finals in the track meet will be held Tuesday and finals will be run off the next day.

The intramural department will furnish all equipment for the horseshoe matches which will be played on a team basis. The matches will be single elimination. Teams will consist of five men who will play two doubles matches and one singles match.

Thursday is the deadline for entering the tournament, which begins play on Monday. The tourney will be run on essentially the same basis as the horseshoe contest — a competition, five-man teams, and single elimination matches. However, a match will consist of two singles battles and a tandem match.

The softball tourney will again be shortened to two days of play tomorrow and Thursday. Rifle firing is also moving along and the final rounds should be coming off in the near future.

Monday's Murals

SOFTBALL

4:00 — Field 1: Misfits vs. Club H-2-3-. Field 2: Alexander 2 vs. Ruffin; Field 3: Clippers vs. Lewis 1. Field 4: Pi Lamb 2 vs. DKE 1; Field 5: AEPi vs. SAE 2; Field 6: Phi Gam 3 vs. PiKA 1; Field 7: Phi Delt 1 vs. SAE 1; Field 8: Chi Psi 2 vs. ATO 2; Field 9: TEP 2 vs. PiKa.

Local Golfers Take Part in North-South Amateur Tourney in Pinehurst This Week

This Week in Carolina Sports

BASEBALL

Wednesday—Duke, in Durham.
Jayvees vs. Duke, here
Saturday State, in Raleigh.
Jayvees vs. State, here.

TENNIS

Tuesday—Freshmen vs. Danville high school, here.
Wednesday—Duke, in Durham
Thursday—Wake Forest, here.
Saturday—Davidson at Davidson.
Jayvees vs. Raleigh tennis club, here.

GOLF

Monday through Friday—North South Amateur tournament, at

TRACK

Friday and Saturday—Several men may compete in Penn Relays in Philadelphia.
Saturday—State, in Raleigh.

5:00 — Field 1: Med School vs Stanley Steamers; Field 2: Law School vs. Stacy; Field 3: Mud Dobbers vs. Nash; Field 4: Phi Delt Chi vs. Chi Phi 2; Field 5: Sigma Nu 1 vs. St. Anthony; Field 6: DKE 2 vs. Kappa Sigma 2; Field 7: Sig Ep vs. Beta 1; Field 8: Chi Psi 1 vs. ATO 1; Field 9: Zeta Psi 1 vs. Phi Kap 1.

RIFLE FIRING

4:00 — Sigma Nu vs. Sigma Phi Epsilon.
7:30 — DKE vs. Chi Psi.

Coach Chuck Erickson will enter a full team of Tar Heel golfers in the North-South amateur golf tournament to be played at Pinehurst all next week, it was announced yesterday.

The tourney will be a match play affair with the 32 best qualifying rounds of Monday and Tuesday, moving on to start match on Wednesday. Individual play then will continue through the rest of the week.

Harvie Ward will lead the Tar Heel delegation and the Tarboro stroker has been installed as one of the leading favorites in the competition among the local sons.

Other Carolina aces listed in the action will be Bob Cox, Jack Brantley, Harvey Oliver, Roy McKenzie, Frank Brooks, Dan Nyimicz, and Pete Beaudry. Although all of these field has been entered, some may not be able to compete because of scholastic engagements.

The entire Tar Heel team played the No. 2 championship course at Pinehurst over which the tournament will be held yesterday afternoon in order to familiarize themselves with one of America's toughest layouts.

The North-South event should draw an impressive field of simen-pures with Frank Stranahan, the bad boy of golf, along with Dick Chapman leading a potent list of contestants.

The Pinehurst course is said to be in mid-season condition which will be an added inducement to the entrants.

Ward is approaching the top of his game these days and may be at his peak for the tourney. His four rounds at the Masters last week in Augusta gave his game a good boost toward the point of near perfection.

Cheerleader Tryouts To Open Monday at 2

Tryouts for the 1948-49 Tar Heel cheering squad will begin tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in front of the bell tower, cheerleader-elect Norman Sper announced yesterday.

All those interested in trying out for the squad are invited to come down to the opening practice. Tryouts will continue throughout the week.

Sper also stated that all new movements will be used by the cheerleaders next year, but for the benefit of the tryouts, the old actions will be used.

Dodgers Even Series With Win Over Yanks

New York, April 17 — (UP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers squared their spring exhibition series with the New York Yankees at one game apiece today by beating the world champions 5-2.

Reliefer Hugh Casey, a surprise starter, former Pittsburg lefty Preacher Roe and Rex Barney allowed the Yankees only two hits. The Dodgers touched Ed Lopat for two runs in the second inning and another in the third. Randy Gumpert took over in the fourth with Joe Page coming on in the seventh.

The lone homer of the game—by Carl Furillo — came off Page in the eighth. Billy Cox, with a double and two singles and Pee-Wee Reese, with two singles, paced Brooklyn's 10-hit attack.

Giants Top Indians On Three-Run Homer

Cleveland, April 17 — (UP) — The New York Giants' long-range hitting paid off again today when Jack Lohrge rocked a three run homer into the stands for a 4-3 win over Cleveland.

It was the Giants' ninth win in 16 starts against Cleveland this spring.

Lohrke's homer followed a double by Johnny Mize and an infield single by Bobby Rhawn, subbing at shortstop for the injured Buddy Kerr.

Tar Babies Outslug High Point, 9-6

Sweet Revenge!

High Point	ab	r	h	o	a
Lanze cf	3	0	1	2	0
Craig, cf	1	0	0	0	0
Ridge, 2b	5	1	2	2	0
White, 3b	3	1	0	1	4
Cooper, ss	4	2	1	1	2
Bryant, 1b	3	1	2	10	0
Mickey, 1b	0	1	0	0	0
Upton, lf	4	0	1	3	0
Rickert, rf	3	0	1	0	0
Jones, c	3	0	0	5	1
Kimble, p	3	0	0	0	5
Powell, p	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	34	6	6	24	12

Carolina	ab	r	h	o	a
Allen, cf	4	1	0	1	0
Brookshire, ss	2	2	0	1	2
Senter, 3b	3	1	1	1	1
Goodman, 2b	4	1	1	2	2
Lamb, rf	4	1	1	2	0
Ward, 1b	3	2	2	1	0
Garganus, c	0	0	0	7	0
Walsh, c	3	0	0	2	0
Carter, 1b	4	1	1	9	1
Brake, p	3	0	0	0	10
McGinn, p	0	0	0	1	4
Total	30	9	6	27	20

Score by Innings:

HP—	0	0	0	2	0	0	2	0	2
UNC—	2	0	1	1	0	1	4	0	x

Summary—Errors: Jones, Kimble, Brookshire, Goodman 2, Brake. Ward 3, Goodman 2, Carter 1. Lamb. Home runs: Goodman, Ward, Carter. Base onballs—off: Brake 7, McGinn 2, Kimble 3, Powell 1. Struck out—by: Brake 5, McGinn1, Kimble 5. Hits—off: Brake 5 in 6 and two-thirds innings; McGinn 2 in 2 and one-third innings; Kimble 2 in 6 innings, Powell 4 in 3 innings. Winning picture Brake. Losing picture Kimble. Umpires: Murray and Hagwórth. Time: 3:00.

44 Athletes Given Monograms for Winter Quarter; Mermen Top List with 24 Awards

Forty-five monograms have been voted by the University of North Carolina Athletic Council to members of the winter varsity sports teams.

Twenty-four such awards went to Carolina's Southern conference champion swimmers. Eleven were awarded to the White Phantom cagers and nine monograms were issued to members of the wrestling squad.

The awards were as follows:

Swimming: Gerald L. Cook, San Juan, Puerto Rico; Robert M. Elliott, Forest City; Irwin J. Earle, Short Hills, N. J.; Co-Captain Jesse K. Greenbaum, Baltimore, Md.; Co-Captain Samuel H. Morrow, Wilmington; Stephen M. Osborne, Southern Pines; Robert M. Ousley, North Canton, Ohio; William G. Pritchard, Chapel Hill; David J. Whichard, Greenville; Daniel C. Breeden, Bennettsville, S. C.; Robert Lee Hutton, Greensboro; Eston G. Norwood, Bennettsville, S. C.; Richard G. Twining, Anchorage, Alaska.

Gilbert R. Bean, Forest City; John D. Bippart, South Orange, N. J.; Thomas F. Drew, Raleigh; Allison H. Pell, Charlotte; Norman L. Sper, Hollywood, Calif.; John S. Whichard, Greenville; Ronnie Basescu, New York city; Hal B. Ingram, Hamlet; James R. Mericka, Shaker Heights, O.; James P. Thomas, Baltimore, Md.; Manager Harold J. Sharpe, Greensboro.

Basketball: Coy Carson, Asheville; Melvin Cole, Manchester, Conn.; John Dillon, Savannah, Ga.; Norman Kohler, New York city; Sherman Nearman, Charleston, West Virginia; Dan Nyimicz, Rahway, N. J.; Robert Paxton, Spokane, Washington; Roger Scholbe, Milwaukee, Wisc.; Fred Swartzberg, High Point; Taylor Thorne, Rocky Mount, and Manager William Russell, Flushing, N. Y.

Wrestling: A. Bluethenthal, Wilmington; C. J. Fisher, Salisbury; Oscar W. Gupton, Raleigh; Phillip Kemp, Goldsoro; William P. Kemp, Jr., Goldsboro; Thomas M. Urquhart, Woodville; Douglas Thompson, Norfalk, Va.; Marvin P. Wilson, Jr., Edenton; Manager E. S. Jacobs, Lynchburg, Va.

Grid Team Completes Third Week of Drills

Coach Carl Snavely had words of praise for the overall performance of his gridders yesterday morning after the Tar Heels had gone through an hour-long scrimmage in Kenan stadium by way of ending their third week of Spring practice.

Snavely singled out several up and coming members of last year's jayvee squad, including backs Dick Bunting, Gus Purcell and Merle Norcross, and center Joe Neikirk.

Bunting was especially adept in the kicking department and stood out well on defense. Norcross, who has been alternating at wingback and tailback, picked up several long gains.

The Tar Heels will continue practices for another two weeks. Climax of the Spring drills will come May 1, date of the annual Blue-White football game under the sponsorship of the Monogram club.

Track Marks Broken By Dillard, Fonville

Lawrence, Kan., April 17 — (UP) — Two world's records were beaten today at the Kansas Relays. The new marks were set by Charley Fonville of Michigan in the 16-pound shot put and Harrison Dillard of Baldwin-Wallace in the 120-yard high hurdles.

Fonville tossed the shot 56 feet and one-quarter inch in the qualifying round. His throw is almost a foot better that the record set 14 years ago by Jack Torrance at Oslo, Norway.

Dillard skimmed the hurdles in 13.6 seconds, clipping a tenth of a second off the mark set 12 years ago.

Carter, Goodman, Ward Pace Team With Home Runs

By Larry Fox

The Carolina jayvee baseballers had their hitting shoes on yesterday, blasting three home runs to defeat High Point, 9-6, and thus reverse an earlier 3-0 defeat at the hands of the Bisons. It was the third win for the Tar Babies.

None of the four pitchers who saw action in the protracted contest, two for each side, was able to hold the score down, and although the Pointers outhit the locals, eight to six, the Tar Babies aimed for the fences with men aboard. The wildness of the hurlers also helped to increase the score.

Stan Goodman, opening at second base, started off the scoring in the bottom of the second. Zero Allen opened the inning with a walk and after two men were down, Goodman drove a line drive to deep left center field the ball travelling at least 300 feet in the air, for a four-bagger.

Another Run

The locals counted once in the third inning on a brace of walks, a passed ball, and some infield outs.

High Point got into the scoring column in the next frame, counting twice on a pair of errors, a hit batter, and a free pass.

That hit batter was starter Ralph Brakes worst pitch of the ball game. It was his first throw of the frame and after nicking the batter, bounced off catcher Charlie Garganus' finger, forcing him to leave the game.

Carolina got a run back in their half of the inning and tallied once more in the sixth on Jake Carter's four-master that hugged the rightfield foul line and rolled to the fence.

The Tar Babies sewed the ball game up in the seventh inning when, leading 5-4, they pounced on the High Point starting chunker, Kimble, for four big runs.

Four Runs

A walk to Joe Brookshire started it all off. John Senter singled him to third and a one-baser by Ed Lamb scored Brookshire. Don Ward then weighed in with a long clout over the leftfielder's head for four bases and three runs.

Before that splurge got underway, Brake was routed by the diamondmen from the Furniture city in the top of the seventh when the visitors notched a pair of runs. Southpaw Bill McGinn came on to get the final out in the inning by whiffing the pitcher.

Ward led the Tar Babies attack with two hits in three attempts.

Tar Heels Win

(Special to the Daily Tar Heel)

GREENVILLE, April 17—Tommy Andrew, of the University of North Carolina, pitched one of the finest games of his career here tonight, blanking the Greenville Costal Plain league team with two hits while his mates counted a pair of runs for a 2-0 victory.

Carolina started the game off right when lead-off man Kenny Black smacked a single. Co-Captain Jim Hamilton then came through with a one-bagger on a hit and run play that sent Black to third. The little centerfielder scored on Frank Jones' infield out.

Hamilton figured in the other Carolina run also. He opened up the sixth with a single and advanced to second on a sacrifice by Jones. Jim Kelly flied out, but Will Hobbs singled to left for the tally.

Andrew's curve ball was working especially well tonight under the arc-lights and he struck out five batters while walking only two.

Carolina—	1	0	0	0	0	1	2	7	1
Greenville—	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	1	0

Andrew and Cheek; Arroyo and Simmons.

Photo Service
DURHAM OPTICAL COMPANY
215 W. Main St.
Phone F-2141 Durham

Seixas Proves Long Practice Makes Perfect; Tar Heel Netter Began Swinging at Age Five

By Dick Jenrette

Tennis enthusiasts who become disheartened at their failure to develop into good players after several years of practice will take encouragement from the case of Vic Seixas, Carolina's number one net specialist and the ninth ranking amateur in the nation. Vic has been playing the game since he was a youngster of five years.

According to Seixas, there is no set formula for learning how to play. "Long years of practice, will to win, and the correct mental attitude" are the prime requisites of the prospective player, states the 25-year old Philadelphia, Pa. native. But Vic will quickly point out that there are plenty of players who possess these qualities and have played all their life, yet never really become proficint at tennis. A person simply has to have natural ability to achieve greatness in any sport, but Seixas believes that people can become creditable players through many years of practice.

Raised in Shadow

When asked how he first came to be interested in tennis, Seixas reported that he was raised within the shadow of a tennis club in Philadelphia. His father played considerable tennis, and before he had started in grammar school Mr. Seixas had his son out on the courts. Consequently, when he entered William Penn Charter Prep School, he was somewhat of a polished performer. He was the number one player on his high school team even when in the ninth grade — quite an accomplishment for a boy of 12 years.

Seixas first entered Carolina in September, 1941, and he enjoyed a successful season as a member of the freshman tennis squad. He was also on the varsity basketball squad in his sophomore year, but the war put a halt to his sports activities before tennis season came around. Seixas then joined the Army Air Corps, gaining the rank of Lieutenant before he was released in 1946. On only one occasion during his tenure in the service did he get to play much tennis. He was given leave to participate in the Forest Hills National Amateur tourney in 1944. Seixas had considerable success in those matches, losing to Frank Parker in the third round.

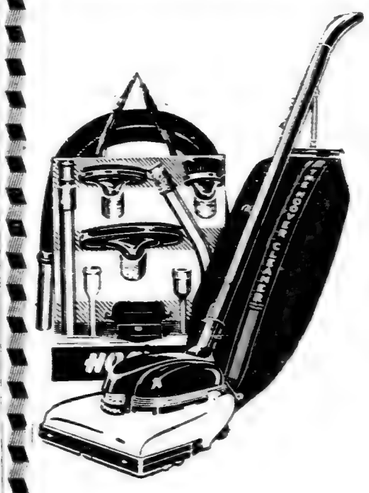
Vic Seixas

Seixas' first post-war season at Carolina came last year. Again playing in the number one position, Vic scored 20 victories against three losses during the campaign. This year he hasn't dropped a single match. His coach, John Kenfield, is also happy to report that he has one more year of eligibility remaining after this season. He is team captain of the current squad of Carolina netters.

The biggest thrill in Seixas' career came when he was only 17. Only a few casual spectators were on hand one afternoon in 1940 when Vic was meeting Frank Kovacs, who at that time was ranked fourth among the nation's tennis players. To the surprise of all present, the little-publicized Seixas proceeded to win two straight sets and almost had a third, but the veteran Kovacs rallied to win a 3-2 decision. Before the match was over there were several thousand fans watching in amazement.

Best Match

Vic believes he played his best match of tennis last summer at Southhampton, when he defeated Gardner Mulloy, 8-6, 6-2. Mulloy, like Kovacs, was ranked fourth in the nation. Another of Seixas' better performances was in the Sugar Bowl tourney in December, 1947. In this event, he defeated Hal Surface and Gardner Larned, an old collegiate rival, in the first two rounds. Ted Schroeder, a player that Vic personally ranks as the top amateur in the nation, finally stopped him after five gruelling sets.



The key word to describe Seixas' training procedure is moderation. He doesn't believe in heavy training and tries to avoid all excesses. Vic says, "A person can only play so much, and all practice after that does no good." He illustrates his statement by an experience last summer when he played nine tourneys in nine weeks. Seixas explains that "I had to force myself to play. Actually I was just going through the motions of playing. You have to be keyed up to play good tennis."

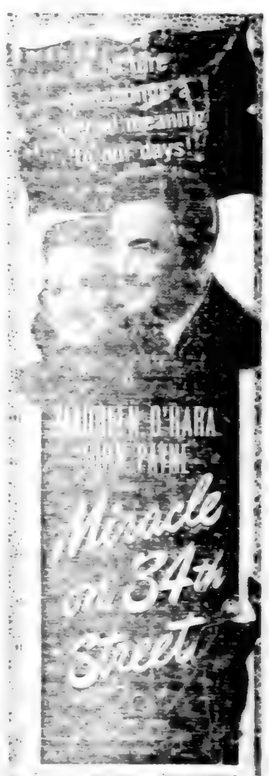
Seixas has found time to lead an active college life besides his tennis activities. He was treasurer of his sophomore class, is a member of the senior class steering committee, the Monogram club, and has served as president of Chi Psi fraternity. He has also been on the Dean's List on a number of occasions.

FOR YOUR FLOWERS CALL
WEST-WILLIAMS FLOWER SHOP
Telephone 9906
P. O. Building, Carrboro

BACHELOR BOON or MAID'S DELIGHT
The obvious answer is a man who wears clean white shirts
Try our service today — your clothes are returned promptly — looking like new — clean as a whistle
FEATURING THREE DAY SERVICE
TWIN VILLAGE LAUNDRY & CLEANERS
Carrboro Phone F-3541

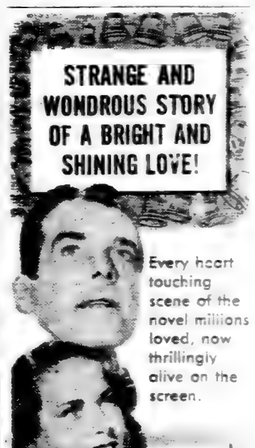
New! Get Yours Today at
BENNET & BLOCKSIDGE
TELEPHONE 6161

All Occasions
Flowers say it better
REHDERS
CHAPEL HILL FLOWER SHOP
Opposite Post Office corner



Lloyd Electric Co.
F-3862 CARRBORO
Sales & Service
For
• L&H Electric Stoves
• Jud-Whitehead & Red Crown Hot Water Heaters
We specialize in wiring new construction and in general repair.

VILLAGE
—TODAY—
It's Scandalous!...



LORETTA YOUNG
JOSEPH COTTEN
ETHEL BARRYMORE
"The Farmer's Daughter"
MARTHA SCOTT
ROBERT KEITH
MARY PICKFORD
A Paramount Production

—MONDAY—

STRANGE AND WONDROUS STORY OF A BRIGHT AND SHINING LOVE!

Every heart touching scene of the novel millions loved, now thrillingly alive on the screen.

RUSSELL JANNEY'S
"THE MIRACLE OF THE BELLS"
Starring FRED MacMURRAY
VALLI
FRANK SINATRA

SUNDAY — MONDAY
CAROLINA

Daily Tar Heel Society

Society Asides

Sigma Chi Weekend, Finals On Way

By Weddy Thorp

Two really big things are coming up next weekend and the next. The Sigma Chi Derby and Sweetheart Ball, follower by Spring Finals give promise of some real weekending on the campus in the near future .

These particular Sigma Chi festivities had their start in a strange way and since their beginning have had a colorful history, rating magazine coverage every year.

At the University of California in 1919, the Sigma Chi house was one of the few still left on sorority row. But the boys didn't mind. In fact ,they capitalized on the situation. At the beginning of the new term, they made good use of their grandstand spot on the campus, and spent the first few days "evaluating" the new coeds.

With loudspeakers, etc., they gave out the dope on the girls and the idea of selecting one for their special fraternity interest developed from this. Thus the Sweetheart of Sigma Chi came to be chosen each year, and gradually the practice has spread and become a national thing.

The Derby had its start in Tennessee. "Life" covered it at Georgia in '36. (Good ole "Life") Locally, a point of interest lies in the fact that the title of "Miss Modern Venus" which is given one coed at the function each year, has not only been claimed by the same sorority every year the derby has been held in Chapel Hill, but has passed from big sister to little sister in the sorority each time. Liz Mace, Barbara Lynn, and Evelyn Pettitt have held the distinction.

Tex Beneke weekend is catching up on us. Just two more weeks before the old favorite will be back on campus with music we've been waiting to hear. April 30-May 1 are the big dates.

Friday night there will be a broadcast from the dance, sponsored by the Armed Forces. An added attraction here will be the use of a little local talent on the program. Any coeds interested in appearing with Tex Beneke that night are asked to contact Bill Tate and plan to be auditioned by Jack Roche on Monday, the 26th.

Tentative plans for the weekend look mighty good. There will be, of course, the dances Friday and Saturday nights; then the Blue-White football game at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon, followed by a concert at four, which we venture to say will really be a concert, and on Sunday the Army Air Force show at the airport will top off the weekend.

But leave us not forget the Valkyrie sing tomorrow night. That's always good ,and with the old professor on hand, should be ver-ey nice. So . . . see you there!!

Lambda Chi's Have Dance in Durham

The local chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha combined with the chapters from Duke, Wake Forest and State and held a formal dance Friday night, April 9, at the Hope Valley Country club in Durham. Music was furnished by the Johnny Satterfield orchestra.

Sponsors for the dance were Mrs. Carolyn Hogan with Phillip Hogan, and Miss Betty Henshaw with H. G. Hankins. Walter Elderkin, social chairman for the Duke chapter, was chairman of the dance committee. He was assisted by Gene Blake, social chairman of the local chapter.

Alpha Gams Entertain New Fraternity Here

Thursday evening, April 9, the Alpha Gams entertained the newly chartered Pi Kappa Phi fraternity with a buffet supper.

Following the supper, entertainment in the form of a modernized pantomime of "Little Red Riding Hood" was presented by the girls.

The Wake Forest chapter of Lambda Chi fraternity entertained the Carolina Alpha Gams with a picnic and party Friday evening at Wake Forest.

Derby Sweetheart Dance Is Featured By Sigma Chi's

'Miss Modern Venus,' Sweetheart of Sigma Chi Is Selected

The Sigma Chi Derby and Sweetheart Dance, held each year by the fraternity throughout the nation, will take place here next weekend.

The Derby will be held on Saturday afternoon at Fetzer Field at 2:30. At this time one coed will be selected for the title of "Miss Modern Venus." A series of events and contests between the five sororities on campus are scheduled and individual minature cups will be awarded to the winner of each.

Sweetheart Ball

At the Sweetheart Ball that night, the annual Sigma Chi Sweetheart will be announced. This is the climax of an extended contest for the honor, which has been sponsored by the local chapter.

Beginning with four girls from each dormitory and five from each sorority, totaling 41, the contestants have been eliminated now to 15 girls, all of whom will serve in the Sigma Chi court and the figure at the dance, and one of whom will be chosen as the Sweetheart.

The contestants have been entertained by the fraternity at five parties, and the Sweetheart will be selected on Wednesday night but will not be announced until the dance, which will be a formal affair open to the entire campus.

Court Attendants

The Sigma Chi Court will include the following girls: Sera Jane Farlow, Bonnie Thrash, Fran Angus, Peppy Lucas, Margie Norris, Hilda Sharkey, Weddy Thorp, Roberta Hoffman, Mary Leah Thorne, Betty Brown, Peggy Egerton, Mary Anna Dunbar, Connie Roper, Shelly Roper, and Sue Walton.

Included in the events scheduled for the Derby Saturday afternoon will be the following contests: pie-eating, sack race, domestic handicap, Sigma Chi claiming, and sorority skits.

"Miss Modern Venus" will receive an individual cup from the fraternity, and this contest winner will also add points to her sorority's score.

One big cup will be awarded to the sorority winning the most events. This cup has been won in the past by the ADPi's, and twice by the Tri Delts. If the Tri Delts are successful again this year, they will be allowed to keep the cup.

This is the fourth year that the Derby and Sweetheart Ball have been sponsored by the Sigman Chi's on campus, and last year 1200 people attended the afternoon events.

Past "Sweethearts of Sigma Chi" have included Phyllis Ganey, Margaret McClenaghen Boach, and Jo Benton.

QUARTERLY MEETING

There will be a meeting of the Executive committee and the Advisory committee of the Carolina Quarterly in the Grail room tomorrow afternoon from 4-6. Plans for selecting a permanent staff will be disclosed, there will be a report from the finance committee, and a detailed report on costs.

YOU'LL LOOK your best while travelling in the crisp piqué-trimmed cotton suit shown above as pictured in the April issue of Good Housekeeping magazine. Note the over-sized pockets. In brown or green, sizes 9 to 15, Minx Modes. Dan Rixer Cord-spun cotton.

Voting in Italy Being Held Today

Rome, April 17 — (UP) — Voters in Italy go to the polls tomorrow to choose the government which they want to rule them, but to the outside world no candidate on the ballot is as important as the issue which will be decided.

In America and throughout the rest of the world ,the Italian voting is big news because is can stop or make almost unstoppable the spread of Communism in Western Europe.

Weather forecasts indicating rain on this election day did little this evening to increase the optimism of the westearn world. Most observers believed that anything which keeps down the number of voters will help to tightly organized Communists.

However, the odds are on the anti-Communists to win most of the 237 senatorial seats and 574 posts in the lower chamber which are at stake.

As the campaign ended, the Communists said in effect. "Vote for us to keep Italy out of war blocs and save the peace." This was answered by the Catholic opposition by "The government with the help of the United States has saved Italy from ruin."

But the final answer rests with the Italian voter who tomorrow will mark his ballot for Democracy or Communism while the rest of the world holds its breath.

MAY DAY PLANNING

There will a meeting of all May-day planning committees at 5 o'clock tomorrow in the Grail room of Graham Memorial.

Pinnings

Corine Grimsley, Chi Omega, to Henry Dowdy, Kappa Alpha.

Kate Connor, Chi Omega, to Danny Logue, Sigma Nu.

Society Notes

Anne Huske was initiated into the Pi Beta Phi sorority on Wednesday afternoon.

Chi Omega will hold its weekly coffee-hour tonight at seven o'clock.

WRONG THING TO DO

LEWISTON, Pa. (UP)—Donald Wolfe, 20, fell out of an automobile when he opened the door to throw away a cigarette. He was treated for minor injuries

Kappa Alpha Honors Pledges; Feltus Named Outstanding

Kappa Alpha is having its annual pledge weekend, which will be concluded this afternoon with the initiation of 23 pledges into the fraternity.

Beginning with a party on Friday afternoon at Sparrow's Pool, the scheduled events carried through a formal dance on Saturday night at the Carolina Inn.

This was the annual Magnolia Ball, for which Jimmy Marshall and his Carolinians played.

For the first time in the fraternity's history a plaque was awarded to the one outstanding pledge, Will Feltus. The selection was made on the basis of work done around the fraternity house, activities, intra-mural participation, and actives' votes.

Those pledges in the the dance Friday night the following:

Dan Bell, Pittsboro; C... well, Monroe; Bill Brow... Point; Hansle Butts, N... Miss.; Gus Cain, Gaston... Thomas Cooper, Cla... Miss.; Pete Ebersole, Atlan... Will Feltus, Natchez, Mis...

Harry Fremd, Canal Poi... Clyde Garner, Pinehurst; Ben Gheen, Shelby; Herb L... Goldsboro; James Johnson, ... Point; Ralph Marshall, ... Point; Lester Martin, Mo... Fred Meekins, Asheville.

Chan Page, Southern P... Neil Patrick, Wilmington; Jo... Schofield, Macon, Ga.; Bob Winston - Salem.

CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE 6B

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed and being completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogerson Drive.Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. Telephone F-2906. (1-ch1x2-1)

24 FOOT GLIDER HOUSE TRAILER. Lot number 76, University Trailer Court for married couples, or box 701, Chapel Hill. (1-137-1)

ATTRACTIVE TWO BEDROOM house, 31 Oakwood Drive, Chapel Hill. Excellent location, spacious grounds. Owner leaving town. Phone F3216, Hector MacLean. (1-126-1)

FOR SALE AUTOMOTIVE 6BB

'39 PLYMOUTH FOUR DOOR SEDAN. Radio, heater and four good tires. Motor in excellent condition. T. H. Yates, Phone F-3951. (ch 1x1)

FURNITURE FOR COMPLETE LIVING room, dinette, Kitchen. Also small pieces of furniture. Call Mrs. Altschul 116 Berman Court from 11 a.m. til 7 p.m. Opposite new high school. (ch-1x1)

LOST 12

KEY CHAIN CONTAINING FIVE OR six keys and miniature license No. 264-224. Reward if returned to Hill Bakery. (ch 1x1)

Good Looks A-Head

If you're looking for a haircus — the place is GM's new barber shop. The barber is quick, the barber is skilled

Come in Today!

GM BARBER SHOP

Graham Memorial basement

University Florist

"For the Best in Flowers"

Pick Theatre Bldg.

Chapel Hill, N. C.

Telephone 9816

"Most Likely to Succeed"

SEAM-FREE NYLONS

WITH PATENTED HEEL

First choice in nylons among smart college girls is the seam-free hosiery that bears the Seal of the DANCING TWINS. Exclusive, patented heel* gives snug fit at ankle, heel and instep; the famous Gussetoe assures comfort! No twisting seams to worry about. Look for them under leading brand names at your favorite college shop or store.

DANCING TWINS

*U. S. Pat. No. 2386649

LI'L ABNER By Al Capp

Home's where your heart is — Bring your heart — to HARRY'S

WEATHER
Fair and warmer.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
Regardless of Color
Barefoot Folks
Sunday Prices

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., TUESDAY, APRIL 20, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | NO. 145

Communist Leader Will Participate In Meeting Tonight

By Charlie Craven

Junius Scales, chairman of the Communist party of Chapel Hill, will represent his party tonight at 8 o'clock on the first floor of Phillips hall when the Collegiate Council for the United Nations will hold a mock UN Security Council session, officials of the CCUN announced yesterday.

Beside the Communist party, eleven campus organizations will represent the various nations having delegates on the Security Council of the UN.

It has been reliably established that Scales refused to be quoted as saying he will represent Russia. He stated, however, that he will take the part of Communism.

The organizations participating in tonight's meeting spent last week preparing arguments based on policies held by different nations concerning the present plight of Czechoslovakia.

Tonight's meeting of the CCUN is sponsored by the state headquarters of the organization. This afternoon at 4:30 the local chapter will have a meeting in Gerrard hall. All student and faculty advisors are requested to be present at the afternoon meeting when a progress report will be read by the state director.

Other than Scales and the Communist party, the following organizations will be represented on the mock Security Council:

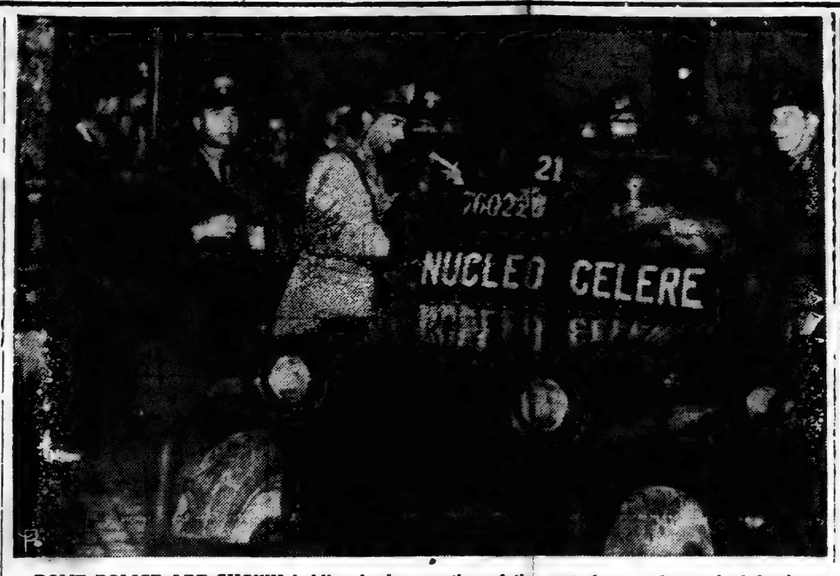
Di, Merle Stevens; Phi, Herman Sieber; IRC, John Bristow; CPU, Dick Simpson; YWCA, Jean McKeithan, Ann Wells, Patsy McNutt; FFC, Bill Kraft, John Burwell, John Brockman; CCC, Charlie Kaufman; WF, Jake Wicker; Grail, representative to be announced.

At this afternoon's meeting of the CCUN, new student advisors will be installed to fill places vacated by several advisors who plan to graduate in June. Also scheduled is a discussion of the state policy, a discussion of the final conference to be held in May, and a discussion of the evening meeting in Phillips hall.

Quartet to Give Return Concert Tomorrow Night

The final program in the Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge Foundation Series this year will be a recital by the Kroll Quartet tomorrow night at 8:30 in Hill hall.

The quartet is composed of the same members who played to an enthusiastic audience last year, including: William Kroll, violin; Louis Graelor, violin; Nathan Gordon, viola; and Avron Twerdowsky, violoncello.



The quartet will play Haydn's "String Quartet in D major," "The Lark," Benjamin Britten's "Quartet No. 1" and Beethoven's "String Quartet in E minor."

Admission will be by guest ticket only until 8:20, when the general public will be admitted without tickets. Guest tickets are available at the music department.

LAW WIVES' CLUB

The Law Wives' club will have a steak dinner party at the Terrace View Supper club Saturday night, April 24, at 7 o'clock. Law students and wives, and single students and their dates are invited. Those interested in attending are asked to contact one of the following during the weekend: Mrs. Worth Folger, 120 Polk street, Village; Mrs. Dan Walker, 152 Daniels road, phone no. 9201; or Mrs. Tommy Wells, 108 Ridge lane, phone no. 9696.

These people must be notified by Wednesday in order to make reservations.

ROME POLICE ARE SHOWN holding back a portion of the vast throngs that waited for hours for a chance to cast their votes in an election which will decide whether or not the "Iron Curtain" is likely to drop on Italy. A check of those shown above showed that virtually all of them were eager for the opportunity to cast out the Communist threat. Some 350,000 government troops and police handled the crowds which, in Rome, was largely orderly and good natured.

(International Radiophoto)

First Vote Count From Italian Polls Favors Anti-Reds

Rome, April 19 —(UP)— The anti-Communist parties seem to have taken a strong lead in Italy's fateful parliamentary election although it still is too early to predict victory for either side with returns in only from 3,400 of the country's 4,000 precincts.

On this early count, the parties backing Premier De Gasperi are running ahead better than three to two. The count for the Christian Democrats and other anti-Communist groups now totals some 1,092,000 while the Communist front has about 642,000 votes.

These returns are for the 237 Senate seats which are at stake. The Italians also voted on 574 delagates to the national assembly.

However, the Assembly returns are just beginning to be tabulated. They, too, give a big lead to the parties which want to keep Italy on the side of the western Democracies.

YWCA CABINET

New YWCA cabinet will hold its first meeting tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Y office.

Mary Ann Daniel, new president, will make several important announcements in regard to the cabinet during the remaining school year. Also, a permanent time for cabinet meetings will be set at the Monday meeting.

PHI MEETING

A closed meeting of the Phi assembly will be held tonight at 9 o'clock in the Phi hall of New East building.

A regular meeting of the assembly will be held next Tuesday. All members are urged to attend and any guests or prospective members are invited.

'Sweep It Clean' Opens Here As Satire on Campus Politics

"Sweep It Clean", a new musical-comedy being given for the Koch Memorial fund, opens tonight at 8:30 in Memorial hall.

Combining Playmaker and music department talent in a colorful show, the musical is based on the pertinent theme of election time. Sparked with a wide variety of new songs and a chorus of twenty, the electioneering is conducted before moving scenery that includes two office buildings and an entire amusement park.

The political plot revolves about the campaigning of a city boss and an honest garbage collector running on the clean city platform. National politics are brought into the script through the disreputable Senator Dodder. Seven election songs keep the program musical while the comedy and romantic love sequences provide ballads and laughs.

"Sweep It Clean" is being presented by an entirely new musical-comedy group comprised of students who have previously appeared in the "Mikado" and other Playmaker productions. Attempting to give a show Broadway calibre, "Sweep It Clean" follows a desire to show that the Carolina campus can produce musicals of an equal standard with those of other universities.

Proceeds of the show will go toward the construction of the Koch Memorial theater and the improvement of existing theatrical facilities.

Tickets for "Sweep It Clean" are on sale at the YMCA and Ledbetter-Pickards, and will be sold at Memorial hall tonight and tomorrow night.

Coed Literary Group Elects '49 Officers

In Wednesday's meeting of the Chi Delta Phi, literary sorority, officers were elected for next year. Officers of the Carolina chapter are Sally Woodhull, president; Anne Wells, vice-president; Dusty Moore, secretary; and Virginia Forward, treasurer.

The National president and National secretary of the Chi Delta Phi recently visited this organition. Miss Bernadine Whitmer, national president, and Miss Mary E. Teeter, national secretary, are making a tour of Chi Delta Phi chapters throughout the South.

PRE-REGISTRATION

The pre-registration advising period for summer school students is scheduled from May 10 through May 15. Only students who will not attend the summer session will be allowed to pre-register for the fall quarter. This pre-registration period will be from May 17 through May 22.

Summer session class schedules are available in Registration hall this week.

Sandburg to Speak To Library Group At Annual Dinner

Carl Sandburg, the poet and Lincoln biographer who now lives at Flat Rock in western North Carolina, has accepted an invitation to speak at the annual dinner meeting of the Friends of the Library of the University at the Carolina Inn May 7.

According to a letter from Mr. Sandburg, he will "talk, read and perhaps give songs with the guitar."

The program of the meeting will also include reports on membership, gifts and acquisitions.

It was urged that reservations for the dinner be made promptly.

Veterans to Need Summer Eligibility

Veteran-students who expect to change schools at the beginning of summer should apply as soon as possible for a supplemental certificate of eligibility and entitlement, the Veterans administration said yesterday.

A Supplemental Certificate of Eligibility and Entitlement is a certificate issued to veteran-trainees when Veterans Administration approval is granted for them to transfer from one institution to another. The certificate shows the remaining amount of eduaction a veteran is entitled to under the GI Bill of Rights.

Supplemental certificates may be obtained by veteran-students currently enrolled in institutions in this state on proper application from the Veterans Administration regional office, 310 West Fourth Street, Winston-Salem.

The veteran-student should direct a letter of application to the Veterans Administration containing the following information: The name and location of the institution to which he wishes to transfer, the course he has been following, the course he proposes to follow at the new institution, his reason for desiring to make the change, and any other pertinent facts having a bearing on his request.

Each request must contain, or be accompanied by, an endorsement by an official of the first institution indicating that the conduct and progress of the veteran is satisfactory.

TARNATION STAFF

There will be a meeting of all Tarnation contributors and prospective staff members this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the new Tarnation office in the basement of Graham Memorial.

Ten Students Tapped By Golden Fleece; Kay Kyser Re-Tapped, Receives Plaque

Sigma Chi, Chi O Win Valkyrie Sing

Sigma Chi fraternity walked away with the men's honors at the annual Valkyrie Sing, the choral competition held last night in Memorial hall following the Fleece tapping. The winner of the women's loving cup was Chi Omega sorority.

In the women's division the complete list of Sing contestants and their entries was as follows: McIver dormitory, "Four Seasons at Carolina"; Smith dormitory, "Harmony Harbor"; Sigma Alpha Iota musical sorority, "Temperance"; Alpha Delta Pi, "Golden Wedding"; Chi Omega, "South American Songs"; Alpha Gamma Delta, "Night and Day"; Delta Delta Delta, "After Dark"; and Pi Beta Phi, "1:10 on Saturday Night".

In the men's section the groups who entered and their productions were: Everett dormitory, "UMTee; Phi Delta Theta, "The Alma Maters of the NC Big Four"; Phi Kappa Sigma, "Four Years of College"; and Sigma Chi, "Farmer's Fantasy".

Three fraternities who were listed on the program but withdrew from the contest were Sigma Nu, Lambda Chi Alpha, and Delta Kappa Epsilon.

The judges for the Sing were Robert Shenkkan of the radio department; Gene Stryker of the music department; and Robert "Spike" Nelson, assistant pastor of the University Methodist church.

Training Program Starts for Coeds

Mrs. Betty Rose Dowden and the Rev. Charles M. Jones will speak on "Leadership-Fellowship" at the first meeting of the Coed Leadership Training program tonight in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

All coeds, and particularly newly-elected officers, are urged to attend this mass meeting to aid in increased cooperation and unity among women students. New officers will go directly from the mass meeting to their discussion groups, where girls acquainted with the duties of a particular office will lead informal discussions.

Ruth Evans and Bill Lloyd will lead the discussion on presidents and vice-presidents in Roland Parker lounge No. 1, and Julia Ross and Betsy Ann Barbee on secretaries in Roland Parker lounge No. 2. Marshall Spears and Helen Xanthos will instruct treasurers in the Woman's council room.

UP MEETING

The University party will meet this afternoon at three o'clock in Graham Memorial. Attendance of all representatives or alternates is requested, according to Chairman Thurman Williams.

Dean Mackie To Inaugurate New Officers

E. L. Mackie, dean of students, will make the charge and administer oaths to student leaders tonight at a mass inauguration of all newly-elected officers in Gerrard hall at 8:30.

Attorney General Seotty Venable announced yesterday that Dr. Frank Graham will be unable to attend the ceremony as originally planned due to a previous engagement.

The inauguration, which will be presided over by Vice-President Jack Folger, marks the conclusion of the 1947-48 student government administration. As of tonight the responsibility for campus government will rest with the new officers.

Jess Dedmond, new president of the student body, and Tom Eller, retiring president, will speak at the inauguration. At the conclusion of the ceremony incoming Vice-President Jim Godwin will take over as presiding officer of the meeting.

An informal banquet will also be held tonight at 7 o'clock in the Carolina Inn preceeding the inauguration for student leaders and University administration officials. The banquet, which is being sponsored by the student govment and financed by the Student Orientation committee's entertainment fund, and will give new student leaders a chance to become acquainted with administration officials.

President Tom Eller has urged all campus leaders to be present tonight at the inauguration.

'Cyrano' Tryouts To Be Held Today

Public tryouts for "Cyrano de Bergerac," which will be produced next month by the Carolina Playmakers, will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Forest theater. In case of rain, the tryouts will be held in Memorial hall.

Foster Fitz-Simons of the Playmaker staff is to direct the production and Lynn Gault, scene designer, is already at work on the settings.

Fitz-Simons said yesterday, "There are many parts for women, as well as men, which must be cast, and we are hoping for a large turnout of students who are interested in taking part."

"Cyrano de Bergerac" will be presented in the famed out-door Forest theater on May 21, 22, 23, and will be the last major production of the Playmakers' thirtieth season.

EISENHOWER CLUB

The Eisenhower-for-President club meets this afternoon at 4:30 in Graham Memorial.

Society Also Picks 'Coach Bob' Fetzer

By Charlie Gibson

Along with ten University students and a faculty member, Kay Kyser, Tar Heeldom's famed band leader and radio star, was honored last night at the annual Golden Fleece tapping ceremonies in Memorial hall.

Athletic Director Robert A. Fetzer, better known as "Coach Bob" was initiated into the Fleece as an honorary faculty member.

The ten students chosen for their distinctive records in special activities and general all-round excellence of character and leadership were: Lyn Szafaryn, Amridge, Pa.; William K. Tate, Morristown, Tenn.; William C. Friday, Dallas, N. C.; Basill Sherrill, Gastonia; Charles S. Venable, Wallingford, Pa.; Wayne Brenengan, La Crosse, Wisc.; William Robert Coulter, Chapel Hill; John A. Kirkland, Wilson; Ernest J. House, Marion; and Jess Dedmond, Cliffside.

This Year's Officers

The Fleece officers for the past year who were revealed for the first time last night were Ralph Strayhorn, Jason; Charlie Fulton, vice-Jason; Charlie Warren, Grammateus; and Bob Stockton, Christopher.

An extra surprise of the evening came when Kyser, who was active in the Fleece back in 1927, was re-tapped and presented a handsome hand-carved plaque bearing the Golden Fleece insignia.

Presenting the plaque, Jason Strayhorn said Kyser's "impelling urge to serve North Carolina set him upon a Good Health crusade in this state which will result in the longer life and building of hospitals and clinics for all North Carolinians. No alumnus has better exemplified by constant devotion and noble precept the traditional spirit of this institution and this Order."

Kyser Inducted

Kyser and the other neophyte Fleecemen were inducted into the select order after they were singled out from the audience by black-robed figures moving slowly up and down the aisles of the darkened hall with a large por-

(See FLEECE, page 4)

UNC Concert Band Will Appear Sunday

The University Concert band makes its first appearance of the year in Hill hall at 8:30 next Sunday.

The band is directed by Earl Slocum, well-known to both students and townspeople for his work in directing the band at football games and for spring and summer lawn concerts. Slocum is a member of the American Bandmasters's association.

Hubert Henderson, graduate assistant in the Music department, has assisted Slocum for several years in work with the musical organizations.

The program will feature William Fitzgerald, clarinetist, in Solo de Concours. Fitzgerald, a clarinet student of Glen Haydon, is a senior music major from New Bern.

WESTERN N. C. CLUB

The Western North Carolina club is sponsoring a "free flowing" party at Hogans lake on Thursday for all students of Western North Carolina, club president Bud Reagan announced yesterday.

"There will be cars leaving GM at 2:30 and 3:30 Thursday afternoon and all students who plan to attend should pick up their tickets at the Y Tuesday between the hours of 9 and 2," Reagan said.

Negro Leader Says UNC Is Best Place For Colored Students to Be Admitted

Durham, April 19 —(UP)— A Negro leader has been quoted as saying today that if there is any place in the South where Negroes should be admitted as day students in a college, the University of North Carolina is the best place to start.

C. C. Spaulding of Durham, president of the world's largest Negro insurance firm, says that the Negro students who have applied for admission to the University of North Carolina are not trying to cause trouble. He also pointed out that when they finish their courses at the schools they are now attending, they will be unable to practice.

Two of the applicants are law students at North Carolina college at Durham, Negro college which has a law school but which is not recognized by the American Bar association.

An official in Chancellor Robert B. House's office reported today that Board of Trustees will meet in Raleigh on May 17 to review the applications. It was also reported that the only action which the Board could take would be to make a recommendation to the Legislature or to the governor.

Graduates of North Carolina college Law School may take the state bar exams but are not admitted to the American Bar association.

Spaulding says that race relations have improved, but not as much in the South as they should have. In his words, "If there is a place in the South where Negro students should be admitted as day students," and he emphasizes day students, "the University of North Carolina is the best place to start."

He says his motto is, "Keep on keeping at it." He brought out that very few people know the improvements that have been made in North Carolina, but he added, "We are still a long way from the shore."

The Negro insurance man also says he does not think the regional school plan under which several Southern states would band together to set up a school for Negroes will be successful.

HENDERSON CLUB

There will be a meeting of the Henderson-Carolina club tonight at 7 o'clock in the Horace Williams lounge. All members are urged to attend as officers for the coming terms will be elected.

Romantic Drama in French Will Be Given Next Week

A romantic drama by Dumas, "Henri III et Sa Cour," will be presented in French under the direction of Prof. Walter Creech of the University French department in the Playmakers theater here next Thursday and Friday, at 8:30.

There will be no admission charge, but according to the custom of French theaters, programs with a synopsis in English will be sold, the proceeds going to American aid to France, Professor Creech said.

Mlle. Genevieve Faucher, exchange student in the University from Algiers, takes the leading role in the drama that is full of intrigue, poisoning, assassinations and assignations at the dissolute French court of the late 16th century.

Other members of the cast are Dr. Urban T. Holmes of the French department; Elizabeth Savage, Henderson; Elizabeth Thomas, London, England; Jeanne Riden, Booneville; Otis Beeson, Greensboro; Phillip Kennedy, Charlotte; Bill Baskin, Macon, Ga.; Ed Duke, Raleigh; Floyd Ellington, Graham; Robert Walker, Kerr; Robert Hooper, Reidsville; Wesley T. Collier, Roanoke Rapids, and Joe Hutchinson, St. Cloud, Fla.

First produced in 1929, "Henry III et Sa Cour" created a sensation and started the vogue of romantic plays in 19th century France. Its author, better known in America for his novel, "The Three Musketeers", considered himself primarily a playwright, and "Henry II et Sa Cour" was his greatest success.

Alumni Association Schedules Convention Here for April 29

Plans for the annual Alumni assembly of the University of North Carolina Alumni association to be held here April 29 were announced today by Secretary J. Maryon Saunders.

Invitations have already been issued to officers and directors of the General Alumni association, officers of local alumni clubs, and officers of organized alumni classes. The meeting will cover a full day's program.

At 11 o'clock, April 29, the board of directors of the General Alumni association will meet. At 1 o'clock the alumni will join with the Faculty club in a luncheon at the Carolina Inn at which Chancellor Robert House will be principal speaker.

Immediately following the luncheon, faculty and administrative "panels" will lead discussions on enrollment trends, physical plant of the University, further improvement of instruction, research and faculty contact with new knowledge, and student life and counseling.

Judge Sam J. Ervin, Jr., alumni president, will preside at a dinner session, closing the day's program. Reports and business conducted at the evening session will include nomination of General Alumni association officers for 1948-49. Following a mail ballot of the alumni membership, new officers will be announced and installed at the Commencement alumni luncheon on June 7.

Regardless of Color

Between 200 and 250 students from 22 colleges and universities in the state of North Carolina got together in Raleigh over the weekend to act on legislation that the General Assembly, which they were imitating, never seems to get around to.

Noticeably absent from the proceedings on Capitol Hill were Davidson college and Eastern Carolina Teachers college, both of which refused to send delegations. Official delegations were absent from two well-known schools, Duke and State college, but students from those institutions were present and were officially seated, even though neither the Duke nor State student governments had recognized the Student Legislative Assembly enough to send representatives.

The Duke students showed up as a group and were seated as such, though they were split into three distinct factions — the Young Republicans, the Wallacites and the Middle-of-the-Roaders. Ten students from State appeared out of their legal quota of 25 and asked to be seated as delegates, which permission was granted them.

After more than two hours spent on election of officers, the House started in on the business end of its meeting in the regular House chambers in the capitol, while the Senate convened in Christ church across the street.

The legislation passed by the two houses has already been publicly recorded, but the most important thing in the convention was the manner in which the delegates, both white and Negro, conducted themselves in their relations both on the floors of the respective houses and informally between sessions.

A few incidents occured which marred what should have been a perfectly clean slate, but they were very few and hardly serious.

The State Student Legislature has proved by its second year as a bi-racial meeting, however, the students of institutions of higher education in North Carolina can work together harmoniously regardless of the color of their skins.

— C. H.

Our Right to Know

"The American Society of Newspaper Editors opposes all forms of censorship . . ."

Simply, emphatically the ASNE thus demonstrated its objection to giving up an inalienable American right: freedom of the press.

In Washington on Saturday the Society met, talked and put down before it gained strength a growing belief in some circles that in this period of crisis the government should have power to dictate what an editor could and what he could not put into his newspaper.

Though the DTH would not be hobbled to any great extent by censorship of commercial papers, nonetheless goes on record with the ASNE in opposing peacetime government control of newspapers — for that is what censorship would eventually mean.

During the early years of this decade of war American editors voluntarily refrained from printing news that would give aid or comfort to the enemy. It will do so in the next.

Even with editors practicing voluntary censorship, the government found it "necessary" to censor news. Why were we not told that through ignorance, negligence or bad judgement General MacArthur allowed 300 US planes to be destroyed on the ground in the Philippines? That happened in the early days of December, 1941. We learned of it in April, 1948. The Japs knew they had destroyed the planes. Why didn't we know?

The American people — whose stake in war is certainly as great as that of the generals — should know.

The ASNE is trying to protect our right to know. It deserves thanks from us all.

—B. S.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina. Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.

Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ..... ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager ..... T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor . . . . Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors . . Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associate Editors . . . . . Bob Sain, Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady
Society Editor . . . . . Weddy Thorp
Photographer . . Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. . . . . . Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. . . C. B. Mendenhall
Subscription Mgrs. . . . Jim King, Chan Pegram
Asst. Business Mgrs. . . Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. . . . Randall Hudson, Don Snow

NEWS STAFF: Herb Nachman, Charlie Gibson, Sally Woodhull, John Stump, Gordon Huffines, Jack Brown, Stewart McKeel, Margaret Gaston, Dan Wallace, Charlie Craven, Mark Sumner, Emily Baker, Doris Weaver, Harriet Sipple, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.

SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Larry Fox, Bill Kellam, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher, Mel Horowitz, Faith Adams, Anne Wells.

BUSINESS STAFF: James Crews, Jackie Rogers, J. C. Brown, Joe Williams, Gladys Cottrell, Bill Peebles, Neal Howard, Jr., Vin Snell, Candy Jonas, Kathryn McLean, Jim Brown, Baxter Morris, Ed Warton, Leonard Dudley, Jean Williams, Charmian Griffin.

Offices are located on the second floor of Graham Memorial with night office at Colonial Press, Inc., Carrboro. Telephones: Editorial, F-3361; Business, F-3371; Night office, 3337. Mailing address, Box 1080.

Carolina Carousel

Assembly Lacked Cool Reasoning; Split Left-Right

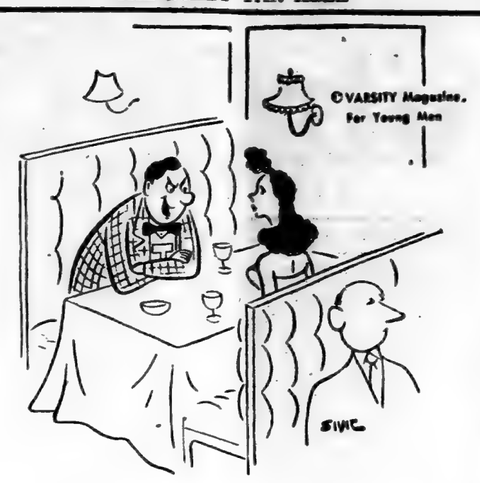
By R. Foo Giduz

It probably doesn't mean much to UNCollegiates on the whole . . . Only 32 wonderfully extroverted campus "wheels" of sundry squeaky and square natures were present . . . But the past weekend's Capital City session of the North Carolina State Student Legislative Assembly was indeed a neat reflection of the national scene today.

From a broad viewpoint the Assembly may be considered successful just in that it was held . . . But we viewed with unhappiness the crass factionalism which prevailed in the House from start to finish . . . —The all too-often emotional and irrational debates were a backsliding from the cool reasoning of previous Assemblies That is: Right opposed left on nearly every bill solely on the basis that if the "radicals" were "fer it," then by gum, the "solid citizens" were "agin it!" . . . Merits of an issue were too frequently not considered and debate seldom changed opinions or votes . . . Yep, just like the national scene.

— A couple chuckles, nevertheless: When discussion on a bill for the utilization of state surplus for educational purposes became slightly absurdly technical, Carolina's debate-dopey "Jolly Jake" Wicker threatened to introduce the following measure as a substitute but lost his nerve: "—That the state surplus be divided among the citizenry in direct proportion to the degree of mental disarrangement of each recipient." . . . (Hmmm, then we could retire!)

But on the other hand it seemed a pretty grim foreboding at another time . . .When during an education appropriation debate a UNC delegate quoted and endorsed Sen. Harry (Kari) Byrd to the following general effect: " . . . This is no time to spend money on education. War is imminent and funds should be utilized for preparedness" . . . Without being idealistic at all, leave us say that sentiment like that is precisely what will bring on war . . . Money for bombs but not books. Better we should all enlist now!



Though each delegation was quite cleaved within itself, paradoxically it was the lads from the great liberal UNC who for a change championed and rallied the right-wing of the group . . . Some compromises were reached, but each side was usually singularly uncrompomising in its stands . . . Delegates spoke against some measures not because of dislike of the bill itself, but because of fear of repercussions . . . Fear . . . That was it . . . Fear as it is all over the world now . . . At a time when courage is a necessity of life.

CORRECTION

An editorial on Thursday morning stated that the Communist party would "represent the Interests of Russia" in the United Nations forum being held tonight under sponsorship of CCUN. Such an invitation was extended to the Chapel Hill chapter of the Communist party by CCUN. However Junius Scales, chairman of the party chapter here, pointed out yesterday that "the Communist party is not representing the interests of Russia at the meeting; the Communist party had not accepted the invitation at the time the editorial appeared; the Communist party will speak for itself alone at the meeting and for no foreign country."

You mean we gotta have a reason?

"THIS IS WHAT I LIKE—GOOD FOOD, GOOD WINE, GOOD COMPANY, AND BAD THOUGHTS."

Write Away

Adams at Home in the Mud

Editor:

I am of the opinion that a great many loyal and patriotic Americans oppose UMT because they believe in what they are doing. However, there are a few people around who are appearently not in the least interested in the future preservation of the American way of life. These people would, however, have you believe that they were leading a great crusade for peace by opposing UMT.

Fortunately, even if other people do not always know them for what they really are, they seem to recognize their own qualities. Such a man, by his own admission, is Henry Adams.

In the Hill Hall meeting last Monday night Chancellor House did not attack the people who oppose UMT. He did, however, attack the odious minority groups inspired by foreign ideals, who attempt to hold closed meetings, on the campus, at which they adopt resolutions which they later try to pass off on the public as the opinion of the entire student body.

Appearently the shoe fit Mr. Adams for he was quick to recognize the description and put it on. I would like to compliment Adams for being so honest, but at the same time, although I am on the opposite side insofar as UMT is concerned, I resent the fact that he is so obviously attempting to drag all the opponents of UMT down into the mud where he seems to be so much at home.

Bill Corby

Policy Advice

Editor:

Bill Robertson's consistent preaching of Communist doctrine through his regular column in the Tar Heel needs clarification.

At least two choices are open to the editor of a democratic paper faced with the problem of allowing expression of all ideas yet maintaining the democratic integrity of his paper: (1) he might restrict anti-democratic comment to the letters section, or (2) he might allow full access to the editorial page, except for the editorial column itself.

The proper choice is probably a matter of wide disagreement. But at least it should be settled and stated by you as a matter of policy — and not be decided in Robertson's favor as a result of no policy at all.

Winston Broadfoot

Hat Tipping

Editor:

The big event in student government, the General Campus Elections, is history and we now know who will be in key positions for the next twelve months. All to often people tend to forget a man once he steps from the lime-light. I would like to take this opportunity to express publicly the respect that I believe the student body joins me in feeling for our retiring President of the Student Body.

Mr. Tom Eller has served in as capable, efficient, and practical fashion as any requirement or expectation could request of the man in that office. I believe that his administration will be forgotten, but remembered as a standard and example of good government of the students. I say that Tom Eller deserves and will have the gratitude of all the students who have seen his work.

President Eller was the first student government official I met in September, and my admiration has multiplied since that first day as he showed a group of us freshmen over the University campus. Since that time I have been introduced to him and for some reason he has seen fit to remember my name and speak whenever we meet. In my opinion that sort of fellow makes not only a good president but more importantly a good acquaintance.

So, Tom Eller, no matter how much criticism you may have received, here is one freshman who feels that a number of other people join him in tipping his hat to a great president in our appreciation of your service and as a token of our respect.

Erie Cofield

Facts

Editor:

The editorial in Saturday's Daily Tar Heel entitled "Lower Sunday Prices" looks like a blow below the belt, or a plug for Lenoir Hall. Mr. Buchan evidently did not check facts or tried to generalize on some isolated instance.

A check of the seven eating places open on Franklin Street this weekend failed to disclose any wide discrepancies in the prices charged for Sunday meals. The menues with the prices of three of them are on file in the Editor's office of the Daily Tar Heel.

The truth or the matter is most eating places off campus give table service for which the proprietors must pay something. Sundays usually find more food on the menues and a corresponding increase in price. Can we expect facts in the Daily Tar Heel?

The alleged rumor of a dictatorial power weiled by the Chapel Hill Merchants Association is entirely unfounded. "The Merchant's Association has absolutely nothing to do with private enterprise, and does not in any way dictate the prices of business concerns in Chapel Hill", said M. M. Timmons, one of the directors of the Chapel Hill Merchants Association.

Bob Barnes

(Ed's note: Yep.)

Vituperative

Editor:

It is unfortunate that the editor of the Tar Heel allowed-or o'ked-an editorial that was a blanket accusal of the restaurants in Chapel Hill. The editorial was vituperative - vindictive - and inexcusably went off half cocked!

To accuse those who are striving to give as much as they can as well as they are able is a disservice to those who try to serve you to the best of their ability.

If the writer of the lame editorial had facts he should have used them but also used names and not inadvertantly hurt the innocent or perhaps, it is the policy of the Tar Heel tohit and run.

Ben Schreiber

Campus Forum

Baretoot Folk With Cheek

By Pete Gerns

"Would you like to be able to attend classes barefoot?" was answered in the affirmative by a majority of students polled over the weekend. You can take your cue from the following answers:

"Yes. Ask any of us Georgia boys about that wonderful feeling of sand etc. squeezing between the toes." Charlie Loudermilk.

"Yes, it's about time we returned to the simple life." 'Hut' Craig.

"No — the students run around enough without trying to wear their legs down to the nubs." Sam Magill.

"Yes, 'cause maybe I'll get to class on time if I don't have as much to put on." Donnie MacDonald.

"Yes. Being a mountain country boy at heart and having a great love for nature and other such ballyhoo, I could think of few things better. I won't do it unless more than 930 do it and also Bob Kirby." Gran Childress.

"Yes - but only if they Sweep It Clean' (the floors, that is)." Pat Palmer.

"Yes; the best fad to hit the campus since the coming of the coed." Jack Sharp.

"Certainly. Chan Highsmith has been doing it for years." Ralph Strayhorn.

"Yes, definitely; what could be nicer than walking over the tradition-filled paths of our lovely campus without the confining aspects of those sorry objects sometimes referred to as SHOES." June Gilbert.

"Yes, being an Indian naturally." Len Butts.

"No. A size 7 looks better in shoes than out." Preston Hilton.

"Let's make it a beach while we're at it." Preston Hilton.

"I think it would be a good thing - due to the fact that the women on the campus need their feet cleaned now and then." Rex Kennedy.

"It would feel so good and give me a new feeling of youth." Al Luck.

"Will it cure athlete's foot?" Pete Whittemore.

This 'n That

Proot: High Prices On Sunday

By Bill Buchan

Returning from Raleigh after a very quite weekend in that city, it is rather disconcerting to find one's self faced with proving facts in an editorial. . namely the one with my initials that appeared in the DTH Saturday morning under the heading "Lower Sunday Prices."

Bob Barnes had complete menus from six out of seven Franklin street eating places with a challenge to prove my statements.

The menus that Barnes collected are from Danzigers, Harry's, Marathon, Porthole, Campus and the Coffee Shop. The University cafe did not submit a menu for observation and checking. After a carful checking of figures I find that out of the six sets, I have three that are proof of a raise in prices, three that are not. With the University that makes four out of the seven cafes that do have a noticable raise.

The University, (incidentally one of my two favorite places in town), virtually admitted its raises by declining to give Barnes the menus. From past observations, I have noticed that their $1.00 weekday items go up to $1.10, their 90c dishes to $1.00 and on down the list with a stop at 70c, when they usually have a 55c minimum on weekdays.

The three places where evidently I was wrong are Harry's the Marathon, and Danziger's. To these restaurants, I would commend them for their stand and offer them as an example for the others to follow. I would also recommend that students patronize them exclusively on Sundays.

On weekdays, the Coffee Shop has one $1 item and 4 items for 70c and under. On Sunday, they have six items from $1 up and their lowest price is one 70c item.

The Campus Cafe has two courses on Sunday, one for 90c and the other for 75c. They also add ice cream for dessert. On weekdays, their lowest price is 50c and their highest plate sells for 80c with rice pudding for dessert. The Porthole has one $1 item on weekdays, and three orders for 70c and under, not including a hot roast beef sandwich for 40c. On Sunday's they have a $1.50 and $1.10 order topping their menu with the lowest price of 75c for filet of flounder.

There are the figures. I readily admit that some of the higher items are improved for the Sunday meal, but people do not normally eat but one "big" meal on Sunday and yet the prices prevail all day. On Sunday night the fraternity dinning rooms are closed, doubling the number of people eating out. There is reason to believe then, that the restaurants have their best opportunity for making a profit on Sunday night.

The argument has been presented that many town people eat out on Sunday, therefore higher prices are warrented. If prices are raised for the towns people, then have a separate menu for them—but leave student prices alone.

When I wrote the editorial and as I prepared the figures for this column, I felt that there was no genuine reason for the differences in prices. It is not fair to the student in Chapel Hill, the cafes' biggest patron.

However, we are faced with a situation which we must accept or starve. I am not going to starve on Sunday, neither are many others, therefore we'll be forced to accept what is handed to us. I maintain, and I believe that the difference in prices is unfair. The menus, with my figures, are available in the DTH office for any who desire to look at them.

The Brassy Taste

'Sweep' Is Pleasant Satire

By Bob Sain

Politics has always been a fertile field for the gentlemen who write musical comedies—and considering such noted personages as Senator Glen Taylor and his geetar, Pappy O'Daniel and his string band and Harry Truman with piano, it's sometimes the other way around. At any rate, one more political satire set to music doesn't hurt. Especially if it is such a one as Robert Barr and Louise Myears' "Sweep It Clean" which opens for a two-night stand in Memorial Hall this evening.

(Your reviewer saw the final dress rehearsel Sunday.)

Tastefully served up by director Marty Jacogs and set to music by Frank Groseclose, a young man of indubitable talent, "Sweep It Clean" will make it quite painless for you to give a dollar to the Koch Memorial Fund, to which all profit accrue.

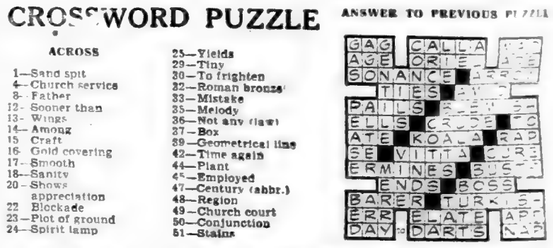
As a matter of fact, either the skilled doddering of Jim Geiger as Senator Julius P. Dodder or the screwball individuality of comenienne Pat Palmer will be well worth your lucre. Both Geiger and Miss Palmer are naturals for their roles—making stoge business count for laughs when lines and lyrics fail (a not unseldom occurance.)

Getting their share of chuckles were Sid Sherizer and Gloria Gunn. Sherizer, as stooge to Mayor Ross (surprisingly well-done by singer Forrest Covington), displayed an energetic enthusiasm that did much to keep the show moving. (Director Jacobs, working with an experienced cast, was able to pace the show fairly tightly though the script was slow at times.) Miss Gunn handled broadly — and correctly — her role as a WCTU lady.

Sam Greene and Hilda Frances Lafrence, the romantic leads, handled their musical assignments brightly and effectively. Their more than pleasant voices made up for a certain stiffness both exhibited in stage manner.

Edsel Hughes, as the father of two grown children, delivered his lines with a boyish gusto that seemed somehow out of place. To his credit, however, let it be said that he was consistent in his characterization.

The chorus was led by featured dancers Mary Jo Crain (who did the show is choreography) and Dick Johnson. Miss Cain's pert presence in ensemble numbers gave them a sparkle that would have been sorely missed without her.



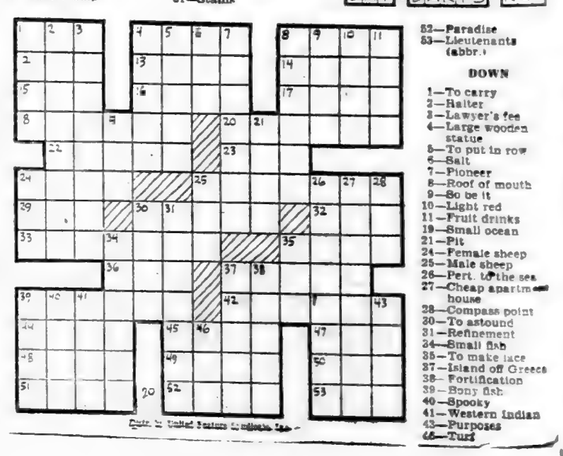
Frances Johnson contributed an apt and expressive amount of modern dance which made the early minutes of the second act, choreographically speaking, the most impressive of the evening.

James Riley came up with some bright sets that contributed to the generally rapid movement of the show. His use of scenes painted on glass and projected on a plain backdrop, as well as easily movable, semi-transparent screens will be welcomed by those persons who don't relish waiting a quarter hour for scene changes.

Composer Groseclose and Charles Stevens provided sufficient accompaniment for the songs (which were, for the most part, well done by the cast) with the pianos.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE



ACROSS

1—Sand spit
4—Church service
8—Father
12—Sooner than
13—Wings
14—Among
15—Craft
16—Gold covering
17—Smooth
18—Sanity
20—Shows appreciation
22—Blockade
23—Plot of ground
24—Spirit lamp
25—Yields
29—Tiny
30—To frighten
32—Roman bronze
33—Mistake
35—Melody
36—Not any (law)
37—Box
39—Geometrical line
42—Time again
44—Plant
45—Employed
47—Century (abbr.)
48—Region
49—Church court
50—Conjunction
51—Stains
52—Paradise
53—Lieutenants (abbr.)

DOWN

1—To carry
2—Halter
3—Lawyer's fee
4—Large wooden statue
5—To put in row
6—Salt
7—Pioneer
8—Roof of mouth
9—So be it
10—Light red
11—Fruit drinks
19—Small ocean
21—Pit
24—Female sheep
25—Male sheep
26—Pert. to the sea
27—Cheap apartment house
28—Compass point
30—To astound
31—Refinement
34—Small fish
35—To make lace
37—Island off Greece
38—Fortification
39—Bony fish
40—Spooky
41—Western Indian
43—Purposes
46—Turf

Bobbing in Sports

—with—

Bob Goldwater

A Look at the Record

ANY TIME A SCHOOL sports an .883 percentage in its athletic endeavors, no matter what the activity, it can consider its season to be moving along successfully. With that in mind, Carolina's spring sports slate can definitely be termed a great success, for a look at the record shows that Tar Heel athletes on four varsity fronts have amassed the terrific total 26 victories against only three losses and a lone tie.

That means that in the two weeks since we last reviewed how the spring sports were coming along, the four teams have been travelling at a 16-2 clip. When one considers the opposition that has been faced—Wake Forest and three other conference schools in baseball; Williams, Michigan and Cincinnati, among others, in tennis; Michigan, Williams and Virginia in golf; and Georgia Tech and Virginia in track—the record seems to grow in stature.

It stands to continue to grow this coming week. John Kenfield's netters are expected to add three more entries in the win column. Dale Ranson's track crew is favored to gain a victory in its lone outing of the week, while the baseballers of Bunn Hearn and Walt Rabb, though meeting two tough opponents in Duke and N. C. State, ought to make a good showing in both scuffles.

Out to the Ball Game

THAT TIME OF THE year for consulting one's favorite method of prognostications and thereupon sticking his neck way out has arrived! We refer, of course, to the opening of the 1948 major league baseball season, which many sports writers have already heralded by their forecasts on how the respective pennant races will finish next October 3. We'll add four more to the list.

According to the DTH survey, it's the Red Sox, 3 to 1. Billy Carmichael III, Larry Fox and yours truly are agreed in predicting that the Boston club will romp off with the bunting in the junior circuit, while Dick Jenrette foresees another flag for the New York Yankees.

There's even more disagreement over in the National league. Carmichael and Fox are of the opinion that the Brooklyn Dodgers will continue to lead the field, Jenrette predicts that the St. Louis Cardinals will regain their top position, and we personally think that the Braves will do their share toward providing Boston with its first subway series.

Of the 16 major league clubs, the four sports staffers agree in their selection for only one. And the lone unanimous pick doesn't see great things in store for one team, namely the St. Louis Browns. We have yet to hear of anyone who thinks the Brownies can possibly escape the AL cellar, unless manager Zach Taylor has that opinion.

Surprise Selections

OUR SURPRISE CHOICES for 1948 are right up near the top in the National league selections. A lot of people may think that first and second are one or two slots too high for the Braves and the Giants. That's just the way we feel about the Cards and Dodgers.

Boston, in our opinion, has the smartest manager in the National league, two of the very best pitchers, and a good all-around team in both hitting and fielding. Such a combination is hard to beat—and we don't think it will be.

As for the Giants, we feel that for the first time in many years, they have a chance to be a pennant contender all the way. True, they lack pitching depth, but with their own power-plus version of Murderer's Row, the Ottmen can spare their opponents a few runs and still win a lot of ball games.

REGARDING THE COVERAGE of the majors in the Daily Tar Heel, we plan to run the daily scores along with the winning and losing pitchers and home run hitters for the day.

Below are the tabulated predictions of the four staff writers:

Bob Goldwater	Bill Carmichael	Dick Jenrette	Larry Fox
NATIONAL LEAGUE
Boston	Brooklyn	St. Louis	Brooklyn
New York	St. Louis	Brooklyn	Boston
St. Louis	New York	Boston	St. Louis
Brooklyn	Boston	Cincinnati	New York
Cincinnati	Cincinnati	New York	Philadelphia
Pittsburgh	Pittsburgh	Chicago	Cincinnati
Philadelphia	Chicago	Pittsburgh	Pittsburgh
Chicago	Philadelphia	Philadelphia	Chicago
AMERICAN LEAGUE
Boston	Boston	New York	Boston
New York	New York	Boston	New York
Detroit	Cleveland	Detroit	Cleveland
Cleveland	Detroit	Cleveland	Philadelphia
Philadelphia	Philadelphia	Washington	Detroit
Washington	Chicago	Chicago	Washington
Chicago	Washington	Philadelphia	Chicago
St. Louis	St. Louis	St. Louis	St. Louis

Frosh Netmen Oppose Danville Today

Carolina's freshmen tennis squad will be seeking its initial win of the season against Danville High school on the local courts this afternoon at 3 o'clock. In their two previous outings, both against Duke, the Tar Baby netters ended up on the low end of the score.

Slated to get the number one position is Bob Luxenberg, followed in the second spot by Paul Keenen. Tom Southerland will take care of the third spot, followed by Guy Kirby and Don McLeod in the fourth and fifth positions respectively. Playing in sixth place will be Conrad Stewart.

The doubles combinations are yet to be announced by Coach Kenfield.

WE HELP YOUR DOCTOR TO HELP YOU TO HEALTH

We can fill any prescription that your doctor writes

CAROLINA PHARMACY

Netters Sport Potent Record Of 12 Straight

By Dave Ferebee

Coach John Kenfield's highly-touted Carolina netters swing back into Southern Conference competition this week with a full schedule of three matches against loop opponents.

The local racquetmen volley with their perennial rivals, the Duke Blue Devils, in a match set for Durham on Wednesday afternoon to open the week's activities, Wake Forest will provide the opposition here on Thursday afternoon, and on Saturday, the Tar Heels journey to Charlotte, where they encounter the Wildcats of Davidson. Carolina is favored to cop all three of the matches and extend its season winning streak to 14 straight.

One Loop Foe

Thus far, the Tar Heels have met but one conference foe, N. C. State. That match resulted in a decisive 9-0 victory for the Chapel Hill outfit, thereby getting the team off to a good start in its quest to regain the loop championship from William and Mary.

The Tar Heels and Indians are not slated to meet until May 1, and that match will be played in Williamsburg, Va. The two clubs meet in only one dual match this year, so Chapel Hill net enthusiasts won't get a chance to see the two battle until the loop tourney gets underway here on May 13. William and Mary, minus several of its top-flight stars from last year, including Gardner Larned, is undefeated again this season and is the co-favorite with Carolina to win the title. The Indians handed the Tar Heels their only regular season defeat last year.

At present, Carolina is sporting a record of 12 straight victories having beaten Yale three times, Williams, twice, and Harvard, Cornell, Cincinnati, N. C. State, Michigan, and Virginia once each.

Unbeaten Players

Leading the squad in won-loss records are Clark Taylor, Don Skakle, and Sam Daniels. Taylor, No. 2 man has won 12 and lost none. The unheralded Skakle has won eight against no defeats, while Daniels has won four while losing none.

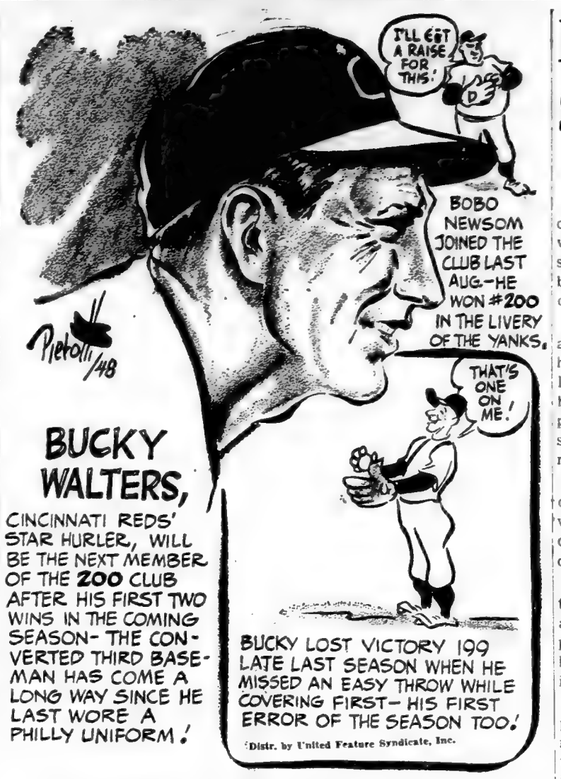
Following the undefeated trio, is Captain Vic Seixas with an 11-1 record, Ray Morris, 11-1, Charlie Rice, 11-1, and Heath Alexander, 8-1. Seixas suffered his lone defeat at the hands of Dick Savitt of Cornell. After winning ten straight matches, Morris was defeated by Wyche of Virginia, while Rice lost his single setback to Baldwin of Yale.

The rest of the roster finds Duke Wilder with a 1-0 record, Stan Gruner, 3-2, Dameron, 2-0, Ingram, 1-0, and Gallion, 1-1.

Doubles Record

In doubles competition, Coach Kenfield has been experimenting all season. Top performances have been given by the Skakle-Alexander combination which has won eight and lost none. They are followed by Seixas-Taylor with a 5-2 record and Rice-Morris, 5-1. Other combinations and their records are Taylor-Rice, 2-0, Alexander-Daniels, 1-0, Skakle-Wilder, 1-0, Seixas-Gruner, 1-0, Seixas-Wilder, 1-0, Daniels-Dameron, 2-0, Gruner-Gallion, 2-0, Wilder-Gruner, 1-0 Daniels- Gruner, 0-1, and Wilder-Ingram, 0-1.

Have you heard?



'bout the new campus barbershop, I mean. Those barbers are good — and fast as well.

GM BARBER SHOP

GRAHAM MEMORIAL

Basement

Runners Ready for State Meet Saturday; Wolfpack to Provide Stiff Competition

With the taste of victory still fresh in their mouths, the trackmen of Coach Dale Ranson will be seeking to notch their second triumph of the current campaign against the Wolfpack of State Saturday in Raleigh.

The Tar Heel trackmen will enter this contest as a definite favorite. Their 78 2-3 to 47 1-3 conquest of Virginia proved to the doubters that they are improving with each meet. In the season's opener, the tracksters surprised all by holding mighty Georgia Tech to a slim seven point victory and then last Thursday rose to the heights.

State, on the other hand, while holding a 71-60 win over the University of South Carolina, will probably offer little competition for the small margin of their win over the Gamecocks is indicative of little strength since the Gamecock's are not considered as a very strong contender for Conference laurels.

Leading The Pack

Leading the host of Wolfpack cindermen will be Chambers, Byler, and Goldberg. Chambers is the most versatile of the Raleigh lads holding the Southern Conference 220 yard dash championship and also performs in the 220 low hurdles, 110 high hurdles, 100-yard dash, and 440 yard run. In all probability, he will enter four of these events. Byler tosses the shot and discus while Goldberg is an accomplished sprinter.

It is possible that a few of the Carolina stand-outs will not be on hand for the meet since they might partake in the Penn Relays. However, no definite decision has been reached.

The success of the track team, or for that matter, any athletic squad depends not only on the headliners, but on the virtual unknowns who spend just as much, if not more, sweating and straining on the practice field. The University has one man in parti-

(See TRACK, page 4)

Five Local Golfers Among 32 Qualifyers

Pinehurst, N. C., April 19—Five Tar Heel golfers were among the 32 that qualified to start match play tomorrow in the North-South Amateur tournament being held here.

Leading the Tar Heel aggregation is Carolina's number one man, Harvie Ward, with a 74. Following Ward is Harvie Oliver, who shot a 77. Bob Cox and Frank Brooks follow in the next two spots with 79 and 80, respectively. Jack Brantley was the last qualifying Tar Heel with 82 points.

Mural Results

14	Misfits	Club H-2-3	3
22	Med. School	Stanley Steam.	7
13	Law School	Stacy	12
14	Lewis 1	Clippers	7
25	Mud Dobbers	Nash	5
12	DKE 1	Pi Lamb 2	8
5	Chi Phi 2	Phi Delt	0
23	SAE 2	AEPi	10
17	Sig Nu 1	St. A	6
20	Phi Gam 3	PiKA 1	4
15	Kap Sig 2	DKE 2	2
16	Phi Delt 1	SAE 1	10
9	Beta 1	Sig Ep	6
10	ATO 2	Chi Psi 2	7
21	Chi Psi 1	ATO 1	7
10	Phi Kap 1	Zeta Psi 1	9

TWO BLOCKS WEST OF CITY HALL

You'll Find A Solution To All Laundry Problems

HELPY-SELFY

AUTOMATIC LAUNDRY

Bendix Machines

W. Rosemary St.

DINNER JACKETS

$22.50 up

GET YOURS NOW!

"where Carolina men meet"

MILLER-BISHOP CO.

"CLOTHIERS TO GENTLEMEN"

118 CORCORAN STREET - - - - - - - - - DURHAM

Intramural Track Meet Enters Semi-Final Competition Today

By Bill Gallagher

This afternoon at 4 o'clock down on Fetzer Field is the hour when all good intramural cinder stars will gather together and battle it out in the semi-finals of their track meet.

Trials for entrants in the 60 and 100-yard dashes, 70-yard high hurdles, 120-yard low hurdles and 300-yard run will be held to determine who will compete in the finals of the big track show to be held tomorrow afternoon.

Men entered in the shot put, discus, and broad jump events will also come down and finish qualifying for the finals in these divisions.

No semi-finals will be held in the high jump and pole vault and all men who equalled or surpassed the qualifying marks will be fighting it out for the top spot in tomorrow's finals.

The names of the men competing in the 440 and 880-yard relays and the 3-4 mile run were turned in to the intramural office by the entering dormitory and fraternity groups last week and will go to the post tomorrow without any semi-final competition.

An overwhelming total of 66 fraternity and 36 dormitory men turned out yesterday afternoon to try to capture one of the 24 available positions in today's trials in the 100-yard dash. Tom Jordan of ATO was the speedster of the day with a 10.7 mark in the 100-yard dash.

All men who turned in a time of 11.7 or better in the fraternity division and 12.26 in the dormitory trials should report this afternoon for the semi-finals in the 100-yard dash.

No less than 82 fraternity men showed up to fight for the 24 places in the 60-yard dash event.

Qualifying mark in the 60-yard dash event is 7.31 for the fraternity men and 7.65 for the dormitory tracksters and all who equalled or bettered this time should also report.

Monogram Inductions

Twenty-one new letter-winners will be inducted into the Monogram club this evening when the group meets at 7:30 in 304 Woollen, President Bill Pritchard announced yesterday.

Another feature of the meeting will be a short talk by swimming coach Dick Jamerson.

Tar Heels, Undefeated in Conference, Prep for Blue Devil Contest Tomorrow

Carolina's baseball legions, undefeated both in Southern conference and Big Four play, bathed in the warm sun at Emerson stadium yesterday afternoon while running a rugged and lengthy diamond drill in preparation for tomorrow's Big Four encounter with Duke's improved Blue Devils at Durham.

Not content to rest on the laurels of Tommy Andrew's two-hit pitching conquest of Greenville's Coastal Plain league team last Saturday, Coaches Hearn and Rabb placed a lot of emphasis on hitting during the drills in hopes of strengthening the Tar Heels' power at the plate.

A lot of time was spent in working up a defense against sacrifices, while on the offensive end, the double steal was emphasized. Practice will continue today and a scrimmage game will probably be played between the jayvee squad and the varsity.

Coombs of Duke

Both Hearn and Rabb have a high regard for Coach Jack Coombs of Duke and they couldn't say just who will start on the mound for Carolina tomorrow. "It all depends on whether Duke switches their lineup around any before game time," Hearn said. The starters, however, will be either southpaw ace Vinnie DiLorenzo or righthander Frank Robinson.

The Blue Devils rest in fifth place in Southern conference standings and pulled into a third-place tie with Wake Forest in Big Four standings by virtue of their Saturday win over State.

But Carolina still remains the class of the SC along with Washington and Lee's Generals, who have won six games to the Tar Heels' five. Latest addition to Carolina's string of wins came last Thursday when Furman university was defeated, 4-3.

Southern Conference Standings:

	W	L	R	Op
Wash. and Lee	6	0	50	19
North Carolina	5	0	41	12
Virginia Tech	3	1	19	19
Wake Forest	4	2	32	17
Duke	4	3	45	17
N. C. State	3	3	39	35
Richmond	1	1	16	16
South Carolina	2	5	38	62
Clemson	2	6	33	40
Furman	1	5	26	52
Maryland	0	0	00	00
The Citadel	0	0	00	00
V. M. I.	0	0	00	00
Geo. Washington	0	1	8	9
William & Mary	0	1	2	3

—Makings— In the Majors

By United Press

AMERICAN LEAGUE

New York 12, Washington 4
WP—Reynolds; LP—Wynn.

Philadelphia 5, Boston 4.
WP—Marchildon; LP—Dobson.

Philadelphia 4, Boston 2.
WP—Brissie; LP—Galehouse.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

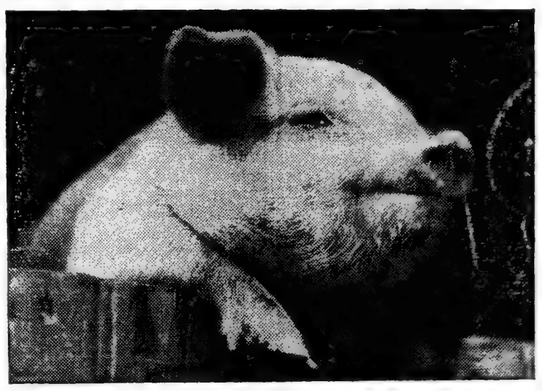
Cincinnati 4, Pittsburgh 1.
WP—Blackwell; LP—Gregg.

FURNITURE . . .

• Upholstered • Refinished
• Repaired • Made to Order

Charles Valentine's Cabinet Shop

PHONE 9367 — PITTSBORO RD.



Complete Selection Of

DIAL
BE-BOP
And Hot Jazz

Records At—

Ab's Intimate Bookshop

Warren K. Vieth* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger Nail Test

DON'T be a pig. You'll only end up a ham. Don't selfishly spend all your money on your girl. Spend some on yourself. Start grooming your hair with Wildroot Cream Oil and look doggy! Just a little bit of Wildroot Cream-Oil grooms your hair neatly and naturally without that greasy, slicked-down look. Relieves annoying dryness and removes loose, ugly dandruff. Helps you pass the Finger-nail Test! And Wildroot Cream-Oil hair tonic is non-alcoholic — contains soothing Lanolin. Get a tube or bottle of Wildroot Cream-Oil at any drug or toilet goods counter today. And ask your barber for a professional application. Don't be piggish — get the large economy size so your roommate can share it—(he will anyway).

* of 23 Hamilton Drive, Snyder, N. Y.

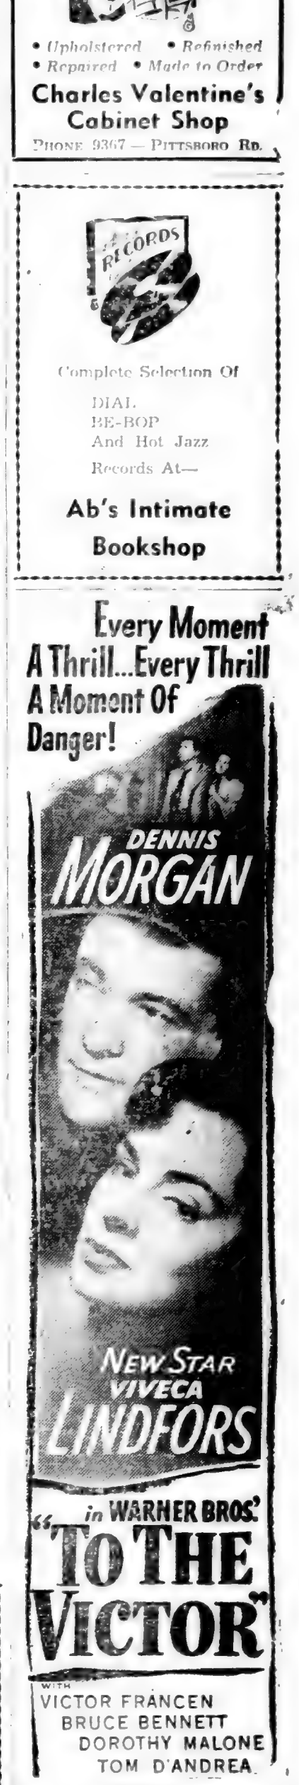
Wildroot Company, Inc., Buffalo 11, N. Y.



Wildroot Cream-Oil

Get it at

SUTTON'S DRUG STORE

Your Walgreen Agency

Third Tarnation Due Tomorrow Before Editor Hodgson Retires

By John Stump

The third issue of Tarnation, originally scheduled to be presented March 30, should be out and almost completely distributed to the campus by sometime tomorrow.

This issue, the last effort for retiring Editor Tookie Hodgson, is most notable for a candid picture of an import written, according to its by-line, by a Joanna Palfrey. However, the absence of Miss Palfrey's name from the student directory has started a persistent rumor that Hodgson was the author of the sketch.

Done in the form of three letters, one to date "Herbie," one to Mother, and one to best friend "Agnes" — all concerning the same weekend at Carolina, the "Confessions" should rank as the best yet for the still young magazine.

An editorial by Tom Kerr giving another once-over to the Carolina magazine, a Sigsbee Miller profile of the incumbent editor, and a sarcastic two page chuckle concerning the Outhouse Party's nomination of a candidate for editor of Tarnation add up to the impression that this edition of the magazine takes the form of a last Bronx cheer by Terrible Took who is about to hand over the magazine to newly elected editors.

Both of these men, incidentally, have work featured in the new mag. Tom Wharton has drawn a mind's eye view of the contrast between import and coed and a typical intellectual sipping Viennese coffee. Both cartoons should be clicks.

Incoming co-editor Bob Smith has contributed a less impressive piece to the issue. But his mythical quiz program is pretty funny in spots and the ribbing he gives this latter-day institution argues well for better things to come.

The remainder of the content of the well-laid-out issue has virtue chiefly for its ability to fill space. A few less than side-splitting old jokes and some better than average ad layout complete a magazine that should raise Tarnation's laugh average at least a little.

-Fleece-

(Continued from page 1)

tion of the student body looking on in suspense.

Only when each initate was pounced upon by one of these figures did a beam of searchlight identify him. The chosen eleven were not notified in advance. Although Kyser naturally was aware of his role beforehand. However, he too, was sought out and "re-tapped."

The band leader and a number of other prominent alumni-members form all over the State were special guests of the Fleece at a supper in the Carolina Inn in honor of the new members following the tapping, the order's one public meeting of the year.

-Track-

(Continued from page 3)

cular whose work has been overlooked due to the fact that there is someone else around who happens to be a superlative in his field. The person to whom the reference is made is Bill Joyner.

Joyner Jumps

Several times this year Joyner has high jumped 6' 2" which would probably win any track meet in the Conference. However, the only mention he got was in the summary since Jack Moody was up to his usual form and sailing over the bar at 6' 4". Other men in the event are Fred Saunders and Dough Smith.

PREPARED TO PREVENT the outbreak of trouble at polling places in Rome squads of police and soldiers took up posts in all sections of the Italian capital as voters turned out for the vital elections. Here a typical "squad car" drives up as queues of voters begin to gather.
(International Radiophoto)

Veterans to Draw Subsistance Raise

Although most veterans attending school under the GI Bill will find increases in the subsistence checks they receive on or about May 1, those with more than one dependent may not begin drawing their full $120 a month immediately.

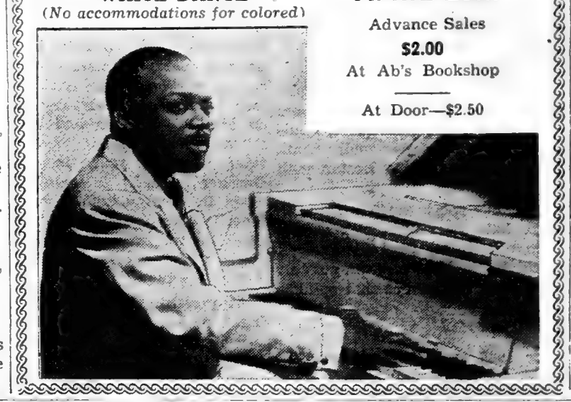
Ex-servicemen in this category must furnish the Veterans Administration with proof of additional dependency, and VA explained today that the tremendous job of processing these papers may delay full payments. VA promised, however that everything possible would be done to expedite the work.

Subsistence allowances will be raised automatically from $65 to $75 for veterans without dependents and from $90 to $105 for those with dependents. Where a veteran with more than one dependent establishes a second dependency with VA, his allowance will be boosted from $105 to $120.

PRE-SCHOOL CLINIC

The pre-school clinic will be held at the Chapel Hill elementary school Thursday from 9 until 12 o'clock. All children who plan to enter school next fall should attend the clinic which will be held on the basement floor of the elementary building. Beginners must be six years old by October 1 to enroll. Names of all beginning students should be turned in to Miss Mildred Mooneyhan, principal of the Chapel Hill elementary school.

JEFFERSON COUNTY CLUB



The Jefferson county club will meet tonight at 7:30 in room Alumni.

Campus Calendar

4:00 p. m.—Try-outs for "Cyrano de Bergerac", Forest theater.
4:30 p. m.—Eisenhower for President club, Graham Memorial.
5:00 p. m.—Pan-Hellenic council, Grail room.
7:00 p. m.—Coed Leadership training program mass meeting, main lounge, Graham Memorial.
7:00 p. m.—Henderson club, Horace Williams lounge.
7:00 p. m.—Pi Kappa Phi, Roland Parker lounge No. 1.
7:00 p. m.—Sigma Kappa Epsilon, Grail room.
7:00 p. m.—Parliamentary Procedure course, 105 Caldwell.
7:45 p. m.—Coed discussion of presidents and vice presidents, Roland Parker lounge No. 1.
7:45 p. m.—Coed discussion of secretaries, Roland Parker lounge No. 2.
7:45 p. m.—Coed discussion of treasurers, Women's council room.
8:00 p. m.—Delta Tau Delta, Grail room.
8:30 p. m.—"Sweep It Clean," Memorial hall.
8:30 p. m.—Inauguration ceremony for new student leaders, Gerrard hall.
9:00 p. m.—Alpha Epsilon Delta, Grail room.

The modern Belgian horse is a descendant of the Flemish horse used by the Roman armies.

COUNT BASIE
And His Orchestra
PLANTERS WAREHOUSE
DURHAM
WHITE DANCE
(No accommodations for colored)
TONIGHT — 8 - 12 p.m.
APRIL 20th
Advance Sales
$2.00
At Ab's Bookshop
At Door—$2.50

A DIFFERENT KIND OF LOVE STORY!
Filled with burning dreams... and a miracle that stirred all America!
Jesse L. Lasky Productions, Inc. presents
RUSSELL JANNEY'S
'THE MIRACLE OF THE BELLS'
Starring FRED MacMURRAY
VALLI
FRANK SINATRA
—TODAY—
VILLAGE

Buy Olag
Users of modern Olag Tooth Paste, compounder with oil, report remarkably healthier gums, whiter teeth, less stains and tarter and say, "I like the way it makes my mouth feel." Use Olag yourself and watch results!
DENTAL HEALTH
OLAG TOOTH PASTE
AT ALL DRUG STORES

Lloyd Electric Co.
F-3862 CARRBORO
Sales & Service
For
• L&H ELECTRIC STOVES
• JUD-WHITEHEAD & RED CROWN HOT WATER HEATERS
We specialize in wiring new construction and in general repair.

PRESCRIPTIONS
Filled Promptly
ACCURACY AND DEPENDABILITY
—at—
SUTTON'S DRUG STORE

CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE 6B

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed and being completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogerson Drive. Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. Telephone F-2906. (1-ch1x2-1)

24 FOOT GLIDER HOUSE TRAILER. Lot number 76, University Trailer Court for married couples, or box 701, Chapel Hill. (1-137-1)

SEVEN COLLIE-SHEPARD PUPpies. Sire, Prince Buff III, pure bred English Collie. Dam, White, a Shepard. C. R. Taylor, No. 71 Trailer Court. Phone 9032. (1-145-1)

THREE ROOM ALMA HOUSE TRAILer: electric refrigerator, innerspring mattress, excellent location. Inquire at No. 95 Pittsboro Road Trailer Court after 5 Mon-Sat. (1-142-1)

SOFA-BED. A HANDSOME SOFA, makes into comfortable full-sized bed. Excellent condition, used 3 months. Sacrifice $50.00. Call 9878 or see at 511 Pritchard. (1-252-1)

BABY CARRIAGE PRACTICALLY new. Bathinette in good condition. Call 5451 after 6 p. m. or come to 517 Rosemary. (-c147-1)

BOYS BICYCLE $17.50. GIRLS BIcycle $20.00. Both in good condition, ready to ride. Can be seen after 5:30. Perry Payne, 110 Daniels Road, Victory Village. (1-251-1)

SERVICES OFFERED 19

ALL MAKES OF LAWN MOWERS repaired, machine sharpened. Axes, hatchets, scythes also sharpened. Tripps Lawn Mower Repair Shop or see John Tripp, Carrboro Shoe Shop. (ch 1x1) Inquire between 5 and 6 p.m. (1-115-1)

COMPLETE MODERN RADIO APpliance service shop now open and ready to serve you. We call for, deliver. Johnson-Strowd-Ward Furniture, 422 W. Franklin. Telephone F-3491. (ch 1x1)

24 HOUR RADIO REPAIRS. OGBURN Furniture Co., Phone 5841. (ch 1x1)

WANTED TO RENT 24B

HOUSE OR COTTAGE WITH TWO OR more bedrooms for student and family from now until end of second summer session. Furnished or unfurnished. Call 9472. (1-150-1)

Planning Any
Week-Ends at the Beach
in April & May?
We have 16 apartments and a 10 room house available for house parties up until June 1st.
For reservations write
ALLEN BARBEE
Box 243
Spring Hope, N. C.

University Florist
"For the Best in Flowers"
Pick Theatre Bldg.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Telephone 9818

Bull's Head Bookshop
HIRAM HAYDN—The Time Is Noon
Browse — Rent — Buy

'Round the Clock WITH TRAILWAYS
No matter what time you travel the chances are there's a convenient Trailways departure to where you wish to go. Frequent departures and comfortable, modern buses make visits to neighboring towns a matter of minutes. Trips to distant centers over direct routes on thru buses are quicker than you realize.
Begin today, plan your trips via Trailways. You'll enjoy them—and you'll save! Call the terminal below for all information.
Chapel Hill Bus Station
311 W. Franklin St.
Phone 4281
Carolina TRAILWAYS
THE ROUTE OF THE Trailmasters

PHILIP MORRIS offers the smoker an extra benefit found in no other cigarette. For PHILIP MORRIS is the ONE, the ONLY cigarette recognized by leading nose and throat specialists as definitely less irritating.
Remember: Less irritation means more smoking enjoyment for you.
Yes! If every smoker knew what PHILIP MORRIS smokers know, they'd all change to PHILIP MORRIS.
CALL FOR PHILIP MORRIS
TRY A PACK... TODAY

LI'L ABNER By Al Capp

NOW is the hour — for HARRY'S

LIBRARY (Periodical Dept.)
University of North Carolina
Chapel Hill, N. C.
1-31-48

WEATHER
Continued fair and warm.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
Young Edison
The New Guard
Lenoir Look-See

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 21, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | NO. 146

CHARLIE LONG, Carolina student leader who served as speaker of the House at the State student legislature meeting held in Raleigh last week-end is pictured (standing) above. Seated are the other officers of the lower chamber. They are (left to right) Pete Gerns from Carolina, parliamentarian; Shirley Powell of Meredith college, reading clerk, and Milton Bussells of Campbell college, sergeant at arms.

The meeting, which was attended by a 36 man delegation from the University, was set up as a mock General assembly. The student legislators introduced and passed a total of 14 bills during the two day session.

Various Churches Will Show Movie, 'Beyond Our Own'

"Beyond Our Own," a motion picture released by the Protestant Film commission, will be shown three times in various Chapel Hill churches by the Ministers' Association of Chapel Hill, in an attempt "to use the medium of motion pictures to speak a forthright Christian message."

First showing will be Friday night at 8 o'clock in the Congregational Christian church, sponsored jointly by the student groups of the Presbyterian and Congregational churches.

Sunday night at 8 o'clock the Methodist and Baptist student groups will sponsor a showing in the University Methodist church, and Tuesday night the Canterbury club of the Episcopal church will present the film to its members and any other students who have been unable to attend other showings.

Communists Lose In Italian Voting

Rome, April 20 — (UP) — Almost complete unofficial election returns today showed that the democratic Italian government of Premier De Gasperi has won a surprisingly great victory over the Communists at the polls.

Tonight, De Gasperi, backed by this thumping victory, told the Communists that they would have no part in Italy's new government. The Premier said, "I exclude the possibiliyt of collaboration with the Communists. Experience has shown us this is impossible."

The Christian-Democrat victory, the size of which still has the entire world amazed, was so great that even the left-wing Socialists have conceded the victory.

But with the anti-Communist share of the vote now standing at 67 per cent, rumors continue to flow, of a possible leftist uprising in the Northern cities.

Government forces, anticipating "any eventuality," number 400 000 and appear ready to handle any trouble.

Village Traffic

The Victory Village committee has passed an ordinance rerouting traffic through Jackson circle.

Wendel Wood, sheriff of the Village, announced yesterday that the committee's decision calls for placing one-way signs around the circle which would route all traffic through the circle clockwise.

Wood said that the parking system will remain the same, e

Hot Water Facilities Limited Because of Coal Shortage Here

By Dan Wallace

The effect of the coal strike reached its long fingers over most of the nation, and the University, not excepted, was hard touched, asserted J. S. Bennett, Director of Operations here yesterday.

The coal shortage has forced the University to resort to restricting measures in the use of fuel in order to cope with the present situation.

The lack of fuel is the answer to numerous complaints showered upon the dormitories manager, Bill Smith, about the absence of hot water in the dormitories after 11 o'clock at night and early in the morning.

Queried about the details of the hot-water shortage, Bennett explained that the hot-water boilers in the dormitories, normally operating 24 hours per day, have been put on a schedule of operation during the past few weeks that has curtailed normal operating time more than two-thirds in order to conserve the scarce supply of fuel.

Bennett rectified the situation somewhat yesterday by ordering that the steam in the hot-water boilers be kept up long enough to allow hot water up to midnight. He said that the reason hot water is sometimes scarce in the mornings is that the fires have to be built again after being cut off the previous night and this results in the boilers taking a long time to become heated.

Another result of the coal shortage is that the University power plant, out of coal for thirty days, has been forced to purchase power from the Duke Power company in order to con-

(See HOT WATER, page 4)

Coed Senate Picks Officers for Year

Frances Angas, recently-elected speaker of the Coed Senate was introduced to the new members at a special meeting Monday. Senate officers for the coming year were elected.

They are: Speaker pro-tem, Emily Baker, Asheville, secretary, Tandy Lacy, Hopkinsville, Ky.; treasurer, Barbara Anne Covington, Plant City, Fla.; representatives to House Privilege board, Marjorie Riddick, Scotland Neck, and Emily Ogburn, Winston-Salem; and Jane Pointer, Raleigh, was elected to serve on the board of Graham Memorial directors.

Board of Governors Of UVA To Meet

Johnny Clampitt, president of the University Veterans Association, yesterday announced that a general business meeting of the UVA will be held next Monday night, April 26, at 7:30.

The UVA Board of Governors met last Monday afternoon and discussed plans for the last month of school.

UVA elections will be held the first Monday in May for all offices except that of the Board of Governors, which is appointed.

Two o'Clock in the Morning Finds Kyser Taking Quick Break for Bite to Eat

Kay Kyser, the Ole Professor himself, showed up in a very strange place yesterday morning.

After a grueling day of judging cheerleader aspirants in Kenan stadium and being re-tapped into the Golden Fleece in Memorial auditorium, the Tar Heel bandleader, everyone on campus figured, would be in bed getting a good night's rest.

But he wasn't, for a 2 o'clock yesterday morning he strolled into Ptomaine's with Earl Wynn of the Radio department for a late bite to eat. Kay hardly expected the barrage of Daily Tar Heel questions that were going to be thrown at him a few minutes later.

"What do I think of the campus this year " the Professor of Musical Knowledge asked. "Well, it looks about the same as usual, I guess. I haven't noticed any particular changes."

About the Golden Fleece tapping, he declared, "It was very impressive. And that certainly was a beautiful plaque they gave me. It was hand-carved by Carl Boetcher, the wood-carver who's doing the animals for the Monogram club fountain. He surely is a wonderful craftsman."

Asked how long he was going to be in Chapel Hill, Kay replied, "I'll be around most of today, but I'll be headed toward Raleigh sometime in the afternoon. I've got a little job to do over there — pick out 'Miss Student Nurse of 1948.' Wish I had jobs like that to do all the time . . ." And with that he sauntered out the door

Mock UN Assembly Surveys Czech Coup

By Charlie Craven

In a mock UN session which was apparently loosely planned, Junius Scales asserted last night that the recent Communist coup in Czechoslovakia had the sanction of a majority of the Czech people.

The question argued by the various groups was whether the UN should investigate the present situation in Czechoslovakia. Six delegates voted for the investigation, two against it and one abstained. The two negative votes were cast by Scales and John Myers, who repsented the Wallace club.

Scales Speaks

At the meeting held in the Di assembly room in New West, Scales, chairman of the local Communist group, advanced the following three premises concerning the Red government in the Czech nation: (1) That the elections held previous to the installment of the present government indicated that such a change was the will of the people. (2) That the events were strictly an internal affair. (3) That the change benefited the people.

"Agressor is U. S."

Scales further stated that "real foreign agression is by President Truman and the State Department. The great lie of our time," he said, "is that the Communists are Russian agents. There were Communists 70 years before the Revolution. There are Communists in all countries. Therefore, they do not need to be Russians."

Lincoln Kan, representing the Chinese Republic, declared that the present plight of Czechoslovakia vitally concernt the democratic countries of Asia and that dominance of the Czech nation by Russia endangered the existence of the democracies of Asia. Kan asserted that the former Czechoslovakian government was overthrown by force by the Soviet Union.

The mock session of the UN Security Council was sponsored by the local chapter of the Collegiate Council of the United Nations. Other than Scales and the Communist party the following organizations were represented: Di, Merle Stevens; Phi, Herman Sieber; IRC, John Bristow; CPU, Dick Simpson; FFC, Bill Kraft, John Burwell, John Brockman; CCC, Charlie Kaufman; WF, Jake Wicker.

The YWCA was scheduled for the meeting but did not appear.

Kroll String Quartet Will Appear Tonight In Hill Hall Recital

The Kroll Quartet, formerly the Coolidge String quartet, will appear tonight in a recital in Hill hall at 8:30.

The internationally-known group will present the last program of the year in the Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge foundation series, which is to be sponsored jointly by the foundation and the Music department. This is a return engagement for the quartet, after the warm reception which they received on the campus last year.

The group has toured Canada, Mexico, Hawaii, and America. It is composed of the same members who appeared here last year, including: William Kroll, violin; Louis Graelor, violin; Nathan Gordon, viola; and Avron Twerdowsky, violoncello.

They will play Haydn's "String Quartet in D major," "The Lark," Benjamin Britten's "Quartet No. 1," and Beethoven's "String Quartet in E minor."

At concert time the guest tickets, which may be obtained through the music department, will be honored until 8:20, after which time persons without tickets will be admitted until all seats are taken.

Training Program Continues Today

Today's schedule for the Coed Leadership Training program includes two mass meetings, designed for all coeds, and several informal discussions, designed for specific officers.

Barbara Cashion will speak on student government at the mass meeting at 5 o'clock in the main lounge of Graham Memorial, and at 7 o'clock in the main lounge, Dr. Ned Woodhouse of the political science department will speak on parliamentary procedure. Coeds are urged to be present on time for both these meetings.

Sadie Pearson, chairman of the Coed Leadership Training program, has announced that all committee members who hold tickets for the banquet should turn them in to her today, and that all newly-elected officers who have not gotten their tickets may get them from her today. She will be in the Y lobby from 11 to 12 o'clock and from 1 to 3.

Informal discussions in the afternoon will include Annie Ben Beale's discussion on Student Legislature at 5:20 in Roland Parker lounge No. 2; Barbara Cashion's on Coed Senate in Roland Parker No. 3; and Donleen McDonald's on Honor Council in the Woman's council room.

Bootsie McWilliams and Norma Hotard will lead the evening discussion on house presidents at 7:30 in Roland Parker No. 2, and Scotty Dellinger and Cattie Holt will discuss social chairmen's duties in Roland Parker No. 3. Newly elected publicity chairmen will hear Sally Woodhull and Miriam Evans in the Woman's council room.

Today's meetings will conclude the formal training of the program, and the final session will be in the form of a banquet at the Carolina Inn tomorrow night.

THE FIRST of ten Hollywood writers and producers to go on trial for contempt of Congress, screen writer John Howard Lawson sits on a park bench following his appearance in Washington District Court. He was judged guilty Monday. (International)

Di Senate Agenda Includes Religion, European Politics

Two bills proposing a Federation of Europe and religious instruction in public schools will highlight the agenda of an open Dialectic Senate meeting tonight at 9 o'clock in the Di hall, third floor, New West, following a closed executive meeting of all Senators at 8 o'clock.

The initial measure of the evening contends that the Union of Europe would solve one of the worst focal points of current world disorder. This bill would offer membership in a federation to all European countries, including occupied German zones, upon ratification of a constitution.

The union would be intended to establish a continental unit economically without the present system of overlapping trade barriers. Its primary purpose would be maintaining peace in Europe.

The second measure to be considered will concern public instruction in religion and ethics. Condemning national moral standards at present, this proposal demands the teaching of non-denominational faith and decency in the public schools.

John Zucker, speaker of the Senate, will preside over the session this evening when the public will be invited to participate in the debate over the team of proposals whose presentation is being supervised by Charlie Long, chairman of the ways and means committee.

There is urgent business to be considered at the executive meeting at 8 o'clock, according to Zucker, and all Senators are asked to be present.

CORRECTION

Contrary to a notice appearing in yesterday's DTH, the French club play will be presented in the Playmakers Theater tomorrow and Friday evenings at 8:30.

CORRECTION

The UNC concert band will present its program Sunday at 4 o'clock rather than at 8:30, as was previously announced.

New Student Officers Formally Inaugurated

Delivering the inaugural address at a mass inauguration of student officers in Gerrard hall last night, President Jess Dedmond outlined a four point program for campus improvements.

Dean of Students E. L. Mackie made the charge and administered the oaths to the new officers at exactly 9:05 as the 1948-49 administration officially took over the reins of student government.

Tom Eller Releases Retiring Statement Expressing Thanks

Tom Eller, retiring president of the student body, released the following statement to express his appreciation for the cooperation he has received during his administration.

"On behalf of the retiring Student Administration I should like to express gratitude to the student body, faculty members, and townspeople," Eller stated, "for their abiding devotion to the principles of self-government and their cooperation in its execution during our term.

"To the many plain students, advisors, administrative officials, political colleagues, appointees, house mothers,—and all who have been willing to discuss the problems which confront a representative of his fellows and act upon their conclusions, I should like to convey a personal and special thanks. I have acquired a respect for the people who make Carolina mean 'Carolina' which I do not hope to express in words. May I wish the new administration and the student body a very successful year."

'Sweep It Clean' Tickets Available

"Sweep It Clean," playing in Memorial hall for the last time tonight, opened last night before a large audience. Tickets to the final performance in Chapel Hill of the new musical-comedy can be purchased at Ledbetter-Pickards, the Y. M. C. A. and the lobby of Memorial hall after 7:30.

Proceeds of the musical are marked for improvement of Playmaker theater facilities and the building of the Koch Memorial theater. The show has combined talent in the Playmaker and music departments for the cause.

TARNATION CIRCULATION

All students living outside the delivery zone of the Tarnation circulation department can pick up their copies of the magazine at the Tarnation office, opposite the men's room in Graham Memorial, today.

Speaking after the inaugural ceremony, Dedmond set forth the following goals of the new administration for improvement of campus life:

(1) An effective chapel service for new freshmen.

(2) Establishment of an effective speakers bureau.

(3) Investigation of complaints of Lenoir dining hall prices and dormitory inconveniences by students who are willing to give the time and effort necessary to obtain the facts.

(4) Campus improvement through understanding and continual contacts with the University administration.

"A democratic government is one devoted to the service of its electorate," Dedmond stated. "And those of us now assuming the reins of government must realize that service must be our watchword. Our willingness to serve, our will to work, and our honesty of purpose must be our armour for the task ahead of us."

In making the charge to the new officers, Dean Mackie congratulated the student leaders on being elected. "Of course with the honor is associated responsibility to carry out conscientiously the duties of the office," he said. "You are the guardians of an ancient and honorable tradition. Guard it well."

Tracing the history of student self-government at the University, Dean Mackie said, "To the administration of almost every university in the country it is unbelievable that our disciplinery problems are handled by student councils, and that a student who so forgets himself as to violate the honor system may be suspended by his fellow students without review of the case by our administration."

Retiring President Tom Eller, who introduced Dean Mackie, asked for cooperation between the branches of the new administration. "In my opinion", he said, "the most important feature in any government is its integrity — an integrity justifiably recognized in the body politic by its unselfishness, its availability to all, and its service to all."

"I submit", he continued "that integrity in student government insofar as it can be reached will result from the practice of diplomacy by those in leadership." Defining 'diplomacy,' Eller pointed out that the word embodied three phases for the student leader: "diplomacy with the student body, diplomacy with the administration, and diplomacy among the leaders themselves.

Dedmond also spoke at the inauguration which was presided over by retiring Vice-president Jack Folger.

Preceeding the inauguration an informal banquet was held at the Carolina Inn for approximately 50 student leaders and faculty members.

Red Cross Figures

The Chapel Hill office of the American Red Cross yesterday released the final figures on the 1948 Red Cross drive which showed that of 2,601 persons contributing $1 or more, 900 students contributed a total of $974.68.

From the campus offices, $1,156.36 was contributed bringing the total campus figure to $2,131.04. As a whole, the Chapel Hill office reported that the town went $1,027.23 above the minimum assigned quota of $6,000.

Student Membership for Symphony Orchestra Will Be Good for Durham, Hill Hall Concert

Student memberships in the North Carolina symphony, which may be obtained in the Y today and tomorrow, will serve as admission to the orchestra's concert tonight in Durham as well as the one Friday in Hill hall, it was announced yesterday.

The memberships, costing only $1 for students, are good for any concert in the state through the current season, which ends in June. Tickets for the Chapel Hill concert will go on sale at the door Friday night to students for $1.20 and to non-students for $2.10.

Edward Cone will appear as soloist at Friday night's concert, playing with the orchestra Beethoven's "Symphony No. 7 in A Major, Opus 92."

The popular composer Khachaturian will be represented by two dances from his ballet "Gayne," including the well known "Sabre Dance" and the "Dance of the Rose Maidens." Rossini's overture to "The Thievish Magpie" will also be heard Friday night.

BENJAMIN SWALIN

Dr. Benjamin Swalin, director of the orchestra, began his career as violinist with the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra when he was 18. Two years later he resigned to study with the great violinists Franz Kneisel and Leopold Auer in New York.

During these years Dr. Swalin divided his time between violin study, advanced theoretical work at the Institute of Musical Art, and the task of acquiring a university education. He was graduated from Columbia university in 1928, and received the M. A. degree in English literature from the same institution two years later. Completing his education in Europe, he received his doctorate at the University of Vienna and Artist Diplomas from the Hochschule for Musik in 1933.

The New Guard Moves In

Last night at a mass inauguration in Gerrard hall a new group of officers took over the directorship of student government. Theirs is a serious responsibility.

Former students here won the privilege of student government in 1875. Other students have shown the ability to use this privilege wisely and thereby have won extensions in the powers of self government. The University is now recognized throughout the nation as a leader in the field of liberal student government. It will be the duty of the new officers to guard carefully this privilege that others have won and to uphold the reputation that the University has acquired.

During the last year the machine of student government has run more or less smoothly. There have been few instances of outstanding leadership on the part of student officers, but on the other hand there have been few charges of inefficiency or wrongful action. The officers have done their job quietly and competently.

The coming year does not promise to be an easy one for student government. The University is again in a period of transition—transition from a war veteran population to a population of recently-graduated high school seniors. The veterans are more interested in getting out of school than in campus problems. The high school graduates, slightly awed by the older veterans, are self-conscious about stepping forward into leadership. Thus the new officers may be faced by lethargy even greater than usual from the student body.

Undercurrents of major and touchy issues are already making themselves felt. Perhaps the greatest of these is the question of segregated education, eddies of which have been swirling to the surface of local consciousness more and more frequently in recent months. Although power of action in the matter lies in the hands of the State legislature, campus leaders in all probability will be called upon to take a stand on the issue within the coming year. It will take mature minds with sound judgment to form such a stand intelligently.

In affairs of strictly campus interest there are things which will require careful consideration. Redistricting of voting areas, appellate jurisdiction of the Student council, relief for congestion of campus activities—these are but a few of the problems which will be given to the new officers to solve.

The prospect for 1948-49 does not offer much chance for mediocrity in student government. The year will be either a great one or one of abysmal failure. May the officers who begin their terms today have the wisdom, the perseverance and the guts to make it a great one.

A Point In Our Favor

One of the most surprising turns at the recent State Student Legislature was the emergence of the Carolina delegation as a somewhat conservative group while Duke went hog-wild either to the far right or to the far left. Certainly this is an interesting point since we have a reputation for being radical and Duke is supposedly in the middle-of-the-road.

The Duke delegation was obviously split wide open in the two groups mentioned and the opposing sides constantly nagged at the other's bills and speeches. The Carolina students, while they disagreed on many points, did not so obviously differ on the more fundamental aspects of the bills under discussion. Since UNC does have such a reputation of being the mecca of Communists and Pinkos, it might be well for each student here to clip this editorial and send it to his folks or his hometown newspaper. It might to a small degree at least, allay some of the criticism that Carolina students are subject to.

—D. W.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.

Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ..... ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager ..... T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor .... Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors .. Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associate Editors ..... Bob Sain, Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady
Society Editor ..... Weddy Thorp
Photographer ... Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. ..... Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. .. C. B. Mendenhall
Subscription Mgrs. ... Jim King, Chan Pegram
Asst. Business Mgrs. . Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. .... Randall Hudson, Don Snow

NEWS STAFF: Herb Nachman, Charlie Gibson, Sally Woodhull, John Stump, Gordon Huffines, Jack Brown, Stewart McKeel, Margaret Gaston, Dan Wallace, Charlie Craven, Mark Sumner, Emily Baker, Doris Weaver, Harriet Sipple, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.

SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Larry Fox, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher, Mel Horowitz, Faith Adams, Anne Wells.

BUSINESS STAFF: James Crews, Jackie Rogers, J. C. Brown, Joe Williams, Gladys Cottrell, Bill Peebles, Neal Howard, Jr., Vin Snell, Candy Jonas, Kathryn McLean, Jim Brown, Baxter Morris, Ed Warton, Leonard Dudley, Jean Williams, Charmian Griffin.

NIGHT EDITOR: John Stumpf NIGHT SPORTS: Bob Goldwater

Offices are located on the second floor of Graham Memorial with night office at Colonial Press, Inc., Carrboro. Telephones: Editorial, F-3361; Business, F-3371; Night office, 3337. Mailing address, Box 1080.

Poop for the Group

Prattling Animal Wanted to Talk With Columnist

By Raney Stanford

Hurry, hurry hurry! Big contest with prizes!

For you must find me someone to talk with.

All the prating megalomaniacs that grace editorial pages must have a ficticious beast to express their views through, but as yet I have found no philosophizing cockroaches, no gabby setter dogs, no verbalizing grey squirrels with Harris Tweed coats, no yata-ta-yatata roam gnomes, no, not even a talkative buddy that lives in a gopher hole. This is an alarming situation; I will probably get an inferiority complex if I don't get someone or something.

But there is just no media for this tedia.

Of course I could talk to all the people that also inhabit this sanatorium and write of that, but that is what everyone else does. And every time I go out looking for someone all I see is people I owe money to, and that's no good.

I could talk to myself, but you know what that leads to, if it hasn't already.

Then I guess I could shut up and go study. With a quick shudder I pass on——.

Just tear the top off a frosty can of beer and send in the full can with your suggestion as to a dialogue partner. All cans with heads over three inches deep will have their entries automatically rejected and suggestions containing the names of faculty advisers will be similarly treated.

The winners will receive all the empties.

Short Clues

Investigation of Lenoir Planned

By John P. Brady

With spring comes the revolution. . . .

The latest reports have it that another group of financially embarrassed students are planning an investigation of Lenoir Hall. What of the past investigations? Others have been started, but never finished.

This group is rumored to be compiling information gathered from cafeterias in Durham and Raleigh, and are planning to present their findings to the board. Information thus far shows that these outside cafeterias (operating at a profit) give more food per serving, and at a lower price than at Lenoir Hall, which is supposedly a non-profit organization.

After thought. . . .Why not call this column Counter Carousel. I'm just kidding Foo. . . .

So help me it happened. . . .

Housemother — "Young man, what do you mean by bringing this girl in at six o'clock in the morning?"

J. R. C.—"I have to make an eight o'clock class."

Old Promises . . . .

How many political platforms collapsed in the past year and how many are due to bite the dust in the coming year?

Reminiscing. . . .

What has happened to the once great Western North Carolina Club. The day was when this organization was in the thick of all campus activities.

A local cassanova states that there are three classes of women: The beautiful; the intelligent; and the majority. (and what of the coeds?)

In Syracuse

Who's Zoo Within The Zoo Cages?

Syracuse, N. Y. — (UP) — Mayor Frank J. Costello is concerned over the state of the Syracuse zoo.

"The leopard was bought 20 years ago," he said, "and at that, second-hand.

"The puma died in October.

"The baboon is dead.

"The old lion has cataracts.

"The jaguar is the only lively animal up there, and he bit the tail off the leopard.

"We have rabbits in the lion's den and turtles in another cage.

"Something has to be done."

"WELL, WELL— THE SHINING KNIGHT IN WHITE ARMOR, THE GAY LOTHARIO FROM THE WEST, THE BEAU BRUMMEL OF PARK AVENUE —COME IN, JERK!"

This 'n That

Limit Freshman Activities

By Bill Buchan

Wilbur Amberson came back to Chapel Hill last weekend for a short visit. Finding the University and the Campus too full for his liking, he purchased two cases of beer and moved out to Hogan's Lake for a discussion of the world and why he left the village.

His message for me to meet him did not reach me until after eleven and when I found him, he was happily wading in the lake, pushing empty beer cans around with his feet. On his face was a smile that comes only when one has returned triumphantly to his native stomping grounds.

"Buchan," said Wilbur, "Chapel Hill is a wonderful place. Their water is so cool and relaxing, their people (pointing to several individuals engaged in a fisticuff argument) have a wonderful sense of humor. It's wonderful to be home."

"Uh huh," I said, not wanting to interrupt his train of thought.

"I am sorry that I missed the election fun. Course, none of my candidates won, but I would have enjoyed watching. Bye the bye, I am opening a campaign to find you at least 26 more friends so that you won't lose next year."

"Friend, I already have six of them sworn in. You find the others."

"I'll find 'em, if I have to bribe 'em."

"No bribing, Wilbur, just buy them a beer. That's the way I heard one defeated candidate got a few votes."

"When I buy beer, I'll drink it. I'll get a cigarette sponsorship or something and do it that way."

Amberson reached down and picked up a beer can, emptied it of its contents, then threw it out across the lake. While he was interested in its landing, I got in the question I had wanted to ask all night.

"Tell me Wilbur, why did you leave Chapel Hill?"

A hurt look crept across his face. With an obvious effort, he began: "Well, its like this, you heard about all these guys who were kicked out for low grades? I led the list, on the bottom. It seems that politics and philosophying in the University are not accepted as credit courses. I'm taking a slight three month vacation. In June, however, I shall return."

My disappointment in him was evident on my face. When I started to speak, Wilbur interrupted me. "Don't feel bad about it. South Building, including my advisor warned me, but I didn't listen. I learned by experience that while extra-curricular activities are fine, it is possible to overdo them."

From all indications, Wilbur was just beginning so I let him continue.

"My idea about these extra curricular activities is this, that while they are fine, so far, that freshmen entering Carolina should be forced if necessary to spend most of their time studying and start their extra work in their sophomore year. One year of steady studying will orient them in the time necessary to spend on their courses. After that, they'll be able to judge their activities accordingly."

Wilbur, who will be a sophomore if and when he returns to Carolina in June, was making a logical suggestion. However, he noticed a distressed coed standing over her passed-out date. With a fond fare-wave of his hand, he stepped out of the lake, picked up his shoes and moved towards the young lady.

"There are other fields for conquest tonight," he shouted over his shoulder as he left me.

Free Enterprise, Jr.

Young Edison Was Eager

NEW YORK, April 21 (UP)—Thomas A. Edison was enterprising even as a boy. In his diary, published today by Philosophical Library, Edison tells how he increased his profits as a newsboy on the Grand Trunk Railroad during the Civil War.

The Battle of Pittsburgh Landing was in progress and Edison believed he could sell more newspapers at stations along the railroad if those points could be told in advance that details of the big battle were on the way.

"The combat, we in Detroit knew, was terrific," Edison wrote. "The bulletins would apprise the people of it. They would be eager for the newspapers telling how 60,000 men had fallen among the armies of the North and South.

"I therefore ran to the office of the Detroit Free Press and asked Mr. Seitz, the man in charge, if he would trust me for a thousand newspapers. He regarded me as if perhaps I might be crazy, but referred me to Mr. Story. Mr. Story carefully considered me. I was poorly dressed. He hesitated, but finally told Mr. Seitz to let me have the papers.

"I got them to the station and into the baggage car as best I could and then attended to my scheme. All along the line I had made friends of the station agents, who also were the telegraphers, by giving them candy and other things which a train boy delt in in those days.

"They were a good-natured lot of men, too, and had been kind to me. I wired ahead to them, through the courtesy of the Detroit agent, who also was my friend, asking them to post notices that when the train arrived I would have newspapers with details of the great battle.

"When I got to the first station on the run I found that the device had worked beyond my expectations. The platform literally was crowded with men and women anxious to buy newspapers. After one look at that crowd I raised the price from five cents to ten and sold as many papers as the crowd could absorb.

"At Mount Clemons, the next station, I raised the price from ten cents to fifteen. The advertising worked as well at all the other stations.

"By the time the train reached Port Huron, I had advanced the price of the Detroit Free Press for that day to 35 cents per copy and everybody took one. Out of this one idea I made enough money to give me a chance to learn telegraphy."

POLICE TURN WESTERN

SILVER CITY, N. M. (UP)—Silver City police have gone western. Police Chief Denver Littlefield says blue uniforms are out of place in a small western town and the police force should retain some of the western flavor on its dress. Now his officers wear gabardine riding pants, black leather jackets and typical western hats.

Write Away

Against SP-CP Party Merger

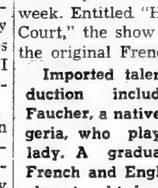
Editor:

This letter is intended to enlarge upon and state some of the conflicting points in the thought expressed by Columnist Giduz in the Saturday TAR HEEL, concerning a CP-SP merger. I am in definite opposition to a merger under the present circumstances. For too long a time the political factions on this campus have been divided into fraternity and non-fraternity, UP and SP. Since the fall when I first became interested in campus affairs (when CP was the only party taking any apparent interest in freshmen), I believe I have seen in the Campus Party "something new under the sun" in the old frat-nonfrat squabble. In the words of a past CP party chairman: ". . . the Campus Party represents a philosophy that is unique in campus politics. . ." I refer to the statement repeatedly expressed by the Campus Party during the past campaign, that CP can see no essential difference between a fraternity man and a non-fraternity man, that CP works against none, rather for good student government. There are fraternity men and non-fraternity men in the CP ranks and the success of the past campaign stands as proof that the two can work together as a very efficient unit for a common victory of qualified candidates. So long as the Campus Party stands on such a policy as this, coupled with its capable men and its reasonable platform, I see no logic in a merger.

But suppose a merger should take place. Who would benefit from the move? Consider the headlines the next morning. CP MERGES WITH SP! Remember that CP is still a relatively new thing on Campus, only a little over a year old. I wonder if even so capable, well-known writer as Mr. Gidus could convince the student body that the move was a merger. I maintain that the opinion of the student body would be that the Campus Party, unable to stand on its own feet, had slid back into its original position. I agree with campus leaders who say that two parties would be better than three, but I say that time itself will take care of that. Can anyone deny that CP's power and influence is mushrooming? (Mushrooming is not the right word, since CP is building a solid foundation among the students with its qualified candidates and its platforms for student benefit.)

I urge anyone who advocates merger to bide their time, to let the experiment in campus politics that CP is run its course, and then draw conclusions from the results. Common ground though they may have, a merger would be impossible without the Campus Party's compromising the principles upon which it was founded and upon which depend its existence and popularity.

As to support during the run-off, I feel that all too often run-off support is a policy of trying to belatedly jump on the band wagon. Certainly the SP support of candidates Long and Gibson in the past run-off did not win the election for them.



Erie Cofield

Carolina Carousel

'49 Elexion Predictions

By R. Foo Giduz

Now don't get him wrong. . . C. C. is colid behind the State Student Legislative Assembly. . . (continued from Carousel of Tue.) . . .But he cries out like a voice in the wilderness agin' the current collegiate idelogical "new look" whereby everyone has to type and be typed "left" and "right". . . .(And never the twain shall meet). . . .How's about considering issues for what they are. . . .And stop screaming murder against this-an-that because the "wormy Wallaceites" or the "cock-eyed Conservatives" are for it. . . .

The din was terrific when all of the Carolina delegates to NCSSLA got together in post-Assembly caucuses. . . .But now and then a few political pearls dropped from the diatripe: Such as Charlotte coed Lindsay Tate's announcement that she will run for pres. of student body next year. . . .(She slaved for Long this election.) . . .And a number of under-the-table implications which point to our first '49 elexion predixion—that Legislator Dortch Warriner (Lawrenceville, Va.'s gift to Tar Heelia) will also run for the presidency in '49—SP ticket . . .(But of course we're never right, y'know!)

CCUN pulled a neat stunt in the original invites to their mock assembly last night. . .Asked the local HWFPC (Wallaceites, natch) to participate representing the Soviet. . .Which really put the Wallacers on the spot! Had they accepted they'd have been called Reds, and since they refused they're called Yellow! . . . And a sizeable pox upon the dignified, tradition-steeped Dialectic Senate for their un-Carolina-like refusal to rent their hall to the Wallace club for their meetings—on false and discriminatory ground!. . .

Take it for what it's worth—plenty or nothing:—But Mayne Albright, the Raleigh "Challenger" for gov., last week received a letter addressed simply to: "The Next Governor of North Carolina, Raleigh, N. C.". . . Posted in his Hotel Sir Walter Headquarters now . . .Drop in to see him next time you're over there. . .He'll be in Chapel Hill again around the end of the first week in May. . .And the local Albright-for-Governor group will convene in the city hall at 8 o'clock tonight. . . Speak up man! For Albright! . . .—Looking forward to a really informative, constructive Umte-Dumtee debate sometime soon between the Pro-Drafters and the Comm. Against Conscrip. . . .Even if it's bristling Bill Crisp against the whole Anti-Umtee field it will really be worth while to hear.

WHAT'S UP in Graham Memorial

Graham Memorial will sponsor the French club's production of a romantic drama by Alexander Dumas in the Playmaker theater Thursday and Friday of this week. Entitled "Henri III and his Court," the show will be done in the original French.

Imported talent for the production includes Genevieve Faucher, a native of Algiers, Algeria, who plays the leading lady. A graduate student in French and English, Mlle. Faucher taught in Algeria before coming to Carolina to continue studying. The role of Catherine de Medici will be played by a girl from London, England.

Dr. Urban T. Holmes of the French department is the only faculty member in the play, playing the Duce de Guise, husband of the leading lady. Her lover is played by Otis Beeson of Greensboro.

Today is the last of the three-day period during which students can get memberships to the North Carolina Symphony orchestra series. Whether you are really long-haired or not, you'll enjoy the symphony concert Friday night in Hill hall; and by purchasing a student membership at the wonderfully low price of $1 you'll be helping to support one of the finest institutions of the Old North State.

You get a lot for your money in the student membership, too. Besides admission to the concert here at a reduced price, your membership admits you to other concerts by the group throughout the state. Memberships are on sale in the Y lobby.

From the Clipsheet

Bushman Celebrates His 20th Birthday

CHICAGO (UP)—A young animal here has just celebrated his 20th birthday.

His name is Bushman and he is the oldest, the strongest and the toughest gorilla in captivity. The Lincoln Park zoo prizes him as the most valuable animal in any zoo in the world.

On his birthday the big brute ate his usual meal consisting of 20 pounds of apples, lettuce, grapes, bread and vitamin pills washed down with three quarts of milk.

Then he topped it off with a special birthday dessert, guava fruit from his homeland in Africa.

His Tombstone Said He Was Pretty Good

PRETTY PRAIRIE, Kan. (UP) —Fred V. Pargeter has a $1,300 tombstone, complete with a glowing description of his life, awaiting him in Lone Star cemetery near here.

The inscription on the tombstone, which the couple erected to themselves, says of Pargeter:

"A good and honest citizen, a man among men."

Of his wife, it says:

"A good wife and a much-loved woman."

Sanitarium Bound

Editor:

I wish to uphold the good name of the pre-kindergarten mentality responsible for "A Poem To Congress".

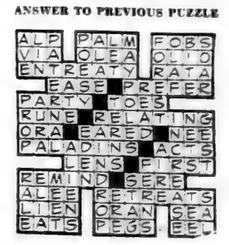
I admit he deserves opprobrium for perpetrating it on his fellow students. And I admit he added insult to insult by alleging that it was poetry.

I admit that a few months in the Babbling Brook Sanatarium might do him good. And I admit that he sounds like something that crawled out from under the Kremlin.

But I claim that he is really all right at heart. For by withholding his name he clearly showed that he at least had the decency to be ashamed of his act.

Colin Blyth

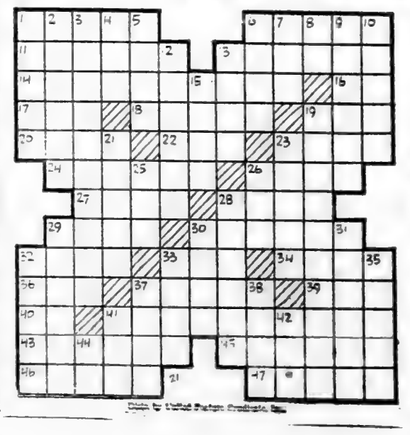
Come Down and Sit



Editor:

We members of the TARNATION staff cordially invite Donald MacDonald to come down and sit with us a while any time during office hours.

Tom Wharton



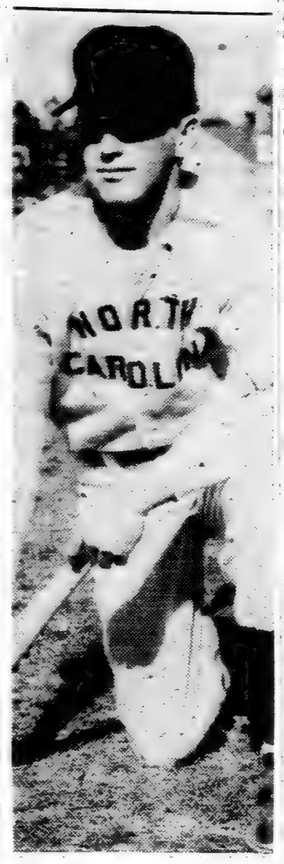
CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

ACROSS

1—Weight of precious stones
6—Most unpleasant
11—Spheres of action
13—To scold
14—Kind of store
16—Railroad (abbr.)
17—Filipino
18—Implements
19—Edge
20—Cipher
22—To decay
23—Arouses
24—Covered with grit
26—Mean
27—Binds
28—Copper coin
29—King of beasts
30—Persons filled with malice
32—Heavenly body
33—Headpiece
34—Takes a seat
36—Period of time
37—Lubricator
39—Dernier ——
40—Toward
41—Teacher
42—Centaur
43—To stuff
46—Jogs
47—Asiatics

DOWN



1—City in Ohio
2—Rugged mountains
3—Something paid back
4—Literary collection
5—Sharp to taste
6—Skin growths
7—Worthless scrap
8—Sun god
9—To mark in lines
10—Parts of school year
12—Puts in safekeeping
13—To hit
15—Feeling
18—One who confines
21—Vegetable
23—Sheets of glass
25—Animal's home
26—To wager
28—Serves
29—Thief
30—To stop
31—Attempted
32—Intended
33—To jeer
35—Fathers
37—Blame
38—Deep grooves
41—Suffix: follower
42—The letter C
45—In this manner

Tar Heel Baseball, Net Squads Face Blue Devil Opposition At Durham Today

Carolina Club Shooting for Second Win In Big Four Play; Robinson Set to Hurl

By Bob Goldwater

Victorious in their initial Big Four brush with Wake Forest last week Carolina's baseballers will go looking for win number two this afternoon when they journey over to Durham to battle with Duke in a 3:30 engagement at Coombs park. Today's clash will be the first of two league tilts for the Heels this week, the other coming Saturday against N. C. State. Currently leading the four-team pack, the locals will also be seeking to improve on their southern conference rating of five straight wins for a second-place position.

RIP RYAN stellar shortstop

Mentors Mastermind

Masterminding on the part of the rival coaches, Bunn Hearn and Buck Rabb for Carolina and Jack Coombs for the Blue Devils, is expected to play a large part in the opening lineups for both teams today. The pitching nominees will depend somewhat on whether lefties or righties are in the majority in the opposing batting order, and both clubs have several hurlers standing ready with three or more days of rest.

For the Tar Heels, the mound chores will probably fall to Frank Robinson, making his fourth appearance of the campaign and shooting for his third straight victory. The Cana Cannonball already holds one Big Four triumph having blanked Wake Forest on two hits last week. His batterymate will be Emmett Cheek.

Beason Ready

No changes are on tap for the Carolina infield, and only one possible switch could be made in the outfield. Harry Beason, ready for action after a forced layoff with an injured back, may step into the lineup at right field in place of Frank Jones. Jones is a right-handed hitter. Beason hits from the left side.

Duke's starting hurler could be either one of two choices, both righthanders. Paul Karukstis is the more probably opener, gaining the nod over Al Curtis who went nine innings in hanging up a 5-1 win over State last Saturday. Curtis, Duke's freshman find, is expected to be ready should relief be needed.

Series Relations

The Tar Heels will be especially anxious for a successful result today in an effort to improve their baseball relations with the Blue Devils. In each of the past two seasons, Carolina has won the first game in the series, then dropped the next three.

Mainly through Carolina's help, the Duke team copped the Big Four bunting last year. The Tarmosmen downed the UNC nine three times, then won the odd one when the Tar Heels dropped State in the final two contests of the season.

The probably lineups

Carolina		Duke
Black	cf	Hancock, 1b
Hasworth	3b	Bergeron, ss
Beason	or	Perini, rf
Jones	rf
Kelly	lf	McCarthy, c
Gregory	1b	Erickson, lf
Swan	ss	Falwell, 3b
Branch	2b	Frye, 2b
Cheek	c	Folger, cf
Robinson	p	Karukstis, p

BIG FOUR STANDINGS

Team	W	L	R	Op.
Carolina	1	0	1	0
N. C. State	2	1	24	22
Duke	1	2	23	25
Wake Forest	1	2	10	10

—Makings— In the Majors

By United Press

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Cleveland 4, St. Louis 0.
WP—Stephens; LP—Sanford.
Washington 9, New York 1.
WP—Hudson; LP—Lopat.
Detroit 5, Chicago 2.
WP—Newhouser; LP—Haynes.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Pittsburgh 3, Chicago 2.
WP—Sewell; LP—Meyer.
Brooklyn 7, New York 6.
WP—Barney; LP— Jansen.
Philadelphia 3, Boston 0.
WP—Leonard; LP—Sain.
St. Louis 4, Cincinnati 0.
WP—Dickson; LP—Fox.

HOME RUNS

McBride (Senators); Hegan (Indians); Vico (Tigers); Tresh (White Sox); Sewell and Basgall (Pirates); Cavaretta (Cubs); Cooper and Lohrke (Yankees); Cox (Dodgers).

ARCHERY CLUB

The University archery club will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock on Navy field. Mr. Cal Blythe will be present to conduct practice and give instruction for all who are interested.

It is requested that "those attending bring their own equipment, if possible. However, equipment may be checked out from the basket room by using the physical education privilege card.

Cinder Stars . . . . . . In Two Divisions

Intramural Track Finals Slated For Fetzer Field This Afternoon

By Bill Gallagher

The final round in the action-packed intramural track meet gets underway at 4 o'clock this afternoon on Fetzer field.

A star-studded field loaded with potential cinder stars will fight it out in the finals of both the fraternity and dormitory divisions.

Promptly at 4 o'clock, the finals of the 60-yard dash will start. Eight men in both classes will attempt to break the standing 6.5 time set back in 1940. Tom Jordan of ATO seems closest to surpassing the old time on the basis of a 6.6 mark in the semi-finals yesterday.

Low Hurdles

Next on the card comes the 120-yard low hurdles with another full entry list of eight men in each group. The 3-4 mile run follows along at 4:30 with all the men competing who entered.

At just about the same time with all the foot racing, the field events will be underway. At 3:30 the pole vaulters, high jumpers and shot putters swing into action in the finals of the fraternity and dormitory divisions.

Previous records in those events are as follows: pole vault—11-9 set in 1941; high jump—5-10 recorded in 1941; and shot put—40-7 7-8 scored in 1940. All of these marks could be shattered by anyone of the entrants in this year's finals.

Following the 3-4 mile run, the top men in the two classes speed off in the 100-yard dash event. Another mark set back in 1941 of 10.4 still stands.

300-Yard Run

At 5 o'clock after finishing up in the short races, the finals of the 300-yard run will be held with both groups fielding 12 men. Both the remaining field events, the discus throw and the broad jump, will take place after the opening field events are completed.

The heavy entry list in the relay races will get their chance to swing into action sometime after the end of the 300-yard run.

A total of 17 fraternity teams have entered the relays while the dormitory division has 10 teams on hand. The standing records in the 440-yard relay is 48.9 hung up in 1940. A mark of 1:38.5 from 1941 is tops in the 880-yard event.

Between the two relay events the finals of the 70-yard high hurdles will be held.

Freshman Baseball Nine Meets Dukesters Here This Afternoon in Return Encounter

By Buddy Vaden

Carolina's jayvee baseball club will face Duke for the second time this season in an attempt to avenge the 8-5 loss handed them by the Blue Imps last week. The game is slated to get under way this afternoon at 4 o'clock at Emerson stadium.

Picthing duties for today's game have been handed to southpaw Bill McGinn by Coach Henry House. Bill Walsh, who slammed a home run in the last contest with Duke, will complete the battery.

Jake Carter will cover the first sack for the locals. The hot corner will be taken care of by either Hal Wagoner or John Senter. The rest of the lineup will be the same with Ward, Allen and Lamb in the outfield, Goodman, on the keystone sack and Brookshire at short rounding out the Tar Baby's starting nine.

Duke Hurler

Duke, who dropped its first Big Four contest against State last week, will probably start Benfer on the mound. In the State tussle, the Blue Imps scored only five runs to the Wolfpack's 12. The fact that the Dukesters made seven errors helped determine the final result of the game.

The rest of the Blue Devil lineup will probably see Baroff, Magurean, and Crimmins or Murray in the outfield, with Woodworth Lane, Irwin, and Powers taking care of the infield positions. Starting catcher will probably be Whitaker.

Three Wins

Coach House's crew is currently sporting a record of three wins and two defeats. The losses were incurred at the hands of Duke and High Point high school. Victories came at the expense of Greensboro, High Point, and Presbyterian Junior college.

This afternoon's game will be the locals second little Big Three contest of the season.

Freshman Netters Top Danville, 8-1

Carolina's freshmen tennis team came through with flying colors here yesterday afternoon after some early season reversals to turn back George Washington high school of Danville, Va., by 8-1.

Bob Luxenberg started the Tar Babies off with a 6-4, 6-4 triumph over Danville's Bill Smith, and Paul Keenan followed with a close 8-6, 5-7, 6-3 win over the visitors' Carter. Other close matches saw Conrad Stewart continue undefeated with a 6-8, 6-2, 6-0 win over Stony Rolton, and in doubles the Carolina duo of Luxenberg and Wright stopped Smith and Carter, 9-11, 6-2, and 6-1.

Other singles victories were scored by Tom Southerland, Guy Kirby, and Don McLeod. In addition to the Luxenberg-Wright doubles win, the locals' Southerland and Kirby defeated Carlson and Turner, 6-2, 8-6. The only loss for the Tar Babies came in the final match, when Danville's Bolton and Snead outlasted McLeod and Kennedy for a 6-3, 4-6, 7-5 win.

UNC Coeds Entered In Sports Carnival

Carolina and nine other Southern colleges are entered in the competitive coed sports carnival to be held Saturday afternoon on the women's campus of Duke university.

Girls interested in participating in either softball, tennis, archery or swimming are asked to contact any member of the women's physical education department today.

Regular meetings of the coed tennis and archery clubs will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

BADMINTON PLAYERS

There will be a meeting of all men who are interested in playing badminton tonight at 7:30 in the Women's gym.

The purpose of the meeting is to pick a team to represent the University in the Big Four Sports Day to be held at Duke on May 6. Facilities will be available every night next week for practice.

FOR A BEER REMINDER
Call 3536
K & M
Beer Delivery Service

Dr. William Kohn
OPTOMETRIST
Phone 3686
Over Carolina Coffee Shop
Monday-Friday 9:00-5:00
Saturday 9:00-1:00

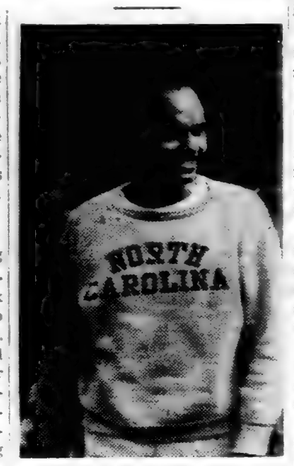
Star Vic Seixas Sidelined With Fever; Both Squads Sporting Unbeaten Records

By Dick Jenrette

With Captain Vic Seixas, number one Carolina netter, sidelined with fever, Coach John Kenfield's Tar Heel tennis team faces its most formidable opponent thus far this season this afternoon in the person of Duke's undefeated Blue Devils. The match will get under way on the Duke courts at 3 o'clock.

Duke hasn't been beaten in six starts this season, and numbered among its victims are Williams, Michigan, Yale, Richmond, George Washington, and Navy. Carolina also boasts a perfect record, holding 12 consecutive wins. Yet the loss of Seixas will seriously impair the Chapel Hill outfit's chances of extending the streak.

Taylor Moves Up



Thus the burden of competing in the number one slot for Carolina against Duke falls to Clark Taylor, who should be able to replace Seixas if anyone can. Taylor has a superlative record of 12 wins in an equal number of starts — all scored at the expense of some of the best collegiate performers in the land. Taylor is ranked number one among amateur tennis players in New England, and he should not find achieving his 13th victory too hard.

Don Skaale, whose undefeated record for Carolina has not received much publicity, is another Tar Heel who will be out to maintain his record against the Dukes. He has eight triumphs this season.

Duke certainly is not without its stars, and John Ross, a fine looking freshman prospect from Jacksonville, Fla., is undefeated in each of his six matches. Ross performs in the number four position for the Devils. Moreover, Ross and Bob Taylor team up in doubles to comprise another undefeated duo. Emory Green is Duke's number one player, and Taylor plays in the two position. John Hendrix coaches the Duke squad.

Other Leaders

Teaming with Clark Taylor and Skaale in Durham today will be Ray Morris and Charlie Rice, both with fine 11-1 won-lost records. Heath Alexander, Stan Gruner, Sam Daniels, and Duke Wilder.

CHARLIE RICE
. . . with 11-1 record.

Carolina probably still holds a slight edge over the Dukes today, but the Durham outfit stands an excellent chance of springing an upset.

The Infirmary report on Seixas' condition yesterday afternoon was that Vic had a sore throat and some fever. Dr. W. G. Morgan stated that he would be in bed for several more days, but his condition had not been definitely diagnosed.

University Florist
"For the Best in Flowers"
Pick Theatre Bldg.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Telephone 9816

Ward Advances At Pinehurst

Pinehurst, April 20—Harvie Ward remained the only University of North Carolina golfer in the North-South Amateur at the end of the first round of match play as the other four Blue and White lads fell by the wayside here today.

Ward himself almost met the fate of his teammates when he ran up against Dan Mulcahey, who happened to be in the process of burning up the course.

The eventual loser put Ward four down at the end of the first five holes by starting out the day with a string of five straight birdies.

The Tarboro Tar Heel was not to be beaten that easily though, and after an uphill fight for the next 11 holes Ward finally squared the match on the 16th with a birdie of his own.

The two halved the 17th and 18th, but on the 19th Ward fired a par 4 while his opponent went one over and that was the match.

The story was different for the rest of Coach Chuck Erickson's charges. Bob Cox lost his match 3 and 2 to Paul Cavanaugh, losing two holes on two dead stymies. Harvey Oliver lost another close match by a 2 and 1 tally.

Jack Brantley was the only other Tar Heel to see actual action being nipped on the 18th for a 1 down lost. Frank Brooks was forced to default.

Ward remains as one of the surviving field of 32 which will be reduced to eight tomorrow morning and afternoon rounds to be played.

Tip for YOUR CAREER
• Be a "double-threat" in business. Add Gibbs secretarial training to your college education and go to the top. Write College Course Dean.
KATHARINE GIBBS
230 Park Av.
90 Marlborough St.
51 East Superior

CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE 6B

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed and being completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogerson Drive. Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. Telephone 9-2906. (1-ch1x2-1)

24 FOOT GLIDER HOUSE TRAILER, Lot number 76, University Trailer Court for married couples, or box 701, Chapel Hill. (1-137-1)

SEVEN COLLIE-SHEPARD PUPpies Sire, Prince Buff III, pure bred English Collie. Dam, White, a Shepard. C R Taylor, No. 71 Trailer Court. Phone 9032. (1-145-1)

SOFA-BED. A HANDSOME SOFA, make into comfortable full-sized bed. Excellent condition, used 3 months. Sacrifice $50.00. Call 9678 or see at 511 Pittsboro. (1-252-1)

CAR RADIO, SIX TUBE MOTOROLA. Good condition. $28.00. Contact "Moo" Yancy, 205 Ruffin. (1-256-1)

16 FOOT TRAILER WITH 7 X 12 ENclosed porch for rent. Couple with child given first consideration. Les Thornbury, 36 University Trailer Court. (1-255-1)

FOR SALE AUTOMOTIVE 6BB

'42 BUICK SUPER FOUR DOOR SEdan. Completely equipped, five good tires. In excellent condition. W. H. Hicks, 65 Uni. Trailer Court. (1-253-1)

WANTED TO RENT 24B

HOUSE OR COTTAGE WITH TWO OR more bedrooms for student and family from now until end of second summer session. Furnished or unfurnished. Call 9472. (1-150-1)

HELP WANTED FEMALE 8A

CASHIER WANTED. PREFER STUdent wife. Write P. O. Box 70, Chapel Hill. (ch 1x1)

Strike a new height in popularity now—study Ballroom dancing at WHERRY DANCE STUDIO. Even if you have danced for years but have had no formal Ballroom training, you will be shocked at your own shortcomings when you know the correct way to dance. People who seem to get along well are amazed when they train before mirrors and see how they really look to others—their postures, grips, their steps. WHERRY STUDIO develops a new grace, a lightness and a perfection that many dance studios fail to stress.

Girls, do you look as if you were carrying a caboose when you are dancing? Do you straddle and hop instead of dancing? Don't embarrass your partner by being guilty of bad dancing. You can learn so easily to look beautiful on the dance floor at WHERRY.

Remember that there is no other exercise so perfect for developing and keeping a beautiful figure than dancing. Five or six pounds a month can be lost in this easy way. Waist lines get smaller—it's the new look with ballroom dancing.

Drop that monotonous worn out routine of just a few steps for a varied and enjoyable array of new and exciting combinations of clever new steps. See and learn for yourself a new perfection in dancing—develop that graceful and lilting swing of professional dancers.

Begin learning the correct and exciting way to dance today. Your dancing will take on an enchantment that all partners will love.

Records kept of your progress.

Enroll today.

WHERRY STUDIO
"If You Can Walk, You Can Dance"

FOX TROT JITTER BUG WALTZ
TANGO SAMBA RUMBA

6 Lessons $15 Couples—6 Lessons $25
Small Groups — Per Person — 10 Lessons $15

219 E. Franklin St For Appointments Phone 9291

ONE DAY ONLY

ACTUAL SIZE

4 PORTRAITS
Size up
ONLY
$2.25
Reg. Price — $4.50
No appointment necessary
HOURS — 9:00 to 5:00

ONE DAY — SATURDAY, APRIL 24 — ONE DAY

Bring this ad to our studio on April 24 and have a beautiful portrait made of any member of your family at this low price

WOOTTEN - MOULTON
Photographers Chapel Hill, N. C.

Washington and Lee Conducts Convention To Nominate GOP Presidential Candidate

Lexington, Va., April 20—(UP)—The keynote speaker of the mock Republican convention being held at Washington and Lee university said today that the students will pick the man who will be elected the next president of the United States.

Representative Clarence J. Brown of Ohio, Executive committee chairman of the Republican National committee, told the 1,094 student delegates to the convention that the American people are "fearful that a continuation of New Deal policies will lead to final destruction of his republic."

Brown said the American people are tired of what he called "hybrid Henrys and high-tax Harrys," and he flatly predicted that the person nominated by the mock convention will be elected.

Brown is national campaign manager for Presidential Candidate Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

The Republican spokesman said the GOP kept its promise to slash personal income taxes. He said the party had not done as well as it hoped in cutting the cost of government, but it had saved several billion dollars.

The meeting at W and L is the ninth quadrennial mock national political convention, a tradition on the Lexington campus for 40 years. The convention is held as regularly as a President is elected.

Months before it begins, the students begin its preparation. They think, act and believe like the people they are to represent. The convention arrangements committees provide plenty of indoctrination propaganda. Special newspapers are printed and distributed on the campus and the central theme of conversation is the approaching show.

Campaign headquarters are set up for each state and territory having a vote in the actual conventions, the campus is plastered with political posters, and loudspeakers blare night and day presenting the merits of the various candidates.

In dead earnest, the students go about their tasks by making like the delegates they are representing. Their seriousness in doing their job is the primary reason for the phenomenal success of past conventions. Five times in eight tries, they have selected the eventual nominee.

ON THE complaint of a young officer Lili St. Cyr was fined $350 for revealing too much of her form before a Los Angeles audience. She failed to convince the judge that her routine was art and an interpretive dance of love. This photo of Lili was made in one of her more dressed-up moments. (International)

SP CAUCUS

There will be a caucus of the Student party members of the Student Legislature this evening at 7:30 in Graham Memorial.

New Carolina Quarterly Declares Editorship, Business Manager's Position To Be Available

By Jim Dickinson

The offices of editorship and business managership of the Carolina Quarterly were declared open at the quaterly's meeting Monday afternoon, and all University students desiring these posts for the 1948-49 year are urged to submit written applications to the information office of Graham Memorial by April 30.

The quarterly's Executive committee made the announcement following a joint meeting with the Faculty Advisory committee and the Finance committee.

The three committees also worked out plans for launching a campaign intended to secure sponsorship and financial backing for the quarterly.

Students rendering applications, as requested by John Marshal, Executive committee chairman, should include previous publication experience and ideas for making the quarterly a successful literary venture.

All applications will be carefully considered by the Faculty Advisory committee in coordination with the Publication board.

Upon election to office, the editor and business manager will be permitted to select their respective staffs, by and with the consent and appraval of the Faculty Advisory committee, at was announced.

The quarterly, endorsed by more than 1400 students to replace the Carolina Magazine, is being created as an outlet for students' literary talent.

Literary contributions, as stated in the quarterly's prospectus, will be solicitated from sources other than the University, but a minimum of fifty per cent student contribution will be maintained.

Two prizes, one for prose and one for poetry, shall be awarded for the best unsolicited student work contained in a single issue of the magazine.

Serving on the Faculty Advisory committee are Professors Phillips Russell, Journalism department; Charles Eaton, English department; H. K. Russell, English department; Walter Spearman, Journalism department; Lyman Cotten, English department.

The Finance committee headed by Angus McKellar, is working to solicit funds to support the quarterly above the $2,000 already appropriated by the Student Legislature for the first year's publication.

SMILING AND CONFIDENT Harold E. Stassen (right) is shown entering the Hiram, O., College auditorium where he addressed a "mock" Republican convention staged by the students. Stassen said he was "much encouraged" by his victories in the Nebraska and Wisconsin primaries. He received a great ovation except for a few scattered "boos" when he advocated outlawing the Communist Party. (International Soundphoto)

Person Hall Gallery To Present Exhibit

An exhibition of original paintings, seriographs, and etchings is being shown in Person Hall art gallery, sponsored by Collectors of American Art, Inc., which is sending the exhibition through the Southern states at the request of a group of Universities and Art associations. This is a non-profit organization which sells original paintings of living artists.

The American Art-Union of 1839-53 (of which "Collectors" is a modern prototype) purchased the works of American artists such as Inness, Bingham and Doughty at a time when America was looking to Europe as the sole source of art and almost entirely neglecting her own artists. Since its inception in 1938, "Collectors" has distributed several hundred works by such men as Corbino, Bosa, Csoka, Klonis, Kozlow, Pellew, Maccoy, Pytlak and many others who are represented in national institutions—The Metropolitan Museum and the Museums of Brooklyn, California, Detroit. Toledo—the Library of Congress, the National Gallery in Washington, D. C., etc.

The exhibition will continue through April 25.

Showing in the small gallery is an exhibition from the Museum of Modern Art, "Principles of Design."

-Hot Water-

(Continued from page 1)

tinue its services.

Bennett said that the current measures instituted for the conservation of fuel are quite necessary since the University has run out of coal, except for a three-day emergency reserve, and has been using oil as a substitue for the past two weeks. This oil, still a scarce item, is supplied daily by trucks from Greensboro.

The Director added that this oil supply is not to be counted on as a stable source since the University, having used no oil last year, has no priority for it.

A light of optimism shown in the recent news dispatches that two-thirds of the coal miners have returned to work, and Bennett said that as soon as the miners reach full production, the University will get a sufficient supply to insure normal operation. Providing that no further strikes occur, he estimated that the University would probably have enough coal in about a week.

Student Directory, Freshman Guide Staff Spots Open

The Publications committee of the YMCA is calling for petitions from anyone wishing to work as business manager of the Student Directory or of the Freshman handbook. Applicants should apply to the information booth in the Y by Friday, April 30. They will be interviewed by the Publications committee, which will make its decision the first week in May.

The Student Directory and the Freshman Handbook are financed by advertisements, and the business managers are paid on a commission basis. Last year combined commissions to the business manager of the Student Directory and the business manager of the Freshman Handbook amounted to over $500.

Work on the handbook must begin immediately as it goes to press in June in order to be ready to be sent to freshmen in the middle of August.

The business manager of the Student Directory will have until about the first of October to work before the Directory goes to press.

ALPHA CHI INITIATES

In a recent ceremony, 14 pledges were initiated into the Rho chapter of Alpha Chi Sigma, professional chemical fraternity.

The new members are H. Adams, Jr., E. L. Albenesius, J. S. Booth, S. R. Greene, Jr., F. W. James, L. H. Jenkins, J. Montgomery, C. A. McMurray, Jr., E. L. Nelson, M. H. Peterson, L. D. Quinn, H. E. Redd, C. H. Teague and W. Winstead, Jr.

The hed color of meat is caused by the hemoglobin of the blood still present in tissues.

Campus Calendar

4:00 p. m.—Mathematics Seminar, 302 Phillips hall.
5:00 p. m.—Coed Leadership Training program mass meeting, Main lounge.
5:20 p. m.—Coed discussion of student legislature, Roland Parker lounge No. 2.
5:20 p. m.—Coed discussion of Coed Senate, Roland Parker lounge No. 3.
5:20 p. m.—Coed discussion of Honor Council, Women's council room.
6:00 p. m.—Pi Kappa Phi, Roland Parker lounge No. 1.
7:00 p. m.—Southern Conference for Human Welfare, Grail room.
7:00 p. m.—Coed leadership training program mass meeting, Main lounge.
7:30 p. m.—H-2-3 club, Horace Williams lounge.
7:30 p. m.—Coed discussion group on house presidents, Roland Parker lounge No. 2.
7:30 p. m.—Coed discussion for social chairmen, Roland Parker lounge No. 3.
7:30 p. m.—Coed discussion on publicity chairmen, Women's council room.
8:30 p. m.—"Sweep It Clean," Memorial hall.
8:30 p. m.—Kroll Quartet, Hill hall.
8:30 p. m.—Three-thirty by Air, WHHT.

REHDERS
CHAPEL HILL FLOWER SHOP
Opposite Post Office Corner

Lloyd Electric Co.
F-3862 CARRBORO
Sales & Service
For
• L&H ELECTRIC STOVES
• JUD-WHITEHEAD & RED CROWN HOT WATER HEATERS
We specialize in wiring new construction and in general repair.

GET SET FOR A GAY AND GLORIOUS JIVE AND JOY-FILLED MUSICAL CRUISE . . .

Come all ye hopsters for the hottest jam session of your lives when you meet on the screen those famous swing and sway idols. An entire program of musical shorts featuring —

TEX BENEKE • CHARLIE SPIVAK
ARTIE SHAW • FREDDIE MARTIN
GENE KRUPA AND MANY OTHERS

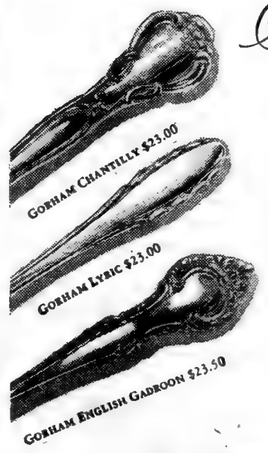
VILLAGE THEATRE
THURSDAY APRIL 22nd

YES, FOLKS, IT'S SUPER AND SWINGSATIONAL!

You'll brag about
SOMETHING BRAND NEW IN SLACKS

Solid Comfort! Just make a bee-line for BRAGGS—the new-style slacks you let in and out at the waist with a flip of a horizontal zipper!

Good Looks—Plus! BRAGGS can't be beat for smart styling. They fit you smoothly, neatly—with no bulge, no gap, no bunching. Yes, and they come in the very finest fabrics—in all the popular shades.



Top-Notch Tailoring! Can't beat 'em for quality, either. "Techni-Tailored" by Gordon, BRAGGS boast full-cut pleats, welt seams, dropped belt-loops and custom-stitch pockets. Best of all, BRAGGS fit every smart man in town with pleated style in sizes from 29 to 38 inclusive, plain in sizes 40, 42, 44.

EXCLUSIVE WITH
Carolina Sport Shop

Enjoy Your "Party" Sterling Every Day . . .

Gorham STERLING

SET for two or ten, gleaming Gorham Sterling will give your table a festive air. The more you use your Gorham—the lovelier it grows. That's why we recommend starting with a few place-settings. Enjoy your Gorham right now . . . match and add over the years.

Price includes Federal Tax, and is for one place-setting.

USE OUR DEFERRED PAYMENT PLAN
WENTWORTH & SLOAN
Jewelers
167 EAST FRANKLIN STREET TELEPHONE F-2732

Ridgeway's
OPTICIANS
Complete Eyeglass Service
Prompt attention to all mail orders
PROFESSIONAL BUILDING
Raleigh N. C.

Whid Powell's
COLONIAL HOUSE SYSTEM
WAFFLES
GRILLED FRANKS
Weekdays
11:00 a. m. — 12 a. m.
Friday & Saturday
11:00 a. m. — 2 a. m.
Rosemary St.—Opp. City Hall

The women's and children's wear industries place a high value on

MANPOWER

These industries, with textiles and men's wear, employed 2,395,000 workers in 1947 . . . more than the total for the automobile, electric machinery, chemical and allied products, tobacco, petroleum products and coal industries *combined!

With so vast a payroll, it is not surprising that the women's and children's wear industries should be engaged in an endless quest for new ideas and business-building techniques.

Source: Bureau of Labor Statistics*

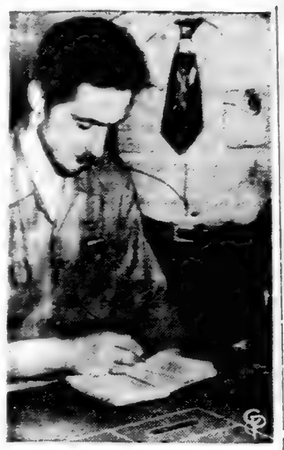
Introducing
The Women's and Children's Wear Industry to THE AMERICAN COLLEGIATE PUBLIC

A series sponsored by "Women's Wear Daily," a Fairchild Publication, 7 East 12th St., New York 3, N.Y.

LI'L ABNER By Al Capp

Every day — in every way — it's HARRY'S

LIBRARY (Periodical Dept.)
University of North Carolina
Chapel Hill, N. C.
1-31-48



WEATHER
Fair and not quite so warm.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
Wide Views
Mutilators Warned
The New Look

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., THURSDAY, APRIL 22, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | NO. 147

Senator Glen H. Taylor Scheduled To Speak Here Monday

UNIVERSITY of Chicago student Albert Hibbs (above) records the results of the play at a roulette wheel at a Las Vegas, Nev., casino. Hibbs and his partner, Ray Walford, claim they have a mathematical system for beating the wheel. They started with fifty cent bets and after the first day they were $1,100 ahead. Hibbs and Walford work the wheel in six-hour shifts. (International)

Bill Calls For . . . . . Four Town Districts

Redistricting Bill To Come Up At Student Legislature Meeting

By Herb Nachman

The University party will introduce a new redistricting bill on the floor of the Student Legislature when the group convenes tonight at 7:30 in Di hall.

The new legislation which splits the town men's area into four districts will be the third major bill to be introduced to the Student Legislature this year concerning the controversial redistricting issue.

Under the new bill, the men's dormitory districts will remain the same as will both the women's town and dorm districts. Reapportionment of legislators is not specifically defined in the bill but will be turned over to the Elections board in the event the bill is passed.

As proposed in the bill, students in town will be divided into four districts. The first district will include Victory Village and the Pittsboro Trailer Camp with 444 voters at present.

The second district takes in all students living in the southwestern portion of town, bounded by Pittsboro road and Columbia street north to the intersection of Columbia street and Cameron avenue. It will include all students living on both sides of West Cameron and on Fetzer lane. This district, almost twice the size of the first, includes 851 voters.

Town district three as set forth in the bill includes all students living in the northwestern section of town. All students living north of Cameron avenue and west of Old Fraternity row with the exception of those included in district two. It will also include students living in Carrboro, Greensboro, Burlington and other areas lying in its general direction. This district includes 827 voters.

District four with 856 voters would take in all students living in the eastern section of town. It is bound by Pittsboro road, Old Fraternity row and Columbia street and would include students living in Raleigh and Durham and other areas in the general direction of district three.

The five dormitory districts for men remain the same under the bill as does the dorm and town women's districts. Two proposals defining legislators' movement and free and open candidacy are also included in the bill.

Under the new bill, a legislator would be permitted to change his or her residence within the constitutionally established district from which he was elected without being declared out of the district and would also maintain his seat in the Student Legislature.

Also, the bill states that it will not be within the jurisdiction of any legislative group on campus to prohibit any candidate for a student government office from filing independently or from accepting the nomination of any

(See LEGISLATURE, page 4)

In addition to the presentation of the redistricting bill, election of officers for the Student Legislature is scheduled for tonight's meeting. Officers to be elected are, parliamentarian, speaker pro tempore, clerk, sergeant-at-arms, and student representative to Graham Memorial. Also included on tonight's agenda will be the appointment of committees. All legislators, old and new, are requested to be present.

Lewis Orders Miners To Return To Pits; Government Issues New Strike Injunction

Washington, April 21 — (UP) — Miners are streaming back to the pits tonight in the soft coal fields.

In Pennsylvania, U. S. steel officials report they are reopening eight of their diggings for the night shift. A spokesman for the Pittsburgh consolidation coal company predicts operations will reach normal at his firm's pits tomorrow.

In northern West Virginia, mine owners report that virtually all of their mines are re-opening at midnight. Production also is reported on the increase in the middle and far west.

The miners are returning to their jobs on orders from their boss, John L. Lewis, but the labor chief still is in a tough legal spot tonight.

A federal court order has been obtained by the government outlawing another coal strike for an indefinite period. The injunction is aimed at the protest strike, which is ending. The mine owners have asked the court to throw out the pension agreement that Lewis won nine days ago by his mine walkout.

If both these court actions stick, John L. will be in a fairly tight position. He won't be able to call a strike without inviting new legal action. In addition, his miners may lose the pensions for which they went on strike.

French Club Play Slated for Tonight

The eternal triangle, plots and counter-plots, poisonings, secret passageways, sadism, assassinations, masked ladies, perfumed gentlemen and "l'amour tojours l'amour" make up the picture of the dissolute 16th century society that Alexandre Dumas gives in "Henri III et Sa Cour" which Le Cercle Francais will present at the Playmaker theater tonight and tomorrow night at 8:30, under the sponsorship of the Graham Memorial enterainment series.

There will be no admission charge, but according to the practice in French theaters programs will be sold and the proceeds will go to American Aid to France. Spectators may contribute any amount they desire in exchange for the program which will contain a synopsis in English of the action of the drama.

Heading the cast the Duchesse de Guise will be Mlle. Genevieve Faucher of Algiers, graduate student, with Dr. Urban Tigner Holmes as the Duke. Her lover, the Count de Saint-Megrin, will be played by Otis Beeson, with the supporting cast as follows: Ruggieri, the astrologer, Joe Hutchinson; Catherine de Medici, Elizabeth Thomas; Henri III, Bill Baskin; favorites of the king, Floyd Ellington, Philip Kennedy and Ed Duke; ladies-in-waiting, Lib Savage and Jean Riden; courtiers, Robert Walker, Tommy Collier, and Robert Hooper. The play is directed by Walter D. Creech of the Department of Romance Languages.

Henri III et Sa Cour, first produced at the Theatre Francais in 1829, was a sensation in spite of the objections of the censors to its presentation of royalty as depraved. Dumas, who considered himself primarily a dramatist, the success of his swashbuckling novels notwithstanding, may be said to have launched the romantic movement in the French theater with his melodrama.

Possible Cancer Cure May Lie Within Atom

Washington, April 21 — (UP) — The deadly atom has gone to work to relieve human suffering.

David Lilienthal, chairman of the Atomic Energy commission, reveals that our atomic scientists have developed a better and cheaper method of treating cancer.

The scientists have discovered that they can make a common and plentiful industrial metal known as cobalt, radioactive to the point where it can replace radium in cancer treatment.

Lilienthal reported this momentous development in person to President Truman in the White House today. The atom chief emphasized that radioactive cobalt is not the long hoped for cure of cancer. There still is no such cure. Cobalt which has been baked in atom furnaces can be used in place of rare and expensive radium in treatment designed to arrest cancer growth. Furthermore, it can be used more easily and effective.

News Briefs

Every Man Will Be Drafted, Says Bush

Washington, April 21 —(UP)— The nation's top atomic scientist, Dr. Vannevar Bush, said today every man will have to be drafted to work or fight in any new war. In a letter to the House Armed Services committee, he urged that legislation be passed to provide for a universal draft in case of an emergency.

3,000-Mile Shot

New York, April 21 —(UP)— Former General James Doolittle predicted today that guided atomic missiles will carry atom bombs as much as 3,000 miles in the future. Doolittle, who led the first air raid on Tokyo, told an audience in New York's Museum of Natural History that the rockets will travel faster than 3,000 miles per hour.

Snipers 'Had It'

Jerusalem, April 21 —(UP)— British troops in the Palestine port of Haifa turned cannon and tank fire on Jewish snipers today. Jewish militia men have been sniping at traffic on the one road the British use to pull their troops out of Haifa.

Palestine Mission

Lake Success, N. Y., April 21—(UP)—The American delegation to the United Nations has proposed sending a UN truce mission to Palestine. The US proposal calls for a small UN police force to enforce the truce.

Italian Cabinet

Rome, April 21—(UP)—Italian Premier De Gasperi is expected to form a new cabinet May 20. The Italian Minister of Interior claims the Christan Democratic party has won an absolute majority in both houses of the parliament.

Studebaker Strike

South Bend, Ind., April 21 —(UP)— Most of the Studebaker corporation's 15,000 production workers are idle because of what the company calls an unauthorized work stoppage. Studebaker President Harold Vance said today he doesn't know when production will be started again.

Harold Stassen, Robert Taft Fighting For Nomination in May Ohio Primary

Cleveland, Ohio, April 13 —(UP)— Harold Stassen and Senator Robert Taft, Republican presidential hopefuls, are fighting it out in the political battle for Ohio.

Both Taft and Stassen are touring the State to get support for Ohio's May 4 primaries. Stassen explains his invasion of Taft's home state by saying, "It will give the people a chance to declare themselves on broad campaign issues."

He told an audience at Middletown that he wants only 23 of the State's 53 GOP convention delegates. He also defended the Taft-Hartley law but said several provisions should be changed.

Taft, who is almost sure of the other 30 delegates, has called for a stronger American drive for peace. He told an audience in Warren that the cause of free government should be just as aggressive as that of Communism.

PREPARING TO CELEBRATE their Silver Wedding anniversary on April 26, King George and Queen Elizabeth of England are shown in this informal photo in Buckingham Palace's blue drawing room. While his bride of 25 years watches, the King writes at a Louis XV bureau. (International)

THE NOSE OF A CAR, owned by Dr. Henry A. Wahn, the Bronx, New York, is shown after it went through the brick wall of the doctor's garage. The slight miscalculation was made by Dr. Wahn's 17-year-old daughter, Mary Ann, who was teaching herself to drive. Nobody was hurt, but the garage will need a major operation. (International)

Chancellor House Will Address Coed Officers Banquet Tonight

By Sally Woodhull

Chancellor R. B. House will be the principle speaker at tonight's banquet of old and new coed officers, the conclusion of the Coed Leadership Training program. To be held at the Carolina Inn, the banquet is formal and will begin at 6 o'clock.

Barbara Cashion, outgoing speaker of the Coed Senate, will preside, and Betty Rose Dowden of the YWCA will give the invocation and benediction.

The banquet concludes a three-day intensive training program designed to orient new officers in their duties and to acquaint them with other girls who will serve as leaders of next year's coed student body.

Sponsored by Coed Senate, the program is a unified effort by all old officers to improve the functioning of coed organizations each year.

At tonight's banquet, new officers will be recognized, and outgoing officers will turn over to them written evaluation reports of the work of the respective organizations during the past year.

Sadie Pearson has acted as chairman of the Leadership Training program this year, and other members of the planning committee include the following: Betsy Ann Barbee, Barbara Cashion, Bootsie McWilliams, Ferne Hughes, Betty Houston, Betty Long, Joyce Jones, Ruth Evans, Twig Branch, and Cappie Swain.

Royall Will Head Advisers Group

Miss Katherine "Teeny" Royall, rising senior from Goldsboro, is the newly-appointed chairman of coed advisers for the coming year. As chairman she will plan the training program for the advisers which will be held the first three weeks in May.

At that time, the student advisers will learn the duties and responsibilities of their positions, and will become familiar with the orientation program which they are to carry out in the fall.

By virtue of her position, Miss Royall will also be a member of the Orientation committee, and will help in planning the schedule for fall orientation.

A transfer from St. Mary's Junior college, she has been active on campus as a member of the Coed Senate and the YWCA. She was elected scholarship chairman of the Pi Beta Phi sorority, and is co-chairman of the YWCA Worship committee.

FINAL CHEERLEADER

Final tryouts for the cheering squad will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon in Kenan stadium. In case of rain, the tryouts will be held in the Tin Can.

The following girls are requested by Norm Sper to appear for the finals: Claudia Lee, Gayle Hancock, Gay Williams, Becky Holden, Lucille Arnette, Sarah Jane Farlow, Sue Walton, Faith Adams and Mary Neely.

ELECTIONS BOARD

There will be a meeting of the Elections board in the Grail room tonight at 7 o'clock. The board will consider committee reports at the meeting.

UP LEGISLATORS

There will be an important meeting of all University party legislators in Graham Memorial this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The purpose of the caucus will be to discuss the election of committee chairmen in the Legislature tonight. Attendance of all legislators is requested.

CORRECTION

The North Carolina Symphony will appear tomorrow night in Memorial hall rather than Hill hall as previously announced by Graham Memorial. Dr. Benjamin Swalin is conductor of the orchestra, and Edward Cone will appear as soloist.

Progressive Vice-Presidential Candidate Appearing Under Auspices of Wallacites

Senator Glen H. Taylor, vice-presidential candidate on the Progressive party ticket with Henry A. Wallace, will speak here Monday night at 8 o'clock in Hill hall.

Senator Taylor is speaking under the auspices of the Wallace-for-President club.

The Chapel Hill speaking engagement will be the second one in N. C. within two days for the Idaho senator. He will give the main address at the founding convention of the Progressive party of North Carolina in Winston-Salem Sunday.

Senator Taylor is well known for his fights against the Taft-Hartley Bill, against the seating of Senator Bilbo, and for his cross-country horseback trip to "warn" Americans of "the dangers of the present foreign policy."

He has introduced bills to restore price controls, for national health insurance, to raise the minimum wage, to investigate the real estate lobby, to make credit available to small business, to abolish discriminatory freight rates, to implement the UN Palestine partition plan, and to alleviate the shortage of low rent housing for veterans and non-veterans.

Congress Is Asked For 66 Air Groups

Washington, April 21 —(UP)— Defense Secretary Forestal today handed Congress a compromise defense plan which calls for 66 instead of 70 air groups.

The Air Force had asked for 70 groups, while Forrestal and many military leaders wanted 55. Chief aim of the plan is to boost the nation's air strength to more than 6,500 planes.

This compromise program adds $500,000,000 to the over-all bill for military expenditures and boosts the administration's manpower figure by 61,000 men.

While Forrestal was handing his blueprint to the Senate Armed Services committee, the corresponding group in the House received a drastic recommendation from Dr. Vannevar Bush, chairman of the research and development board.

Bush wrote the committee it should enact a "work or fight" bill at once. He described the military draft measure now under consideration as a stop-gap measure.

Wesley Officers Installed Sunday

Climaxing the Recreation conference held by U. N. C. Methodist students for G. C., W. C., State, and Duke last weekend was the installation of new Wesley foundation officers on Sunday night at the weekly supper and program. Jim McAllister, president of Wesley foundation for the past year and present state Methodist Student movement president, presided at the candlelight ceremony.

The new officers are: President, Edward Buckner of Chapel Hill; vice-president, James Brockman; secretary, Katherine Hovis; treasurer, Ed Aldridge; and co-editors of the Wesley Worker, W. F. publication, Doris Weaver and Ray Mills.

The W. F. council has announced the following committee chairmen for the coming year in addition to the other officers. They are: Recreation, J. D. Foust; program, Bob Bunch; finance, Bob Parham; CRIL representative, Joe Beasley; commissary, Carol Brockman and Sam Langell; campus church relations, Jim McAllister and Ed Buckner; and librarian, Jo Eller.

The outstanding positions of the group have been held during the past year by Jim McAllister, president; Bob Allen, vice-president; Caroline Warren, secretary; and Basil Sherril, treasurer.

SP LEGISLATORS

There will be a caucus of all Student party legislators this afternoon at 4:30 in Graham Memorial. It is imperative that all representatives be present.

Gogol's Comedy To Be Presented

The Laboratory theater of the Carolina Playmakers will present Nikolai Gogol's satirical comedy, "The Inspector General," on Saturday, Sunday, and Monday nights in the main lounge of Graham Memorial. The production is being offered as an entertainment feature of the student union and no admission will be charged.

The play is a high-spirited satire on official crookedness and human stupidity. It has remained fresh on the stages of the theatrical capitols of the world and is today one of the most genial creations of the theatre.

It is under the direction of James Byrd, and James Shaver is stage manager. Technicians include: Marty Jacobs, Mary Jo Cain, Frank Echols, Betty Young, and Ellen Smith.

The cast includes: James Geiger, Eleanor Ringer, Phyllis Isenhour, James Riley, Mac Shaw, Murray McCain, Bob Barr, Pete Strader, Karl Harrell, A. E. Westover, III, George Upchurch, Frank Echols, Helen Brown, Bill Ayers, Edna Dooley, Mary Jacobs, Gloria Gunn, Reggie Kachigian, Mary Jo Cain, and Pat Palmer.

Playmaker Tryout Will Begin Today

Public tryouts for the last production of the year by the Laboratory theater of the Carolina Playmakers will be held this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock in the Playmaker theater, according to Eleanor Ringer, graduate student who will direct the presentation.

The play, "Mr. Luck," will be the first original script produced by the lab group. It was written by Mildred Howard of Glasgow, Ky., a graduate student in the department of dramatic art.

Miss Ringer said that the cast called for five women and six men. The play will be the first modern show to be staged by the lab group and is a light domestic comedy.

She explained that because of the production of "Cyrano de Bergerac" in the Forest theater, the presentation of "Mr. Luck" is not set.

"All we know now is that the production will be during the last part of May," she said.

Reward Offers for Reuther's Attacker Reach $111,000; Manhunt Goes On

Detroit, Mich., April 21—(UP) —With reward offers totalling $111,000, Detroit police are staging one of the biggest manhunts in the city's history.

Word is out to "get the man who tried to kill United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther, who was cut down by a shotgun blast through the window of his home last night.

The UAW itself is offering $100,000 to anyone putting the finger on the man. Reuther's home UAW local offers another $1,000, the Detroit city council offers $10,000 and the Michigan Communist party offers $500.

Representative Charles Kersten (R-Wis.), charges Communists with causing the attack on Reuther. He told the House in Washington today that Reuther is a symbol of the CIO's battle against Communism. Meanwhile, the Michigan Communist party charges that the attack could only have been made by enemies of the labor movement.

Write Us Your Views

(The following editorial, clipped from the Purdue Exponent, says very aptly the policy that the DTH would like to follow concerning "Write Away", for that reason, we are reprinting it in its entirity.)

With the University at its present size, it's an impossible task to gain a cross-section of the whole student body and staff. Thus the DTH makes its annual invitation for outside participation in its editorial department by issuing a call for letters.

The "letters to the editor" column has always been the open door for those who would otherwise have no outlet to the rest of the campus to air their thoughts and voice their criticism. Often by the presentation of problems to the public, action is brought much more quickly than if only a few people knew about them.

A few considerations should be taken by a person who decides to write a "letter". He should remember that it will probably appear in print, for it is the policy of the DTH to print all reasonable letters. He should be sure that the facts contained in it are correct, or that it at least has something to back it up. Crank letters or letters containing gripes which are made only for the love of griping can be of no value.

Personal issues should be brought out only where they constitute a violation of rights or where they affect others. There wouldn't be much point in a letter complaining about the loss of a shirt in the laundry.

One thing that can keep a letter to the editor from being setup in type is the absence of a signature at the end. The fact that a person does not want to sign his letter often indicates that he himself does not believe what he is writing. It may show that he has not looked into the matter thoroughly enough or that he is not sure of his sources of information.

The above statements are not made to discourage the submitting of letters to the editor; but, on the contrary, to make an offer to every reader to take an active part in the editorial work of the paper.—r.e.h.

Malicious Mutilators Warned

When someone asks a Carolina student what the difference is between his university and some other well known school, he almost invariably points to the Carolina Spirit as the distinguishing factor. This Spirit, which has been fostered by many generations of our forefathers, is so prevalent among the majority of the student body that over two thousand students waited for more than an hour last fall to cheer our football team after its Texas disaster. This same Spirit makes possible our cherished Honor System, which is truly one of the strongest foundations of our student life today. However, there is a small minority of our fellow students which is undermining that very foundation which makes our life at Carolina so rich and unique.

One of the factors which is contributing to this dangerous situation is the malicious mutilation of books in our library by the tearing out and marking of pages which contain information needed in various courses. Since these books are community property and are for the use of seven thousand students, it is unpardonable for any one person to commit such a crime against his fellow man. Any crime against society must be punished by the offended society, and there will be no exception made in this case. Any such violation in the future will be dealt with severely by the Honor Councils, serving as the representatives of a rightly indignant student body.

Page Harris
Men's Council

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $3.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.

Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ..... ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager ..... T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor . . . . Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors . . Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associate Editors . . . . . Bob Sain, Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady
Society Editor . . . . . Weddy Thorp
Photographer . . . Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. . . . . . Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. . . . C. B. Mendenhall
Subscription Mgrs. . . . . Jim King, Chan Pegram
Asst. Business Mgrs. . . Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. . . . . Randall Hudson, Don Snow

NEWS STAFF: Herb Nachman, Charlie Gibson, Sally Woodhull, John Stump, Gordon Huffines, Jack Brown, Stewart McKeel, Margaret Gaston, Dan Wallace, Charlie Craven, Mark Sumner, Emily Baker, Doris Weaver, Harriet Sipple, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.

SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Larry Fox, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher, Mel Horowitz, Faith Adams, Anne Wells.

BUSINESS STAFF: James Crews, Jackie Rogers, J. C. Brown, Joe Williams, Gladys Cottrell, Bill Peebles, Neal Howard, Jr., Vin Snell, Candy Jonas, Kathryn McLean, Jim Brown, Baxter Morris, Ed Warton, Leonard Dudley, Jean Williams, Charmian Griffin.

NIGHT SPORTS: Buddy Vaden NIGHT EDITOR: Herb Nachman

Offices are located on the second floor of Graham Memorial with night office at Colonial Press, Inc., Carrboro. Telephones: Editorial, F-3361; Business, F-3371; Night office, 3337. Mailing address, Box 1080.

Carolina Carousel

UNC Politicoes Still Promising More Telephones

By R. Foo Giduz

Checking back through the old DTH files the other night (crass procrastination!) on past political campaigns we note that even back in '32 the old All-Campus party was promising the hackneyed, time-worn "better telephone service for the campus. . ."

We figure as to how the millenium may well come and go and UNC politicians will still be promising more telephones in dormitories. Always a popular issue, the question of getting more telephones has served as a long-distant plank for nearly every campus office seeker since long before even Jimmy Wallace arrived.

. .Fortunately no telephones have ever been secured, or there would be no platforms left to run on for some politico-aspirants. . .(Suggest local printshops keep a ready supply of stock "telephone platforms" on hand and thus save the composing time and candidates' money.). . .It's a moot question as to whether anybody has ever looked under the telephone situation surface. Have new instruments ever been ordered? Will there be telephones on all floors of the new dorms; two per floor for women's dorms? Are there perhaps some state laws restricting the number of 'phones per dormitory in order not to discriminate against the messengers' union?

. . .Some telephoneless pessimists say they have the answer: The next war will come along soon. . .Instruments will be unavailable. Politicoes can blame the situation on the war. And keep on promising "more telephones. . ."—Simple.

That cheering renaissance we were talking of is coming about. . .but indeed. . .Next year at balltime C.C. won't be around to holler "YELL," but the flock of cheerleading aspirants trying out this week will have a bag of tricks that just won't quit. . .And everybody will yell. (Anyhow.)

And Thanx, thanx, and more thanx to Kay Kyser, the best d. cheerleader in the country when he was here a score of years ago and always the top rooter of UNC nationally. . .Kay gave out with some of his spirit secrets at the cheering squad tryouts on Monday.—Sed the first time he ever led a cheer at UNC he blandly stood up before the crowd and hollered, "Now let's all give fifteen "rahs" for the Baptist Church, just for the hell-ofit." . . .They hollered!

KATSOFF IS SPEAKER

Dr. Louis O. Katsoff of the Department of Philosophy will speak next week, April 22, at Salem College, Winston-Salem, on "Great Ideas in Western Civilization."

He was guest speaker this week at the Honor Roll exercises at Catawba college in Salisbury, and was also Chapel Hill speaker at Atlantic Christian College in Wilson, N. C., where he also conducted a seminar on the "Philosophy oof Education" with the faculty.

WHAT'S UP in Graham Memorial

GM's genial travel bureau director, Bob Watson, has given the word that on April 25 Eastern Air Lines and the Seaboard Railway will change their schedules going north and south. So if you're planning a big trip, check with him to be sure you're planning to go when there's something to take you.

Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony (No. 6) will be featured on tonight's recorded dinner music program, along with Mozart's Overture to the Magic Flute.

Bridge fiends will get the extra needed attraction of prizes and refreshments at tonight's benefit bridge being given in the main lounge by the Junior Service league of Chapel Hill. Tickets are 50 cents.

Write Away

A Swan Song on Assembly

Editor:
(to R. Foo Giduz)

In an attempt to clarify some of the issues raised by you in your column and with an attempt to justify the actions of the Carolina delegation, I hope we can sing our "Swan song" concerning the Student Legislative Assembly and rid the pages of the Daily Tar Heel of left-right post-assembly fights with the realization that we can continue out of the press without boring the Student body at large.

I think you were very successful in your article in that your writing was fairly objective and didn't tend too much to give the impression that you were on the left wing of the hall a majority of the time. I will attempt to keep my own personal opinions and biased prejudices out of the discussion, but you will recall that generally I was one of the "solid citizens" who was "agin it".

Your statement that debate was irrational and emotional is to a certain extent factual; but your inference that debate seldom changed opinions is not so well based. Surely you remember that several times a vote was completely reversed after someone had moved for reconsideration and presented additional data. There was a very obvious reversal of opinion on the issue of segregated schools. A vote was taken and was something like 55-33 for breaking the segregation lines; someone moved to reconsider and when the next vote was taken it was something like 55-33 for keeping the whites and Negroes in separate schools — an obvious reversal of opinion after further debate. And also don't forget that emotionalism and appeal to the audience are definitely two important factors in good debating. Proven equipment. In my opinion, again trying to be objective, the radicals appealed to emotion more than did the more conservative element, or to quote —"the solid citizens" by gum!

Fear, in contradiction to your opinion, was not a motivating force for either faction. I think there was a matter of morals involved on both sides—one side with morals which kept them fighting for just morals, the other side (this will be denied) with morals mixed with a grain of practicality and a hope that perhaps the General Assembly of the State might sanction some of the things passed and discussed. This last sentence with the word "practicality" will be your first objection to the letter or shall we say main objection—but perhaps we can discuss it over a cup of coffee or in a public debate between the rightists and leftists of the Carolina delegation to the State Student Legislative Assembly.

Gran Childress

The Man Wants the Facts

Editor:

Attention has been called to articles in the Saturday issue of The Daily Tar Heel, namely an editorial by Mr. Buchan and a news item by Mr. Hauser, both of which refer to the Umstead act. In both cases there seems to have been such a stretching of the truth, or misreading of the act as to carry an interpretation of near untruth.

Sometimes it is next to impossible to get correct information, or proper application of some legislative bill or action, but in the case of the Umstead act one needs looks no further than the phone book for verification. State Senator John W. Umstead, Jr., author of the bill called the Umstead act, lives on East Franklin street, and has been found a most approachable person.

Mr. Buchan reported, "the so-called Umstead act prevented students of the University from entering private business." Mr. Hauser reported, "the so-called Umstead act allowed such establishments as Lenior Hall to compete with private enterprise and sell for less than similar local commercial concerns". Neither view of the act can be considered true. Mr. Umstead says, "The act prohibits the State from entering the mercantile trade in competition with private enterprise."

It is hard to make either statement of the two Daily Tar Heel men fit into the structure of the Umstead act anywhere.

The call from this quarter is for facts in the Daily Tar Heel. Too few of the students realize the importance of the campus daily. The files in the mailing department of the Daily Tar Heel show a score or more of addresses in other states to which the paper is mailed daily. In view of this wide circulation of the paper, which reflects the tone and policy of the University, the students, the community and the State of North Carolina, is it too much to ask that the gentlemen of the press get the facts correct before printing articles which reflect on every member of the community?

Bob Barnes

Prejudice and the Fleece

Editor:

When I left Memorial Hall after the Fleece ceremonies Monday night I heard many students expressing dissatisfaction with some of the selections and the obvious lack of other men. That feeling is not new, as I have heard the same sentiments expressed after every tapping I have attended.

The strongest complaint I have heard against the Fleece is that, too often, personal prejudice enters into the selections. The Golden Fleece is not a social fraternity which should use personal feelings in their selections, but a service organization made up of outstanding student leaders. I know that personalities have entered into past selections. More than one former Fleeceman has told me that certain people would never get his vote if he could help it. And their objections were admittedly prejudiced.

No one but Golden Fleece members know the actual procedure by which new members are chosen, so it is possible that I could be wrong. Why couldn't a point system be used which would give certain credit for scholarship, athletic ability, leadership, and extra-curricular activities. A share of the points could be given on the basis of character. Such a system would remove most of the criticism of the Fleece and force personal prejudice to take a top row, third balcony seat in the selection procedure.

John Van Hecke

Puzzled

Editor:

Having been enrolled here only two years and not getting out of the recesses of Venable Hall very often, I am not very familiar with customs on the campus. Could you please give me some information?

Today, in passing, a coed (a total stranger to me) smiled and spoke. I would have ascribed it to mistaken identity except for a similar incident about this time last year. Are the sororities having Hell Week or are the girls merely undergoing the spring thaw?

I shall be grateful for some explanation of this phenomenon, if available.

D. B. Ball

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Vinson Boosted Air Force

By Drew Pearson

Washington. — No legislative battle in recent years has witnessed so much backstage wire-pulling and so much crimson on one cabinet member's face as the row over whether the U. S. A. should be defended by 70 air groups.

Ironically, the man who finally engineered the overwhelming 343-to-3 house vote for a big Air Force was the Navy's best freind in Congress—hard-as-nails Rep. Vinson of Georgia.

The veteran Democrat not only browbeat the measure through the house, but outfoxed Secretary of Defense Jim Forrestal every step of the way. Finally, Vinson even performed the miracle of winning penny-pinching John Taber, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, over to a 70-group Air Force.

Here is the amazing, behind-the-scenes story:

For years as chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee, Vinson has gone down the line for the Navy. He was their best friend in Congress. But three weeks ago Vinson deserted the Navy, insisted upon hearing the Air Force's story simultaneous with arguments for the draft and universal training.

Afterward, Georgia Democrat Vinson huddled with Texas Democrat Lyndon Johnson, another Navy man now an air advocate, and the two scrawled a resolution on the back of an office memo, calling for a 70-group Air Force. Next day they hammered this resolution through the Armed Services committee by a 23-to-0 vote.

However, when secretary for Air Stuart Symington appeared before the committee, chairman Walter Andrews, New York Republican, warned him not to mention 70 groups. He must only testify regarding the draft and UMT, Andrews instructed. Andrews was elected to Congress by the people of Buffalo, N. Y., next door to the Congressional district of Symington's father-in-law, GOP Jim Wadsworth of Geneseo, N. Y. Nevertheless Andrews did not want Symington to talk.

"Wait a minute," snorted Vinson. "We don't want any censorship."

The Secretary for Air, he claimed, had a right to say what he wished. Finally Andrews gave in. As a result, Symington was able to deliver his sensational warning that Russia is building planes 12 times faster than the U. S. A.

This enraged Symington's boss, Secretary of Defense Forrestal. Actually Forrestal had taken sides with the admirals and did his best to sabotage Symington's testimony.

First he sent an appeal to Vinson, urging him to come over to his office in the Pentagon Building at once. They had been close Allies in fighting for a powerful, two-ocean Navy, and Forrestal hoped to appeal to Vinson's old Navy loyalty.

But the leathery Georgian was in no mood to back down. He went to see Forrestal, but he brought along two close friends—Congressman Lyndon Johnson and Paul Kilday, both Texas Democrats. Johnson had served in the Navy during the war and helped to straighten out Army-Navy rivalries.

Forrestal was cordial but insistent. Referring to the Congressmen as "air seamen," he complained that they had gone back on him, urged that they delay their proposal for a 70-group Air Force until he got a report from the joint chiefs of staff.

"We have been getting reports on this for three years," snapped Vinson. He reminded Forrestal that 18 months ago. General Eisenhower had testified that the Air Force should not be allowed to fall below 70 groups.

"Eisenhower," said Vinson bluntly, "is enough chief of staff for me."

After failing with Vinson, Forrestal next tried to soft-soap nickle-nursing Appropriations Chairman Taber who usually can't see beyond a dollar sign. Forrestal's arithmetic easily convinced Taber that 70 air groups would cost money, and he promptly started to prune down the Air Force appropriations bill. The $922,000,000 necessary for the 70-group program was omitted.

Scarcely had Taber reported the bill out of committee, however, than Vinson called in Johnson and Kilday.

"Forrestal has pulled the rug out from under the Air Force," he announced. "Now we'll have to pull the rug out from under Forrestal. We've got the votes but Forrestal has Taber. All we have to do is get Taber."

That same afternoon Vinson buttonholed Taber. If Taber would support a 70-group Air Force, Vinson said that he would back an economy measure to trim the procurement costs by $100,000,000. This could be done by reinvoking the wartime clause which gave the Air Force authority to renegotiate profits. In other words, if a manufacturer was able to produce a cheaper plane than estimated, the Air Force could re-examine the contract and cut excess profits.

Taber called in Symington, asked whether he could get along on $822,000,000 for 70 groups. The youthful Air Secretary, however, said that $922,000,000 was the rock-bottom figure. Next morning Vinson himself called Symington, described the plan to renegotiate profits. Symington then agreed to do his utmost to keep within the $822,000,000 figure.

So an amendment was offered, raising the plane procurement fund by $822,000,000 for a 70 group Air Force.

Believe it or not, but the author of the amendment was Taber, himself.

Note—While the House was passing the 70-group Air Force by a 343-to-3 vote, President Truman publicly rebuked Symington for upping the administrations's 55-group program. Ironically, Truman climbed in to the same political bed with Henry Wallacites Vito Marcantonio, Leo Isacson, and Adam Clayton Powell, the only Congressmen who opposed the large Air Force. Apparently Truman forgot his March 17 speech in which he declared he wasn't going to buy any part of Henry Wallace.

The Good Word

The New Look in Sea Lions

By Sandy Grady

I can't see any connection between this story and Chapel Hill. It doesn't concern the Italian elections or Universal Military Training or Henry Wallace, and it doesn't mention beer once. You can see that with all of these handicaps, only a small miracle lands it on the editorial page.

It is about a sea lion. If you have any particular grudge against sea lions, go out in the grass and talk to yourself for a while.

This sea lion is called Buster and he is one of the herd who lie around on the rocks off the San Francisco beach making strange noises and doing belly flops for the spectators. Buster flip-flopped into fame the other day. All the newspaper photographers came out and snapped pictures of him and all the Frisco kids stood on the cliffs and watched him. He was easily the most talked about sea lion in the world.

He became famous simply by sticking his head through a floating toilet seat.

Where Buster found the instrument is a mystery, but it is of the horse-shoe type and a gleaming white.

(Don't try too hard to visualize this. It is one of those pictures which could easily obsess you and pop into mind at very bad moments, indeed.)

In Frisco they are quite perturbed over the situation. The Coast Guard, the Navy, and the SPCA all wonder what to do about Buster. The Associated Press says he can't swim after food fast enough now and may starve. The only people who are pretty calm over Buster are his fellow seals, who snubbed him at first but now cluster around him to nibble enviously at his new necklace.

Exactly what was in Buster's mind when he slipped into this collar? Was it that—

(1) He was trying to get into the white collar class the easy way?

(2) He is a frustrated Carolina politician trying to attract attention?

(3) He is working in the advertising department of a plumbing fixture company?

(4) He is a cleverly disguised Russian naval officer who moved over from Vladivostok to watch ship movements?

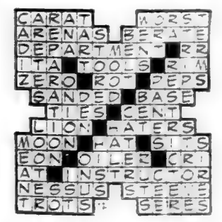
(5) It is a creation by Al Capp as a sequel to the Turnip Termites?

(6) It is really Al Jolson?

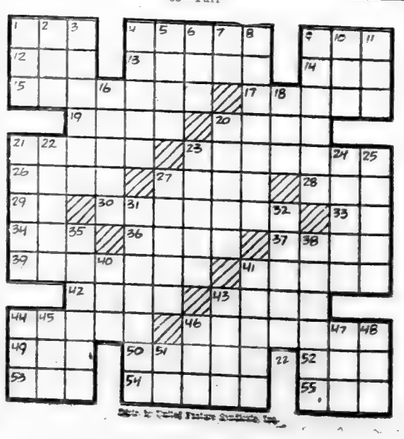
(7) He just gets a kick out of wearing the thing?

Any of these theories could be seriously considered and each of us should take this problem to his heart. Sea lions have been going for thousands of years in their naked wet skins, and if a trend is being pioneered by Buster, we had better watch things closely.

I earnestly hope that none of the Chapel Hill dogs wake up long enough to read this, as the fad may be spreading to other branches of the animal world. The dogs around here are independent enough and a thing like this would surely go to their heads. If they decided to bedeck themselves in a similar fashion it would play havoc with the supply of bathroom fixtures and give the town very bad name, indeed.



What has this got to do with Italy?



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS

1—To weary
4—Newspapers in general
9—Bashful
12—Native metal
13—Lofty nest
14—Pipe joint
15—Gasping
17—Autocrats
19—Slight depression
20—Party for men
21—Prepared
23—Teasers
26—Household gods
27—Little smile
28—Speck
29—Prefix: not
30—Lines on sail
33—Sloth
34—Seed
36—Noted actor
37—Posture
39—Approaching
41—Soils
42—Stunted person
43—Rodent
44—Hindu mystic
46—Small town
49—To fasten
50—Sound
52—Spanish nobleman
53—Fruit drink
54—Avarice
55—Turf

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

DOWN

1—Dude
2—Stagger
3—Sea
4—To color
5—To lease
6—Unit of work
7—Yes (Sp.)
8—Background
9—Put on, as play
10—Pronoun
11—Affirmative
16—Brief
18—Took seat
20—Holy person
21—Foreigner
22—Huge
23—To transport
24—To cook
25—Pig pens
27—To make guttural sound
31—Putting in a row
32—To stop over
35—Place for suits
38—Nymphs
40—Liquor
41—Appointed
43—Clamp
44—Mineral spring
45—To marry
46—To contend
47—Muck
48—Finish
51—Conjunction

Netmen Top Duke; Cloudburst Forces Postpostment Of Baseball, Mural Track

Jayvees Capture 6-2 Win Over Blue Imps

By Buddy Vaden

Carolina's jayvee baseball team racked up its fourth triumph of the year yesterday when they defeated Duke's junior squad, 6-2, behind the three-hit pitching of southpaw Bill McGinn on rain-soaked Emerson field diamond.

McGinn allowed only one hit in the first eight frames. That lone hit was a double off the bat of Tom Powers with no men on base in the second inning. The other two hits came in the last frame and allowed the Blue Imps to score their two runs.

The Tar Babies scored one run in the first, three in the fifth and two in the seventh, for a total of six runs off eight hits and two Duke errors.

Score In Second

Carolina's first run came in the second when first baseman Carter scored on Senter's single after reaching first on a fielder's choice and stealing second.

In a big fifth frame, McGinn doubled to start the ball rolling. Allen singled, but was put out going to second. Don Ward got on by virtue of a fielder's choice and Goodman grounded out to the pitcher. Lamb then singled to score McGinn and Ward, and stole second. Walsh walked, and Carter was safe on another fielder's choice. Lamb scored for the third run of the inning on an error by shortstop Govan.

Two more runs came in the seventh when Ward smacked an inside-the-park home run into deep center field and Walsh scored on Jake Carter's triple.

Devils Score in Ninth

The Blue Imps scored in the ninth on two hits, a wild pitch, a balk, and an error. Grace, the first man at bat, doubled, and a walk to Baroff followed. Lane then struck out and Grace came home on a balk after reaching third on a bad peg to second by McGinn.

WILBUR COX
. . . shooting ace

Win by McGinn

Duke	AB	R	H	O	A
Baroff, cf	2	1	0	3	0
Lane, 2b	1	0	0	0	1
a-McGee	1	0	0	0	0
White, p	1	0	0	0	0
b-Clower	1	0	0	0	0
Murray, lf	4	0	1	2	0
Woodworth, 1b	4	0	0	7	1
Powers, 3b	3	0	1	2	2
Kennard, rf	3	0	0	1	0
Bensingr, c	3	0	0	3	1
Gouan, ss	3	0	0	6	1
Faley, p	1	0	0	0	0
Grace, 2b	2	1	1	0	0
Totals	29	2	3	24	6

a—batted for Lane in 6th.
b—batted for Grace in 9th.

Carolina	AB	R	H	O	A
Allen, cf	4	0	2	4	0
Ward, lf	5	2	1	1	0
Goodman, 2b	4	0	0	1	2
Lamb, rf	3	1	1	2	0
Walsh, c	1	1	0	12	0
Carter, 1b	3	1	1	5	0
Senter, 3b	4	0	2	1	0
Brookshire, ss	4	0	0	1	1
McGinn, p	3	1	1	0	2
Waevil, cf	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	31	6	8	27	5

Duke	000	000	002	2
Carolina	010	030	20x	6

Runs batted in: Ward, Goodman, Lamb, Carter, Senter, Woodworth. Errors: Brookshire, McGinn, Gouan 2. Two-base hits: McGinn, Powers, Grace. Three-base hits: Carter. Home runs: Ward. Base on balls—off: McGinn 3, Faley 2. Struck out, by: McGinn 12, Faley 2, White 1. Losing pitcher: Faley.

Star Marksman AtKenanToday

Down in Kenan Stadium, the scene of many other hot shot shows, Wilbur Cox, one of the world's greatest marksmen, will stage a gunnery exhibition at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The event which is being held to promote interest in marksmanship in line with the campus rifle championships is sponsored by the intramural department and the Orange County Wild Life Association.

Gates four and five — those at the bell tower end of the stadium — will be open and all spectators are requested to sit in the north end of the west stands.

Cox, who makes a living of doing the hard shots the easy way, will include a number of safety precautions necessary for good marksmanship in his demonstration.

Performing almost unbelievable feats of marksmanship with shotguns, rifles and pistols, Cox became an expert before he wore long pants. His father gave him his first gun as a birthday present.

He claims he is not a "born shot" and says no one else is.

Coed Softball Play Set to Start Today

Eleven teams are entered in the coed softball tournament which starts today, with Alpha Gamma Delta and McIver opening the play at 4 o'clock on Kenan field.

Town Girls play Alderman and Pi Beta Phi takes on CICA Tuesday. Other teams in the tournament are Alpha Delta Pi, Chi Omega, Tri Delt, Kenan, and Smith. Dates of the matches and rules for playing are to be found on the bulletin board in the Women's gym.

CAMPUS HEADQUARTERS
For Quality, For Value, For Price
- JANTZEN SWIM TRUNKS $2.95 up
- ARROW SPORT SHIRTS $3.75 up
- ARROW PAISLEY TIES $1.00

WHITE BUK SHOES
with red rubber soles
$10.50

Varley's
MEN'S SHOP
FREE
Gentlemen's Guide to Correct Attire

Replay of Diamond Contest Scheduled For Durham Today

The Big Four baseball game between Duke and Carolina that was cancelled yesterday when a sudden squall descended on Coombs field in Durham will be played off this afternoon in the Blue Devils' home park, starting at 3:30.

Frank Robinson, who was limbering up his arm when the rains came, will go to the hill for the Tar Heels. Robbie will face either Paul Karukstis or Al Curtis.

Robinson's last mound chore was a two-hit performance against Wake Forest. His batterymate today, Emmett Cheek, blasted a home-run in the fifth inning of that game for the only tally of the contest.

Today's Duke-Carolina baseball game will be broadcast over station WSSB in Durham. The play-by-play broadcast, sponsored by the Farmers' Co-operative Dairy, will begin at 3:30.

The Wake Forest tilt was the locals' only Big Four game thus far this season. The Tar Heels will also have a chance to gain on Washington and Lee in the Southern conference race. The Generals have seven wins in loop play while the Hearnmen are two behind.

Today's contest may mark the return of Harry Beason to the Blue and White lineup. Beason, who was the regular rightfielder last season, is listed as a possible starter for that post along with Frank Jones.

–Mural Schedule–

SOFTBALL

4:00—Field 1: Phi Gam 2 vs. Delt Sig 2; Field 2: ZBT vs. PiKA 2; Field 3: Club H-2-3 vs. Lewis 2; Field 4: Wesley Rockets vs. Seiler Five; Field 5: Emerson vs. Battlers; Field 6: Whitehead vs. Graham 2; Field 7: postponed; Field 8: Alexander 1 vs. Stacy; Field 9: Stanley Steamers vs. Bombers.

5:00—Field 1: KA 1 vs. Kappa Psi; Field 2: Phi Delt 3 vs. Sigma Nu 2; Field 3:: Sigma Chi 1 vs. Lamb Chi 2; Field 4: Pi Lamb 2 vs. Kap Sig 1; Field 5: DKE 1 vs. Chi Phi 2; Field 6: Misfits vs. Aycock; Field 8: Med Sch. vs. Miller; Field 9: Mangum 2 vs. Law School.

3:30—Field 6: Mangum 1 vs. Steele replay of game of April 8.

HORSESHOES

4:00—ATO 4 vs. Sigma Chi 1; Chi Phi 1 vs. Zeta Psi 1.

4:30—DKE 1 vs. Lambda Chi; Delta Sig vs. Phi Kap 4.

5:00—Geology Department vs. Old East; Chi Psi vs. ATO 3.

5:30—Stacy vs. Mangum 1; Alexander 3 vs. Mangum 3.

Harvie Ward Reaches Quarter-Final Round

Pinehurst, April 21—Ace Tar Heel golfer Harvie Ward won his second and third round matches in the annual North-South Amateur Golf tourney to advance to the quarter-finals which will be played off tomorrow.

In his first match of the day, Ward advanced to the round of sixteen where he bested Bill Cozart, Durham sharp shooter, six and four.

The defending champion, Charles Dudley, of Greenville, South Carolina, was defeated today by P. S. P. Randolph, of Pinehurst. Dudley was defeated one-up on the 20th hole.

Lettermen Elect Stan Marczyk

Stan Marczyk, rising senior from Nesquehoning, Pa., was elected vice-president of the Monogram club at the regular biweekly meeting Tuesday night.

Coach Dick Jamerson addressed the group on the occasion of the initiation of new monogram winners. Twenty one new letter winners were brought into the organization, all of whom won their varsity letters during the winter quarter.

The new members are Gil Beam, Jim Mericka, Floyd Drew, Jim Thomas, Ronnie Basescu, Jack Wichard, Jack Sharpe, Steve Osborne, Hal Ingram, Allison Pell.

John Bippart, Marvin Wilson, C. J. Fisher, Phil Kemp, E. S. Jacobs, William Russell, Coy Carson, King Cole, Marx Nathan, Fred Swartzberg.

Three Girls Advance In Coed Badminton

Three girls have moved into the fourth round of the coed badminton tournament, and five more third-round matches remain to be played by 10 o'clock tonight.

Bunny Davis, Beckie Holton, and Scotty Dellinger are the victors thus far in the third-round duels. Still to be played are the matches between Emily Baker and Nancy Walker, Sibyle Mitchell and Sarah Walker, Faith Adams and Pat Winslow, Doris Beasley and Mildred Tilson, and Jean Stoutenberg and Helen Crockford.

RIFLE FIRING

4:00—Whitehead vs. Alexander.
7:30—Kappa Sigma vs. St. Anthony.

GET SET FOR A GAY AND GLORIOUS JIVE AND JOY-FILLED MUSICAL CRUISE . . .

Come all ye hopsters for the hottest jam session of your lives when you meet on the screen those famous swing and sway idols. An entire program of musical shorts featuring —

TEX BENEKE • CHARLIE SPIVAK
ARTIE SHAW • FREDDIE MARTIN
GENE KRUPA AND MANY OTHERS

VILLAGE THEATRE THURSDAY APRIL 22nd

YES, FOLKS, IT'S SUPER AND SWINGSATIONAL!

Tar Heels Breeze To 7-2 Decision; Play Deacons Here

Durham, April 21—Despite the absence of their number one star, North Carolina's powerful netters breezed to their 13th straight victory of the season and second in Southern conference play here today with a 7-2 win over Duke in a match interrupted for 45 minutes by a heavy downpour.

Missing from the action was team captain Vic Seixas, who currently occupies a bed in the University infirmary. His condition is still classified as uncertain, but it is hoped that he will return to action next week.

Much as his presence would have been appreciated, it was hardly needed today. Clark Taylor moved up into the number one position and registered an easy 6-0, 6-3 triumph over Emory Green. It was Taylor's 13th win of the year to keep him in the unbeaten class.

The Carolina net team is a heavy favorite to capture victory number 14 here this afternoon when it runs up against Wake Forest in a conference engagement. Starting time will be at 3 o'clock.

Other singles victories for Carolina were registered by Ray Morris, Don Skakle, Heath Alexander and Stan Gruner. Morris captured his 12th triumph of the campaign with a 6-1, 6-3 success over Bob Taylor. Skakle was victorious over Bob Chapman, Alexander downed Wesley, and Gruner defeated Hicks.

Skakle's win maintained his undefeated status. His record now reads nine victories against no setbacks.

Lone Duke netter to emerge on the long end of the count was the

(See TENNIS, page 4)

Baseball Briefs

NATIONAL LEAGUE

New York 9, Brooklyn 5.
WP—Jones; LP—Branca.
Chicago 6, Pittsburgh 3
WP—Borowy; LP—Bonham.
Philadelphia 4, Boston 3.
WP—Heusser; LP—White.
Saint Louis 5, Cincinnati 2.
WP—Munger; LP-Vandermeer.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Detroit 4, Chicago 3.
WP—Overmire; LP—Harrist.
Washington 6, New York 3.
WP—Haefner; LP—Rashi.

SCORING THE FIRST RUN of the 1948 baseball season, Boston Red Sox first-baseman Stan Spence is shown crossing home plate after clouting a homer in the opening game at Boston. Catcher Buddy Rosar, of the Athletics, is the gent in the mask keeping an eye on Umpire McGowan.

(International Soundphoto)

Four Local Runners to Enter Penn Relay Meet This Weekend

Coach Dale Ranson today announced that four of his outstanding tracksters would be entered in the annual Penn Relays Friday and Saturday with the cream of collegiate cindermen of the country.

The men who have received this honor are Jack Moody in the high jump, Dick Taylor in the 110-yard high hurdles, Sam Magill in the two mile, and Bob Seligman in the shot and discuss.

All four have been consistent winners both this year and last annum. Moody, who has reached 6'4" and is the outstanding high-jumper in the South, has an excellent chance of placing high among the winners. Magill should also stand up well and Seligman is the defending Southern conference discuss champion. Fifteen seconds is Taylor's time on the hurdles and that may win a place for him.

Only two of the traveling thinclads will be able to return to Raleigh Saturday for the State meet. They are Magill and Taylor who, unless something unforseen happens, should win their events against the Wolfpack with ease.

Carolina will definitely be the favorite in this engagement since State's times and distances against the University of South Carolina last week were poor compared to the Tar Heel's usual performances. In fact, the only events that should be close are the 100 and 220-yard dashes, the javelin, and the shot.

One of the interesting developments of the Gamecock-State and something that should add interest to the Conference meet was the record breaking time of the Gamecock's "Scooter" Rucks in the 440. He broke his own state record when he flashed around the Columbia oval in 47.7 seconds

Dorm, Frat Finals In Track and Field Reset For Monday

The rains came and put a stop to the big intramural track meet carded for Fetzer field yesterday but another big card of different events is set for today. The meet has been rescheduled for Monday afternoon

Softball returns to action this afternoon at 4 o'clock with a full slate. Included in the schedule is the continuation of the game between Mangum 1 and Steele that was illegally halted at the end of the fifth inning on April 8. The game will be resumed in the top of the sixth frame with the same batting orders and lineups as in the previous contest.

The deadline for entry in the intramural tennis tourney is 6 o'clock this afternoon. Phone or bring entries to the Intramural Office, 311 Woollen Gymnasium, Phone F-3321.

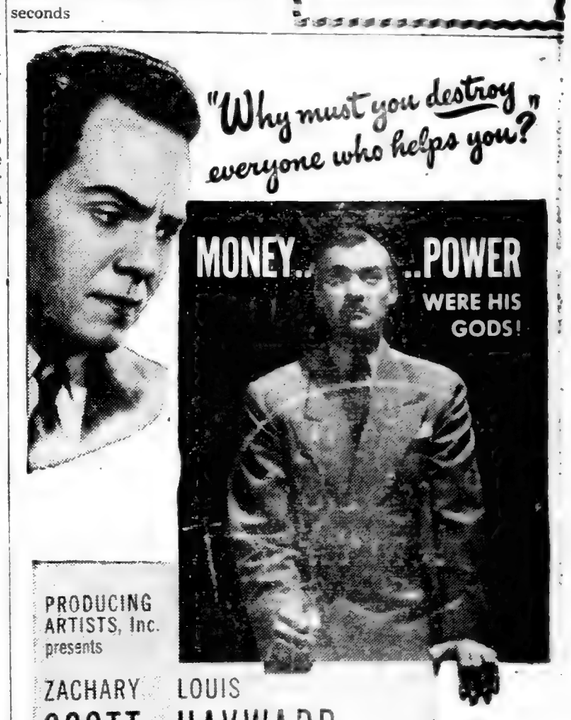
Opening round in the horseshoe tourney starts today with eight matches scheduled. The horseshoes will be played on a team-tournament basis. One defeat eliminates a team

Each team will be made up of five men and each match will consist of three matches, two doubles and one singles.

Planning Any
Week-Ends at the Beach
in April & May?
We have 16 apartments and a 10 room house available for house parties up until June 1st
For reservations write
ALLEN BARBEE
Box 243
Spring Hope, N. C.

. . . Um-m-m! Blue Grass at your finger tips!

Elizabeth Arden's perfumed Nail Lacquer



A fragrant bit of whimsey, this—in a season where the art of being feminine is carried right to the tips of your fingers.

Who else, but Elizabeth Arden, presents with inspired timing a nail lacquer so brilliant, so long-lived, chip-resistant and quick-drying! Exquisitely scented, too, with her own precious Blue Grass. 1.00

Matching Lipsticks, of course—Only 1.25 up. prices plus taxes

In 24 Elizabeth Arden fashion-famous colors!

SUTTON'S DRUG STORE

PRODUCING ARTISTS, Inc. presents
ZACHARY SCOTT · LOUIS HAYWARD
DIANA LYNN · SYDNEY GREENSTREET · LUCILLE BREMER
MARTHA VICKERS
"RUTHLESS"
with DENNIS HOEY · EDITH BARRETT · RAYMOND BURR
Directed by EDGAR G. ULMER
Screenplay by S. K. LAURE'N and GORDON KAHN
Based on the novel "Prelude to Night" by DAYTON STODDART
An EAGLE LION FILMS Release
Produced by ARTHUR S. LYONS

NOW PLAYING
CAROLINA THEATRE

HAVE US FILL THE PRESCRIPTION for Durham Optical Co
215 W. MAIN ST.
TEL. F 2141
OPTICIANS

University Florist
"For the Best in Flowers"
Pick Theatre Bldg.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Telephone 9816

Dr. William Kohn
OPTOMETRIST
Phone 3686
Over Carolina Coffee Shop
Monday-Friday 9:00-5:00
Saturday 9:00-1:00

LUCREZIA BORGIA
A FRENCH PICTURE
The intimate story of the livid lives and loves of the Borgias
COMPLETE DIALOGUE TITLES IN ENGLISH
WEDNESDAY, APRIL 28
VILLAGE

Campus Calendar

3:00 p. m.—Junior League Charity Bridge, Graham Memorial main lounge.
4:00 p. m.—Publications board, Roland Parker No. 3.
5:00 p. m.—World Federalists, Grail room.
5:00 p. m.—Campus party, Roland Parker No. 2.
6:00 p. m.—Formal banquet for newly elected Coed officers, Carolina Inn.
7:00 p. m.—Class in Parliamentary Procedure, 105 Caldwell hall.
7:00 p. m.—Elections board, Grail room.
7:30 p. m.—SDA, Horace Williams lounge.
7:30 p. m.—Young Republicans club, Roland Parker No. 1.
7:30 p. m.—I. Z. F. A., Y. M. C. A.
7:30 p. m.—SDA, Horace Williams lounge.
8:00 p. m.—Junior Service League Annual Benefit bridge, Graham Memorial.
8:00 p. m.—Philosophy club, Roland Parker No. 3.
8:00 p. m.—Catholic Round Table, Grail room.
8:30 p. m.—French play, Playmakers theater.
9:00 p. m.—Science fiction, Roland Parker No. 2.

'Weak Sisters' Really Have Good Characters

Atlantic City, April 21 — (UP) — A social worker says delinquent women are not the so-called "weak sisters" they are supposed to be, but have real strength of character, which they use negatively.

The statement comes from Evelyn Hyman, case supervisor for the Baltimore protective service for girls. She spoke today before the National Conference of Social Work in Atlantic City.

Miss Hyman says ladies of easy virtue most often come from broken homes, or else they have known the fear of economic security or have suffered from lack of family and cultural advantages. Their greatest weakness she adds, is their inclination to blame their plight on others.

TARNATIONS AVAILABLE

All students who are not covered by the regular delivery system can pick up their copies of Tarnation betwen 4 and 6 o'clock this afternoon at the Tarnation business office, mezzanine floor of Graham Memorial.

FOR A BEER REMINDER
Call 3536
K & M
Beer Delivery Service

–Legislature–

(Continued from page 1)

political party for an office.

Included in the bill are three sections outlining the duties of the Elections board. These would be (1) To determine the number of legislators to be elected from each of the districts. (2) To reapportion the legislators to the districts before November 7, 1948 in the event the bill is passed. (3) Data concerning the first two sections will be furnished the Election board by the Clerk of the Student Legislature.

If passed as a whole, the bill will become effective as of the general campus elections of December, 1948.

–Tennis–

(continued from page 3)

Blue Devils' freshman find, John Ross. Unbeaten this year, Ross ran his streak to seven with a 6-3, 6-2 decision over Carolina's Charlie Rice. It was Rice's second loss of the year against 11 wins.

Teamed with Alexander, Skakle also continued his perfect doubles record. Clark Taylor and Duke Wilder combined for the first time this year to gain another doubles win for the Tar Heels, while Duke's other success was registered by Ross and Bob Taylor.

The complete summary:

Singles — Taylor (C) over Green, 6-0, 6-3; Morris (C) over Taylor, 6-1, 6-3; Ross (D) over Rice, 6-3, 6-2; Skakle (C) over Chapman, 6-4, 6-3; Alexander (C) over Wesley, 6-4, 6-1; Gruner (C) over Hicks, 6-0, 6-1.

Doubles — Taylor-Wilder (C) over Green-Chapmen, 8-6, 7-5; Ross-Taylor (D) over Morris-Rice, 6-4, 1-6, 6-3; Alexander-Skakle (C) over Wesley-Hicks, 6-1, 12-10.

SDA MEETING

The Students for Democratic Action will meet tonight at 7:30 in Horace Williams lounge, Graham Memorial. Members will hear a report on the Chicago convention.

PRE-SCHOOL CLINIC

A pre-school clinic will be held for Victory Village children this morning at the Chapel Hill Elementary School. According to Miss Mildred Mooneyhan, all children who expect to attend elementary school next fall should attend this clinic.

PRESCRIPTIONS
Filled Promptly
ACCURACY AND DEPENDABILITY
—at—
SUTTON'S DRUG STORE

JUST RECEIVED . . .
16 mm Magazine Movies

Revere	F 2.5 Lens
Filmo Auto Load	F 1.9 Lens
Kodak	F 1.9 Lens

Brownie Box Cameras
- Sizes 616 and 620
- Brownie Reflex Syncro
- Baby Brownie Special

Exposure Meters
- Weston II Cine
- General Electric
- Skan
- Norwood Director
- De-Jur Lifetime

FOISTER'S CAMERA SHOP

Complete Line of
- PENGUIN
- PELICAN
- BANTAM and
- POCKET BOOKS at

Ab's Intimate Bookshop

CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE 6B

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed and being completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogerson Drive. Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. Telephone F-2906. (1-ch1x3-1)

24 FOOT GLIDER HOUSE TRAILER. Lot number 75, University Trailer Court for married couples, or box 701, Chapel Hill. (1-137-1)

SEVEN COLLIE-SHEPARD PUPpies. Sire, Prince Buff III, pure bred English Collie. Dam, White, a Shepard. C. R. Taylor, No. 71 Trailer Court. Phone 9032. (1-145-1)

CIRCULATOR OIL HEATER. 51000 B. T. U. 2 months old. 410-C Church St., Chapel Hill, N. C. (1-261-1)

EASY SPINDRIER WASHING MAchine, standard size. Used less than six months. First $150.00 takes it. 207 Swain Hall Trailer Court. (1-0257-1)

NEW TWELVE FOOT KAYAK BOAT. 128 North Street, telephone 9151. (1-c0259-1)

27 FOOT HOUSE TRAILER 82 PITTSboro Road Trailer Court. Inquire between 5:00 and 6:00 p.m. (1-154-1)

1946-45 HARLEY-DAVIDSON MOTORcycle. Excellent condition at a good price. Dave Willis, Chi Phi house, F-3041. (1-264-1)

FOR SALE AUTOMOTIVE 6BB

'42 BUICK SUPER FOUR DOOR SEdan. Completely equipped, five good tires. In excellent condition. W. H. Hicks, 65 Uni. Trailer Court. (1-253-1)

LOST 12

BROWN LEATHER LADIES BILLfold. 3 zipper sides. Important and sentimental value. Keep money and return papers to Y.M.C.A. Patty Mirth Nance, 190A Jackson Circle, Victory Village. (1-260-1)

HAVE LOST A SHORT BLACK COAT which goes with a suit. Missing in Harry's last week. If anyone knows whereabouts of it, please call 6016. (1-263-1)

SERVICES OFFERED 19

COMPLETE MODERN RADIO APpliance service shop now open and ready to serve you. We call for, deliver. Johnson-Strowd-Ward Furniture, 422 W. Franklin. Telephone F-3491. (ch 1x1)

24 HOUR RADIO REPAIRS. OGBURN Furniture Co., Phone 5841. (ch 1x1)

WANTED 24

MEN WITH SOME BAND EXPERience, not in dance band now. Need bass, tenor sax, piano, guitar, drum. Apply "Town-Aires", 410C Church St. Chapel Hill. (1-262-1)

WANTED TO RENT 24B

HOUSE OR COTTAGE WITH TWO OR more bedrooms for student and family from now until end of second summer session. Furnished or unfurnished. Call 9472. (1-150-1)

TWO OR THREE ROOM FURNISHED apartment for veteran student and wife. Will occupy June 15. Write box 42 or call Hall, 3066 after 5:00. (1-0258-1)

Just Received
White Formal JACKETS
Seersucker Cord JACKETS
Light Weight Corduroy JACKETS
THE Young Men's Shop
EAST MAIN AT CHURCH
DURHAM

GREAT VALUES IN Meat THAT'S SURE TO Please Your Family!

Sunnyfield—Small, Average HAMS, Whole or Shank Half, lb. 65c
Super Right SIRLOIN STEAK, lb. 89c
Super Right T-BONE STEAK, lb. 93c
Super Right ROUND STEAK, Boneless, lb. 93c
Scott - Topping SAUSAGE, Link, lb. 59c
Boned and Rolled RIB ROAST, lb. 79c
Bone In CHUCK ROAST, lb. 57c
Short Ribs of BEEF STEW, lb. 35c
Whole or Half LEG O' LAMB 69c
Lamb SHOULDER, lb. 49c
PICNIC HAMS, Small Average, lb. 49c
FRYERS, Table Dressed, lb. 68c
HENS, Table Dressed, lb.
BUCK SHAD, lb. 33c
FILLETS PERCH, lb. 37c
FILLETS HADDOCK, lb. 43c
H & G WHITING, lb. 21c
CROAKERS, Fancy Red Fin, lb. 29c
FAT BACK, lb. 25c
RIB SIDE, lb. 39c

ASPARAGUS, bunch 49c
CARROTS, 2 bunches 25c
ORANGES, 2 doz. 49c
GRAPEFRUIT, 5 for 27c
Cooking APPLES, 4 lbs. 29c
CAULIFLOWER, 2 lbs. 39c
Yellow ONIONS, lb. 15c
SQUASH, 2 lbs. 23c
CUCUMBERS, 2 lbs. 23c

Iona Pork and BEANS With Tom. Sauce 16-Oz. Can 10c
Campbell's TOMATO SOUP 3 10½-Oz. Cans 29c
Thank You Brand Sliced Freestone PEACHES . . . 11-Oz. Can 10c
Pick o' Carolina Sweet Mixed PICKLES . . . . 16-Oz. Jar 15c
Iona Sweet Tender PEAS . . . . . 3 No. 2 Cans 29c
Packer's Label ORANGE JUICE . . . No. 2 Can 10c
Ann Page Salad DRESSING . . . Pt. Jar 33c
Comstock Pie APPLES . . . . 2 No. 2 Cans 25c
A&P's Own Vegetable Shortening dexo . . . . . 3 Lb. Can $1.11
A&P Fancy APPLE SAUCE . . 2 No. 2 Cans 25c
Ann Page Gelatin Desserts SPARKLE . . . 3 Pkgs. 19c
A&P Bartlett PEARS. . . . . No. 2½ Can 39c
SWIFT JEWEL . . . . 1-Lb. Can 33c
FLOUR . . Sunnyfield Self-Rising 5-Lb. Bag 41c
RED BAND FLOUR Self-Rising 5-Lb. Bag 52c

OXYDOL Lge. Pkg. 36c
IVORY FLAKES Lge. Pkg. 36c
LIFEBUOY SOAP Reg. Bar 10c
DUZ Lge. Pkg. 36c
LAVA SOAP 2 Bars 19c
IVORY SOAP Lge. Bar 19c

MARVEL BREAD
Regular Pan 16-oz. Loaf 13c
Sandwich Or Regular Pan 1½-lb. Loaf 18c
Home Style 1½-lb. Loaf 18c
Jane Parker CINNAMON ROLLS Pkg. 25c
MARVEL SANDWICH OR FRANKFURTER ROLLS Pkg. 15c

PRUNES Pliofilm Package Pkg. 1-Lb. 19c 2-Lb. Pkg. 37c
IVORY SNOW Lge. Pkg. 36c
IVORY SOAP Personal 2 Bars 15c
SWAN SOAP Lge. Bar 19c
Bright Star SOAP GRAINS Lge. Pkg. 34c

Tea LIPTON'S ¼-lb. Pkg. 33c
Nabisco Premium CRACKERS 1-lb. Pkg. 25c
Sunnyfield CORN FLAKES 8-oz. Pkg. 12c
WHITE HOUSE EVAPORATED MILK 3 Tall Cans 39c
La Choy CHINESE STYLE FOODS
Bean Sprouts 2 No. 2 Cans 25c
Chinese Dinners 15-oz. Can 49c
Chop Suey No. 2 Can 35c
Chow Mein Noodles ¼-lb. Pkg. 18c
Chop Suey Mixed No. 2 Can 27c
SUNNYFIELD RICE 12-Oz. Pkg. 15c

NO OTHER FOOD STORE OFFERS YOU MORE LOW PRICES MORE DAYS A WEEK THAN A&P
MILD AND MELLOW 8 O'CLOCK COFFEE 1-Lb. Bag 40c 3 Lb. Bag $1.15
A&P SUPER MARKETS
WEST FRANKLIN STREET

LI'L ABNER By Al Capp

Delicatessen sold to take out -- by the pound — at HARRY'S

LIBRARY (Periodical Dept)
University of North Carolina
Chapel Hill, N. C.
1-31-48

WEATHER
Partly cloudy and warmer.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
Spiking a Few Rumors
Rent, Dogs, and Grass
Bugle Call for Dedmond

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., FRIDAY, APRIL 23, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | NO. 148

Senator Claude Pepper To Appear Here Next Friday Under CPU Auspices

Legislature Will Investigate Fee Structure

Montague Elected Speaker Pro Tem; Butt, Leary Win

By Gordon Huffines

A bill providing for an investigation of the block fee structure was the first piece of legislation passed at the opening session of the new Student Legislature last night.

Providing for a joint investigating committee composed of the Finance committee and the Publications board, the bill authorizes the committee to investigate the inequality of block fees being paid by graduate and undergraduate students.

At present undergraduates are charged a $5 and graduates a $3.85 quarterly fee which covers such items as publications, student government, and the Graham Memorial fee.

Jack Girard, chairman of the Finance committee, has set Monday afternoon for the first meeting of the joint committee. Tom Eller, Charlie Long, and Ernest House were appointed as special members of the investigating board.

Officers for the present session of the Student Legislature were also elected last night after the legislators had been sworn in. With the voting along party lines, the University party was in complete control of the elections. New officers are: Tag Montague, speaker pro tem; George Rodman, parliamentarian; Jack Worsham, clerk; Ed Washington, sergeant-at-arms; and Charles Loudermilk, student representative to Graham Memorial.

In the election of committee chairmen Len Butt was elected chairman of the Ways and Means committee; Jack Girard, Finance committee; Joe Leary, Elections committee; Edith Knight, Coed Affairs; and University party Chairman Thurman Williams was elected to head the Rules committee.

The new UP redistricting bill,
(See LEGISLATURE, page 4)

French Club to Give Dumas' Play Tonight

Following last night's successful opening night, the French club will again present Dumas' romantic drama, "Henri III et sa Cour" in the Playmaker theater tonight at 8:30. There is no admission charge, but according to custom in French theaters, souvenir programs will be sold.

Directed by Walter Creech of the romance language department, the play was first produced in 1829, and has been credited with setting the pace for the romantic movement in drama. Although Dumas is best known as the author of two novels, "The Three Musketeers and "The Count of Monte Cristo," he had his initial success as a playwright.

The production is sponsored by Graham Memorial, and proceeds from the sale of programs will be donated to American Aid for France.

Ripps Discloses That UJA Drive Thrives

Norm Ripps, chairman of the campus drive for the United Jewish Appeal, today announced that $750 of the $3,000 goal has already been pledged, with only one-third of the students having been approached.

Jewish students in Europe and Palestine will benefit greatly by any donation. All money raised through this campaign will go along with funds raised from other campuses to buy clothes, food, books and other necessities.

Contributions may be turned in at the Hillel Foundation office in the "Y" building. Citizens of Chapel Hill may turn in their contributions at Berman's.

New Publications Board Elects Officers, Approves Contracts, Plans Legislation

The first meeting of the new 1948-49 Publications board yesterday afternoon saw the election of Billy Carmichael III, member-at-large to the board, as president.

Pete Gerns, senior member, was chosen secretary and Chuck Hauser, junior member, was elected to the treasurer's post. Ed Joyner, the other senior member, is coordinator of publications for the group.

The new board approved a contract for the taking of individual photographs for next year's Yackety Yack with Chidnoff of New York, a contract for the printing of the yearbook with Lassiter Press, and a contract for engraving of pictures for the book with Charlotte Engraving company. All three are renewals of this year's arrangements.

It was moved and passed that bids for the position of circulation manager of the Daily Tar Heel be accepted from next Saturday through May 6. Contracts will be made separately for circulation in the summer months and for next year.

The board voted to introduce legislation in the Student Legislature to investigate the fee structure. It was charged that graduate students are not paying the same fees as undergraduates, but are receiving the same benefits, including all publications.

Other legislation to be sponsored by the board includes a bill to provide for the new editors of
(See BOARD, page 4)

Burgess to Speak To Presbyterians On Sunday Night

Dave Burgess, noted minister from Rock Hill, S. C., will be guest speaker Sunday night at 7 o'clock at the Presbyterian church.

Burgess, who was born in China where his parents were missionaries, is now serving as a minister to labor from the Congregational church. He was the first minister to be appointed to that position from a Protestant church.

Serving on the South Carolina Committee of the Textile Workers of America, Mr. Burgess is doing educational and organizing work for the Congress of Industrial Organizations. He is also serving as Chairman of the Labor committee for the Fellowship of Southern Churchmen, Burgess was responsible for the first church-labor conference in the South.

Before coming to South Carolina, Burgess did work of a similar nature in Arkansas, Missouri, and Tennessee. Working in Missouri, Burgess aided a group of tenants that lived in government housing in organizing to buy their homes. Partly due to the work of David S. Burgess, 580 tenant families of Southeast Missouri became owners of the homes that they lived in. This group of families called Mr. Burgess to be their minister. He served as their minister for a year and a half.

Burgess is the author of various pamphlets, bulletins, and magazine articles. Most of these articles have dealt with relation of labor and religion.

PHI KAPPA SIG

Sixteen men were initiated into the Lambda chapter of Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity on April 14.

Those initiated were William Edward Ayers, Jr., Russell Edward Baldwin, John David Barab, Jr., John Hayden Beard, William Jackson Brown, Jack Wilbur Clark, James Clinton Dismuke, Jr., Dewey Lee English, Jr., Woodford Randolph Middleton, Jr., James David Mills, Fred Samuel Patterson, Jr., Claude William Shannon, Edwin Harold Shuford, Jr., Plez Avery Transou, Forrest Ray Willard, and Peter Ancell Webb, Jr.

DETERMINED TO CAST HER VOTE, a bedridden Italian woman is carried to the polls in Rome on a stretcher. The critical nature of the elections brought out 90 per cent of Italian voters, including the lame, the blind and the halt, to decide their future leaders. (International Radiophoto)

America Gets Anti-Red Bill At Conference

Bogota, April 22 —(UP)— The United States won a victory today at Bogota, Colombia.

A subcommittee of 12 Pan-American nations unanimously approved a strong resolution condemning Communism in the Western Hemisphere. The document calls for all American countries to take measures to prevent the spread of Communism or any kind of totalitarian thinking in the New World. It also calls for American nations to keep each other fuly informed on any measures taken against Undemocratic political activity.

The resolution was adopted after diplomats made a few slight changes in the original proposal offered by the United States yesterday.

GOVERNOR Dwight H. Green of Illinois was unanimously elected by the arrangements committee of the Republican National committee to deliver the keynote address at the opening of the party's national convention in Philadelphia on June 12.

United Europe, Sex Instruction, Passed by Di Senate Meeting

Establishing a Federation of Europe and offering sex instruction in public schools were the two measures approved by the Dialectic Senate in its meeting Wednesday night.

A bill advancing educational instructional, as it was originally introduced by Charlie Long, sought religious indoctrination in public schools. However, several senators present objected to holding classes for school children in what they considered to be an individual's own belief. Possible nominational biases and jeopardization of the church's domain were also criticized.

Early in the discussion from the floor, Dortch Warriner mistakenly interpreted the bill as calling for instruction on sex instead of religion. After Warriner's speech in behalf of sex enlightenment, Charlie Gibson put up a substitute measure proposing proper instruction in both sex and moral ethics in school systems.

The alteration was favored by Jim Southerland, who condemned the "hush-hush" treatment the subject is now given as morally misleading. Bob Nelson also pointed out that the term "ethics" would also provide for a certain amount of religious education.

A Union of Europe was passed without noticeable dissention once Randy McLeod specified in an amendment that the bill merely presented suggestions for the federation and did not claim to be a complete guide for the overall framework of adequate government for any continental federation.

Suggestions included in the Di proposal would give the Union authority for granting citizenship, levying taxes, borrowing money, maintaining defense, coining money, and regulating trade. Also provided for was a bi-cameral legislature which would elect its own executive.

Before the discussion on these two bills, John Zucker, Di speaker, inducted three new members. The neophyte senators are Morris Knudson, Los Angeles, Calif.; Dick McLean, Lumberton; and Welborn Phillips, Orlando, Fla.

TRANSFER ELIGIBILITY

All students who were notified recently by General College that they were eligible to transfer to the College of Arts and Sciences this term are to check by 203 South building, Dean Well's office, between May 6 and 10 for assignment of advisors and registration instructions.

Vance Inn Pledges 36 Law Students

Thirty-six students in the University Law School have just been pledged into Vance Inn, the local chapter of Phi Delta Phi, international legal fraternity.

The largest and oldest legal fraternity in the United States, Phi Delta Phi has chapters in 65 leading law schools throughout this country and Canada.

Robert G. Stockton of Winston-Salem, president of the Vance Inn chapter, presided over the initiation ceremonies.

Early in May pledges of the Duke University, Wake Forest and Carolina chapters will be formally initiated at ceremonies to be held in the Senate Chamber of the State Capitol at Raleigh. A banquet will be held in their honor following the ceremonies.

New members at Carolina are: June Ray Braswell, Newland; Joseph Melville Broughton, Jr., Raleigh; Lester Grant Carter, Jr., Fayetteville; David Clark, Lincolnton; Nere Elexus Day Jr., Jacksonville; Emery Byrd Denny, Jr., Raleigh; Charles Lester Fulton, Franklin; O. Max Gardner, Jr., Shelby; William Allan Garrett, Danville, Va.; Winston Bangs Gunnels, Sandersville, Ga.; John Richardson Haworth, High Point.

Edward Brandt Hipp, Greensboro; John P. Kennedy, Jr., Charlotte; Robert Richard Laidlaw, Western Springs, Ill.; Robert Dickson Little, Raleigh; Robert Levoy McMillan Jr., Raleigh; James Baughan McMullen, Raleigh; Jesse Seneca Moore, Jr., Reidsville; Samuel Fox Mordecai, Raleigh; Daniel Wescott Moser, Asheboro; Robert E. Perry, Jr., Greensboro; Warren Seipp Perry, Kinston; William Horton Petree, Winston-Salem.

Edward Knox Powe, III, Durham; Leonard Stewart Powers, Charlotte; Karl Schwartz, III, Sarasota, Fla.; Basil Lamar Sherrill, Gastonia; Marshall T. Spears, Jr., Durham; Ralph Nichols Strayhorn, Jr., Durham; Oscar Edwin Starnes, Jr., Asheville; Ralph Madison Stockton, Jr., Winston-Salem; Alfred Decatur Ward, New Bern, and Algernon Augustus Zollicoffer, Jr., Henderson.

Monographic Study Is Now Available

"Resource Management in North Carolina," a monographic study of Public administration by Paul W. Wager, research professor of Political Science, and Donald B. Hayman, research assistant, Institute for Research in Social Science at the University, is now available to personnel interested in the administrative aspects of Carolina's natural resources.

"North Carolina," the authors say, "can be justly proud of the progress which has been made in the use of the State's natural resources. Although land, forests, and wild life are still squandered at an alarming rate, much of the ruthless exploitation which marked the past has been halted."

The authors point out that "health and happiness of both present and future generations of North Carolinians are dependent upon the wise use of the State's resources."

Florida Democrat Has Been Senator For Twelve Years

By Sam McKeel

Florida's fiery Senator Claude Pepper will speak here next Friday night under the auspices of the Carolina Political Union.

The CPU, campus non-partisan political discussion group, is sponsoring the senator as part of a series of speakers who will present different views of American politics. The speech is scheduled for 8 o'clock in Hill hall.

Pepper has been the Democratic senator from Florida since 1936 when he was nominated to fill out the two-year unexpired term of Duncan U. Fletcher.

In a background statement released to the CPU, Pepper says that his speeches indicate that he is a "New Dealer," by which he says he means that his legislative attitude is distinctly liberal and progressive. "I see the government as the means of actually giving to the citizens opportunity, personal security, health, safety, and well-being."

The Southern senator goes on to say that he is very liberal in the extension of the federal power in relation to economic question, but strict in the extension of the federal government's power in trespassing upon civil liberties or constitutional rights, or those general rights thought of as personal liberties or prerogatives of a civic nature.

Pepper says that he believes that only the federal government can give the country anything like a balanced economy and correlation and coordination of the country's resources.

Albright Comments On State Surplus

Raleigh, N. C., April 22—(UP) —R. Mayne Albright, young Wake County candidate for governor of North Carolina, claims that candidate Charles M. Johnson is using tactics of desperation in calling for a 25 million dollar increase for school appropriations.

Albright points out that as State treasurer, Johnson should have been aware of the surplus funds during the last General Assembly. Albright says that Johnson could have asked for a teacher pay increase, but that he did not even endorse the 30 per cent increase granted last year.

PI LAM OFFICERS

Pi Lambda Phi fraternity elected new officers at a meeting last Wednesday night: Irv Fox, Oxford, president; Fred Swartzburg, High Point, vice-president; Lenny Kaplan, High Point, treasurer; Jerry Weiss, Chase City, Va., secretary; Howie Field, Atlantic City, marshal; Bob Kaufman, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., parliamentarian.

But the Scenery's Nice . . .

Sper Finds New Job Is Hard, Unenviable

By Bill Kellam

Easy-going Norm Sper, Carolina's newly-elected head cheerleader, found himself in a rather unenviable position in the now rusty and leaky Tin Can yesterday afternoon.

Most members of the local student body would doubtlessly have considered themselves quite privileged to fill Sper's ample brogans for in the hands of the California card shark that he claims he is in Kenan stadium lay the power to make four of the 10 or 12 comely coeds eternally (as long as he's head cheerleader, anyhow) grateful to him by their selection.

Girls Chosen

The pulchritude-packed quartet, the members of which were disclosed by Sper at the close of the tryouts, is composed of Sarah Jean Farlow, Lucille Arnett, Claudia Lee, and Gale Hancock. Miss Farlow will team with brother Wray to give Carolina a brother-sister combo. Sper also named Sue Walton and Becky Holton as alternates.

The new boss noise-maker didn't consider his task to be so pleasant yesterday, though, for he spent almost two hours tearing his hair, pacing up and down the floor of the then pleasantly-decorated Tin Can, and making himself thoroughly miserable as he sent the band of beauties through their paces in his search for the big four.

Disappointed Females

Sper's thankless job — there were six or seven disappointed female aspirants — was eased slightly by virtue of the fact that he'd previously chosen his quartet of male assistants. The four male aides, who, along with Sper and the gals, will begin an arduous series of practice sessions this afternoon for the Blue-White grid tilt on May 1, include Wray Farlow, Joe Chambliss, Herschel Snuggs and Jerry Pence, who also ran for the post of head cheerleader in the past elections. Snuggs was an unsuccessful candidate for the job last year.

A Few Spectators

Only a surprisingly low number of spectators was on hand to see the whistle-producing clad gals strut their stuff.

Fretting more than a director of a Broadway stage show on the eve of its opening night, Sper dashed from spectator to spectator after each group of girls had gone through its tryout cheers to see how the onlookers rated the would-be racket-raisers.

As the number of girls who went through their paces increased, so mounted the number of long faces on the candidates
(See SPER, page 4)

Truman Declares U. S. Would Join Holy Land Forces

Washington, April 22 —(UP)— President Truman announced at his news conference today that this country would furnish its share of the manpower for any peace army that the United Nations sends into the Holy Land.

The President made it clear, however, that the United States would not do the job alone. He said that if American soldiers are to help enforce the peace in Palestine or anywhere else, they will have to be a part of an international police force which will include soldiers of other nations, as well as America.

Truman dismissed a suggestion that he might not have the authority to order American soldiers into Palestine without congressional approval. He reminded his news conference that he was commander-in-chief of the armed forces, and that there were plenty of examples in history of chief executives sending troops abroad on their own say-so.

The question of authority was raised a few hours earlier on the floor of the Senate when Owen Brewster of Maine asked whether Mr. Truman could send troops to the troubled Holy Land.

Senate President Arthur Vandenberg replied that American presidents have sent troops abroad many times in the past to protect American lives and property, Vandenberg added that if the crisis in Palestine should go beyond the need for protection of American citizens, then the dispatch of troops would require the consent of Congress.

Today Australia asked the powerful Political committee of the UN General Assembly to carry through the Palestine partition program approved last year.

AQUINAS CLUB

The Aquinas club will sponsor a picnic for members and guests at Hogan's lake Saturday afternoon.

Those planning to attend are requested to make reservations with Paul Baschon at 7381 or Rudy Tropea in Old West as soon as possible. Transportation will be provided at the Y court at 3:00 Saturday afternoon.

Began With Humor . . . . . . Then Talked Politics

Taylor Won't Repeat 'Serenade'

The last time Senator Glen Taylor came to Chapel Hill, in spring, 1947, he sang a "serenade" to his fellow Senate colleagues, Taft and Bricker, but this time he's coming back to talk for Henry A. Wallace and the Progressive party.

As last year's Tar Heel said, he began his speech with a lot of humor, but made a neat transition into serious discussion of Capitol Hill problems.

Students who heard Taylor speak last year under the sponsorship of the C. P. U. well remember the story he told of how he got into politics.

It began in 1938 when he ran for the House of Representatives. In 1940 he ran for the Senate and again in 1942 and 1944. Each campaign carried him into the far country of Idaho. In 1944, the governor's son, who was also running for the office, took the lead in the state's capitol, the incumbent was second and Taylor, last.

Out in the other towns the incumbent was first, but when they got to the crossroads and the by-paths of Idaho, that the other politicians didn't know existed, Taylor slid into the lead and won.

Senator Taylor began to be talked about as Henry Wallace's running mate the day after the announcement of the formation of the third party. He accepted in a radio address during the last week of February, 1948, saying, "I have not left the Democratic party, the Democratic party has left me."

In the Senate, Taylor lead the fight against the seating of Bilbo, and has introduced bills to restore price controls, for national health insurance, and other social legislation.

In the field of foreign affairs he has been a vigorous opponent of the Truman Doctrine in Greece and what he terms the war policy of the Democratic and Republican parties. He introduced a measure in the Senate to implement UN Palestine partition plan.

Senator Taylor is the son of a Presbyterian minister, and as he said in Chapel Hill last year, got little formal schooling, but made up for it by reading every book he could get his hands on about social and economic matters.

He is speaking here Monday night at 8 o'clock in Hill hall under the sponsorship of the local Wallace for President Club.

Spiking A Few Rumors

An unusual coincidence on the editorial page and the front page of the Daily Tar Heel last week in reference to the Umstead Act, in which two writers, unknown to each other both accused the bill of prohibiting certain things on the campus which it does not has convinced us that the general opinion of the act by Carolina students is wrong. For that reason, we are printing portions from the act and also listing certain items that are generally blamed on the act, but actually are not prohibited by it. The bill was written and passed to encourage merchants to locate in Chapel Hill. At the time it was passed, there were many empty buildings on Franklin Street and only one regular restaurant.

Parts of the bill are:

"Section 1. That it shall be unlawful for any unit or agency of State Government or any individual employee or employees of any such unit or agency in his, or her, or their capacity as employees of said unit or agency to purchase for or sell to any person, firm or corporation any article of merchandise in competition with citizens of the State: Provided however, that as regards educational institutions, the provisions in this act shall not apply to articles produced incident to the operation of an instructional department, or incident to educational research, or to articles of merchandise not exceeding fifteen cents in value when sold to members of the educational staff, or staff auxiliary to education, or sold to duly enrolled students or to members of charitable institutions, or on occasion to immediate members of the families of members of the educational staff or of duly enrolled students . . ."

". . . that the provisions of this act shall not apply to the sale of learned journals or books, or to the business operation of endowment funds established for the purpose of producing income for educational purposes."

Common rumors on the campus that place the blame on the act, though the bill actually has no bearing on them whatever are: 1) That the act prohibits the establishment of dormitory stores; 2) That the act prohibits any student from acting as agent for any article of merchandise, thus preventing self-help students from earning money as representatives and salesmen; 3) That the act prohibits any student from acting in the capacity of collector of clothes for cleaning and shoes for repairing; 4) That the act prohibits the University from keeping open Lenoir Hall except during certain hours; 5) That the act prohibits the University from providing additional space for the activities of the Book Exchange; 6) That the act prohibits the solicitation of magazine subscriptions on the grounds and in the buildings of the University.

The complete text of the Umstead Act will be printed in a later issue. In addition, as a matter of record, the bill was introduced in the NC legislature by John W. Umstead, Orange County representative and not by Senator William B. Umstead, current candidate for re-election.

In view of the popular mis-interpretation of the Umstead Act on the Campus, students are urged to reread the bill when it is published completely and see for themselves that all the rumors attributed are not possible. —B.B.

Who Sipped Up?

A great error on the part of past student leaders may leave the campus publications and government in a bad situation.

The student government will be from nine to twelve thousand dollars in the hole because of this error. The four Carolina publications will suffer two-thirds of this loss.

It seems that each student at this University is supposed to pay a fifteen dollar student fee. From this sum comes the financial backing for all campus activities supported by the student government. This year the Professional and Graduate students were required to pay a differently constructed or much smaller fee than their fellow students.

This oversight, coupled with overestimation of the amount of collectible fees, will cause the expected $108,500 income of the Student government to drop below $100,000 this year.

Someone made a mistake. The Daily Tar Heel intends to find out who and why, so that it will not happen again.—S.G.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.

Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor . . . . Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors . . Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associate Editors . . . . Bob Sain, Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady
Society Editor . . . . Weddy Thorp
Photographer . . . Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. . . . . . Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. . . . C. B. Mendenhall
Subscription Mgrs. . . . . Jim King, Chan Pegram
Asst. Business Mgrs. . . Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. . . . Randall Hudson, Don Snow

NEWS STAFF: Herb Nachman, Charlie Gibson, Sally Woodhull, John Stump, Gordon Huffines, Jack Brown, Stewart McKeel, Margaret Gaston, Dan Wallace, Charlie Craven, Mark Sumner, Emily Baker, Doris Weaver, Harriet Sippie, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.

SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Larry Fox, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher, Mel Horowitz, Faith Adams, Anne Wells.

Offices are located on the second floor of Graham Memorial with night office at Colonial Press, Inc., Carrboro. Telephones: Editorial, F-3361; Business, F-3371; Night office, 3337. Mailing address, Box 1080.

NIGHT NEWS: Jack Brown NIGHT SPORTS: Bill Carmichael

Campus Forum

"What Do You Expect?"

By Pete Gerns

Now that all newly-elected student government officials have been duly sworn in, this column presents a commentary by students on "What do you expect of your student body officials in the coming year?"

"Being representatives of the students, the actions of these officers should be thoroughly thought out and represent the best interests of the student body." Bill Olsen.

"They should attempt to familiarize the student body more thoroughly with the workings of student government—too little interest is shown to promote a really representative student government." "Bill Brown".

"A good honest administration with a case of beer in every room and a bottle in every pocket." Al Wiley.

"Leadership is carrying out a program of student government adopted by these officers. Adherence to the program and an assertion of their responsibility."

"Many activities entered into by the student body may engender lack of respect and ill-will toward the University of North Carolina—The student government can do much, while serving the students, to see that 'all goes well'." Charles C. Bernard.

"I expect them to fulfill their offices creditably and to INCREASE the dignity and importance of Student Government. Contrary to the rash opinions of certain faculty members (Dr. Stoudemire), it is very important to this University to let the students govern themselves." Mike Loftus.

"I expect them to fulfill their offices, and do their duties honestly, sincerely, and to the best of their ability." Cecil Keith Odom.

"1. Leadership
2. Competency
3. Open mind—an ability to see both sides of the question.
4. Loyalty.
5. Honesty.

As long as our leaders retain these qualifications, we need not fear the outcome of our student government." Al Gainor.

"Work not for political reasons but for the general welfare of the students who believed in them enough to elect them. I hope next year the student body officials will see to it the Easter Holidays become a vacation period.

"At all times they should consider themselves as the rank and file and with this thought in mind I'm sure we can have good government." Robert J. Lahr.

Write Away

Adams' Reply (a la mud)

Editor:

Mr. Bill Corley in his entertaining letter which appeared in Tuesday's Tar Heel, captioned "Adams at Home in the Mud", had some amusing things to say about me. As a work of fiction I enjoyed it, but since it purports to tell the facts I think it deserves a reply.

In Monday night's meeting in Hill Hall Chancellor House definitely stated an opinion on what was being discussed. He specifically mentioned the previous Gerrard Hall rally and he specifically expressed pleasure that the vote taken had been in favor of UMT. He implied a strong criticism of the campus anti-UMT group because they were a "minority". (For that matter so is every other campus organization with less than 3,500 members.) I do not recall hearing him speak of "closed meetings" where a small group passed resolutions in the name of the entire student body. I have never seen or attended any meeting where such a resolution was passed.

My criticism was not directed at Chancellor House's remarks but at the fact that he made them as moderator of the meeting. When controversial issues are being discussed at public gatherings the moderator is out of order when he expresses his personal opinion.

My original purpose in writing to the Tar Heel was not to smear any individuals or groups but to stimulate debate. Since then Bill Crisp and I have agreed to hold a public debate on the issue of UMT.

Perhaps it is true that, as Mr. Corley says, I am "at home in the mud". All the same, I'm not throwing away my galoshes.

Henry Adams

Mudville Mutterings

Rent, Dogs, and Grass

By Dan Sapp

According to reports this week, from now on Jackson "Death Trap" Circle will be as safe as the cradle. The long cussed and discussed one way traffic regulation will go into effect this week. According to council members who released the report, traffic will move clockwise, that is starting at the left entrance to the Circle. The traffic situation is also being investigated on Daniels road and one way traffic is being considered for this street too.

The council seems to mean business about this matter of innoculating and tagging village dogs. According to one member, if you want to protect your dog from being picked up you will have to have him innoculated and tagged by the time he is three months old.

There is still no official word about the rent adjustment question. Letters and calls are still being exchanged between here and Atlanta and Washington but so far so bad.

A question that keeps coming up in village discussions is "What about that community center we've been talking about so long?" The usual poser to that one is "Where is the money coming from?" Rumor has it that other veteran housing units have community centers and Mudville doesn't appear to be any more poverty stricken than similar settlements. The council has stated that an investigation will be made to try to find how eligible the village is to share in recreation appropriations and what appropriations of this kind are available.

I suppose I'll have to find a new name for this column, Mudville doesn't fit anymore. There's hardly any mud showing now even when it rains. The Garden Club Pilgrimage certainly should include a detour through the village. Green grass and picket fences have worked wonders in our rustic habitat.

WHAT'S UP in Graham Memorial

Drama seems to be budding out all over the campus these days. Tonight will see the second performance of Dumas' "Henri III et Sa Cour" in the Playmaker theater. Produced by the French club, the play is given in the original French, but the program gives an English synopsis for those of us who don't parlez too well.

Saturday and Sunday night the Laboratory theater will present "The Inspector General" in the main lounge, sponsored by Graham Memorial. Both performances are free of charge.

For music enthusiasts tonight's performance by the North Carolina Symphony is an event eagerly looked forward to. One of few such groups in the nation, the orchestra provides towns throughout the state with symphony performances which they would otherwise not be able to enjoy. It is supported by grants from the State Legislature and by memberships bought by people of the state.

Tonight's recorded dinner music program in the main lounge will feature Tschaikovsky's Swan Lake Ballet and Morton Gould's Showcase album.

Just Here

Professors In Lieu of Brew?

By Larry Berry

According to tradition, in the spring a young man's thoughts turn lightly to love. Also I think a number of ladies and gentlemen (I am a Southerner), young and old, begin to think of the approaching summer from any number of angles. One of the most prominent is that of a term or two in Summer School. This year I believe we have the finest and most interesting future before us. My impression is that the world is offering Summer Sessions on scattered parts of its surface. You who see war as an inevitability of the next month or two will not be very much interested in education, but I am a fool who sees education as an asset to peace. When you coerce your gray matter to lift you back to some of the thoughts of high school, I imagine you remember hearing of foreign schools in a manner that seemed very much out of the world of the time. Now they are just other places of learning in a theoretical one-world. The idea seems very appealing so let me stop and get back to Carolina before I go into a tirade of propaganda for Universal Education.

At present the impression is given by a number of us that we are too proud to receive an education. Of course a nice looking convertible is very enchanting or its equivalent, a few too many beers. These coupled with fraternity parties, or even just plain proletariat parties, will attract the normal person more than dull text books.

My idea is to substitute professors for suds. I do not look toward complete success in this venture, but I am convinced that our appreciation of the 'finer' things of life has become vitiated by excesses. We no longer comprehend beer to its fullest value because it is accepted as the beverage of moderation while being consumed in immoderate portions. In this age beer requires only money and time, while I believe some professors require secret passwords. The 'speakeasy' idea has definitely shifted. That complicates the problem of a balance between beer and professor, and I do not believe it is the fault of the beer. Maybe a fund should be set aside for the professors to use for the entertainment of students. I think UNC should be a place where you live and learn under one system; not where you learn in Saunders and live in 'Jeff's'. You philosophers can find any number of fallacies in the preceding paragraph, but my questions are: "Is our educational system as effective as it might be under present conditions?"; "Would some interest in students by the professors help improve things?" and "Will the college professor ever regain his lost supremacy over the beer mug and convertible?"

Sure, It's All A Matter of Glands

Columbus, Ohio, — (UP) — "Romantic love" and "the free choice system of mate selection" would be banned if an Ohio State University professor had his way.

Dr. A. R. Mangus, professor of rural sociology, however, leaves open the question of what he would put in its place.

"The free choice system of mate selection no longer works well," Dr. Mangus said. "In our mobile society it brings together in marriage couples who lack common background and are incompatible.

"Further, romantic love blinds couples to each other's faults and immaturities. They awake to their basic incompatibilities only after marriage has forced them to realities."

As remedies, Dr. Mangus suggested a program of parent education to develop proper personalities in children, to advise parents of the social and personal needs of children, and in methods of child management.

END OF THE TRAIL

IOLA, Kan. (UP)—The death of John M. Overman at the age of 95 left his wife alone after 71 years of married life. She is 92.

One Man's Angle

Give Us Now Our Daily Red

By Kennedy Gammage

It seems to this writer high time that someone should take it upon himself to give the lie to some of the verbiage which has been written on this page. Those writings which decry the American way of life, free enterprise, and the competitive, capitalistic system, and praise to the skies the systems and ideologies of foreign powers, should be debunked for what they are.

Let us consider the column of Mr. Bill Robertson, "This Changing World", which appeared on Saturday, April 17. We do not know whether or not Mr. Robertson is a member of the Communist party. That is of minor importance. Our purpose is to examine what Mr. Robertson has to say, and then examine the facts.

Mr. Robertson begins by stating that the human race is engaged in a battle of ideas, and that various people and groups look at the battle in different ways, ". . .But the Marxists themselves, and millions of progressive and democratic people throughout the world, see this battle in quite a different light." This statement, by implication, suggests that the Marxists are democratic. What is meant by the word "democratic"?

Stalin, in his Report to the Eighth Congress of Soviets, said, "Democracy is of two kinds. It is clear, therefore, that democracy in the draft of the Russian Constitution of 1938 is not the 'ordinary' and 'universally recognized' democracy in general, but socialist democracy" The question arises, what is a socialist democracy?

Let us check with that veritable fountainhead of info, Uncle Joe, again; in his book, Leninism. Stalin says, "He (Lenin) quite stressed the fact that dictatorship of the proletariat is the supreme model of democracy in the class community. Proletarian dictatorship can be complete only if directed by one party: the Communist Party which must not share that management with any other party."

Here we have one party in control of our lives. Okay. Say we are party members, but disagree with the party—what then? Stalin says, "The task of proletarian dictatorship cannot be established unless an iron discipline within the party is established. . ." In view of the Russian purges from time to time, it is not hard to conceive of the form this 'iron discipline' would take—and has taken in the past. This, then, is the democracy sought by these millions of people.

Mr. Robertson goes on to say that "A writer for a leading Journal in the Soviet Union has expressed the following thought concerning the battle of ideas in World War II: the Soviet ideas of the equal rights of races and nations, the ideas of the friendship of peoples, (have) won a complete victory over the fascist ideas of bestial nationalism, and race hatred."

With regards to the Soviet ideas of the equal rights of races and nations, and the ideas of the friendship of peoples, the Program of the Communist International (1936 edition), says "The conquest of power by the proletariat does not mean peacefully 'capturing' the ready-made bourgeoise machinery by means of a parliamentary majority. Hence the violence of the bourgeoisie can be suppressed only by the stern violence of the proletariat. The conquest of power by the proletariat is the violent overthrow of bourgeoise power, the destruction of capitalist state apparatus, (bourgeoise armies, police, bureaucratic hierarchy, the judiciary, parliaments, etc.) and substituting in its place the new organs of proletarian power, to serve primarily as instruments for the supression of the exploiters."

If this is the Soviet idea of equal rights of races and nations, we'll take vanilla. "Friendship of peoples"? Why, this is the friendliest damn thing we ever heard of! Da! And what else does the Soviet have to say of the 'fascist ideas of bestial nationalism and race hatred'? Molotov said to Von Ribbentrop on the occasion of the signing of the Nazi-Soviet Treaty: "Fascism is a matter of taste. Our friendship has been sealed in blood."

Mr. Robertson quotes the writer for the leading journal in the Soviet Union as saying that the Soviet ideas are invincible because they are based on the Marxist-Leninist theory, which is the only scientific world outlook for modern times. Mr. Robertson himself seems cheered, strangely enough, by this: "Now it must be admitted that this kind of talk allows us to develop an outlook of democratic optimism." Optimism for democracy? We have considered that type of 'democracy' and no thank you. Optimism for peace? Let's see what Mr. Lenin says on that score: ". . . it is inconceivable that the Soviet Republic should continue to exist for a long period side by side with imperialistic states. Ultimately, one or the other must conquer. Meanwhile, a number of terrible clashes between the Soviet republic and the bourgeoise states is inevitable." And Joseph Stalin: "Can the victory of socialism in one country be regarded as final if this country is encircled by capitalism. . . . ? Clearly it cannot." (Stalin's letter to Ivanov, Feb. 12, 1938.)

"Further, since it is true that there is no difference between the democratic aspirations of hundreds of millions of people and the theories of Marxism-Leninism, then it is no accident that such bitter enemies of the people as Quisling, Hitler, Mussolini, and Tojo were all violent red-baiters." continues Mr. Robertson. But in saying this he has said absolutely nothing, since the same statement could be made about millions of other people and the American concept of democracy, and the Hitler Gang's hatred of that concept.

The American concept of democracy allowed no compromise with Quisling, Hitler, Mussolini and Tojo; whereas the Marx-Leninist concept did. Let us not forget the words of Mr Molotov: "Fascism is a matter of taste." Some people's tastes are subject to their mouths. And if Mr. Robertson has a taste for what it seems he has, his mouth must taste terrible.

Political Spotlight

Bugle Call for Dedmond

By Charlie Long

Tuesday night saw President Eller turn over the keys of the administration to the new officers. Serving in a crucial year President Eller naturally made some errors but, from the overall view it can be said that student government moved ahead. As many know, Eller is very close to the new president and may be depended upon to give Dedmond the benefit of his political wisdom. For Mr. Dedmond, the year will not be an easy one. He has promised little and thusly left the field of action wide open for what may come. We hope that his decisions will be just and wise, that he will pick his counselors well and that he will receive cooperation that is always needed to do the job.

The problem of appellate power should be settled once and for all during the next six months. This column has stated before that the question was not one of the set up being wrong in the court system but, that the wrong people were in the set up. With the election of Bill Mackie to the chairmanship we can at least hope for a correct procedural system and with a fair attempt to try appeals and render decisions which will do more than infuriate the Men's council.

It will be interesting to watch who gets the nod from the new president for the top political plums. Especially on the appointment of an Attorney General. For the past six months Scotty Venable has held down that all-important post. Mr. Venable has one of the most likable personalities on the campus but, making him Attorney General is comparable only to making little Red Riding Hood a cop in the gas house district. The campus needs an Attorney General for something besides a presidential secretary and here's hoping that President Dedmond will pick a fire eater for the position.

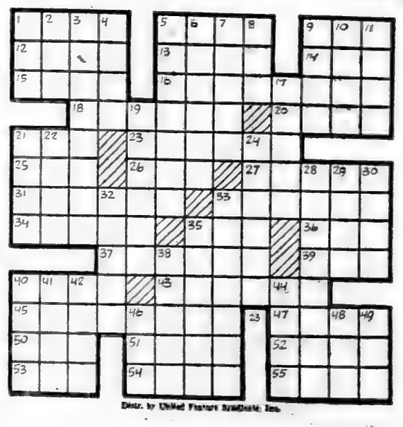
Redistricting is with us again and this time the bill will come from the University Party ranks. Their idea apepars to be to get some sort of redistricting on the books and then point with pride at what they did. Strangely enough, certain S. P. legislators will be in support of the bill. Tired of fighting for the principle they now seem ready to concede and take what ever sop the U. P. controlled legislature will give them. If the new Leary bill on redistricting passes, (we will take any and all bets that it will and spot five votes) it means that we will have heard the last on the subject. A presidential veto will not be forthcoming.

Last week's session of the State Student Legislature should lay the myth that the University of N. C. is a liberal institution. It may be liberal but if the group of students representing it in Raleigh are a true product of it liberalism then the liberals have lost all fifteen rounds. The forces of reaction had their day but the state papers gave it little publicity. Apparently, the only student activity that deserves publicity is when some student goes on Moscow's accredited list. Maybe my sense of what is news is wrong but it seems to me that when a student body like our expresses conservative views after being branded all over the state as communistic, it should be damn big news.

Editor Tookie Hodgson of the Tarnation bowed out this week and the campus lost the services of another "genius". New editors Smith and Wharton cleaned house but quick. After showing the departing editor the door they immediately vacated the old headquarters and moved to the basement of G. M.

WRONG JOB

CHICOPEE FALLS, Mass. (UP) —Convicted of drunken driving, Marvin Bray resigned as head of the Chicopee safety council.



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

ACROSS

1—System of signals
5—To wander
9—Everything
12—River in Germany
13—Flows out
14—To contend
15—Moccasins
16—Bedaubs
18—To go over
20—Native metals
21—Ibsen heroine
23—Goes in
25—Edible seed
26—Consumed
27—Plants modified by abnormal environment
31—Painters' boards
33—To injure
34—Cubic measure
35—Unclosed (poet.)
36—Rocky pinnacle
37—Venerated
38—Female sheep
40—Fruit drinks
43—Black snakes
45—Pertinent
47—Aleutian island
50—Priest's vestment
51—The "Gloomy Dean"
52—Social affairs
53—Meadow
54—Ripener
55—Border

DOWN

1—Policeman (slang)
2—Harem room
3—To lessen
4—Irish
5—Regrets
6—Dedicated
7—To calm
8—Manuscript (abbr.)
9—To assert
10—Italian coins
11—Smaller
19—Opera by Puccini
19—Sounded, as bell
21—Copies
22—Chair
24—To go back
28—Witnessed
29—Arab lateen-rigged vessel
30—Withered
32—To wipe out
33—Phantom
35—A fruit
38—Orangutan
40—Russia's inland seas
41—To take out
42—Mediterranean island
44—Price
46—By way of
48—Children's game
49—Practice

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Baseballers Nip Duke, 6-5; Netters Shutout Deacons; Ward Upsets Chapman

Diamondmen Score Early, Then Stave Off Late Comeback

By Bob Goldwater

Coombs Park, Durham, April — Scoring in five of the first innings, the Tar Heels of North Carolina used up the remaining time in the Big Four tilt with Duke here today in beating off a determined Blue Devil threat to emerge a 6-5 victor and continue as the loop pacesetter.

The issue was in doubt right down to the final putout. But with the tying run waiting on third base, relief hurler Vinnie DiLorenzo curved a third strike past Duke outfielder Hank Smith to clinch the triumph and provide starting pitcher Frank Robinson with his fourth success of the campaign.

From a team outlook, the win was the second in a row in the Big Four play and number six without a defeat in Southern conference action. The Tar Heels now sport a victory skein of seven games and will attempt to add three streaks on Saturday in a skirmish with N. C. State.

Nine Batters

Prior to the ninth-inning excitement, the Blue Devils had broken loose from a 6-1 deficit to pull within hailing distance of the Carolina club. Nine Duke batters came to the plate during the frame and four eventually scored to cut the Tar Heel advantage down to one lone tally.

Bill Bergeron opened the Duke seventh with a walk and Ed Perini flied to center for the first out. The second out was slightly longer in coming — four batters and three runs to be exact.

Ed McCarthy gained another free pass and Stu Erickson knocked in the first run of the inning with a solid single to left. It also marked the end for Robinson, who asked to be removed because of pain in his elbow.

Another Righthander

That brought another righthander, Ray Blair, to the scene. And Duke third-baseman John Falwell greeted him with a terrific clout that hit up against the fence in deep centerfield for a three-bagger. McCarthy and Erickson tallied and the score was 6-4, Carolina's favor.

Blair settled down to fan Jerry Fry, but pinch-hitter Red Lucas singled through the hole between first and second to drive in Falwell. A walk to Smith resulted in two more walks — Blair to the dugout and southpaw DiLorenzo to the mound. Vinnie ended the rally on two pitched balls, John Hancock grounding out to second.

Strikeout Total

In the rest of the time he worked, DiLorenzo fanned four Blue Devils to run his strikeout total for the year to a classy 55 in 38 innings. In the ninth LeRoy Sires touched him for the only safety he allowed and went all the way around to third on a passed ball. But DiLorenzo bore down and Smith went down.

Unlike the Duke system of scoring in one big inning, the Tar Heels ran up their total for the contest one or two at a time. Whitey Black started right off with a single into right, moved to second on an infield putout, and came home on Jim Kelly's bingle over second.

Robinson, the game's leading hitter with three straight singles, had a share in the second Carolina tally. Dallas Branch reached first on a fielders choice, got to second on a passed ball, and eventually scored on Robby's line hit into center.

Scoring honors in the third inning fell to Kelly. On first base by virtue of a fielder's choice, he went all the way around on Will Hobb's double along the right-field line. Carolina went scoreless in the fourth but added another in the fifth after loading the bases with one out. Rip Ryan's loft to left provided the RBI.

Duke Scores

The Blue Devils finally got around to scoring in the bottom of the fifth, marking up one and coming close with another. But Bergeron, attempting to tally on a bounding ball to Robinson, was thrown out at home.

Carolina counted twice more in the sixth on Robinson's third hit, an infield error on which Black reached first, Jim Hayworth's sharp drive to load the bases, and Kelly's liner past first to drive in Robby and Black.

That set the stage for Duke's seventh-inning rally.

Fight to Finish!

Carolina	AB	R	H	PO	A
Black, cf	5	2	1	1	0
Hayworth, 3b	5	1	1	1	1
Jones, rf	3	0	0	2	0
Kelly, lf	4	1	2	0	0
Hobbs, 1b	4	0	2	6	0
Gregory, 1b	1	0	0	1	0
Ryan, ss	4	0	0	3	6
Branch, 2b	4	1	0	2	3
Cheek, c	3	0	0	11	0
Robinson, p	4	1	3	0	2
Blair, p	0	0	0	0	0
DiLorenzo, p	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	37	6	9	27	12
Duke	AB	R	H	PO	A
Hancock, 1b	5	0	1	12	1
Bergeron, ss	3	1	0	5	2
Perini, rf	5	0	1	4	0
McCarthy, c	2	1	0	2	0
Erickson, lf	5	1	1	1	0
Falwell, 3b	4	1	2	0	3
Frye, 2b	5	0	1	1	4
Folger, cf	2	0	0	1	0
Matheson, p	0	0	0	0	0
a-Clark	1	0	0	0	0
Ayers, p	0	0	0	0	0
b-Lucas	1	0	1	0	0
Karukstis, p	0	0	0	0	0
c-Sires	1	0	1	0	0
Strauch, p	0	0	0	0	1
Smith, cf	1	1	0	1	0
Totals	35	5	8	27	11

a—batted for Matheson in 6th.
b—batted for Ayers in 7th.
c—batted for Karukstis in 9th.

Carolina	111	012	000	6
Duke	000	010	400	5

Summary: Errors: Branch, Robinson, Hobbs, Bergeron, Frye. Runs batted in: Kelly 3, Robinson, Hobbs, Ryan, Erickson, Falwell 2, Lucas. Three-base hits: Falwell. Two-base hits: Hobbs. Stolen bases: Kelly. Sacrifice: Jones. Double plays: Branch—Ryan—Hobbs. Base on balls—off: Robinson 8, Blair 1, DiLorenzo 1, Strauch 3. Struck out—by: Robinson 5, Blair 1, DiLorenzo 1, Matheson 1, Ayers 1. Left on bases: Carolina 9, Duke 13. Passed ball: McCarthy, Cheek 2. Hit by pitcher: Cheek (by Ayers) Winning pitcher: Robinson. Losing pitcher: Strauch. Umpires: Veasey and Stallings. Time: 2:18.

Tennis Team Scores 14th Win in a Row; Seixas Still Ailing

By Buddy Vaden

Coach John Kenfield's Blue and White racquet squad chalked up their 14th straight triumph yesterday, when they whitewashed Wake Forest, 9-0, on the Chapel Hill Courts. This fourth Conference win was the seventh shutout victory for the Tar Heels.

The next match on the local netters schedule is a Southern conference contest with the Wildcats at Davidson, April 24. It is doubted that Vic Seixas will be ready for that match.

Clark Taylor, replacing ailing Seixas in the number one spot, gained his 14th straight win of the season by blanking John Hammack, 6-0, 6-0.

Playing in the number two position, Ray Morris allowed Wake Forest's Mack Watkins only one game in a 6-0, 6-1 contest.

Charlie Rice made it three in a row as he took a hotly contested first set from Deacon Paul Williams, 7-5, and then breezed along in the second set to a 6-0 margin.

Skakle Scores

Don Skakle scored the second shutout of the day by trouncing Bill Wall in the number four singles, 6-0, 6-0. In the fifth spot Heath Alexander had little trouble in gaining a 6-0, 6-2 decision over Ralph Bland.

Stan Gruner followed the Tar Heel victory trend by downing Bill Walker, 6-0, and 6-1.

In the doubles matches, it was still the Carolinians on top. The top combination of Taylor and Duke Wilder easily took care of Wake's top pair, Hammack and Williams, in a 6-1, 6-0 win.

Skakle and Alexander, the second doubles pair, made easy work of the Watkins-Bland combo, coming out on top of a 6-1, 6-2 match.

Rice-Dameron Win

In the final match Rice and Lasley Dameron outlasted Walker and Wall in the first set, 7-5, but found their winning ways and walked away with the second, 6-1.

The complete summary:

Singles—Taylor (C) over Hammack, 6-0, 6-0; Morris (C) over Watkins, 6-0, 6-1; Rice (C) over Williams, 7-5, 6-0; Skakle (C) over Wall, 6-0, 6-0; Alexander (C) over Bland, 6-0, 6-2; Gruner (C) over Walker, 6-0, 6-1.

Doubles — Taylor-Wilder (C) over Hammack-Williams, 6-1, 6-0; Skakle-Alexander (C) over Watkins-Bland, 6-1, 6-2; Rice-Dameron (C) over Walker-Wall, 7-5, 6-1.

Three Trackmen See Action at Penn Today

Philadelphia, April 22 — Three members of the four-man University of North Carolina entry in the Penn relays here will see action tomorrow in the first day of the weekend classic.

Sam Magill, Dick Taylor, and Bob Seligman will be able to leave the City of Brotherly Love tomorrow night and return to Raleigh in time for the Tar Heels' dual meet with State college.

Seligman, who holds the Southern conference title in the shot and discus will be tossing both those objects tomorow afternoon. He placed fourth in the discus last year.

Taylor is one of the 15 men entered in the invitation 110-yard high hurdles. The select field will be pruned to five for the finals. Magill will run the two-mile for the Blue and White.

Jack Moody, the remaining member of the quartet will have to wait until Saturday to compete in the high jump. Last year Moody, Southern conference champion, cleared the bar at 6' 3", one inch below the six men who tied for first.

Trackmen Meet State Saturday

Over 40 Carolina trackmen will depart tomorrow morning for Raleigh and a meet with North Carolina State's Wolfpack in their third dual meet of the season.

The Tar Heel's will be after victory number two as they at present have a one-one record. In the season's opener they dropped a close 69-62 decision to Georgia Tech and then proceded to conquer Virginia, 78 2/3 to 47 1/3.

State should offer plenty of competition, especially in the broad jump and high jump, javelin, shot, 440, and the dashes. With Jack Moody at the Penn Relays, Leonard Briley and Bill Joyner will carry the Carolina hopes in the two jumps. While Joyner has reached 6' 2", State has a man that has reached 6' 3" on one occasion. Should Dickey have a good day, the Wolfpack may also annex the broad jump.

The best time any Tar Heel has had in the 440 is 52 seconds, but State has two lads who have consistently flirted with 51. Don Nelson and Dave Willis have been doing the 100 in 10.2 and Nelson does the 220 in 22.4.

In the hurdles, Dick Taylor

(See TRACK, page 4)

Linksman Wins, 2-1 Over Amateur Ace; Plays Again Today

Pinehurst, April 22—Carolina's golfing genius, Harvie Ward, passed his first big links test of the quarter here today when he gained the semi-finals of the North-South amateur golf tourney by virtue of a 2 and 1 upset win over favored Dick Chapman.

Chapman, former national amateur champion, put the Tar Heel ace three holes down on the fifth green, but the Tarboro lad surged back to even the match on the 14th hole. Ward then won two of the next three holes and went home with the match in his pocket.

Chapman Builds

Chapman built his fifth hole lead with the help of a birdie on the third and an eagle on the par-five fifth. But after that, Ward began closing in on the Pinehurst veteran. Chapman three-putted the eighth and took a four on the ninth and Ward pulled ahead two holes, leaving Chapman 1-up at the turn.

Ward went down again when Chapman took the par-five 10th with a birdie four by canning a 40-foot putt.

Then the college linksman came back and grabbed the 12th when Chapman was trapped and failed to sink his putt. He evened the match with a four on the 14th. Ward moved 1-up with a par three on the 15th when Chapman again had putter trouble. They split the 16th and Ward took the match by sinking a 10-foot putt for a birdie duece on the 17th.

Ward Advances

By virtue of his win, Ward advanced to 36-hole semi-finals tomorrow where he will face Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Penn. Palmer moved into the round of four by defeating former Tar Heel Ray Taylor of Greensboro, 5 and 4.

In the top bracket favorite Frankie Stranahan moved right along, winning 7 and 6. He will face C. A. Snow of High Point, a former Carolina freshman, in the other semi-final match.

McIver Wins First Coed Softball Game

In the opening round of the coed softball league McIver dormitory outslugged the Alpha Gamma Delta club 17-10 on Navy field yesterday.

It was a real hitting contest with four pitchers taking a turn on the mound. Anne Tuitt and Lucille Arnott did the hurling for the winners with Kay Woodman on the receiving end of their offerings.

Plans Released for Big Four's May Sports Carnival in Durham

Preliminary information on the Big Four Intramural Sports Day to be held in Durham on May 6, was released yesterday by the university intramural department.

The carnival of mural sports stars from the members of the Big Four will feature play in softball, volleyball, badminton horseshoes, table tennis and one-wall handball.

The people in charge of the respective entrants for Carolina are as follows: Dick Jamerson, softball; Red Gerringer, horseshoes; Bob Seligman and Bob Nelson, handball; Bill Tate, volleyball; Pete Hexner, table tennis and John Noe, badminton.

Anyone interested in entering any one of the above events should contact those in charge of the sport he desires to take part in.

Coach Dick Jamerson released a list of men who he would like to have report to the intramural field at 10 o'clock Saturday for softball practice. It is a tentative list and anyone else interested in trying out for the team should also come down and work out.

The list includes: Godwin, Phi Delt; Hagler and Bob Hines, Phi Gamma Delta; Hardison and Jenkins, Kap Sig; Allen, Gregory, Lem Gibbons, Cam Rodman, DKE; Sam Mordecai, Zeta Psi; Taylor Thorne, Delt Sig; Charlie Smith, PiKA; Wood and Moore, Mud Dobbers; Greenbaum, Regan, McKeernam and Bill Speigel, Misfits.

SOFTBALL

13 KA 1	Kap Psi 4
9 PiKA 2	ZBT 1
13 Phi Delt 3	Sig Nu 2 2
10 Club H-2-3	Lewis 2 4
14 Sig Chi 1	Lamb Chi 2 6
11 Pi Lamb 2	Kap Sig 1 7
14 Emerson	Battlers 12
15 DKE 1	Chi Phi 2 8
15 Graham 2	Whitehead 9
25 Steele	Mangum 1 15
18 Stacy	Alexander 1 13
8 Bombers	Stanley Steamers 0
8 Law School	Mangum 2 7

Wesley Rockets forfeit over Seiler Five. Med School forfeit over Miller. Phi Gam 2 forfeit over Delt Sig 2.

HORSESHOES

3 Sig Chi 1	ATO 4 0
2 DKE 1	Lamb Chi 1
3 Geology Depart.	Old East 0
3 Stacy	Mangum 1 0
3 Chi Phi 1	Zeta Psi 1 0
2 Delt Sig	Phi Kap 4 1
2 ATO 3	Chi Psi 1

Mangum 3 forfeit over Alexander 3.

—Makings— In the Majors

By United Press

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Pittsburgh 3, Chicago 0.
WP—Riddler; LP—Rush.

Boston 10, Philadelphia 4.
WP—Shoun; LP—Simmons.

Brooklyn 6, New York 3.
WP—Taylor; LP—Lee.

Cincinnati 4, St. Louis 3.
WP—Gumpert; LP—Hearn.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Philadelphia 5, Boston 3.
WP—Savage; LP—Parnell

Detroit 3, Chicago 2.
WP—Trucks; LP—Judson.

Only games scheduled.

Home Runs—Lockman (N. Y. Giants), Lohrke (N. Y. Giants), Kiner (Pittsburgh)

FOR PICNICS . . .

- GINGER ALE
- COCA-COLA
- POTATO CHIPS
- PICKLES AND OLIVES
- CHEESE SPREADS
- COLD CUTS

—Also—

COLD BEER DELIVERED BY THE KEG OR CASE

We Furnish Pumps

Phone F-416

FOWLER'S FOOD STORE
—We Deliver—

From 9 to 1
Johnny Long
And His Orchestra
Will Appear
Wednesday, April 28
at
Alamance Roller Drum
Junction Highways 54 & 70
BURLINGTON, N. C.
In Advance ....$1.50 plus tax
At Door .....$2.00 plus tax

We Specialize in
PACKING BEER
In Containers with Ice for
PICNICS and PARTIES
Call 3536
K & M
Beer Delivery Service

"My future's in the telephone business"

"I've been in the telephone business a little more than two years.

"And what busy years they've been!

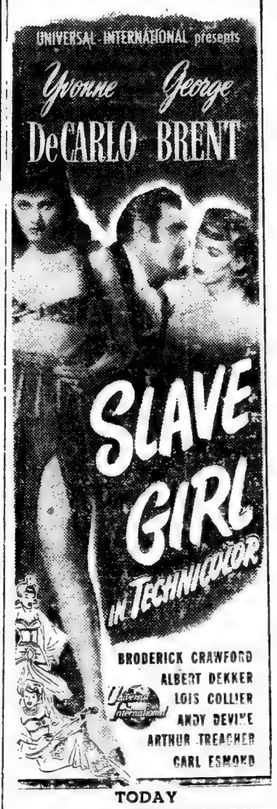
"The Bell System has added more than 6,000,000 new telephones, erected some 1200 buildings, buried thousands of miles of cable and made great strides in extending and improving telephone service in rural areas.

"Telephone service has been extended to automobiles, trucks and trains, and a new system for transmitting telephone conversations and television programs by microwaves put in operation.

"At Bell Telephone Laboratories they're working on new electronic devices which will bring still wider horizons of electrical communications within view.

"I've had a part in this post-war progress."

There's a future in telephony.



BELL TELEPHONE SYSTEM

PRODUCING ARTISTS, Inc. presents
ZACHARY SCOTT · LOUIS HAYWARD
DIANA LYNN · SYDNEY GREENSTREET
LUCILLE BREMER · MARTHA VICKERS
RUTHLESS
TODAY
CAROLINA

Each time you taste ice-cold Coca-Cola, you are reminded that here is the quality of genuine goodness. Experience... many a refreshing experience... has taught people everywhere to trust the quality of Coca-Cola.
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY DURHAM COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

THE She OF ARABY!

TODAY
VILLAGE

CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE 6B

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed and being completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogerson Drive.Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. Telephone F-2906. (1-ch1x2-1)

27 FOOT HOUSE TRAILER. 82 PITTSboro Road Trailer Court. Inquire between 5:00 and 6:00 p. m. (1-254-1)

NINE YEAR OLD, GELDED, FIVE gaited saddle horse in excellent physical condition. For sale at sacrifice price. Stable accomodations in Chapel Hill. Call 4011 (1-265-1)

LOST 12

BROWN LEATHER LADIES BILLfold. 3 zipper sides. Important and sentimental value. Keep money and return papers to Y.M.C.A. Patty Mirth Nance, 190A Jackson Circle, Victory Village. (1-260-1)

SMALL FEMALE BLACK COCKER Spaniel. Answers to name of "Baby." If seen please notify Jake Wade, Woollen Gymnasium.

SERVICES OFFERED 19

ALL MAKES OF LAWN MOWERS repaired, machine sharpened. Axes, hatchets, scythes also sharpened. Tripps Lawn Mower Repair Shop or see John Tripp, Carrboro Shoe Shop. (ch 1x1)

WANTED 24

MEN WITH SOME BAND EXPERience, not in dance band now. Need bass, tenor sax, piano, guitar, drum. Apply "Town-Aires", 410C Church St. Chapel Hill. (1-262-1)

WANTED TO RENT 24B

TWO OR THREE ROOM FURNISHED apartment for veteran student and wife. Will occupy June 15. Write box 42 or call Hall, 3066 after 5:00. (1-258-1)

Whid Powell's
COLONIAL HOUSE SYSTEM
WAFFLES
GRILLED FRANKS
Weekdays
11:00 a. m. — 12 a. m.
Friday & Saturday
11:00 a. m. — 2 a. m.
Rosemary St.—Opp. City Hall

FURNITURE . . .

• Upholstered • Refinished
• Repaired • Made to Order
Charles Valentine's Cabinet Shop
PHONE 9367 — PITTSBORO RD.

DR. BENJAMIN SWALIN, director of the North Carolina Symphony, which appears here in a concert tonight in Hill hall at 8:30 o'clock, is shown here conducting a typical rehearsal of a section of the Orchestra. The polished performance you will see and hear when the Symphony appears here is the result of weeks of hard work—one rehearsal after another. And even after the season opens there are rehearsals between performances.

Special Concert Scheduled Today

Fifteen Per Cent Increase Unnecessary, Local Rent Control Officials Point Out

Tenants are not required to sign leases which provide for a 15 per cent rent increase, rent control officials recently pointed out.

The Housing and Rent act of 1948 provides that such agreement must be voluntary. The tenant who does not sign such a lease is still protected by rent regulations.

The following question and answer series released by the Office of Rent Control here gives pertinent information concerning tenants:

Q. Must a tenant sign a lease providing for a 15 per cent increase in rent?

A. No. The Housing and Rent act of 1948 provides that such an agreement must be voluntary The tenant who does not sign such a lease is still protected by the rent regulations.

Q. May a tenant be evicted if he refuses to sign a lease under the provisions of the new act?

A. No. The signing of such lease must be voluntary, and a tenant may be evicted only for one of the specified causes set forth in the Housing and Rent act of 1948.

Q. If the landlord and tenant make an oral agreement for a rent increase of not more than 15 per cent without signing a written lease, does this increase the maximum rent?

A. No. No increase in the maximum rent of the unit is permissable based on an oral agreement; there must be a voluntary signing of a written lease, in accordance with requirements stated.

Retrial Granted To Kinston Man

Kinston, April 22 —(UP)— A man sentenced to die in the state's gas chamber April 30 has been granted a new trial.

Lemuel Parrott of Kinston had been sentenced for the robbery-slaying last year of Kenneth Taylor. The Supreme Court failed to review his case and his death date was set for April 30.

Today the Lenoir county Superior Court granted Parrott a new trial and gave him an added lease on life.

The trial was granted when affadavits showed that the State's key witness was not at the scene of the crime. SBI agenst say the witness, Sam Thompson of Goldsboro, has now changed his testimony and says he was not in Kinston the night that Taylor was killed.

HE LOST MONEY

BOSTON, (UP)—Richard Marshall was fined $72 for illegally parking his automobile 11 times. Nearby is a parking lot that charges 75 cents nightly.

Admission Tonight Is by Membership; Tickets Available

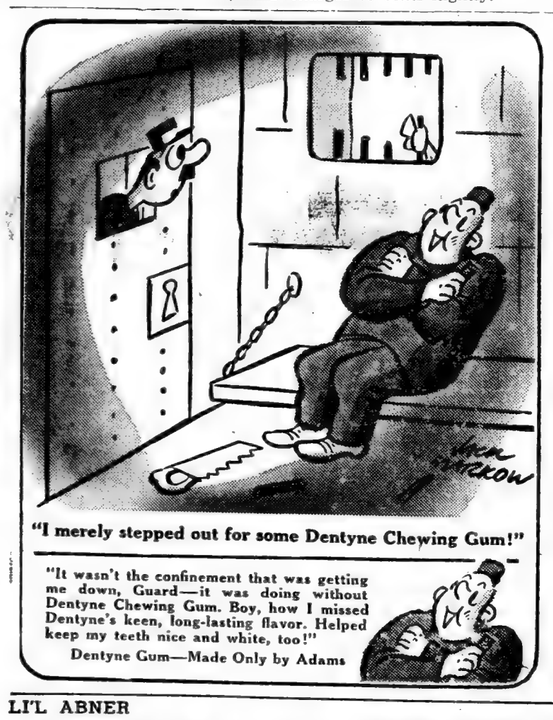
In addition to its regular concert tonight at 8:30 in Memorial hall, the North Carolina Symphony orchestra will appear in concert this afternoon at 2 o'clock before 1,800 school children of Chapel Hill and vicinity.

Admission to tonight's concert will be by symphony membership ticket or tickets may be purchased at the door, prices being $2.10 general admission and $1.20 for students.

The symphony appeared last season before more than 100,000 children and 50,000 adults, traveling 3,600 miles to appear in 58 cities. As pointed out by Dean Fred H. Weaver, chairman of the drive for funds, one of the principle objects of the symphony is to make available to people of the entire state the best in orchestra music.

Edward Cone, pianist and composer from Greensboro, will appear tonight as guest soloist, playing Mozart's "Concerto in D Minor for Piano and Orchestra." Mr. Cone received his bachelor's degree at Princeton in 1939, and his master in fine arts in 1942, and has also taken graduate work at Columbia.

Following his appearance with the symphony, Mr. Cone will return to Princeton where he will resume his studies prior to taking over his duties as assistant professor of music there in the fall.



Other numbers included on tonight's program will be Beethoven's "Symphony No. 7 in A Major, Opus 92," and Rossini's "Overture to the Theivish Magpie." Two dances from Khachaturian's ballet "Gayne" will also be heard, "Dance of the Rose Maidens," and the "Sabre Dance."

The children's concert this afternoon has been especially planned for youngsters by the Children's division of the symphony, and will include works of a more popular nature in addition to symphonic works. To give a break in the middle of the program, the audience will stand and sing two songs with the ochestra, "The Crusaders' Hymn" and "Grandma Grunts," a North Carolina folk song.

Dean Carmichael has warned coeds to stay off lonely walks after dark.

Jerry the Tailor
OVER
N. C. CAFETERIA

University Florist
"For the Best in Flowers"
Pick Theatre Bldg.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Telephone 9816

"I merely stepped out for some Dentyne Chewing Gum!"

"It wasn't the confinement that was getting me down, Guard—it was doing without Dentyne Chewing Gum. Boy, how I missed Dentyne's keen, long-lasting flavor. Helped keep my teeth nice and white, too!"

Dentyne Gum—Made Only by Adams

The ORIENTAL
CHINESE-AMERICAN RESTAURANT
116 E. Parrish Street
Durham, N. C.

LI'L ABNER By Al Capp

Always room for a few more — at HARRY'S

Truman Supports Compromise On 70-Group Air Force Plan

Washington, D. C., April 22 — (UP)—President Truman threw his support behind the compromise plan for a 66-group air force today.

Sentiment in favor of the plan was reported in the Senate, but House members said that the plan would build only what they called a "mothball' air force which would be too small and out-of-date in a few years.

Opposition to the plan in the House centered around Defense Secretary Forrestal's proposal to build the new groups out of planes now in storage. Congressmen said that the air force of the future would be "seriously jeopardized."

At his news conference today, President Truman said that the new 66-group program represented no change in administrative policy.

At the same time, Mr. Truman indicated that he would ignore a congressional demand for a week at a confidential loyalty report. The report was the one made by the F. B. I. on Dr. Edward Condon, noted atomic scientist and director of the Federal Bureau of Standards. The House voted today to direct the Secretary of Commerce to submit the Condon report for House inspection.

When Mr. Truman was told about the House resolution, he replied by recalling that President Andrew Jackson once said of a Supreme Court decision, "The Chief Justice has made his decision; now let him enforce it."

-Sper-

(Continued from page 1)

seated along the edge of the indoor track. For at the close of each series of tryout yells, Sper announced his decision to the lucky girls. Thus passed the afternoon.

Gives Pep Talk

At the close of the tryouts, Sper, putting more emotion into his tirade than Knute Rockne could have, gave the group a pep talk during which he outlined the hard job and even rougher practice awaiting them.

Stressing the fact that the fans will be expecting plenty from them at the Blue-White classic, Sper disclosed that he and his eight aides will spend two hours a day preparing for the task.

The ace diver also sketched an ambitious fall training plan. He declared that he would expect every one of his crew back in the fall on the Sunday before school opens so that they'll be able to get in that much extra work. With that cheering note, he adjourned the session.

Asked to comment on the selections, Sper gasped, "Oiee, Oiee."

-Track-

(continued from page 3)

looks like a sure thing in the highs while Shultz's 24.4 will probably lead the pack home. Sam Magill should continue his winning form in the two mile just as Jimmy Miller is the favorite in the mile. Incidentally, Miller will also run the two mile for a total of three miles in one meet which constitutes quite an afternoon of running.

Chambers, State's "jack of all trades", Byler, in the weights, and Goldberg in the sprints will head the Wolfpack list.

PHOTOGRAPHERS NEEDED

Any photographers interested taking pictures for the Spring Finals dance will please contact Bill Tate, at the Phi Gamma Delta house, as bids for the job will be made in the near future. A minimum of three photographers must be guaranteed to be on hand before any bid will be considered.

The world's largest rose bush is at Tombstone, Ariz.. A white banksia about 50 years old, it is eight feet high and an estimated 150,000 blooms cover it in may.

-Legislature-

(Continued from page 1)

introduced by Joe Leary, which provides for dividing the town men's area into four districts, went into committee. According to the bill, which would become effective as of the general elections next December, the men's dormitory districts and the women's dormitory and town districts are to remain as established before. The Elections board is to handle the reappointment of legislators according to districts.

A bill providing for the grading of professors by students was also introduced on the floor last night by Miles Smith. The measure, which went to committee, calls for a student poll to grade professors and instructors in each class according to ratings of excellent, good, fair, poor and very poor. The faculty members would be graded on the basis of presentation of material, knowledge of subject matter, ability to arouse and keep the interest of the students, and on grading procedure. Results of the poll would be reported to the University Board of Trustees.

JUST RECEIVED . . .
16 mm Magazine Movies

Revere	F 2.5 Lens
Filmo Auto Load	F 1.9 Lens
Kodak	F 1.9 Lens

Brownie Box Cameras
• Sizes 616 and 620
• Brownie Reflex Syncro
• Baby Brownie Special

Exposure Meters
• Weston II Cine
• General Electric
• Skan
• Norwood Director
• De-Jur Lifetime

FOISTER'S CAMERA SHOP

Campus Calendar

7:30 p. m.—Hillel Services, Roland Parker lounge No. 1.

8:00 p. m.—Wallace for President club, 103 Bingham hall.

8:00 p. m.—"Beyond Our Own," Congregational Christian church.

8:15 p. m.—Foreign students party, home of Mrs. W. C. Ryan.

8:30 p. m.—French play, Playmakers theater.

8:30 p. m.—North Carolina Symphony concert, Memorial hall.

-Board-

(Continued from page 1)

campus publications taking over their duties after the end of the academic year in June.

Business was brought before the board yesterday concerning the overdrawn engraving budget of Tarnation. A motion was made and passed that the additional engraving be paid for out of the magazine's advertising surplus.

The board decided, however, to bill former Editor Tookie Hodgson for two engravings allegedly made the wrong size through incompetance, and for a re-touching job supposedly done for personal reasons. It was understood that a public reprimand is possibly forthcoming.

BOMBED OUT

MINNEAPOLIS, (UP) — Mrs. John Martens asked for a divorce on the ground that her husband set off DDT bombs under the door of the bathroom in which she had locked herself.

REHDERS
CHAPEL HILL FLOWER SHOP
Opposite Post Office Corner

LUCREZIA BORGIA
A FRENCH PICTURE
The intimate story of the livid lives and loves of the Borgias
COMPLETE DIALOGUE TITLES IN ENGLISH
WEDNESDAY, APRIL 28
VILLAGE

Ridgeway's
OPTICIANS
Complete Eyeglass Service
Prompt attention to all mail orders
PROFESSIONAL BUILDING
Raleigh N. C.

Fashion's "Honor Grads"
SEAM-FREE NYLONS
WITH PATENTED HEEL
Taking first place in college activities that call for smart attire, the nylons which bear the Seal of the DANCING TWINS feature the patented Gusset Heel* for snug fit, the Gussetoe for comfort...plus a care-free, seam-free beauty! Sold under leading brand names at smart college shops and stores.
*U. S. Pat. No. 2366666

GAYEST
Summer Look IS IN A
Blouse AND Skirt

Have you seen our new lighthearted blouses and skirts? We think you'll have a case of love at first sight. Our blouses are all ruffles and lace . . . in washable cotton and sweet rayon. Our skirts are gathered or flared to sway with a pixie air as you walk. Blouses—$5.95 up . . . Skirts—$7.95 up

Ellis Stone
Durham's best store since 1886

LIBRARY (Periodical Dept)
University of North Carolina
Chapel Hill, N. C.
1-31-48

WEATHER
Partly cloudy and slightly warmer; possible showers.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
Help Student Government
Freshman Challenges
Comments on Things

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SATURDAY, APRIL 24, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | NO. 149

Laboratory Theater Will Present Drama In GM This Evening

The Laboratory Theater of the Carolina Playmakers will present Nikolai Gogol's famous comedy-farce, "The Inspector General," in the main lounge of Graham Memorial tonight at 8:30 o'clock. No admission will be charged, and the play will be presented again tomorrow and Monday nights at the same time.

The play, directed by James Byrd, is a satire on official crookedness and inefficiency, and has remained fresh to theater audiences throughout the world for the hundred years since it was written. It is universally conceded to be one of the greatest European comedies of the past century, and one of the best Russian comedies ever written.

Mistakes Identity

The story deals with a poor clerk, passing through a Russian village, who is mistaken by locals officials for the inspector being sent by the Czar.

The cast includes veteran actor James Geiger as the "Mayor", Eleanor Ringer (Saint Joan) as the Mayor's wife, and Phyllis Isenhour as his daughter. James Riley, who is well known for his scenery designs and for his part as the artist in "The Binkle Plan", will act the role of the clerk.

Local land owners will be Mac Shaw and Murray McCain. The local city officials are Bob Barr, Pete Strader, Karl Harrell, A. F. Westover, III George Upchurch, and Frank Echols.

Cast Listed

Other members of the cast are: Helen Brown, Bill Ayers, Edna Dooley, Marty Jacobs, Gloria Gunn, Reggie Kachigian, Mary Jo Cain, and Pat Palmer.

The Laboratory Theater, co-sponsored by the Playmakers and Graham Memorial, is an entirely student managed organization, and the plays are directed by students. The group has scored consistant successes since its organization last year.

Among the more popular have been "Fashion." "The Importance of Being Earnest," "The Imaginary Invalid," and "Aria de Cappo."

Methodists Slate Bicycling Outing

Wesley foundation members will leave for an overnight bike hike to Hillsboro this afternoon at 2 o'clock, according to an announcement made yesterday by the Recreation committee. A program of recreation has been planned for the event, including a fried chicken picnic tomorrow noon on the return trip.

The students will return to Chapel Hill in time for the regular Sunday night supper at 5:45 and the seminars which are in their third week of progress.

The topics and leaders are: "Christianity and Other Religions." Prof. Warren Ashby; "The Christian Stand on Civil Rights," Prof. Howard Beale: "Towards a World-Wide Christianity," Rev. J. R. Nelson: and "Religion and Psychological Adjustment", Mr. C. E. Elliot.

SADIE PEARSON

Coed Officers Hear Address By R. B. House

By Sally Woodhull

Nearly 100 coed officers of this year and next met Thursday night in the final session of the Coed Leadership Training program, a banquet at the Carolina Inn.

Headed by Sadie Pearson and sponsored by Coed Senate, the training program was a cooperative effort by all coed organizations to improve the quality of leadership among women students.

Chancellor R. B. House, who was introduced last night by Dean Katherine K. Carmichael, spoke to the coeds on problems that would meet them as officers next year. He pointed out the influence of women students on men, saying that women set the ideals which men strive to follow, and that he was extremely proud of Carolina's coeds and their accomplishments.

"Polite No"

To the question of a sorority court, Chancellor House gave "a polite no," explaining that the University could not give land to such a project since plans for future construction have already been made for all University-owned land.

Barbara Cashion, outgoing speaker of the Coed Senate, presided at the affair, and Mrs. Betty Rose Dowden of the YWCA gave the invocation and benediction. Barbara recognized the outgoing presidents of the each of the organizations represented, and they in turn presented the officers for next year.

Officers Present

Present at the banquet were members of Coed Senate, women legislators, and officers of the following groups: Women's Athletic association, YWCA, CICA, Pan Hellenic council, the five sororities, Women's Glee club, Theta Psi Epsilon, and Chi Delta Phi.

Other guests in addition to Chancellor House and Dean Carmichael included Mrs. House, Dean and Mrs. E. E. Mackie, Isabel McCleod, Kathryn Cook, Twig Branch, and Mrs. Cappie Swain.

YOUNG PARENTS ADVISED

New York, —(UP)— The New York City department of health has prepared a 136-page handbook on baby rearing which it will send free on request to parents having a first child.

Wallace Group Set To Leave Tomorrow For Winston-Salem

A caravan of local Wallace-for-President supporters will journey to Winston-Salem tomorrow to attend the North Carolina Progressive party's first convention which will feature addresses tonight and tomorrow by Senator Glen H. Taylor, running mate of Henry Wallace in the coming Presidential race.

To Speak Here

Senator Taylor will speak here in Hill hall on Monday night at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the local Wallace for President club.

Faculty, students and townspeople are expected to join the car caravan scheduled to leave from the bell tower at 8 o'clock tomorrow, Mike Pochna, caravan director, announced yesterday.

The convention, which will draw an estimated 2,000 Wallace followers from points throughout the state, will be held in spacious Liberty warehouse.

Two Dollars and Up

Senator Taylor will be the principal speaker tonight at a dinner ceremony designed for the raising of campaign funds. Those attending will pay $2 and up for plates, local sources report.

Tomorrow's all-day session will feature Taylor's address on third party principles and aims, and will hear reports from delegates concerning Pregressive party action in North Carolina to date.

Attending the convention from here will be Bill Richardson, president of the local Wallace club, and others including Paul Morehead, Aubrey Williams, Bill Evans, Mrs. W. Y. Richardson and John Myers.

LEGISLATURE ABSENCES

The following members of the Student Legislature were absent from Thursday's session: Richard Allsbrook, Bill Benjamin, Kate Conner, Edie Knight and Wally Robinson.

Excuses may be turned in to Thurman Williams, chairman of the Rules committee. Williams has reminded legislators that recommendation for dimissal from the Student Legislature will be given anyone charged with three unexcused absences.

Mackie Elected

The new Student council has elected Bill Mackie chairman for the coming year. Mackie replaces former chairman Jim Pascal.

Weddy Thorp, junior from Rocky Mount, was named clerk of the council. She replaces Nina DeBerry.

The council will hold an open hearing this coming Tuesday night on procedure for appeals to be followed during the year. Mackie announced that anyone interested may attend.

The new council is composed of Wayne Brenengen, Fred Thompson, Iris Bost, Ferne Hughes, Marty Davis, Martin Carmichael, Sam Magill, Weddy Thorpe and Mackie.

Kansas Police Say Force May Be Used Again

Kansas City, Mo., April 23 —(UP) —Kansas City police warned tonight that they will use force again, if necessary, to break up mass picketing in the meat strike.

Club-swinging police turned a crowded union hall into shambles today in the latest clash in the nationwide packinghouse strike. The man in charge of the cops, Captain Eli Dahlin, said, "We're not going to have any more trouble here. We'll beat them all on the head if necessary."

That is just what the Kansas City cops did today. Captain Dahlin called out the entire headquarters force, except for two women clerks. The police marched over to the Cudahy plant and broke up the pickets in a bloody 10-minute battle.

Then they chased the fleeing pickets into a nearby union hall and battered them into submission. The cops made a shambles out of the union hall. Furniture was broken, women were kicked, and several of the strikers sopn needed medical attention, including one with a possible skull fracture.

The way was cleared for non-strikers to go to work at the Kansas City plant, but as for peace in Kansas City, as one striker put it, "If they want blood, we'll give it to them next time."

Palestine Powderkeg Due to Blow Top According to Recent News Releases

New York, April 23 —(UP)— The fuse is burning short on the Palestine powderkeg.

The Arabs are getting ready tonight to evacuate its greatest port, Haifa, in a 1948-style Dunkerque.

The United Nations, charged with keeping the peace in the Holy Land, is still bogged down in wordy debate. Now, it appears that it will limit its immediate action to trying to save Jerusalem.

British to Leave

In three weeks, the British will leave. As for the Jews, they consider Palestine already partitioned into separate states. For them, partition is a reality and the Jewish state has been born.

That was made clear at Lake Success today by the Jewish agency—the group that will take over as the Jewish national government.

The agency's spokesman told the UN that partition is in full swing. It's too late now, he said, to reverse the decision on the destiny of the Holy Land.

Warning Issued

The warning was issued by the agency's Jerusalem representative a few hours after his arrival at Lake Success. Michael Comay reported that the Jewish Haganah army has seized the initiative all over the embattled country and he added that to all practical purposes the British rule has ended in Palestine.

Comay scoffed at the American plan for a UN trusteeship over the Holy Land. "To use sitting in Jerusalem," he said. "It is simply fantastic to think that a UN governor-general could move in and expect to take over."

State Endangered

He admitted however that if Moslem nations sent their regular armies to ring the Holy Land, the future of a Jewish state would be endangered. Comay said such an invasion is the only act that could prevent the full collapse of the present Arab fighting forces.

Meanwhile, a British news agency dispatch reports that the Jewish Haganah army has imposed martial law on the conquored port of Haifa.

Sigma Chi Derby Scheduled For Fetzer Field Today; Five Sororities, CICA Entered In Annual Tourney

Broughton, Albright, Scott Declare Stands On Political Matters

Raleigh, April 23 —(UP)—Two gubernatorial candidates and a United States senatorial candidate came out strongly tonight favoring and opposing various national and state issues.

The three are former governor and candidate for the U. S. Senate J. Melville Broughton and North Carolina gubernatorial candidates R. Mayne Albright and W. Kerr Scott.

Broughton at Statesville

Broughton, speaking tonight at Statesville asserted that States' rights should be maintained strictly. The Senatorial candidate said the relationship between the states and the federal government should be one of complete and wholesome co-operation in the public interest, and he added that North Carolina has been a leading example of such cooperation.

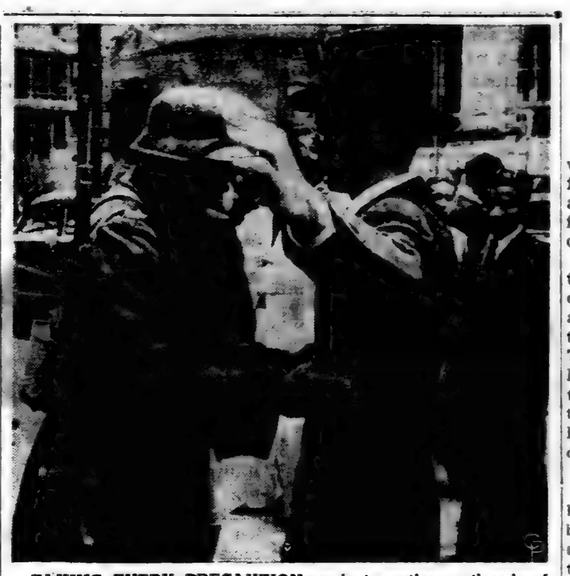
He cites farm, health, minerals, Social Security and veterans programs as examples under state and federal co-operation and points out that a minimum of federal control has been necessary.

States' Rights

As Broughton puts it, "As we insist upon the maintenance of the principle of states' rights, we should never forget that state responsibility is the companion principle. The two working together, will mean a better citizenship and a more prosperous state and nation."

Speaking at Oxford, Albright has repeated that his campaign is entirely independent. "I would like, with your help, to raise the level of politics in North Carolina, I would like to broaden its base," he said.

Clean Politics



He tags his program as "Planned Progress and Clean Politics." The young World War II veteran claims that North Carolina needs new voters, new candidates for office and new leadership toward new goals. He say we are losing ground under machine control.

Meanwhile, W. Kerr Scott, speaking at Charlotte today, has come out for more support of wildlife restoration. He praised the recent action separating game and inland fish administration from the Department of Conservation and Development.

Soil-Water Problem

He says the whole problem comes back to conservation of soil and water resources. "As we improve the soil, stop erosion and make farm land more productive, we are getting down to the fundamentals of more and better hunting and fishing."

Scott has pledged his full support to the new Wildlife Resources commission.

TAKING EVERY PRECAUTION against another outbreak of rioting and looting in Bogota, Colombia, a government soldier halts and searches a passerby for hidden weapons. Although the riot-torn city has returned to a resumption of business-as-usual, underlying tension is being felt throughout the country. M-G-M News of the Day photo. (International)

U.S. Secretary of State Marshall Is Headed Home From Bogota

Bogoto, Colombia, April 23 — (UP) — Secretary of State George C. Marshall is flying to Washington tonight after successfully closing one of his toughest diplomatic deals.

The nation's top spokesman on foreign affairs left the Inter-American conference here late this afternoon. Shortly before his departure he had a farewell luncheon with a handful of top Latin-American statesmen.

He told them urgent matters demanded his return to the State department in Washington and would not allow him at the conference until April 30, when it is scheduled to adjourn.

Political observers point out that Marshall acomplished his blueprint for battling Communism in the new world.

Tragedy Strikes Lenoir Carnival

Lenoir, April 23 —(UP)— Tragedy took top billing at a small vagabond carnival which pitched tents on the outskirts of Lenoir today.

The body of a carnival worker, identified as Bill Taylor, was found today on the festival grounds. Police Chief Stanley Crisp said Taylor apparently had been hit on the head with a piece of iron pipe. His skull was fractured.

The dead man, who was about 35 years old, is believed to have joined the carnival at Atlanta.

Stassen States 'Mad War Move' May Be Coming

Akron, Ohio, April 23—(UP)— Harold Stassen, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said here tonight that the world faces the danger that Russia might make what he calls "a mad move toward war," if the veto power of the United Nations is not remedied.

In a speech delivered here, the GOP presidential hopeful urged that the United States and other interested nations act to offset the danger of war. He suggested that a joint policy be established to act on any violations of the territorial or political rights of any nation.

SQUARE DANCE

The Presbyterian church will sponsor a square dance tonight at 8 o'clock. European folk dances, waltzes, polkas, mountain and western style square dances will be featured during the evening.

There is no admission charge and everyone is invited to attend.

Sig Sweetheart Will Be Picked At Dance Tonight

By Herb Nachman

The gala Sigma Chi derby will begin its fourth annual funfest on Fetzer field this afternoon at 2 o'clock with five sororities and the CICA competing in the coed classic.

With the Tri-Delts attempting to make the derby cup permanently theirs, the other contestants should be in "rare form" to try and break the winning streak. The first time the derby was held, back in 1945, the cup was taken by the ADPi's, but for the last two years, the Tri-Delts have managed to emerge victorious.

"Sweetheart of Sigma Chi"

Following this afternoon's derby, the annual Sigma Chi formal ball will be held in Wollen gym at 9 o'clock when the winner of the title "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" for the coming year will be introduced. The dance will feature the music of Johnny Satterfield's orchestra.

"The biggest, happiest derby ever" has been planned by the committee. Seven events are on tap for the affair beginning with egg and spoon relay and followed by the good old-fashioned pie eating contest.

Other Events

Coeds will then participate in a potato sack race, the Domestic handicap, one of the top secrets of the afternoon, a series of five humorous skits, and the Sigma Chi Claiming, another secret, will make up the afternoon's slate of events along with the Modern Venus beauty contest. The coed group piling up the most number of points will be awarded the 1948 Sigma Chi derby trophy. Officials of the committee also announced that individual cups will be given in each event.

Fourteen lovely coeds representing sororities and dormitories have been nominated to compete for the honor of becoming the "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" for the coming year. The winner and her two handmaidens will be presented and decorated during the figure at the ball tonight. Jo Benton of Danville, Va., won the distinction last year.

Beauty Judges

Judges for the "Miss Modern Venus" contest, which is the derby's feature attraction, include Charlie Justice, Dean Fred Weaver and Len Szafryn.

Participants in the various events are as follows: Egg and Spoon: Peppy Lucas, Phyllis Bradshaw, Babs DeWitt and Janet Krinley, Tri-Delt; Ruth Evans, Charmain Griffin, Jane Morrison and Elizabeth Eaddy, Pi Phi; Claudia Lee, Lynn Gurrie, Helen Phillips and Beverly Jean Smith, ADPi; Jenny Trett, Carolyn Long, Eloise Jacobi and Betty Long, CICA; Jean Gilbert,

(See DERBY, page 4)

Helicopter Pilot Gets 'Ticket' for Parking

Washington, April 23 — (UP) —White House police were kept in a dither for about 20 minutes this afternoon by a helicopter pilot.

Police complained that he flew down to within 200 feet of the executive mansion, then the flying windmill hovered motionless in the air while a passenger snapped pictures. The arial photographer was on a picture assignment for a magazine.

The police telephoned the Civil Aeronautics administration for advice on how to shoot off a helicopter. The CAA regulations forbid any flying over the capitol.

The CAA stepped into the picture and, for the first time in history, gave a pilot a "ticket" for parking too close to the White House.

Church Organizations to Stage Drive To Get Clothing for Overseas Relief

Hoping to take advantage of the spring clothing change-over, the various church groups, CRIL, the YMCA, the YWCA will stage an Overseas Relief drive for clothing, bedding, and shoes, during the week beginning May 9.

Charlie Enman, chairman of the committee for the campus drive, said yesterday that clothing would be collected in basicly the same manner as in the clothing drive earlier in the year when large boxes were placed in each dorm, sorority and fraternity house. Also a room to room canvass will be made by overseas relief representatives.

All clothing collected during the weeks drive will be packed and then shipped to Europe to be distributed purely on the basis of need with no regard to creed race, or religion.

Chapel Hill churches will conduct the drive in town and in Victory Village. Enman, will head the drive on campus, working with a committee made up of one representative from each church group.

Members of this committee are Paul Harmon, CRIL; Bill Shrago, Hillel, who will aid in packing of clothes for shipment; Ed Strain, YMCA, who will work with Eugene Turner, Baptist, on collection in men's dorms and fraternity houses; Maria Davis, YWCA, who will head collection in coed dorms and sorority houses; Hibbard Thatcher, Presbyterian, who will have charge of ditsribution of boxes to be used for collection purposes; and Virginia Forward and Tenn Mason, YWCA, who will work with Eugene Turner on publicity for the campaign.

Mrs. Betty Rose Dowden, YWCA, and Mr. Claude Shotts, YMCA, will act as advisor for the drive

Elaine Patton

Elaine Patton, 22-year-old junior from Jonesboro, died at approximately 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon while enroute to the University infirmary after she had collapsed in front of McIver dormitory, where she lived on campus.

According to Dr. E. M. Hedgepeth of the infirmary, County Coroner H. J. Walker was called in as he is required to be in all cases of unexpected death where the cause cannot be easily determined. Walker requested a post-mortem, which is being performed at Duke university hospital.

The infirmary notified Miss Patton's sister of the death. Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced.

University Concert Band Schedules Program Of Selections Tomorrow Afternoon in Hill Hall

The University Concert Band will present its annual spring concert Sunday afternoon in Hill hall at 4 o'clock.

The band, under the direction of Earl Slocum, will be making its first appearance of the year. The public is invited.

William Fitzgerald, New Bern senior music major and clarinetist, will be the soloist for the concert. Fitzgerald will be featured in a Slocum arrangement of the "Solo de Concours" by Messager.

Two major symphonic works, the Second Movement of Howard Hanson's "Nordic Symphony" and the Finale of the Shostakovitch Fifth Symphony will be featured by Slocum and the band.

The band will also give a first performance of Assistant Director Hubert Henderson's arangement for the musicians of "By the Pool of Pirene" by R. S. Stroughton.

Other top numbers include compositions by Verdi, Moussorgsky, Shostakovitch, Howard Hanson, and Vaughn Williams. Other features include Ferde Grofe's "Mardi Gras", from the "Mississippi Suite." Comic relief will be provided by Howard Cable's amusing musical potpourri, "Jingles All The Way."

Slocum is well known to students and townspeople alike for his performances with the concert band, for spring and summer lawn concerts, and for the many and various performances of the marching band at halftime of the football games. Slocum is a member of the American Bandmaster's association.

Henderson has assisted Slocum for several years in his work with the musicial organizations. He is a graduate assistant in the Music department and has been heard frequently as a cornet soloist.

To Help Student Government

One of the most progressive moves for the improvement of student government on our campus is the program outlined and carried out by the Coed Senate for orientation of new coed leaders.

Through a series of open meetings, discussions and a banquet, the retiring leaders and officers met with the incoming officers and explained the duties, responsibilities and problems of their individual jobs, thus giving the ones going into office a chance to "stand on the shoulders of the generation proceeding them." The information and help that can be gained from such a program is obvious.

In addition to learning their own duties, the new officers also have an opportunity to meet the other people that they are going to work with — or oppose — in the coming year.

Such a program, though it would have to be greatly enlarged, is to be recommended for the men legislators and other officers. As far as we know, no attempt is made to orient new legislators or the numerous other officers in their duties, unless the men concerned do it on their own. It might be a good idea if all the various legislators and student government officials could meet together in a friendly party, as was suggested for the legislature several weeks ago, and learn to know their opponents, not as political enemies, but as fellow students working for the good of Carolina.

It would probably take some time to institute an orientation program for the men, but it would certainly pay off with dividends. Members of the orientation committee, or interested student government workers would be helping themselves as well as their fellow workers if they could plan and carry out such a program. —B.B.

This 'n That

Comments On Lots Of Things

By Bill Buchan

Lots of times there are lots of things that one would like to write columns on, but which are not important enough to warrant the amount of space ordinarily given one. To answer such a problem, and still get the point across, we're going to include several short topics in one column.

For instance, take the grass.

It's pretty green this time of year and officials planted it for its beauty and not to be trampled on by many various and sundry pairs of feet.

* * *

And while we're on the campus, it would be a great step towards maintaining the good looks of our surroundings if trashcans could be placed in convenient spots along the walks and areas where crowds of students gather—in front of classroom buildings, for example.

The grounds department says that all the benches have disappeared because "people" have carried them off and failed to return them. Whoever is responsible, we wish they would return them so we could sit down in the sun shine.

* * *

Several weeks ago, a friend of ours stopped us and asked why there were not mirrors in all the men's rooms on campus. Not that the gentleman in question is vain, but he just likes to comb his hair occasionally. The point aroused our curiosity and we went looking for mirrors. The boy was right, there are a great many rooms without them.

* * *

Sometime ago, a columnist invited students to the student legislature to see the "best show in town". His point, perhaps was funny, but it seems to us that students should sit in on several sessions of the assembly, not for laughs, but to see for themselves the effort, time and sincerity that their representatives give to create a better student government.

* * *

It might be pointed out here, that not all students have the privilege of student government as we know it at UNC. Many colleges have a poor excuse for it, such as some of our close neighbors. Others have none at all. We're pretty lucky—and when you think about it, the people in South Building are not the monsters that some would have them be, but rather they are a bunch of human beings interested in us, the students and they are doing the best they can for us and our interests. Just a point, however.

* * *

And don't forget, the places to eat in town tomorrow are Harry's, Marathon and Danziger's. These are the only places, in addition to University-run places, that do not up their prices on Sunday. The only way they'll lower'em is by visible protest from the student body. So boycott'em, by george!

* * *

Despite the noise raised on campus for Albright, there are a large number of students who are backing the BEST man for the position—the man who has had the experience and knows state government — Charles Johnson. Look for more poop on this candidate here and in Johnson meetings to be held.

* * *

Put Tex Beneke's name in your column, the chairman of the University party says to us the other day. So we did. Tex is going to be here for the Spring Germans, next weekend. The gentleman has quite a band. Plan now to see and hear him. (How's that, Thurman?)

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.

Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor . . . . Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors . . Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associate Editors . . . . . Bob Sain, Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady
Society Editor . . . . . Weddy Thorp
Photographer . . . Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. . . . . . Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. . . . C. B. Mendenhall
Subscription Mgrs. . . . Jim King, Chan Pegram
Asst. Business Mgrs. . . Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. . . . Randall Hudson, Don Snow

NEWS STAFF: Herb Nachman, Charlie Gibson, Sally Woodhull, John Stump, Gordon Huffines, Jack Brown, Stewart McKeel, Margaret Gaston, Dan Wallace, Charlie Craven, Mark Sumner, Emily Baker, Doris Weaver, Harriet Sipple, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.

SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Larry Fox, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher, Mel Horowitz, Faith Adams, Anne Wells.

NIGHT EDITOR: Herb Nachman NIGHT SPORTS: Larry and Bud

Carolina Carousel

Columnist Says He'll Back Melton Before Wallace

By R. Foo Giduz

There comes a time in every man's life when he is called upon to lay his political cards on the table . . . Not that it makes any difference to the local readers at all, but we got tackled on this issue (but hard) by an energetic sleuth the other day . . . "Lissen Gidders," he ejaculates, "You been spreading your Wallace stuff in the DTH long enough! Whyn't you stop pimping in pink and let us know whether you're Commie-ing or going?" . . . And forthwith he checks out in a cloud of right-eous dust . . .

Thus the time has come to talk of many things besides just sealing wax . . . Most of a certainty it will come as no surprise to friends Richardson, Macrorie, Aiken, Scales, Shanker, et al, to know that C.C. is much more of a Wallassite than Wallaceite . . . In fact he would sincerely write in Mellaman Melton for prexy before H. A. Wallace.

Frankly fellas, we're some of these peculiar species of "party-line" Democrats (suh) who would like to vote for Vandenberg (Stassen if oh-so-necessary), and are still sort of hunting a good candidate . . . (Watch Justice Paul Douglas on Demo tkt.)

Likewise we regularly attend the Wallace club meetings because we wish to remain informed on all sides . . . And have many friends in the so-called HWFPC . . . (And besides they sponsor an open cut-rate suds scuttling session after each meeting) . . . So leave us say it: Wallace-Schmallace; we couldn't vote for him before the Second Coming, but we don't like the way in which the unthinking majority of students damn the Progressive Party and everything connected with it . . .

—If the Sigmachi Derby this afternoon is anything like last year's it'll be a corker . . . For a feast for sore eyes check over the crop of cuties they will have in the Modern Venus contest too . . . Better we should be Mars: nov schmoz ka pop! . . . And a closing note of thanks . . . (paid advt. by Thurman (The Grip) Wms., UP chmn.) . . . He requests we pass on his thanks in the name of the University party, to all fraternity pledge captains for their loyal support in the past elections . . .

This Changing World

Noah Webster On Politics

By Bill Robertson

The other evening we were having lunch at the counter in a local restaurant. We managed to strike up a conversation with a student sitting next to us. We got on to the subject of the "mock" Security council meeting which was to discuss the Czechoslovakian situation that night. (Several organizations, including the Carolina Conservative club and The Communist Party, were represented at this meeting.)

The fellow we were talking to said that he wasn't much on joining organizations, but that the Carolina Conservative club appealed to him most of all. He added that the name of the club was not a suitable one. He felt that it did more harm than good to the organization.

Now ever since our first conversations with members of the Carolina Conservative club we have felt that the organization was properly named. We therefore proceeded to argue the question. We pointed out to our friend that he, himself, would not have been aware of the nature of that organization if he had not been attracted by its name. He quickly agreed and appeared to recognize a real problem—the club should have a more "inviting" name, and yet make clear by this name just what it stands for.

Later on in the evening we looked up the word "conservative", in the dictionary. We found two interesting definitions: —1, conserving; preservative (a good example of this would be "embalming fluid". B. R.) and 2. Disposed to maintain existing institutions and views; opposed to changes.

We then looked up the meaning of the word "change". We found the following:—1. to alter by substituting something else for, or by giving up for something else. and, 2. to alter; to make different; to convert (this last sounds "radical", like recruiting for the Wallace Club.)

The result of this brief session with Webster is an increasing awareness of the scientific accuracy of a world-outlook which, among other things, conceives of the world as constantly changing. As the old Persian philosopher said, "this, too, shall pass away" (referring, no doubt, to the Persian Conservative club.)

But the matter is not quite that simple. As the well-known Communist, V. I. Lenin, said, "development is a 'struggle' of opposites". This means that democratic ideas on the racial question in our country will develop and grow strong as a result of a "struggle" against the dying ideas—that is, the "conservative" ideas which do not recognize that this is a changing world.

It is now perfectly clear, after the great victories of World War II, that the world is changing in the direction of greater political, social, and economic democracy among all peoples in all countries. This being the actual situation, we may say without fear of contradiction, that "the best is yet to be in this changing world."

The Brassy Taste

From The Shores Of Acapulco

By Bob Sain

If one of these bright spring days you should wander into Franklin street and see the populace trotting determinedly from the Carolina Theatre to Sutton's, or from Fowler's Food Store to the Colonial House; if the street should look like the final stages of a fifty mile marathon; if students and townspeople should look like a part of a horse opera chase. . .blame it on golden-voiced Bob Andrew, conductor of WDUK's Tar Heel Hits show.

Andrew never lets a commercial pass without telling you to "rush over to the Varsity" or "rush down to Ab's right away" or "rush around the corner to the Colonial House."

If he doesn't start varying his commercials a guy I know is going to rush up to his Strowd building studio and chuck a rock through the window.

(A trip to Mexico is always a new and novel experience.)

That learned Latin scholar, Matthew "Tookie" Hodgson, might consult his Catullus once again. Perhaps he missed it the first time:

Risu inepto res ineptior nulla est, the noted Catull once said.

(Mexico has a delightful all-year-round climate. There are no seasons in which one cannot enjoy each day.)

I spent some minutes on Tuesday looking over Hodgson's Tarnation. I found nothing to commend it beyond the work of Bill Harrison, Tom Wharton and Jack Niles—all cartoonists. Even the jokes picked up from other mags weren't humorous.

Not content simply to be unfunny, Tarnation deemed it pertinent to gloat over its late lamented victim, the Carolina Mag. Gloating, I have heard, is not in very good taste these days.

(There is an impression that all Mexican dishes are highly seasoned. Such is not the case. The traveler may enjoy many healthful native foods without concern.)

Stayed up until dawn the other day. Cool, somewhat foggy, everything clean. Seeing dawn is rapidly becoming unfashionable, it is a vanishing pastime. You should try it some day. The campus and environs are at their best: without people.

(On many days of the year some place in Mexico a celebration is going on—a fair, gay active market, fire works, dances, bull-fights, cock-fights and jaipeos.)

The Di Senate has reversed itself—agreeing to grant the Carolace club use of its hall for meeting. I'm afraid the senate were on spots and had to do as a gesture.

(This column courtesy of the Departamento de Turismo de la Secretaria de Gobernacion.)

Poop For The Group

Hollywood Goes To Gay Paree

By Raney Stanford

It is to be hoped that all veterans of the ETO got their kicks from "To The Victor" at Carrington Smith's emporium this week, as Warner Brothers intended for them to. For the West Coast entertainment lords were really bucking for the ex-GI dollar in this one.

There was a plot to the thing, but it was only an incidental cops and robbers routine that had been knocking around the studio since D. W. Griffith brought it in. For the main attraction was supposed to be the pretty postcard views of Paris, the city of all things to all men.

A sneering gunman chases the heroine down the Rue de Rivoli so the audience can see all the shops, then Dennis "Paunchy" Morgan takes her up Montmartre hill so the camera can survey the world-famed twisted streets and the Sacre Coeur church from all angles. There is a scene in which Morgan manages to take five minutes to descend the Palais Chaillot stairs so we can all see the Seine and the Eiffel Tower, and the crowning touch is run our lovers up to Normandy for a nostalgic revisit to the Omaha beachhead.

All these little touches of what Hollywood calls "realism" were actually about as true to life as the above-mentioned postcards. One could almost see a battalion of flunkeys in advance of the cameraman; cleaning up the streets, tidying the house fronts, and placing the sidewalk "artists" specially hired for the occasion. After awhile you'd think the American cinema paladins would realize how trite and shallow all this is, and how much better a product many foreign producers have been turning out since the war.

Of course, you can snort and say naturally a French company would make a better picture of Paris than Hollywood. But the thing is much bigger than that. It is the understanding of human relationships that goes into their better work, the touches of reality continually appearing, that raise it above the standard pattern of devices that Hollywood continually uses in filming. To illustrate how much more sincere the foreigners are in similar fields one notes that with the possible exception of "A Walk in the Sun," British and Italian producers have portrayed the American soldiers at war better than any of their West Coast competition.

And if the real dope on what makes the wheels go round in Hollywood is ever filmed, an Italian company will probably make it.

NOT ALWAYS FOGGY

San Francisco —(UP) — Fog in traditional in the city by the Golden Gate. But a United States Weather Bureau survey reveals that the sun shines in the city better than 50 per cent of the time.

ROBINS PROVE RUGGED

Santa Fe, N. M.—(UP)—No first robins will be arriving here to herald the spring season. The birds have been here all winter despite heavy snows and a couple of severe cold snaps.

Write Away

Freshmen Challenge Cofield's Charges Against Student Party

Editor:

In Wednesday's Tar Heel, you carried another letter from Mr. Erie Cofield, the daily contributor to the Write Away column. In this letter Mr. Cofield set forth what is to many such half-truths and falsehoods that it provokes us to point out actually what has happened, and what is continuing to happen in relation to the three political parties.

Mr. Cofield pointed out that his former chairman could see no essential difference between a fraternity and a non-fraternity man. He went on to infer in the usual insidious manner that the Student Party is responsible for the rift between the fraternity and non-fraternity men. The obvious discrepancy in his statement lies in the fact that some of the best leaders in Student Government come from the Student party and wear a Greek letter badge. We do not hesitate to cite Bill Mackie, present chairman of the Student council; Sam Daniels, retiring secretary of the Student body; Barron Mills, former editor of the Daily Tar Heel, et. omnis. We feel that by now this point should be clear. The Student party is not, and has never been, anti-fraternity in spite of all his implications.

Mr. Cofield has gone on to point out that the Campus party has shown more interest than any other toward the freshman class. This he states, not withstanding the fact that the Student party during the spring of 1947 and the fall of 1947 fought continuously to see that freshmen received the opportunity for elections which truly represented the will of the Freshman class. The record stands that the Student party aided the leaders of the Freshman class in having two elections voided because the freshmen in great numbers had protested what they felt were illegal and corrupt practices in the handling of the elections during the spring of 1947. As for the Campus party "taking an apparent interest in the Freshmen", please look at the number of freshmen in Student Government who are active in the Student party.

Finally Mr. Cofield has cited "the fact" that the Campus party could never merge with the Student party without "compromising the principles upon which it was founded which depend its existence and popularity." We would like to invite Mr. Cofield to go back to March of 1947, and find out precisely what the founding "principles" of the Campus party were. In March of that year the Campus party was founded by a group who stated that they could not remain in the same party with Al Lowenstein so long as Mr. Lowenstein continued to insist that the Student party operate on principles instead of "good, sound politics."

We would like to refer to one of Mr. Cofield's letters which appeared in early February in which he pleaded, as a freshman, for a fair redistricting bill. Your party, Mr. Cofield, combined with the University party in defeating this bill for which you so earnestly pleaded.

One last word EERIE, did you have to relinquish any of your principles when you gratefully accepted an SP endorsement in your race for the legislature?

Mr. Cofield, we would like to invite you to a complete discussion, as two innocent freshmen to a third, to a complete discussion of all of the issues that you have raised, for the interest of all three of us.

Fred Thompson
Bill Swaim

More To Cofield

Editor:

I want to straighten Mr. Cofield out on what actually happened in February of 1947 that caused the Campus party to come into being and what the "principles upon which it was founded" really are.

A couple of months before the spring elections in 1947, before the CP was formed, the Student party was stronger than it had ever been, but all was not well inside the party. There were many factions, as there are factions in any democratic organization. In an attempt to iron out some of the difference within the party the chairman, resigned. By a very close vote Johnny Jones was elected chairman.

In the first meeting after Jones was elected a motion was placed on the floor to expel a member because of, as the proponents of the motion put it, his "radical ideas." This motion was defeated badly as there were enough people in the SP who believed in "democratic principles" and who believed if the SP was to succeed the meetings must be open to all and the practice of "free speech" followed.

Fifteen minutes before the second and last meeting of the Jones-led Student party was scheduled to start, I walked into Roland Parker lounge 2 and found the Jones faction. They had met early to act in the name of the Student party and expel this member of whom they were afraid. They were afraid of him because he had some intellect and they couldn't control him like a toy soldier. This person had a little courage and courage was something that the Jones faction couldn't face because they lacked it themselves.

Since I was the only person there who wasn't part of the Jones "clique" I had to filibuster, and I succeeded in keeping the question from being called until it was officially time for the meeting to get under way. When the time came for a vote, the question came up as to whether it would take a two-thirds vote or a plain majority to pass the motion.

By parliamentary procedure it takes a two-thirds vote to pass such a measure but the subject of the controversy rose and stated that if half the members voted for the motion he would resign. The motion wasn't passed, so the Jones group left the meeting and the next Sunday afternoon formed the Campus party.

Mr. Cofield, are these (and I quote your letter) "the principles upon which it (CP) was founded and upon which depends its existence and popularity"?

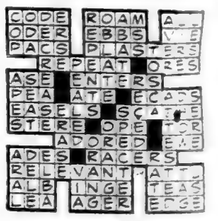
Bob Hennessee

Come Hear Taylor

Editor:

When I told a faculty member this week that Glen Taylor was going to speak here Monday, he asked me if Mr. Taylor would commit himself on controversial issues. Why don't people know the answer to that question? Because they don't take time to read the New Republic, where Wallace every week writes a page on a specific issues. Because they don't bother to hear or read Taylor's and Wallace's speeches. Why don't they? Because Truman's speech is on the front page of the New York Times and Wallace's buried on page 37, played down, cut, dismembered.

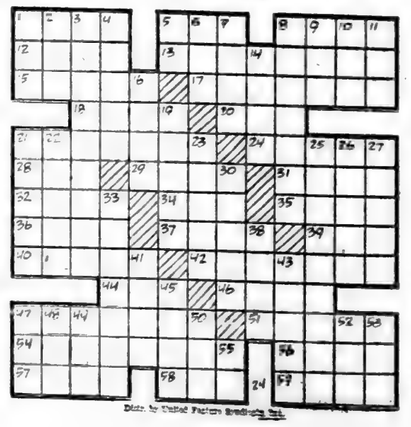
In Chapel Hill and the nation it has become customary to sneer at Wallace's followers and to try to disrupt meetings in which they participate. A professor of Bible and philosophy was fired from Evansville College last week for supporting Wallace; at the University of Iowa Wallace was banned from speaking on the campus; in Indiana violence was used against people attending a Wallace meeting.



If you're not for Wallace, don't call him names; but find out what he has done and what he stands for. The Wallace supporters don't burn crosses and try to prevent free speech. They do not have the big money that owns newspapers and radios, but they are mimeographing and printing and talking—taking the ideas of their candidates to the common people.

If you don't believe Glen Taylor will commit himself on the hot questions of today, come hear him Monday. He represents a party which will work for homes and peace and low prices—things we don't have today in the richest country in the world.

Kenneth Macrorie



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

ACROSS

1—Price
5—Beast of burden
8—Woodcutter in "The Arabian Nights"
12—Arm bone
13—Rejoined
15—Girl's name
17—Doctored
18—Greek earth goddess
20—Girl's name
21—Wrathfully
24—Pained
28—Chum
29—Mob fight
31—White frost
32—Among
24—Town in Oklahoma
25—Being, in abstract
26—Common (comb. form)
37—To vend
39—Pipe joint
40—Borders
42—Plunderers
44—To soak up
46—Christmas
47—Sweet crackers
51—Small fish
54—Islands in West Indies
56—Victim
57—Display sign
58—Beverage
59—Glacial ridge

DOWN

1—Billiard stick
2—Elderly
3—Fishing for eel's
4—Russian tribesmen
5—Land measure
6—To place
7—Form of Sarah
8—Girl's name
9—Small island
10—Spelling contest
11—To put on
14—Girl's name
16—Scion
19—Another name
21—Swiftly
22—Titled
23—Swiss song
26—Innkeepers
26—Comforter
27—Suffers (Scot.)
30—Claw
33—Fine woolen cloth
38—Card game (pl.)
41—To dirty
43—Rhythm
45—To shower
47—Able
48—Single thing
49—Sioux Indian
50—To observe
52—Meadow
53—Norse war god
55—South America (abbr.)

Netters At Davidson, Baseballers, Trackmen At State In Tough Tests Today

Both Racquet Teams Sport Clean Slates; Carolina Seeks 15th

By Larry Fox

Two undefeated Southern conference tennis squads with victory skeins running into double figures will battle this afternoon down at Davidson.

Carolina's netters will be out for their 15th win of the season when they clash with the Wildcats, who have 10 entries in the win column.

The Tar Heels will once more be without the services of Captain Vic Seixas, who was just released from the infirmary yesterday. Seixas will probably be able to compete against William and Mary next week, but it is doubtful if the smooth-stroking Philadelphian will be able to regain top form until much later in the season.

As has been done in the past few matches, everyone will move up one notch and Stan Gruner will continue in the lineup in number six spot.

Carolina Lineup

Clark Taylor will start on the number one court for the Tar Heels, to be followed by Ray Morris and Charley Rice. Don Skakle, Heath Alexander, and Gruner round out the big six.

The Davidson outfit is paced by Bo Roddey, one of the outstanding players in the South. Roddey, who hails from Charlotte, played in the nationals last year, winning his first-round match before being eliminated.

The Keesler brothers, Teddy and Len, who fill the number two and six positions, also call nearby Charlotte their home. The other three members of the squad are also Carolina-grown products. Jerry Robinson, who plays third, is from Wilmington and number four man Mike Williams is from North Wilkesboro. Whit Cobb, the other starter who stars on the Wildcat basketball team, is from Durham.

Defeated Charleston

Davidson won its 10th match of the campaign Wednesday by downing the College of Charleston, 9-0. Roddey won his singles match without the loss of a single game.

With Seixas in the lineup, the balance weighed in the Tar Heel's favor, but now it could be anybody's match. The first three positions are all even and any Carolina advantage is in the final three spots.

Last year the Kenfieldmen dropped Davidson easily by an 8-1 count The two teams met in a practice match this fall, with the Blue and White taking an 8-2 decision. The Tar Heels took all the singles matches, but dropped two doubles encounters.

Doubles Combinations

Duke Wilder will continue to play alongside Taylor as the number one doubles duo. The two have been successful in two matches and have been practicing together all week. Rice and Morris will once more combine for the second pair and Skakle and Alexander will make up the final combination.

Two individual records will be on the line this afternoon. Taylor will be trying to extend his winning streak to 15 straight, while Skakle will be out for win number 13. In his three-year stretch at Carolina, Skakle has annexed 32 consecutive victories.

The team leaves Chapel Hill at 9 o'clock this morning and will return immediately after the match.

Tarboro . . . versus . . . Toledo

Ward Wins At Pinehurst, Meets Stranahan In N-S Final Round

By Billy Carmichael III

Pinehurst, April 23 — It will be Tar Heel Harvie Ward against Muscle Man Frank Stranahan in the finals of the North-South Amateur golf tourney here tomorrow.

The North Carolina golfer gained a finalist spot in the big tourney by defeating Arnold Palmer of Wake Forest College, 5 and 4, while the Toledo star was running away C. A. Snow of High Point, 9 and 8, in today's 36-hole semi-finals.

36-Hole Final

The two will battle it out for the crown all day tomorrow in another 36-hole clash with the morning round beginning promptly at 10 o'clock while the afternoon tour will start at 2.

Ward took an early lead in his match today and then staved off an afternoon rally by the youthful Deacon to close out the match on the 32th hole.

The Tarboro Terror ran hot for the first 10 holes, moving to a 3-up advantage at this point. Then the two halved the remaining eight holes of the morning round and Ward went to lunch leading by the three-hole margin.

40-Foot Putt

In the afternoon session Ward went 4-up on the 20th with a birdie and gained another hole margin on the par-five 22nd by ramming home a 40-foot putt for an eagle.

The pair halved the next hole and Ward looked on his way to an easy win. But the Tar Heel star faltered badly on the 6th, getting into all sorts of trouble to collect a double bogey. On the following Ward went over par again, and Palmer was all but back in the match.

Strays Into Woods

After this Ward settled down to halve the next thre holes with par 3, 5, 4 to remain 3-up going to the 11th. That hole proved the downfall of the Wake Forest lad as he strayed into the woods on his drive and never recovered sufficiently to catch Ward who was proceeding to par the hole.

The Carolina ace then put on the clincher by ramming home a 35-foot putt for a birdie on the 12th. Then he halved the next two holes to close out the match, as Palmer's putt for a birdie on the 14th stopped just wide of the cup.

Ward's putter experience proved the difference between the two competitors. Stranahan is favored to cop the finals today, but with Ward's putter as hot as it is, the local gallery is expecting a close encounter.

Jayvee Baseballers Meet Wolfcubs Here; Ed Gaston Set To Handle Mound Chores

While their big brothers are working for their third Big Four victory over in Raleigh, the Tar Heel junior varsity baseball team will be seeking their second little Big Three victory of the year in a local contest against State's juniors this arternoon at 3 o'clock at Emerson stadium.

Slated to start on the mound for the Tar Babies is Ed Gaston, whose last appearance was in the initial Duke contest. Gaston will be trying for his first win of the season.

Centerfielder Zero Allen has been sidelined with a leg injury and will not see action in this afternoon's game. Coach Henry House had not decided yesterday who will replace Allen.

The only other change in the Tar Heel lineup will be at second base, where Boll Waevil will take over for the day.

State's juniors recently outslugged Duke, 12-5, in a contest in Duke park that saw the Wolfpack use 16 men. Despite the fact that they won the game by an easy margin, the Raleigh lads committed four errors during the nine innings.

The Tar Babies went through a light workout yesterday in preparation for today's game.

The probable starting lineups:

State	Carolina
Payne, rf	Carter, 1b
Leak, ss	Goodman, 2b
Livingston, 2b	Senter, 3b
Hager, 3b	Ward, lf
Mussack, cf	Walsh, c
Fix, 1b	Brookshire, ss
Knight, lf	Clark, cf
H. Livingston, c	Lamb, rf
Wilson, p	Gaston, p

ARCHERY MEETING

The intramural office announced yesterday that there will be a meeting of the University Archery club this afternoon at 2 o'clock in Kenan stadium. Equipment may be checked out in the Basket room.

LONGDEN WINS 3,000TH

San Mateo, Cal., April 23—(UP)—Jockey Johnny Longden became the first rider in American turf history to win 3,000 races when he booted Bub home in the fourth race at Bay Meadows today.

The only jockey with more winners than the 38-year old Longden is Gordon Richards of England who recently passed the 3,500 mark. Longden, who has been riding for 22 years, says he has no intention of retiring.

Junior Netters Battle Raleigh

The Carolina jayvee tennis team will play its initial match of the campaign this afternoon on the varsity courts beginning at 2 o'clock when it meets the Raleigh Tennis club.

Les Dameron will be playing number one for the juniors, who have drawn some of their personnel from the freshman team. Dameron played two matches with the varsity squad against Williams and won both contests.

C. R. Council of Raleigh will probably oppose Dameron on the number one court. Council, an outstanding badminton player, is the leading player on the Capital city outfit.

Lew August is expected to play in the second slot for Carolina with Bob Luxenburg in the third position. Luxenburg plays number one on the freshman aggregation.

The remaining three singles players will be chosen from among four players. Paul Keenan, Tom Sutherland, Guy Kirby, and Ken Wright are fighting it out for the positions. The first three boys also play ball with the yearling outfit.

Playing number four for the freshmen, Kirby notched three victories in as many matches to pace the frosh. He accounted for one of Carolina's two victories in the first Duke match and won again against the Blue Imps and against Danville.

Sutherland won his match in the second Duke contest, which the Tar Babies lost, 6-3, and also defeated his Danville adversary.

—Makings— In the Majors

By United Press

NATIONAL LEAGUE

St. Louis 1, Chicago 0.
WP—Brecheen; LP—Schmitz.
Cincinnati 5, Pittsburgh 3.
WP—Blackwell; LP—Higbe.
New York 3, Boston 1.
WP—Poat; LP—Spahn.
Philadelphia 10; Brooklyn 2.
WP—Donnelly; LP—Hatten.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Cleveland 8, Detroit 2.
WP—Lemon; LP—Hutchinson.
Boston 4, New York 0.
WP—Harris; LP—Shea.
Washington 5, Philadelphia 3.
WP—Masterson; LP—McCahan.
Only games scheduled.

HOME RUNS

Gordon (Giants); Ennis, Sisler 2 (Phils); Wyrostek (Reds); Doby, Keltner 2, Lemon (Indians); Williams (Red Sox).

SOFTBALL PRACTICE

All men on the preliminary list of those chosen to play on the Carolina softball team in the Big Four sports carnival, as well as anyone else who desires to try out for the team, should report to the intramural field at 10 o'clock this morning.

Cinder Competition Is First SC Affair For Tar Heel Squad

The Carolina track team will be installed as the favorite this afternoon when the Tar Heels run up against N. C. State in Raleigh in what will be their first Southern conference outing of the season.

The Tar Heel outfit will be strengthened by the return of Bob Seligman, Dick Taylor, and Sam Magill from Philadelphia where they competed in the Penn Relays yesterday.

Seligman, conference champion in the discus and shot, will probably cop those events this afternoon. Jim Byler will furnish his main opposition both times.

Taylor is entered in both the high and low hurdles. Hunter Heggie, Bob Morrow, and Doug Howell will also carry the Blue and White standard in the timber-topping affairs. State's man-of-all-events, Chuck Chambers, will lead the 'Pack against Carolina.

The distance duo of Magill and Jim Miller will once again be legging it around the oval in the two-mile grind along with Jim Hunt and Jim Francis. Miller will also compete in the mile.

Without Jack Moody, who is competing in the Penn relays this afternoon, the high jump is an open affair. Dick Dickey of State, who tied with Moody last year in the Carolina relays, is the probable favorite, but he will face strong competition from Carolina's Bill Joyner and Doug Smith, either of whom could cop the event.

The Carolina lineup:

Pole vault—Hickman, Russell, House, Patterson.

High jump—Joyner, Saunders, Smith, Corpening.

Shot put—Seligman, Ogden, Perry.

Javelin—Kirk, Vestal, Baldwin, Harris.

Broad jump—Briley, Corpening, Hubbard, Heggie.

Mile—Miller, Burnham, Herty, Martin.

440—White, Lentz, Spain, Nelson.

110 HH—Heggie, Taylor, Morrow, Howell.

880—MacKenzie, Hooper, Burnham, Bristow.

220—Ingram, Nelson, Willis.

2 mile—Magill, Miller, Hunt, Francis.

220 LH—Heggie, Shultz, Morrow, Taylor.

Mile relay—(four of the following)—Cummins, Flowers, Nelson, Spain, Sutton, White, Evans, Bristow.

Fonville Sets Mark For Shot in Relays

Philadelphia, April 23—(UP)—The University of Michigan took top honors in the first day of the 54th Penn relays with Charley Fonville and the medley relay team pacing the Wolverines to two team titles.

Fonville, who broke the world record last week with a heave of 58 feet, one-quarter inch, snapped the eight-year old Penn relay mark today with a toss of 56 feet.

The Big Nine half mile champion, Herb Batten, paced the Wolverines to a win in the medley sprint relay. Batten hit the last leg in one minute, 53 seconds for the half mile, two seconds better than New York University's Reggie Pearman.

Slender Bob Black, a little lad with a big heart, surprised the crowd of some 5,000 by running Penn State's great Horace Ashenfelter into the ground in the two mile run. Black, who represented Rhode Island State, was clocked in nine minutes, 20 and one-tenth seconds for the two miles and beat Ashenfelter, IC4A record holder for the distance, by 15 yards.

Football, Soccer Drills Continue

With the mentors of the fall quarter sports hurrying to get their work done before the weather makes it impractical to continue drills, spring practice in both football and soccer is moving along at a steady clip.

The footballers, who began drills an hour early so that they could attend Dan Logue's wedding, were split into four teams yesterday and took turns practicing plays on each other. Pass defense and offense was featured by one group for the first half of the workout with Bill Maceyko chunking the pigskin to assorted ends and backs against the defenses of a backfield including Charlie Justice.

About 40 men have reported to Coach Marvin Allen for the spring drills, most of them being newcomers. Some of the new hopefuls are showing promise and some of the boys who didn't see much action last season are giving evidence of improvement.

Diamond Battle to Determine Pacesetter In Big Four, Southern Conference Play

By Dick Jenrette

First place in the Big Four baseball race will be at stake when Carolina's Tar Heels move over to Raleigh this afternoon for a crucial battle with N. C. State's Wolfpack. The game will get underway at 3 o'clock in Devereux Meadow.

At present the Tar Heels are maintaining a slim half-game lead over the Wolfpack, but State could overcome this margin with a win today. Season records thus far show Carolina with a pair of one-run victories over Wake Forest and Duke, while the State nine has defeated Wake Forest once and split two engagements with Duke's Blue Devils.

Vinnie DiLorenzo, stylish southpaw for the Chapel Hill outfit, is the pitching choice of Coaches Bunn Hearn and Walt Rabb. Vinnie was called upon to hald a threatening Duke rally on Thursday of this week, but his arm should be sufficiently rested for the State game. DiLorenzo has a perfect record of three wins in an equal number of starts this year.

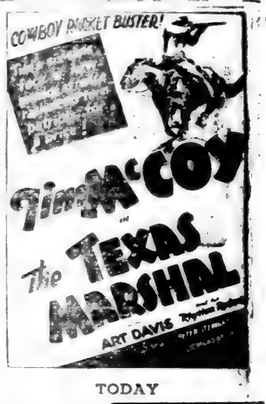
Revenge Motive

For the Wolfpack, today's game will mean even more than a chance to take over first place in the Big Four. It was DiLorenzo who defeated them twice during the homestretch last season with a pair of nifty mound performances, and those two wins were enough to give the title to Duke after State had led the league for most of the campaign.

In the last meeting between Carolina and State—played in Devereux Meadow in the latter portion of last season—DiLorenzo set the Wolfpack down with four hits to annex a 4-0 victory. Ernie Johnson, State pitcher whose specialty is a knuckle ball, was on the mound for the Raleigh team in that game, and he is slated to do the hurling again today.

Starting Lineup

Starting for the Tar Heels will be the infield combination of John Gregory on first; Dallas Branch at second; Rip Ryan, shortstop; and Co-captain Jim Hayworth on third. Emmett Cheek will handle the catching chores, and Jim Kelly, Whitey Black, and Harry Beason will be in the outfield.



Should a lefthander pitch for State instead of Johnson, Will Hobbs and Frank Jones will move back in the lineup at first and right field.

Jack McComas, State's basketball speed merchant now turned to the diamond sport, is the man that probably will cause the Tar Heels the most trouble. McComas has been slapping the ball at a sensational clip after a mediocre showing last season. He bats in the cleanup spot. Leo Katkaveck another cage star, and Bill Fowler, a Charlotte boy, are other leaders for Coach Vic Sorrell's Pack.

First in Conference

Carolina must defeat State to preserve its newly acquired hold on first place in the Southern conference as well as the Big Four. Washington and Lee's previously undefeated team went down to its initial loss before William and Mary Thursday. Thus the latest loop standings show Carolina in the fore with six wins and no defeats while the Generals have seven wins in eight start.

FREE QUART DELIVERIES of Ice Cold Beer
By the case and keg
Call 3536
K & M
Beer Delivery Service

TODAY
VILLAGE

One Hour for Lunch!
Enjoy Our Tempting Meals and Speedy Service
Open 6.30 A.M. to 7 P.M. except Sundays
Carrboro Cafeteria

Better Service

Lower Cost
IN OUR HANDS . . . your car is . . . IN GOOD HANDS
Your General Motors Dealer
Night Wrecker Service F-3681
HAZZARD MOTOR CO.
West Franklin Street Phone 4771

Genuine Palm Beach
WHITE DINNER JACKETS
19.95
Sizes 35 to 40
The Boy's Shop
East Main at Church
DURHAM, N. C.

"Beg Your Pardon"
It's RUSS MORGAN'S top Decca Record!

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.
It's Morgan at his best... sweet swing at its best... in this new Decca platter.
When it comes to cigarettes, Russ says in his typical Morgan Manner, "Camels suit my 'T-Zone' to a 'T.'"
Millions of smokers agree with Russ about Camels. More people are smoking Camels than ever before.
Try Camels on your "T-Zone"—Find out for yourself why, with smokers who have tried and compared, Camels are the "choice of experience."
CAMELS are my favorite cigarette!
And here's another great record—
More people are smoking CAMELS than ever before!

Five-Project Program Needs . . .

. . . Million Dollar Backing

Graduate School of Pharmacy To Be Set Up By Pharmaceutical Foundation

A five-project program to develop at the University, for the primary benefit of the state and the South, a graduate school of pharmacy with a faculty "second to none in the nation," has been announced by the recently-organized North Carolina Pharmaceutical Research foundation.

A goal of a million dollars for implementing the five projects has been set.

Program's Purpose

Purpose of the program is to foster and promote the growth, progress, and general welfare of pharmaceutical education and research at the School of Pharmacy of the University of North Carolina and in the State of North Carolina.

In line with these objectives a graduate program in pharmacy was inaugurated by the University last fall, and this year for the first time M.S. and Ph.D. degrees are both being offered by the Pharmacy school, thereby supplying a need for graduate instruction in pharmacy in the large area between Maryland and Florida and east of the Mississippi.

"Solid Support"

The five-point project is said to have the "solid support" of pharmacists, wholesale and retail, througout the state and of many pharmaceutical manufacturers.

As a starter, the foundation has received contributions approaching $50,000 and is ready to establish on the Mason farm near here an experimental drug plant garden with 400 plants.

Specifically, the long-range program will be advanced through research fellowships for graduate students, special equipment and library materials for research, an experimental drug plant garden here, supplements for faculty salaries, and an information bureau in the School of Pharmacy.

How Program Works

The research fellowships are to be offered worthy graduate students to enable them to secure specialized training in pharmacy. At present each fellowship carries a stipend of $1,000 a year plus an allowance of $200 for special supplies and equipment. Four fellowships are available this year, and the number will be increased four a year until a minimum of 12 are available annually. Five are available for next fall.

In this way two purposes are served: the training of specialized personnel for teaching and industrial research, and the completion of the research required for each advanced degree in pharmacy.

To insure that research can be conducted with adequate materials the foundation is to provide funds to the School of Pharmacy to purchase special equipment and library materials which the University could not be expected to provide.

Experimental Drug Garden

The foundation expects to render a great service by the experimental culture of drug plants to secure data for the profitable cultivation of plants now collected only from their wild sources. More drugs are indigenous to North Carolina than to any other area of similar size. This state also leads in the production of botanical drugs. Cultivation would not only increase the quality and quantity of the drugs, but also would give our farmers another opportunity to further diversify their crops to increase the resources of the State.

More than 400 plants which yield important drug products have recently been assembled at the University, and plans are being made for the establishment of an experimental drug garden at the Mason farm near here.

1,000 Plants Expected

E. J. LeClair, botanist and agriculturist, will supervise the establishment of the botanical garden which will be financed by the foundation. Eventually the garden is expected to have more than 1,000 plants covering an area of several acres. The plants will be placed in locations similar to their natural habitat.

This collection is intended to aid students in the study of drug plants as to their curing and preparation for drug products and to serve experimental purposes in the pharmaceutical laboratories.

Salary Supplements

The foundation will provide supplements to the salaries of the faculty of the School of Pharmacy when desirable or necessary for the purpose of retaining or securing the best men available. It takes cognizance of the fact that there has been an increasing trend in which teachers of pharmacy are entering service in industry, governmental agencies, and retail pharmacy. This seems to reflect the truth of the statement, "Teachers are born, and not paid!" A small supplement to the University's salary scale is frequently sufficient to obtain the best men in the fields of pharmaceutical education and research.

The information bureau will be established to render aid in the solution of problems arising in the practice of pharmacy. The present rapid development of new pharmaceutical products and the problems inherent in their compounding "requires an organized center for information available to the retail pharmacist."

In every drop of medicine, every prescription, every pill, every capsule, every powder, every liquid, every salve, every injection that you may take to safeguard or improve your health, there are days, months and often years of expert experimentation, technical toil, and long labor in the laboratory—the "priceless prerequisite that we have come to call research," it is pointed out by the foundation.

Ahead of all this research, millions of dollars have been spent to educate and train—not only practicing pharmacists—but super-pharmacists with sufficient 'know-how" to do the fundamental work of research, it is pointed out.

Level of Excellence

Basic to the training of practicing pharmacists is a School of Pharmacy conducted on a "high level of scientific excellence. Such a school is functioning effectively now at Chapel Hill, but this is not enough."

If North Carolina is to do its part in helping to meet the need for pharmacists trained to do the "priceless work of the research laboratories, its excellent undergraduate School of Pharmacy must be augmented by a graduate school of superlative calibre."

Modern Miracles

Basic to the prescription department of the drug store is the pharmacist with his professional training at the university level, but the "priceless prerequisite" in every drop of medicine is research. Consider a few of the products of research in the pharmaceutical field: the sulfonamides, penicillin, streptomycin, tyrothricin, benadryl, folic acid, teropterin, and many others that were unknown a decade ago.

All of these miracle drugs originated in the research laboratories—the rewards of patient, scientific "super-pharmacists." The large pharmaceutical manufacturers have learned that research pays big dividends and they invest millions of dollars each year in research projects. The biggest dividends are better drugs for better health.

One large company—established in 1860—stated in its annual report for 1946, that 56 percent of its business resulted from products which have been introduced during the past 10 years.

"So many health problems cry out for solution that we must have more and more research—and we must educate many more research experts," the foundation urges. "Arthritis, rheumatism, polio, cancer, even the common cold demand the skilled study and experimentation of experts. We need hundreds of research pharmacists, "super-pharmacists" with the "know-how," to search out new drugs and new formulas to prevent and to cure, to keep mankind healthy, to prolong the span of life and to make all of us happier and more effective citizens."

HOWELL HALL, HOME OF the 50-year old School of Pharmacy. The building is named for the late Dr. Edward Vernon Howell, who served as dean of the Pharmacy school for many years. The enrollment this year is 225 and and all quarters are crowded.

TYPICAL SCENE IN A PHARMACY LABORATORY where future druggists and research specialists get much practical training before leaving the cloistered atmosphere of the college campus.

HERE ARE THE MEMBERS of the teaching staff of the School of Pharmacy. Left to right: Prof. I. W. Rose, Prof. E. A. Brecht, Miss Millicent McKendry, secretary; Mrs. Ernestine Lynch, instructor; Dean M. L. Jacobs, William Sheffield, graduate assistant; Prof. H. O. Thompson, Albert Jowdy, graduate assistant, and Prof. Fred Semeniuk. Mrs. Doris Hawkins, instructor, was not available for this picture.

–Derby–

(Continued from page 1)

Peggy McKinley, Ann Koontz and Alice Middleton, Alpha Gam; Bootsey Lyons, Mayorie Yordey, Grace Simpson and Betty Smith, Chi O.

Pie Eating: Mary Lock Cragues and Fern Hughes, Tri-Delt; Bill Lloyd and Jane Morrison, Pi Phi; Ruth Meers and Bonnie Thrash, ADPi; Jenny Trett and Carolyn Gurthie, CICA; Butch Daniels and Rubie White Arnold, Alpha Gam; Katie Durham and Rose Fields, Chi O.

Potato Sack: Lymon Hammeck, Tri Delt; Elizabeth Eaddy, Pi Phi; Shelly Roper, ADPi; Jenny Trett, CICA; Lucil Arnett, Alpha Gam; Barbara Covington, Chi O.

"Top Secret" Entries

Domestic Handicap: Candy Jonas and Danney Pane, Tri-Delt; Elizabeth Eaddy and Bill Lloyd, Pi Phi; Mary Moore and Connie Roper, ADPi; Eloise Jacobi and Betty Long, CICA; Prise Moore and Edith Hall, Alpha Gam; Frankie Johnston and Betty Smith, Chi O.

Sigma Chi Claiming: B. A. Pope, Tri-Delt; Gladys Gattrel, Pi Phi; Bill Henderson, ADPi; Betty Long CICA; Jackie Goodwin, Alpha Gam; Bootsie Lyons, Chi O.

Three Skits Slated

Skits: "Sinbad, the Sailor," Tri Delt; "Weekend at Carolina-2448", ADPi; and "Casey At the Bat," Alpha Gam. Three of the contestants, Pi Phi, CICA and Chi O failed to enter skits.

Modern Venus: Faith Adams and Marilyn Blackwell, Tri-Delt; Susan Walton and Jean Marie Lester, Pi Phi; Claudia Lee and Sara Jane Farlow, ADPi; Betty Long and Marty Hinkle, CICA: Lin Blanchard and Margrete Allred, Alpha Gam; Katie Durham and Peggy Edgerton, Chi O.

New York State's income per person averages $1,633 a year, the highest of the populous states in the country.

CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE 6B

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed and being completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogerson Drive. Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. Telephone F-2906. (1-chix2-1)

27 FOOT HOUSE TRAILER. 82 PITTSboro Road Trailer Court. Inquire between 5:00 and 6:00 p. m. (1-154-1)

27 FOOT LA SALLE HOUSE TRAILER in good condition. Ideal location. Inquire at No. 26 University Trailer Court. (1-269-1)

18 FOOT TRAILER WITH SCREENED-in porch. Available in June. Good condition. Moderate price. Lot 59, Trailer Court. Joe Corpening, Phone 9032 (1-270-1)

LOST 12

BROWN LEATHER LADIES BILLfold. 3 zipper sides. Important and sentimental value. Keep money and return papers to Y.M.C.A. Patty Mirth Nance, 190A Jackson Circle, Victory Village. (1-260-1)

SERVICES OFFERED 19

COMPLETE MODERN RADIO APpliance service shop now open and ready to serve you. We call for, deliver. Johnson-Strowd-Ward Furniture, 422 W. Franklin. Telephone F-3491. (ch 1x1)

WANTED TO RENT 24B

TWO OR THREE ROOM FURNISHED apartment for veteran student and wife. Will occupy June 15. Write box 42 or call Hall, 3066 after 5:00. (1-258-1)

University Florist
"For the Best in Flowers"
Pick Theatre Bldg.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Telephone 9816

Having a Party?
We deliver
ALL POPULAR BRANDS OF BEER
Bottles or Cans
$4.75 Per Case
Powers Groceteria
PHONE F-3341 CARRBORO

From 9 to 1
Johnny Long
And His Orchestra
Will Appear
Wednesday, April 28
at
Alamance Roller Drum
Junction Highways 54 & 70
BURLINGTON, N. C.
In Advance ....$1.50 plus tax
At Door .....$2.00 plus tax

TWO BLOCKS WEST OF CITY HALL
You'll Find A Solution To All Laundry Problems
HELPY-SELFY
AUTOMATIC LAUNDRY
Bendix Machines
W. Rosemary St.

CAROLINA
Now Playing
THE FRONTIER'S MOST RECKLESS BADMAN... THE WEST'S MOST MATCHLESS BEAUTY!
YVONNE De CARLO
DAN DURYEA
JEFFREY LYNN
BLACK BART
COLOR BY TECHNICOLOR!
with PERCY KILBRIDE
LATE SHOW TONIGHT . . . SUNDAY—MONDAY
TOLD IN THE TRADITION OF "HOME IN INDIANA"
June HAVER in SCUDDA-HOO! SCUDDA-HAY!
TECHNICOLOR
with LON McCALLISTER
Directed by F. HUGH HERBERT • Produced by WALTER MORASCO
20th CENTURY-FOX

SPALDING SPORTS SHOW
CADDY, HAVE THEY SHORTENED THIS COURSE?
NO SIR, BOSS...
IT'S THOSE NEW SPALDING WOODS YOU'RE USING!
THE GREENS SEEM A LOT NEARER WHEN YOU SWITCH TO SPALDING WOODS! NEW MODELS... PERFECTLY BALANCED TO PUT MORE "SWINGING WEIGHT" BEHIND THE BALL.... ADD POWER AND ACCURACY TO YOUR WOOD GAME.... THEIR PATENTED GRIP GROOVES YOUR GRIP THE SAME WAY FOR EVERY SWING.
NEW SPALDING WOODS
NEW BOBBY JONES WOODS
NEW JIMMY THOMSON WOODS
Dot and Top-Flite at your Pro only.
SPALDING SETS THE PACE IN SPORTS

FOR AN OPEN AND SHUT CASE
OF SHEER SHIRT COMFORT . . .
try an Arrow Gordon doubler in fine Gordon oxford cloth, $4.00.
The doubler is the only shirt we have ever seen that successfully leads a double life and looks well with or without a necktie.
Ask your Arrow dealer for a Doubler, a perennial shirt favorite of U. S. college men.
P.S. Doubler comes in regular collar sizes and sleeve lengths.
ARROW SHIRTS and TIES
UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • SPORTS SHIRTS
Follow the ARROW TO Varsity

LI'L ABNER By Al Capp

Why travel home? — you HAVE one — at HARRY'S

LIBRARY (Periodical Dept.)
University of North Carolina
Chapel Hill, N. C.
1-31-48

Harvie Ward Tops Stranahan 1-up, For North-South Amateur Title

(See GOLFER, page 3)

WEATHER

Partly cloudy and warmer.

The Daily Tar Heel

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SUNDAY, APRIL 25, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | NO. 150

EDITORIALS

11,000 Dollars
Secret's Out
Hodge Podge

University Library Gets Book Collection Of Josephus Daniels

By Agatha Adams

Josephus, Jr., Worth, Jonathan, and Frank Daniels, the four sons of the late Josephus Daniels, noted editor, ambassador and cabinet member, have just presented a large collection of books and other items from his private library to the University library, is was announced yesterday by Chancellor R. B. House and Librarian C. E. Rush.

This generous gift, totalling over 4,000 items, was made without any restrictions, except for the request that books not needed in the University library be offered to other libraries in the state.

The collection may be roughly divided into two groups, each of which will have a distinctive bookplate: "The Josephus Daniels Collection of Books Relating to Mexico," and general materials of literary and historical interest, to be inscribed "From the Library of Josephus Daniels."

PAUL G. HOFFMAN, above, former president of Studebaker Motors and the Time-Life director was appointed last week by President Truman to head the newly created European Recovery Administration (ECA) which will administer the Marshall plan. (International)

Rich Interests

The Daniels books as a whole reflect, as must the private library of an interesting individual, the rich and many sided interests of their late owner. The major fields of interest in the general collection are on Naval history, sea power, both World Wars, American biography, diplomatic history, the history of the American flag, and the South.

Much of the material here, such as some of the Naval documents, the publications of the Navy History society, the portfolio of official Italian maps from the first World War, and the two volumes of Muirhead Bone's drawings entitled "The Western Front," will form a most useful supplement to the Bowman Gray collection on the first World War.

Official War Documents

Many of the official documents bear Mr. Daniels' neme stamped in gold on the binding. One of the notable books in this group, and a very welcome acquisition, is the great folio three-volume set, "History of the Indian Tribes of North America," by MacKenny and Hall, published by the War department in 1838, and illustrated with 120 tinted portraits of Indian chieftains, reproduced from the portraits in the Indian gallery of the Department of War. Here is excellent material for Indian costumes, as well as Indian history.

The group of books related to Mexico reflect the wide esteem and affection in which Josephus Daniels was held while he was United States ambassador there. Many are presentation copies, expressing in warm phrases the admiration of the author or the donor for the Ambassador. Some of them would be unobtainable except through official channels; such are a handsome homage volume from the Catholic church in Mexico to Pope Pius XI, and a richly bound volume in honor of the fourth Centenary of Apparitions of Our Lady of Guadalupe. This latter was presented to Josephus Daniels by the Archbishop of Mexico.

Many Books on Mexico

The books related to Mexico include works in both Spanish and English; there is a good representation of most of the recent books about Mexico, and pre-publication copies of Hudson Strode's "Timeless Mexico" and Bess Adams Garner's "Notes in the Margin," which had evidently been sent to Mr. Daniels for his comment. There is a copy of Poinsett's "Notes on Mexico," London, 1825, in an especially fine blue leather binding.

TARNATION

The Tarnation Business Staff will meet in the business office on Tuesday at 5 p. m.

'CampusTime' Prints Article by Sumner, University Student

The April issue of "Campus Parade," national magazine for college men and women, carries an article with a three-page picture layout by graduate student Mark R. Sumner.

The article, entitled "Of the People: the Carolina Playmakers," covers the thirty-year history of the drama organization and is illustrated with photographs from recent Playmaker productions, as well as a previously unpublished picture of novelist Thomas Wolfe.

Thirty Years Covered

Although the article covers the whole thirty years of Playmaker activities, many of the people mentioned, or who appear in the photographs, are present day students or faculty members of the dramatic art department.

Sumner, who handles publicity for the Playmakers, has had two of his one-act plays published this year. One was "Rock Dust," published by Row, Peterson company of New York, and the other was.. "Thunderhead,".. published by the Art Craft Play company. The Carolina Magazine recently ran his short story, "One for the Major," based on war experiences.

"So Many Mistakes"

Two of his one-act plays were recently produced on experimental bills by the Playmakers, although he says, "The audience found so many mistakes, I'm almost afraid to write another one."

The Campus Parade article is Sumner's first venture into the national magazines. It has not previously been available in North Carolina, but the April issue is on sale at the Sloan Drug company news stand on Franklin street.

Kerr Scott Charges Johnson Could Not Resign His Position

Gubernatorial candidate W. Kerr Scott declared yesterday that State Treasurer Charles M. Johnson could not resign his position even if he so desired. Scott, who is opposing Johnson in the race for governor, resigned as agriculture commissioner to enter the race.

Said Scott, "Johnson can't resign because if he did so the governor would have to appoint another state treasurer, and no new treasurer would take the job until an audit is made of the treasurer's books.

Scott said he is trying to point out that Johnson has proved himself a very poor business man from the taxpayer's standpoint by not investing the huge state surplus at interest.

Dr. Leavitt to Head Humanities Council

A Southern humanities conference composed of representatives of organizations in six southern states was recently organized at the University.

Dr. Sturgis E. Leavitt of the University faculty, who represents the American Council of Learned Societies at the conference, is chairman of the new group. He has announced that the group will meet annually each spring.

David S. Burgess Will Speak Tonight On Labor Situation, Christian Church

Rev. David S. Burgess, popular speaker at the Student Volunteer conference on "Christian Frontiers" at the University of Kansas, will be guest speaker at the Presbyterian student group tonight. Supper will be served for students at 6 o'clock. Immediately after supper Burgess will speak; following the speech the floor will be opened for discussion.

At present Burgess is doing educational and organizing work for the Congress of Industrial Organizations in South Carolina, His office is located in Rock Hill, S. C. where he also serves as assistant to the Presbyterian minister. He has been actively interested in the Fellowship of Southern Churchmen and is now chairman of their labor commission.

Burgess was born in China where his parents were missionaries. After graduating from Union Theological seminary in New York, he was appointed minister to labor from the Congregational church. In this capacity Burgess served labor groups in Tennessee, Arkansas and Missouri. All of his work has been an effort to bring religion and labor closer together.

DAVID S. BURGESS

In the first part of his speech Burgess will give the reasons why he as a minister decided to work in the labor movement. Secondly, he will outline briefly the situation in labor today. Finally, he will point out some of the things the Christian church can do.

Everyone is invited to attend.

FRANCES ANGAS, above, was last night officially proclaimed Sweetheart of Sigma Chi for 1948. Her selection was announced by Jack Thompson, president of the local chapter of Sigma Chi, at the fraternity's annual Sweethart Ball.

ADPi's Awarded Cup In Sigma Chi Derby

Angas Selected As Fraternity's New Sweetheart

The Sigma Chi's last night selected Frances Angas, Brooklyn, N. Y., as their Sweetheart for the year. Fran is an outstanding coed who has just been elected to the position of Speaker of Coed Senate.

The selection of Sweetheart was made after an extensive contest between 41 coeds. The fraternity voted in the Wednesday chapter meeting, but the name of the winner was not disclosed until last night.

Highlighting the Sweetheart Ball last night was the impressive figure which took place inside a heart formed by members of the fraternity. Each member held a candle and the fraternity sang "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" as the girls of the Sigma Chi court appeared in the figure carrying red roses, and escorted by one of the brothers.

Jack Thompson, president, walked through the court and selected the sweetheart, presenting her with a bouquet of white roses, centered with an orchid. He then escorted her to the throne as fraternity members sang "The Sweetheart of Alpha Tau," local chapter song, which was written by Hank Beebe, who is pinned to Fran Angus.

Following this was a no-break dance for the members of the court and their escorts.

Johnny Satterfield and his orchestra furnished the music for the evening. Members of the Sigma Chi court included the following girls: Sara Jane Farlow, Bonnie Thrash, Peppy Lucas, Margie Norris, Hilda Sharkey, Roberta Hoffman, Mary Leah Thorne, Betty Brown, Peggy Edgerton, Mary Anna Dunbar, Connie Roper, Shelly Roper, and Sue Walton.

Tri-Delt, Pi Phi Are Runners-up In Close Contest

The Alpha Delta Pi's proved the dark horse in yesterday's Sigma Chi derby, as they triumphantly captured the coveted Sig derby cup with a total score for the afternoon of 19—three points higher than any of their competitors.

Delta Delta Delta and Pi Beta Phi tied for second place with 16 tallies after running the gamut of pie-throwing, sack-racing, egg-and-spooning and other pastimes that the Sigma Chi's had dreamed up for the fearless entrants into the competition.

In the local tabulations, third, fourth and fifth places were taken by Alpha Gamma Delta, Chi Omega and Carolina Independent Coed association, respectively.

Sarah Jane Farlow stole the show for the entire proceedings and especially for the ADPi's when she walked away with the "Miss Modern Venus" crown.

In the Sigma Chi Claiming division, another ADPi brought home the bacon as Bill Henderson's hawk-eye for pie-throwing won her the grand prize—having a pie neatly pushed into her face by Jim Hendrick, the previously suffering target of all the slapstick play.

The climax of the afternoon, according to many of the hundreds of spectators who watched the afternoon's proceedings on Fetzer field, was the final event—the skits. Captured by Tri-Delt with "Sinbad the Sailor," the playlets ran all the way from "Red Hot Riding Hood" to "Casey at the Bat."

SP MEETING

The Student party will meet tomorrow evening at 9 o'clock in Graham Memorial to elect officers and re-organize, SP head Grann Childress said last night.

13 O. K. WITH HIM

MT. VERNON, Ill. (UP)—Thirteen is Bob Yates' pet number. The 17-year-old Navy seaman, who lives at 1213 Casey Ave. here, entered boot camp as one of 13 new enlistees. En route, he was a passenger on car 13 and slept in berth 13. He arrived safely back home on Friday the 13th.

Glen Taylor Slated To Speak Tomorow On Campus Following Twin-City Talk

Wallace Club Makes Plans For Convention

Local Wallace-for-President club members met Friday night in Bingham hall and made last-minute preparations for attending the Progressive party's two-day convention which convened yesterday in Winston-Salem, and is featuring an address by Senator Glen Taylor, third party Vice-Presidential candidate.

Bill Richardson, president of the club, presided over the meeting which named the club's executive committee as the 10 official delegates now participating in the convention.

$1,000 Token

A report by Doris Friedland, club member, showed the New Jersey state committee for Wallace had sent to the Winston-Salem convention a $1,000 token to be used by the Progressive party in placing Wallace's name on the North Carolina ballot.

A petition bearing 10,000 signatures, plus a "poll tax" charge of 10 cents per name, is required in order for Wallace to be recognized as a candidate, it was disclosed.

Richardson at Jersey

The New Jersey state committee has agreed to "adopt" the North Carolina Progressive party for this campaign fund drive. Richardson, who was a speaker at the Jersey convention, besides being influential in the raising of the $1,000 token, also brought back $165 rendered to him personally by convention delegates, said Mrs. Friedland.

A five-man committee, led by Richardson and Harvey Weinstein will travel to Women's college on Wednesday night to hold a joint meeting with the newly-formed Wallace club on that campus, the club decided.

Harrison Becomes Treasurer of UWF

Frank Harrison of Hendersonville has been elected to replace Hank Sewell, who resigned, as treasurer of the campus chapter of the United World Federalists.

His election came at the last meeting of the UWF, following a discussion by the members of the group on the Czechoslovakian situation.

WILLIE P. MANGUM

Second Senior Meet Scheduled Tuesday For Memorial Hall

The second meeting of the 1948 senior class will be held Tuesday night at 7:30 in Memorial hall, according to an announcement made yesterday by President Benson McCutcheon.

Principal business on the agenda concerns "Spike" Saunders, University alumni secretary who will discuss plans for post-graduation organization of the class of 1948.

Also on the agenda will be Earl Fitzgerald, chairman of the Debate council, who will discuss the plan to re-offer the Willie P. Mangum Medal in oratory again this year.

Previously, the medal has been awarded to the member of the senior class who during his four years prior to graduation has best exhibited the qualities of oratory, debate and scholarship.

According to Fitzgerald, "The winners of this medal through the years of its existence have been men for the most part of equally high rank in life as that of Senator Mangum. It is the desire of the Debate council to see those excelling in elocution to continue being recognized through this program."

Although the boomerang is generally associated with Australia it did not originate there but in Egypt.

Introduction to Be Made by Dr. Straley, Physics Professor

By Jim Dickinson

Senator Glen H. Taylor, third party vice-presidential candidate, will arrive here tomorrow to deliver an address scheduled for 8 o'clock in Hill hall. He is in Winston-Salem today speaking before an estimated 2,000 people gathered there for the North Carolina Progressive party's founding convention.

The Idaho senator, Henry Wallace's running mate in the current presidential race, is appearing here under the auspices of the local Wallace for President club. Dr. Joseph Straley, physics professor, will serve as chairman of the assembly.

Reception Slated

An open forum session will follow the address, and immediately afterwards Senator Taylor will be honored at a reception in Graham Memorial.

From Chapel Hill Senator Taylor will journey to Charlotte for a Tuesday night debate with Dorothy Thompson, noted columnist, on the subject "Is the third party justified?" The discussion will be aired on the ABC network.

In Office Until '51

Senator Taylor, who was well received in an appearance here last year, has been a prominent figure in American politics since he was elected to the U. S. Senate from Idaho in 1944 in a dramatic race against isolationist D. Worth Clark. His present term runs until 1951.

His career in the Senate has been characterized by leadership on behalf of the farmer, the worker, the small businessman and the consumer.

Organized labor knows Senator Taylor for his fight against the Taft-Hartley law, at which time he talked on the Senate floor for eight hours in an attempt to defeat the opposition intent on overriding the veto.

Two Senator Team

Teaming with Senator Claude Pepper, who will appear here next Friday under the CPU sponsorship, Taylor sought to give the people back home time to tell Congress how they felt about the veto. Thousands of telegrams poured in from all parts of the nation to reward his gallant effort.

Most publicized among his senatorial achievements was Taylor's action in preventing the seating of the late Senator Bilbo by the 80th Congress. Taylor introduced a resolution demanding that the Senate refuse to seat Bilbo, and the subsequent uproar and the strength of the attacks against him convinced Bilbo not to force a test in the Senate on whether or not he was legally elected.

Cross-Country by Horse

Late in 1947, Taylor undertook a cross-country horseback trip as an effort to alert the American people to what he considered a dangerous present foreign policy. He explained the trip in these words:

"I am making a horseback and automobile trip across the country in order to warn the people of the U. S. against the danger of war in our present foreign policy. I have decided that in order to attract attention to a voice which opposes this trend, I must dramatize the issue."

Taylor has introduced bills and resolutions to restore price controls; raise the minimum wage; make credit available to small business; investigate the real estate lobby; establish control over monopolies.

Sam Bartlett's Business Has Grown Fifteen-fold in 13 Years Existence

By Chuck Hauser

Today marks the 13th anniversary of the business concern that is 15 times as large now as it was at the time of its conception back in 1935. And the occasion brings to light a story that Horatio Alger would have been proud of.

Back in '35, a young fellow named Sam Bartlett tacked a "taxi" sign on his second-hand, 1934 model Chevrolet and began the business now known as the Carolina Cab company, which has a fleet of 15 cabs operating in and around Chapel Hill.

Sam, a native of Asheville rolled into Chapel Hill first as a freshman at the University. When a cute UNC coed caught his eye, he up and married her on April 12, 1925. Pretty soon the couple moved back to Asheville where Sam went to work as book-keeper with the city water department.

After two years' work in Florida, where they migrated next, Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett came back to Chapel Hill right in the middle of the depression. In 1933 Sam got a job with the Bluebird Taxi company in Durham where he stayed for two years before he decided to tack his own "taxi" sign up and go into business for himself in Chapel Hill.

About his short stay as a student in the University, Sam explained that he came here originally intending to study law.

"I was tried and acquitted of any ability as a lawyer," the kindly-faced man with the horn-rimmed spectacles went on. "I lost that case right quick."

It was learned after the interview with Sam Bartlett that the local businessman and his wife have just recently celebrated their silver wedding anniversary. The couple have a son enrolled in the University as a freshman at present. Charles Samuel Bartlett, Jr., was a member of this year's jayvee swimming team.

And how is the business doing that is putting Charlie through Carolina? "Very well, thank you," Sam says.

Whose $11,000 Mistakes?

Behind the first piece of legislation passed by the new Student Legislature Thursday night is the story of an expensive combination of mistakes — a combination of mistakes which will cause the Legislature to wind up its fiscal year with an income of $11,000 less than the expenditures it budgeted last year. Involved in that story is a laxness on the part of the Legislature, the Finance and Budget committees and the treasurer of the student body which amounts almost to criminal negligence in the handling of student funds.

Thursday night's legislation was a bill to investigate the block fee structure which provides funds for student activities. The story behind it is this:

In March of 1947 a block fee structure providing for collection of $5 per student per quarter was set up by the legislature. This structure applied to undergraduate and pharmacy students only. However, when the legislature set up the 1947-48 budget, it did so on the basis of $5 fee from ALL students. It estimated an enrollment of 7,300 students and counted on 100 per cent collection of fees at $15 a head for the year. This put the estimated income at $109,500.

This false basis for the budget was the first mistake. The University continued to bill students in the professional and graduate schools under the old fee system at $3.85 per quarter. This $3.85 was broken down into $2.50 for publications, $1 for Graham Memorial, $.25 for Student Government, and $.10 for the Debate council. Under this system the remaining $1.15 of the $5 paid by undergraduates went to the class organizations.

The second mistake was in estimate of enrollment. The average total enrollment for the year as set by Central Records office is 7,100 students instead of the Legislature-estimated 7,300.

Because of these two mistakes the university is billing a total of only $100.996.05 instead of the $109,500 expected by the legislature.

Third mistake was in expecting 100 per cent collection of fees. Of the $100.996.05 billed by the University. $63,310.52 has been collected as of March 31. This leaves $37,658.53 outstanding. Of this amount collection of anly $35,000, or 97.3 per cent can be expected. The remaining $2,685.53 will be lost because of bad debts and refunds to students dropping out.

Final result is that the total collectable student fees amounts to $98,310.52 — $11,189.48 less than the sum covered in the Legislature's budget.

The mistakes can be explained and possibly excused on the grounds of inexperience and division of responsibility. More reprehensible that the errors is the fact that most of the legislators — charged with the administration of student funds — will get their first knowledge of this information when they read it here. Moreover, the bill seeking investigation and rectification of the situation was drawn up by the Publications board and introduced into the legislature at its request. This is gross and inexcusable laxness on the part of responsible parties in handling student affairs.

Even more reprehensible is that although discrepancies in the percentage of collections were brought to the attention of last year's student body treasurer and to the finance committee by members of the Publications board, this year's budget was drawn up and passed on April 8 with the same errors in it's foundation.

The figures presented here and their analysis were compiled by H. A. Kear, Student Activities Fund accountant, from the budget reported to him by the Student Legislature last year and used since then by the Activities Fund office as a basis of computation.

Luckily the Legislature left in its budget an unappropriated balance of $8.838 which will help to offset the deficit. However, an unknown amount of appropriations has since been made from this balance and either has not been reported or has been reported only verbally to the Activities Fund office. Yet more laxness.

Still more fortunately, some of the organizations which were allotted student funds will not spend their entire appropriations. This also will help to pull the Legislature out of its hole. But the Legislature will start the next fiscal year from scratch with no reserve fund to fall back upon in an emergecy. And unless steps are taken to correct the fee structure, the same situation will develop again next year.

The special investigating committee set up by the Legislature Thursday night is scheduled to meet Monday afternoon to inquire into the situation. It will attempt to find a solution to the problem. It should also fix responsibility for it. Student officers should realize that the jobs they have assumed carry definite responsibilities and cannot be done in a joking or slipshod way.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.

Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor . . . . Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors . . Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associcte Editors . . . . . Bob Sam, Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady
Society Editor . . . . . Weddy Thorp
Photographer . . . Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. . . . . . Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. . . . C. B. Mendenhall
Subscription Mgrs. . . . . Jim King, Chan Pegram
Asst Business Mgrs. . . Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. . . . Randall Hudson, Don Snow

NIGHT EDITOR: Herb Nachman NIGHT SPORTS: Larry and Bud

Hodgepodge

Eighth Wonder: Campus Wheels Short on Words

By Ed Joyner

Probably never before in the history of this fair university have so many self-considered campus Wheels been assembled at one time and place as the aggregation of 50 outgoing and incoming student officers who got together at a pre-inauguration banquet last Tuesday night at the Carolina Inn.

The local peasantry should have had gallery seats at that affair. They would have enjoyed it. For never have so many who like so well to spout off in public, private and print been called upon to speak and been found so wanting for words.

Even Charlie Long, champion spouter of them all, was void of verbiage when Eller called on him. But ten minutes later he recovered sufficiently to ask for the floor and make a four-minute oration.

With the exception of faculty and administration men Jim Godwin was the only person who rose to the occasion. Seems while Jim was home his father noticed him wearing his monogram sweater. "I'm glad to see they're beginning to counteract the propaganda coming out of Chapel Hill," he commented.

"What do you mean by that?" Jim inquired.

The elder Godwin pointed to the NC monogram. "Non-Communist," he said.

WHAT'S UP in Graham Memorial

Last night's presentation of "The Inspector General" was really grand ,and if you haven't seen a Laboratory theater production you really should make an effort to get over to see this one tonight or tomorrow night. One of the most popular features sponsored by GM, the Lab theater always draws good crowds.

After all the excitement of elections the bridge tournament will finally get back to its regular Tuesday night stand in the main lounge this week. Nothing seems to bother these fiends, who play duplicate each week, come elections, exams, or high water.

Know Thyself

Pick a Color; Secret's Out

When you tell an automotive dealer what color you'd like on your new car, you're telling him about yourself.

Automotive industry sales departments keep in constant touch with color preferences—which vary by regions, bu customers' ages, by ancestry, and by economic conditions.

In regions like the Southwest, where the sun is strong and birght, vivid colors on cars are preferred.

On the Pacific Coast, light pastel tints are chosen. While up in New England, suppressed blues, maroons, greens and grays are favorites.

One automotive firm found that in the depression days, 60 to 75 per cent of car buyers wanted black or dark blue colors. Today less than 20 per cent order black cars.

Today's choices are more "flashy." For example, two-tone cars, according to one large company's figures, have risen from about 33 per cent of the total in 1941 to over half of today's output.

Green colors, alone or in two-tone combinations, now go on 26 per cent of this firm's cars; blue on about 21 per cent; gray on 16 per cent; beige on 11 per cent; maroon on 7 per cent.

Other color polls indicate that intellectual people prefer blue; athletes, red; egotists, yellow; and extroverts, orange.

Hindus and Chinese consider yellow lucky; Mohammedans—and Irishmen—pick green. Latins and typical brunets like red. Blondes prefer blue and green.

To get a special sheen, all car paints today — except black — contain aluminum flakes. Light shades show dirt and dust less than darker ones, so tan and beiges are popular in desert regions.

"THEN IT'S A SORORITY HOUSE, THEY'LL MAKE BETTER TIME."

Of Students in Quandaries

Thoughts To Think About

By Sergei Burgess

Stacy Beach, Spencer Beach, Archer Beach, and a few dozen other spots are blossoming out as Chapel Hill's biggest spring sport once again falls into stride. It's really quite a battle, and those of you who've played well know. Fighting off the peculiar brands of insects that grow around these parts, fighting off people who decided that it was easier to step on and over you rather than go around, fighting . . . Ah, but that's enough. This was supposed to be a spectator sport. I don't participate; in fact, I no longer even sunburn. But for the benefit of those who wish to try out for their monogram in tanning see any anybody who looks like they're blushing. They can give you the full details.

Seems that there're a couple guys on the staff of this paper who think that this column doesn't make sense. They have the idea that I ought to write about campus politics, or about capitalism-Red fascism(Communism, if ya didn't know), or some such weighty world worry. Listen, Bug-Brain, there's no need of such. There're enough blokes now who have no real idea of what they're writing about and yet go ahead and write it. Take it or leave it: Bug-Brain, this is merely a place where the few people who're tired of it all can turn for a little rest, now and then a laugh, and usually a thought or two they can think about. Touche.

Now to my daily questions.

1st Question, submitted on a dirty post card, unsigned: I am an inwestigador; what is der Garolina Science Fiction Azzociation?

Answer: The Carolina Science Fiction Association, which I presume you mean. is a little group composed of people—some of them actually human—who meet weekly to discuss science fiction stories, and witness usually enjoyable programs. Why don't you, inwestigador, drop up next Monday, and you too, stoodent.

2nd query, submitted by Dean Matthews: Tell me, am I really as handsome as I look?

Answer: submitted by Sergei Sergeiovitch: There are several possible answers. One, that you are not seeing yourself, but that it is merely wish-fulfillment. Two, that you don't even exist. Three; in case you've read this far; that it's all a distortion of the light waves from your local mirror. Ergo, the only true answer to that is thusly: what the devil are you asking me this for?

That's it.

More Write Away

Eller Criticized

Editor:

In general I think that Tom Eller was a commendable President of the Student Body. However, during the winter term he made a statement which was misleading and so far has never been refuted. This statement was made in the Student Legislaure and was to the effect that there was a "clique" in the judicial system of the campus composed of Bob Broughton on the Student Council and Bill Tate, South Trimble, and Charles Lambeth on the Men's Council. He further stated that he did not doubt the integrity of any of these men. Mr. Eller asked that the above statement not be printed. They were off the record. The Daily Tar Heel immediately printed them.

First of all (1) a President of the Student Body ought to have sense enough not to make statements, which he didn't want printed, in an open assembly of the Student Legislature. (2) If he did not doubt the integrity of these men then why did he make such a statement, which would most assuredly give the impression that he did. (3) If he did not doubt the integrity of the "clique" I offer the following facts. The "clique" was split on many of the decisions of cases in the Council. This can be proved by the record book. Even if the men referred to had voted solidly there were still seven other members of the Council who could have outvoted the "clique."

Charlie Lambeth

Write Away

He, Like The Barnyard Cock

Editor:

With regards to Mr. Cofield's stand on campus politics in Wednesday's Tar Heel — He — like the barnyard cock has flapped his wings and crowed victory. Victory is a thing to be well proud of, but some must congratulate themselves as they take time out to pound on their chest and say, ". . . see here, I am better than you." The CP being a young organization has done well in some respects, but I can readily see that Mr. Cofield is sadly suffering from an imaginary illusion.

When Mr. Cofield entered this University last fall he states that the CP was the only party taking any apparent interest in freshmen. That is an amazing revelation.—Mr. Cofield did not state an essential fact that the chairman of the Orientation committee was later unanimously choosen to head the CP.

The CP is a well built structure — and with some good timber — but its foundation is undoubtedly weak. The CP was built upon a block of discriminatory and undemocratic prinicples because one of the SP members must leave the Student party or a certain faction would take their marbles and go elsewhere — which they did — thus the CP was born. Can the CP survive forever on that sort of foundation?

I am sick and tired of the fraternity issue—as are many others, but Mr. Cofield takes care with pains to see that it is mentioned. He is careful to state that the UP is all fraternity; the SP exclusively non-fraternity and intimates that the CP is a fine bright-shining organization unblemished by the struggle. Would it surprise Mr. Cofield to know that the SP vice-chairman is a fraternity man!

The SP draws no lines on such trivial issues. The SP usually operates on a majority rule of those present — a highly democratic principle which was violated by the factional CP'ers. Moral support is what you are after Mr. Cofield in the name of CP.

Mr. Cofield asks who would benefit from a CP-SP merger. Obviously, he is lacking in mathmatical erudition! And for jumping on the band-wagon Mr. Cofield — thanks for showing us your gratitude and appreciation for our endorsement of a mighty fine vice-presidential candidate—Jim Godwin — with all my respects to Jim.

Cam West

Indecision

Editor:

We notice on page 23 of the latest Tarnation that Mr. Sigsbee Miller, after giving a rapturous description of Mr. Tookie Hodgson's "pale, well-bred flesh" spread over "pedigreed Tennessee bone," comments, "These are the biological facts, presented with passion or bias." Well, which is it?

George Mitchell

Misguided

Editor:

Just in case the last paragraph of Charlie Long's column in the Friday issue could possibly be misconstrued by an uninformed reader to be the work of an informed reporter, the editors of Tarnation would like to point out that we felt no need for a ..house cleaning" upon assuming the duties of our office, nor did we "show" the former editor "to the door." Incidentally, for the sake of accuracy, we would like to point out to the misguided Mr. Long that the Tarnation offices moved downstairs four days before the old editor left office.

Bob Smith

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Arabs Consider Calling Help

By Drew Pearson

Washington, — Real fact about the Palestine war is that the Jewish army, Haganah, has won every battle with the Arabs so far. The Arabs have taken such a severe drubbing they recently sent secret cables to Arab delegates at the United Nations, asking the effect on American public opinion if the foreign Arab armies of Syria, Lebanon, Iraq and Egypt were to begin invading Palestine even before the British evacuate on May 15.

Arab chieftains reported that Jewish opposition was so vigorous that trained foreign armies were needed to save Arab face—despite the fact that Jewish troops are outnumbered four to one.

Also not generally known: All Arab army chieftains from Syria, Lebanon, Iraq and Egypt are 100 per cent German-trained. They even use German commands in giving orders to troops.

Few Americans realize that the war in Palestine is a clear-cut violation of every form of international agreement. It is not simply a battle between Palestinian Arabs and Jews, but a direct parallel to the Albanian, Yugoslavian and Bulgarian intervention in Greece. This fact doesn't seem to have penetrated the State Department or President Truman's thinking. While they protest against Russian intervention in Greece, no protest has been made about Syrian, Egyptian and Lebanese intervention in Palestine.

The White House has even rejected the appointment of a United Nations border commission to investigate foreign intervention.

It has also been suggested that the United States move to expel Syria, Lebanon, Iraq and Egypt from the United Nations for indulging in aggression in open defiance of the United Nations.

Unless President Truman acts before May 15, the holy land is in for a tragic blood bath.

Representative rootin-tootin John Rankin of Mississippi has been openly boasting that he will bring impeachment proceedings against President Truman if the President refuses to give Congress a document relating to the alleged communistic associations of Doctor E. U. Condon, head of the U. S. Bureau of Standards.

However, Rankin is in for a shock if he carries through this boast. For none other than the highest Republican in the House, Speaker Joe Martin, will lead the opposition to Rankin's motion of impeachment.

Martin is for the resolution giving the House the right to look at the full text of a letter J. Edgar Hoover wrote to Commerce Secretary Harriman regarding Dr. Condon. But if Truman defies the Congress and refuses to give it the FBI report, Martin will not support Rankin's impeachment proceedings.

Martin thinks such a serious step is uncalled for and "playing politics," even though a Mississippi Democrat is behind the move against a Democratic President.

At long last, the Munitions Board has come up with a preliminary report on industrial preparedness. The report is now being circulated among top industrial leaders and outlines the general policies which will govern defense and civilian production in the months ahead.

It indicates that the Army and Navy may curtail normal peacetime industrial capacity by about 50 per cent.

The munitions report, incidentally, refers to "the war" as if it were a foregone conclusion. Here are some of the forebodings, so far unpublished, that it contains for American business.

"It is recognizable," the Munitions Board states, "that there must be some reservation of the normal peacetime capacity of a given industry for civilian needs. For the time being, until better data are available, not less than approximately 50 per cent of the normal peacetime capacity of any given plant. . . should be reserved for civilian needs."

In some cases, the report adds, "the entire capacity of the plant might be used for meeting either civilian requirements or a specialized military requirement, according to the circumstances existing as the war becomes imminent."

Dispersion—"The widest practical geographical dispersion of the war load will be sought for reasons of security, and so as to distribute the burden as evenly as possible. Noncongested areas and the smaller cities must be thoroughly canvassed for suitable plants."

Smaller war plants—"Small firms will not be overlooked, especially in the case of military items similar to commercial types, and where conversion problems are minor. However, the mere fact that a firm is small is insufficient reason for either acceptance or rejection."

As in the recent war, the Munitions Board plans to give the chief break to the big industrial firms. In this connection its report states:

"A major share of the war load must be carried by larger plants for the reason that the peacetime industrial output predominantly is from such plants and as a general rule they can be converted more efficiently and effectively."

"Paramount objective of peacetime allocation of privately owned manufacturing capacity is to expedite the transition of industry from the production of goods for peacetime consumption to meeting the requirements of the armed services of the United States and its allies, as well as civil economy, during a war emergency," continues the Munitions Board report.

Objectives of the "transition" program include (1) elimination of competition between Government procurement agencies for the output of single plants, headache during the last war; (2) provision for "minimum essential needs;" (3) negotiated contracts rather than bids, for purely military items; (4) an Office of War Production to control all war orders.

Undersecretary of State Lovett had his hands full answering questions about State Department acrobatics when he testified at a closed-door meeting of the House Armed Services Committee the other day. However, he refused to be pinned down when members demanded to know why the United States backtracked on the partitioning of Palestine, on the post-war development of Germany, and other issues.

"In these times our policy can't be fixed in a rigid groove," parried Lovett cheerily. "It must be flexible enough to meet the changing conditions which develop from day to day and week to week."

The world, he said, was not in a crisis, but in a "period of world tension" in some ways more unnerving than the last war. Looking back on the war days, Lovett smiled reminiscently: "Things were easier on the State Department than now. Our burden seem to be heavier and the anxiety greater."

Under questioning by Chairman Walter Andrews of New York, Lovett strongly indorsed a peacetime draft, but wasn't asked to cimmit himself on universal military training.

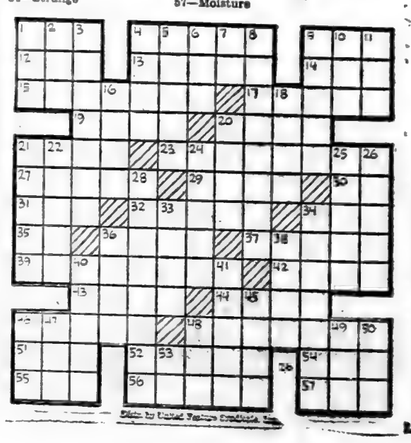
"If we are going to have a firm foreign policy," he said, "We've got to have something to back it up. It's always well to be able to look over our shoulders in a tight spot and see a strong arm behind us."

Several Congressmen observed that we are more successful in physical than in psychological warfare and that "armies alone can't stop Communism."

Lovett agreed, but contended that the United States was holding its own with Russia in educational and propaganda activities in states outside the Soviet sphere. Commenting on the recent Bogota riots, he said: "The people there must be ashamed and chagrined about what happened, just as we would be if the same thing happened here while we were holding an international conference. And the same thing could happen here, though, of course, we are better prepared to cope with such things. We've had our share of riots in the United States back through the years.

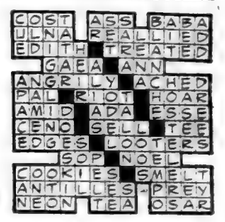
As an illustration, Lovett cited the 1919 Boston police strike a similar to the riots in Bogota. This was the strike which put Calvin Coolidge, then Governor of Massachusetts, into the national spotlight when he called out state troops.

The world's largest rose bush is at Tombstone, Ariz. A white banksia about 50 years old, it is eight feet high and an estimated 150,000 blooms cover it in May.



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS



1—Thick, black liquid
4—Electric lamps
9—To realize
12—European fish
13—Foreign
14—Manner
15—Self-abasement
17—To make aspeech
19—Sword
20—Had moved in water
21—Plants
23—The bobolink
27—Woody plants
28—Part of "to be"
30—Sloth
31—Strange
32—Hives
34—To clean, as cotton
35—Pronoun
36—Genus of maples
37—Pocketbook
39—King's daughter
42—Grains in mahogany
43—Act
44—Clothing
46—Sit center in Vermont
48—Egyptian king
51—To bother
52—To operate auto
54—Girl's name
55—Affirmative
56—Sedate
57—Moisture

DOWN

1—Bit of inside drive
2—Fruit drink
3—Refreshed
4—Poison
5—Sore
6—To recline
7—To exist
8—The anemone
9—Hindu mystic
10—To consume
11—Optic organ
16—Projecting part of a church
18—Bumpkin
20—Plant source
21—To trample
22—To command
24—Jugs
25—To elevate
26—Eats
28—Triumphs
33—Tall grass
34—Took in as total profits
36—Again
38—To stimulate
40—Images
41—To ward off
45—Hebrew measure
46—To assert
47—Cravat
48—Torso bone
49—Night before
50—Cutting tool
53—Artificial language

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

State Downs Tar Heel Nine; Trackmen, Netters Win

'Pack Captures Big Four Lead With 8-1 Win

By Dick Jenrette

Raleigh, April 24 — N. C. State's Wolfpack, successfully combining the pitching talents of Ernie Johnson and Jack McComas slugging ability, turned back Carolina, 8-1, here this afternoon and thereby vaulted ahead of the Tar Heels into the Big Four leadership.

The defeat was the first for Carolina in either Southern conference or Big Four competition, and it deprived them of first place in both circuits. The game also marked the end of the team's seven-game winning streak. But the Tar Heels remain only a half-game out of first and will get another crack at State when the Wolfpack plays in Chapel Hill on Thursday.

In today's battle, it was simply a case of too much Jack McComas for the Tar Heels. The lanky speedster, who owes most of his fame to his basketball achievements, slammed out two home runs over the left field wall and added a single and a walk in his four appearances at the plate. In addition he scored four times and batted in three more runs to account for seven of the eight State tallies.

Another Cager

Leo Katkaveck, another ex-State basketballer, also was a prominent figure in the Wolfpack victory. He had three hits, two runs scored and a pair of runs-batted-in. Moreover, he contributed a sensational catch in short right field to start a double play and end one threatening Carolina rally.

For the Tar Heels, Jim Kelly, cleanup hitter from Elizabethtown, led a scattered seven-hit attack with two resounding doubles. Ken Black also added a couple of singles.

A crowd of some 2,500 fans, sweltering in summer heat, watched the Wolfpack jump into a two-run lead in the first inning off Lefty Vinnie DiLorenzo, who was charged with his first defeat of the season. Hank Utley, leadoff batter, walked but was forced at second by Willie Evans. Bill Fowler popped out to short for the second out. McComas then smacked a high fly into left which just dropped over the fence, 320 feet distant. Pitcher DiLorenzo forced Don Cheek to ground out to retire the side.

Bounces Back

State picked up a single run in the second on Katkaveck's triple to right and Barksdale's one-baser into left field. And in the next inning, McComas delivered his second four-bagger of the game. This blow, the exact duplicate of the first home run, also sailed over the 320-foot fence, but on this occasion it bounced back into the park after hitting some obstacle on the other side of the fence. The umpires, however, ruled it a home run.

Trailing 4-0, Carolina made its lone successful scoring bid of the afternoon. With one out, Jim Hayworth lined a single into left. Harry Beason, playing his first game after an early season injury, popped out to short. Kelly then drove a double down the leftfield foul line to score Hayworth all the way from first.

Poor Base-Running

Some ill-advised base running cut off other potential Carolina rallies. In the second inning, Kelly attempted to stretch a double into a triple and was thrown out at third. Then in the fifth frame Dallas Branch was out by a rather wide margin when he sought to go from first to third on DiLorenzo's single.

In an effort to cop the game, Carolina coaches Walt Rabb and Bunn Hearn used 14 players. The loss left Carolina with a 2-1 Big Four won-lost mark to a 3-1 State record.

The Tar Heels now have a season record of nine wins, two losses, and a tie.

Carolina Jayvees Turn Back State Nine To Annex Fifth Victory of Season, 9-4

First Loop Loss

By Dave Ferebee

Coach Henry House's Jayvee baseballers's unleashed a 12-hit attack upon two State college Wolfcub pitchers on Emerson Field yesterday afternoon and romped to a 9-4 victory. The win was the fifth for the Tar Babies in the current baseball campaign against two losses.

Pitcher Ed Gaston, who lost a heart-breaking three-hitter to Duke earlier this year held the Wolfcubs in check for five scoreless innings. He began to tire in the sixth and seventh, allowing the State Jayvees to score four runs, so Coach House sent in Lefty Bill McGinn. McGinn pitched the remainder of the game without giving up a run.

Big guns at the plate were Don Ward, fleet-footed left-fielder; Ed Lamb, rightfielder; and John (Sleepy) Senter, third baseman. Ward cracked out three hits in four trips at bat, one of which was a long triple into left field. Lamb collected two hits in his three official trips. Senter, who got two for four, blasted a home run into deep left-center for the first run of the game.

The Tar Babies pushed across four big runs in their half of the third. Ward singled and then stole second. After Senter flied out to centerfield. Ed Lamb singled to advance Ward to third. Big Bill Walsh walked, loading the bases. The State pitcher then walked Quinton Quarles, sending Ward home. Little Joe Brookshire was safe on a fielders choice which sent Lamb scurrying across the home sack. Pitcher Gaston smacked a hard single which scored Walsh and Quarles.

The combined efforts of Gaston and McGinn limited the State club to a total of five hits.

Score by innings:

State	000	002	200—4
Carolina	104	000	04x—9

Wilson, Dixon (7) and Buie, Livingston; Gaston, McGinn (7) and Walsh.

Carolina	AB	R	H	O	A
Black, cf	3	0	2	1	0
Hayworth, 3b	4	1	1	0	1
Beason, rf	4	0	0	2	0
Kelly, lf	2	0	2	3	0
Gregory, 1b	2	0	0	4	0
Hobbs, 1b	2	0	0	3	0
Ryan, ss	4	0	1	5	1
Branch, 2b	1	0	0	0	4
Hamilton, 2b	1	0	0	1	0
a Varney	1	0	0	0	0
E. Cheek, c	1	0	0	2	0
Tranovitch, c	3	0	0	3	1
DiLorenzo, p	2	0	1	0	1
Andrew, p	1	0	0	0	1
Totals	31	1	7	24	9

a batted for Hamilton in 9th.

State	AB	R	H	O	A
Utley, 3b	4	0	1	3	2
Evans, cf	4	1	0	5	1
Fowler, rf	4	0	0	2	0
McComas, lf	3	4	3	1	1
D. Cheek, 1b	3	0	1	4	0
Katkaveck, 2b	4	2	3	5	1
Richkus, ss	4	0	1	3	2
Barksdale, c	4	0	1	4	0
Johnson, p	4	1	1	0	0
Totals	34	8	11	27	7

Summary: Errors—Ryan, Tranovitch 2, Andrew. Runs-batted-in—Kelly, Utley, McComas 3, Katkaveck 2, Richkus, Barksdale. Two-base hits—Kelly 2. Three-base hit—Katkaveck. Home runs—McComas 2. Left-on-bases—Carolina 7, State 6. Base on balls—DiLorenzo 1, Andrew 2, Johnson 4. Strikeouts—DiLorenzo 4, Andrew 1, Johnson 4. Losing pitching—DiLorenzo. Umpires—Fields, Bledsoe. Time of game—2:05.

Blue-White Game Set for Next Week

With four weks' intensive practice behind, Coach Carl Snavely readied his charges yesterday morning for the third annual Blue-White football game set for Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Kenan Stadium.

The Tar Heels drilled under a broiling sun for an hour and one-half yesterday, and coaches were highly pleased with results. Coach Snavely pointed to the running and passing performance of tailback Dick Bunting, 165-pound sophomore from Salem, Va., who saw intermittent action last fall. He was especially pleased with the defensive showings of ends Mike Rubish and Max Cooke.

Sophomore Ed Washington and monogram blocking back Don Hartig snatched passes for good gains in yesterday's workouts. Bunting and Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice were doing most of the tossing.

Tickets for Saturday's game will be placed on sale Wednesday, Monogram club officials have announced. The ducats will cost 50 cents for students and dates and one dollar for the general public.

—Makings— In the Majors

By United Press

NATIONAL LEAGUE

New York 16, Boston 9
WP—Hartung; LP—Hogue
Brooklyn 11, Philadelphia 4
WP—Palica; LP—Judd
Chicago 6, St. Louis 2
WP—Chambers; LP—Brazle.
Pittsburgh 7, Cincinnati 1
WP—Singleton; LP—Hughes

AMERICAN LEAGUE

New York 7, Boston 2
WP—Reynolds; LP—Dobson.
Washington 3, Philadelphia 2
WP—Wynn; LP—Marchildon
Cleveland 4, Detroit 1
WP—Feller; LP—Houtteman
St. Louis 6, Chicago 4
WP—Fannin, LP—Haynes

HOME RUNS

Cooper (Giants); Torgeson (Braves); Edwards, Vaughan (Dodgers); Pafko, Nicholson, Aberson, Jeffcoat (Cubs); West (Pirates); Henrich (Yanks); Williams (Red Sox); Majeski (Athletics); Stevens (Browns).

Raleigh Racquetmen Ride Over Reserves

Winning all their matches in the singles encounters, the racquetmen from Raleigh tennis club gained a 5-4 victory over a Carolina jayvee outfit on the local courts yesterday.

The summary:

Singles: Weathers (R) over Dameron, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4; August (C) over Kiger, 2-6, 6-2, 6-3; Cloyd (R) over Luxenberg, 7-9 6-2, 6-2; Council (R) over Wright, 7-5,6-4; Dillon (R) over Keenan, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4; Fahrer (R) over Kirby, 6-2, 6-2.

Doubles: Dameron-August (C) over Council-Kiger, 5-7, 6-1, 11-9; Luxenberg-Keenan (C) over Cloyd-Weathers, 6-2, 6-3; Wright-Kirby (C) over Dillon-Fahrer, 6-3, 6-4.

Cindermen Get 77-49 Victory In Loop Meet

Raleigh, April 24 — Coach Dale Ranson's Carolina track team, with the benefit of only five first places and a tie for first, still managed to sweep past N. C. State, 77-49, for their second straight victory.

Six records for the State college track fell during the afternoon's activities, with new marks being set in the shot put, high jump, 120-yard high hurdles, 880-yd. dash, discus, and 220-yd. hurdles.

Dick Taylor, a Raleigh native who showed up well before the home folks, copped one of the five Tar Heel firsts while setting a new record of 0:15.0 in the 120-yd. high hurdles. The previous record of 15.2 seconds was held by Jones of State. Julian MacKenzie, another Carolina speedster, set a new mark in the 880 with a fine 1:57, which surpassed the old record by two seconds. Bob Seligman, who was upset by Jim Byler in the shot today, established a new State record in the discus, with a toss of 142 feet and 7 inches.

High Jump Tie

Bill Joyner was the only other Carolina boy to share in the record breaking. He high-jumped 6 feet, 1½ inches to tie State's George Pickett. Their efforts eclipsed the old record of six feet.

Jimmy Miller, who won the mile in 4:29.9, and Sam Magill, who had 10:05 in the two-mile run, were the other first-place winners for Carolina.

Carolina actually won the meet on the strength of 12 second-place finishes. The Tar Heels also picked up seven third-place points. State could get second in but one of the 13 events.

Chuck Chambers of State copped individual honors for the afternoon. He was victorious in three events—the 220-yd. low hurdles, the 220-yd. dash, and the 440-yd. dash.

The summary:

Shot put — Byler (S), Seligman (C), Dostanko (S). 47 ft. 8 in.

One-mile — Miller (C), Burnham (C), Herty (C). 4:29.9.

High jump — Tie for first between Joyner (C) and Pickett (S), Saunders (C). 6 ft ½ in.

440 — Chambers (S), Lentz (C), tie for third between White and Spain (both Car.) 52.4.

Javelin — Miller (S), Kirk (C), Baldwin (C). 174 ft. 3 ½ in.

100-yard dash — Goldberg (S), Nelson (C), Willis (C). 9.9.

120 high hurdles — Taylor (C), Morrow (C), Watt (S). 15.0

880 — MacKenzie (C), Bristow (C), Orrims (S). 1:57.

Pole vault — Hickman (C), House (C), Russell (C). 12 ft. 6 in.

220-yard dash—Chambers (S), Nelson (C), Goldberg (S). 21.7.

Discus—Seligman (C), McLeod (S), Byler (S). 142 ft.

Two-mile—Magill (C), Hunt (C), Hunter (S). 10:05.

Broad jump—Bubas (S), Briley (C), Davis (S). 21 ft. 7 in.

220 low hurdles—Chambers (S), Shultz (C), Morrow (C). 23 ft. 6 in.

In Penn Relays

Philadelphia, April 24—Jack Moody, Carolina high-jumping specialist, finished third in the Penn Relays here today with a jump of 6 feet, 4 inches.

Phillips, of Brown, was the winner, with 6-6. Moody actually tied for second with Irv Mondschein, NYU, as both boys had 6-4, but Mondschein was awarded the runnerup spot on the basis of having used fewer jumps than Moody in reaching the 6-4 mark.

In the discus yesterday, Carolina's Bob Seligman set a new University of North Carolina record with a discus throw of 154 feet, 9 inches for a fourth place finish. Sam Magill also turned in his best time in the two-mile, with 9:32. Dick Taylor was first in his heat in the 120-high hurdles on 15.2. He was fifth in the finals.

Intramural Track Finals Tomorrow On Fetzer Field

The intramural track finals, halted by rain last Wednesday, will be held on Fetzer field tomorrow afternoon starting at 3:30 o'clock.

First events to begin will be the field events. The pole vault, high jump and shot put will all get under way at 3:30. The discus throw follows at 4 o'clock and the broad jump comes off at 4:30.

The initial track event is the fraternity division 60-yard dash, slated for 4 o'clock. Dormitory competition in the event will follow immediately after, and this schedule will be continued all the way down the line.

Other starting times for the various events are: 4:15—120-yard low hurdles; 4:30—3-4 mile run; 4:45—100-yard dash; 5:00—300-yard run; 5:10—440-yard relay; 5:20—70-yard high hurdles; 5:30—880-yard relay.

Defending champions in the meet are Sigma Chi in the fraternity division and the Med School in the dormitory competition.

Also scheduled for tomorrow on the mural slate is a bandminton open house, one of three to be held this week. Others will come Wednesday and Thursday and all are to take place in the Women's gym starting at 7:30. Tryouts for the badminton team to compete in the Big Four sports carnival will be held during these periods.

Only dual action on the mural schedule for tomorrow is rifle-firing between DKE and Chi Psi at 7:30.

Sports Calendar For This Week

BASEBALL

Tuesday—Davidson, here.
Thursday—N. C. State, here.
Jayvees vs. State, there.

TENNIS

Thursday—Presbyterian college, here.
Saturday—William & Mary, there.

GOLF

Tuesday—N. C. State, Hope Valley.

FOOTBALL

SATURDAY — Blue-White game, Kenan.

Carolina Club Tops Davidson By 5-4 Margin

Davidson, April 24 — Fighting an uphill battle after losing the first three matches, North Carolina's powerful tennis team, minus the services of Vic Seixas, captured five of the last six encounters to register a hard-fought 5-4 decision over Davidson here today.

With only three matches being played at a time, the Tar Heels found themselves on the short end of a 3-0 count after the first series of play. That's when the lower end of the lineup took over — Don Skakle, Heath Alexander, and Stan Gruner coming through three-set victories to deadlock the team match as play in the doubles got under way.

Skakle and Alexander quickly overran their opponents in the number three tandem engagement to move Carolina into a 4-3 advantage. The number one duo of Clark Taylor and Duke Wilder then proceeded to apply the clincher to provide the Tar Heels with their 15th straight of the season and fourth Southern conference success.

Taylor Loses

One of Carolina's two individual streaks was snapped during the afternoon. Taylor, playing number one while Seixas continues to recuperate from a recent illness, lost his initial clash of the year to Bo Roddey, Davidson ace. The scores were 7-5, 6-3.

In the number four tilt, Skakle won his 13th straight of this year and 33rd in a row over a three-year stretch with a decision over Matt Williams. Alexander and Gruner were both victorious in their first sets but lost the second ones ,then came back to cop the third sets and the matches.

Singles: Roddy (D) over Taylor, 7-5, 6-3; T. Keesler (D) over Morris, 11-9, 6-3; Robinson (D) over Rice, 6-4, 6-8, 7-5; Skakle (C) over Williams, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3; Alexander (C) over L. Keesler, 6-3, 7-9, 6-0; Gruner (C) over Cobb, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.

Doubles: Taylor-Wilder (C) over T. and L. Keesler, 6-3, 7-5; Roddey-Cobb (D) over Morris-Gruner, 3-6, 6-2, 6-1; Skakle-Alexander over Robinson-Williams, 6-3, 6-1.

Golfer's Putter Upsets Favorite at Pinehurst

By Billy Carmichael III

Pinehurst, April 24— Harvie Ward, a Tar Heel golfer with a big heart and a bigger putter rendered one of the finest links' performances in local history here today to neutralize and upset the muscular capacity of favorite Frank Stranahan and win the North-South amateur golf tournament by a 1-up margin.

The match was as shot-packed as any battle ever played on the Pinehurst No. 2 championship course as the Tarboro Tartar putted his way to a morning lead and then staved off a Stranahan comeback in the afternoon round to become the first University golfer to win such an honor.

Putter Hot

Ward faltered here and there with his woods and irons, but on the green he had the Muscle Man from Toledo almost at his mercy. Time and time again he scrambled to the green after his fairway strokes had failed to match the near-perfection attained by Stranahan, and then rammed home a putt at any distance from two to 30 feet to halve or win a hole.

The match reached a crescendo in the final round when Ward walked to the 15th tee with a 2-up lead in his hand and the match almost in the bag. But on this par-3 hole he faltered slightly as his tee shot strayed to the right, and an eventually 15-foot putt stopped on the very lip of the cup to give Ward a bogey four and Stranahan the hole.

On the 16th Stranahan drove into the edge of the woods while Ward hit straight up the middle and it looked like the Tar Heel ace would surely win the hole when the Toledo amateur's second shot fell short of the green in a bunker and a third recovery swing went over the green. Ward's second shot on the par-5 hole was wide to the right, but he had good position for the chip to the cup and a putt for a birdie.

Dubs Shot

That would have been the match, but Ward dubbed the shot and eventually came out with a par to halve the hole and go to the 17th still 1-up. On this par-3, Stranahan's shot hit the middle of the green while Ward, who followed, hit into a trap at the left and the match looked in serious doubt. Carolina's situation was further complicated when he blasted from the trap into another trap on the opposite side of the green and from all appearances the hole was Stranahan's.

The British Amateur champion needed only to drop a two-foot putt after Ward's second blast just missed the cup, but as the crowd of several thousand held its excited breath, Stranahan jabbed the putt slightly to the right and the ball did not drop. Ward sank his stroke and the hole was halved.

Stranahan opened the 18th with a drive into the woods which Ward improved upon by splitting the middle of the fairway. Again it looked like it was all over when the loser's second shot went from woods to woods while Ward's approach hit the center of the green, but Stranahan hit a beautiful 100-yard recovery shot from amid the pines which stopped a mere two feet from the cup. Ward, though, rallied to the situation with two conservative putts to halve the hole and become the new North-South champ.

The early part of the match was equally as close. Stranahan went 2-up with three birdies in the first five holes. Ward came back to tie the match on the 11th and with a brilliant putt past a partial stymie, to finally take the lead on the 17th. Ward then added another sparkling finishing stroke on the 18th dropping a 10-footer to go out to lunch 1-up.

From 9 to 1
Johnny Long
And His Orchestra
Will Appear
Wednesday, April 28
at
Alamance Roller Drum
Junction Highways 54 & 70
BURLINGTON, N. C.
In Advance $1.50 plus tax
At Door $2.00 plus tax

All Occasions
Flowers say it better
REHDERS
CHAPEL HILL FLOWER SHOP
Opposite Post Office corner

TOLD IN THE TRADITION OF "HOME IN INDIANA"

June HAVER
SCUDDA-HOO! SCUDDA-HAY!
COLOR BY TECHNICOLOR
with LON McCALLISTER
and WALTER BRENNAN · ANNE REVERE · NATALIE WOOD
Robert Karnes · Henry Hull · Tom Tully
20th CENTURY-FOX
—TODAY—
CAROLINA

CLASSIFIED

SERVICES OFFERED 10

COMPLETE MODERN RADIO APpliance service shop now open and ready to serve you. We call for, deliver. Johnson-Strowd-Ward Furniture, 422 W. Franklin. Telephone F-3491. (ch 1x1)

FOR RENT 6A

FURNISHED BEDROOMS AND PRIvate bath for summer or permanently; in beautiful country home 3 miles from town. Ideal surroundings. Call F-3236. (3 students preferred). (1-271-1)

FOR SALE 8

18 FOOT TRAILER WITH SCREENED-in porch. Available in June. Good condition. Moderate price. Lot 59, Trailer Court. Joe Corpening, Phone 9032. (1-270-1)

27 FOOT HOUSE TRAILER, 82 PITTSboro Road Trailer Court. Inquire between 5:00 and 6:00 p. m. (1-154-1)

27 FOOT LA SALLE HOUSE TRAILER in good condition. Ideal location. Inquire at No. 26 University Trailer Court. (1-269-1)

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogers Drive. Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogers Drive. Telephone F-2906. (ch 1x1)

LOST 12

ONE PAIR GLASSES NOT IN CASE between Grimes Dorm and Lenoir Hall. Please contact Charles Lambeth 301 Grimes. (1-272-1)

Planning Any
Week-Ends at the Beach
in April & May?
We have 16 apartments and a 10 room house available for house parties up until June 1st.
For reservations write
ALLEN BARBEE
Box 243
Spring Hope, N. C.

HISTORY'S MOST INFAMOUS FAMILY!
"GUILTY OF LOVING NOT WISELY BUT TOO MANY."—N.Y. TIMES
"★★★ Prize French Film!"—Daily News
LUCREZIA BORGIA
(ENGLISH DIALOGUE TITLES)
WEDNESDAY
VILLAGE

PICTURED ABOVE are the sponsors for the Sigma Phi Epsilon dance last night. They are, left to right (top row): Ann Wells, Milledgeville, Ga., with P. McNeer Dillon, Jr.; Hilda Johnson, Hillsboro, with Thomas E. Blair. Bottom row: Dorothy Jones Durham, with Thomas C. Haddon; and Emily W. Jones, Chapel Hill, with Winfield M. Baldwin.

Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity Honors Fourteen Pledges With Ball at Carolina Inn

Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity honored its pledges at the Sig Ep Pledge Ball Saturday evening, April 24. The dance was held in the Carolina Inn Ballroom.

Officers of the pledge class included: P. McNeer Dillon, Jr., Statesville, president; Thomas E. Blair, Charlotte, vice-president; Thomas C. Haddon, Durhad, treasurer; Winfield M. Baldwin, Goldsboro, sergeant at arms; Robert C. Gilchrist, Greensboro, secretary; and Frank E. Bunker, Winston-Salem, social chairman.

Other pledges included: William T. Hannah, Waynesville; J. Allen Cates, Hillsboro; Charles T. Foley, Charlotte; Newton A. Winn, St. Petersburg, Fla.; William W. Ward, High Point; Walton M. Cheeseboro, Asheville, Percy C. Weeks, Clinton; and John B. Baity, Henderson.

SPE's chaperones at the ball were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henderson, and Mr. and Mrs. Damond Turner, all of Chapel Hill. The chaperones attended the informal midnight snack held at the Sig Ep house after the dance.

Chi Psi Completes Extension Plans

At an alumni meeting of Alpha Sigma of Chi Psi last Sunday at Chi Psi lodge, final preparations were made to build a new wing on the fraternity house.

The extension will consist of a new and larger dining-room and several new study-rooms. Construction will be done by the Muirhead Construction Company of Durham, and the wing is expected to be complete by next September.

New officers of the fraternity were elected last week. They are: Severn Wallis, Southern Pines, president; Martin Luther Whitley, Walstonburg, vice-president; Billings S. Fuess, Jr., Harbourton, N. J., secretary; and Paul Nelson, Grandview-on-Hudson, N. Y., treasurer.

On Saturday the fraternity held a banquet in honor of Chi Psi's new initiates, who are Karl Lyon, Elizabethtown; Robert Evans, Cresskill, N. J.; Robert Montgomery, Raliegh; Max McManus, Red Springs; Richard Jenrette, Raleigh.

Albert Dickson, Hyattsville, Md.; Bruce Harrison, Bronxville, N. Y.; John Stillman, Miami, Fla.; Fred Matthews, Asheville; and Walter McColl, Albemarle.

Miss Kate Connor Weds Mr. Logue

Miss Kate Carinton Connor and Mr. Daniels Charles Logue were married here Friday afternoon at 5 in the Episcopal church, with Rev. David Yates and Rev. Clarence R. Haden, of St. Philips in Durham, officiating. Following the double ring ceremony a reception was held at the Sigma Nu fraternity house.

The bride, a rising senior from Durham, chose her two roommates as attendents. Miss Jacqueline Goodwin was maid-of-honor, and Miss Doris Beasley, bride's maid.

The groom, a rising senior from Clairton, Pa., had as his best man Pete Beaudry. Ushers were Elton Forehand, Joe Romano, George Sparker, and Robert Weant.

The bride, who is a member of the Chi Omega sorority, wore a white pique dress and hat, and carried a white prayer book with streamers of gardenias. Her attendents wore pastel colored dresses.

Mr. Carrington Cuningham, an uncle of the bride, gave her away.

The couple will return from the wedding trip today, and both will continue their regular school work at the University. Their new home will be a trailer which is located between Fowlers Food Store and the Sigma Pi Epsilon fraternity house.

CRAIG TO SPEAK

In a special evening meeting of the Y cabinet tomorrow night Dr. Hardin Craig will speak on "The Ethical Aspects of Higher Education." The newly formed cabinet will hold its meeting in the Y building.

At 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon the Executive committee will meet.

FOR YOUR FLOWERS CALL
WEST-WILLIAMS FLOWER SHOP
Telephone 9906
P. O. Building, Carrboro

Daily Tar Heel Society

Sigma Chi Activities Highlight of Week

By Weddy Thorp

Orchids this week go to Fran Angus, Sweetheart of Sigma Chi of 1948, and to the Sigma Chi's en masse for the entertainment provided the entire campus this weekend. Derby and dance were, as usual, very successful, and the old tradition was well-carried out again this year.

In fact, this has really been a big week for the Sigma Chi's, what with their sharing honors at the Valkyrie Sing with the Chi O's, and President Jack Thompson getting pinned, all since last week this time.

Tex Beneke

The campus, in true Carolina style, is moving these days from weekend to weekend, and next on the agenda will be the much-talked-of, long-awaited TEX BENEKE TIME. The great Miller organization made its name with the Tar Heel lads and lasses last year, and the return engagement is really one to look forward to. Remember the red-head trumpet player, girls?

And speaking of next weekend, folks are laying bets around here on the May Court attendants. If that's a secret-well-kept, more power to the coeds in charge. If everybody's having as much trouble as I am trying to find out who they are, the secret is safe.

Glee Club Concert

Following these festivities comes the Glee club concert on Thursday of the same week. Sounds like a plug, but it'll be worth it.

So the good word for today runs straight into next weekend with good listening and good looking. Spring slump, nothing!!

Dinner Held For Initiates Of Sigma Chi

Twenty-one new members were initiated into Sigma Chi fraternity in a ceremony held last Saturday. Included in the new initiates are: Walter Arnold, Bristol, Va.; Kyle Barnes, Greensboro; Earl Betts, Greensboro; Dick Boren, Greensboro; George Clark, Clarkton.

Wray Farlow, Augusta, Ga.; H. C. Fordham, Greensboro; Gene Graham, Charlotte; Hunt Hardisty, Midway Park; Frank Hawley, Roanoke Rapids; Jim Hendricks, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Henry Ingram, Asheboro.

John Langley, Kinston, John Lawing, Lincolnton; Ted Leonard, Greensboro; Kay Lewis, Beaver, Pa.; Tom Moore, Reidsville; R. A. Phillips, Kinston; Bill Pruden, Roanoke Rapids; John Pyron, Charlotte; and Wilson Wright, Durham.

On Saturday night a banquet was held at the Carolina Inn in honor of the new Sigma Chi's. In addition to the 21 new members, all active members of the chapter, alumni on the campus, and Mrs. Wesley Bailey, housemother, were invited to the banquet.

PIKA Entertains With 'Hobo' Theme

Last Wednesday night the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity entertained the Alpha Delta Pi sorority. The party had a "Hobo" theme, with everyone appropriately dressed. For the PiKA's the costume of the day included false mustaches and sideburns, old hats or derbies, lighted bow-ties, patched pants, rope suspenders, and other monstrosities of dress. The ADPi's, as "hobo-esses", came to the party clad in blue-jeans and loud shirts.

Social chairman Charlie Adams introduced Joe Riggan, a brilliant night club pianist, who entertained, rendering his versions of many jazz hits and boogie-woogie numbers. Riggan's novel arrangements and humorous piano techniques provided a spirited evening for all. Parlor games and dancing added to the evening's gaiety. Since it was impossible to obtain hobo stew in any quantity, punch and cookies were served.

The party ended with gay "knights of the road" returning to mere student life.

University Florist
"For the Best in Flowers"
Pick Theatre Bldg.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Telephone 6816

May Day Planned For Next Sunday

The annual May Day of the University will be held in the Forest Theater next Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. Eight court attendants and two maids of honor have been selected in addition to the queen, but the names of these girls will remain secret until they appear in the court. All senior girls were eligible for the positions.

There will be a pageant in addition to the traditional May Court, and the dancers in this will be junior high school students, who have been directed by Marcella Harrer.

Society Notes

Chi Omega held initiation for eight pledges on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons. Included in the new initiates are the following girls: Martha Best York, Concord; Willie Marjorie Riddick, Scotland Neck; Mary Leah Thorne, Farmville; Bootsie Lyon, Chapel Hill; Monk Pegram, Asheville; Ann Bumgardner, Charlotte; Helen Bouldin, Clarksdale, Miss., and Kate Connor Durham.

Kappa Alpha will entertain Pi Beta Phi at Sparrow's Pool on Tuesday afternoon with a picnic supper party.

The local chapter of Pi Beta Phi will go to Durham on Wednesday to join the Duke chapter in celebration of Founders' Day.

Pinnings

Marjorie Norris, Jacksonville, Fla., Tri Delt, to Wade Dunbar, Laurinburg, Sigma Chi.

Hilda Sharkey, Tri Delt, to Stuart Bondurant, Winston-Salem, Sigma Chi.

Lorenna Ross, Charlotte, to Wayland Maddrey, Weldon, Sigma Chi.

Susan Walton, Miami, Fla., Pi Phi, to Jack Thompson, Graham, Sigma Chi.

Campus Calendar

SUNDAY —
4:00 p.m. — UNC concert band's annual spring concert, Hill hall.
8:00 p.m. — Carolina Political union, Grail room.
8:00 p.m. — Motion picture "Beyond Our Own", University Methodist church.
8:30 p.m. — Laboratory theater's production of "The Inspector General", Graham Memorial main lounge.

MONDAY —
2:00 p.m. — Legislature finance committee, Roland Parker lounge No. 1
6:30 p.m. — Young Republican club, Roland Parker No. 3
7:00 p.m. — Grail, Grail room
7:15 p.m. — Interfraternity council, Roland Parker lounge No. 2
7:30 p.m. — International Relations club, Roland Parker lounge No. 1
7:30 p.m. — University club, Roland Parker lounge No. 3
7:30 p.m. — Bridge instruction, main lounge
8:30 p.m. — Dance committee, Grail room
8:30 p.m. — "The Inspector General", main lounge
9:00 p.m. — Science Fiction club, Horace Williams lounge
9:00 p.m. — Student Party, Roland Parker lounge No. 1
9:00 p.m. — Pi Kappa Phi, Roland Parker lounge No. 2

Tri-Delts to Hold Bridge Party

The Delta Delta Delta [illegible] will sponsor a second [illegible] bridge tomorrow night at [illegible] their house on Old Fra[illegible] Row. Proceeds will be [illegible] ward setting up a scholar[illegible] a coed at the Universit[illegible] year. The Tri-Delt's spo[illegible] the first benefit bridge [illegible] ter.

The national office of the [illegible] ority has agreed to double the amount raised by the local chapter for the scholarship. Recipient of the scholarship will be selected by the chapter here

Tickets may be obtained [illegible] cents from any Tri Delt

VILLAGE
TODAY
THE LADY KNOWN AS LOLA!
Queen of a rough-and-ready era when renegade ruled the frontier and love was made at GUN-POINT!
YVONNE De CARLO
DAN DURYEA
JEFFREY LYNN
BLACK BART
COLOR BY TECHNICOLOR!
with PERCY KILBRIDE
—MONDAY—
Deep their love! Great the risk!
CARY GRANT
INGRID BERGMAN
in ALFRED HITCHCOCK'S Notorious!
with CLAUDE RAINS
LOUIS CALHERN · MADAME KONSTANTIN
Directed by ALFRED HITCHCOCK
Written by Ben Hecht

LI'L ABNER By AL CAPP

Your SUNDAY SPECIAL is — HARRY'S

"CHESTERFIELD AND I ARE OLD FRIENDS. IT'S MY SMOKE." Marguerite Chapman
IN "CORONER CREEK"
COLUMBIA'S FORTHCOMING CINECOLOR PRODUCTION

WHY... I smoke Chesterfield
(FROM A SERIES OF STATEMENTS BY PROMINENT TOBACCO FARMERS)
"Chesterfield is my brand. I've been smoking them for about 16 years. I like them because they're mild and really satisfy. I know the kind of tobacco that's in them . . . it's the best.
"Chesterfield buys the best grades of tobacco. It's mild, light, ripe, sweet-smoking tobacco. They pay the highest prices for their tobacco. It's top quality leaf."
A. J. Criswell
TOBACCO FARMER, PARIS, KY.

ABC ALWAYS BUY CHESTERFIELD
ALWAYS MILDER BETTER TASTING COOLER SMOKING

LIBRARY (Periodical Dept.)
University of North Carolina
Chapel Hill, N. C.
1-31-48

WEATHER
Partly cloudy and continued warm.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
Continuity Needed
Season Is Reason
Reds Here

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., TUESDAY, APRIL 27, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | 151

Glen Taylor Says U.S. Headed Down Road To Fascism

A SPECTACULAR FIRE at the Silco Terminal Company in Bridgeport, Conn., turned this building into an inferno. All of the city's firefighting apparatus was called out to fight the blaze. Besides destroying several buildings, the flames consumed large stocks of lumber which was stored in the area. (International Soundphoto)

UN Center May Locate Here

Center Would Contain Literature, Pamphlets On UN Organization

The University of North Carolina has been selected as a possible site for a United Nations Volunteer Educational center to be sponsored by the Department of Public Information, according to a letter received by Lincoln Kan, state director of the Collegiate Council for the United Nations.

The center, if set up as proposed, would contain various literature and pamphlets on the workings of the United Nations for state-wide distribution, and would serve as a central point for queries on UN problems and its activities.

Visual Aid Materials

The Department of Public Information, according to Kan's letter, would supply the center with certain basic United Nations material, such as numerous folders and leaflets for distribution to schools and agencies throughout the state. The Department would also supply suggested study outlines and model lessons on recent developments in the UN for class discussions, and sets of visual aid materials.

The proposed center and its responsibilities will be discussed at a meeting of student leaders and faculty members in a meeting Wednesday afternoon at 4:00 in the CCUN office, room 211, Graham Memorial.

Asked to Attend

In addition to Dr. F. P. Graham CCUN state advisor, the following students and faculty members are requested to attend the meeting if possible, as well as all other interested persons:

Faculty — Chancellor R. B. House, Dr. W. Carson Ryan, Dr. C. Philbrook, Dr. S. E. Leavitt, Dean E. L. Mackie, Dean Fred Weaver, Dean K. K. Carmichael, Dr. C. B. Robson, Dr. Fredrico Ghil, Prof K. C. Frazer, Mr. Earl Wynn, Mr. Russell M. Grumman, Mr. R. W. Madry, Dr. Albert Coates, Dr. J. C. Sitterson, Mr. Charles E. Rush, and Dr. E. Hedgpeth.

Students—Bill Miller, Jess Dedmond, Tom Eller, Joe Fichel, Fran Angas, Jim Godwin, Charlie Long, Bill Mackie, "Butch" Daniels, John Zucker, Ernie House, Bill Kemp, Jake Wicker, Jim Burwell, Ed Joyner, Benedicta Santos, and Doertch Warriner.

COED SENATE

The Coed Senate will meet at 7 o'clock tonight in Horace Williams lounge.

New YMCA Officers Will Be Installed At Carolina Inn Banquet This Evening

A banquet at the Carolina Inn this evening will feature the installation of new YMCA officers.

The recently-elected officers, Pete Burks, president; Sam Magill, vice-president; and Ed Strain, secretary-treasurer, will be installed along with a 30-man cabinet.

Dean Fred Weaver, Student Body President Jess Dedmond and Warren Ashby will speak at the banquet. Chancellor R. B. House will also be present and will take part in the program, which starts at 5:45. Charles Jones, local Presbyterian minister, will be at the banquet and will take part in the program.

Don Broad, a former president, will be in charge of preparations for the banquet and services, which will be presided over by outgoing President, Charles Foley.

Carolina Men May Go to Greensboro

The Sophomore club of Women's College announces that on May 8 there will be a recreational program, held in Greensboro, for 50 Carolina male students.

The program will start at 3:30 with the annual May Day festival. After the festival the scene will shift to the "Hut" for games and square dancing. This will be followed by a picnic supper and then the scene will shift once more, this time to the starting point. Here, at the Religious Activities center, in the basement of South Spencer, there will be ballroom dancing.

The affair is open to any Carolina student, but the men will be picked on a first-come first-served basis. Students wishing to attend must come by the YMCA and sign up. Those going will be required to furnish their own transportation.

MEETING CHANGE

The meeting of the Literary board of the Carolina Magazine has been changed from Tuesday night at 7:30 to Wednesday night at the same hour.

The meeting, to be held in the mag office in Graham Memorial, will be devoted mainly to poetry and the Wolfe Memorial section of the May issue.

Any person who has work for the mag is urged to turn it in immediately.

High School Debate Teams to Be Here For Competition on Thursday, Friday

High school debating teams which were successful both in the state-wide triangular competition of April 2 and in the district contests held at six host colleges during the week of April 12-16 will enter the final contest of the North Carolina High School Debating union for the Aycock Memorial cup here Thursday and Friday, it was announced here today by Secretary E. R. Rankin.

The list of high schools whose teams will enter the final contest, together with the district contests in which they emerged as champions, follows:

Scotland Neck, affirmative, and Greenville, negative, from the district contest held at East Carolina Teachers college.

Four Oaks, affirmative, and Oxford, negative, from the district contest held at Meredith college.

Maxton, affirmative, and Greenwood, negative, from the district contest held at Flora Macdonald college.

Reidsville, affirmative, and Richard J. Reynolds, negative, from the district contest at Woman's college of the University.

Mount Holly, affirmative, and Forest City, negative, from the district contest held at Catawba college.

Canton, affirmative, and Marion negative, from the district contest held at Appalachian State Teachers college.

A general meeting of all the debators and coaches will be held at 2:30 Thursday in Gerrard hall. Welcome will be extended by Dean of Students E. L. Mackie and by representatives of the Dialectic Senate, the Philanthropic Assembly, and the Debate council. Drawings will be conducted for sections and pairings in the preliminary debates.

The visitors will take tour of the campus after the meeting and will then attend an open house given by the Di Senate and Phi Assembly.

Senior Class Meeting Is Called Tonight; Willie P. Mangum Medal to Be Discussed

The 1948 senior class will meet tonight at 7:30 in Memorial hall with post-graduate organizations holding the spotlight on the agenda.

University alumni secretary "Spike" Saunders will outline plans tonight before the class concerning the functions and organization of the class of '48.

Mangum Medal

Other principal business on the agenda of the meeting will be the appearance of Earl Fitzgerald, chairman of the Debate council, who will discuss plans for re-offering the Willie P. Mangum Medal in oratory.

Fitzgerald said the medal will be offered again this year if enough seniors express the desire of participating in the contest. Previously, the medal has been awarded to the member of the senior class who during his four years prior to graduation has best exhibited the qualities of oratory, debate and scholarship.

Contest May 14

However, requirements for the medal have been revised and it will be offered this yar on the basis of a single oratorical contest to be held on Friday, May 14, according to Fitzgerald.

Rules of the contest limit the length of the oration to from 700 to 1,400 words, not more than one-tenth of the material in the oration can be material quoted from some other source.

Persons who wish to enter should submit the subject of their oration to Earl Fitzgerald, 107 Everett, by postcard on or before this coming Friday. A copy of the oration should be submitted to the Debate council by Friday May 14. The contest is open only to seniors and the subject of the oration may be anything chosen by the contestant.

High School Boy Is Now Recovering After Initiation

San Francisco, April 26 —(UP)— A 16-year-old high school athlete is recovering here today from a fraternity initiation beating with ping pong paddles.

Charles Iverson was taken to a hospital Saturday night when he returned home covered with paint and feathers. Doctors said his back had been "cut to ribbons."

Iverson said he and two other initiates were struck across the back four times by each of 15 club members who weilded the paddles. Then they were drenched with tar paint.

Iverson said the name of the organization involved was the "Night Owls", and that it was composed mostly of members of Lincoln high school's unbeaten baseball team.

"I can't squeal on these guys," he said. "It might ruin their chances to play on the team. The paddles didn't hurt much. Only a couple of fellows hit hard."

Newcomers to Be Given Preference At Play Tryouts

Preference in casting parts for the 123rd bill of student-written Playmaker experimental plays will be given to students who have never appeared in Playmaker productions, according to Kai Jurgensen, who is supervising production of the three new plays. Public tryouts are to be held this afternoon at four o'clock in the Playmaker theater.

"We are not trying to exclude any of the regular Playmaker group," he said, "but we are anxious for students who have not appeared in Playmaker shows to act or to do work back stage if they are interested."

The three new plays are "Iphigenia in Lewisville" by John Wills, author of "Morning Dialogue" and "The Mask of the Black Bishop," "The Little Things" by Kermit Hunter; and "Of Lucy Wren" by Murray McCain.

The directors will be graduate students Louisa Mustin, John Bridges, and Eleanor Woodson.

Jurgensen said that about fifteen parts are to be cast, most of them for women, and that plenty of technical jobs will be open.

Cast lists will be decided on immediately after tryouts, and rehearsals will start tomorrow. The plays will be presented on Thursday and Friday nights, May 6 and 7.

Boater Almost Loses Life on Niagra Falls

Niagara Falls, N. Y. April 26—(UP)—Edward Schotz had a close call today. He almost dropped to certain death over Niagara Falls.

Schotz was headed for disaster after the propeller of his boat sheared off on a rock in the Niagara river. However, he managed to save himself by paddling madly with a board until his boat swung away from the current carrying him toward the falls.

People on shore heard Schotz call for help, but no one could do anything for him.

Floodlights were set up on shore, but the fog was too thick to cut through. A rescue boat slowly prowled the river and finally found Schotz frantically clinging to the boom that guards the falls—and took him ashore.

Card Stunts Are Ready for Game Slated Saturday

This coming Saturday at 2 o'clock in Kenan stadium, the annual Blue-White game will be held with all the usual attractions of a Carolina football game.

The game will progress on the playing field as usual, but in the stands an innovation will be used for the first time on the east coast.

Eight Stunts

Norm Sper, head cheerleader, has announced that the new cheering squad will lead the card section consisting of over 2,000 students in eight card stunts which will last approximately ten minutes during the half.

Only outsiders and specifically designated students will be allowed to sit on the north side of the stadium. Sper requested that all students who will sit in the card section wear white shirts or blouses to make the stunts more visible. "T" shirts are permissible.

Blocked Off

The procedure to be followed by those sitting in the section has also been announced by Sper. Sections 17 and 18 between the 35 and 50 yard lines will be used. The middle aisle in this section will be blocked off with seats to make a solid formation.

Students will fill up the section on the usual "first come first serve basis." Seats will be filled up from the middle. Each student will find a small white card attached beneath his seat. On this card will be marked the color of the card he is supposed to flash during the specified stunt.

Master Card

Before the stunts begin, the cards will be passed through the section and the students will remove the different colored cards which are specified on his master card.

Also during the half, presentation of the outstanding coaches award will be made, and the University band will be on hand to welcome Carolina's 1948 football team.

Sper announced that he would like to have four tumblers to perform with next year's cheering team. Anyone interested in trying out for the positions are requested to report to Kenan stadium this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Tickets for the Blue-White game are on sale in the "Y".

State YM, YW Hold Retreat at Nawakwa

The annual state YM and YW spring retreat was held at Camp Nawakwa over the week-end in the scenic hills near Randleman, N. C. The purpose of the retreat was primarily for leadership training, and it carried as its theme "Toward Better Service to God."

Several colleges in the state were represented at the retreat. Among those who attended from the University of North Carolina YMCA were Pete Burks, Ed Strain, Ed McLeod, Coy Rogers, and George Worth, a member of the Planning committee.

UP MEETING

There will be a meeting of all University party representatives today in Graham Memorial at 3 o'clock. At this time election of party officers for the coming year will take place. All UP legislators are invited to attend.

Labor Problem Will Be Discussed by Phi

The Philanthropic assembly will discuss a bill favoring federal compulsory arbitration of labor disputes in the meeting tonight at 7:30 in assembly hall on the fourth floor of New East building.

Everyone is invited to participate in the discussion and all prospective members are urged to make their initial speech.

Believes There Is No Danger of War With Russia in Her 'Weak' Condition

By Herb Nachman

"The people running this country today are leading the American people down the same road that Hitler led the German people — down the road to Fascism," asserted Senator Glen H. Taylor last night speaking before a crowd of 650 students, townspeople and visitors which filled Hill hall and overflowed to the building's doors.

For a full hour, Taylor, who is Henry Wallace's running mate on the Progressive party ticket, criticized our foreign policy, warned that the U. S. is controlled by a gang of cartelists, spoke of an agreement with Russia and flatly denied that war with Russia is inevitable. He went on to say that at present war is improbable because of the "weakened condition" of the Soviet Union.

U. S. Foreign Policy

Taylor pointed out that, "There is no place for people who want peace, for people who want to get along with Russia. There is no place for them to be heard." Taylor brought out this factor as the reason for the founding of the third party in the United States.

Taylor discussed at length the factor of armament, building for the next war and forgetting the peace. "I believe Mr. Forestal is our potential Hitler," he said.

Chapel Hill Liberalism

"Here in Chapel Hill the people are liberal and free thinking, but this is not true all over the country. When we attempt to organize our party in various places, we find that people come to us and say that they don't like what's going on but they are afraid to let it be known."

The senator related an incident which occured in West Virginia where a minister and a rabbi had been asked to offer prayer at a meeting of the party. However, the senator said that pressure was brought to bear by a local newspaper publisher and they both failed to show up for the meetings. "When it comes to the point that the preachers can't come and pray for our poor beknighted, red-stained souls, then we have political police just like Hitler had."

On Secret Police

Wallace and I aren't making many promises, but I will say that when we take power, there'll be so many political police looking for jobs that there will be a temporary unemployment situation."

Commenting on the present situation in this country in comparison to the situation in prewar Germany, the senator remarked, "Hitler did the same thing we are doing here now. He hollered 'Red, Red' until everybody was looking under the beds to see if there were any around, and when they looked up, they found the Gestapo had them covered."

Russia Devastated

In the course of his speech, Senator Taylor put emphasis on the observation that Russia is unable to attack the United States at the present time. "Russia was devastated by the war. Millions were killed. Her farm lands were laid waste. If we were in that shape, would we be looking for war? I don't believe there is any danger from attack by Russia now."

Taylor brought out strongly that Secretary of Defense Forrestal and the militarists are definitely out to start a war so they can "get rid of the Communists once and for all and exploit the country like they've been doing to the South and the West for all these many years. I don't think they would have any compunction about attacking foreigners at all."

Boos and Hisses

A remark which brought loud boos and hisses from the overcrowded auditorium was to the effect that the greatest criticism against Russia is her careless use

(See TAYLOR, page 4)

Alexander Is Named New CPU President; Southerland Elected

Herbert Alexander, Jr., from Waterbury, Connecticutt, was elected chairman of the Carolina Political union last Sunday. Alexander, a political science major, took over the reigns from Bill Kemp after the annual election.

Jim Southerland, sophomore from Willard, was chosen vice-president to succeed Jake Wicker; Dick Simpson, sophomore from Chevy Chase, Md., succeeded Pete Gerns as secretary; and Erwin Danziger, sophomore from Chapel Hill, was named to the treasurer's post which Simpson held last year.

The chairman will represent the CPU with the Carolina Forum, the administrative agency set up by the Student Legislature last year to bring speakers to the campus. Alexander has met several senators and congressmen on his recent trip to Washington in behalf of the CPU which will be of some benefit to the forum.

Patton Services Are Held Here Yesterday

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon in the Presbyterian church for Elaine Patton, 22-year-old coed who died suddenly on campus Friday afternoon.

Services were conducted by Rev. Charles Jones and Rev. David Yates of Chapel Hill. Interment was in Jonesboro, where the funeral moved after it left the Presbyterian church.

Pallbearers were Roland Giduz, Ed Joyner, Charles Eaton, Ed Bagby, Gene Blake and Pete Gerns.

Miss Patton is survived by her parents, Mrs. Lura Frend of Denver, Colorado, and John W. Patton of Washington, and two sisters from Charleston, South Carolina, Miss Genevieve Patton and Mrs. Eleanor McNair.

VARSITY DEBATERS

There will be a meeting of all students who participated in the Varsity debate program during the year at 4 o'clock today in Di hall. Next year's Debate council will be elected at this time.

Cross-Country Man . . . . . At Alabama U.

Claude Pepper Supports Truman

By Sam McKeel

There is at least one congressman in the merry old Southland who is backing Truman in the coming presidential election. And if running has anything to do with an election then the support of this particular senator should mean a lot.

Florida's Democratic Senator Claude Pepper, the man who is backing Truman was a member of the cross-country team in his college days at the University of Alabama.

Pepper has been a member of the U. S. Senate since 1936, when he was nominated to fill out the unexpired term of Senator Duncan U. Fletcher.

Born in Alabama in 1900 Pepper has spent most of his life deep in the South. He lived in Texas a few months of his childhood, but soon moved back to Alabama.

The senator worked his way through college by working at the school power plant, rolling coal and firing a boiler. His last two years in school he worked in the University dining hall.

A long-time candidate for the Senate, Pepper first ran for that position in 1934 against Park Trammell, junior senator from Florida. In a field of five candidates Trammell defeated Pepper by only 4,500 votes.

A member of the committees on Foreign Relations, Commerce, Education and Labor, Interoceanic Canal, and Printing and Patents, Pepper was a delegate to the Interparliamentary Union at the Hague in the summer of 1938.

For some of his ideas Pepper has not always found the sailing clear. Because he advocated lend-lease, selective service, and other war-time measures he was hanged in effigy in front of the U. S. capitol by some of the America Firsters Women's group.

Continuity Is Needed

More continuity is needed in student government.

At present there is an almost-complete turnover in government personnel annually. In the executive branch this turnover is total. In the judicial branch it is total in the Student council, only one holdover member is provided for in the Men's council, and in the Women's council alone is a feeble stab made at continuity through election of junior class members in December while the other members are elected in April.

Like the Women's council, the Legislature tries for continuity through election of half its members in April, half in December. But where annual items are concerned this attempt has no effect, since the term of any legislator is limited to one year unless he runs for reelection and is successful.

This lack of continuity is particularly dangerous to efficient government in the yearly making of the budget. The secretary-treasurer of the student body as head of the budget committee draws up the budget and submits it to the Legislature where it is taken over for review by the finance committee. The treasurer, the budget committee and the finance committee, then, are responsible for the distribution of more than $100,000 to the various campus organizations. In handling such a sum experience is a valuable asset, yet each year an entirely new set of students is entrusted with making the budget. No provision is made to use the experience gained by those who handled it the previous year. This lays open the possibility of the same bungling being committed year after year.

The present budget mixup is not attributable to this lack of continuity, since some of the same people worked on the fee structure change and on this year's budget, and some of the people who worked on this year's budget also worked on the one drawn up for 1948-49. In this instance it was a case of past errors not being discovered before the next budget was drawn.

However it seems to us that provisions for utilizing previous experience, not only in making the budget but in other government actions as well, would definitely cut down the chances of mistakes being repeated. Only sure way we can see of holding experienced men is by lengthening the terms of legislators, but too-long terms would probably give rise to as many disadvantages as the present system. Consequently, staggered 18-month terms for a certain number of legislators would seem to be the most practical answer to the problem. It would be worth the Legislature's time to consider a constitutional amendment which would provide an effective way of furnishing more continuity to our student government.

The Season Is The Reason

(Of all the editorials on spring written by college editors throughout the country, this one clipped from the New Mexico Lobo is the best we've seen.)

The pupae are wiggling out of their cocoons, soon to emerge as vari-colored butterflies, and UNM co-eds are wiggling into their vari-colored, decollete ensembles, soon to emerge as belles of the Fiesta. Beer is busting out all over. Spring is here.

Out on the range, the newly-born foal stands wobbling on his long, thin legs. His dam nuzzles him gently and he tries to walk a few steps. His legs give way and he falls awkwardly to the ground. Down in Alvarado Gardens, the beer-buster stands wobbling on his long, thin legs and tries to walk with a load inside him. His comrades nuzzle him gently. He walks a few steps but his legs give way and he falls awkwardly to the ground. Spring is the season and the reason.

Whether it be insects, horses, coeds or beer-busters, it's all the same. Spring is the season for new life and new hope. It is the hope that springs eternal in the student's breast. Hope she will, hope he won't, hope I don't flunk, hope I graduate.

Spring, the season, is synonymous with spring, the verb. There's spring in the walk, spring in the talk, and spring in the heart. Let's go on a picnic. Be sure to bring your own glass.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.

Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ..... ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager ..... T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor .... Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors .. Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associate Editors ..... Bob Sain, Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady
Society Editor ..... Weddy Thorp
Photographer ... Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. ..... Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. .. C. B. Mendenhall
Subscription Mgrs. .... Jim King, Chan Pegram
Asst. Business Mgrs. .. Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. .... Randall Hudson, Don Snow

NEWS STAFF: Herb Nachman, Charlie Gibson, Sally Woodhull, John Stump, Gordon Huffines, Jack Brown, Stewart McKeel, Margaret Gaston, Dan Wallace, Charlie Craven, Mark Sumner, Emily Baker, Doris Weaver, Harriet Sipple, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.

SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Larry Fox, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher, Mel Horowitz, Faith Adams, Anne Wells.

BUSINESS STAFF: James Crews, Jackie Rogers, J. C. Brown, Joe Williams, Gladys Cottrell, Bill Peebles, Neal Howard, Jr., Vin Snell, Candy Jonas, Kathryn McLean, Jim Brown, Baxter Morris, Ed Warton, Leonard Dudley, Jean Williams, Charmian Griffin.

NIGHT EDITOR: Chuck Hauser NIGHT SPORTS: Buddy Vaden

There Are Reds Here, Somewhere, There Must Be

By Bob Barnes

"The Red Sox will put up at the Washington Duke Hotel; the Reds at Carolina Inn in Chapel Hill".—Durham Morning Herald.

"Hey, wait a minute! There are enough Reds in Chapel Hill, already." —The Durham Sun.

These few lines appeared in the Durham Sun the other night and most of the Chapel Hillians took it with a chuckle, like most people would, if the same had been said about them. The thing that hurts is the commonness of this remark about Chapel Hill.

Many students come to Carolina for a quarter, and go back home to meet the crowd at the the corner drugstore in all the towns and hamlets of the state, and are confronted with remarks like this: 'So you go to Carolina, tell me about the Commies you see there." What can a student reply to this?

Maybe I have had my head stuck in the sand, but for the past two years I have been a student at Carolina and I have only heard of one professed Communist, Junius Scales. My reply to such questions is a shrug and a, "So what? I'll bet there are just as many reds or pinks in this town now as there are at The Hill."

The present campaign for President has brought some curious assortment of political aspirants into the political arena. Yes, there is a Wallace Club in Chapel Hill, just as there are such organizations in other places. The people of Chapel Hill look on them as a group seeking effective coloration, like so many little partridges sitting in a row waiting for Joe Stalin to pick them off.

Chapel Hill has had its couple of investigations by the F. B. I., and other towns have seen the same sort of charges fizzle out to nothing. On the other hand, Chapel Hill has its share of Red Baiters; a poll would probably bring out a long list of anti-reds, and it would be filled with the most prominent names of Chapel Hill's residents. Would not such a list follow the same pattern in any average American town?

Yes, the great liberal University of the South has had a couple of speakers that one might choose to see through colored glasses. Last Spring Miss Flynn, a genuine Communist, spoke to an audience of students who came to boo but who stayed to listen. Even the eminent (?) Henry Aagard Wallace was a speaker on June 5 last Summer. Maybe his speech was for the benefit of the Seniors —most of the other students had departed by that time.

Many of the older generation look over their glasses at the students of Carolina and with the air of a patron say, "We expect the youngsters to be radicals; college is the place for them to get it out of their systems." The students must be considered a part of the population of Chapel Hill.

The recent bond issue election in Chapel Hill shows the usual American spirit at work. Would there have been such an election in Russia? Would the Reds not have waited for the State to give them a better sewage system?

Neither on the campus nor in the town have we found the followers of the Hammer and Sickle. Tell me, where in Chapel Hill, are the Reds?

Ducks to You

Supply Not Equal To Wildlife Demand

Washington, April 26 —(UP)— The demand for wild ducks and geese is a lot bigger than the supply of wild bird life.

A government expert said today that wild waterfowl are holding their own against the nation's shot gun users, but that the wild birds are far from the minimum 80,000,000 needed for good shooting.

Frederick Lincoln of the Fish and Wild Life service estimated the 1947 waterfowl population was 54,000,000. But Lincoln added that an increase in the flocks depends on a lot of things — such as the weather at the birds' breeding grounds.

The wild life expert pointed out that the number of duck hunters has jumped to more than 2,000,000 at a time when drought conditions has had its effect on the duck population.

The Brassy Taste

Sain Sings Swan Song

By Bob Sain

(You lucky people—this is Sain's last column for the DTH.)

Over a period of a year you like more than ten things and you dislike more than ten things. But this is just a cross-section.

I don't like:

The campus in mud-time. . . the members of the Carolina Conservative club, who weren't very bright . . . the Communist party of Chapel Hill for its anonymity and, if it had one, its revolutionary purpose . . . the cliques formed by the frat bunch, the Danziger crowd, the music group, the Playmakers, the athletes . . . Tarnation and Tookie Hodgson—both of which pretended to be more than they were . . . Fred Jacobson's well-meant but misguided commercial-variety manner with the Carolina Mag . . . Mag lit editor Bill Sessions' vacillating policy as to whether he would pick stories to please his readers or uphold his integrity . . . the way most coeds acted and talked . . . dead, blue, sick Monday mornings . . . any prof who thought he was "just one of the boys" and never was.

I did like:

The campus in October and in April . . . the members of the Communist party for their devotion to their cause . . . such Playmaker productions as "Saint Joan" and "The Importance of Being Earnest" . . . Some of the records played by discjock B. Andrew on WDUK . . . Bill Sessions' hard work and obvious sincerity . . . Johnny Satterfield's great campus band . . . beer, whiskey, even wine . . . the way most coeds looked during football season and in the spring . . . honest people like Lois of the Campus Cafe . . . most people.

So what?

Campus Forum

Mag Gets Varied Comment

By Pete Gerns

Ever since Campus Forum ran a column on the Carolina Magazine last fall, people have been itching to hear criticism on Tarnation. The latest issue of the humor magazine is serving as basis for opinions both pro and con. It is hoped that both students and staff may benefit from this impartial survey.

"I think the student editors are doing as well as they can. However, the field which Tarnation covers as the only campus mag-to-be is too limited, and originality in college humor is very hard to achieve." Joe Gassen.

"Down to earth. Very good!" Alex Watkins.

"Cartooning good. Literary content good. Perhaps too many photographs. Advertising should be a little more subordinated to text." Bettie Creighton.

"Evenly balanced. Makes good reading." Alfred T. Rodman.

"This copy of Tarnation was an improvement over past issues, but I am still inclined to believe it is a waste of student publication funds. The primary purpose of a college magazine is as a creative laboratory. The Tarnation does not fulfill this purpose." John D. Roeder.

"More jokes—more sex!" Irvine Watkins.

"The magazine was very good as a whole—except for the constant heckling of the Carolina Magazine." Robert N. Kunselman.

"Not dirty at all—should have more good jokes—After all it is supposed to be a humor magazine—possibly there could be some anecdotes heard around the campus included." Paul Goodman and Frank Kilpatrick.

"Cartoons very good. Far too many advertisements. On the whole, the jokes were a little worn." James Crutchfield.

"I enjoyed the jokes, but if the magazine is to continue I believe it will have to ease up on them and not quite as much sex. The cartoons are especially good." N. A. Smith.

"The humor didn't seem up to college standards. The magazine as a whole was fair. The feature articles could stand improvement." Charles Gottesman.

"I laughed one time while reading the last issue, and it was a dirty joke I hadn't heard before." Bill Jernigan.

30-Year Hermit Blossoms Out

Binghampton, N. Y., —(UP)— Things certainly have changed in the life of Noah John Rondeau, the hermit.

For 30 years, he lived his chosen life as "mayor" of his one-man town of Cold River, 30 miles deep into the Adirondack mountain wilds. Now he's an honorary Boy Scout and is amazed at the number of friends he has.

The 64-year-old hermit still makes his home at Cold River. But, if such is possible, Rondeau has turned into a gregarious hermit. He speaks at meetings, appears at sportmen's shows and now and again visits the city homes of hunters and fishermen whom he has come to like.

They have to tramp 18 miles along narrow Adirondack trails from the nearest road to reach Rondeau's home. Within the last year or so, he's been returning the compliment, such as a weekend visit to a friend here recently.

Invited to Come Out

The small man, with silver-rimmed glasses, leathery face and a bushy, uncombed beard, dates his "public life" from Jan. 10, 1947. That was the day a state conservation department plane dropped a note asking Rondeau to "come out" from Cold River for an appearance at the New York sportsmen's show.

The hermit traced out "yes" in the deep snow around his cabin, then spent the next 48 hours ruing his hasty acceptance.

His regret stemmed from 1917, when game protectors tried to fine him $9 for a forest fire which started near his cabin. "I had nothing to do with it," Rondeau says. But back in those days, he remarks, "the conservation department figured that any man living in the woods, trapping and dressed in rags, must be breaking laws."

Then the day he was to leave, a heavy snow fell, and Rondeau relaxed. He wouldn't have time to keep the engagement. However, the conservation department sent in a helicopter to "rescue" him.

Has Good Time

"Up there I couldn't understand why they were making such a fuss," Rondeau recalls. But when he reached New York, he found a replica of his cabin had been built and "they even had me scheduled for a national broadcast."

Rondeau hastily revised his opinion of the conservation department.

Write Away

Conservatives Answer

Letters submitted to the Write Away column must be double-spaced, typewritten, and shall not exceed 300 words. All contributions must contain signature, telephone number, and address of the author. (Names will be withheld upon request.) Letters which contain obscene or libelous statements or letters which do not comply with these stipulations will not be published.

Editor:

Let me be the first to congratulate Mr. Bill Robertson on his enlightening analysis of the character, aims and purposes of the Conservative Club by merely looking up "conservative" in the dictionary! Now if he will look up the words botany, chemistry, economics, etc, he will have a complete education and can apply for a few degres from U.N.C. We Conservatives are flattered by this attack by a representative of Carolina's "Popular Front" coalition of Communists, Socialists, and "liberals"—all poor persecuted people.

Let it be known that we are now quite inactive. Our big job began nearly three years ago when we first realized the Communist flavor of Chapel Hill's "liberal" movement. At that time we began pointing out the fundamental errors in their attacks on society and indicating who the Communist were and haw they were duping people with honest liberal ideas. We were often too far to the right because we were fighting extreme leftists.

The situation has changed since then. The Popular Front has been narrowed down to 1-2 per cent of the student body. Mr. Robertson can count the Front's active enemies everywhere. Among them are a score or more of organizations—two of which are truly liberal—Americans for Democratic Action and the Young Democrats. He doesn't have to look in the dictionary to see that 94-98 per cent of the students know the Front for what it is and are not taken in by such lucid arguments as "brass-hats, Jim-crowers, Wall-streeters" and the grand-daddy of them all "democratic optimism in this changing world."

Paul E. Mullinax

Assembly Praised

Editor

This probably comes belatedly but we believe that those Carolina students—most of them anonymous to us—who worked to have the North Carolina Student Legislature held after the North Carolina State group failed to sponsor it deserve highest commendation. In our opinion their work is as good as any done on the campus this year.

Rylan Weisner
Robert Neill

Just Cofield

Editor:

Could a wee graduate student beg a few minutes of your valuable time? I know I ought to know my place and keep in it, but I feel this to be one of the most momentous things facing us today. So how about KEEPING THAT ERNIE COFIELD'S JUNK OUT OF THE PAPER? He sounds like one of the Rover boys and it nauseates me.

Charles Hexagon

PERAMBULATING DOGS

Memphis, Tenn. —(UP)— All sorts of dogs came to be inoculated against rabies in a Shelby County drive. But only one came in a baby stroller.

Mrs. Robert E. Harpst, who was registering dogs in one of the dozen emergency veterinarian clinics, was surprised to see the the dog sitting comfortably in the stroller with a woman alongside.

"He wouldn't walk," the woman told Mrs. Harpst, "so I rolled him over for his vaccination."

GENERAL COLLEGE

All students who were notified recently by General College that they were eligible to transfer to the College of Arts and Sciences this term are to check by 203 South building, Dean Well's office, between May 6 and 10 for assignment of advisors and registration instructions.

Student Government

What Campus Officers Do

By Chuck Hauser

We have been asked to do a series of articles on student government at the University of North Carolina. In beginning the series, we realize that one definite obstacle lies in our way: The majority of the students here don't give a damn for student government, and therefore probably won't read this at all. And they are the ones who should read it. They are the ones for whom this column is intended—to tell them something about the government they are living under on this campus and to get them interested in it, if that is possible.

Most students simply do not realize the break they are getting by coming to school at Carolina. They do not stop to think about the amount of power and control they personally have over what is done on campus.

Those transferring here from other schools appreciate our student government a great deal more. They know what it is like to go to school under strict regulations and to have no hand in the making or enforcing of those regulations.

Do you realize that the Student Legislature has the sole power each year over what shall be done with approximately $100,000 collected through student fees? Do you realize that the members of the Men's and Women's Honor councils—all of them students who sit side by side with you in class every day—have the power to throw you out of school if they find you guilty of certain honor code violations?

You may never have the opportunity to sit on an Honor council or to serve in the Student Legislature, but at any rate you have the power of the vote—the power to say who shall sit on those councils and in that legislature.

All we ask is that you keep up with what is going on. When an election comes up take a little time off to find out who is running and whether they are qualified to go into office. And take just one or two minutes out on election day and mark a ballot and you will be doing your part in student government here. If you don't know any of the candidates running, find out something about the party ticket they are running on and see if you agree with its way of thinking. But do your share, at any rate.

Within the next week or we hope to go into a little detail on the duties of the three branches of our student government and on the honor system as it works here and elsewhere. We ask for your attention and consideration.

Carolina Carousel

Wallace Boom In Winston

By R. Foo Giduz

A lot of the politico-petes from the back booth at Jeff's would have been most interested in the statewide Wallaceites convention in Winston-Salem this past weekend. . . .This character dropped up there merely to view the proceedings and perhaps enlighten himself in visual proof that the HWFP'ers whether or not you agree with 'em are not the nasty old underground bogeymen that most of the Schmoes around here seem to believe. . . .

It was doubly interesting since the tables were politcially turned for a change. . . . Whereas on the Carolina campus the Johnny O. (ray-rah-rah-pro-UMTee) Student flippantly considers Playmakers, Dook men, and Wallaceites in the same vein. . . . For a change we were the ones who received the askance looks as we walked around the convention meeting hall sans "Wallace, '48" button, toting camera and press badge. . . . In many ways we were quite impressed with the sessions. . . . Most certainly there never has been a more completely democratically conducted, un-bossed gathering. . . On this count alone we wish the entire student body could have sat in on the convention for even a few minutes. . . . 'Twoud have been an excellent lesson in tolerance.

—My boy Art-the-Mellow-Man Melton nearly fell out of his well-reinforced chair the other day. . . .Sitting in his room, studying (yuk), disc show playing on the radio. . . . When the announcer bluntly but unaffectedly said "This program is brought to you by The People's Choice—Mellow Milk!". . .For those who wish to stay groovy as concerns the local hot spots, leave us recommend the best and latest around town Jolly-Cholly Stancell's Driving Range General Discussion Parlor and Hops Handling House. . . Half-mile past the Curve Inn on Durham Road. . . . Translation: a new drive-in, jack.). . .

. . . In parting; our most sincere sympathies and heartfelt sorrow to the family of Miss Elaine Patton. . . . The most all-around sincere and ever-thoughtful gal we've known on the campus. . . . We said it while she was living.

End Of The World Any Minute Now

Philadelphia, —(UP)— Scientists at the Fels Planetarium of the Franklin Institute are illustrating ways by which the world might come to an end.

The astronomers show some of the violent possibilities, such as an explosion of the sun which would burn all vestiges of life on earth, great volcanic eruptions or by sweeping tidal waves.

The scientists coolly admit that the end of the world, due to some unforseen cataclysm, might happen at any moment.

"Our earth," they say, "is delicately balanced between the too hot and the too cold, and the too dry and too wet, for life of the kind we know."

If something should happen to upset the existing conditions most of the higher life on earth would come to an end, they add.

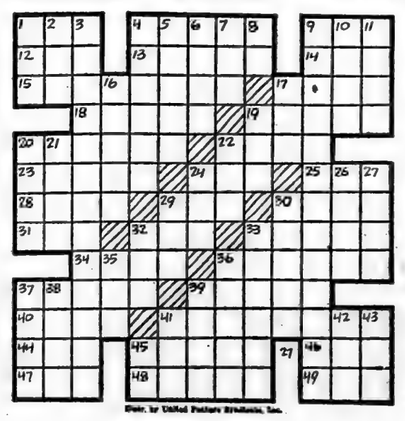
Sun Might Blow Up

The astronomers point out that other suns have suddenly burst into greatly intensified heat, and they assert it is not impossible that the earth's sun might also do it some day.

They also see no reason for ruling out the possibility of another Ice Age caused by a great volcanic eruption, because in the history of the world it has happened five times.

They also show how the moon might cause great tidal waves to sweep the continents from shore to shore for hundreds of years—with the gravitational pull of the moon opening up gaping rifts in the earth's crust, followed by gigantic explosions as the sea invades the pools of molten lava.

The astronomers hope most of the possibilities for an end of the world are remote. But they insist that it is possible at any moment for a body as large as the earth or larger to hurtle through space and shatter our planet to bits.



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS

1—To fondle
4—Put behind bars
9—Able
12—Over (poet.)
13—To come to terms
14—Open (poet.)
15—Pert. to dinner
17—Forehead
18—Carols
19—Groups of cows
20—Geometrical ratio
22—Circle of light
23—Nautical greeting
24—To sing softly
25—To exclude
28—Girl's nickname
29—Pony
30—To fly alone
31—Cloth measure
32—To weaken
33—French capital
34—U. N. concern
36—To scold
37—Clergyman
39—Large
40—Wager
41—Lead used in pencil
44—Hawaiian dish
45—To depart
46—Large tub
47—Pouch
48—More ancient
49—Period of time

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

T	A	R		B	U	L	B	S		S E E
I	D	E		A	L	I	E	N		W A Y
P	E	N	A	N	C	E		C	O	R A T E
		E	P	E	E		S	W	U	M
S	O	W	S		R	E	E	D	B	I R D
T	R	E	E	S		W	E	R	E	A I
O	D	D		U	R	E	D	O		G I N
M	E		A	C	E	R		P	U	R S E
P	R	I	N	C	E	S	S		R	O E S
		D	E	E	D		T	O	G	S
S	T	O	W	E		R	A	M	E	S S E S
A	I	L		D	R	I	V	E		E V A
Y	E	S		S	O	B	E	R		D E W

DOWN

1—Soda drink
2—Ever
3—Across the ocean
4—Having cadence
5—Nimble
6—Irish sweetheart (pl.)
7—Lamprey
8—Prefix: down
9—Confirmatory
10—Having no feet
11—Tidings
16—Sound
17—Babylonian god
19—Poor actor
20—Dessert
21—Shaped like egg
22—Center of wheel
24—To jump
26—Landed
27—Garden flower
29—Sliding part of wheel
30—Wife of Abraham
32—Scion
33—Tiny frog
35—Digit
36—Courageous
37—Lids
38—Wild ox
39—Alumnus (coll.)
41—Jellylike material
42—Black liquid
43—Greek letter
45—Behold!

Tar Heel Nine Meets Davidson On Emerson Today; Linksmen Oppose State

The Sporting Picture

By Billy Carmichael III

The Tarboro Tartar

A SPORTS STORY THAT WOULD TURN WARM THE HEARTS of even the coldest of Tar Heel athletic fans was unfolded at Pinehurst last week, reaching a theatrical climax on a sunny Sand Hill Saturday afternoon.

There were three characters in the story — a rusty, taped and battered putter; a caddy named Barney; and a golfer named Harvie Ward. Each had quite a history in itself, but together they made new history in accomplishing the highly-improbable, seemingly-impossible feat of winning the oldest of American amateur golf tournaments.

The North-South is a big competition in the nation and a bigger competition in Pinehurst. Its winner gains not only national recognition, but untold prestige among American golfers. If nothing else, he impressed the two hightly-rated national amateurs, he beat in gaining the crown, Dick Chapman and Frank Stranahan. And anyone who impresses the Muscle Man from Toledo must be quite a man with the club.

Putting Pal

GETTING BACK TO THE STORY, it was Ward's putting that overcame the combined strength of Stranahan's strokes and barbells. It's hard to describe how well the Tarboro Tartar stroked the ball up and down and across the rolling greens of the Pinehurst No. 2 championship course. Many times Ward's second shots failed to hit the green while the Muscle man was easily on in two, only to find Ward sneak toward the pin on a brilliant recovery and then rammed home a difficult putt to win or halve the hole.

That's where the other characters come into the story. There's the rusty putter that Ward found eight years ago in the club house of his home course at Wilma. It looks and is a relic of the Bobby Jones' era and is the same model as the Georgian's famed "Calamity Jane." It seems rather out of place in Ward's bag along with the shiny irons and gleaming woods, but it would probably be the last club that the new North-South champ would want to part with.

A Guy Named Barney

AND THEN THERE'S BARNEY, a short, stoopy negro of — one would guess — 50 or so, who knows all there is to know about Pinehurst No. 2 and probably little more besides. His golf-gripped mind seems to have a mental picture of every blade of grass and few who followed the match will deny that it was Harvey's hands and eyes coupled with Barney's judgement that was making the putts drop as they did.

Barney had as much color as you can find in athletics today. He wore a grey cap pulled rather far down over his continually-sweated brow and had a countenance resembling that of a fat-faced Orson Wells. His attire was an old grey sweat shirt, which those who know, say covers three of four more that the Negro is accustomed to wearing. His trousers are the crowning blow — pin stripes — carefully pressed and tediously pulled up whenever Barney knelt to examine a putt. Barney knew Harvie, knew what he could do with the right club and the right assisting advice. Together they and the rusty old putter won a golf tourney.

After the match, Barney received his reward. He asked for and got the winning ball together with a couple more from the Ward bag. It seems Barney has a tournament of his own to play this week.

All-Around Golfer

NOT ONE WHO SAW HARVIE WARD at Pinehurst last week will fail to agree that he is not only a great golfer, but a great competitor. It is a case of what you can do when the chips go down, and Harvie's chips — coupled with putts were continually going down in the cup for winning advantages.

Those at Pinehurst in the know say that the Tar Heel star has one of the greatest futures in the game today. The North-South may be just the boost he needs — if he needs one. Some say he has the best swing in the game today next to Snead, and Chapman venured the opinion that Ward would be a threat to the National Amateur crown as early as this or next year.

Twenty-two is a young age for a golfer which leaves Harvie plenty of room to go ahead and allow his game to grow. From here out it will be the nearing to that unreachable point of perfection and the gaining of additional experience. Stranahan's experience almost won his the match at Pinehurst Saturday.

Off the course or on, Ward is an interesting sports personality. Those who fear all this publicity will affect him can be met by the reply that he seems noticeably unaffected by it all. He knows that Ward is good to the point that it is necessary to in order to maintain the self-confidence in one's game and one's ability to produce. He is a performer who bears watching.

In the Bag

WARD, FOR THE RECORD, DOESN'T CONFINE his point-winning golf to the putting green. He outdrove Stranahan on many occasions, proving that barbells aren't everything, and turned in a good collection of iron shots. His chips, and recoveries lack little to be desired. The strange part of the whole affair is that Harvie's putting has been his weakest stroke in collegiate competition this season. How good can a man get!

Ward carries a strange assortment of clubs to make the 14-limit. He has irons No. 2 through 9, his well-advertised putter, a chipping wedge, a sand wedge and woods No. 1, 3 and 4. His brassie remains in the trunk of Coach Chuck Erickson's car, while he used a driver or a spoon for long shots in the fairway.

Frank Stranahan, Ward's final opponent and probably the most unpopular player — pro or amateur — in the game today deserves a word of comment. That word is "Nuts."

The Muscle Man is supposed to have told Harvie following the match that if Ward's putter hadn't been hot, he would have beaten him 7 and 6. To which Ward replied, "Putting, Frank, just happens to be part of the game." Which left Ward 1-up on the 19th hole, too.

Local Club Shoots For Loop Triumph With Blair on Hill

By Larry Fox

It will probably be Ray Blair on the hill for the Tar Heel nine this afternoon at 4 o'clock when the Hearnmen meet the Davidson Wildcats in a Southern conference tilt on Emerson field.

If the Tar Heels win today they will move into a first-place tie with Washington and Lee in the Southern conference race. The generals have a slate of seven wins and one loss while Carolina is in second place, half a game behind with a 6-1 record.

State college proved the villian for both outfits in today's game, pasting both unmercifully. Davidson fell before the Wolfpack by a 12-3 count and Carolina lost, 8-1. However, the 'Cats hold a 3-1 decision over Coach Vic Sorrell's boys.

Good Defense

This win, plus a one-run triumph over McCrary Hosiery, stamps the Wildcats as a solid defensive club and if they get off to an early lead, the locals will have a hard time heading them.

Ace pitcher for the 'Cats is Dick Marlowe, but the right-hander will not be able to make the trip to Chapel Hill so the probable pitcher is doubtful. Buddy Torrence, victim of the State debacle, may open on the mound.

If Blair doesn't start the ball game, Tommy Andrew will be the choice. Last time out, Andrew twirled a classy two-hitter to shut out the Greenville Greenies of the Coastan Plain league. The Tar Heels tallied 10 runs for Blair against Furman in the Palmetto state while the Twin City righthander permitted the Hurricanes two runs on six hits.

New Second-Baseman

One new face may grace the Carolina line-up this afternoon. Doc Cranford, the slick fielding second sacker, may open at the keystone position. However, either Dallas Branch or Co-Captain Jim Hamilton may get the nod over Cranford.

Emmett Cheek will open behind the plate. Rightfield and first base are the other two question marks in the lineup. Harry Beason and Frank Jones are candidates for the outfield position with Will Hobbs and John Gregory fighting it out for the first-base post.

Secondbaseman for the Wildcats is Jake Wade, Jr., son of the University sports publicist. Today's game will probably get top coverage.

PATRONIZE
Tar Heel Advertisers
Today

From 9 to 1
Johnny Long
And His Orchestra
Will Appear
Wednesday, April 28
at
Alamance Roller Drum
Junction Highways 54 & 70
BURLINGTON, N. C.
In Advance ....$1.50 plus tax
At Door .....$2.00 plus tax

. . . now for strong ankles and muscles later. Start training your little All-American in shoes recommended by doctors from coast to coast. One-piece sole stitched on the outside—nothing inside to hurt little feet. For all children from six months to four years.
$4.25 and $4.75
The Baby Shop

Blue-White Game

Tickets for this Saturday's Blue-White football game are now on sale in the Y court, Lenoir hall, and by members of the Monogram club. Student tickets and date tickets are 50 cents. Other general admission ducats will cost one dollar.

Students wishing to sit in the card section should request tickets between the 40 and 50-yard lines on the student side. Seats between the 40-yard lines on the visitors side will be reserved for the Educational foundation.

Game time is scheduled for two o'clock.

The two squad rosters will be announced this afternoon.

—Makings— In the Majors

By United Press

NATIONAL LEAGUE

New York 5, Philadelphia 1.
WP—Koslo; LP—Rowe.

Boston 5 Brooklyn 0.
WP—Voiselle; LP—Banta.

Only games scheduled.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

St. Louis 2, Detroit 1.
WP—Sanford; LP—Trout.

Cleveland 12, Chicago (14 inn.)
WP—Christoper; LP—Caldwell.

Boston-Washington in night game.

Only games scheduled.

HOME RUNS

Gordon (Giants); Russell (Braves); Swift (Tigers); Doby, Robinson 2, Keltner (Indians); Michaels, Lupien, Philly (White Sox).

MONOGRAM MEETING

There will be an important meeting of the Monogram club tonight at 7:30 in 304 Woollen.

President Bill Pritchard requests that all members attend so that final details for the Blue-White game may be worked out.

Golfers Expecting Tough Opposition On Durham Course

The Carolina golf team will swing back into action today, facing N. C. State at Hope Valley. The first foursome will tee off at 1:30.

Local fans will get their first post-tournament look at North-South Amateur champion Harvie Ward, as the Tarboro Tartar will open at the No. 1 spot for the locals. Playing in the same foursome with Ward will be another Harvey, the one named Oliver from Fayetteville.

Bob Cox is scheduled to go at his regular No. 3 slot to attempt to gather points along with Jack Brantley who will fill the No. 4 position.

Uncertain at Sixth

Silent Frank Brooks is the other sure starter getting the nod at No. 5, with the six position still to be decided upon. There may be a new face in the lineup, according to rumors coming out of Hope Valley yesterday.

The Tar Heels will be seeking their sixth win of the season against a single loss to Michigan. State is a hot-and-cold team, having beaten potent Duke on one occasion, while falling before the Blue Devils in another match.

Coach Chuck Erickson announced yesterday that the Tar Heels will not compete in the Southern Intercollegiate tournament in Athens this week because of the large amount of school that would have to be missed.

In Top Form

The Tar Heels should be in top form for the match as the time of mid-season near-perfection rolls around. Eight of the locals competed in the North-South competition last week and four besides Ward qualified for match play.

Today's match, as usual, will be open to the public and all are welcome to follow the three foursomes around the 6800-yard Hope Valley layout.

Track Team Sports 2-1 Slate; Next Meet With Navy May 8

Living up to previous expectations, the Carolina track team rolled over the North Carolina State Wolfpack in Raleigh last Saturday to bring their season's record in dual meet competition to two and one.

The local thinclads will be able to take it easy for a while now as they have a well-earned vacation from competition until May 8 when they will encounter the mighty Midshipmen of the United States Naval Academy. Although the favorite's role will certainly be with Navy, it promises to be a whale of an affair.

Winning but five first places and tying for another, the Tar Heels won Saturday's meet by picking up twelve second and seven third places. This is the first time this year that Carolina has showed up well in depth and it is an excellent indication that the squad as a whole has improved.

Neither the Wolfpack nor University lads seemed to pay much attention to the existing track records as they proceeded to rewrite the record books for the State track in six events. Three of the new marks were set by the Chapel Hillians as Dick Taylor ran the 120-yard high hurdles in 15 seconds flat, Julian MacKenzie did the half mile in 1:57, and Bob Seligman flipped the discus 142 feet. Bill Joyner's name will also get into the books as he tied George Pickett of the Raleigh school for first in the high jump at the new mark of 6 ft. 1 1-2 inches.

Emerson, Sigma Chi Capture Top Honors In Intramural Track Meet

By Buddy Vaden

Emerson dormitory and Sigma Chi fraternity copped top honors in the Intramural track meet yesterday afternoon on Fetzer field. Emerson collected the most number of points by taking seven first places, as well as several other top spots for a total of 84.5 points. Sigma Chi, who took top division honors for the second straight year, amassed 48 points.

Following close behind in the second spots were the Med school and Zeta Psi with 54 and 32 points, respectively. Third spot honors went to Mangum and Phi Gamma Delta, with 24 and 31 points.

Other teams that placed in order are Lewis and SAE, fourth; Independents and Kappa Alpha, fifth; and Everett, Mud Dobbers, and Pi Lamb, sixth. Everett and Mud Dobbers were tied with 11 points each.

Byatt Wins Twice

Emerson dorm's Bill Byatt scored two first places to cop top individual scoring honors in the dormitory division. He took first in both hurdle events. His time in the 70-yard high hurdles was 9.9 seconds. His winning time in the 120-yard low hurdles was 15 seconds flat.

Bill Miller, also of Emerson, was in on the scoring in three events, but captured only one contest single-handed. His lone triumph came in the 300-yard run when he turned a 35.5 seconds race. He also figured in both the 440 and 880-yard relays.

More Dual Winners

Joseph Fitzgibbons, Bob Cowles, and Bob MacDonald were dual winners in the fraternity division. Fitzgibbons took honors in both hurdle events, while Cowles was top man in the 100-yard dash and the broad jump. MacDonald, defending champion in weights, successfully defended his crown by copping firsts in the discus and shot put.

Bill Lyons and Gus Purcell had a hand in two victories in fraternity division races. Lyons won the 300-yard run and was a member of the winning 880-yard relay team while Purcell was on the 440 and 880 relay squads.

Mural Track Summary

FRATERNITY

60-yard dash, won by T. Jordan, ATO. 6:45.

120-yard low hurdles, won by G. Fitzgibbons, Phi Delt. 14.19.

Three-quarter mile, won by C. Lambert, Phi Gam. 3.43.5.

100-yard dash, won by R. Cowles, SAE. 10.62.

300-yard run, won by B. Lyons, Sigma Chi. 34.6.

440-yard relay, won by Sigma Chi (Flamish, Brannon, Macyko, Purcell). 49.9.

70-yard high hurdles, won by G. Fitzgibbons, Phi Delt. 9.4.

880-yard relay, won by Sigma Chi (Lyons, Purcell, McKnight, Valentine). 1.41:6.

Pole vault, won by P. Kemp, DKE. 11 ft.

Shot put, won by MacDonald, Sigma Chi. 42 ft., 9 in.

High jump, won by B. Joyner, Zeta Psi. 5 ft., 7 in.

Discus, won by R. MacDonald, Sigma Chi. 112 ft., 2 in.

Broad Jump, won by Cowles, SAE. 20 ft., 9 in.

DORMITORY

60-yard dash, won by R. Moss, Graham. 7.06.

120-yard low hurdles, won by B. Byatt, Emerson. 15.0.

Three-quarter mile, won by B. Walker, Med School. 3.35:8.

100-yard dash, won by J. Hicks, Independents. 11.3.

300-yard run, won by B. Miller, Emerson, 35.5.

440-yard relay, won by Emerson (Swigart, Miller, Steinbauer, Greenbaum). 50.5.

70-yard high hurdles, won by B. Byatt, Emerson. 9.9.

880-yard relay, won by Emerson (Swigart, Morrow, Miller, Greenbaum). 1.44:1.

High jump, won by J. Stewart, Oakwood Drive. 5 ft. 10 in.

Shot put, won by B. Hayes, Emerson. 41 ft., 1 3-4 in.

Pole vault, won by D. Byerly, Emerson. 10 ft. 9 in.

Discus, won by C. Woodard, Mangum. 113 ft., 5 in.

Broad jump, won by I Goodwin. Alexander. 16 ft., 8 in.

Two Coed Softball Tilts Set for Today

Two coed softball games are scheduled for this afternoon in Kenan stadium at 4 o'clock. The Town Girls will meet Alderman and the Pi Phi nine will meet CICA in the two contests.

The McIver team won their opener last Thursday when they beat the Alpha Gams, 17-10.

Bull's Head Bookshop
New Books on Baseball and other Sports
Browse — Rent — Buy

PRESCRIPTIONS
Filled Promptly
ACCURACY AND DEPENDABILITY
—at—
SUTTON'S DRUG STORE

Bus Time Tables TO CHANGE
EFFECTIVE SATURDAY MAY 1
Some departures will be changed at your local bus terminal on Saturday, May 1, to provide service over new routes and more convenient departures; therefore:
CALL YOUR LOCAL BUS AGENT FOR NEW DEPARTURE SCHEDULES BEFORE PLANNING A TRIP ON OR AFTER THE ABOVE DATE; and watch for announcements of new services.
Chapel Hill Bus Terminal
311 W. Franklin St.
Phone 4281
CAROLINA TRAILWAYS

VILLAGE THUR
IN SPANISH ENGLISH TITLES

The New Ballroom Dance Era Has Arrived
Whirls—Spins and Pivots are must with good dancers today.
With the coming of new styles in women's clothes many things were doomed to change. And so with Dancing. No longer are women content with that partner who scarcely moves her on the dance floor. She is a doll like creature dressed in whirling circular skirts with costly petticoats trimmed in ribbons and lace. She is a beauty to show off on any dance floor. She wants her partner to lead her in to the new twirls and spins and lots of them. It's so much fun and gives her such a chance to show off her graceful movements. So get in line and learn the newest things in dancing. Be a successful and thrilling partner.
Men learn to be an excellent leader and girls know that you know the SECRETS of following.
Enroll today at WHERRY Ballroom Dance Studio and be successful at that next dance. No money is more wisely spent than that money which teaches you poise and grace and gives you complete confidence that you are dancing correctly. Don't be criticised for bad dancing but learn the latest steps now.
Come by studio and make arrangements for your lessons. Don't wait! Do it today. Studio open from 11 A.M. to 8:30. Later evening hours by appointment only!
WHERRY STUDIO
"If You Can Walk, You Can Dance"
FOX TROT JITTER BUG WALTZ
TANGO SAMBA RUMBA
6 Lessons $15 Couples—6 Lessons $25
Small Groups — Per Person — 10 Lessons $15
219 E. Franklin St. For Appointments Phone 9291

EXHIBITION
WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY
April 28th and 29th
At ... Store
GENTLEMEN'S APPAREL FOR SPRING AND SUMMER USAGE HAS BEEN EXECUTED IN THE FAMOUS FINCHLEY MANNER WITH FULL REGARD ACCORDED DEPENDABILITY AND TASTEFUL, EXCLUSIVE STYLING.
GENTLEMEN'S SUITS
TOPCOATS • TUXEDOS • SPORTSWEAR
HATS • HABERDASHERY • SHOES
Finchley
FIFTH AVE., AT 46th ST., NEW YORK

Campus Calendar

1:00 p.m. — University party meeting, Graham Memorial
4:00 p.m. — Varsity debators, Di hall
5:00 p.m. — Pan-Hellenic council, Grail room
5:00 p.m. — Tarnation Business staff, business office
7:00 p.m. — Coed Senate, Horace Williams lounge
7:00 p.m. — Bridge tournament, Main lounge
7:00 p.m. — Coed Senate, Horace Williams lounge
7:00 p.m. — Bible Study group, Roland Parker lounge No. 1
7:00 p.m. — Campus party meeting, Roland Parker lounge No. 2
7:00 p.m. — SKE, Grail
7:30 p.m. — Senior class meeting, Memorial hall
8:00 p.m. — DTD, Grail room
8:30 p.m. — "The Inspector General", Graham memorial
9:00 p.m. — AED, Grail room

TWO BLOCKS WEST OF CITY HALL
You'll Find A Solution To All Laundry Problems
HELPY-SELFY
AUTOMATIC LAUNDRY
Bendix Machines
W. Rosemary St.

Charlie Barnett's New Album
New Fats Waller's
London Suite
Complete Line of Be-bop Records
Ab's Intimate Bookshop

FURNITURE . . .

• Upholstered • Refinished
• Repaired • Made to Order
Charles Valentine's Cabinet Shop
PHONE 9367 — PITTSBORO RD.

FROSTED MALTEDS
—That delicious American delicacy—Now waiting for your pleasure—
So Cool—So Good—So Tasty!
• SOMETHING DIFFERENT
• EAT IT WITH A SPOON!
• SMALL — MEDIUM — LARGE SIZES!
SUTTON'S DRUG STORE
Complete Fountain Service

After 142 Years . . . . . Need Finally Felt

Eleven-Year-Old Art Department Growing

By Joseph Bolt

Although it was the first state university in the country to open its doors to students, it took the University 142 years to get around to the business of establishing an Art department and thereby round out the institution's program as a center of the arts.

The University had been offering few courses in art chiefly in the history of the subject, for many years, but it was not until January, 1937, in response to a long-felt and often-expressed need, that a Department of Art was finally organized.

Built in 1797

The new department was housed in Person hall, second oldest building on the campus, the gift of General Thomas Person in 1797, which at one time or another had served at offices for University presidents, an auditorium and recitation rooms, and as the home of chemistry, medicine and pharmacy.

Before it could be occupied, the building had to be remodelled and the job was made possible through the efforts of Mrs. Katherine Pendleton Arrington of Warrenton. The construction was done by the CWA, with $10,000 contributed by Mrs. Arrington in honor of her brother, Milo Pendleton. Smaller funds were contributed by other friends of the Univrsity.

Headed By Smith

Russell T. Smith, a young artist not long out of Harvard, was called in to head the infant department, and he had just one assistant, Mrs. Corinne McNeir, who also served as field worker.

Professor Smith was a man of marked ability and resourcefulness, but after three years he was offered the post as head of the Museum School at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. The inducement was too attractive to turn down, and he went to Boston, but he had laid the groundwork for a department that has enjoyed a steady growth.

Eigth Artists

Whereas the first class that greeted Professor Smith in 1937 numbered only eight art majors, the department today has 50 students majoring in art and more than 400 other students who take some art courses as electives during the year.

Now the department has expanded to the point where this summer for the first time it will offer courses during both sessions of summer school. Painting students therefore will be able to take advantage of Chapel Hill landscapes and the figure drawing material afforded at Kessing pool.

Notable Difference

The summer activities of the department will not vary in intensity from those of the normal academic year. For the student, however, there will be a notable difference in the manner in which studio classes are to be conducted. Good weather permits more freedom to paint and draw landscapes and to move farther from the home base in the quest for subject matter.

This means that instead of being confined to studio projects which are designed specifically for indoor work the student is given more freedom to wander about the village to seek out fresh subject matter material. Such expeditions may lead him into the rolling hills of Orange or Durham counties or no farther than the places of small local industries.

Good Figures

The campus itself in summer affords a type of landscape and architecture combination to interest the student, and the University pool is crowded with good figure drawing material in the afternoons.

These sources of the student is free to explore in the leisurely fashion that summer permits, sans the encumbrance of heavy, cold-weather clothing. In addition to the routine activities of summer school the department this year will have two professional models one of whom, Nelson Bennett, is known for his work for Picasso, Matisse, and other well known painters.

READ THE CLASSIFIEDS AND SAVE

FOR RENT 6A

FURNISHED BEDROOMS AND PRIVATE bath for summer or permanently; in beautiful country home 3 miles from town. Ideal surroundings. Call F-3236. (3 students preferred). (1-271-1)

FOR SALE 6B

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogers Drive. Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogers Drive. Telephone F-2906. (ch 1x1)

18 FOOT TRAILER WITH SCREENED-in porch. Available in June. Good condition. Moderate price. Lot 59, Trailer Court. Joe Corpening, Phone 9032. (1-270-1)

27 FOOT HOUSE TRAILER, 82 PITTSboro Road Trailer Court. Inquire between 5:00 and 6:00 p. m. (1-154-1)

27 FOOT LA SALLE HOUSE TRAILER in good condition. Ideal location. Inquire at No. 26 University Trailer Court. (1-269-1)

1946-45 HARLEY-DAVIDSON MOTORcycle. Excellent condition at a good price. Dave Willis, Chi Phi house. F-3041. (1-281-1)

SET OF TAILS—SIZE 38 LONG. EXcellent condition. Inquire at 112 Graham. (1-283-1)

18 FT. TRAILER—GOOD CONDITION —Must sell. $650. See after 5:00 PM. No. 55B Pittsboro Road Trailer Camp. (1-276-1)

ONE NEW FIVE ROOM HOUSE IN Pittsboro. Call 2081 in Pittsboro between 8:00 AM and 3:00 PM. (1-2275-1)

TRAILER, 1942, 24-FT. SLEEPS 4. Priced for quick sale (by April 30) $1095. No. 246B-V-P Trailer Court. (Court beside Battle Dorm opposite P. O.) (1-274-1)

HARLEY-DAVIDSON MOTORCYCLE in good condition. New paint job last fall. Priced for quick sale. Call F-3872. (1-280-1)

FOR SALE AUTOMOTIVE 6BB

1934 CHERVOLET CONVERTIBLE coup. Recent motor overhaul, cleaned radiator, good brakes. Good running shape. Not bad looking. Reasonably priced. At Texaco station. Walt Arnold, 218 Stacy. (1-267-1)

1935 DODGE SEDAN IN GOOD RUNning condition. 110 Johnson St., Victory Village. (1-284-1)

LOST 12

IN RENDEVOUS ROOM. APLHA Gamma Delta sorority pin: large "A" with crown pearls. Please return to Beckie Holton. (1-273-1)

PAIR OF GREEN PRESCRIPTION sun glasses outside University Cafe Sunday morning. Please contact Burt Sparer, 5 Vance Dormitory. (1-277-1)

ONE PAIR OF LADY'S BROWN TORtoise shell glasses—near Delta Sigma Pi house on Pittsboro Street. Finder please contact Mrs. G. H. Cockerham, 136 Daniels Road. (1-282-1)

PAIR OF GLASSES NOT IN CASE between Miller Hall and Carolina Theater Friday night. Please contact George Valentine, Miller Hall. (1-285-1)

SERVICES OFFERED 19

ALL MAKES OF LAWN MOWERS repaired, machine sharpened. Axes, hatchets, scythes also sharpened. Tripps Lawn Mower Repair Shop or see John Tripp, Carrboro Shoe Shop. (ch 1x1)

COMPLETE MODERN RADIO APpliance service shop now open and ready to serve you. We call for, deliver. Johnson-Strowd-Ward Furniture, 422 W. Franklin. Telephone F-3491. (ch 1x1)

24 HOUR RADIO REPAIRS. OGBURN Furniture Co., Phone 5841. (ch 1x1)

ORDER YOUR TAILORED-TOmeasure summer suits now. Excellent selection of all wool tropicals and gabardines. Prices $39.75 up-delivered C. O. D. to you within twenty-one days or at any specified time. Orders taken for slacks, sport coats, suits, topcoats. Call Walker Pruitt, 8211, or write Box 51 Chapel Hill. (1-278-2)

WANTED TO RENT 24B

APARTMENT IN VETVILLE WANTed to sublet for one or both sessions summer school. Student veteran and family. Call 8211 or write Box 51, Chapel Hill. (1-279-1)

Meet ALL your friends — at HARRY'S

-Taylor-

(Continued from page 1)

of the veto in the United Nations.

However, the Senator pointed out that all of the vetoes have pertained to four basic issues which the United States presented to Russia, and had been changed around so Russia would use the veto again. This was done for propaganda purposes, he pointed out.

Lack of Statesmen

In commenting on our present government, Taylor said, "There are so few men in Washington now with guts enough to consider the people and their own personal good. We profess to uphold free elections. We cry about Poland, yet we went into Italy, and spent $4,000,000 to buy the election there. We told them frankly that if they didn't vote our way they could starve to death, and that's a good way to conquer the world."

Taylor threw a bombshell at the American press when he repeated a remark he made before a convention of American newspaper editors in Washington recently, "If war does come, I will say that the American press was the most miserable villain that ever inhabited the face of the earth."

Faith in American People

"My basic faith is in the ultimate judgment of the American people," he went on to say "Will the Americans have time to learn the truth about this dastardly foreign policy. The American people have a choice, we're starting a new party to give them a chance to protest. Wallace and I don't believe in appeasing anybody, especially a devastated and weakened Russia."

His talk was concluded with the remark, "If you want peace and want to get along with Russia, or you think war is inevitable, either way, common sense will say, Wallace."

98 Per Cent Showmanship

A question and answer period followed Taylor's speech. The first question asked and the one that brought the greatest response from the audience was, "Senator, last year when you spoke to us you said that politics is 98 per cent showmanship and 2 per cent policy. We've seen your showmanship, now give us about 2 per cent of what you plan to do."

In answering, the Senator brought out several points. "We expect to talk with the Russians and see what it'll take to settle this thing." He coninued "When we get it settled we'll repeal the Taft-Hartley law." This was the second point in the program when loud boos and hisses were heard mingled with applause.

Other Improvements

"We'll see that every old person gets $100 per month from the amount of money we save from armament, next we'll build homes for veterans, develop our valley authorities, expand industrially, aid education, improve hospital facilities, then we'll take the money that's left and pay off the debt."

Taylor was introduced by Miss Mary Price, chairman of the North Carolina Progressive party.

BUDGET REPORTS

Treasurers of all student organizations on the student government budget must turn in estimated expenditures for the coming year by Thursday noon to the student government office in Graham Memorial.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

Le Cercle Francais will not hold its regular meeting Tuesday, April 26, as scheduled. The next regular meeting will be held on Monday, May 3, at 7:30 in Caldwell Y. Dr. W. L. Wiley of the Romance Language department will speak at this time.

University Florist
"For the Best in Flowers"
Pick Theatre Bldg.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Telephone 9818

TODAY
VILLAGE

BIDS NOW ACCEPTED
For Circulation
of
The Daily Tar Heel
for summer and for the year 1948-49 (two separate contracts).
Particulars Available in Room 212
Graham Memorial

HISTORY'S MOST INFAMOUS FAMILY!
"GUILTY OF LOVING NOT WISELY BUT TOO MANY."— N.Y. TIMES
"★★★ Prize French Film!" —Daily News
LUCREZIA BORGIA
(ENGLISH DIALOGUE TITLES)
WEDNESDAY
VILLAGE

Andrews-Henninger Co.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

$14.95

Summer-eyes the Patio Dress

Two parts for your summer play with you in the lead in a floral Caliquette patio dress produced by Gay Gibson. The colors are jewel-deep and cleverly interpreted in rows of scallops and a matching top and flounce. Sanforized for sudsability. 9 to 17.

TAR HEEL Advertisers—
Pledged to Good Service
Patronize Them

Larger Loans on Anything of Value
Durham's Newest and Best Pawn Shop
MAIN LOAN OFFICE
Located: 400 W. Main St. at Five Points

Starring
MICHAEL REDGRAVE
JEAN KENT • JOAN GREENWOOD
• RICHARD ATTENBOROUGH with FRANCIS SULLIVAN • BASIL SIDNEY
CAROLINA
Now Playing

LIBRARY (Periodical Dept)
University of North Carolina
Chapel Hill, N. C.
1-31-48

WEATHER

Generally fair and warm.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS

Cofield's Last Stand
Senator or Salesman
Of Coal In June

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 28, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | 152

Williams Re-Elected To UP Chairmanship

By Herb Nachman

Thurman Williams, rising senior from Fayetteville, was re-elected chairman of the University party by acclamation at a meeting of the party yesterday.

Williams is a member of the Student Legislature where he is chairman of the Rules committee. He served on the non-partisan selection board and is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. He was pinned Monday night to Weddy Thorp, junior from Rocky Mount and DTH society editor.

Len Butt Elected

Other officers of the party which were elected yesterday include Len Butt as vice-chairman. Butt is a junior from Washington and is a member of Sigma Chi. He succeeds Charlie Loudermilk to the UP vice-chairmanship.

At present he is a member of the Student Legislature and heads the Ways and Means committee. He is president of the House Managers association and is a member of the Grail.

Marietta Duke, junior from Greensboro and a member of Chi Omega sorority, was elected secretary of the party. She is a member of the Student Legislature and is a transfer from Randolph-Macon college in Lynchburg, Va. She succeeds Annie Ben Beale.

Breese Heads Publicity

The party chose Bob Breese, rising senior from Waynesville, as treasurer for the coming year. Breese is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity. He succeeds Norman Ripps.

Rounding out the slate of UP offices for the coming year are Marshall Roberts, junior from Louisville, Ky., publicity chairman and Jim Gwynn, freshman from Mexico, chairman of the Qualifications committee. Roberts is a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity and Gwynn is a Sigma Nu.

Morrison Awarded Radio Internship To Work at WPTF

Joseph L. Morrison, assistant professor of journalism, has been awarded a radio internship by the Council on Radio Journalism. This internship will consist of a ten-week period this summer, during which Mr. Morrison will work with radio station WPTF in Raleigh.

The purpose of these internships is to enable teachers of journalism throughout the nation to secure practical work at radio stations in order to do a more effective classroom job of teaching. The Council on Radio Journalism was created by the National Association of Broadcasters and the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism.

Mr. Morrison is a graduate of the University in the class of 1940. His newspaper and radio exeprience includes a period of reporting for the Norfolk-Virginian Pilot and a period with radio station WRAL handling continuity and news. As a student in the University he was studio in Phillips Hall. At present studio in Philips Hll. At present he is a member of the faculty radio committee and supervises the writing of scripts of "Editorially Speaking," a weekly program featuring North Carolina editorial opinion.

During the war, Mr. Morrison was a first lieutenant in the army and did considerable work in radio and camp newspapers at Fort Knox, Laredo Army Air Field in Texas and at Moody Field, Georgia. Since returning to the University he has taught courses in newswriting for radio and continuity writing for radio.

PiKP, Tri-Delt Lead Scholastic Averages For Winter Quarter

The Pi Kappa Phi fraternity and the Delta Delta Delta sorority led in the scholastic averages and relative rank of men's and women's social fraternities for the winter quarter of this year. The average for the 28 fraternities is 3,016.

The averages were computed on the basis of rosters of membership as submitted by the fraternities. Active members and pledges were included.

During last fall's quarter the Delta Delta Delta sorority and the Tau Epsilon Phi fraternity led the other social fraternities. This calculation did not include pledges' grades.

Values for the letter grades were assigned as follows: A-1.00; B-2.00; C-3.00; D-4.00; E-5.00; F-6.00; absences-6.00; excused absences not computed; and incompletes, not computed.

The relative rank, fraternity, and average are as follows:

1. Pi Kappa Phi, 2.290. 2. Delta Delta Delta 2.498. 3. Pi Lambda Phi, 2.604. 4. Phi Gamma Delta, 2.609. 5. Alpha Gamma Delta, 2.620. 6. Tau Epsilon Phi, 2.673. 7. Alpha Epsilon Pi, 2.770. 9. Delta Psi, 2.805. 10. Chi Omega, 2.8215. 11. Delta Kappa Epsilon, 2.880. 12. Chi Phi, 2.893. 13. Phi Delta Theta, 2.980. 14. Pi Beta Phi 3.032. 15. Sigma Chi, 3.077. 16. Pi Kappa Alpha, 3.078. 17. Sigma Nn, 3.110. 18. Pi Kappa Sigma, 3.119. 19. Zeta Psi, 3.137. 20. Sigma Phi Epsilon, 3.149. 21. Lambda Chi Alpha, 3.156. 22. Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 3.166. 23. Kappa Sigma, 3.185. 24. Chi Psi, 3.234. 25. Zeta Beta Tau, 3.302. 26. Alpha Tau Omega, 3.303. 27. Beta Theta Pi, 3.365. 28. Kappa Alpha, 3.383.

Scott Sees Increase In Tobacco Prices

Raleigh, April 27 — (UP) — Gubernatorial candidate W. Kerr Scott said that tobacco shipments to Europe under the Marshall plan should cause an increase in tobacco prices this year. Kerr added that the shipments should help open up more foreign markets.

The former Agriculture commissioner also charged that the recent acreage cut of some 28 per cent was too drastic. He stated that he urged last year that the cut be no more than 20 per cent.

Scott also called for better representation of the rural population in the State government.

SAD-EYED AND WISTFUL. President Truman's pet cocker spaniel "Feller," submits to grooming preceding his appearance as pup of honor at the Washington Cocker Club show, where 117 members of his breed vied for beauty awards. Wielding the brush is Mrs. Wallace Graham, wife of the President's personal physician. (International)

Sellers Is Elected To National Board

Charles G. Sellers, Jr., graduate student in history, has been elected to the national board of Students for Democratic Action.

Sellers, a native of Charlotte, served as executive secretary for SDA for several months before entering the University last fall. Before that, he was an undergraduate at Harvard university.

The student political action group elected Sellers at its national convention in Chicago last week. Wilmer Dutton, Jr., and Dewey Hinkle represented the local chapter at the convention.

SDA is the student division of Americans for Democratic Action, a national group of liberals headed now by Leon Henderson. The organization excludes Communists from its membership.

The UNC chapter of SDA is one of 105 in the nation. It was chartered last spring.

Bill Miller Selected To Head Orientation

Bill Miller, rising senior from Greenville, South Carolina, was appointed chairman of the Orientation committee yesterday by President Jess Dedmond.

The student body president also appointed 14 members of the new coalition cabinet, the presidential advisory council on campus problems.

Miller, whose name will be submitted at the next meeting of the Legislature for approval, is a member of SAE fraternity, the Grail, Order of the Golden Fleece, and a former member of the Student Legislature. He was also a candidate for president of the student body in the 1947 elections.

Commenting on Miller's appointment, Dedmond said, "I have looked for a man whose willingness to serve and to work has been demonstrated. I also looked for one with the experience and interest which this important work requires. I am happy to state my belief that Mr. Miller posseses these qualities."

And announcing the formation of his coalition cabinet, Dedmond stated that he has not completed the list of appointments and that the chairman of the cabinet would be appointed at a later date. Members appointed yesterday are: Ed Tenny, Thurman Williams, Bob Haire, Scotty Venable, Dick Gordon, Bill Miller, Miles Smith, Edith Knight, Ed Davenport, Walter Arnold, Dortch Warriner, Basil Sherril, Ernest House, and Jack Worsham.

"In selecting the members of this group," Dedmond said, "I am choosing the people who, through their interest and activity in student affairs, have demonstrated their consciousness of campus needs." "Functions of this group," he added, " will be to advise me in matters concerning executive policy and to bring before the executive department the needs of the campus."

CRIL Committee Starting Plans For Winter Work

The Committee on Religion in Life Week met Monday night to start plans for next winter's Religious Emphasis week. This committee is one of three formed by The Council for Religion In Life, and two representatives from each religious group on campus make up its membership.

CRIL acts as a reviewing council, but oversees the religious problems and needs of the University, but does not make the decisions. The three standing committees act in this capacity; these committees are: Religion In Life Week, Spring Clothing Drive, and the World Student Service Fund.

Jim McAllister was elected temporary chairman of the Religion in Life Week Committee, and opened the meeting with a discussion of this year's religious week and probable improvements for next year's.

Various suggestions for the theme of next year's project were presented by the committee members. Among them were: Current problems in race, labor, and capital; religion and marriage, defining ethics and the basic truths; also comparative religions, an individual's obligations upon accepting religion, and man and his world.

Members of this committee are: Betsy Huggins, Frances Green, who was elected temporary secretary, Stark Dillard, Wally Vreeland, Bert Kaplan, Mel Steinberg, Bob Payne, Raymond Mills, Jim McAllister, Charlie Britt, Pat McNutt, Gray Sanders, Mary Beale, and Bob Eagle. Mrs. S. A. Rosenberg, Mrs. Betty Rose Dowden, and Claude Shotts are the directors.

Geology Fraternity Elects New Officers

In a business meeting Monday the Alpha Alpha chapter of Sigma Gamma Epsilon, national honorary geologic fraternity, elected new officers to serve for the school year of 1948-49.

Those men chosen to guide the fraternity next year are:

President, K. William Brett of Chapel Hill; vice-president, Edward Berry of Chapel Hill; secretary-treasurer, William Markgram of Carrboro; corresponding secretary - editor, William D. Johnson of Greensboro.

CCUN MEETING

The regularly scheduled meeting of the CCUN state executive staff and the executive staff of the Carolina chapter will be held at 4:30 today. Members of the entire staff are requested to attend this important meeting as the faculty and student advisory boards have also been called to meet at the same time.

THE WEIGHT of the "world" is on a moving man's shoulder as he carries a large globe belonging to General Dwight D. Eisenhower into Columbia University's president's house in New York City. General Eisenhower and his wife will occupy the Morningside Drive residence when the retired Army Chief-of-Staff assumes office as president of the university on June 7. (International)

Pharmacy Group Will Hear Waller

Dr. Coy W. Waller, research pharmaceutical chemist at the Lederle laboratories, will speak on "The Folic Acids and Their Antagonists" in Howell hall at 7:30 tomorrow night.

The announcement of the structure and the synthesis of folic acid in 1945 marked the beginning of a new field of research for chemists and biologists. Dr. Waller's speech will be based on his first-hand experience in both the original project and its later developments.

One folic acid-like compound, teropterin, sodium pteroyl triglutamate, has been found useful in cancer treatment. Aminopterin, folic acid antagonist, has been found to be effective in the treatment of human leukemia. The use of folic acid in anemia has been well established.

Dr. Waller, a native of Mount Oliver, graduated from the School of Pharmacy in 1937.

U.S. Budget Director Will Lecture Tonight On Federal Finances

James E. Webb, native of Oxford and Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University in the class of 1928, who at the age of 42 holds one of the most important positions in the United States government as director of the budget, will give a public lecture on federal finances in Hill hall tonight at 8 o'clock.

Title of the address will be "The Federal Budget Process in the American Democracy." He will speak under the auspices of the Economic department of the School of Commerce, of which he is a graduate and will be introduced by President Frank P. Graham.

For a number of years he was with the Sperry corporation as personnel director and assistant to the president, secretary and treasurer and vice-president. He was also a member of a prominent law firm in Washington.

He was a major in the Marine corps during the war. After the war, he served as executive assistant to the undersecretary of the treasury, prior to his appointment as director of the budget. He has had a distinguished career in law, business and the military and government service.

Applications Are Due For Y Publications

The YMCA has set 4 o'clock this afternoon as the deadline for submitting written applications for the position of business manager on either the '49 freshman handbook or the next student directory.

Those who have already applied for one spot or for both jointly as well as those who now wish to be considered are asked to be present for interviews in the Y tomorrow between 2 and 4 o'clock. The board which will select the business managers is composed of the following YMCA officers and publicity cabinet managers: Pete Burks, Sam Magill, Ed Strain, Bill Powell, Bill Sessions, and Charlie Gibson.

CICA MEETING

The Carolina Independent Coed association will meet this evening at 7 o'clock.

Assembly Banquet Honors Alumni; House Gives History of Organization

The Phi Assembly honored several alumni at a banquet Monday night in the dining hall of the Baptist church.

The honored guests included Chancellor and Mrs. House, Dean Fred Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Teague, and Mrs. Albert Coates.

Speaker Ernie House introduced the guests, several of whom spoke during the evening.

Chancellor House related some of the prominent phases in the history of the Phi assembly and compared it to the patterning of Phi Beta Kappa. He stated that work on a debate, when he was in school, was equivalent to work on a Master thesis. He said that the assembly had taught much parliamentary procedure and although there was a time in the University when varsity speaking was not prevalent, he believed it was coming back.

He stated the real way to handle difficulties is to meet them with something better and he urged the Phi members to bring back the "tug of war" between the intellectuals.

Mrs. Coates said, "One of the most remarkable possessions of the University is the student records of the Phi and Di assemblies. The minutes of some of the meetings show hours of work. These records are some of the best student records in the United States today."

Mr. Teague said, "I learned a lot from the Phi. When you look back over something you often wonder what was the most important thing you got out of it. When I remember my college days, I believe the friendships made in the Phi have meant more to me and have been longer lasting than any other activity." He reviewed the rules of fines, time limits, and requirements for membership. He emphasized the fact that one of the most exciting events on campus during his college days was to have a group of seniors come together in the Phi meeting, for it always showed that exciting events were in store for the evening.

Approximately 40 members and guests attended the banquet.

Yackety Yack Revives Class Poet Contest; Duncan Announces Prize Offered Is $25

A class poet contest for the Yackety Yack has been announced by Bill Duncan, editor of next year's annual.

The prize will be $25 for the person who writes the best poem that will allow each stanza to be written on separate pages of the 1949 Yack, according to Duncan.

The poems must be turned in by 5 o'clock on Friday, May 21. Judges in the contest will be announced later. Contestants for the title "Class Poet" are requested not to submit a name with their entry.

Duncan said each poem will be given a number and a file will be kept in the Yack office of the names of persons submitting manuscripts and the corresponding number. The poem must be typrewritten and the judges will know each poem by number only.

It was brought out that the poems may follow any style with no limit on length. However, it is compulsory that the poems include the following subjects:

The school, meaning the buildings and beauty of the campus; administration and faculty; the classes, senior, junior, sophomore, freshman; the professional schools, pharmacy, law, medical; student government, Student Legislature, Coed Senate; activities, YMCA, Di, publications, DTH, Tarnation, Yack, Mag; sororities, Fraternities, honoraries, Phi Beta Kappas, Shieks, Fleece; dances, Germans, Grail, May Frolics; beauties, May Queen, Yack queen; sports, football, tennis, swimming.

CAMPUS PARTY

The Campus Party organizational meeting will be held tomorrow at 5 o'clock in Graham Memorial, Roland Parker lounge 2. All persons interested in the party are invited at attend.

Di Senate Invites Political Groups To Present Panel on Foreign Policy

In view of the present widespread controversy over the foreign policy of the United States and its possible repercussions throughout the world, the Dialectic Senate has invited panels from the Young Republicans club, the Young Democrats club, and the Wallace-for-President club to participate in a panel discussion to be held at 9 o'clock tonight in Di hall.

Subjects to be discussed in the panel are the Marshall plan, military preparedness, federation of Europe, Central Europe (including the Balkans and Germany), the Far East, the Middle East, Trieste, and Palestine.

Following the panel discussion, the floor will be opened for debate. Members are advised that space will be limited, and that provision for bringing guests should be made before the meeting through the sergeant-at-arms.

Preceeding the regular meeting, an executive session will be held at 8 o'clock.

Special Session . . . | . . . Stops Horseback Ride

Truman Spoils Taylor's Trip

By Jim Dickinson

"Truman spoiled my ride," complained Senator Glen Taylor while munching his blackberry pie a-la-mode.

"I had planned a coast-to-coast trip by horseback," the senator went on, "so that I could stop along the way and make speeches warning the people of our dangerous foreign policy. I figured that anywhere I wasn't newsworthy, the horse would be."

The scene was the Carolina Inn dining room where Senator and Mrs. Taylor were having dinner with their receptionist friends. Speech-time for the senator in Hill hall was drawing near and the news reporter had been invited in from the hotel lobby for coffee and an interview.

"And just how did Mr. Truman put a kink in things?" the reporter wanted to know.

"I had only ridden 275 miles and then it happened. Mr. Truman called a special session of Congress," smiled the senator.

When asked on what premonition he had changed his political standing since his appearance here a year ago, the third party vice-presidential candidate replied, "I saw the two old parties as one party, and that one party as headed for war. I realized that a new party was needed."

GLEN TAYLOR

"To what do you attribute the fact that the third party movement is gaining day by day in momentum?"

"We are getting both positive and negative help," explained the Senator. "To begin with, people in general are opposed to war and they are gradually becoming familiar with our program and are recognizing it as a plan for permanent peace. We are getting negative help from the two old parties—now the one party—which is resorting to barefaced Fascist policies. An excellent example of this is the betrayal of Palestine." he uttered defiantly.

Hotfooting it back to more personal talk, the newsman asked the whereabouts of young son Arod, who is appropriately named for Mrs. Taylor—backwards. Her name is Dora.

"I'm sorry, but we could not bring him along this year," said Taylor. "He's attending school."

Asked when he had experienced his greatest thrill as a servant of his people, the senator replied, "That's easy. It was the first day I walked out on the Senate floor. If I'd had any pins I would have stuck myself."

The discussion ended abruptly when one of the table's occupants warned Senator Taylor that his speech was scheduled to start in seven minutes.

"I suppose we'd better change talking places," he rejoined.

Carolina Quarterly Accepting Applications For Positions of Editor, Business Manager

Students desiring the positions of editor and business manager of the Carolina Quarterly for the 1948-49 year are urged to turn in their applications as soon as possible at the information office of Graham Memorial.

John Marshal, executive committee chairman, said yesterday some applications have been submitted but that a much greater number had been expected.

Written applications should contain the student's record of previous experience on publications, his ideas and aims for developing the quarterly into a campus and statewide publication of contemporary literary merit, and any other information that may be of use in choosing the applicant.

The quarterly's Faculty Advisory committee, composed of three English and two journalism professors, and the student members of the Publications board will select two of the applicants for these posts after careful consideration of qualifications. The highest ranking will be called for interviews.

Those selected as first editor and business manager will be permitted to appoint their respective staffs, by and with the approval of the Faculty Advisory committee.

Beginning in 1949, and for each succeeding year thereafter, the editor and business manager will be selected by the aforesaid faculty committee, and the incumbent executive staff of the quarterly.

The quarterly, a 64-page publication, will be issued each fall, winter and spring. A minimum of 50 per cent student contribution will be maintained, though contributions from sources other than the University will be solicited. A modest sum, set at the discretion of the editor, shall be paid for all outside contributions and solicited student contributions.

The purpose of the quarterly is to provide a literary outlet for students, to represent the creative arts of the University, and to establish a contemporary publication of high standards in the state of North Carolina.

A campaign is now underway to raise a general fund of $10,000 to be used in publication of the quarterly. The magazine is divorced from student politics and will be supported entirely by donations.

Senator or Salesman?

What was the general reaction to the speech made by Senator Glen Taylor Monday night?

As far as persuading or disuading many students to or from the Wallace program, the speech had little effect. Those who support Wallace agreed with the speech. Those who oppose Wallace disagreed with the speech. Those who didn't particularly care one way or the other enjoyed the show. Applause, boos and hisses were mixed in the audience's response, with the applause having a slight edge proportional to the number of Wallace supporters present.

The few people who went to view the talk objectively found little meat for analysis. Taylor made a typical political speech. He hit the other parties and candidates in their weak spots, tried to present his party in the best light possible, and spent a good deal of time working for laughs.

What did Taylor say?

In general he described American capitalistic interests as the root of all evil and presented the Russians as a deliberately-misunderstood people. In all his statements there was some truth, much trimming. His speech was chiefly negative — against Capitalists, against present foreign policy. Only when asked directly in the question and answer period did he put forward any positive ideas.

Then he said that Wallace would deal with Russia by talking to her, would give every old person $100 a month, build homes for veterans, expand projects like the TVA, pass a "real" education bill, and erect hospitals.

Students, accustomed to direct factual answers from professors, were disappointed at his sidestepping of questions, particularly those dealing with Wallace's attitude toward the spread of Communism in Europe and the Palestine problem.

Taylor outlined what the Progressive party thinks is wrong with the world and with the other parties' plans to right it. When the progressives hold their convention and set up their platform, we shall be interested in seeing what they intend to do about it.

Of Coal In June

Fuel in June is about as necessary to most of us as a block of ice in January.

The students and their wives in Victory Village won't need coal this summer nor will the townspeople. In Chapel Hill we can get along quite well with Carolina's summer sun.

Which, we hasten to assure you, is probably a very good thing.

Come June, the coal mines of Pennsylvania and West Virginia will probably be about as empty as Harry's on a blue Monday morning. For in June the contract of John L. Lewis' mine workers expires.

If you think the heavy-handed UMW chief is going to let the coal operators get by without soaking them heavily, you just haven't been watching the goings-on in Washington this week.

Six hundred thousand mine workers are making an average weekly wage of $70. And that seems good to most of us. It's $20 higher than average wages in manufacturing industries.

But, perhaps this is the way that John Llewellyn Lewis sees it: there are 55,000 accidents a year in the coal-mining industry and that averages a work loss of 40 days; living costs in small mining towns are generally higher than they are in manufacturing districts; miners have large families with five or six children not uncommon; and where in a mining town is the wife or teen-aged daughter going to find work to help the family income?

With coal supplies already reduced considerably by the strike that ended early this week, what will happen if the UMW goes into a prolonged strike when contracts come up this June?

Will there be declared, by that time, a state of emergency, giving the President power to draft labor?

Will coal operators relent?

Or will more of the labor-management strife in coal-mining result in nationalization of the industry?

We will probably know in June.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.

Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ..... ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager ..... T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor .... Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors .. Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associate Editors ..... Bob Saln, Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady
Society Editor ..... Weddy Thorp
Photographer ... Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. ..... Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. .. C. B. Mendenhall
Subscription Mgrs. ... Jim King, Chan Pegram
Asst. Business Mgrs. . Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. ... Randall Hudson, Don Snow

NEWS STAFF: Herb Nachman, Charlie Gibson, Sally Woodhull, John Stump, Gordon Huffines, Jack Brown, Stewart McKeel, Margaret Gaston, Dan Wallace, Charlie Craven, Mark Sumner, Emily Baker, Doris Weaver, Harriet Sipple, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.

SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Larry Fox, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher, Mel Horowitz, Faith Adams, Anne Wells.

BUSINESS STAFF: James Crews, Jackie Rogers, J. C. Brown, Joe Williams, Gladys Cottrell, Bill Peebles, Neal Howard, Jr., Vin Snell, Candy Jonas, Kathryn McLean, Jim Brown, Baxter Morris, Ed Warton, Leonard Dudley, Jean Williams, Charmian Griffin.

NIGHT EDITOR: Jack Brown NIGHT SPORTS: Larry Fox

Poop For The Group

How A Paper Should Never Be Written

By Raney Stanford

From the lofty, learned peak of my eight hours experience at this work, I thought I might discourse a bit on what should constitute an editorial page. These conditions are of course ideal, and will never be achieved in our time, but they are goals always to be kept before the staff by the campus readers.

1. Each day the editorial page should contain a Fact. This will work some imposition on the staff, but I believe the joy of putting out a page that has a Fact in it will more than compensate for the trouble. The Fact could be printed in a box in black type in the center of the page, as a sort of crowning achievement that will top the rest of the day's efforts.

2. At least twice a week the page should contain a Thought. This Thought should not be prominently displayed, but should be hidden in the columns so that it can steal up on the unsuspecting student. It would be fine if a Thought could be scheduled more often, but the staff is, after all, only human. Some of them, anyway.

3. No letters to the editor containing intelligent, constructive or interesting criticism shall be printed. Letter writers and staffers will take pains to see that only epistles containing charges like "Junius Scales walks like a bear" or demands for more steps leading into South building shall ever see the presses.

4. Each headline writer is required to get the word "beer" in at least four times on a page. This will probably be difficult when it comes to titling Drew Pearson's column, but knowing the capacity of our staff, I think it can be done.

5. In printing the paper only the definitions in the crossword puzzle should be checked for errors, for the rest of it could be printed inside out and it would make no difference.

The Paste Pot

Birth Control Is Unnatural

(From the Boston College (Mass.) Heights)

Of supreme importance to Catholic voters and to right minded citizens throughout the Commonwealth is the defeat of the immoral bill which the members of the planned parenthood league, more aptly called the planned Smotherhood league, seek to make law in Massachusetts. Catholics have a moral obligation to exert every effort to prevent the birth control bill from being placed on the referendum and in the event that it should reach the referendum to vote against it. The arguments for and against birth control are familiar to all of us. Though the proponents of the bill present cleverly camouflaged arguments most of them aimed at seducing reason and appealing to the powerful instinct of selfishness none come even close to being valid when faced with the immutable truth that such a practice is unnatural and clearly against the law of Almighty God.

The birth controllers are incapable of advancing one single refutation of this fact for the simple reason that none exists. God has instituted marriage in order that the human race may be propagated for His greater honor and glory. This is His law. Man is not at liberty to change it without trangressing God's will. The practice of birth control is birth prevention, it prevents man from functioning as God intends him to function. Mechanical contraception does not aid or assist man in his natural marital performance. It prevents man from performing his natural marital performance by destroying the end of marriage—the procreation of children.

Catholics are not free to form their own opinions on this matter. It is not a matter of opinion. It is a matter of right and wrong. And this practice is not forbidden only by man. It is forbidden by God Himself. For Catholics themselves therefore there is no argument. Birth control is wrong because it is against God's law. However there are those persons who through error and ignorance either refuse or are unable to see this truth. It is for us Catholic students to know thoroughly the Church's teaching on birth control and to intelligently and reasonably advance these teachings to all with whom we discuss the topic of birth control.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jimmy Byrnes Believes In Keeping Reds Talking

By Drew Pearson

Washington. — Thanksgiving Day 1945, Jimmie Byrnes spent at his State Department desk, worrying. As Secretary of State and primarily responsible for U. S. relations with Russia, he didn't think he had too much to be thankful for.

The last conference with Molotov had broken off with no date, no plans, no provision for meeting again. The Big 3 Foreign Ministers had rowed continually ever since V-J Day, but Byrnes felt that if they kept talking at least there was continued hope. Besides he knew that the Russians, unlike American diplomats, relished hot arguments. To them, it was all part of diplomatic negotiation. Therefore, he thought it was important that these talks not be permanently broken off.

Finally Byrnes hit on the idea of taking advantage of a provision in the Potsdam agreement to call another conference; and to that end drafted a note to Stalin.

The note reminded Stalin that at Potsdam it was agreed the Big 3 Foreign Ministers were to meet in their respective countries, and that they had now met in San Francisco and London. However, they had not yet met in Moscow. If the United States, therefore, received an invitation to meet in Moscow, Byrnes wrote, it would be happy to accept.

Within a few days, Moscow cabled back inviting the United States and the British to meet there in December.

The Moscow conference which followed did not bring all the results hoped for, and Byrnes was criticized by some Senators for Russian appeasement. However, it kept both sides talking.

That's one important thing to be remembered about any dispute—whether it be a threatened labor strike or a diplomatic negotiation. A good labor conciliator will keep both sides talking, for once they stop talking, they strike. And once diplomats stop talking, their armies start shooting.

At present, the Big 3 Foreign Ministers have stopped talking—which is dangerous. One diplomatic feeler has come to the State Department from the Russians for a talk between Stalin and Truman, but the White House turned it down.

Asked by a White House visitor the other day, why he hadn't been willing to talk to Stalin, the President replied to the effect that he wasn't going to lick anyone's boots. Only he used words even stronger.

However, with the United States wisely starting a vigorous rearmament program, we are in a position to keep our feet under the diplomatic conference table without bootlicking—especially since we have shown our strength in the recent Italian elections.

In the opinion of this columnist, time is now on our side. The longer we can postpone war, the better chance we have of using the Marshall Plan to build a strong and friendly Western Europe. So it may pay us to keep on talking.

Tight-lipped Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman remained tight-lipped to the end about his new job of "Ambassador at Large" for the Marshall Plan. Even some of his top assistants were in the dark.

Queried Henry Scharer, one of his aides:

"Is there anything to those press reports, Mr. Secretary, that you are leaving us to become European representative of the Economic Cooperation Administration?"

"Who's peddling that story?" asked Harriman, feigning surprise.

"Drew Pearson," replied Scharer.

"Let's see now," mused the Secretary of Commerce. "Mr. Pearson's accuracy record was around 87 1-2 per cent at last report, wasn't it?"

"What I want to know is," persisted Scharer, "does his prediction about you shoot his accuracy record up or down?"

Harriman changed the subject.

The Duke of Windsor, not as young as he once was, but almost as handsome, lunched with Senator Barkley, Leslie Biffle and other Democratic leaders the other day.

He talked, not about dancing and night clubs as in the old days, nor about cabbages and kings. Instead, the conversation covered the Italian elections, John L. Lewis, and British coal production.

The Duke described the outcome in Italy as the most encouraging thing that had happened in a long time. Switching to coal, he was quick to rebuff John L. Lewis's criticism that British coal operators opposed mine mechanization.

"There is some mechanization in Great Britain," he said, "but most of our mines do not lend themselves to it because they are deeper and the coal seams narrower than in the United States. That makes the use of machinery difficult and more expensive."

The Duchess of Windsor was not at the luncheon. Her husband told Senators that he was looking forward to golfing on Long Island where he and Wally have leased a home near the Piping Rock Club.

Secretary of Defense Forrestal got a rough going-over from Senators when he opposed the 70-group air program in a secret session of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

"I'm glad to hear that you fellows have finally made up your minds," remarked Senator Dick Russell of Georgia when Forrestal said he and Truman were agreed on 66 air groups. "I've seldom encountered as much inconsistency as the armed services have shown on this subject. They have had their representatives up on the Hill dozens of times with conflicting stories of what our military establishment should be."

"They haven't convinced me," declared Iowa's plain-talking Senator Wilson. "I'm still for the full 70 groups. If we're going to use these obsolete storage planes, then let's spend some money to make them up to date. However, depending on obsolete planes in these advanced times is like living in an old house. You can modernize it to make it more liveable, but it's still an old house."

Stumping With John

The Simple Things Have Gone

By John Stump

Prices, panic, Wallace, and war; these are the things about which the people of America wonder and worry as 1948 moves into the season of which the poet said "Then, if ever, come perfect days.

And in the country's colleges and universities, men and women are thinking and remembering. They remember the days so recently past and so easily forgotten when this country bled and strained to insure the lasting peace and prosperity that seem no nearer now that the struggle has ended.

In the damp, sunlit days of early spring, these young Americans move over the campuses of the country in physical comfort and contentment.

But through their minds course disturbing thoughts.

With the dead of the second struggle to make the world safe for democracy unburied and the cost unpaid and the desolation remaining and the wounds to the spirit unhealed, their memories are not pleasant ones.

Talk out of the classroom is as before of dates and dances, ball games, the beach, and friends that are close to the heart. In the class room, professors persistently force it to the works of the masters, the principia of Newton, and the technique of writing. The face of the campuses is a peaceful one. The life of the campus seems to be much as before; but there is little peace.

Youthful eyes from which the tears of life have yet to wash the stars look from one source of leadership to another for the answer.

The answer to what?

With some, the answer sought is one of survival. With those some, the problem is the bomb. Economically, the minds that think and the souls that ponder watch the old system crumble into the dust, watch the rats gnaw its supporting roots, survey the ideologies that bid for their allegiance, and they plead for the answers ahead of the fuse on the Bomb.

And we must search for the answers—looking with eyes from which all of the blood of Normandy has not yet washed the stars.

We must save or improve an economic system which crumbles under its own weight without the strands at which the rats of the left are gnawing.

Someone must meet or stop or placate or destroy the Russians—and he will do it without the help of the partisans of the left who are fighting their fight with the businesses and the traditions of this country.

He will do it with little support from the cynical—the mental flotsam reduced, by two wars of ideals that turned out to be nothing of the kind, to self-interested fighters for personal privilege alone.

We will not have the intellectuals, the pacifists, the weak, and the growing numbers of those who have lost the faith.

And the alternative if t fights are not won, these a ers not found?

It is destruction.

Or it is the end of the ord Western civilization that has developing since the Renaiss began in the sixteenth centu

And our children will sit the ground and shiver by wi swept fires and dream of th who inhabited the ruins of once great cities on the sun of the great fresh water.

And as our civilization cru bles, if that is to be its fate, th are those who will smile and s no matter.

They will point to our loss of religion and taste, our loss of industry and thrift—our loss of the simple things with which our fathers built this country and say No matter.

All of these things must come to pass.

But people who remember Wilson died in disgrace, Ghandi was murdered, that people killed Wendell Wilki not help but wonder.

And as they do the earth continues to turn.

The ground thaws, the great rivers flow; day follows night and in Chapel Hill new dormitories are readied for occupancy. It's spring, and few are those that do not rejoice to see its coming.

But thoughtful people paus consider and fight against de pair even as they heed the voic of the turtle.

Write Away

An Unsatisfied Customer

Editor:

There is much written and said about student government and its merits. I believe the formal organization of the student government at U. N. C. is, in general, competently headed and well administered. On the other hand, the mass of the student body is poorly governed: there is one minority which seems to be of moral morons, a passive majority which does nothing about the moral morons, and possibly another minority which attempts to do something but has no support (or backing) from the passive majority. Furthermore, the elected dormitory officers and the dormitory managers (university agencies) are either useless or helpless in the situation—possibly they do not have university backing for corrective "or else" action.

Cases of rude or inconsiderate conduct, examples of stealing (both personal and university property), willful destruction of property and so forth, could be listed, but I must be brief; however, to give concrete illustrations I will give two examples of unworthy conduct:

(1) Dormitory and area—A number of boys (sober and otherwise) hollow and squall within and around the dormitories almost incessantly (keeping people from study or sleep); play ball or modified archery on the inside; play hide-and-seek and thus bang on doors; start fires; and throw water around. But that's not all. Comes twelve midnight or after, frequent drunks arrive and courageously, effectively, and persistently inform everyone that they are drunk, present, and "don't give a damn who knows it." I am Not an abstainer, but I have no sympathy for a rude drunk. Undoubtedly, one of Pete Gerns' interviewees in the Campus Forum of April 23rd was joking when replying to the question, "What do you expect of your student body officials in this coming year?" he said, "A good honest administration with a case of beer in every room and a bottle in every pocket," but it seems to be an appropriate parody of many people.

(2) Lenoir eating lines—Whether in a bank cashier's line or in a bread line, it is proper and considerate to take one's turn according to priority of arrival. When this custom is promiscuously disregarded, selfishness, discourtesy, and general lack of consideration result—and at many places much less casual and liberal than this campus, disorder would likely break out. One day this past week when I hitched on to the end of a food line in Lenoir Hall I made a point of counting the number of persons who broke into the line in front of chums or friends; there were about twenty!

The two general samples above give an idea of what I am thinking about. Only as our training or character reveal themselves in ethical actions are we entitled to govern ourselves (or others) in society or any other organization.

Odell J. Councilman

Cofield Makes Last Stand On Party Furor

Editor:

The 'Gods' of SP think their toes have been stepped on! This letter concerns letters from Messrs. Thompson, Swain, Hennessee, and West concerning my opposition to a SP-CP merger.

A re-reading of my letter has reaffirmed my belief that the letter contained no charges against any party group or person. It was intended to represent my advocation of one course of action, not a charge, as the headlines scream, against any political group. However, I will not retract any statement I made. To the authors of the letters, I recommend a re-reading of the original.

Will someone take a poll of freshmen and find out which party sent them letters before they arrived at Carolina? I already know the answer.

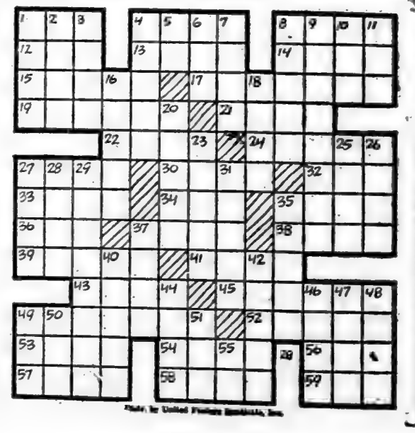
Gentlemen, if I believed that such support would get me elected fairly and not restrict me in my desire to serve the interest of the student body, I would accept the support of Old Scraich himself. Such were the conditions under which I accepted the endorsement of SP (whose meeting I am yet to attend, whose endorsement I did not seek, and did not know about until a week or more after its passing). To anyone not aware of the fact, I wish to say that I was and am grateful for the support and regret that it was not sufficent to get me elected. I daresay that the opinion of the elected candidate mentioned at the end of Mr. West's letter holds the same essentials as mine, gratitude for any support, so long as he is left alone to work for good student government.

In the joint letter were two personal cracks. (1) Until the DTH staff objects and until certain gentlemen bring forth something of more interest to the student body, I shall continue to contribute to the Write Away column, so frequently as I see fit. (2) The obvious misspelling of the name I did not mind. The DTH type-setter has made much more amusing mutilations of it, accidentally.

If Mr. Thompson and Mr. Swaim or any one else concerned would forsake their rooms to journey over to the squalor and primitive conditions of Miller Hall, I would be glad to discuss the matter at length with them.

Finally, whereas: (1) my letter contained no charges against anyone, (2) the idea of merger has been temporarily at least terminated by an SP resolution (which I had not heard of before) not to continue negotiations for a merger, (3) I assume that the DTH staff and student body has now heard both sides of the question and would like to see the space used for something more constructive, and (4) an argument of the type these and any one else, who wishes to gentlemen seem to want can be discuss this letter or its fore-runexecuted more rapidly, more ef- ner to see me at Miller Hall, or ficiently and more logically in elsewhere. I should like to dispersonal discussion; I therefore cuss the matter with them. welcome and urge these writers

Erie Cofield



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZL

ACROSS

1—To mature
4—Quarrel
8—Edge of roof
12—Equality
13—Pottery
14—Cain's brother
15—To form an opinion
17—Things to shoot at
19—To strip
21—Beer ingredient
22—Little valley
24—To chart again
27—Lengthy
30—Quantity of medicine
32—High note
33—Away from wind
34—Sea bird
35—Was aware of
36—Sister (coll.)
37—City in Pennsylvania
38—The sweetsop
39—Carved pole
41—To leak slowly
43—To praise
45—Little wave
49—Kind of swimming kick
52—Ventured
53—To sharpen
54—To run
56—A number
57—Seeds
58—To grimace
59—Barrie hero

DOWN

1—Having no fee.
2—To yawn
3—Ireland
4—Man from Stockholm
5—Father (coll.)
6—Artifice
7—Athletic group
8—Our national bird
9—Assistance
10—Ex-GI
11—Raised railway
16—To poke with elbow
18—Unusual
20—Older
23—Lemur
25—Away from wind
26—Animals' feet
27—To endure
28—Mixture
29—Baby bird
31—To mock at
35—Greek letter
37—Flightless birds
40—Comforts
42—Downy duck
44—Girl's plaything
46—Support
47—River in Siberia
48—Biblical garden
49—Procaum
50—Tooth on wheel
51—Fish eggs
55—Seventeenth Hebrew letter

Tar Heels Edge By Wolfpack On Links; Defeat Davidson In Baseball, 6-2

Back Tracking In Sports

with

Morty Schaap

Blue and White

THOUGH THE FOOTBALL season is still some five months away Chapel Hill will be the site of one of the toughest gridiron contests of a season. The game is the third annual Blue-White classic that is sponsored by the University Monogram club for Kenan stadium at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon May 1.

The squad has been split and another game of the caliber of last year is expected. For those who have short memories, last year's game was won by the White club, 7-6. The difference was an extra point kicked by a gentleman named Bob Cox. The irony of the situation was that Cox was not even listed on the program as he was a member of the golf squad. He came into the game under the name of Manning and the PA system wasn't even informed.

The game last year was a rugged battle with two tremendous lines consistently smearing the backs and making the game an almost carbon copy of the opening game with Georgia last fall.

This year the many questions that have been in the back of the minds of most North Carolina football fans may well be answered. Will Billy Hayes make the conversion to a fullback successfully, will big Chan Highsmith be able to comeback at tackle, how will Howard Horton do after a year's layoff, will Joe Romano be able to hold a tackle spot? These and many more questions will be answered come 4 o'clock Saturday.

The Monogram club ran into several difficulties in staging the game this season, mainly a conflict with a scheduled campus concert by Tex Beneke. However, Tex agreed to move the concert back to 4 o'clock. The lettermen's organization have also sponsored the first organization of card stunts, east of Tennessee, for this game with Norm Sper, newly elected Head Cheerleader, fronting the display. Not only will Sper unveil a card system, but also his new cheering squad. Dr. Slocum will have the University band on hand to make the game complete with all the trimmings.

Also at half time the Monogram club will make the presentation of the trophies to the Coach of the Year and the Assistant or Jayvee coach of the year. These awards are based on contribution to Carolina athletics for the past year. Sponsors for the game have also been picked and they will be introduce at the halfway point.

Behind the Scenes

President Bill Pritchard of the Monogrammers is the man who originated the idea of the Blue-White game and his first game was in 1946. Last year Jim Camp and his committees put on a fine contest with all the fans leaving the stadium well satisfied. This game does not come under the title of exhibition, as each man on the gridiron is doing his best in trying to prove himself a member of the 1948 football machine. The game is a cumilation of five weeks of rough and tough competition with all hands being in top physical condition. The contest will be rough and tough, as that is the way Coach Snavely likes his scrimmages — his boys give nor ask any quarter. They are out there to win and play hard football.

But the football players are not the only ones that have put time in on the contest. Mike Morrow and his committee started selling tickets on the campus. They are priced at 50 cents for students and their dates with general admission ducats going at $1.00. Jess Greenbaum and his group are working on refreshments to take care of a thirsty crowd. A 16-page souvenir program has been printed with only two pages of advertising and will sell at fifteen cents. Bob Elliott has the unenviable job along with his committee of acting as ushers and gatekeepers. Len Szafaryn, Al Winn and Gus Johnston are in charge of half-time activities. All in all the game should be a bangup football game with two big lines operating in front and two fast backfields ready to show their ability.

Last year a crowd of some 7,000 were on hand and the club this year would like to double the figure. For those students that take part in the card stunts, arrangements have been made to film them in technicolor and then show them later in the week.

The game will mark the climax to the biggest year that the Monogram club has ever had. The group finally took its rightful place on the campus and has fulfilled its motto, "Service to the Campus."

Notes on the Game

Last year's coaching winners were Tennis Mentor Kenfield in the varsity race and "Chief" Gill in the assistants class . . . the stars of last year's game, Fred Bauer and Bob Kennedy, never did hit their full stride in regular season . . . Auburn drew some 20,000 fans for their wind-up game . . . 34 lettermen will be out for the Blue-White contest . . . Sid Varney and Bob Cox will be two of the lettermen not engaging in the contest, Varney is backstopping for the baseball team and Cox is using his accuracy on the golf course.

Coach Snavely will again watch the game and let his assistants handle the coaching chores. The two teams split up on Monday and are holding separate practice sessions prior to the game . . . The football squad will be honored by the Monogrammers at a party on May 8. Incidentally, May 8 was the original date for the game but schedule conflicts with other sports made the move . . . Several footballers have been dividing time with track namely, Larry Klosterman and Roscoe Hansen. However, neither of them are speed merchants like Charlie Tatom, the big Texas tackle. Tatom is a member of the spring corps at the Longhorn institution and totes his 205 pounds over the 100-yard course in 9.6. He is a member of the National collegiate 440-meter relay team.

Ward's 69 Paces Locals to Sixth Victory of Year

By Billy Carmichael III

Carolina's smooth-stroking Tar Heel golfers met and disposed of a strong challenge from the linksmen of State college to annex their sixth win of the season, 15 1-2 to 11 1-2, at Hope Valley yesterday.

Weary Harvie Ward, still showing the effects of six straight days of winning golf at Pinehurst last week led the way for the winners with a one-under-par 69. The Tarboro Tartar looked a little overgolfed though he displayed a brilliant collection of wood and iron shots for the afternoon.

The strain of putting was a little too much for Holin' Harvey, for the Tar Heel ace could not seem to handle his "Calamity Jane Jr." putter the way he had in the North-South competition and missed many seemingly short putts for possible birdies.

Lost Weight Shows

As it was, the round was an outstanding one as Ward turned in a card containing 15 pars, two birdies and a bogey on the ninth hole, which is an exceptionally good card for someone who had lost 20 pounds in a week playing golf.

Ward was not the only star for the men of Coach Chuck Erickson. Jack Brantley turned in a creditable 74, which Frank Brooks matched with a similar card. It was the best round of the season for both boys.

The Tar Heels collected six points in the first foursome and four more in the second to make the match score 10-8 in favor of Carolina with the last quartet still to be heard from. But Brooks and Roy McKenzie added another five and a half points to the rally with a second nine spurt and the match was in the Tar Heel golf bag.

The rest of the Tar Heels had performances of at least point-

(See GOLFERS, page 4)

—Makings— In the Majors

By United Press

NATIONAL LEAGUE

New York 7, Philadelphia 1.
WP—Jansen; LP—Simmons.
Boston 3, Brooklyn 2.
WP—Barrett; LP—Barney.
Chicago 7, Cincinnati 2.
WP—McCall; LP—Blackwell.
St. Louis—Pittsburgh, postponed.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

New York 4, Philadelphia 2.
WP—Drews; LP—Coleman.
St. Louis 9, Detroit 8. (11 inn.)
WP—Widmar; LP—Newhouser.
Cleveland-Chicago, postponed.
Boston-Washington in night game.

HOME RUNS

Cooper (Giants); Haas (Phillies); Elliott (Braves); Joost (Athletics); Vico 2, Mayo (Tigers).

Intrasquad Meet

In the absence of an intercollegiate meet for this week, the Carolina track team will stage an intrasquad affair on Feizer field this afternoon as part of the plan for keeping in top condition for the battle with Navy on May 8.

Field events for the meet will get under way at 3:30 and the running half of the program will follow at 3:45. In addition to the members of the team, all ineligible trackmen and intramural winners are also invited to compete.

Coach Dale Ranson has announced that the squad picture will be taken this afternoon during the meet.

Today's Murals

SOFTBALL

4:00—Field 1: Mangum 1 vs. Old West; Field 2: KA 2 vs. Lamb Chi 1; Field 3: Sigma Chi 2 vs. Delta Sig; Field 4: Battlers vs. Graham 2; Field 5: Oakwood Dr. vs. Graham 1; Field 6: Misfits vs. Lewis 2; Field 7: Club H-2-3 vs. Seiler Five; Field 8: Bombers vs. Stacy; Field 9: Alexander 1 vs. Mangum 2.

5:00—Field 1: Stanley Steamers vs. Miller; Field 2: Mud Dobbers vs. Ruffin; Field 3: Alexander 2 vs. Lewis 1; Field 4: Old East vs. Clippers; Field 5: Kap Sig 1 vs. Delt Sig 2; Field 6: DKE 1 vs. TEP 1; Field 7: Phi Gam 2 vs. Phi Delt Chi; Field 8: TEP 2 vs. Kap Sig 2; Field 9: Pi Kap Phi vs. PiKA 1.

TENNIS

4:00—Court 1-3: Zeta Psi 3 vs. Phi Kap 1; Court 4-6: Sig Nu 1 vs. PiKA 3; Court 8-10: Lamb Chi vs. Phi Delt 3.

5:00—Court 1-3: Kap Psi vs. DKE; Court 4-6: Pi Kap Phi vs. KA 1; Court 8-10: Phi Gam 2 vs. Sig Nu 3.

HORSESHOES

4:00—1: Zeta Psi 2 vs. Phi Delt 3: 2: Chi Phi 2 vs. Kap Sig 3.

4:30—1: PiKA 3 vs. Pi Lamb 3: 2: Phi Delt 2 vs. TEP.

5:00—1: Kap Psi vs. Phi Kap 3: 2: KA 2 vs. Sigma Chi 2.

5:30—1: Sigma Nu 3 vs. St. Anthony; 2: Bate 1 vs. Pi Lamb 1.

RIFLE FIRING

4:00—ZBT vs. Sigma Chi.
7:30—Mud Dobbers vs. Graham.

Whid Powell's
COLONIAL HOUSE SYSTEM
WAFFLES
GRILLED FRANKS
Weekdays
11:00 a. m. — 12 a. m.
Friday & Saturday
11:00 a. m. — 2 a. m.
Rosemary St.—Opp. City Hall

Lineups For Blue-White Fracas Set; Mentors For Game Announced

Rosters of the two teams participating in the Blue-White football game at Kenan stadium this Saturday were announced yesterday and the two teams will continue working as separate units for the annual spring classic.

The two teams should be in top form for the contest after many weeks of spring drills and should provide the spectators wth a thrilling afternoon and a preview of what is on tap for September. Both teams are hoping for a fair day and a dry turf and, if they get their wish, it is expected that the onlookers will be viewing some wide-open football while dressed in summer garb.

Carl Snavely, head football mentor, has delegated the job of coaching the two aggregations to his assistants. Max Reed will be in charge of the Blue eleven and Jim Gill will mastermind the Whites.

Tickets are still being sold in the lobby of the Y and at Lenoir hall by members of the Monogram club. Tickets may also be bought from individual Monogrammers. Tickets for students and their dates are priced at 50 cents, but will jump to 75 cents if bought Saturday before the game. Tickets for the general public will retail at one dollar.

The rosters are:

Blues: Powell, Bauer, Strong, Rubish, Washington, Ray, Fowle, Cospito, Hansen, Flamisch, Horton, Elliott, Culbreth, Wardle, McDonald, Perry, Weant, Knox, Reynolds, Bernot, Highsmith, Neikirk, Sherman, Britt, McLane, Spurlin, Quigley, Maceyko, Purcell, Melvin, Szafaryn, Logue, and Setzer.

Whites: Weiner, Norcross, Stoiff, Kain, Cooke, Bilpuch, Bledsoe, Romano, Marczyk, Lewis, Hayes, Koonts, Brady, Mitten, Fetherolf, Winius, Hartig, Curtis, Carr, Steigman, Holdash, Baise, Clements, Klosterman, Slate, Turnley, Justice, Bunting, McCoy, Hazelwood, Hendrick, and Rywak.

Unbeaten Netters Harbor Thoughts Of Scalping Indians This Weekend

Yesterday's rainstorm delayed the Tar Heels' tennis practice slightly, but when the clouds cleared away the netters resumed preparations for their match with William and Mary this Saturday.

Although all thoughts on the undefeated Carolina team are turned towards the Indians, the locals still have to face Presbyterian college here tomorrow afternoon. W & M is certain to rank as the favorite Saturday, but the locals entertain high hopes of an upset.

Last season the Tar Heels came up to the William and Mary match undefeated, but the Indians dropped Carolina for the only Blue and White defeat of the campaign.

The chances are that Carolina will again face the Indians with an unblemished slate. Coach Kenfield's boys have a record of 15 straight wins already and ought to be able to add to their record tomorrow.

Don Skakle, playing in the number five slot, is currently pacing the Kenfieldmen with 13 consecutive wins. Skakle has another record to defend. In three years at Carolina he has won 33 matches without a loss.

Clark Taylor has the most wins on the club, 14, and only one defeat. That loss came at the hands of Davidson's Bo Roddey in Carolina's last engagement.

Ray Morris and Charlie Rice are the other two Tar Heels to have played in every match thus far this season. Morris has a 13-2 slate while Rice is one behind with 12-3. Morris' losses were to Davidson and Yale.

Vic Seixas and Heath Alexander are tied in the matter of singles records with 11-1. Dick Savitt of Cornell handed Seixas his only defeat of the season.

Sam Daniels has a 4-0 record, while Stan Gruner is 6-2 for the year. Les Dameron, Bert Ingram, and Jim Gallion round out the roster with marks of 2-0, 1-0 and 1-1, respectively.

Fred the Ripper!

Davidson	AB	R	H	O	A
Pearson, ss	5	0	1	2	2
Bird, 3b	5	0	0	1	1
Lambeth, rf	3	0	0	0	0
Shepherd, lf	4	0	1	2	0
Poole, c	4	0	1	6	2
Burris, cf	4	0	1	3	0
Wade, 2b	4	0	0	0	4
Mapes, 1b	4	2	3	10	0
Torrence, p	3	0	1	0	2
Totals	36	2	8	24	11

Carolina	AB	R	H	O	A
Black, cf	4	0	2	3	0
Hayworth, 3b	3	0	1	2	0
Beason, rf	5	0	0	2	0
Kelly, lf	4	1	1	4	0
Hobbs, 1b	2	2	0	4	0
Ryan, ss	4	2	3	5	2
Hamilton, 2b	4	0	0	1	1
Varney, c	4	1	1	6	0
Blair, p	4	0	1	0	2
Totals	34	6	9	27	5

Score by innings:

Davidson	000	010	100—2
Carolina	030	020	10x—6

Summary: Errors—Pearson, Bird, Torrence, Hayworth 2. Hobbs, Ryan. Runs batted-in—Pearson, Black, Ryan 2, Varney 2. Two base hits—Ryan 2. Three base hit—Ryan. Left on base—Davidson 8, Carolina 10. Base on balls—Torrence 4, Blair 1. Strikeouts—Torrence 8, Blair 5. Umpires—Powell, Southard. Time of game—2:25.

Local Lassies Third In Duke Sports Day

Carolina coeds placed third in the Duke university sports day Saturday to finish behind Woman's college and Duke.

The Chapel Hill entry, one of 10 schools in the carnival, participated in three events — tennis, softball and swimming.

The softball squad reached the semifinals as did the doubles combination in the net competition. The solo raquet wielder was eliminated in the finals.

In yesterday's softball, Pi Phi really went to town against CICA pitching to tally 16 runs and collect a 16-9 victory. Chris White did the pitching for the winners and Scotty Dellenger was the victim of the potent Pi Phi slugging.

Blair Pitches Win For Carolina Nine In Conference Tilt

By Dick Jenrette

Ray Blair, hard-working Carolina righthander, effectively scattered eight hits yesterday in pitching his Tar Heel mates to a 6-2 triumph over Davidson's Wildcats in a Southern conference tilt on Emerson field.

The victory was the seventh in eight starts for the Tar Heels in the Southern circuit and enabled them to pull into a tie with Washington and Lee for leadership of the league. Carolina's next opponent will be N. C. State, which plays here on Thursday.

In recording his second triumph without defeat, Blair displayed near perfect control, walking only one batter. He struck out five. His performance was particularly gratifying to the Carolina coaching staff of Bunn Hearn and Walt Rabb. The two top Tar Heel hurlers—Vinnie DiLorenzo and Frank Robinson—failed to go the route in their last two starts, but Blair's work yesterday indicated that he will be of considerable assistance as the team moves toward the homestretch of the Big Four and Southern title races.

Ryan Shows Way

Fred (Rip) Ryan, scrappy shortstop for Trenton, N. J., provided most of the batting fireworks for the Tar Heels. He slapped out two doubles and a triple, the latter blow sailing to the foot of the hedge 400 feet away in left field.

It was Ryan's first double, with Will Hobbs on first by virtue of a walk, that set the stage for a three-run Carolina splurge in the second inning. Hobbs pulled up at third on the hit. Jim Hamilton popped out to shortstop for the first out of the inning, but Catcher Sid Varney hit a very slow bounder down first which brought in Hobbs. Varney was safe at first and Ryan scored when Davidson pitcher Charlton Torrence threw wildly past first in a vain attempt to retire Varney. Kenny Black's line drive single to right a few minutes later scored Varney with the third run. Jim Hayworth also managed a single during this frame, but Harry Beason was called out on strikes for the third out.

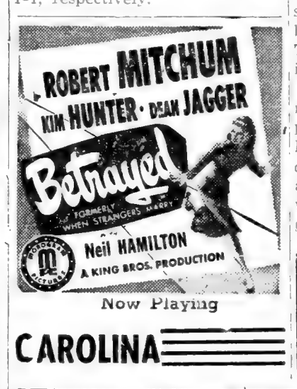
Davidson picked up a single run in the fifth on Hal Mapes' single and Hayworth's bad throw to first on Bill Bird's grounder. Mapes came all the way home

(See BASEBALL, page 4)

HANDBALL TRYOUTS

All men interested in playing handball for the University team in the Big Four sports day to be held at Duke university May 6 can try out for the team this afternoon. Players should report to Don Nelson at the handball courts near the track at 4 o'clock.

Nothing So New



8.95

JACQUES KREISLER'S Circlette* WATCH BRACELET WITH THE SCULPTURED-CURVE

Nothing so thrilling as Circlette's 3-dimensional beauty . . . gives your watch that "precious jewelry" look. Seven styles in colors to match your watch, some set with simulated gems!

ENDURING KREISLER QUALITY
some in 14 Kt. gold ct . . . 49.50
ALL PRICES INCL. FED. TAX
EASY CREDIT TERMS
*Trademark

Wentworth and Sloan
Telephone F-2732
167 East Franklin Street

Now Playing
CAROLINA

REHDERS
CHAPEL HILL FLOWER SHOP
Opposite Post Office Corner

Enter Our University Lake Fishing Contest!
JUST RECEIVED —
Complete Line of
FISHING TACKLE

Jitterbugs
Johnson Silver Minnows
Sputter Fuss
Hula Spinner
Miracle Midget
O'Skipper Wobblers
Broken-Back Pikes
Hula Dancers

1-in. Hawaii Wigglers
1½-in. Hawaii Wigglers
2-in. Hawaii Wigglers

Minnow seines
Minnow buckets
25 varieties of bass and crappie flies
Casting rods and reels
Fly rods and reels

Any Fishing Supplies

You get a Better Buy at a
BLACKWOOD ASSOCIATE STORE
312 West Franklin Street
CHAPEL HILL

The big dance —the one girl —and a lovely corsage — A perfect setting for the Blue & White weekend and the Tex Beneke dances.

UNIVERSITY FLORIST
Pich Theater Building

SUMMER FORMAL CLOTHES
AND ACCESSORIES
For
BLUE & WHITE WEEKEND

All sizes in stock now
Don't wait until the last minute—
Get Yours NOW at

Jack Lipman's
—ACCESSORIES—
Gold Studs and Cuff Links
Pearl Stud and Cuff Links
Maroon Ties and Handkerchiefs
Black Patent Leather Shoes
Formal Dress Shirts

Hardin Craig Delivers Talk To Y Cabinet

Noted Speaker Says Studious Students Overtake Ability

By Virginia Forward

"The studious student overtakes the student with ability," said Dr. Hardin Craig Monday night, speaking to the YWCA cabinet on the subject "A Good Life in College."

Dr. Craig pointed out that studiousness is the academic purpose of a university student, adding that studiousness did not involve working all the time, but working wisely.

"Brain skill is the master skill to be acquired while in college," Dr. Craig said, "and the student who fails to cultivate this skill because of self conceit will not likely reform into a more useful citizen later."

Dr. Craig continued with a theory of conduct which he asked the members of the cabinet to "think about."

"I used to wonder why religious students were often despised as prigs," he said. Dr. Craig explained that he first thought it was because other students were jealous, but later he decided that religious students had themselves to blame for their unpopularity because they used the wrong tactics.

The well-known speaker illustrated his point by quoting from Milton. "There are certain duties you owe to yourself," he said, "and you should not expect acclaim and honor for things you do that you owe to yourself."

Dr. Craig told the group, "You can do nothing to cultivate good qualities in others except by the example you present. It is in possessing the qualities which enable you to fulfill your duties to your neighbors—meekness, placability, and honor—that you become a leader. If you are genuine in the practice of these things, then popularity comes automatically. You can proclaim your virtues to the world if you are sincere," he concluded.

Business taken up at the second meeting of the new YWCA cabinet included the planning of the "Y" orientation booklet and discussion of the fall retreat and pre-school conference. The next regular cabinet meeting is scheduled for Monday at 4 o'clock.

Faculty Members Will Go to Pensacola For Regional Familiarization Program

Four representatives from the University will attend the "regional program of Familiarization" in Pensacola, Fla., today through Friday. Those representing the University are Dr. Oliver K. Cromwell; Dr. A. W. Hobbs, chairman pro tem of the faculty; M. A. Hill, associate dean of General College; and C. P. Spruill, dean of General College.

To introduce college personnel to the Naval Aviation College Program so as to make them better qualified to talk with prospective NACP students is the purpose of this regional program. These men will learn what the actual training program is.

Those attending the Pensacola meeting will visit classes, and get the inside dope on practice work, including the operation of a new carrier.

There is a slight change in the NACP this year, in that all flight training will be centralized in Pensacola, and not in various stations throughout the country. NACP students finish their sophomore year, and then proceed to Pensacola to take their flight training. After pre-aviation and final-aviation training these students go on duty with the fleet. Those wishing to return to school for graduation after serving duty with the fleet are eligible for two more years in school. The Naval Aviation College Program was set up at the University last year.

The group from here will attend the regional program with the New England representatives. The four representatives from the University were to attend the program last February, but their plane was grounded. A Navy plane will pack up the University group in Durham today.

Chamber Music Show Scheduled Saturday In Hill Music Hall

The first of a series of two informal chamber music programs will be given Saturday at 7:30 in Hill Music hall, by members of the Music department staff. The purpose of these programs is to bring before interested listeners a number of the great chamber music masterpieces which are seldom heard here. It is emphasized that the programs are to be regarded as informal readings of the compositions.

The first performance will be varied, consisting of the Beethoven Piano Quartet, the Brahms Trio Opus 8, and the Schubert Quintet in C major. Those taking part will be Emily Porter, Edgar Alden, Dorothy Alden, Willis Gates, Herbert Livingston, Mary Louise Emery, and Dr. Ernest Peschel of Duke University.

The public is cordially invited.

Campus Calendar

3:15 p. m.—Student Government cabinet, Grail room.

4:30 p. m.—C. C. U. N. state executive staff and executive staff of the Carolina chapter; C. C. U. N. Faculty and Student Advisory Boards, C. C. U. N. office, Graham Memorial.

5:00 p. m.—Campus party, Roland Parker lounge No. 2.

5:00 p. m.—Chi Delta Phi, Grail room.

7:30 p. m.—Pi Kappa Phi, Roland Parker lounge No. 1.

8:00 p. m.—Pharmacy Wives bridge, Roland Parker lounge No. 2.

LI'L ABNER By AL CAPP

Cheese Blintzes Today — at HARRY'S

Arab Troops Surrounding Palestine Massing for Invasion of Holy Land

Jerusalem, April 27 — (UP) — The resources of the five Arab nations surrounding Palestine have been geared for battle. Troops from Trans-Jordan, Iraq, Syria, Lebanon, and Egypt were massed tonight for an invation of the Holy Land which may come at any time.

Reports that Arab troops have already crossed the border were constantly flashing among the Arab capitals, but each of the reports was denied.

From Bagdad, Iraq, it was reported that 2,000 men equipped with planes, artillery, and tanks are on the way to join King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan, who heads the Arab troops.

The British government in London announced that its troops in Palestine would resist any organized Arab invasion until the British troops withdraw May 15.

In the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv, the Arabs went down to a stinging defeat. They raided a Jewish settlement and set fire to the trees in an effort to force the residents to flee. The trees, however, were filled with beehives, and the angry bees powerdived, forcing the Arabs to flee in disorder.

-Baseball-

(continued from page 3)

on the error.

Two more Tar Heel tallies in the fifth gave Pitcher Blair a comfortable working margin. Once again it was Ryan that led the assault. Jim Kelly singled to center and Hobbs reached first on error to place runners on first and second. And Ryan promptly unloaded a tremendous triple over the leftfielders's head to score Kelly and Hobbs.

Both teams matched single runs in the seventh. Mapes' one-baser, his third of the day; Pitcher Torrence's single, an error, and Pearson's long fly to center produced the Davidson marker. The Tar Heels picked up their final run on Ryan's second double and Varney's hard single to right.

Charlie Gibson of State, matching strokes with Ward, was the low man for the visitors with a 36-36—72.

-Golfers-

(continued from page 3)

winning value. Bob Cox had a 76 which will usually score rather well, but his opponent for the day, Weston Dixon of the Wolfpack, had a 74 which proved to be better. Roy McKenzie had a 78 for the locals, while Harvey Oliver had one of those days to soar to an 80.

The summary:

Ward (C) defeated Gibson, 3-0. Bracket (S) defeated Oliver, 2-1 Best ball to Carolina, 2-1.

Dixon (S) defeated Cox, 2 1-2—1-2. Saenz (S) defeated Brantley, 2-1. Best ball to Carolina, 2 1-2—1-2.

Turnbull (S) defeated McKenzie. 2-1. Brooks (C) defeated Dearstyne. 2 1-2—1-2. Best ball to Carolina. 2-1.

CABINET MEETING

Student Body President Jess Dedmond announced that the first meeting of the coalition cabinet will be held this afternoon at 3:15 in the Grail room.

HOUSING NOTICE

One of the new dormitories will be used to house graduate men beginning in September, 1948. All present graduate men and students who will be in graduate school in September, 1948, are urged to contact the housing office, 22 New East annex, regarding space in the new graduate dormitory.

This is not meant to discourage graduate men from living in other dormitories. However, it is hoped that the new dormitory can be filled with graduate men.

Ridgeway's
OPTICIANS
Complete Eyeglass Service
Prompt attention to all mail orders
PROFESSIONAL BUILDING
Raleigh N. C.

VILLAGE THUR IN SPANISH ENGLISH TITLES

One Hour for Lunch!
Enjoy Our Tempting Meals and Speedy Service
Open 6.30 A.M. to 7 P.M. except Sundays
Carrboro Cafeteria

An Invitation To Relaxation
Featuring
POPULAR ORCHESTRAS
For Your Wednesday Night Dancing
No Cover Charge — Open During Afternoons
THE SADDLE CLUB
PHONE X-1279
HILLSBORO ROAD - - - - - DURHAM

HISTORY'S MOST INFAMOUS FAMILY!
"GUILTY OF LOVING NOT WISELY BUT TOO MANY."—N.Y. TIMES
★★★ Prize French Film"—Daily News
LUCREZIA BORGIA
(ENGLISH-DIALOGUE TITLES)
TODAY
VILLAGE

You'll get excited too once you've tried Sanitone for your clothes. More dirt is removed than with ordinary methods. Dingy colors are made fresh and bright. Spots disappear like magic. You get a better, longer lasting press. And there is no trace of unpleasant dry cleaning odor. Try Sanitone today.
UNIVERSITY CLEANERS
Opposite the Post Office
Phone 4921

READ THE CLASSIFIEDS AND SAVE

FOR RENT 6A

FURNISHED BEDROOMS AND PRIVATE BATH for summer or permanently; in beautiful country home 3 miles from town. Ideal surroundings. Call F-3236. (3 students preferred). (1-271-1)

PRACTICALLY NEW HOUSE TRAILER Sleeps four. Refrigerator, stove. Can be seen at 27 Rogerson Drive, Hill Homes Development. (ch 1x1)

FOR SALE 6B

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogers Drive. Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogers Drive. Telephone F-2906. (ch 1x1)

18 FOOT TRAILER WITH SCREENED-in porch. Available in June. Good condition. Moderate price. Lot 59, Trailer Court. Joe Corpening, Phone 9032. (1-270-1)

27 FOOT HOUSE TRAILER, 82 PITTSboro Road Trailer Court. Inquire between 5:00 and 6:00 p. m. (1-154-1)

27 FOOT LA SALLE HOUSE TRAILER in good condition. Ideal location. Inquire at No. 26 University Trailer Court. (1-269-1)

18 FT. TRAILER—GOOD CONDITION —Must sell. $650. See after 5:00 PM. No. 55B Pittsboro Road Trailer Camp. (1-276-1)

ONE NEW FIVE ROOM HOUSE IN Pittsboro. Call 2081 in Pittsboro between 8:00 AM and 3:00 PM. (1-2275-1)

SET OF TAILS—SIZE 38 LONG. EXcellent condition. Inquire at 112 Graham. (1-283-1)

HARLEY-DAVIDSON MOTORCYCLE in good condition. New paint job last fall. Priced for quick sale. Call F-3872. (1-280-1)

22x8 FOOT HOUSE TRAILER. SIX windows, 2 large closets. Sleeps three. Priced to sell. Call 8726 or come to Construction Office, New Dormitory Project. (1-c288-1)

NEW A. B. APARTMENT HOUSE stove. Still crated. Regular price uptown $129.00. Will sell for $117.00—price paid for it six months ago. Call 5346. (1-287-1)

FOR SALE AUTOMOTIVE 6BB

1934 CHERVOLET CONVERTIBLE coup. Recent motor overhaul, cleaned radiator, good brakes. Good running shape. Not bad looking. Reasonably priced. At Texaco station. Walt Arnold, 218 Stacy. (1-267-1)

1935 DODGE SEDAN IN GOOD RUNning condition. 110 Johnson St., Victory Village. (1-284-1)

FORD COUPE 1936, MERCURY MOTOR, reasonably priced. Can be seen at University Service Station. Or call F-2851. (1-286-1)

LOST 12

ONE PAIR OF LADY'S BROWN TORtoise shell glasses—near Delta Sigma Pi house on Pittsboro Street. Finder please contact Mrs. G. H. Cockerham, 136 Daniels Road. (1-282-1)

PAIR OF GLASSES NOT IN CASE between Miller Hall and Carolina Theater Friday night. Please contact George Valentine, Miller Hall. (1-285-1)

SERVICES OFFERED 19

ORDER YOUR TAILORED-TO-measure summer suits now. Excellent selection of all wool tropicals and gabardines. Prices $39.75 up-delivered C. O. D. to you within twenty-one days or at any specified time. Orders taken for slacks, sport coats, suits, topcoats. Call Walker Pruitt, 8211, or write Box 51 Chapel Hill. (1-278-2)

FOR THAT BIG WEEKEND—
Remember to See Us.
TAR HEEL BARBER SHOP
BENEATH LEDBETTER-PICKARD

Put Yourself in This Picture!
You can be a Stewardess if you have a sparkling personality and attractive appearance, are single, between 21 and 28, 5' 2" to 5' 6", under 125 lbs., in good physical condition and don't need glasses. Graduates preferred.
Four-week training program at company expense. Starting salary after training, $175 with periodic increases. Expenses paid while away from home base.
Write AMERICAN AIRLINES Personnel Manager at one of these offices for interview: NEW YORK — 100 East 42 Street; CHICAGO — 52-45 West 55 Street, Chicago Municipal Airport; FORT WORTH — Meacham Field; LOS ANGELES — 5910 Avion Drive, Los Angeles Municipal Airport.
AMERICAN AIRLINES

Fine Watches Need Excellent Care . . .
A Complete Watch Repair Service at—
BLACKWOOD ASSOCIATE STORE

FLOWERS for Every Occasion
Every order of flowers dew-fresh, and arrangements artistically designed.
WEST-WILLIAMS FLOWER SHOP
POST OFFICE BUILDING PHONE 9306
Carrboro

They're Light!
They're Cool!
The Sport Shirts
Styled by Norris for Summer smartness and comfort, and short sleeves. Handsome Cottons and rayons — long colors.
2.45 to 6.50
The Slacks
All wool gabardines . . . all wool Bedford cords . . . Bur-Mil quality rayons. Choice colors.
9.50 to 17.95
Baldwin's
Saddle Shoes by SPALDING
Black and white . . . brown and white. The college man's most popular shoes. Spalding exclusively in Durham at Baldwin's.
10.95
★ Men's Shop . . . Baldwin's First Floor

LIBRARY (Periodical Dept)
University of North Carolina
Chapel Hill, N. C.
1-31-48

WEATHER
Partly cloudy, windy and cooler.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
Adrenalin Might Help
Must Someone Die?
Budget Boys to the Rescue

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., THURSDAY, APRIL 29, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | 153

Tenney Is Given SP Chairmanship

The Student party has elected Ed Tenney, rising junior from Chapel Hill, to replace Gran Childress as chairman of the party.

Tenney is an accounting major and a member of the Coalition cabinet. He served as Marine Corps sergeant for six years.

Lindsay Tate from Charlotte was elected to serve as vice-chairman for the coming year. She replaced Bill Swaim.

A rising senior, she is a member of the Tarnation business staff and the Stray Greeks. She is a transfer from Randolph-Macon college in Lynchburg, Va.

The SP also elected Emily Baker, rising junior from Asheville, as party secretary, replacing Iris Bost. She is speaker pro tempore of the Coed Senate, critic of the Phi Assembly, member of the DTH news staff, representative to the State Student Legislature, member of the YWCA cabinet and participates in inter-collegiate and intramural debating. She is also a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

Teenney announced yesterday that a caucus of SP legislators will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in Graham Memorial. The party will meet next Monday night at 9 o'clock in Roland Parker lounge at which time other party officers will be elected.

DR. COY W. WALLER, distinguished scientist and research pharmaceutical chemist at the Lederle laboratories, will speak on "The Folic Acids and Their Antagonists" in Howell hall at the University of North Carolina Thursday night, April 29, at 7:30.

Abandoning Sentence Aids Race With Stork

Newton, April 28 —(UP)— A trial in recorder's court at Newton today was suddenly interrupted so that another trial, an emergency, could be heard.

Sheriff Ray Pitts rushed into the courtroom and whispered to he judge. Immediately the judge postponed the trial in progress.

He was ordered to pay $50 right then for his wife's care. Pitts explained that Gaither's wife was out in the hall waiting for word on the trial. She needed the money for hospital expenses in a race with the stork, right away.

Dr. Fesler Attends Michigan Conference

Dr. James W. Fesler, professor of political science and research professor in the Institute for Research in Social Science, is one of twenty political scientists in the nation who were brought together at Ann Arbor, Michigan for a three day conference April 24-26 with members of the Commission on the Organization of the Executive Branch of the Government.

The commission is headed by Herbert Hoover, and consists of twelve members appointed by President Truman.

Dormitory Rooms Now Open for 25 Students

These students are now eligible for dormitory rooms. If they do not contact the housing office by Monday their deposits will be refunded and their applications cancelled:

Allen, Frontis Clyde, Barnett, Robert David, Bell, Jr., Robert Samuel, Bennett, Jr., George Lemuel, Boyles, Paul Weldon, ampbell, Thomas K., Cameron, William M., Cliff, Rupert Hoke, kburn, William A., Dickson, mes T., Daughtridge, Vernon tcher, Duke, William Benjam- Gurley, H. F., Hamilton, rry H., Harrell, William Nor- od, Harris, Albert David, rnigan, William T., Leary, Sam Jr., Mason, Jr., Claude W., Monsour, Solomon Michael erson, Glenn H., Post, Samuel hapin, Ross, Bobby Hunter, ndall, Hubert Durwood, Young, gh Douglas.

Beneke To Set Off Spring Germans Tomorrow; Senior Class Signs Gene Krupa For Annual Prom

To Appear May 15 For Concert, Dance Sponsored by Class

Gene Krupa, the bandleader with the heart-beat, will appear here on Saturday, May 15, for a public concert in the afternoon and will provide music for the annual Senior Prom that night.

Krupa's appearance was announced at Tuesday night's meeting of the Senior class by Bill Tate, vice-president of the class, who handled the booking.

Big Name Band

In speaking of the arrangements for the dance, Tate said, "The aim of the steering committee has been to give the seniors a big going-away dance with a big name band. That goal is within reach, but support of each senior is essential. Before free dance bids can be given out we must meet our expenses, and the only way we can do that is to have a sellout for the concert. We hope the entire student body will support the concert."

Tickets for the concert will go on sale Monday for seniors only in the Y lobby from 9 until 3:15 every day. The tickets will be sold to members of the other classes starting Wednesday. They sell for 75 cents each.

Alumni Secretary

Also at the meeting, J. Maryon Saunders, alumni secretary, discussed the Alumni association and the part the class and individual alumnus plays after graduation.

Saunders pointed out that there are 35,000 living alumni of the University, with the oldest dating back to 1878. Half of the living alumni have graduated since 1935.

Earl Fitzgerald, chairman of the Debate council, told the group about the Willie P. Mangum medal in oratory which will be offered to seniors again this year for the first time since 1941.

Another meeting of the class is slated for next week.

TEX BENEKE, right, and his 35 piece Glenn Miller orchestra, will appear here tomorrow night to furnish music for the first dance in the Spring German series. He will play a concert Saturday afternoon and another dance Saturday night. Gene Krupa, left, will appear here for one dance and a concert on Saturday, May 15. His appearance will be the final activity in the Senior Week schedule.

Quartet, Vocalist Are Being Featured With 35 Piece Band

Tex Beneke and his thirty-six piece Glenn Miller orchestra will be here tomorrow night to get the German club spring weekend underway.

The series will be jam-packed with activities, including a concert Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock and the final dance Saturday night.

Deauville Featured

Featured with the Beneke band will be Ronny Deauville, vocalist, and the "Moonlight Serenaders." The band personnel comprises five saxophones, four trombones, four trumpets, a French horn, violins, two violas, and a cello.

Beneke is now the nation's undisputed dance orchestra leader, according to the outstanding authorities in the field and the nation's leading critics.

Flying Band

Boasting 35 ex-servicemen, the band is virtually the same as that led by Major Glenn Miller. The band which was known to millions of GIs in the European Theater of Operations as the "Army Air Forces Flying Band," compiled more than 500 hours in the air.

During the band's tenure in the Air Corps, it toured eleven countries in Europe and played before more than 2,000,000 troops in combat areas and behind the lines. Currently, Beneke is sponsored by the Army Air Forces, and his shows are carried over the Mutual network.

"Missing"

Beneke, who is Glenn Miller's discovery, is now directing the band Miller would have led were it not for the fact that he was "missing in flight" while flying from London to Paris for his Army Air Forces orchestra. The band still keeps Glenn Miller's trombone somewhere backstage, oiled and shined, but it is seldom played and never displayed on the bandstand.

Each man in the orchestra has earned the ETO ribbon with one bronze battle star, the Unit Citation badge given them by General Eisenhower, the Eastern Service medal, the American Theatre ribbon, the World War II Victory medal with Star and the Good Conduct medal.

Famous American stars who made guest appearances with the orchestra in Europe include Bing Crosby, after appearing with the Miller band on a radio broadcast in London, which was radioed to the Allied Forces on the continent, said, "This band is the greatest since the invention of cupped mutes."

Earl Fitzgerald Is Re-Elected Chairman New Debate Council

Earl Fitzgerald, rising junior from Pelham, has been re-elected chairman of the Debate council for the coming year.

Other officers of the council are Blanton Miller, vice-president and Jim Taylor, executive secretary.

Fitzgerald has released a tentative program for next years's activities of the council. The program includes an intramural debate tournament. and sponsorship of the Willie P. Mangum Medal in oratory.

Other members of next year's council are Marcellus Buchanan III; Pete Gerns, Phi representative; Merle Stevens, Di representative; and Gerald Barrett and Clyde Carter, faculty advisors.

YMCA Installs New Officers At Banquet Held Monday Night

Pete Burks, Sam Magill, and Ed Strain officially became president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer respectively of the Young Men's Christian association Monday night. The installation ceremony took place at the Carolina Inn following a YMCA banquet attended by 47 students and others connected with the University.

At the same time 22 members of the new YM cabinet were installed by Chancellor R. B. House, who administered the oath of office.

Dean of Men Fred Weaver made the main address of the evening, charging the new officers to become real leaders on the campus rather than leaders in name only. Other speakers were Warren Ashby of the philosophy department and Jess Dedmond, president of the student body.

In his inaugural speech, Burks reviewed accomplishments of the Y during the year. These included work with the World Student Service Fund drive, the clothing drive, Religion in Life week and arranging the Natural Bridge conference in February.

During the year just starting the Y plans to reach students more directly, Burks said. It plans include discussion groups in dormitories and fraternities, and co-operation with student government in arranging freshman chapels.

Following Burk's talk, vice-president Magill introduced new members of the Y Advisory board, Miss Nelle Morton, Mrs. Agatha Adams and Dean Weaver. Magill thanked Dean of Men Ernest Mackie for his work on the board last year.

Members of the newly-installed cabinet are: Charles Bartlett, Charles Britt, John Brockman, Bill Brown, John Burwell, Bill Craft, Allen Davis, McNeer Dillon, George Dunlap, Charles Foley, Charles Fox, Jack Grant, Bob Goodman, Frank Hooper, John Hough, V. L. James, Smitty Lineberger, Clarence McClain, A. C. Mangum, Coye Rogers, Bill Sessions, Gene Turner, Fred Thompson, and Doug Smith.

New cabinet members who were not present are Ken Wallenborn, George Grizzard, Charlie Gibson and Ed McLeod.

Others attending the banquet were Claude Shotts, Betty Rose Dowden, Betty Long, Mary Ann Daniel, Jim Godwin, Ed Joyner, Betsy Huggins, Ira Antin, Robert Payne, Tag Montague, Bob Eagle, Bill Powell and Don Broad.

MAY MAG NOTICE

Carolina Magazine Literary Editor, Bill Sessions, requests that all material for the May issue be submitted as soon as possible.

Broughton Says N. C. Ports Are Big Factors

Raleigh, April 28 — (UP) — Former Governor J. Melville Broughton says the ports and waterways of North Carolina will become one of the big factors in the national security program.

The candidate for senator, speaking at Jacksonville, says coastal North Carolina, in the national program of preparadness, will occupy the same important position it did in World War II.

First UP Hearings On Redistricting Slated for Today

First committee hearing on the University party redistricting bill will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Graham Memorial, according to Joe Leary, chairman of the Elections committee.

Coed views on the bill will be heard at 3 o'clock and Campus party, Student party, and University party representatives will appear before the committee at 4 o'clock.

According to coed representatives, the new redistricting proposal will reduce coed representation in the legislature from the town girls' district. They are also asking for more equal appropriationment of legislature seats among the girls' dormitories.

Leary announced yesterday that the committee will hold an open hearing and requested that all persons interested in coed affairs appear before the committee at 3 o'clock, and those interested in men's town and dormitory districts appear at 4.

The Elections committee will make the final decision of the bill Tuesday and draft the measure as it is to be presented to the Legislature.

Phi Assembly Passes Legislation Favoring Compulsory Arbitration in Labor Disputes

The Phi Assembly by a 13-5 vote passed a bill favoring federal government compulsory arbitration in all basic American industries in their Tuesday night meeting.

A vote taken of the ehtire delegation showed a 15-10 majority in favor of the bill.

Douglas Carter, speaking in favor of the bill, said that "Our national government cannot tolerate strikes in national industries. Communists are content to use the weapon of strikes, as was shown in the recent transportation paralysis of New York city, to endanger our political stability."

Lester Sneed declared "Waste caused by stubborn labor factions is tremendous." Herbert Yates stated that he believed that "the country should be prepared for any crucial moment." Another argument brought out was that now the wartime powers of the president are ended and strikes are continuing to be a threat with no solution.

Leading the opposition against the bill, Charles Dixon said, "A mature development in relation to labor does not exist in the United States today. This bill would not be a wise move until a national emergency. A purpose of the labor movement is to bring about cooperation. Compulsion would kill the laborers' quest of cooperation."

Four new members initiated into the assembly last night were: W. S. Benbow, Winston-Salem; Robert Parham, Henderson; Hayden Lutterloh, Sanford; and John Borum, High Point.

George Rodman was installed as parliamentarian for the remainder of this quarter.

In a meeting of the Executive committee held immediately after the regular session, a bill was passed changing the meeting time from 7:30 to 8 o'clock.

A resolution was unanimously passed by the assembly to send the regrets of the Phi assembly to the family of Elaine Patton, a former member.

Dr. Lorin C. MacKinney Gives 12th Faculty Humanities Talk

"History is a stream which started back in the Roman empire, moved slowly through the Middle Ages until about 1000, when it began to widen, and broke out into a new tributary about 1300 with the revival of the classics."

Dr. Lorin C. MacKinney of the University History department, delivering the 12th in a series of Faculty Humanities lectures here Tuesday night expressed this view of history after comparing three approaches to the Rennaissance.

"The revival of the classics quickened the flow of the stream of history and has carried it on down to modern civilization," he said.

This interpretation of history, Dr. MacKinney said, is the "Centrist," or middle ground compromise between the two extreme camps of the so-called "Traditionalist" and "Revisionist" concepts of the Renaissance.

Comparing the "Traditionalist" with the rightist in politics, Dr. MacKinney said this conception accepts the coming of the Renaissance as a complete revival or rebirth of all aspects of life after 1600 following a complete and total change around 1300, brought about by the revival of classical literature.

The "Revisionists," compared with the leftists in modern politics, stress evolution instead of rebirth and hold that the Renaissance was a gradual change brought about chiefly by economic and social developments in Italian and other cities.

Webb Discusses U.S. Expenditures

Describing the conditions surrounding the preparation and current revision of the 1949 United States budget, James E. Webb, director of the Bureau of the Budget, said here last night that "my own best estimate is that expenditures for the European recovery program and increased military costs in 1949 will rise from 18 million dollars to more than 20 billion and will account for nearly 50 per cent of the total budget.

"But that is only the beginning," he declared. "In the fiscal year of 1950 international and national defense expenditures will increase nearly four billion dollars. Thus these two programs, under a projection of estimated minimum requirements, may rise to nearly 24 billion dollars in 1950. And this is not the end! Much of the new program now under consideration is in the form of contract authority for increasing aricraft procurement, and will result in another substantial increase in 1951."

Military to a Minimum

These increasing expenditures, Mr. Webb explained, together with a recurring deficit under the new tax laws, "is one of the powerful factors which has led the President to insist on holding military increases to a minimum at this time."

Mr. Webb, a native of Oxford and a graduate of the University of North Carolina in 1928, was invited to speak in Hill hall here tonight by the University School of Commerce. He was introduced to the public audience by President Frank P. Graham. Dean D. D. Carroll of the School of Commerce, presided.

Detailed Account

Giving a detailed account of the workings of the Budget Bureau, its allied agencies, and the role of the President in estimating the budget, Mr. Webb emphasized that the federal budget process, in its entirety, "is perhaps the major institutionalized mechanism through which we, as a nation, agree each year on a comprehensive program for governmental action.

"Through it the facts needed to make Presidential decisions and the facilities needed to synthesize these into a recommended program of positive governmental action are continuously available."

Pointing out that important budgetary decisions most always influence those in the future, Mr. Webb said that three years ago the nation faced a wartime expenditure program of more than 100 billion dollars. "Two years ago we reduced the figure to 63.7 billion, and one year, in 1947, we cut it still further — to 42.5 billion. And the government ended that fiscal year with a small surplus — the first in 17 years — thanks to a tight budgetary policy.

"The same policy for the present fiscal year has reduced expenditures nearly five billion dollars more, to an estimated 37.7 billion and promises to produce a substantial surplus to be used toward retirement of our national debt.

"Unfortunately, estimated expenditures for the coming fiscal year will not continue to show the same decline. Despite our best efforts, expenditures in 1949 are now estimated to rise several billion dollars."

Mr. Webb said the 1949 budget takes in 15.8 billion dollars for total expenditures representing "fixed charges", including including interest on the public debt, veterans' pensions, tax refunds, grants to states for long-term programs, readjustment benefits for veterans, development of natural resources, including atomic energy, flood control and reclamation.

"When we add 18 billion for national defense and for international programs — those programs which largely determine the size of the budget — only 5.9 billion dollars remain for all other activities of the government," he said.

IN A LAST-DITCH EFFORT to stem the bid of Harold E. Stassen for 23 of Ohio's 53 delegates to the Republican National Convention, Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), is pictured addressing 200 party workers in Ashtabula, O. (International)

Old Coed Senate Has Last Session; Cashion Presides

Barbara Cashion presided over he last meeting of the present members of the Coed Senate Tuesday night in Graham Memorial.

The following committee chairmen reported from this year's Senate committees: Venita Sanders, Coed Hour; Jo Butler, Subsidiary Organizations; Joyce Jones, Senate Attendance; Emily Von Borries, Quiz; Lucille Baxter, Dance; Doris Sauls, Budget; and Bootsie McWilliams, Social Rules.

A bill was passed during the evening stating that a coed when leaving the campus for a weekend, must leave her destination in time to return to her dormitory by closing hours.

The next meeting of the newly elected senators will be held at 7 o'clock Tuesday night in the Horace Williams lounge of GM.

Carolina Students Participate in Panels On UN Strengthening, World Federation

Three Carolina students carried the argument for world government to new fields Wednesday night. Dean Matthews, Jake Wicker, and Russell G. Baldwin joined three students from Duke university in presenting two panels on the desirability and means of strengthening the United Nations into a federal world government at Wake Forest and Greensboro colleges.

Dean Matthews and Jake Wicker of Carolina and Ann Litchard of Duke journeyed to Wake Forest at the request of the newly-formed United World Federalists chapter there. Wicker is president of the local World Federalists chapter and Matthews is vice-president. Marcel Humber, son of Robert Lee Humber (famed for the "Humber Resolution" on world federation), is president of the Wake Forest chapter and discussed the invitation.

Russell G. Baldwin, state chairman of the student division of United World Federalists and former president of the Carolina chapter, accompanied Ralph Fleming and Bob Byrd of Duke in the panel at Greensboro college. Fleming is president of the Duke chapter of World Federalists.

The Greensboro college panel appeared under the sponsorship of the YWCA. In addition to the panel on world government, the movie, "One World or None", was shown.

According to Wicker, this was the beginning of a move to expand the activities of the local World Federalists chapter. In addition to filling various speaking engagements, the chapter produces a radio program every Tuesday night over WDUK in conjunction with the Duke chapter.

The local chapter meets every Thursday at 5 o'clock in the Grail room in Graham Memorial. Wicker stated that the meeting is open to all students and Chapel Hill citizens.

Adrenalin Might Help

What's happened to the YMCA?

Once the most influential organization on campus, it has degenerated to a point where few students even know it exists. Ask anyone not a member of the Y cabinet, "What does the YMCA do around here?" You'll probably get such an answer as "Oh, — (pause for thought) — I guess they're just a bunch of guys interested in religion."

Tuesday night at the installation of its new officers the Y pointed with pride to its accomplishments this year. It had staged a conference at Natural Bridge, Virginia (truly a commendable project). Besides this it had "worked with" the World Student Service Fund drive, a clothing drive, and Religion in Life week. For next year the Y announced a plan "to reach students more directly". It's program: (1) Bible discussion groups in dormitories and fraternities; and (2) co-operation with Student Government in arranging freshman chapel programs.

The YWCA is a livewire outfit with snap and action. It gets things done. The male contingent had better look to its laurels.

Must Someone Die?

A University student appeared in Judge Henry Whitfield's recorder's court Tuesday morning. This isn't too unusual an occurrence in the Chapel Hill recorder's court, but this student was there because his automobile had struck a motorcycle on which two other students were riding along a campus street.

The car driver was making a left hand turn into the driveway fronting the Playmakers Theater, and he observed all the usual precautions to avoid an accident. He came to a complete stop, made the proper hand signal and looked both ways before starting to turn. But students thronging across the street during change of classes and other cars on the street blocked his view. The motorcycle was there before he saw it.

Fortunately neither car nor cycle was moving fast and only a minor injury and slight material damage resulted. But either or both of the students on the motorcycle might have been killed.

The driver used all the ususal precautions. In this instance the usual precautions weren't enough. No one wants to hear again about the congested traffic conditions on campus and city streets. Daily we see and are embroiled in this congestion. Yet daily we continue to drive too fast and too carelessly. Daily we continue to step off curbs into the path of traffic.

Must someone die before the lesson comes home?

Budget Boys to the Rescue

Jack Girard and his finance committee didn't waste any time getting to work to straighten out the budget mixup after it was found that a miscalculation of chargeable student fees would slice Student Government's anticipated income.

As the situation shapes up now, it appears that none of the organizations covered in the budget will suffer any curtailment of their appropriations. Girard's group will simply have a paper-work job or rearrangeing available funds so that organizations spending their total appropriation will be supplied from the unused balances or profits of other organizations.

With that out of the way, the finance boys will have to tackle the job of correcting next year's budget, already passed by the legislature. They think that too, can be handled without too much strain. Ernie House, Sam Daniels and the others who worked on it made allowances for non-collectable fees and a smaller enrollment, leaving only the discrepancy between amount expected and amount collectable from graduate and professional students to be compensated for. This discrepancy was unknown at the time the budget was made.

After this situation is cleared up, arrangements will have to be made to raise the fee structure. You can't buy a dollar's worth of goods with eighty-five cents.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.

Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ..... ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager ..... T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor .... Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors .. Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associate Editors ..... Bob Sain, Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady
Society Editor ..... Weddy Thorp
Photographer ... Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. ..... Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. .. C. B. Mendenhall
Subscription Mgrs. ... Jim King, Chan Pegram
Asst. Business Mgrs. .. Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. ... Randall Hudson, Don Snow

NEWS STAFF: Herb Nachman, Charlie Gibson, Sally Woodhull, John Stump, Gordon Huffines, Jack Brown, Stewart McKeel, Margaret Gaston, Dan Wallace, Charlie Craven, Mark Sumner, Emily Baker, Doris Weaver, Harriet Sipple, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.

SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Larry Fox, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher, Mel Horowitz, Faith Adams, Anne Wells.

BUSINESS STAFF: James Crews, Jackie Rogers, J. C. Brown, Joe Williams, Gladys Cottrell, Bill Peebles, Neal Howard, Jr., Vin Snell, Candy Jonas, Kathryn McLean, Jim Brown, Baxter Morris, Ed Warton, Leonard Dudley, Jean Williams, Charmian Griffin.

NIGHT EDITOR: Herb Nachman NIGHT SPORTS: Bob Goldwater

Carolina Carousel

Is Jim Crow On Way Out?

By R. Foo Giduz

In the past week or so a lot of our fellow Tar Heels have shown a healthy, positive interest in the proposal of Dr. C. C. Spaulding of Durham, advocating the admission of qualified Negro graduate students to some graduate and professional schools of the University as day students. . . .And this support has come from otherwise generally conservative North Carolinians. . . .Been tested and found true in a number of class room discussions. . . . And favored by a number of the campus' "grass roots" - non-DTH - letter-writing students.

In discussing this question we have no intention of trying to directly influence the University trustees in their specific deliberations on the admissions of the three Negroes currently applying for professional schools of the University. . . . But we do ask and hope that the Trustees will be fair and open-minded enough in this connection to try to reach a full solution in the near future, and not attempt by a Jim Crow substitute to circumvent the rulings of the national supreme court as most other southern states have already done. . . . Not only would such a course be grossly unjust to a peaceful, dedicated, and patient citizenry, but in our mind it would also be completely unworthy of the feelings of the most progressive state in the south, North Carolina. . . .

Not wanting to try to cover this especially timely topic in merely a few short paragraphs, we would like to make a number of observations for the next few days on this proposal, and cite examples of how it is already working out elsewhere in the South. . . . Most UNCarolinians seem individually in favor of Dr. Spaulding's proposal, and we solicit some concrete sentiment on this from you, the readers.

Y'know, there's not much publicity given to the myriad instances of co-racial education now existant in the South. . . . (And so far there have been NO reports of constructive steps along this line not being completely successful.) For instance: Negroes have been enrolled in a number of graduate and undergraduate departments of the state universities of Maryland and West Virginia for several years. . . . And so little attention was and is paid to the fact that it is generally not known outside. . . .More later.

So keep your mind open on this question. . . . It's pretty important now, and mighty close to home. . . . And deserves a lot of consideration. . . .

WHAT'S UP in Graham Memorial

If spring has sprung so far that you're getting tired of being hot, take a seat at the Rendezvous, on GM's ground floor. Manager Arnold Wilson (who sometimes wears purple shoes—don't ask us what that's got to do with it) swears it's 20 degrees cooler there than anywhere else on campus. Believe he's right, too.

Dorothy Maynor's recordings of sacred songs will be played tonight on the dinner music hour in the main lounge, as well as Rimsky-Korsakov's Le Coq D'Or Suite.

STRIKING COMPARISON

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ill. (UP) —Discovery of a 48-year-old mail order catalogue in the attic of Mrs. J. F. Scott here revealed a striking comparison with present-day sale items. Included in the advertisements were mattresses on 60 day's free trial.

"I SAY IT'S A NEW RECORD, DAUGHERTY, A NEW RECORD!"

The Good Word

Remember The Lost Glory

By Sandy Grady

Listen, Tiger, you got to get off that beer keg. You been lying around here all year, telling how it was at 30,000 feet on your back over San Diego Bay and what you told that damn mess sergeant at Benning when he — anyway, Tiger, you got to get back to work. Tell you why.

In the paper the other day, this Dean of Men at St. Lawrence University says that the non-veterans are doing just as well in college as the veterans. That's not so good, as you can probably remember last year when the GI's were making twice as good grades as the non-GI's. That's when you were fresh and hot on the books, Tiger. Now this Dean says that 8.3 of the non-vets make average grades of 85 against 9.3 of the veterans. Sure, Tiger you know how Deans are, but there may be something in this.

You got to quit waving that captured Luger in the air and get back on the tomes, Tig. Remember the glory and honor which were ours. This sort of thing goes on the record, so let's get your pleasure-puffed face out of that brew foam.

Or is it worth it?

* * *

Speaking of seeing things in the paper, this headline from Monday's Durham Sun deserves a trombone blast from the Neatest-Trick-of-the-Week-Department. Went:

Coeds at UNC
Install Heads

* * *

There is little doubt in our minds that this is a plot engineered by Texas football fans. It seems that Varsity Magazine is going to put a shot of Charlie Justice on its cover this Fall, with a black-and-white layout on the tailback's grid activities inside the mag.

This brings back a greasy taste of last Fall's cover on Pic Magazine which made Charlie look like the Second Coming of Red Grange. Many people are sure that the Pic publicity put an evil eye on the tailback's performance for the year (which was fine but didn't make Grantland Rice drop his glass of Calverts). Perhaps some well-heeled alumnus can pay the Varsity editors off before they perpetrate this deed. God is on the side of the team with the biggest jinxes.

* * *

Also along Magazine Row, two Carolina lads made the pages of Look this week. They are Stan Croner and Jud Kinberg, who did some writing and photography overseas last year. Look used some of their stuff, but you wouldn't know it by the microscopic credit they get in the rear of the magazine.

Write Away

He Likes Pretty Girls

Editor:

After reading the students' opinions on the current issue of the Tarnation, I would like to add a little aftermath. The cartoons were "knocked out", especially Bill Harrison's "Strictly Formal." That is one of the best things I have ever seen in any college humor magazine. I agree with the majority that the articles, if they may be called that, were not as clever as they were meant to be, BUT I DO disagree with those who thought there were too many photographs and ads. If the advertisements are to display such comely coeds as Miss Bouldin and Miss Brown, I say MORE ADS! And I'm quite sure the average Carolina student would rather look at charming pictures of the Chi Omega open house than read about the "Terrible Took". So, to new editors Wharton and Smith, I say more pictures . . . and MORE PICTURES.

Bob Wilson

This 'n That

Give This Man A Compass

By Bill Buchan

As Charlie McRae pointed out in his question following Senator Taylor's address Monday night, the good senator showed us a fine example of showmanship. In addition to his entertaining remarks, however, the vice-presidential candidate made some rather serious charges.

According to him, we should not be worried about communism but rather about fascism. The senator went on to "prove" his point by constantly referring to Dillon and Read and the Standard Oil Company. They, according to him, are the real demons who will drag us into this horrible, destructive Third World War.

When Wallace first announced his candidacy several months ago, there were a few of us who thought we might be able to follow his line of thought. Suffice it to say, I, among others, quickly changed my mind. I personally am not a great admirer of Truman, but was counting on Eisenhower and then maybe Stassen. Now, Ike says "no" and Senator Taylor says Stassen is the "biggest demagogue of them all."

American newspaper articles and editorials are full of charges against Wallace and his Progressive party. They all assure us that Wallace doesn't have a chance and that if elected, he would lead us straight to communism through his "appeasing" attitude. Monday night, Taylor denied this and promised us that Forrestal and Truman's generals would lead us straight to fascism.

As an everyday interested American citizen, who are you going to believe? There is actually no real reason—or better still, proof—to doubt the sincerity of either Wallace or the Democrats, or the Republicans, except through hearsay and the workings of their super propaganda machines.

There seems to be then a choice for the American people this election between domination by the Communists or Fascists. (They all seem to ... suddenly forgotten about little word called Democracy.)

Undoubtedly, Senator Taylor will arrive Friday or ... but all Taylor's points are sure us that Truman is the ... for 1948. Under the circumstances, I'm rather confused. Would someone please tell me who in the devil is which and which in the devil is who?

* * *

Speaking of the Man for '48 —Charles M. Johnson is the man of the year for North Carolina. After 25 years of vice in North Carolina state government, he is plainly the only gubernatorial candidate with the qualified experience to be our next governor.

Ed Tenney's election as ... man of the Student Party may be a sign of things to come. He's a man with new ideas and plenty of ambition and initiative to work. With Leroy Tate as a capable vice-chairman, maybe some of the so-called disorganized ruts will be eliminated.

One Man's Angle

'I Pledge To Rally The Masses'

By Kennedy Gammage

"Every party desirous of affiliating with the Third International should renounce not only avowed social patriotism, but also the falsehood and hypocracy of social pacifism; it should systematically demonstrate to the workers that without a revolutionary overthrow of capitalism, no international arbitration, no talk of disarmament, no democratic organization of the League of Nations will be capable of saving mankind from new imperialist wars."

So reads the Theses and Statutes of the Third International, to which the Communist party of the United States must subscribe. It proves interesting to us in the light of all of the weeping, wailing, tearing of hair and beating of breasts which was done when the President recommended that Communists be removed from responsible Government positions. Yes, they screamed that their American freedoms were being transgressed. . . they who would overthrow by force the form of government which makes possible these rights and freedoms.

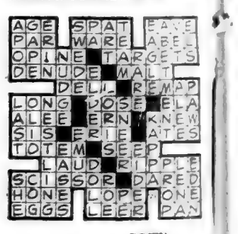
The oath of allegiance which is taken by all Communists in the United States reads as follows: "I pledge myself to rally the masses to defend the Soviet Union, the head of victorious Socialism. I pledge myself to remain at all times a vigilant and firm defender of the Leninist line of the party, the only line that insures a triumph of Soviet power in the United States." (Manual of Organization, published by the Workers Library Publishers, pp. 104-105)

Also on page 105 of this Manual of Organization we read: "Our party application carries this declaration: the undersigned declares his adherance to the program and statutes of the Communist party in the United States, and agrees to subject himself to the discipline of the party, and engage actively in its work."

Finally, on page eight we read that all members of the Communist party must work for a revolution in the United States. "As the leader and organizer of the proletariat, the Communist party of the United States leads the working class in its fight for the establishment of a dictatorship of the Soviet Socialist Republic in the United States."

It seems to us that those who seek to destroy or change our form of government by other than peaceful means forfeit their rights to enjoy the blessings of the system as it stands. Let's let the scales drop from our eyes. . . .

Not As Many Failing This Year as Last



St. Louis, Mo. — (I.P.) Contrary to popular opinion, scholastic deficiencies this year are not as great as they have been in the past, according to Dean Stuart A. Queen of the College of Liberal Arts at Wahsington University.

His office reveals that of the 2,260 students enrolled in the College of Liberal Arts last semester, 485 or 21.9 percent failed to make their grades. Of these, 138 or 6.1 percent of the total enrollment were asked not to return to school, while 357 or 15.8 percent were placed on probation.

Dean Queen stated that this year's figures are not abnormally high.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

ACROSS

1—Part of lock
5—Black
9—Shade tree
12—To swing back and forth
14—Southern general
15—Legumes
16—Drinker
18—Stout cord
20—Auto
21—Artificial language
22—Before Christ (abbr.)
24—Tidings
26—Ship's diary
28—Island near Greece
30—To harvest
32—Where votes are cast
35—Electric lamp
37—Brook
39—River in England
40—Kind of whale
42—Judgment
44—Unit of force
45—Pays court to
47—Tightly drawn
49—Indefinite article
51—Curbes
53—Sediment
56—What the canary eats
59—Wings
60—Some
61—To amuse
63—To observe
64—Inclines
65—Finish

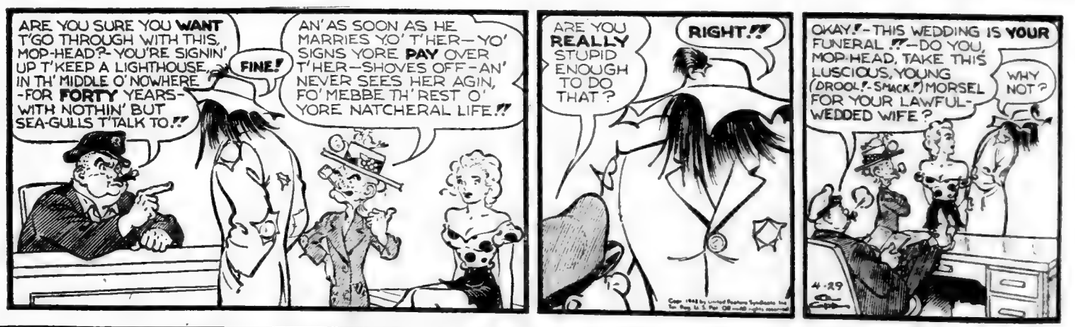
DOWN

1—To jump
2—Ibsen heroine
3—Mark of wound
4—River in Eden
5—Syrian deity
6—Flying mammal
7—Pertaining to ear
8—Country north of India
9—Everything
10—Prognosticator
11—Brave man
13—Outcast
17—Support
19—Jug
22—Protective garments
23—Blow
25—Asserted
27—Deity
29—Killed
31—Scheme
33—Sign of Zodiac
34—Guided
36—Spacious
38—Burden
41—Small quantity
43—Marshal of France
46—Vista
48—Tissues
49—Arabs' cloaks
50—Baseball team
52—Bristle
54—Profit
55—To transmit
57—Grain
58—Hideout
62—Rupees (abbr.)

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

An Interpretation of Shakespeare
Dryden Press
By HARDIN CRAIG

Ab's Intimate Bookshop



Fine Watches Need Excellent Care . .

A Complete Watch Repair Service at—

BLACKWOOD ASSOCIATE STORE

Larger Loans on Anything of Value
Durham's Newest and Best Pawn Shop
MAIN LOAN OFFICE
Located: 400 W. Main St. at Five Points

LI'L ABNER By AL CAPP

7,000 people seated — 70 AT A TIME — at HARRY'S

Tar Heels Battle State In Big Four Clash On Emerson Today

By Dick Jenrette

Carolina's Tar Heels, current Southern conference leaders but runnerups in the Big Four race, get a chance to avenge one of their two defeats this season when N. C. State's Wolfpack moves into Emerson field this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Tar Heels could take over undisputed possession of first place in the Big Four by winning today, but a Carolina defeat would send the State club into a commanding two-game lead. The meeting will be the second of the season between the two teams, the Wolfpack having copped the first tilt, 8-1, in Raleigh last Saturday.

Vinnie DiLorenzo, dean of the Carolina pitching staff and loser to State last week, is slated to do the hurling for the Tar Heels today. DiLorenzo, who last season turned in two crucial victories over State, fared rather poorly against the Pack in his last turn against that team. A pair of home runs by Jack McComas were largely his downfall. However, neither Vinnie's curve or drop balls were working effectively, and the Carolina coaches are looking for a return to his old form today.

In an effort to defeat the Tar Heels again, State Coach Vic Sorrell will call on Ernie Johnson, a veteran righthander, to go against Carolina. He set the locals down on seven hits to be the winning pitcher last week.

Most of the large crowd is expected for the game will center their attention on State's McComas, who almost single-handedly beat the Tar Heels last week. He connected for two home runs, a single, gained one walk, scored four runs, and batted in three more in that game. Moreover he has a season batting average of .584, compiled on 21 hits in 36 trips to the plate.

The Tar Heels need a win this afternoon not only to take over the Big Four lead but to maintain their hold on the conference

(See BASEBALL, page 4)

Mural Results

SOFTBALL

11 Lambda Chi 1	KA 2 7
12 Graham 2	Oakwood Dr. 8
16 Misfits	Lewis 2 1
6 Sigma Chi 2	Delta Sig 1 4
15 Lewis 1	Alexander 2 8
18 Kappa Sig 2	TEP 2 4
6 Phi Delt Chi	Phi Gam 2 5

Forfeits: Mangum 1 over Old West, Stanley Steamers over Miller, Mud Dobbers over Ruffin, Old East over Clippers, Kappa Sig 1 over Delta Sig 2, DKE 1 over TEP 1, Mangum 2 over Alexander 1, Pi Kap Phi over PiKA 1, Bombers over Stacy, Club H-2-3 over Seiler Five.

TENNIS

3 Phi Kap 1	Zetes 1
5 Sigma Chi 1	PiKA 0
3 Lambda Chi	Phi Delt 3 0
3 Kap Psi	DKE 0
4 KA 1	Pi Kap Phi 0

HORSESHOES

3 Sigma Nu 3	St. Anthony 0
2 Phi Kap 3	Kap Psi 1
2 Pi Lamb	PiKA 3 0
3 Zetes 2	Phi Delt 3 0
3 Pi Lamb 1	Beta 1 0
3 Phi Delt 2	TEP 0
3 Chi Phi 2	Kap Sig 3 0
2 Sigma Chi 2	KA 2 1

Frosh Netters Down Reynolds High, 6-3

Carolina's freshman tennis team combined four singles victories with two doubles wins to gain a 6-3 decision over Reynolds High school of Winston-Salem on the local courts yesterday.

The top triumph of the day was registered by Tar Baby Tom Southerland, who gained a 6-0, 6-0 success on the number three court.

The complete summary:

Singles: Keener (C) over Booker, 5-7, 6-0, 6-1; Lentz (R) over Sherrill, 6-2, 6-1; Southerland (C) over West, 6-0, 6-0; Kirby (C) over Dudley, 6-4, 6-3; Sapp (R) over Kennedy, 7-5, 6-0; Stewart (C) over Crouse, 6-1, 6-2.

Doubles: Luxenberg-Keener (C) over Booker-Lentz, 6-2, 6-4; Southerland-Kirby over West-Crouse, 6-0, 6-1; Dudley-Sapp over Kennedy-Stewart, 6-4, 6-2.

Seixas To Miss Tour; Team In Action Today

By Bob Goldwater

Any good news that may result from a Carolina victory on the varsity tennis courts here this afternoon was easily offset by the news from down that way yesterday in the disclosure by Coach John Kenfield that team captain Vic Seixas will not accompany the squad on its annual northward jaunt leaving tomorrow.

Already having missed the last three matches because of a case of glandular fever, Seixas has been ordered to forego any sort of exercise for the next two weeks. According to Dr. W. G. Morgan, Infirmary physician, the racquet star may be ready to compete in the Southern conference tennis championships which start May 13.

The visit of the fever bug means that chances for a Tar Heel upset over William and Mary on Saturday have taken a terrific tumble. With Seixas in the lineup, the Carolina team entertained high hopes of separating the Indians from their 50-plus winning streak, but only the barest possibility of an upset remains.

Favored Today

Regardless of how Saturday's match comes out, the Tar Heels themselves will get to occupy the favorite's role this afternoon when they match strokes with the racquet outfit of Presbyterian college. Starting time, as always, will come at 3 o'clock.

Appearing in their final dual match at home, the Carolina netters will be seeking their 16th straight triumph. The touring Presbyterian team suffered a 6-3 setback by Duke Tuesday, but blanked N. C. State, 9-0, the previous afternoon.

Carolina Lineup

With Seixas out, today's lineup will have Clark Taylor, sporting a 14-1 slate, in the number one spot. He will be followed by

(See TENNIS, page 4)

Tar Babies Oppose Wolfcubs in Raleigh

With the varsity nine playing State college here this afternoon, the Tar Babies will move to Raleigh to seek their second straight triumph over the Wolfcubs.

Last Saturday when the two club met, the Tar Babies emerged on the long end o a 9-4 count.

Ralph Brake, also seeking his second win, will open on the hill for Carolina. Broke received credit for the victory over High Point in his last start, although he was lifted in the sixth inning after giving up four of the Bisons' six runs.

His relief in that game was Bill McGinn, who will be standing by in the bullpen today. The southpaw workhorse of the local mound staff also pitched in relief against State for three frames.

Zero Allen will probably open in centerfield for Carolina, but if he hasn't recovered from his injury the center-gardener will be either Jack Clark or Ed Gaston. Gaston has been seeing action as a pitcher thus far this season. Second base, the other question mark in the lineup, depends on whether a righthander or a portsider does the chunking for State.

The Tar Babies will be entering the game with a 5-2 record for the season. In Little Three play, they have won two games while losing one. Their record includes the win over State and an even split in two games with Duke.

Big Preparations Move Ahead For Blue-White Game Saturday

Preparations for Saturday's Blue-White football game went full speed ahead yesterday though hampered slightly by the fall of April Showers, and all pointed to an outstanding display of springtime grid activity on the weekend.

Coach Carl Snavely announced that there would be several changes in the two teams before the big clash, but that barring injuries, no major alterations would be forthcoming.

Ticket sales for the Monogram sponsored contest seemed to be moving along at the same tempo as the practice sessions, and the Club predicts the largest crowd in the three-year history of the game should the weather man look favorably on the proceedings.

Head cheerleader Norman Sper added to the numerous announcements being released about the game with a statement to the effect that ticket in the special color card stunt section still remain for those who wish to take part in this added activity.

The tickets are on sale at the Y and Lenoir at the student price of 50 cents. General public ducats will go for a dollar and students are warned that the cost of their tickets will be an added quarter if they wait until game time to buy them.

With the game looking in top-flight shape on paper, the boys who will actually play the tilt are rounding into similar form down on the football practice field.

Coach Max Reed of the Blues was putting his charges through their paces while across the field mentor Jim Gill was giving the White aggregation their last heavy workout. The Blues have been labelled the defensive team by observers and will enter the game slight underdogs to the offensive-minded White.

Monogram officials closed their press activities for the day with the statement that there will be no conflict between the game and the Tex Beneke with the clash beginning at on the nose of two. It seems Tex and the band want to see the game, too.

Tracksters Hold Intrasquad Meet

The Carolina track squad defeated a four-man squad representing the field house, 65-48, in a lop-sided intra-squad drill held yesterday on Fetzer field.

Jack Moody, Don Nelson, Bob Seligman, and Dick Taylor, who composed the field house team, collected seven first places, two seconds and two thirds for a total of 43 points, and added five more in an unorthodox relay race which saw the four man crew use cross-country tactics to come out on top.

Nelson and Moody led the scoring for both teams with a total of 13 points each. Nelson copped first in the 100 and 220-yard dash and a second in the broad jump. Moody collected his points with firsts in the broad and high jumps and a second spot in the 120-yard high hurdles.

Julian MacKenzie, ace distance man, collected 10 points to lead the Carolina team scoring. He

(See TRACK, page 4)

—Makings— In the Majors

By United Press

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Boston 7, Philadelphia 0.
WP—Spahn; LP—Donnelly.
Cincinnati 8, Chicago 1.
WP—Vander Meer; LP—Schmitz.
New York-Brooklyn, St. Louis-Pittsburgh postponed by rain and cold weather.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Detroit 9, St. Louis 4.
WP—Trucks; LP—Gerhauser.
Washington-New York, Boston-Philadelphia, Cleveland-Chicago postponed by cold weather and wet grounds.

HOME RUNS

Mullin (Tigers).

Visit Our BABY FOODS Department!

STRAINED FOODS	Clapps or Gerber	4 Jars	35c
CHOPPED FOODS	Clapps	2 Jars	25c
MELLO-WHEAT	Ann Page	14-oz. Pkg.	14c
JUNKET RENNENT POWDER		Pkg.	9c
IVORY or SWAN SOAP		Small Bar	11c
PABLUM		13-oz. Pkg.	45c
GRAHAM CRACKERS	Nabisco	1-lb. Pkg.	27c
COCONOG		1-lb. Can	35c

SWIFT'S MEATS FOR BABY
STRAINED Can 20c • DICED Can 29c

National Baby Week!

First Choice for Baby
Grand for your family, too! White House supplies each essential nutrient of fresh milk, plus a generous amount of vitamin D, the "sunshine" vitamin. Use it for every milk need!
3 TALL CANS 39c
There's None Better
400 U.S.P. UNITS OF PURE VITAMIN D3 PER PINT
WHITE HOUSE EVAPORATED MILK

A&P SUPER MARKETS

MARVEL BREAD
Regular Pan 16 oz. Loaf 13c
Sandwich 1½ lb. Loaf 18c
Home Style 1½ lb. Loaf 18c

Jane Parker POUND CAKE Each 27c

Jane Parker Sugared DONUTS Pkg. 18c

Real Values in Canned Goods

IONA PEAS	Fine Flavor	3	No. 2 Cans	29c
TOMATO JUICE	Iona	3	No. 2 Cans	27c
PIE APPLES	Comstock	2	No. 2 Cans	29c
PORK & BEANS	Iona With Tom. Sauce		16-Oz. Can	10c
FRUIT COCKTAIL	Libby's or Sultana		No. 1 Can	24c
BARTLETT PEARS	A&P		No. 2½ Can	39c
TOMATO SOUP	Campbell's	3	10½-Oz. Cans	29c
LIBBY'S PEAS			No. 2 Can	20c
PEACHES	DelMonte Elberta Freestone Halves		No. 2½ Can	39c

ARMOUR
CANNED MEATS

TREET		12-Oz. Can	47c
CHOPPED HAM		12-Oz. Can	53c
CORNED BEEF HASH		16-Oz. Can	32c
CHILI	Con Carne Wtih Beans	16-Oz. Can	29c
DEVILED HAM		3¼-Oz. Can	17c
TAMALES		10½-Oz. Glass	19c
VIENNA SAUSAGE		½ Size Can	17c
LUNCH TONGUE		6-Oz. Can	27c
POTTED MEAT		½ Size Can	14c

DREFT Pkg. 31c
PALMOLIVE SOAP Reg. Bar 10c
OCTAGON SOAP 2 Bar 19c
BRIGHT SAIL SOAP GRAINS Pkg. 34c
SUPER SUDS Lge. Pkg. 36c
LUX TOILET SOAP Reg. Bar 10c
PALMOLIVE SOAP 2 Bath Bars 29c
OCTAGON SOAP FLAKES Lge. Pkg. 36c

FRESH FRUITS & VEGETABLES

Green Top CARROTTS, 2 bunches	29c
Large Florida ORANGES, 2 doz.	49c
Large GRAPEFRUIT, 5 for	27c
Snowball CAULIFLOWER, 2 lbs.	35c
Yellow ONIONS, lb.	15c
Fresh yellow SQUASH, 2 lbs.	23c
Fresh Green CUCUMBERS, 2 lbs.	23c
Fresh Golden Bantom CORN, 3 ears	25c
New Red Bliss POTATOES, 5 lbs.	49c
Fancy TOMATOES, lb.	29c

SHOE POLISH
SHINOLA WHITE 2½-Oz. Bot. 8c
2 IN 1 Black — Oxblood — Tan Each 8c
SHINOLA Black — Brown — Tan Oxblood — Neutral 2½-Oz. Bot. 11c
BLU WHITE FLAKES Pkg. 9c
SWEETHEART SOAP Reg. Bar 10c
NABISCO VANILLA WAFERS 12-Oz. Pkg. 31c

FINE QUALITY MEATS

Whole or Shank Half SUNNYFIELD HAMS, lb.	65c
Sirloin & Club SUPER RIGHT STEAKS, lb.	89c
Super Right CHUCK ROAST, lb.	59c
Loin or Rib end PORK ROAST, lb.	49c
Cross Cut LAMB SHOULDER ROAST, lb	49c
FAT BACK, Thick, lb.	25c
RIB SIDE, lb.	39c
Swift's Premium FRANKS, 1 lb. pkg.	49c
HADDOCK FILLETS, lb.	39c
PERCH FILLETS, lb.	33c
H & G WHITING, lb.	23c
ROE SHAD, lb.	33c
BUCK SHAD, lb.	21c

NO OTHER FOOD STORE OFFERS YOU MORE LOW PRICES MORE DAYS A WEEK THAN A&P
A&P SUPER MARKETS FRANKLIN STREET
MILD AND MELLOW 8 O'CLOCK COFFEE 1-Lb. Bag 40c • 3 Lb. Bag $1.15

Now Playing
THE SCREEN'S SUPREME ADVENTURE IN ACTION!

JOHN FORD'S rousing drama of love and glory in the days of America's flaming frontier!
JOHN FORD and MERIAN C. COOPER present
FORT APACHE
starring John WAYNE · Henry FONDA SHIRLEY TEMPLE PEDRO ARMENDARIZ with Ward Bond • George O'Brien Victor McLaglen • Anna Lee Irene Rich • Dick Foran • Guy Kibbee • Grant Withers Mae Marsh and introducing John Agar
Directed by JOHN FORD
Screen Play by Frank S. Nugent
An Argosy Pictures Production
Released by RKO Radio Pictures
CAROLINA

PROMEX, S. A. presents
Esther FERNANDEZ y Antonio BADU en
RAMONA
UNA SUPER-PRODUCCION MEXICANA DE GRAN ESPECTACULO
CLASA-MOHME, Inc.
VILLAGE TODAY IN SPANISH ENGLISH TITLES

Campus Calendar

1:00 p. m.—Faculty Club luncheon, Ballroom, Carolina Inn.
2:00 p. m.—Senior class steering committee, Graham Memorial.
2:30 p. m.—Law Wives, Horace Williams lounge.
4:00 p. m.—N. C. State vs. UNC Baseball game.
4:00 p. m.—Publications board, Roland Parker lounge No. 1.
4:00 p. m.—Caldwell Carolina club, Grail room.
5:00 p. m.—World Federalists, Grail room.
6:00 p. m.—Delta Theta Phi, Grail room.
7:00 p. m.—Alumni Assembly Dinner, Ballroom, Carolina Inn.
7:00 p. m.—Preliminary High School Debates, 101 New West and 112 New East.
7:30 p. m.—Young Republicans, Roland Parker lounge No. 1.
7:30 p. m.—W. N. C. club, Roland Parker lounge No. 2 and 3.
9:00 p. m.—Science Fiction. Roland Parker lounge No. 1.

-Tennis-

(Continued from page 3)

Charlie Rice, Ray Morris, Don Skakle, Heath Alexander and Stan Gruner. Skakle, the team's lone undefeated member, has a 13-0 record.

In doubles, Taylor will team with Doke Wilder at the number one position. Morris and either Rice or Gruner will fill the bill on the second court, and Skakle and Alexander will go at number three.

Leading the Presbyterian team in action is Bob Spurrier, who blanked Duke's Emory Green in straight sets Tuesday. Others in the lineup include Kay Kaiser, Bill Harper, Jack Wilkinson and Sonny Bradley.

Travel plans for the Tar Heel crew calls for the netters to leave tomorrow afternoon for Virginia Beach, site of the W & M match. The team will be gone for nine days.

-Baseball-

(continued from page 3)

lead. Washington and Lee currently is tied with the Chapel Hill outfit, each team having seven wins and one defeat.

An afternoon of rain prevented Carolina from getting in its usual workout yesterday.

Batting averages for the team show that pitchers Frank Robinson and DiLorenzo have the best individual marks, with .500 and .384 respectively. But among the regulars, Kenny Black is showing the way with .352, attained on 19 hits in 54 times up. Jim Hayworth, who has .309, is the team's only other .300 hitter. Jim Kelly, last season's batting champion, also has been displaying steady improvement in recent games after a poor start, and he now has moved up to .294.

Robinson's pitching record of four wins and no defeats leads the team in that department. Ray Blair has a 2-0 mark; DiLorenzo, 3-1, and Tommy Andrew, 1-1, to complete the pitcher's records.

-Track-

(Continued from page 3)

copped first in the 880 and the 3-4 mile. His time in the 880 was 1 minute, 59 seconds.

Ted Schultz, running for the larger team, scored eight points when he took top honors in the 220-yard low hurdles and second in the 100-yard dash.

The freshman track crew will travel to Durham this afternoon to meet once defeated Durham High school in a meet that begins at 2:30. The members of the squad will leave by bus from Woollen gym at 1:30.

CLASSIFIED

FOR RENT 6A

PRACTICALLY NEW HOUSE TRAILER Sleeps four. Refrigerator, stove. Can be seen at 27 Rogerson Drive, Hill Homes Development. (ch 1x1)

FOR SALE 6B

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogers Drive. Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. Telephone F-2906. (ch 1x1)

27 FOOT HOUSE TRAILER, 82 PITTSboro Road Trailer Court. Inquire between 5:00 and 6:00 p. m. (1-154-1)

27 FOOT LA SALLE HOUSE TRAILER in good condition. Ideal location. Inquire at No. 26 University Trailer Court. (1-269-1)

SET OF TAILS—SIZE 38 LONG. EXcellent condition. Inquire at 112 Graham. (1-283-1)

18 FT. TRAILER—GOOD CONDITION —Must sell. $650. See after 5:00 PM. No. 55B Pittsboro Road Trailer Camp. (1-276-1)

ONE NEW FIVE ROOM HOUSE IN Pittsboro. Call 2081 in Pittsboro between 8:00 AM and 3:00 PM. (1-2275-1)

18 FOOT HOUSE TRAILER AND porch. Ideal for couple. Reasonably priced ($800.00). Inquire No. 83, University trailer court. (1-290-1)

MAN'S LIGHTWEIGHT COLUMBIA bicycle, good tires. Trade even with whoever found my AAF wristwatch (aluminum band). Good deal. . .either way. Phone 6856 after 7:00, Buchanan. (1-291-1)

ONE SIX DRAWER MAPLE CHEST. One 4 burner oil stove. See at 157 Daniels Road. (1-289-1)

FOR SALE AUTOMOTIVE 6BB

FORD COUPE 1936, MERCURY MOTOR, reasonably priced. Can be seen at University Service Station. Or call F-2851. (1-286-1)

1935 DODGE SEDAN IN GOOD RUNning condition. 110 Johnson St., Victory Village. (1-284-1)

1937 DESOTO CONVERTABLE COUPE, motor completely overhauled, for immediate sale at low cost. Call 9881. (1-2000-1)

LOST 12

PAIR BROWN HORN RIMMED glasses in Graham Memorial game room Monday night. Please contact lost and found in Graham Memorial or owner, 109 Ruffin. (1-292-1)

SERVICES OFFERED 19

COMPLETE MODERN RADIO APpliance service shop now open and ready to serve you. We call for, deliver. Johnson-Strowd-Ward Furniture, 422 W. Franklin. Telephone F-3491. (ch 1x1)

24 HOUR RADIO REPAIRS. OGBURN Furniture Co., Phone 5841. (ch 1x1)

Enter Our University Lake Fishing Contest!

JUST RECEIVED —

Complete Line of
FISHING TACKLE

Jitterbugs
Johnson Silver Minnows
Sputter Fuss
Hula Spinner
Miracle Midget
O'Skipper Wobblers
Broken-Back Pikes
Hula Dancers

1-in. Hawaii Wigglers
1½-in. Hawaii Wigglers
2-in. Hawaii Wigglers

Minnow seines
Minnow buckets
25 varieties of bass and crappie flies
Casting rods and reels
Fly rods and reels

Any Fishing Supplies

You get a Better Buy at a
BLACKWOOD ASSOCIATE STORE
312 West Franklin Street
CHAPEL HILL

Here's Proof! Colonial Saves You More!

Armour Star or Kingan's Reliable, Shank or Butt End
SMOKED HAMS WHOLE 12 lbs and Under, lb. 63c HAMS 14 lbs Up, lb. 59c

LUSCIOUS YELLOW CLING—SLICED OR HALVED
Stokely PEACHES Large No. 2½ Can 25c

EXTRA JUICY AND SWEET—8-LB. MESH BAG 33c
Valencia ORANGES 10-Lbs Bulk 39c

These Special Reductions Effective Thru Next Wednesday!

Daily Savings on Well-Known Brands at Colonial!
.... FEATURING STOKELY'S FINEST FOODS

Two Varieties, Priced At Rock-Bottom!—Stokely's Tender Whole Kernel
CORN WHITE or GOLDEN 2 No. 2 Cans 35c

STOKELY'S TENDER YOUNG PARTY PEAS 17-Oz. Can 25¢
STOKELY'S FINEST GREEN CUT BEANS No. 2 Can 19¢
STOKELY'S GOLDEN DICED CARROTS 2 No. 2 Cans 25¢
VEGETABLE SHORTENING SNOWDRIFT 1-Lb. Can 41¢
ARMOUR'S STAR SHORTENING 3-Lb. Can $1.09

STOKELY'S ALL-GREEN SPEARS ASPARAGUS No. 2 Can 41¢
STOKELY'S WHITE SWEET CREAM CORN No. 2 Can 19¢
SLICED SHOESTRING BEETS STOKELY'S 2 No. 2 Cans 25¢
PORK AND BEANS WITH SAUCE VAN CAMP 2 1-Lb. Cans 27¢
FOR SALADS AND COOKING WESSON OIL Pint Bot. 43¢

This Week's Economy Hint!

Warmer days call for cooler meals — cooler to prepare, cooler to eat. For in-a-hurry meals (thrifty, too), frankfurters are tops. To keep 'em plump and juicy, simmer until thoroughly heated, or drop the "red hots" into boiling water, turn off the heat, cover, and let stand about 10 minutes DO NOT BOIL.

For entertaining, company frankfurters include slit, stuffed ones. And what a variety of stuffings go well with them! Try mixed cheese and peanuts, with green beans and broiled tomatoes for a complete broiled meal. Or fill frankfurters with one of these: Chopped pickle relish, moist bread dressing, sliced cheese and bacon, or mashed potatoes seasoned with mustard or cheese.

Welcome warm weather with nourishing frankfurters prepared to tempt winter-weary appetites!

Libby's Vienna SAUSAGE No. ½ Can 17¢

PURE, WHITE, AND GENTLE Ivory Snow Lge. Pkg. 36¢
USE IT FOR FINE THINGS Ivory Flakes Lge. Pkg. 36¢
THE SOAP OF BEAUTIFUL WOMEN Camay 2 Reg. Bars 19¢
BLUING FLAKES FOR YOUR WASH Blu-White Pkg. 9¢

STOKELY'S SHORTCAKE PEACHES No. 2½ Can 39c
STOKELY'S ZESTFUL CHILI SAUCE 12-Oz. 27c
STOKELY'S TOMATO CATSUP 14-Oz. Bot. 23c
STOKELY'S PURE TOMATO JUICE 46-Oz. 29c
STOKELY'S ROYAL ANNE CHERRIES No. 2 Can 39c
PICK-OF-THE-NEST GR. "A" LARGE FRESH EGGS Doz. 57c
PLAIN FLOUR TRIANGLE 5-Lb. Bag 40c
BLEACH—½ GAL. 25c FLEECY WHITE Qt. 14c
LIBBY'S SPICY DEVILED HAM 2 3-Oz. 37c
SUNSHINE CRISP HI-HO CRACKERS Lb. 29c
BALLARD SELF-RISING FLOUR OBELISK 5-Lb. Bag 50c
BALLARD PLAIN FLOUR OBELISK 5-Lb. Bag 49c

Special Values For BABY WEEK
BEECH-NUT STRAINED Baby Food 4 Jars 35c
BEECH-NUT JUNIOR Baby Food 2 Jars 25c
LIBBY'S HOMOGENIZED Baby Food 4 Jars 35c
SWIFT'S LAMB OR Strained Beef Can 20c
CLAPP'S PRE-COOKED Oatmeal 8-Oz. Pkg 17c
FOR INFANT FEEDING Formulac 14½-Oz. 23c
NABISCO TOAST Zweiback 6-Oz. 24c
SUNSHINE BISCUIT Arrowroot 7½-Oz. 18c
BENNET POWDERS Junket 2 Pkgs. 19c

Pure Soap SWAN Lge. Bar 19¢
For Dishes DREFT Lge. Pkg. 32¢

Colonial Guaranteed Meats
Fresh Pork ROAST Lb. 59c
Veal Shoulder ROAST Colonial Pride—lb. 55c
STEW BEEF, Plate or Brisket, lb. 39c
Ground Beef FRESH MADE Lb. 49c
Plump Hens DRESSED AND DRAWN Lb. 57c
OCEAN-FRESH Seafoods For Your Table — The Best, Freshest Seafoods Obtainable
SMALL FRESH PORK PICNICS Lb. 47c
SKINLESS CELLO-WRAP Frankfurters Lb. 55c

Down Produce Lane at Colonial
Our careful system of purchasing only the best the market has to offer, together with fresh daily deliveries, assures you of top quality—and . . . each purchase is backed by Colonial's famous money-back guarantee of complete satisfaction!

Fresh Florida Pascal CELERY 2 Stalks 15c
APPETIZINGLY RIPE WHEN GREEN
Green Hard Head Cabbage lb. 8c
FRESH MUSTARD OR TURNIP Salad 2 lbs 19c
STRINGLESS SNAP Beans 2 lbs 37c
FANCY RED RIPE SLICING Tomatoes Cto. 31c
FLORIDA NEW CROP WHITE Potatoes 3 lbs 27c

COLONIAL STORES

LIBRARY (Periodical Dept)
University of North Carolina
Chapel Hill, N. C.
1-31-48

WEATHER
Partly cloudy and warmer.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
Lost Battalion
Big Weekend
Controversial Issues

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., FRIDAY, APRIL 30, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | 154

Local Student To Sing Tonight For Tex Beneke's Radio Show

Program Producer Chooses Ed Easter Following Audition

Ed Easter from Lexington will be featured on Tex Beneke's coast-to-coast radio show here tonight over the Mutual network.

Jack Roach, producer of the show, selected Easter after an audition in the Communications Center Wednesday. The young tenor will sing a Cole Porter number with a special arrangement by the orchestra. In commenting on his being selected, Easter said, it's a "stroke of luck."

The program, which is sponsored by the Army Air Forces, will be heard over the Mutual Broadcasting System and will originate in Woollen Gym. It will be heard in metropolitan areas at the regular time, 10:30 (EST).

At present, Easter is a graduate student taking special work in the radio department. Before entering the Armed Service, Easter attended Carolina with a voice scholarship. He sang with various campus bands, Jimmy Fuller, Jeep Bennett, Freddy Johnson and Hal Thurston.

While serving in the intelligence service, XV Corps, he appeared in several British, Irish and American shows overseas. At the close of the war, he sang in a dance orchestra which included 15 top name bandsmen.

He re-entered Carolina in 1945, studying voice under Prof. Paul Young. Easter sang the tenor lead in several campus operas, and is currently producer of several Communications Center radio programs including the "Musical Merry-Go-Round", series for children. He has appeared in informal concerts and on radio programs throughout the state.

Also appearing on Beneke's show tonight will be the regular vocalist Ronny Deauville and the quartet, "Moonlight Serenaders." Roach said that he picked Easter

(SEE SINGER, page 4)

Dance Committee Takes Over Concerts; All Rules Governing Dances To Apply

The Dance committee announced yesterday that all concerts will in the future be under the jurisdiction of the committee and the same rules which govern behavior on the dance floor will apply to concerts.

According to the committee's ruling, there will be no drinking, and no one who has been drinking will be allowed to attend. Anyone found intoxicated or carrying alcoholic beverages will be subject to the same penalties as in dance floor cases.

The Executive committee of the German club also demands that no cups, milk bottles, pitchers or other liquid containers be allowed in the concert. The Dance committee ruling was affected on request ffom the German club.

Rules governing conduct on the dance floor and in concerts are as follows:

1. Any girl desiring to leave the dance hall during any evening dance with the intention of returning must be accompanied by a chaperone during her entire stay away from the dance.

2. Anyone showing signs of drinking or other misconduct shall be dealt with according to the discretion of the University Dance committee.

3. Anyone giving wrong name is automatically suspended indefinitely.

4. Anyone bringing intoxicating beverages on the dance floor is automatically suspended indefinitely.

5. Any organization giving a dance outside of Chapel Hill will be subject to the jurisdiction of the Dance committee and must provide transportation for the doormen and invited Dance committeemen.

6. No smoking whatsoever and no refreshments of any kind will be allowed on the dance floor at Woollen Gymnasium or the Women's Gymnasium.

In commenting on the new ruling, the Dance committee said, "We hope that all students will act like the true Carolina gentlemen they are supposed to be, not only at the concert and dances, but through the entire weekend."

Alumni Nominate Candidates For '49

Henry L. Stevens, '17, of Warsaw, Superior Court judge, and William M. York, '18, Greensboro attorney, were nominated here for the presidency of the General Alumni Association of the University of North Carolina at last night's session of the annual General Assembly of the Association.

Other nominations were:

First vice-president: Dr. Allen H. Moore, '14, Doylestown, Pa., and William C. Medford, '31, Waynesville attorney.

Second vice-president: Robert G. S. Davis, '39, Henderson merchant, and Hugh M. Morton, '43, Wilmington realtor.

Directors of the Alumni Association: Tom W. Alexander, Jr., '32, Raleigh insurance executive, and Joe C. Eagles, Jr., '31, Wilson lawyer and tobacconist, with one to be selected; and Francis H. Fairley, '36, Charlotte lawyer, and Earl H. Tate, '25, Lenoir pharmacist and mayor, with one to be selected from this pairing.

Alumni representatives on Athletic Council: Clem C. Holding, '18, Raleigh attorney and Dr. W. Raney Stanford, '15, Durham physician.

The nominating committee was composed of Collier Cobb, Jr., Chapel Hill, chairman; Daniel L. Bell, Pittsboro; William T. Joyner, Raleigh; James R. Patton, Durham, and William E. Horner, Sanford.

No New Developments Available on Death

(Special to the Daily Tar Heel)

Hillsboro, April 29—No further developments were available tonight on the death of Elaine Patton, 24-year-old senior who died suddenly last Friday, according to Orange county Coroner H. J. Walker.

"I have not yet received the complete autopsy report from Duke hospital on the case," Walker stated, "although they told me they would put the report in the mail this afternoon."

Miss Patton died late Friday afternoon from a lethal does of cyanide poisoning, Duke hospital authorities told Walker over the telephone yesterday. The coroner was called in on the case by Dr. E. M. Hedgepeth of the University infirmary, and called the post-mortem to determine the cause of death.

"My conclusion, without examining the report, is that it was suicide," Walker stated tonight. 'I will have to make a complete investigation of the autopsy findings before I can release a final decision, however," he concluded.

GENERAL COLLEGE NOTICE

All students who were notified recently by General College that they were eligible to transfer to the College of Arts and Sciences this term are to check by Dean Well's office in 203 South Building between May 6 and 10 for assignment of advisors and registration instructions.

Faculty Members, Students Hold Session To Discuss Proposed UN Education Center

"Anything we can do now to strengthen the United Nations must be done—let us explore the available facilities that may enable us to establish an educational center here," stated Dean E. L. Mackie at a meeting of students and faculty members in the CCUN office in Graham Memorial Wednesday afternoon.

Representatives from student organizations and departments of the University discussed at length the possibility of establishing an official United Nations Volunteer Educational center at the University. Upon the suggestion of E. R. Rankin of the University Extension Division, a board was set up consisting of W. C. Ryan, J. I. Copeland, R. M. Grumman, Charlie Long, John Zucker and Lincoln Kan, to investigate facilities on the campus.

The center, if established, will be supplied with material from of Public Information, including material for a research department, study outlines, informational literature and pamphlets. It will be staffed by volunteers from student organizations on the campus.

Those attending the meeting expressed the opinion that it was an honor to be selected as a possible site for one of the ten volunteer educational centers sponsored by the United Nations, and representatives from education, extension and library departments are to investigate the facilities that they could offer.

It was pointed out that the center would probably be set up in one of the temporary buildings on the campus. John Zucker, president of the Di Senate, guaranteed the full support of that organization to the project.

Attending the meeting were E. R. Rankin, Clarence Philbrook, W. C. Ryan, J. I. Copeland, S. E. Leavitt, and Dean E. L. Mackie of the University faculty; and Benedicta Santos, Charlie Long, Ed Joyner, Ed Davenport, Charlie Kauffman, Sherman Levine, Charlie McRae, John Zucker, Dortch Warriner, Roberta Stirling, Wally Robinson, George Drew, Edie Knight, and Bunny Davis, representing organizations on the campus.

SIX CARD STUNTS which will be used in tomorrow's Blue-White football game are illustrated, as drawn for the Rally committee by Bill Harrison. The placard displays are being used by Carolina for the first time on the east coast. The "Beat Dook" stunt may not be used in tomorrow's game, according to Head Cheerleader Norm Sper, who stated that a "Howdy, Tex" stunt to welcome Tex Beneke to the game has been planned as a substitute. The stunts will go into full-time use during next fall's football season.

Coed Ratio Is Raised to 7 to 1 By Present Enrollment Figures

Sad tidings for Carolina men emanated from the office of Chancellor House Wednesday with the release of the student enrollment report for the spring quarter, revealing that the 6 to 1 ratio between men and women on the campus at the first of the school year has increased to a frustrating 7 to 1 this quarter.

This report, compiled by E. S. Lanier, director of the Central Records office, stated that out of the gross total of 7256 students enrolled for this quarter only 888 were females; and this number was probably reduced somewhat in the 285 cancellations and withdrawals from the gross total.

In the breakdown of the gross total into schools, the General College has a gross enrollment of 2917, an increase of 87 over the winter quarter. The Colleges of Arts and Sciences numbers 1695; the School of Commerce, 1077; and the graduate students enrolled in Arts and Sciences, 815.

The enrollment in the professional schools finds the Law School with a decrease of 15 since last quarter in the present number of 270. The school of Medicine has 94 students this quarter, 3 less than in the winter session. The School of Library Science totals 30 students while 210 are enrolled in the Pharmacy school. The School of Public Health has 106 registered, including 73 graduate students. The School of Social Work lists 42 graduates.

The veteran-students hold the upper hand at the University, numbering 4661, including 93 women.

The percentage of North Carolina residents at the University is currently 72 per cent, a drop of 5 per cent since last quarter. The out-of-state students number 1580.

Carolina has 55 foreign students, an increase of three over last quarter. These exchange students represent 23 foreign countries.

AT A SAN FRANCISCO HOSPITAL, Dr. M. W. McGregor removes black paint from the head of Charles Iverson, 16, The paint was poured over the youth by members of the "Night Owls," an outlawed high school fraternity, during an initiation ceremony on Mt. Davidson. Doctors at the hospital said Iverson's back had been "cut to ribbons" with ping pong paddles in a "sadistic beating." (International Soundphoto)

Wallace Following To Meet Tonight

The Wallace for President club will meet at 7 o'clock in Bingham 103 tonight. The club will hear a report on the platform of the Progressive Party, adopted at Winston-Salem last weekend.

This report will include the Progressive party's stand on foreign affairs, labor, farm problems and civil rights. There will also be a short report on the speeches that Henry A. Wallace has made this week.

The club is meeting an hour earlier this week and will adjourn in time for the speech of Senator Claude Pepper. All interested persons are urged to attend. A question and answer period will follow the reports.

Senator Claude Pepper Will Speak This Evening

Redistricting Hearing Held By Legislators

An open hearing on the new University party redistricting bill was held by the Elections committee of the Student Legislature yesterday afternoon in Graham Memorial, out of which came several proposed changes for the UP measure.

In the controversial town men's district, the suggestion to add another district to the four already set up was proposed. The new district would take in the entire section west of either Kenan street, which runs beside the new bus station, or west of the Chapel Hill-Carrboro city limits line.

The other four districts are: (1) Victory Village and the Pittsboro road trailer camp; (2) The area west of Pittsboro road (Columbia street) and south of Cameron avenue, but taking in all houses on both sides of Cameron; (3) The area north of Cameron and west of Columbia street; and (4) All other territory in Chapel Hill.

A new five-district set-up was proposed for the dorm men's voting area, with (1) Lower quad; (2) Upper quad, Emerson field house, and the new dormitory north of Alexander; (3) Alexander, other new dorms, and Alexander trailer camp; (4) Old East, Old West, BVP (with trailer camp), and miscellaneous buildings; (5) Whitehead, Miller, and Nash (with trailer camp).

Two proposed changes were

(See REDISTRICTING, page 4)

Alexander to Preside Over Meeting In Hill Hall Tonight at 8 o'clock

SENATOR PEPPER

Senator Claude Pepper, Florida's fiery gift to Congress, will arrive here this afternoon to deliver an address scheduled for 8 o'clock in Hill hall tonight.

Pepper is appearing here under the auspices of the Carolina Political Union and the subject of his speech will be "Democracy At Home And Abroad." This is one in a series of CPU-sponsored addresses.

Alexander to Preside

Herbert Alexander, newly-elected chairman of the CPU, will preside over the assembly and will introduce the speaker. An open forum session will follow the address, and immediately afterwards a reception honoring Senator Pepper will be held in Graham Memorial.

"The CPU considers tonight's speech by Senator Pepper one of grave importance to everyone, especially in view of these times of mounting tension," said Alexander.

Backs Truman

Senator Pepper, one of Southern Democrats backing Truman for the Presidency, has been an outstanding figure in the Senate since 1936 when he was elected to fill out the two-year unexpired term of Senator Duncan U. Fletcher.

A self-styled "New Dealer," Pepper defines his legislative attitude to be distinctly liberal and progressive. "I see the government as the means of actually giving to the citizens opportunity, personal security, health, safety and well-being," he contends.

On Federal Powers

The Florida senator favors a liberal extension of federal power in relation to economic questions, but is strict in the extension of federal power in trespassing upon civic liberties or constitutional rights, or those general rights people think of as personal liberties.

Born in Alabama in 1900, Pepper participated in high school athletics, debating societies, and other activities including the editorship of the high school annual.

Rolled Coal

Pepper received his A.B. degree from the University of Alabama, earning his way there by rolling coal, firing boilers and working in the mess hall.

He was a members of the University's cross-country team, the debating team, and was editor of the college annual and college paper. In 1931 he participated in the Southern Oratorical contest held here at the University.

Four Teams Reach Semi-Finals Today

Four teams reached the semi-finals last night in the high school debating tournament sponsored by the Di, Phi and Debate council.

Following an evening of debating in which eight of the twelve original teams entered were knocked out of the run-offs, Scotland Neck, Richard J. Reynolds from Winston-Salem, Four Oaks, and Forest City high schools emerged victorious to go into the semi-finals in the Dialectic hall at 10 o'clock this morning.

The teams which won last night are: Scotlandneck (affirmative)—Jerry Staton and Albert House, Jr.; Reynolds (negative)—Ann Crews and Jack Hunter; Four Oaks (affirmative)—Miriam Lassiter and Harvey Cobb, Jr.; Forest City (negative)—Bill Bostic and Becky Moyer.

Democrats, Republicans, Wallaceites Attend Di Senate's Panel Discussion

The Marshall plan and military preparedness were the subjects which hit the floor of the Dialectic Senate for debate Wednesday evening, and there to discuss them was an incongruous mixture of two Republicans, three Democrats and two members of the local Wallace-for-President club.

The program was a Di-sponsored panel discussion of United States foreign policy with representatives from the Young Democrats club, the Young Republicans club, and the Wallace club asked to form the non-partisan panel which carried the brunt of the debate.

The Republicans were Bill Hipple and Jack Carson; the Wallaceites, Eli Friedland and Sidney Shanker; and the Democrats, Hugh Wells, Ira Gunn, and Sandy Harris.

The Di, under the speakership of John Zucker, had planned an eight-point program for the evening, including the federation of Europe, Central Europe, the far East, the middle East, Trieste and Palestine, in addition to the Marshall plan and military preparedness, which were the only two which reached the floor, due to time limits.

At the end of each discussion, votes were taken of both the Di Senate and the total assembly, including the Di, panel members, and guests in the hall.

The Di vote went for the Marshall plan, 22-2, while the assembly voted for it 34-7. On military preparedness, the substitute motion on the floor, proposed by Al Lowenstein, was that the U. S. government take immediate steps to revise the United Nations charter to create a government of the world with powers adequate to govern the foreign policies of all nations. The vote of the assembly was pro, 21 to 3.

New members inducted into the Di before the panel discussion began were Lindsay Tate and Bill Buchan.

SP CAUCUS

The Student party legislators will hold a caucus at 3 o'clock this afternoon in Roland Parker lounge No. 2.

Harry Davis Will Direct "The Cherokees", Outside Drama for Indians' New Theater

Trustees of the recently organized Cherokee Historical association have appointed Harry E. Davis, associate director of the Carolina Playmakers and University faculty member, as director of the forthcoming outdoor drama, "The Cherokees", which will be presented during the summer of 1949, in a new ampitheatre to be built on the Qualla Indian Reservation, ajoining the Great Smoky National park.

Davis will spend the greater part of the present summer at Cherokee, supervising the construction of the ampitheatre and completing plans for scenery, lighting, and costumes for the production. He will also prepare plans for casting the acting company, which will include both Indian and white actors.

The huge outdoor theatre, with three stages and a seating capacity of around three thousand persons, will be built on a mountain slope near the Indian school at Cherokee. The designer is Albert Q. Bell, who was the architect and builder of the famous Waterside Theatre at Manteo, N. C., the scene of Paul Green's "The Lost Colony." An access road leading to the upper entrance of the theatre is already under construction, and ample parking lots for visitors will be provided.

The play, "The Cherokees," is being written by Kermit Hunter, former business manager of the North Carolina Symphony and at present a member of both the English and dramatic art departments of the University. It will tell the colorful and tragic history of the eastern band of the Cherokee Indians, and deals also with the adventurous white pioneers of the Great Smoky region. Hunter expects to finish the final script in a few weeks.

The Cherokee Historical association of western North Carolina. The group hopes to establish the outdoor drama as an annual summer-long event as an authentic civic venture of the Indians themselves.

The officers of the association's Board of Trustees include: Harry E. Buchanan, Hendersonville, president; Percy B. Ferebee, Andrews, vice-president; Mrs. Mollie Arneach, the only woman ever to be elected to the Cherokee Tribal Council, secretary; and Joseph E. Jennings, superintendent of the Cherokee Indian agency, treasurer.

Other board members include: Chief Henry Bradley of the eastern band; George M. Stephens, Asheville; Governor Gregg Cherry; Professor Samuel Selden of the Carolina Playmakers; and dramatist Paul Green.

ciation is a non-profit organization of civic leaders throughout

The Lost Battalion

There's something drastically wrong somewhere when a meeting that directly affects more then 1000 individuals attracts a gathering of less than 4 per cent of that total.

Yet that was the case Tuesday evening in Memorial hall when exactly 36 members of the senior class attended a session at which plans were to be discussed for their coming Senior week festivities and the commencement that follows.

Granted that other meetings being held at the same time were serious attendance competitors to the senior get-together ;that many seniors were averly excited by the Willie P. Mangum award to bother themselves with the rest of the agenda; that "Scudda-Hoo, Scudda-Hay" was making its last Chapel Hill appearance; and that in any group as large as the senior class, there will always be a good many who don't give a hoot about what goes on — granted all these and other excuses, it still stands to reason that more than 36 seniors — including five or six class officers and committee members — should show up for such an important affair.

But they didn't.

Class President Benson McCutcheon and the other 35 attending seniors were somewhat at a loss for an explanation of the poor turnout. And they had good cause to be. Certainly many more than 36 seniors knew about the meeting. It was publicized on the front pages of the Daily Tar Heel on two occasions, was announced over the public address system at Tuesday's baseball game, even spread somewhat by word of mouth. But evidently something more was needed.

Such an occasion will again present itself early next week when another senior meeting is planned. We hope that this time more seniors will feel the urge to attend and will thus show that thy still have some pride in the class of 1948.

— B.G.

Big Weekend

Today is the beginning of a Big Weekend. It will be a typical Dance weekend, with dances, concerts, imports. Visitors will be coming into Chapel Hill from other schools and towns throughout this and surrounding states. When they leave Sunday they will take with them impressions and reports of this university and its students.

Many people never see Chapel Hill except on Dance weekends, and the reports past visitors have carried with them have been largely responsible for one side of the Carolina reputation.

The term "Carolina Gentleman" has largely fallen into disuse. Male students here have become just another bunch of college Joes like those at State or Wake Forest or — it hurts to say so — Duke.

It would be nice if we could revive that name of Carolina Gentlemen with all its best implications.

This weekend would be a good time to start.

Controversial Issues

Three Democrats, two Republicans and two Wallaceites sat in the hall of the Dialectic Senate Wednesday night and talked over American foreign policy. The panel discussion was sponsored by the Di in an effort to get a non-partisan viewpoint of such things as the Marshall plan, military preparedness, the situation in Palestine and Central Europe, and other points of controversy.

The panel, after almost three hours of discussion, had only gotten several very partisan viewpoints of the Marshall plan and military preparedness.

Even though the meeting changed the minds of no one present on the two issues considered, some very interesting food for thought was brought onto the floor of the Di, and the Senate is to be commended for sponsoring the affair. We would like to see more open discussion of controversial issues with all sides allowed to speak their minds freely.

—C.H.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $6.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y. Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ..... ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager ..... T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor . . . Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associate Editors . . . Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady, Raney Stanford
News Editor . . . Herb Nachman
Society Editor . . . Weddy Thorp
Photographer . . Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. . . . . Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. C. B Mendenhall, Chan Pegram
Subscription Mgrs. . . . Jim King
Asst. Business Mgrs. Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. . . Randall Hudson, Don Snow

NEWS STAFF: Charlie Gibson, Sally Woodhull, Jim Dickinson, Gordon Huffines, Jack Brown, Stewart McKeel, Margaret Gaston, Dan Wallace, Charlie Craven, Mark Sumner, Emily Baker, Doris Weaver, Harriet Sipple, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.

SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Larry Fox, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher, Mel Horowitz, Faith Adams, Anne Wells.

BUSINESS STAFF: James Crews, Jackie Rogers, J. C. Brown, Joe Williams, Gladys Cottrell, Bill Peebles, Neal Howard, Jr., Vin Snell, Candy Jones, Kathryn McLean, Jim Brown, Baxter Morris, Ed Warton, Leonard Dudley, Jean Williams, Charmian Griffin.

NIGHT EDITOR: Charlie Gibson NIGHT SPORTS: Buddy Vaden

Just Here

How To Be A Cad For 36c

By Larry Berry

Formal protest filed by movie-goer: To you execrable.. fiends who throw popcorn at the great silver screen when thousands, nay, millions are starving on scattered portions of the earth's surface, and you who laugh when the hero makes passes at the femme fatale just because you could do better in his place, what can I say to you cads who whistle every time a glamorous three dimensional figure whom you see in two dimensions walks across the screen; you know you are only using escapist methods.

You poor wretches yell just because your moronic mind construes a meaning from the sound strip that was never thought of, since the producers had no intention of presenting the film where white jacketed boys could control the audience.

Your behavior as Carolina students would make wonderful field work for a psychology class in infant behaviorism, but the large percentage of the movie audience is not at all interested in this growing profession. I realize this is a reflection upon them since they were once children and might have had something of their future determined for them if their parents had been interested in the field.

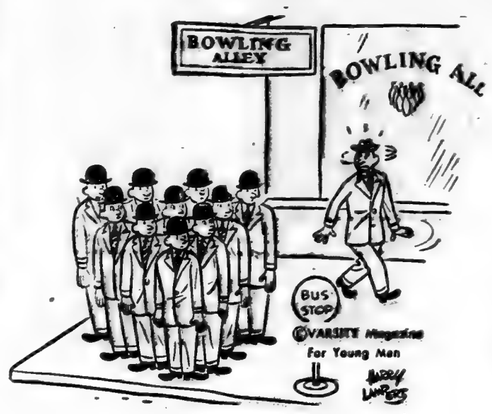
I agree with most people that the present output of our film studios is rather bad, but I think a better way to criticize is to stay away instead of going and trying to make the animated figures something they can never hope to be. Why not just be content to have bull sessions afterwards and rip up the movie, instead of making verbal protests and mock emotional outbreaks during the showing.

The best solution to this problem would seem to me to be the installation of a glass wall about midway in the theatre to block off the sound of jeers down front. An arrangement of this sort would be highly impractical since we never know how the caliber of the audience will be divided, so why don't we all just let society have its way.

* * *

"Now they lay me down to lie until some ambulance picks me up" might well be the state of mind of one of our students some bright day when he falls before the bumper of a campus car whose master is hurrying out from a University parking lot. These demons of the dirt track wheel about the lots with clouds of dust or clods of mud accompanying the scream of tortured tires.

If our Safety Council doesn't find some method of slowing certain of our campus hot shots down, the pedestrian's best friends will become his rocking chair and insurance policy. I once thought the establishment of a Safety Council was not needed on a college campus, but I now think we could even go so far as to establish a schoolboy patrol to cope with some of the minds that must drive these cars.



WHAT'S UP in Graham Memorial

A more pleasant way to end a day and begin an evening was never found than GM's recorded dinner music hour, at 6:30 in the main lounge.

Tonight you'll hear Leopold Stokowski and the Philadelphia orchestra playing Stravinsky's Fire Bird Suit. It's a Victor recording, and a mighty good one.

Also on tonight's program is Shostakovitch's Ninth Symphony, played by the New York Philharmonic Symphony with Efrem Kurtz conducting. This symphony, the third of a triology written during the war, is meant to "create a musical interpretation of our triumph over barbarism and express the greatness of our people," according to its composer.

"It is a merry little piece," he said. "Musicians will love to play it and critics will delight in blasting it."

The Good Word

A New Deal For Pepper

By Sandy Grady

Don't drop your ear trumpet in surprise if Senator Claude Pepper, Florida's gift to the Democratic Party, begins waving a flag for Eisenhower in his speech here tonight.

The Senator is one of the staunchest party-line Democrats within the Washington city limits, and he is renowned for his New Deal ideas. He always backs the Administration and "the boys". By rights, he is a Truman supporter from way back.

But lately he has been making gentle noises in the direction of Eisenhower. He was recently quoted that he was "happy that so many of the Florida delegates were in favor of Eisenhower."

His support of the General would be a party-shaking move, but it is (to hear the thud of a cliche) a possibility and stranger things have happened around here. Maybe you had better take a listen.

* * *

You can see that the press is right on the ball. Keen-eyed, alert, sharp-witted, their noses always sniffing for news. Like a bunch of hound dogs, maybe.

It seems the Laboratory Theater put on a comedy, "The Inspector General", last weekend. It was a fairly competent performance and a few hundred people must have elbowed into Graham Memorial to see it.

Here it is Friday, and the keen-eyed, print-smeared editorial staff hasn't got a review on the production yet. Cast your keen eyes down in shame, men.

Belately, let us say that the play was well done, slightly hysterical in spots, with a couple of over-played characters. Jim Geiger's portrayal of the Mayor had a great deal of range and polish. The resulting performance was a pretty happy thing. It proved one thing: a government by any name smells the same.

* * *

Back to the subject of newspapers, we wonder how many people have gone quietly but desperately mad looking at the editorial page for the past two days. We're not talking of the content, though that is reason enough, but the appearance.

If you have looked at the page and got the feeling that something was missing, like looking at a crooked picture, worry no longer. It is the column rules, those little lines that run between the columns. The edit staff figures this will spruce things up a bit and make the dialectics printed on Page Two more readable. Now for something to fill up all of this big stupid blank empty white space.

* * *

Leave us close out with a Beautiful Thought for the Day, a gem of wisdom from the pen of the French poet, Arthur Rimbaud. "Le meilleur, c'est un sommeil bein ivre sur la greve."

If you lost your French text, it goes: "The best thing is a completely drunken sleep on a sandy beach."

Out of Hollywood

A Modest Man, Madison

By Patricia Clary

Hollywood —(UP)— Movie stars are the backfield heros who get the credit for winning a picture, but Guy Madison says it's the experienced character actors, like the line, who are the backbone of every victory.

"People who seldom get beyond featured billing, and not always that, are the ones who make players like myself look good," Madison said. "Those old-timers, knowing every trick in the business, take the roughest knocks and hold me up when I fumble the ball.

"And believe me," he added, "that's awful easy in front of the camera for a guy like me, still wet behind the ears in screen acting."

Madison is co-starred with Diana Lynn, another comparative newcomer to the screen, in "Texas, Brooklyn and Heaven," the Robert S. Golden production which will be released through United Artists.

They are surrounded by one of the finest "lines" of character actors and actresses in the business. The cast includes two Academy Award winners, James Dunn and Michael Chekhov; Florence Bates, Lionel Stander, Roscoe Karns, James Burke, Margaret Hamilton, Moyna Macgill and Irene Ryan.

Madison said he found particularly in working with Stander, Dunn and Chekhov that they were "holding the picture together."

Write Away

Cofield Gets A Cheer...

Editor:

Since last Wednesday when you published a letter of Eric Cofield's, the various readers of your paper have been subjected to a barrage of criticism of Erie's views on campus politics.

Erie has touched a sore point in campus politics. For that reason many campus politicians seem to feel it their duty to condemn him. They seem to feel that everything they do is right and that they are above criticism.

I wish to commend him for his courageous stands and I can only wish that there were a few more like him.

Charles Fox

...And Looks For A Name

Editor:

It may be of interest to the student body to know that a check by telephone on April 27th with the Graduate School and with the Central Records Office, plus a check of the Student Directory and the Master Directory at the Y, revealed no student enrolled in the University under the name of Charles Hexagon.

So much for the derogatory statements that appeared in the Daily Tar Heel of Tuesday, under that name.

Erie Cofield

Campus Forum

Grades For The Faculty

By Pete Gerns

Last year, student body president Dewey Dorsett set up a committee to investigate facilities of instruction, and among other things, to look into the matter of grading faculty members which was proposed by several students. This subject has been the topic of conversation lately and Campus Forum endeavors now to present several opinions on "What is your opinion on faculty grade rates?"

"I think students should be able to grade faculty members on all phases of teaching courses here at Carolina." George D. Whitfield..

"In theory it is a good idea; but because of the fact that students are often unfamiliar with what the faculty's task actually is, the students' opinion may prove inadequate for fair grading." Steve Jones.

"Yes—'A hint to the wise is or should be sufficient'." J. D. Sewell.

"I believe it is a good idea although the final word should be left up to the department heads and the administration." Pete Hexner.

"Such grading would be very helpful in many cases to both student and professor." Cliff Wilson, Jr.

"With the present difficulty of acquiring competent and satisfactory teachers such a system would be unfair both to the university authorities and to those teachers who, though not completely qualified for the work which they are assigned to do, are making every effort to do it to the best of their ability." Renaud C. Shannonhouse.

"I think personal prejudice prevents a fair grading of faculty members by students." Ernie Parker.

"The grading of professors by students should serve to stimulate the professor's interest in the students as individuals." A. W. Flynn.

"Under the present system, not knowing what section ... will be in or what instructor you will have, the grading of instructors would be of no use. However, if you knew what instructors you would have the system of grading would be a great help in selecting instructors by knowing what others think of him and even perhaps improving some instructor." Bill Moore.

"The grading of professors by students should make evident to professors the ineffectiveness or deficiency of their lectures which they might not otherwise realize." Nelson Taylor.

"First, it would make the student more responsible for what the instruction concerns; second, most students could offer suggestions that would make the instructions more acceptable, more interesting, more appealing, more progressive, instead of remaining somewhat static and fixed year to year." Aubrey William

The Political Spotlight

Get That Red Ink Bottle

By Charlie Long

The legislature finance committee has not turned in a report to date on their investigation of campus money matters, but the story seems to simmer down to three major blunders by campus money moguls. When the Board of Trustees was petitioned last year to give student government control of its money the request stated that five dollars would be collected from each undergraduate per quarter and three eighty five per quarter from graduate, law, and pharmacy students.

The budget for this year was drawn up by Johnny Jones in the spring of 1947. Jones at the time was secretary-treasurer of the Student body and Chairman of the Budget Commission. When the budget was submitted to the legislature finance committee it carried the following estimations according to Bill Mackie who was chairman of the committee. The budget estimated an enrollment of 7,300 students. Actually there were only 7,100 students, That error overestimated the budget three thousand dollars.

The second error was in rating the above listed enrollment as all undergraduates. Actually the graduate enrollment was around eleven hundred. That error overestimated the budget approximately three thousand seven hundred dollars.

The third error was in thinking that the university cashier collected one hundred per cent on money due the office. Actually the cashier collects as a rule about ninety three per cent. That error overestimated the budget seven thousand six hundred dollars. Grand total of overestimation, fourteen thousand three hundred.

Exactly who is to blame is hard to say. Many of the errors that occurred could not be foreseen by the best of men. The important thing now is that we bear down on all expenditures and guard every penny that goes out of the treasury. There is no operating surplus worth speaking of and that means a very lean year for all activities. The pressure is on, and must stay on — unless we are going to get out the red ink bottle.

Prior to 1944 one of the strong organizations on the campus was the Town Men's Association. Serving the purpose in town that the Inter-dorm Council does in the dorms and the I. F. C. for the frats, the Association provided a link between student affairs and the men living in the village. During its life it conducted many affairs such as socials, dances, intramural sports, etc. At the peak of the war it went the way of many good Carolina groups.

Today, with over three thousand men living in town there is a definite need for a revival, and at least one person is working toward that end. John Van Hecke, better known as "Joker John", has drawn up a tentative plan to reestablish the outfit and get the town men back into the swing of campus activity. If the plan is adopted and is carried out successfully then we will have taken another step toward reviving the Carolina of old.

To those who are interested we wish to urge your support of the Van Hecke idea and at least see what can be done. Certainly the political parties who have used the town men as a cross tie in their platforms should do everything possible to carry through and give the town men a break.

The Paste Pot

An Un-American Proposal

(The Daily Tar Heel today reprints this editorial from the pages of the Daily Californian, newspaper of the University of California.)

Hard on the heels of last week's "Communist-Front Registration" act comes another "Un-American" proposal which if enacted into law can have an equally damaging effect on our civil liberties.

Rep. William C. Cole (R-Mo.) has proposed a "Communist control" bill designed to bar from the federal ballot any political party which "is directly affiliated by any means whatsoever" with Communists. The representative also candidly admits that the scope of his bill "very definitely" includes Henry Wallace's Independent Progressive party.

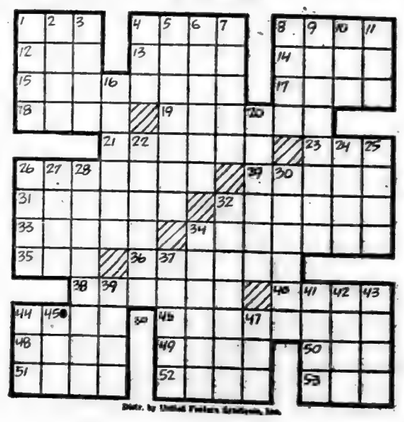
Implicit in Cole's bill is a kind of political idealism that we don't care for a bit. It is the same old pseudo-benevolent paternalism that seeks to circumvent and/or ignore normal democratic processes on the ground that such action is necessary for the preservation of the national well-being. The fact that Wallace's party is on the ballot by virtue of a legal petitioning process makes no difference to Representative Cole. He would empower the government to supercede the will of the voters—as indicated by their signing of a party's petitions—whenever it decided that party was "Communist controlled."

We see in Cole's bill a dangerous contradiction of democratic principles. It seeks to shackle the normal electoral procedure by placing an arbitrary and unjustifiable qualification on the eligibility of a candidate. And it patently ignores the voters' basic right to choose their candidates as they alone see fit, regardless of their affiliation or backing.

Representative Cole's bill is in violation of the civil rights of the individual citizen as set down in the Constitution. As such it is to be thoroughly condemned and repudiated.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE



ACROSS

1—A weight
4 Policemen (slang)
8 Ireland
12 Town in Oklahoma
13 Exposed
14—Pert. to aircraft
15—Finished
17 Shack
18 Large plant
19—Kind of hemp
21—Explosives
23—Morocco (abbr.)
26 Those who glide on ice
29—Major premise
31—Early Germanic people
32—Father or mother
33—Wounded with horns
34—Biblical pennies
35—Female sheep
36—Corrects
38—Swirls
40—Irish
44—Premium for exchange
45—Witty sayings
48—Solitary
49—Glacial snow
50—Enclosure
51—Swamps
52—Long knife
53—To visualize

DOWN

1—Diplomatic politeness
2—Smell
3—Title
4—Mountain gap
5—Kitchen utensils
6—Parts of flowers
7—Part of fishing line
8—The Orient
9—To pound again
10—Rage
11—To bow head
16—Grinding instrument
20—Land surrounded by water
22—Took advice
24—All (comb form)
25—Weight of India (var.)
26—Wise
27—To be aware of
28—Coming to terms
30—Rubber
32—Thoughtful
34—To dig out
37—Aspects
39—Performs
41—Bits
42—Pintail duck
43—Serf
44—Priest's garment
45—Muck
47—Command to horse

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Netters Win, 7-2; Hearnmen Rained Out, Play Today

Tennis Squad Leaves Today For W&M Test

By Dave Ferebee

Carolina's undefeated tennis team captured its 16th consecutive win of the season yesterday with a 7-2 victory over Presbyterian college of Clinton, S. C.

Coach John Kenfield's netters lost a toal of six sets in subduing the visiting racquetmen, who had defeated State college by 9-0 last week.

The Tar Heels next move up to Virginia Beach on Saturday where they will encounter the mighty Indians of William and Mary, another undefeated outfit which last season handed Carolina its only loss. Prospects are not too bright for the Tar Heels this year either, since they will be without the service of Captain Vic Seixas, who is still under doctor's orders to rest. Coach Kenfield commented yesterday that "A victory for us Saturday will be somewhat of an upset."

Taylor Wins 15th

In the feature singles match of the afternoon, Clark Taylor overcame Bob Spurrier and won his 5th match of the season against one loss. After losing the first set, 4-6, he rebounded to capture the next two sets and the match by a score of 6-4, 6-3.

Charlie Rice had an equally hard assignment in disposing of the Presbyterian number two Kay Kaiser. He dropped the first set, 2-6, but won the final two, 6-4, 6-1. Tar Heel number three netter, Ray Morris, scored a relatively easy victory over Bill Harper in two sets, 6-3, 6-2. Morris has won 14 of 16 matches this year.

Don Skakle, only undefeated member of the squad, further proved his merit by defeating Jack Wilkerson, 6-1, 6-4. Skakle now has a record of 14 wins in as many starts.

Alexander-Gruner Win

Playing in the number five slot, Heath Alexander copped a win over Sonny Bradley, 7-5, 6-2, while Stan Gruner, number six man, completed the singles victories with a 6-1, 6-3 triumph over Tommy Wilburn.

Alexander and Skakle provided the only Tar Heel victory in doubles play by defeating Bradley and Wilburn, 6-0,6-4.

The summary: Singles—Taylor (C) defeated Spurrier, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3; Rice (C) defeated Kaiser, 2-6, 6-4, 6-1; Morris (C) defeated Harper, 6-3, 6-2; Skakle (C) defeated Wilkerson, 6-1, 6-4; Alexander (C) defeated Bradley, 7-5, 6-2; Grunner (C) defeated Wilburn, 6-1, 6-3; Doubles—Spurrier and Harper (P) defeated Taylor and Wilder, 6-4, 4-6, 9-7; Kaiser and Wilkerson (P) defeated Morris and Gruner, 9-7, 6-4; Alexander and Skakle (C) defeated Bradley and Wilburn, 6-0, 6-4.

HARVIE WARD, JR., youthful Tar Heel golfer, is shown above in a victory celebration following his North-South Amateur golf triumph over Frank Stranahan at Pinehurst last week. He is pictured as he was carried off the 18th green by Carolina students who followed him while he won the championship with his outstanding putting. Ward was named Athlete of the Week by the Greensboro Daily News. (Photo courtesy Daily News)

Freshman Tracksters Down Durham; Cop Ten Firsts in Second Victory

Carolina's freshman track squad gained their second triumph of the season over Durham high school yesterday by taking a 65 and one-half to 56 and one-half decision in Durham.

The youthful Tar Heels copped the ten first places to the Bulldogs four in a match that saw the Durhamites completely dominate four events.

Howell led the scoring for the Carolinians with victories in both hurdle events and a third place tie in the high jump. Ballow copped second spot honors for the Blue and Whiters with first places in the 100-yard dash and the high jump for a total of 10 points.

High scoring honors for Durham and the entire meet go to Byrd, who copped firsts in the 880 and mile run as well as taking third spots in both weight events.

The four events that the Bulldogs swept were the mile run, the 880-yard run, the shot put, and the mile relay, while the Tar Heels dominated the 100-yard dash.

The complete summary:

120-yd. High hurdles — Howell (C), Brooks (D), Shields (C). 15.1.

100-yd. dash — Ballow (C), Ingram (C), Clemens (C). 10.05.

Mile run — Byrd (D), Veasey (D), Dennis (D). 4:45.0.

440-yd. dash — Spain (C), Ewing (D), Evans (C). 53.02.

220-yd. low hurdles — Howell (C), Shields (C), Brooks (D). 24.08.

880-yd. run — Byrd (D), Poe (D) Hines (D). 2:7.4.

220-yd. dash — Clemens (C), Ingram (C), Lloyd (D). 23.8.

Mile relay — Won by Durham. 3:38.5.

Javelin — House (C), Mosley (C), Garden (D). 152 ft. 7 in.

Shot put — Galikfianakis (D), Barry (D), Byrd (D). 43 ft. 8½ in.

Discus — Ogden (C), Galikfianakis (D), Byrd (D). 113 ft. 2 in.

Broad jump — Hubbard (C). McDonald (C), Lloyd (D) 19 ft. 11 and three-quarters in.

High jump — Ballow (C). Mangum (D), Howell and Hansen (C), Craig and Wolfe (D).

Pole vault — Kamp (C), Carpenter (D), Love (D). 10 ft. 4 in. 5 ft. 7 in.

Spring Cage Drills Will Start Monday

Spring basketball practice will get under way Monday afternoon on the main floor of Woollen gym, Coach Tom Scott announced yesterday.

All eligible members of last year's varsity, jayvee and freshman teams are asked to report along with any other potential candidates for the 1948-49 squad. The drills will continue for three weeks.

Tar Heels Can Gain Big Four Lead With Win

With only two more days to go, Ole Jupe Pluvius took advantage of his seasonal perogative to wash away the baseball game between Carolina and State college with a cold April shower yesterday.

However, the baseballers will attempt to thwart the elements and play the game on Emerson field at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The lineups for the Big Four tussle will be the same with Vinnie DiLorenzo opposing Ernie Johnson on the mound. DiLorenzo was the loser when the two teams met last Saturday. The speedy southpaw fell before an onslaught of Wolfpack base hits which included a brace of four masters by Jack McComas.

Johnson limited the Tar Heels to seven hits and one run Saturday in recording an 8-1 victory for the 'Pack. State has a record of 3-1 in the Big Four and Johnson took the decision all four times.

If the Hearnmen win today they will move into first place in the Big Four race. State is presently leading the loop and defeat would drop Carolina two full games behind the pacesetters.

The junior varsity game between State and Carolina slated yesterday for Raleigh was also cancelled because of rain, but will be played this afternoon in the Capital City.

The Southern conference pennant race will also be affected by today's game. Both Carolina and Washington and Lee have 7-1 records in Conference play and the two teams will play two games this week. A loss by either the Tar Heels or Generals could give the other school undisputed possession of first place.

DiLorenzo will be continuing an old rivalry when he steps up on the hill this afternoon. Last season he pitched two important victories over the 'Pack. The slim portsider will be aiming to improve on his 3-1 season record.

McComas will be furnishing the big offensive threat for the Wolfpack along with another cage star. Leo Katkaveck. McComas is leading the Big Four with a mark of .625. Katkaveck is right behind with .571. McComas is also on top in the matter of RBIs with 10. Offensive leader of the Tar Heels is Kenny Black with a .352 average. The 'Pack is also leading the loop in team hitting with a squad total of .351.

Intramural All-Star Softball Squad Preps for Big Four Field Day at Duke

The Intramural all-star softball squad will hold its second intra-squad game this afternoon in an effort to determine the final crew which will represent Carolina in the annual Big Four Intramural field day to be held at Duke May 6.

Despite the fact that 20 players are trying for positions on the squad, outfielders and left-handed hitters are needed, the Intramural office announced yesterday.

In their initial squad game held last Saturday, Regan and Haigler's team copped an 8-2 win over Thorne and Smith's crew. DKE's Gibbons led the hitting in the intrasquad game, collecting four hits. The way it looks now, Gibbons will be given the nod for duties behind the plate in the Field Day contest.

On the basis of first try-outs, the Mural office has picked a tentative starting nine to represent the Tar Heels, but pointed out that this list was by no means final and is subject to change, if a change is merited.

—Makings— In the Majors

By United Press

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Brooklyn 17, New York 7.
WP—Blanca; LP—Lee.
Philadelphia 4, Boston 2.
WP—Rowe; LP—Beazley.
Pittsburgh 4, Chicago 2.
WP—Riddle; LP—Borowy.
Cincinnati 5, St. Louis 4 (14 inn.)
WP—Gumpert; LP—Wilks.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

New York 5, Washington 4. (10 inn.)
WP—Page; LP—Thompson.
Boston 11, Philadelphia 5.
WP—Johnson; LP—McCahn.
Chicago 5, Detroit 4.
WP—Haynes; LP—Houtteman.
Cleveland 5, St. Louis 2.
WP—Lemon; LP—Fannin.

Heavy Workouts Over; Grid Contest Tomorrow

All heavy work was completed yesterday for the third annual Blue-White spring football game in Kenan stadium tomorrow, a contest which will be a preview of Carolina's grid strength next autumn.

Coach Carl Snavely early this week divided the squad into two sections, one under the direction of Max Reed and the other under Jim Gill, and they have been working separately in preparations for the big battle.

Sponsored by the Monogram club, the Blue-White game is expected to draw a banner attendance of Carolina supporters. It will be open to all with an admission fee of 50 cents for students and a dollar for the general public to be charged. Kickoff time will be 2 p.m.

It will be a regulation game in every way with all the trimmings of a regular season big time number. The Univeristy band will be on hand. Carolina's students will inaugurate the "card" system of cheering, to be used regularly next fall. Reporters will be here from a number of newspapers to "cover" the event.

Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice is expected to be the spearhead of Jim Gill's Whites, who probably will be the popular favorites. Most of Carolina's offensive stars, including Art Weiner, great pass-catching end, have been assigned to the Gill combination.

At halftime Carolina's "Coaches of the Year" will be honored. The Monogram club picks these men, its version of the University's most outstanding head coach (from all sports) and assistant coach.

Two changes have been made in the squad. Dick Bunting and Gus Purcell have been switched, the former moving to the Blues while the latter goes to the Whites.

The Monogram club announces that tickets will continue in the Y and Lenoir tomorrow and that ducats can be secured from any club member. Sales will also be made at Kenan gates on Saturday.

. . . I am a busy housewife of a Pharmacy student and thanks to the Twin Village Laundry and Cleaners all my laundry needs are taken care of quickly and most efficiently.

MRS. BILL ANDERSON

TWIN VILLAGE LAUNDRY AND CLEANERS
FEATURING 3-DAY SERVICE
Carrboro Phone F-3541

REHDERS
CHAPEL HILL FLOWER SHOP
Opposite Post Office Corner

We Specialize in
PACKING BEER
In Containers with Ice for
PICNICS and PARTIES
Call 3536
K & M
Beer Delivery Service

EYE
HAVE US FILL THE PRESCRIPTION for Durham Optical Co
215 W. MAIN ST.
TEL. F 2141
OPTICIANS

THIS MAN WANTED

. . . Height about 5 ft. 11 . . . Weight around 180 pounds . . . Age about 38 . . . Brown hair speckled with grey . . . Wears spectacles . . . Likes crowds, gin rummy, tennis and trombone . . . Known by alias "The Sentimental Gentleman" . . . He's wanted in every State in the Union consequently doesn't linger long enough anywhere . . . Carries big mob with him who carry out his orders at the wave of a hand . . . Dangerous . . . They're all armed to blast the blues away . . . Has a long record . . . On the air . . . In pictures . . . On Victor records . . . In person . . . If you sight him run, do not walk, to your nearest or dearest beau and start dancing . . . Familiar to millions as Tommy Dorsey . . . He'll be in our midst

NEXT WEDNESDAY
At Raleigh's Memorial Auditorium

Tickets for Carolina Mugs to attend are on sale at Eckerd's in Durham for only two bucks. Don't stool on this gang because it's red hot.

2 — BEAUTIFUL HOMES — 2 AND 130 - ACRE FARM — 130
Cut Into
SMALL TRACTS AND BUILDING LOTS
AT AUCTION
SATURDAY May 1

FIRST SALE at 2 P.M.—In Carrboro, N. C.
On Weaver Road, and known as the Clarence Haithcock Home

This Beautiful Home has 9 Rooms, 2 Baths, and is one of the best homes in Carrboro, with large lot, several outbuildings and lots of beautiful shrubbery.

IT WILL HAVE TO BE SEEN TO BE APPRECIATED

Drive out and look this property over before the sale, then attend the sale and bid your judgment, for when the bidding stops, the property will be sold.

SECOND SALE at 4 P.M.

This Property Located 2 Miles South of Mt. Carmel Church—6 Miles from Chapel Hill on Chapel Hill-Farrington Highway

- 1 6-ROOM HOME, Practically New.
- 30 BEAUTIFUL BUILDING LOTS.
- 1 GOOD FARM with about 80 Acres, Several Tobacco and Feed Barns, about 30 Acres in Cultivation, with 4.1 Acres Tobacco Allotment for 1948.

Both of the above Properties will be Sold on Easy Terms:
½ Cash, Balance Like Rent

—We Will also Give Away CASH PRIZES—
Good Music for Your Entertainment!

UNIVERSITY AUCTION Co., Selling Agts.
GEDDIE FIELDS, Chapel Hill, N. C., Auctioneer
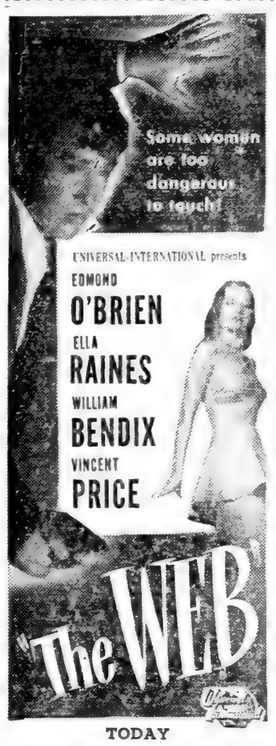
If you have property you want sold get in touch with us

Each time you taste ice-cold Coca-Cola, you are reminded that here is the quality of genuine goodness. Experience... many a refreshing experience... has taught people everywhere to trust the quality of Coca-Cola.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO., DURHAM, N. C.

- Banishes perspiration odor
- Checks perspiration moisture
- Gives longer-lasting protection
- Gentle to skin and clothing
- Keeps you fragrantly dainty
- Stays creamy-smooth in the jar



It's the most wonderful deodorant you've ever used! Get yours now at half price and extra jars for the rest of the family!

FOR A LIMITED TIME ONLY

SUTTON'S DRUG STORE

Dr. William Kohn
OPTOMETRIST
Phone 3686
Over Carolina Coffee Shop
Monday-Friday 9:00-5:00
Saturday 9:00-1:00

Fine Watches Need Excellent Care . . .
A Complete Watch Repair Service at—
BLACKWOOD ASSOCIATE STORE

TODAY
VILLAGE

PATRONIZE
Tar Heel Advertisers
Today

Ridgeway's
OPTICIANS
Complete Eyeglass Service
Prompt attention to all mail orders
PROFESSIONAL BUILDING
Raleigh N. C.

FURNITURE . . .

• Upholstered • Refinished
• Repaired • Made to Order
Charles Valentine's Cabinet Shop
PHONE 9367 — PITTSBORO RD

The ORIENTAL
CHINESE-AMERICAN RESTAURANT
116 E. Parrish Street
Durham, N. C.

Enter Our University Lake Fishing Contest!
JUST RECEIVED —
Complete Line of
FISHING TACKLE
Jitterbugs
Johnson Silver Minnows
Sputter Fuss
Hula Spinner
Miracle Midget
O'Skipper Wobblers
Broken-Back Pikes
Hula Dancers
1-in. Hawaii Wigglers
1½-in. Hawaii Wigglers
2-in. Hawaii Wigglers
Minnow seines
Minnow buckets
25 varieties of bass and crappie flies
Casting rods and reels
Fly rods and reels
Any Fishing Supplies
You get a Better Buy at a
BLACKWOOD ASSOCIATE STORE
312 West Franklin Street
CHAPEL HILL

State Dentistry Society Approves Report for Starting Dental School

The North Carolina Dental Society has adopted a comprehensive report calling for the establishment of a school of dentistry here.

Meeting in Asheville, the group strongly urged the new school to be provided in the near future. The school would call for an enrollment of 150 students.

Included in the recommendation adopted by the society are provisions for graduate and postgraduate study. Also to be included in the school would be a training course for dental hygienists.

The need for a school of dentristy is evident in the fact there will be approximately 300 predental students seeking admission into dental schools while there are only accommodations for 25.

North Carolina already faces a critical shortage of dentists and unless a dental school is established, the need is expected to increase. This fact has been magnified by the action of most dental schools, sharply restricting pre-dental students from other states.

In addition the report calls for the location of a regional school for the training of 50 Negro dental students in a suitable place.

The 1947 estimate of people per dentists in North Carolina was 3,800 as compared with a national average of 1,800. North Carolina's inadequate supply and need of a dental school were brought out emphatically by the report.

The comprehensive study of the needs and facilities in the dental field of North Carolina was made by Dr. John T. O'Rourke, director of the Graduate School and Research Department of Tufts Dental college.

In analyzing the pros and cons of the possible site for the school, the reports say that both Duke and Bowman Gray Medical School were considered, but that Carolina was recommended as first choice.

"The need for immediate action to insure an adequate supply of dentists and auxiliary personnel; the role which the school would play in the State health program, and the need for assurance of continued financial support indicate that the school should be a unit the size of the University of North Carolina," the reports explains.

HILLEL SERVICES

The Weekly Hillel Friday evening services will be held tonight at 7:30. Dr. Lewis Kattsoff will be the guest speaker for the evening. Also a recorded message by Eddie Cantor will be heard.

New Proposal Combines Draft With UMT

Truman Reluctantly Approves Compromise; Hearings End on Larger Air Force Issue

Washington, April 29 — (UP) — A compromise plan to combine the draft with universal military training received President Truman's reluctant approval today at the same time that plans for a stronger air force were being argued before the Senate Appropriations committee.

The latest measure to strengthen the nation's military manpower calls for inducting 161,000 youths between 18 and 19-and-a-half years old for one year of military training. Another 190,000 between the ages of 19-and-a-half and 25 would be called for two years of active duty.

The compromise is expected to be reported out to the Senate floor next week. However, it may meet with opposition in the House where many lawmakers are plugging for a full-scale military training bill.

Mr. Truman himself made it clear that he is not entirely satisfied with such a compromise although he terms it a step in the right direction.

Meanwhile, the equally critical issue of deciding between a 66 or a 70-group air force is heading for a showdown, too, in the Senate Appropriations committee. Yesterday the Senate group wound up its public hearings by witnessing Army Secretary Royall's plea for the 66 air groups.

The Army secretary emphasized that this country must not place all its preparedness eggs in the air force basket. Royall said a stronger ground force should be set up to occupy bases like Alaska, Greenland, and the Azores.

–Redistricting–

(Continued from page 1)

presented for the dorm women's area, while no alterations were suggested for the women's town voting division.

Both dorm coed changes called for two districts instead of the one planned. One change specified the districts as (1) Kenan, McIver, Alderman; (2) Spencer, Carr, Smith, Archer house. The other: (1) Alderman, McIver, Spencer; (2) Kenan, Carr, Smith, Archer house.

The proposal was made during the meeting that the Elections board be given the duty of ascertaining 30 days before an election the exact number of seats to be filled in the Student Legislature from each district

Another meeting of the Elections committee will be held next Tuesday to further the discussion on the redistricting bill.

–Singer–

(Continued from page 1)

"without any trouble at all, he just sang for me and I knew he was it."

Beneke's second appearance will be in concert tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in Memorial hall. Tonight's dance will be the first engagement on the orchestra's four weeks tour. The band will also appear at the Universities of Alabama, Louisiana and of Florida.

Literary Sorority Announces Drive For Membership

Tau chapter of Chi Delta Phi, national honorary literary sorority, has announced the opening of its spring membership contest, which will close on Friday, May 7.

Short stories, poetry, reviews, and other forms of creative writing should be submitted before Friday to Sally Woodhull, 202 Alderman. Judging of manuscripts and selection of initiates is done by present members of the group.

The sorority was founded in 1919 at University of Tennessee, and Tau chapter, first chartered in 1925, was reactiviated in 1941. Purposes of the group are to encourage writing and the improvement of writing, and to provide a forum for writing ideas.

Officers of next year's chapter at Carolina are Sally Woodhull, president; Anne Wells, vice-president; Dusty Moore, secretary; and Virginia Forward, treasurer.

Membership in the sorority is limited in order to facilitate discussion of members' work at meetings. Since it is a functioning group, only girls who are rising seniors will be eligible for the spring contest.

In addition to holding literary forums and hearing speakers, members of Chi Delta Phi also write the May Day pageant, to be produced this year on Sunday in the Forest theater.

Marcella Harrer has been president of the sorority for the past year, and other senior and graduate members include Eleanor Craig, Margaret Goodman, Julia Ross, Liz Hazlett, Mary Louise Kelly, Joyce Peterson, and Elizabeth Savage.

SEMINAR DELEGATES

It is requested by CRIL that all members submit the qualification sheet for the delegate their organization is recommending for the summer U. N. Seminar to be held June 13-18.

Jerry the Tailor
OVER
N. C. CAFETERIA

Whid Powell's
COLONIAL HOUSE SYSTEM
WAFFLES
GRILLED FRANKS
Weekdays
11:00 a. m. — 12 a. m.
Friday & Saturday
11:00 a. m. — 2 a. m.
Rosemary St.—Opp. City Hall

Fordham University
SCHOOL OF LAW
NEW YORK
THREE-YEAR DAY
FOUR-YEAR EVENING
CO-EDUCATIONAL
Member Assn. of American Law Schools
Accredited College Degree Required for Admission
Veterans of World War II who completed two years of college may be admitted. Degree may be completed within one year of honorable discharge.
Full transcript of record required in every case.
FIRST YEAR CLASS BEGINS September 27, 1948
For further information address
Registrar, Fordham University
School of Law
302 Broadway, New York 7

BIDS NOW ACCEPTED
For Circulation
of
The Daily Tar Heel
for summer and for 1 year 1948-49 (two-year rate contracts).
Particulars Available
Room 212 Graham Memorial

The big dance —the one girl —and a lovely corsage — a perfect setting for the Blue & White weekend and the Tex Beneke dances.
UNIVERSITY FLORIST
PICK THEATER BUILDING

READ THE CLASSIFIEDS AND SAVE

FOR RENT 6A

PRACTICALLY NEW HOUSE TRAILER Sleeps four. Refrigerator, stove. Can be seen at 27 Rogerson Drive, Hill Homes Development. (ch 1x1)

FOR SALE 6B

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogers Drive. Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. Telephone F-2906. (ch 1x1)

27 FOOT HOUSE TRAILER, 82 PITTSboro Road Trailer Court. Inquire between 5:00 and 6:00 p. m. (1-154-1)

27 FOOT LA SALLE HOUSE TRAILER in good condition. Ideal location. Inquire at No. 26 University Trailer Court. (1-269-1)

18 FT. TRAILER—GOOD CONDITION —Must sell. $650. See after 5:00 PM. No. 55B Pittsboro Road Trailer Camp. (1-276-1)

18 FOOT HOUSE TRAILER AND porch. Ideal for couple. Reasonably priced ($800.00). Inquire No. 83, University trailer court. (1-290-1)

31 OAKWOOD DRIVE—ATTRACTIVE two bedroom house. Excellent location —Priced right for quick sale. Call F-3216 or come to 31 Oakwood. (1-298-1)

23 FOOT COVERED WAGON HOUSE trailer Available immediately. No. 75 Pittsboro Road Trailer Court. (1-297-1)

HELP WANTED 8

STUDENT HELP WANTED FOR night work—three nights a week. Apply at the Colonial House System, Rosemary St. (Ch 1x1)

LOST 12

1 PAIR OF PLASTIC RIM GLASSES. William P. Kemp, Jr., 317 McCauley St., phone F-3461. (1-296-1)

PAIR BROWN HORN RIMMED glasses in Graham Memorial game room, Monday night. Please contact lost and found in Graham Memorial or owner, 109 Ruffin. (1-292-1)

A PAIR OF PLASTIC RIMMED glasses in Murphey Hall between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock at end of last week. If found please call 5241. (1-2000-1)

SERVICES OFFERED 19

ALL MAKES OF LAWN MOWERS repaired, machine sharpened. Axes, hatchets, scythes also sharpened. Tripps Lawn Mower Repair Shop or see John Tripp, Carrboro Shoe Shop. (ch 1x1)

THE SCREEN'S GREATEST DRAMA OF AMERICA'S FRONTIER DAYS!

TODAY
CAROLINA

PRESCRIPTIONS
Filled Promptly
ACCURACY AND DEPENDABILITY
—at—
SUTTON'S DRUG STORE

Let's Get together
PHILIP MORRIS is so much better to smoke!
PHILIP MORRIS offers the smoker an extra benefit found in no other cigarette. For PHILIP MORRIS is the ONE, the ONLY cigarette recognized by leading nose and throat specialists as definitely less irritating.
Remember: Less irritation means more smoking enjoyment for you.
Yes! If every smoker knew what PHILIP MORRIS smokers know, they'd all change to PHILIP MORRIS.

CALL FOR PHILIP MORRIS
TRY A PACK . . . TODAY

LIL ABNER By AL CAPP

Ever eat unleavened bread—ask for some—at HARRY'S

DiLorenzo Hurls Ten No-hit Innings; Tar Heels Top State In 11th, 1-0

LIBRARY (Periodical Dept.)
University of North Carolina
Chapel Hill, N. C.
1-31-48

(See KELLY, page 3)

WEATHER
Fair and slightly warmer.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
Dance Tickets
Of Time and Tests
Ode for Merchants

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SATURDAY, MAY 1, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361

Pepper Calls For World Crusade To Aid Democracy

Senior Week Plans Are Being Completed By Class Officers

Plans for an abbreviated, concentrated, and fun-filled Senior Week are being completed by junior class officers under the immediate supervision of Cattie Holt and Meigs Golden, social chairmen.

"Barefoot Day" on May 13 will start the festivities, which will be completed with the annual Senior Prom May 15. On Wednesday all seniors will have the privilege of attending classes sans shoes, and the mark of the truly-educated, about-to-graduate Tar Heel will be his or her toes flashing in the sunlight. Class President Benson McCutcheon has asked that all seniors co-operate in this traditional stunt.

A softball game with the faculty is being planned, the rejuvenation of an old-time Carolina tradition. A team composed of seniors will, if plans work out, battle it out on the diamond against a team of professors. Coed members of the senior class, though not eligible for positions on the team, will be used in the capacities of coaches and water boys.

Gene Krupa and his band will play for the Senior Prom, the evening of Saturday, May 15, and the dance will be free to all seniors.

Saturday afternoon's concert by the Krupa band will be open to the public, and tickets will go on sale next week. McCutcheon has said that in order to meet expenses for the dance, the concert must be "a sellout," and he has asked for the support of every senior.

On Monday and Tuesday in the Y lobby, tickets will be sold to seniors only. Starting Wednesday they will go on sale to members of other classes. Price for seniors and others as well is 75 cents.

GEOLOGY FRATERNITY

The Alpha Alpha chapter of Sigma Gamma Epsilon, national honorary geology fraternity, has elected new officers for the coming year.

They are K. William Brett, Chapel Hill, president; Edward Berry, Chapel Hill, vice-president; William Markgram, Carrboro, secretary-treasurer, and William D. Johnson, Greensboro, corresponding secretary-editor.

TEX BENEKE

Ed Easter Sings On Beneke Show; Concert is Today

A football game, a concert and a formal dance this evening will wind up the only football weekend Tar Heels will see until next fall.

A four-hour dance by Tex Beneke and his orchestra, sponsored by the German club, was highlighted last night by a 9:30 coast-to-coast broadcast featuring the voice of Ed Easter, local student whose singing abilities won him a spot on the Beneke program.

The Blue-White football game starts at 2 o'clock this afternoon in Kenan stadium, followed by the concert at 4 o'clock or shortly after in Memorial hall, climaxed by the dance in Woollen starting at 8 o'clock tonight.

DEGREE APPLICATIONS

Students in the College of Arts and Sciences who have filed an application card for a degree card for June, and who think that there is a possibility that they will be unable to complete the requirements for their degree by June, are asked to notify the College of Arts and Sciences, 203 South building, by May 10 to this effect.

Students Organize Standing Committee For World Service

Ten representatives of campus organizations and student church groups met Thursday night in the YWCA office to form a standing campus committee for the World Student Service fund. Wayne Brenegan was elected temporary chairman, and Sally Woodhull secretary.

This group, sponsored by the Council for Religion in Life, will organize the WSSF drive for next year and will function throughout the year as the nucleus of a group to educate the campus to the needs and purposes of WSSF.

Mimi Massey, co-chairman of this year's drive, spoke to the group, explaining the organizational set-up used last fall, the novelty stunts employed, and the objectives and methods of attaining them used by the committee for that drive.

She emphasized the importance of education as a long-term project, rather than merely during the concentrated period of the drive. "It is important," she said, "that in addition to collecting money for relief of European students, we impress upon American students the necessity of world-minded thinking and action."

Representatives present criticized certain features of previous drives and brought out some ideas for improvements next year, The group will meet again next Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock to begin definite plans for the organization of next year's committee.

Attending the meeting were the following: Mary Lee Lambert and Ed Buckner, Wesley Foundation; Wharton Gaul, Canterbury club; Whit Henderson and Wayne Brenegan, Presbyterian; Joe Fidler, Christian Science; Jerry Weiss, Hillel; George Dunlop, YMCA; and Edie Knight and Sally Woodhull, YWCA.

Alumni Meeting Hears Dr. Graham, Chancellor House on UNC Needs

Housing facilities on the campus will be provided for nearly all freshmen next fall for the first time since the war, alumni attending the annual General Assembly of the University of North Carolina Alumni Association were told Thursday.

Although the University community is still faced with crowded conditions, a completion of three new dormitories this summer, providing rooms for 900 additional students, will alleviate the housing situation to some extent, Chancellor Robert B. House said in an address at the luncheon session of the Assembly.

An inventory of assets in a word-picture of the more urgent needs of the University was presented to the alumni by representatives of the University administration and faculty leaders during the sessions.

"The University of today is doing an outstanding job or productive and creative work, but more classroom buildings, as well as dormitories, and increases in faculty salaries are among the urgent needs now," Chancellor House said.

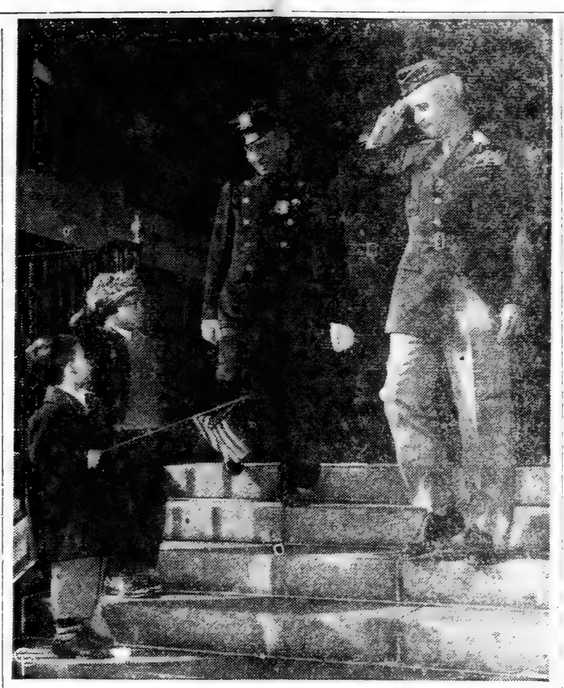
"Although the University has doubled its enrollment in 10 years, not one classroom building has been added during that time, and the situation would be even more desperate but for the 29 temporary wooden buildings given the University by the federal government."

President Frank P. Graham, speaking at Thursday night's session urgently emphasized "the desperate needs for classrooms, libraries, laboratories, dormitories for students, homes for faculty, adequate funds for student guidance and welfare, for scholarships, fellowships and distinguished professorships; for publication and adequate salaries for

(See ALUMNI, page 4)

Openings Are Still Available For YDC Trips to Convention

The Democratic National committee's offices in New York announced yesterday that openings are still available for student Young Democrat organizations to win expense-paid trips to the Democratic National convention in Philadelphia.



Roy G. Baker, president of the Young Democratic clubs of America, made this clear yesterday when he urged college students to push their efforts to enroll new members in the Young Democratic clubs.

The Young Democrats in each state who brings in the most new members will be an honored guest at the July convention. The youth delegation will have seats on the convention floor and a special program of entertainment is planned for the winners.

Deadline in the membership drive is May 31. Contest rules require that each winner be certified by the state Young Democratic club. Only members of state clubs which are chartered by the national organization, which have a minimum of 1,500 members, and which have paid national dues in full, will be eligible.

"Here's a chance of a lifetime for every young college man or woman," Baker said. "Few Americans have the opportunity to see a national political convention, and we're offering that opportunity, with expenses paid, to an outstanding Young Democrat in each state. I urge every college student to take advantage of this offer and participate in our membership drive."

"Additional details of the contest may be secured from state Young Democratic clubs' officers or from national headquarters in Washington, D. C.," Baker said.

TWO NEIGHBORHOOD YOUNGSTERS, little Jack O'Rourke, 5, and Leonard Santasierori, 7, give Gen. Omar N. Bradley, U. S. Chief of Staff, military greetings which the General returns as he leaves the Jewish Hospital, Brooklyn, New York. The Army Chief made a lengthy inspection tour of the hospital's modern facilities. (International)

Graham Will Present Speech At Educational Convention

Dr. Frank Porter Graham will be one of the featured speakers at the 33rd annual convention of the National Extension association in Chicago to be held May 3-5.

Dr. Graham will present his speech, "Ideas, Mechanisms, and One World," on May 4.

While in Chicago, the Greater University president will attend the annual meeting of the National Association of State Universities of which he is president. The association will hold its annual election of officers when it meets on May 5 and 6. On May 7, Dr. Graham plans to attend the meeting of the American Council on Education.

Extension Division Head

Russell M. Grumman, head of the UNC Extension division and former president of the National University Extension association, will also attend the convention in Chicago.

Grumman, in university extension work for two decades, is a representative of the National University Extension association to the American Council on Education, and he is also chairman of the Extension association committee in the American council and a member of the nominating committee in this organization.

Adult Education

On May 8, Grumman is scheduled to appear in Des Moines, Iowa, to preside over a meeting of the American Association on Adult Education.

Leaving with Mr. Grumman tomorrow is E. I. Rankin, member of the local Extension division staff who has been doing work with the debates held for high school students here.

THE RISING FLOOD WATERS of the Mississippi River completely engulf the Fairgrounds at Aitkin, Minn., in this airview taken during the peak of the community's worst flood in many years. Heavy rains and early spring thaws caused rivers in many sections of the country to overflow their banks. (International Soundphoto)

Report Ready On Chapel Hill Race Incidents

A number of copies of the report of the Journey of Reconciliation, containing a full write-up of the Chapel Hill "bus station race incidents" of last spring, are now available free of charge to students in the YMCA office.

The report, entitled "We Challenged Jim Crow," was compiled by George Houser and Bayard Rustin under the auspices of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, from the interstate bi-racial bus travels of a group of four members through several southern states from April 9-23, 1947.

The fifteen-page pamphlet comprises a chronological account of the group's travels, an introductory explanation of its purpose, accounts of trials arising from the "test cases," some general observations, and a number of constructive suggestions for group and individual action in the betterment of race relations.

A spokesman for the YMCA committee which secured the pamphlets, stressed their importance to everyone who was in any way interested in the Chapel Hill "incidents" last year. "Many misunderstandings and false rumors have been circulated concerning the "Journey of Reconciliation," he said.

Police Detail To Be At Breneman Funeral

Hollywood, April 30 —(UP)— A special police detail was ordered to be on hand for the funeral tomorrow of radio star Tom Breneman.

Says Only Way to Replace Ideology Is to Replace It With A Better One

By Charlie Craven

In calling for a world crusade for democracy Senator Claude Pepper last night declared that "the only way to replace an odious ideology is to replace it with a better ideology."

The address before approximately 300 persons in Hill hall was sponsored by the Carolina Political Union, non-partisan political discussion group.

"An idea being propagated by force can be stopped only by a superior force," continued the Florida statesman. "Such a counterforce must embody chiefly economic and political security for the people."

Proud to Speak

During a brief interview before his address Senator Pepper said that he was "proud to speak in North Caholina, one of the most progressive of the southern states." He expressed his admiration for Dr. Frank Graham, president of the Greater University, whom he called a "great educator and a great American."

"It is common today to be against communism," said the Senator, "but it seems to me that one has to be for something as well as against something else."

Concerning Wallace and his running mate, Senator Glen Taylor, Senator Pepper had only this to say: "I believe that Wallace and Taylor are unimpeachable Americans."

Touching on current political trends, the Florida senator asserted that "What happens to the political alignment of the country will be largely determined in the South."

"Our European aid should embody the spiritual values of Woodrow Wilson and political values of Franklin D. Roosevelt," he said.

Cannot Purchase Democracy

"We cannot purchase democracy with money. We may pour billions of dollars into the reconstruction of Western Europe,

(See PEPPER, page 4)

House Draft Bill Would Not Take Men 18 Years Old

Washington, April 30 — (UP) — The House Armed Services committee finished work today on a bill to draft men between the ages of 19 and 25, inclusive.

The committee members refused to budge in their opposition to the drafting of 18-year-olds.

Thus, the House bill is radically different from the Senate measure which would call up the 18-year-olds under a combined Draft-Universal Military Training program.

The House bill would increase the strength of the three armed forces to a total of more than 2,000,000 men by 1950.

The committee is expected to approve the measure next Monday. House Speaker Martin will try to bring the measure to the floor the week after next.

Meanwhile, it's learned Congress soon will be asked to authorize limited shipments of arms to Western Europe.

A high State Department official told a leading Senator today he is working on a proposed bill to permit shipments of munitions to countries whose freedom is vital to the United States.

Forest City Wins Aycock Debate Cup In Annual State Debate Competition

Yesterday for the second straight year Forest City high school debaters won the Aycock Memorial cup for the best team in the thirty-sixth annual statewide high school debate contest.

Four Oaks high school was the competing finalist in the debate held in Gerrard hall. Forest City was represented by Betty Moyer and William Bostic, III. while the Four Oaks debaters were Miriam Lassiter and Harvey Cobb, Jr.

The resolution was, "That the Federal Government Should Require Arbritration of Labor Disputes in All Basic American Industries." In view of the fact that Forest City was the winner of the contest for the second straight time, the school will be allowed to kep the memorial trophy permanently. The cup was presented to the winners by Claude Shotts, secretary of the YMCA.

Miss Moyer helped to drive home her point during the debate when she declared that "compulsory arbritration decisions can only threaten strikers but cannot remove one shovel-full of coal from the mines."

Miss Lassiter, who spoke from the affirmative side asserted that "when the labor situation becomes so bad that a labor leader is more powerful than the White House, something should be done to curb labor."

The five members of the University faculty who judged the final debate were William Wells, A. R. Newsome, C. B. Robson, A. P. Hudson, and A. M. Jordan. C. E. McIntosh presided.

At the end of the contest it was announced that New Hanover high school of Wilmington took first place in the state high school physics contest. Durham high school was second.

The final debate marked the end of the thirty-sixth annual contest between high school debate teams. The meetings began in 1918 and were not interrupted by either world war. This year twelve schools participated in the event held under the auspices of the Dialectic Senate and Philanthropic Assembly and the University Extension Division.

House of Commons Sends Stone to N. C.

Raleigh, April 30 — (UP) — Governor Cherry today accepte for the State of North Carolin a piece of stone from the British House of Commons, presented as a symbol of the common heritage of English-Speaking peoples.

The piece of stone to be put on display in the North Carolina Hall of History in Raleigh was taken from the ruins of the House of Commons after it was destroyed by German bombs May 10, 1941.

The Rev. Craighill Brown, Episcopal minister from Southern Pines, has presented the stone to Governor Cherry. The ceremony was held in the Roanoke Island room of the Hall of History. The Rev. Mr. Brown read a speech prepared for the occasion by North Carolina historian Struthers Burt, who was unable to be present.

Burt's speech said it is particularly fitting that the stone should be presented in the Roanoke Island room, which is hung with pictures commemorating the English settlement on the North Carolina coast, the first English settlement in the New World.

Governor Cherry, in accepting the gift, pointed out that Americans and Britons have a common heritage in law, in the principles of liberty and freedom. He said those principles were founded in the House of Commons building from which the stone was taken.

For Better Concert Conduct

Action of the Dance committee, chairmaned by Gus Johnson, in taking over supervision of dance band concerts should have a marked effect upon your enjoyment or today's concert and of those in the future.

In the past, concerts have been under jurisdiction of the organizations sponsoring them, and enforcement of rules against drinking and boorish conduct has been lax. There have been instances of intoxicated persons being admitted into the auditorium and at times the boisterous actions of a few people have embarrassed the rest of the audience.

During the Tony Pastor concert one person walked somewhat uncertainly up the steps to the stage where Pastor was singing, poked a camera into the bandleader's face and exploded the flash bulb. Then the photographer executed a precarious turn and made his way solemnly and carefully back down the steps. An amusing sight, yes, but hardly the type of thing most of us would like talked about away from the Hill. And it does get talked about.

Similar events were marring the reputation of our dances before the Dance committee was formed. Since the committee began its supervision, however, conduct at dances has been exemplary and those attending have enjoyed them much more because of it.

Most of us realize that members of the Dance committee are rendering praiseworthy service to the University. All of us should cooperate with them at the concert this afternoon.

Of Time and Tests

Hour quizzes are for the birds.

That's one man's opinion, but it comes from recent and grevious experience. Here's the scoop. You walk into the classroom, pencil sharpened, paper ready, detailed information from six volumes of textbooks in your head. On the blackboard or on mimeopraphed sheets there are questions — too many questions. At the top it says, "Choose umpteen and discuss fully." Each question covers a subject upon which men have spent year's of research and about which whole books have been written, but if you are a fast writer you might be able to transfer your limited knowledge of them onto paper in a little more than two hours and a half.

Beside each question the prof has carefully noted the number of minutes you should allow to it. You add them up. Sixty minutes. It's an hour quiz all right. Dr. I. Q. just forgot there are only fifty minutes in a class period.

Then the professor walks in — three minutes late. He begins to explain the test. His chief explanation is that you'll have to start quick and work fast or you won't get through. He explains this for eight minutes. Finally he leaves. You glance at your watch. Thirty-nine minutes.

You start to write. You write like mad. Your pencil point breaks in the feverish haste. You have another. Your hand begins to cramp. Keep writing. Sweat drips into your eyes. Don't stop to brush it out. And for heaven's sake DON'T THINK while you're writing. There isn't time.

You glance at your watch. Fifteen minutes left and half the test to go. Dr. I. Q. comes in again. He begins to explain the test again — the way it should have been explained at first and wasn't. You can't listen because you are writing, and you don't know what you are writing because you are listening. Why doesn't someone throw him out the window? Finally he leaves.

You glance at your watch. Eleven minutes and six more questions. Five more. Four more. Maybe . . . just maybe . . . Nope. There's the bell, and right on the first stroke the prof charges through the door screaming STOP!

The pencil falls from your numb fingers. Your hand drops off at the wrist. You slump back in your seat in collapse. It's over.

Four days later your paper comes back. Do you have to look at the grade? If you didn't cover the questions fully, off come the points. If you did, you didn't finish.

What we want to know is: How fast can a man write?

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y. Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor . . . Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associate Editors . . . Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady, Raney Stanford
News Editor . . . Herb Nachman
Society Editor . . . Weddy Thorp
Photographer . . Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. . . . Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. C. B. Mendenhall, Chan Pegram
Subscription Mgrs. . . . Jim King
Asst. Business Mgrs. Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. . . Randall Hudson, Don Snow

NEWS STAFF: Charlie Gibson, Sally Woodhull, Jim Dickinson, Gordon Huffines, Jack Brown, Stewart McKeel, Margaret Gaston, Dan Wallace, Charlie Craven, Mark Sumner, Emily Baker, Doris Weaver, Harriet Sipple, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.

SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Larry Fox, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher, Mel Horowitz, Faith Adams, Anne Wells.

BUSINESS STAFF: James Crews, Jackie Rogers, J. C. Brown, Joe Williams, Gladys Cottrell, Bill Peebles, Neal Howard, Jr., Vin Snell, Candy Jones, Kathryn McLean, Jim Brown, Baxter Morris, Ed Warton, Leonard Dudley, Jean Williams, Charmian Griffin.

NIGHT EDITOR: Jack Brown NIGHT SPORTS: Dick Jenrette

Seniors Have No Spirit

By R. Foo Giduz

It was quite a shock the other night when "Spike" Saunders, general secretary of the Alumni Association, brought us up to date with a none-too-soon reminder that within 40 days (. . . .only 35 now. . . .) some 1200 of us will have seen our last Tar Heeling on the Hill. . . .Yep, that will be Monday evening, June 7, Kenan Stadium Commencement exercises. . . . The first, last, and only time seniors will get a chance to sit right kerplunk on the 50-yard-line in Kenan stadium.

And "Spike's" reminder was sort of annoying. . . Migawsh; only seven weeks until Commencement—and so-so much still to do—Extracurricularly, of course! . . . Don't like to think about leaving, but maybe it's time to get a rustle on. . . . Time to start making the last rounds. . .Before the collegiate sun goes down.

—The turnout for the Senior class meeting this week was so discouraging that lack of '48 class spirit became the chief topic of the session. . . .And this of course led to disinterest in class activities. . . . Finally "Spike" threw out a question as to whether the Senior class of this year might not like to do something really radical and call for the elimination of the individual awarding of diplomas. . . . (Although he did not advocate this himself.). . . So the group talked it over some and took an informal poll on the question, which resulted in only two people favoring the discontinuance. . . . This of course was not at all necessarily indicative of the feeling of the entire class. . . . But maybe "Spike's" suggestion is worth considering. . . .

—Personally we're agin' it. . . . Purely traditionally-sentimentally so, as that is the basis of Commencement itself. . . And C. C. can't see why the class of '48 can't have as big a time while still in school as they will when they whoop it up at the 50-year reunion in 1998.

But while everything else is defunctioating, it's encouraging to note the proposed revival of the Town Men's Association, under the veteran steering of "Joker Johnny" Van Hecke—the one student whose been here longer than even the Carouseler, Jimmy Wallace, or Dan-the-Dog. . . . Johnny remembers what a driving force TMA was in the '30's, and has picked a mighty worthwhile bandwagon to start rolling again.

Continuing our observations on the "Spaulding Proposal" concerning co-racial education at UNC we list more cases of successful integration:. . . .For years now Negro students have attended Union Theological Seminary in Richmond. . . . And last year the Richmond Public Library completely eliminated segregation. . . Likewise at Black Mountain college (N. C.!) Negro teachers are serving on the faculty and Negro students attend classes. . . .. To repeat: In no case in the South where moderate educational integration has been tried has it failed to meet with total success. . . . Dr. Spaulding's proposal is moderate, progressive, and will be successful.

Mommy, Buy Me A Fire Engine

Napa, Cal., —(UP)— David Hotelling, 10, believes he may be the youngest owner in the United States of a genuine fire engine.

He submitted the only bid when the Napa city council offered to sell two pieces of antiquated fire equipment—a 1926 model rescue car and a 1914 pumper. David bid $25 for the rescue car. The council delayed briefly to check legality of the transaction, then awarded him the vehicle. David's father drove the fire truck home for him. Fire Chief Vernon Van Sant added a bonus by presenting David with an old fire hat.

David earned the $25 selling Christmas cards and doing odd jobs in the neighborhood. He's too young to drive, but still thinks he got the biggest bargain on earth.

He sits in the truck and plays he's a fireman.

Student Government

Duties Of Campus Execs

By Chuck Hauser

In the second column of our series on student government we wish to dig down into the duties of the executive branch of our local government.

The Big Three in office now are Jess Dedmond, the quiet, formal, graying president of the student body; Jim Godwin, the smooth-operating straight-talking, heavy-set vice-president; and Bob Kirby, the efficient, capable secretary-treasurer.

These men control one-third of your student government.

Dedmond's duties, as set down in the constitution which was ratified just two years ago in the spring general elections of 1946, are as follows:

1. Appointments. He chooses the members of innumerable boards, committees and councils, incluuding the Board of Elections, the Orientation committee, the Budget committee and many others.

2. Law Enforcement. He has the power to administer and enforce laws enacted by the Student Legislature, and he may also make recommendations to that body on various laws and other matters.

3. Veto. He may veto any act passed by the Student Legislature.

4. Representation. He represents the student body of the University in all dealings with the students of other schools, with the faculty, and with the Board of Trustes.

The president also has the power to call and preside at meetings of the student body, to serve as ex officio member of all standing committees and boards, to call on those groups for action and reports, to address the Student Legislature when necessary and to establish such bodies subsidary to him as are necessary to aid him in the performance of his duty.

Jim Godwin, the vice-president, has one hard job and one heavy responsibility on his shoulders for the coming year:

1. Speaker. The job is the speakership of the Legislature. Not an easy one, it involves many long hours of work until again next year.
spring elections roll around

2. Succession. The responsibility is the chance that he may have to take over the duties of the president if at any time Dedmond were forced to resign.

Bob Kirby, the last of our Big Three, has a list of duties which doesn't even take up an inch of space in the constitution, but which are liable to provide the hardest job in the student government set-up. The duties of the secretary-treasurer are: To record and preserve the minutes of all metings of the student body and to (here's the toughie) disburse all monies ($100,000) appropriated by the Legislature. He is chairman of the Budget committee, which is in itself a full-time job.

Also under the executive branch of our government are the Student Audit board, the Dance committee, the House Privileges board, the Orientation committee and many others whose members have difficult, time-exhausting tasks to perform, but rarely get public recognition or credit for their work.

These are the men who run your student government. Get to know them. Find out how they are serving you.

Kerr-Stares

Mixing S-x With Humor

By Tom Kerr

No telling what's going on in Graham Memorial these days. Dropped around to that little heaven they call their own, the Tarnation office, the other day, only to find a new closed door policy in effect. Took a quick peek through the keyhole and got a floodlight in the eye. Seems the erstwhile humorists were intent on their worthy business of getting a pinup for the next issue. After I finally bought my way in I found a hushed gathering. Then suddenly there appeared from the adjoining room one of the lushest little bits of femininity here abouts. Who am I to ask questions, but with that suitcase in her hand I would say she had just been performing a slight change of attire. All of which should mean that the ambitious new basement regime must have something really hot up its collective sleeve for the year's final issue due by the end of May.

* * *

'Nother bit of unofficial news on the publication peasants has it that literary geniuses behind the little private quarterly, Aprille, have just about got the forms locked up. Caught a glimpse of it in the printshop the other day; it should be something to look forward to, though I can't say what the damages per copy are going to be.

* * *

Haven't got an official invite yet, but took it on myself to while away a little time on the BVP front porch a few evenings back. Boys got a worthwhile little set up over there. Sit around and blow the breeze, take in the pretty sunsets, and watch the coeds cruise by. One ambitious BVPeon in a fit of ratio blues met every bevy of approaching femmes with, "Hey Mary." It's been some time since I gathered statistics from the student directory, but the Marys sure must have it; he got five hazily returned "Heys" in fifteen minutes.

* * *

Speaking of that section of the Hill, who hasn't been accosted by that attractive sales force at the BVP corner yet? Don't know if I really ought to expand my magazine reading right now or not, but when my immunity runs out come the not too distant check for May, I'm going to have to think up a new answer.

* * *

Local columnist, one R. Foo Giduz, has been playing around with this Negroes-in-the-grad-school issue for some time. Glad to see him finally get it in print. Opinions no doubt differ, but I am right behind Foo in hoping that the Board of Trustees doesn't try to sidestep the matter by dragging in the old Jim Crow line. Let's sweat it out with Foo; it's worth keeping a well-fixed eye on.

* * *

Politicoes are keeping busy these days cooking up new bills to throw at the recently elected legislature. Things ought to be right interesting what with redistricting coming up for the third time this year. Once again I want to give you a tip on the best show in town. Stagger up a couple of flights of stairs next Thursday PM, and watch the local thumb-in-suspenders boys sling the parliamentary procedure around.

* * *

Got pushed into the Bowman Grey pool last week. While struggling for breath, I was struck by a bolt from the blue. Sunlight. Don't know what the policy has been in the past, but I would like to see the outdoor pool filled before vacation finds me on a Southern California beach. Expecting a bit more of this glorious sunshine, I would go for taking it all in while splashing around. It sure would make the Lower quad and Spencer sun bathing societies disband, but think of the chance to see it in the flesh, as the phrase has it.

* * *

Don't know if it is the straight dope or not, but you might check up on this one. Little coed dropped it to me that the McIver sun roof is going to throw its facilities (and accessories presumably) open to the male population come sunny Wednesday afternoons. Check on this one for me, will you?

* * *

Sounds like the market on dance bids has been sizzling hot for Beneke's blow. Don't know how you fared, but rumor had the precious little books going for eighteen four-beer notes. What's it worth to you to march around to "St. Louis Blues"? All right, so you're staggering around.

This Changing World

A Gesture For Peace?

By Bill Robertson

In the United States News and World Report, a weekly magazine of, by, and for big businessmen, there is a Newsgram which attempts to predict the uncertain future for its readers. These readers have no five-year-plans for the internal development and increasing prosperity of our country. (You know, the "market" is so uncertain these days.) As a result they just naturally gobble up all "predictions of things to come". Well, here is a sort of prediction. We quote from the Newsgram:

"Big new official worry is that Russia's Premier Stalin might make a gesture for peace, that he won't keep things in a turmoil by war-like moves. There is a fear that the American people will tend to pull back, to become preoccupied with things at home, to be less interested in the outside world."

Can you beat that for brazenness! The big boys say, in effect, "the only thing we have to fear is that fear will cease!" And what would be the result? Why no armaments boom! No boom for the aircraft industry! No boom for the textile industry which could so easily make clothing for the army (and we are not talking about the army of unemployed.)

Remember those flying saucers? Remember over a year ago when Truman said that Forrestal — important member of the big Wall Street firm of Dillon, Reid and Company — had to be sworn right away as Secretary of Defense because of the emergency? Remember?

Remember! Why, do you remember the great and glorious Battle of Stalingrad? That was an emergency! And things are getting sad when the press can whip up such "hysteria" that people begin to wonder whether the right side won that battle!

The logic of facts is the strongest of all logic. NO amount of arguing can alter the facts. The same corrupt groups that flood the market with Murder Mystery Comics for the children, True Love Stories for the adolescents of all ages, and True Detective Stories for the more mature people (who are supposedly attracted by covers of sexy women, with cigarettes dangling out of their mouths and with the upper part of their slips showing) are trying to condition us to the fact that war is inevitable. Hearst is such a wonderful fellow. He is against vivisection. He prefers disintergration. Perhaps because it is more "refined".

But to get back to the logic of facts — more and more people every day are joining the new Third Party Movement. They are doing this in protest of the actions of a notorious product of the Pendergast Political Machine and his Wall Street associates. Such is the logic that makes history and, we might add, a history of which the American people shall be proud.

Write Away

Ode For The Merchants

Editor:

Mr. Buchan seems to have the "quarterly itch" and must irritate it, but his ailment of "Tar-Heel-writis" does not mean that all students are affected. The very fact that the restaurants on Franklin street have been in business for years is proof of virtual immunity against Mr. Buchan's "quarterly rash."

The Coffee Shop has been in business 26 years. the Porthole has a record of ten years service to Chapel Hill. the Campus is one year younger and the University has been in the same location for sometime, the present management has carried on for about three years. It is doubtful that Mr. Buchan will be around for more than two years And Mr. Buchan openly admits that he eats at the Porthole nearly everyday during the week at lunch, he also considers the University one of his favorite eating places. Tch, Tch! How inconsistent of Mr. Buchan.

Last Sunday the Porthole and the Coffee Shop reported better than usual sales; (1) did Mr. Buchan help those sales?

Mr. Buchan further inferred that students should be charged less than town people at Chapel Hill's eating establishments (2). Any merchant who practiced any such discrimination would be rightfully ostracized by his neighbors; the merchant is a permanent resident living with his fellow townsmen and he must buy from his fellow merchants. Mr. Buchan seems a little immature to make such a suggestion.

Should Mr. Buchan feel the situation requires further investigation he should take it up with each merchant individually. None of the merchants refused to talk to me.

Has Mr. Buchan considered the fact that he is writing for an institution which is patronized by many of the merchants in Chapel Hill?

Has Mr. Buchan considered the fact that he is only a temporary resident of Chapel Hill?

Does Mr. Buchan feel he represents more than a single opinion, or does Mr. Buchan just itch?

Bob Barnes

(Ed. Note: The Porthole menu last Sunday listed lower priced meals than the Sunday before. (2) Suggest you re-read Buchan's column. (3) Mr. Barnes lives in the house of the vice-president of the Merchant's Association.)

Dance Tickets

Editor:

This year, more than ever, we have seen how crowded conditions have cut many out of their chance to participate in the biggest social events of the year, the dance weekends. There is no panacea for this unfortunate situation, but I wish to put forth this suggestion in the name of fairness.

Next year start somewhere in the directory and offer to sell the tickets exclusively to the first twelve hundred students for a week or so. Thn throw the remainder on sale. Next dance, next twelve hundred and so on.

Not every one would go, but at least it would give every one his cut at the Big Money.

Charles M. Howe

Hass Corrections

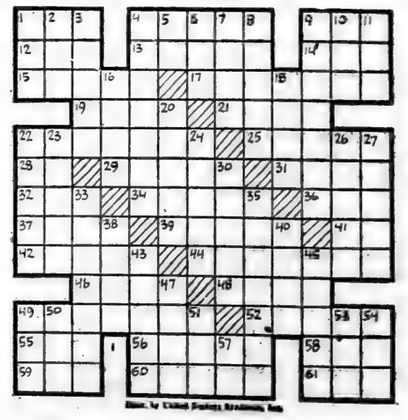
Editor:

This letter is not intended primarily as a criticism of the staff of the Daily Tar Heel but rather as a necessary correction of two mistakes made in reporting the April 16 speech of Eric Hass. I want to thank the reporters for their work on publicity for the Carolina Political Union but I know that they would be among the first to admit the impossibility of avoiding all mistakes.

Since no correction of these mistakes has been printed in two weeks, I would like to point them out to any interested reader. The first is that Mr. Hass was, of course, never mayor of New York City or attorney-general of the state of New York. He was, however, the candidate of the Socialist Labor party for those offices. The second correction is in the reported number of people who attended Mr. Hass's speech. The Chairman of the CPU, who had the advantage of being on the stage, counted 68 people in the audience instead of the 35 reported.

I might add that anyone interested in information about the Socialist Labor party can contact me in 207 Ruffin Dormitory

Jim Southerland



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS

1—2,000 pounds
4—Cattle farm
9—Youth
12—Sooner than
13—To send away
14—Great wonder
15—Caustic fluids
17—Packages
19—Food (coll.)
21—Ecology (abbr.)
22—Mortified
25—Enormous (poet.)
28—That thing
29—Toothed wheels
31—Greek portico
32—Father (coll.)
34—Pagan
36—Took a seat
37—Periods of time
39—To stain
41—Cerium (symb.)
42—Leather thong
44—Low trees
46—To snare
48—Marsh bird
49—Cooking pot
52—Fabled guardian of a mine
55—To mature
56—Girl's name
58—To pull
59—Dance step
60—Distorts
61—Garden tool

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

TON COPS ERIN
ADA OPEN AERO
COMPLETE SHED
TREE NALITA
SHELLS MOR
SKATERS LEMMA
ANGLES PARENT
GORED DENARII
EWE EMENDS
EDDIES ERSE
AGIO EPIGRAMS
LONE NEVE PEN
BOGS SNEE SEE

DOWN

1—Beverage
2—The grampus
3—Horse's cry
4—Started again
5—Chopping tool
6—Pen
7—Hint
8—From this place
9—Votes
10—In debt to
11—Affirmative
16—To pull
18—Spanish noblemen
20—Large animals
22—Helpers
23—To begin
24—Pounds constantly
26—Bug
27—Joins
30—French title
33—Darts repeatedly
35—Injuries
38—Chalcedony
40—To shower
43—The "City of Light"
45—Rag
47—Kind of meat
49—Lid
50—Mohammedan title
51—Born
53—Cow's cry
54—Female sheep
57—Compass point

Kelly's Hit Accounts For Only Run of Game

By Bob Goldwater

Carolina's ace southpaw, Vinnie DiLorenzo, hurled a 10-inning no-hit game yesterday afternoon in Emerson stadium, finally giving up a pair of safeties in the top of the 11th and eventually being rewarded with a well-deserved 1-0 triumph in the bottom of that same frame when room--mate Jim Kelly lined a single to center to provide the margin over N. C. State in a Big Four thriller.

Fanning 14 batters while parading to his fourth success of the year and first in Big Four action, the New Jersey curveballer pitched a perfect ball game for six innings after allowing his second walk in the third stanza. The next 21 Staters all went down in order — eight via the strikeout route — and though an error permitted Wolfpack third-baseman Leo Katkaveck to reach first after two were out in the 10th, DiLorenzo still had his no-hitter as the 11th inning came around.

Ironically enough, it was his mound rival, Ernie Johnson, who brought his string of no-hit innings to a conclusion — a rather scratchy conclusion at that. After two State batters had been retired in the 11th, Johnson, swinging at the 2-2- pitch, dribbled a slow roller down the third-base line.

Appeared to Be Out

Tar Heel thrid-baseman Jim Hayworth rushed in, fielding the ball perfectly, and fired it over to John Gregroy at first. His throw appeared to have Johnson nipped by half a stride, but Umpire Southard ruled otherwise, and down went the no-hitter.

That left DiLorenzo with the game itself to worry about. And for a very brief spell, that also appeared to be in danger. Hank Utley dropped a Texas Leaguer behind second base and Willie Evans walked to fill the bases with Wolfpack runners.

But DiLorenzo was equal to the situation. With his shutout being threatened, the slim portsider fired a third strike past Bill Fowler to end the inning.

Finally Score

State's half of the inning, that is. The Tar Heels still had their licks coming up, and they made the most of them.

Whitey Black, leading off, wasted little time in lining out his second hit of the afternoon, a single to center. Jim Hayworth bounced to Utley at third and the throw went to second in an attempt to nab Black going down. But Katkaveck dropped the peg and both runners were on.

Frank Jones, attempting to sacrafice, popped to catcher Jimmy Evans for the first out. That's when DiLorenzo's Chi Psi fraternity brother and roommate came through in true brotherly fashion, Batting in the cleanup spot, Kelly lashed Johnson's second offering into center field and Black sped around third and across home plate with the only run of the game.

It was exciting, to say the least!

Of No-hit Fame

VINNIE DILORENZO
. . . toast of the town.

The 4,500 fans in the stands thought so, the occupants of the press box thought so, but nobody thought so more than DiLorenzo, who rushed onto the field to exchange handshakes with Kelly, Black, and everyone else who ran up, including Johnson. It was Johnson, incidentally, who registered an 8-1 win over DiLorenzo just last Saturday for Vinnie's lone loss of the year.

Johnson pitched a fine game himself in suffering his second Big Four defeat against three victories. Allowing but seven hits, the mainstay of the Statemound staff matched DiLorenzo's string of scoreless innings over the regular distance plus one extra frame. But unlike the Carolina

(See BASEBALL, page 4)

One To Remember

N. C. State	AB	R	H	O	A	E	Carolina	AB	R	H	O	A	E
Utley, 3b	5	0	1	1	6	0	Black, cf	5	1	2	2	0	0
Evans, cf	3	0	0	4	0	0	Hayworth, cf	5	0	1	0	4	1
Fowler, rf	4	0	0	1	0	0	Jones, rf	5	0	0	0	0	0
McComas, lf	4	0	0	1	0	0	Kelly, lf	5	0	2	1	0	0
Cheek, 1b	4	0	0	17	0	0	Hobbs, 1b	3	0	0	12	0	0
Katkaveck, 2b	4	0	0	5	4	1	a-Varney	1	0	0	0	0	0
Richkus, ss	4	0	0	0	4	0	Gregory, 1b	0	0	0	1	0	0
McLaughlin, ss	0	0	0	0	0	0	Ryan, ss	2	0	1	1	1	0
Barksdale, c	3	0	0	1	1	0	Hamilton, 2b	1	0	1	2	4	2
Evans, c	1	0	0	1	0	0	Tranavitch, c	2	0	0	14	3	0
Johnson, p	4	0	1	0	7	0	DiLorenzo, p	4	0	0	0	1	0
Totals	36	0	2*31	22	1		Totals	33	1	7	33	13	3

*-out when winning run was scored. a-Batted for Hobbs in 9th.

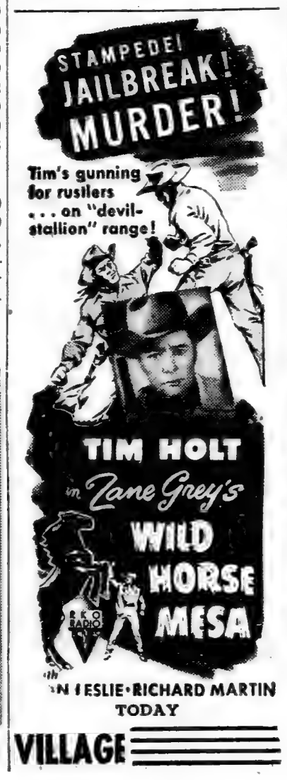
N. C. State	000	000	000	00—0
Carolina	000	000	000	01—0

Summary—Runs batted in: Kelly. Sacrifices—Tranavitch 2, Hamilton. Double plays: Katkaveck—Cheek, Utley—Katkaveck—Cheek. Base on balls—off: DiLorenzo 3, Johnson 3. Struck out—by DiLorenzo 14, Johnson 1. Hit by pitcher: Ryan (by Johnson). Umpires: Powell and Southard. Time: 2:09.



Carolina Sport Shop

TEX BENEKE'S ALBUM PROM DATE

PRESENTS
TEX BENEKE
On Records
Encore, Cherie
Saturday Date
St. Louis Blues March
Cherokee Canyon
Strange And Sweet
Star Dust
Moonlight Serenade

Carolina Sport Shop

...N TESLIE•RICHARD MARTIN
TODAY
VILLAGE

Blue-White Grid Contest Slated for Kenan Stadium Today

Game Will Conclude Drills for Spring; Kickoff to Be at 2

By Dick Jenrette

Football makes a somewhat unseasonable bow in Kenan stadium this afternoon in the form of a regulation Blue-White intrasquad game which will provide the Tar Heel sports enthusiasts with a preview of the 1948 Carolina grid prospects. The kickoff will be at 2 o'clock.

Sponsored by the Monogram club, the game is the concluding event of the spring practice session for Coach Carl Snavely's Tar Heel squad. A crowd of 7,000 was on hand for last season's Blue-White encounter, won by the Blues, 7-6, and another large attendance of alumni, students, and other observers is anticipated for this afternoon's game. The Tex Beneke concert will be held in Memorial hall following its conclusion.

Rival coaches for the two squads are Jim Gill and Max Reed. Reed is again heading the Blue squad this season, and his team is seking to duplicate last year's triumph over the Whites, who will be under the direction of Gill for the second straight year.

Whites Favored

The Whites have been acclaimed as slight favorites in today's practice game. This squad possesses the number one backfield combination—composed of Don Hartig, Charlie Justice, Johnny Clements, and Billy Hayes—and seems to have a slight offensive edge.

The Blue squad, however, boasts a fine defensive outfit, paced by linemen Ken Powell, Haywood Fowle, Len Szafaryn, and Mike Rubish. The Blue backfield will consist of Bobby Weant, Bill Maceyko, Fred Sherman, and Bill Flamisch.

Two Newcomers

Only two of the 22 players scheduled to start the game are not lettermen. Fletcher McLane and Dick McDonald, both guards, will open for the Blue team.

There will be numerous other activities on the afternoon's program which should add interest to the procedings. At halftime the Monogram club will award trophies to its choices as "Coaches of the Year." Also head cheerleader Norm Sper will unveil the "new look" Carolina cheering section which will perform numerous card stunts similar to those used by West Coast schools.

The probable starting lineup:

Whites	Pos.	Blues
Weiner	LE	Powell
Romano	LT	Fowle
Mitten	LG	McDonald
Steigman	C	Bernot
Klosterman	RG	McLane
Hazelwood	RT	Szafaryn
Cooke	RE	Rubish
Hartig	QB	Weant
Justice	LH	Maceyko
Clements	RH	Sherman
Hayes	FB	Flamisch

Netters Battle William & Mary Today

Both Squads Are Undefeated; Match Is at Virginia Beach

(Special to the Daily Tar Heel)

Virginia Beach, Va., April 30—The tennis championship of the Southern conference will probably be decided here tomorrow when the University of North Carolina and the William and Mary netters put their unblemished records on the line.

The visiting Tar Heels have put together 16 consecutive wins this season while the Indians are working on a chain of victories that already has 53 links.

Carolina had an even chance of upsetting the favored Indians before Captain Vic Seixas, ninth-ranking amateur in the United States, was stricken with glandular fever. His return to the line-up may not come until the tail-end of the campaign.

Clark Taylor will move up to the number one spot in place of Seixas. Ray Morris will play in the second slot to be followed by Charlie Rice, Don Skakle, Heath Alexander and Stan Gruner.

Taylor and Duke Wilder will team up for the number one doubles pair for Carolina. Morris and Rice will probably continue together, but Gruner may break into the combine. Skakle and Alexander will comprise the final duo.

Bernard Bartzen and Fred Kovaleski are the top two netters for the Indians. The pair is undefeated in singles this year and, playing at a team, have yet to drop a doubles match.

Howe Atwater plays number three and is followed by Brenden Macken, Bob Galloway and Bob Doll.

Last year W & M dropped Carolina, 8-1. Ray Morris was the only winner then, defeating Galloway in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3 on the number five court.

Gardner Larned, who is now playing his tennis at Rollins college in Florida, dropped Seixas in straight sets also. Seixas was able to take only five games from Larned.

Don Skakle will be striving to continue his string of victories in collegiate competition which has now reached 34, 14 of which came this season.

Tomorrow's match, which will be played on the Cavalier hotel courts, is the first on Carolina's northern trip. Army is the next stop on the itinerary. From West Point the Tar Heels move on to Navy, Pennsylvania, Haverford, and the Country Club of Virginia in Richmond.

At present the Indians are within hailing distance of the Carolina record of 66 straight wins. They ought to equal or surpass the Tar Heel mark by the end of the season.

Carolina Jayvees Beat State By 7 to 4 in Game at Raleigh

Raleigh, April 30 — Carolina's Junior Varsity baseball crew gained victory number six here today at the expense of North Carolina State's juniors in a contest that saw the youthful Tar Heels collect 12 hits and seven runs to the Wolfcub's four hits and an equal number of runs.

The Tar Babies were behind in the game until the big seventh frame when they collected five runs on six hits, one of them a triple off the bat of John Senter.

Carolina scored one run in the first inning when "Boll" Weavil scored on Senter's single after he had moved to third on a bingle by Don Ward. But the Wolfcubs came back in their half of the opening frame and scored three runs off pitcher Ralph Brake. Brake walked the first two men to face him and these men scored on singles by Leake and Mussack.

Six Scoreless Stanzas

State pitcher Dixon held the Tar Babies scoreless for the next six frames, allowing only one hit, that one a single by catcher Bill Walsh.

Kanter started things off for the Tar Heels in the big seventh with a single. Then pitcher Brake singled and took second on an error. Garganus, the next man up flied out. Ward and Zero Allen singled and then Senter came through with his triple to score two runs. Ed Lamb singled to score Senter but was put out stealing second. Walsh collected the last safety of the inning when he got a single. Goodman closed out the inning with a strikeout.

The Chapel Hill lads added one more run before finishing up the game. This final run came in the eighth frame when Brake scored on Ward's double.

State attempted a late rally in the final frame, but collected only one run for their efforts. Third baseman Knotts doubled and scored after two outs on a bingle by Todd.

Brake was credited with the wins while Dixon suffered the loss.

Lucky Seventh

Carolina	AB	R	H	O	A	E
Weavil, cf	2	1	0	0	0	0
Ward, lf	5	1	3	1	0	0
Allen, cf	5	1	1	2	0	0
Senter, 3b	5	1	2	0	1	0
Lamb, 1b	4	0	2	14	1	1
Walsh, c	4	0	2	6	0	1
Goodman, 2b	4	0	0	2	5	0
Kanter, ss	4	1	1	0	2	1
Brake, p	4	2	1	1	2	0
Garganus, rf	1	0	0	1	0	0
Totals	39	7	12	27	11	3

State	AB	R	H	O	A	E
Payne, rf	2	1	0	0	2	0
Livingstone, 2b	2	1	1	1	1	1
Leake, ss	3	1	1	4	5	0
Fix, 1b	3	0	0	7	0	0
Mussack, cf	4	0	1	0	0	0
Knotts, 3b	2	1	1	1	2	0
Livingstone, c	3	0	0	8	0	0
Dixon, p	2	0	0	0	1	0
Wilson, p	1	0	0	0	0	0
Todd, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	26	4	4	24	11	1

Score by innings:

Carolina	100	000	510—7
State	300	000	001—4

Two-base hits—Ward, Knotts. Three-base hits—Senter. Left on base—Carolina 8, State 7. Strikeouts—Brake 8, Dixon 5. Bases on balls—Brake 5, Dixon 3. Passed ball—Livingston. Wild pitch—Brake. Umpires—Bledsoe, Beddingfield.

FIRST SINCE 1934

When Davidson defeated Duke University in baseball this week, the game marked the first time since 1934 that the Wildcats have been able to defeat a Blue Devil diamond nine.

SCOTT and ROBERTS
DURHAM'S FOREMOST CLEANERS
AND WSSB
Will Bring You A Play By Play Account Of The BLUE and WHITE Game
A Play By Play Description By Wally Ausley
1490 On Your Dial — 1:45 Saturday

PAISLEYS... à la Arrow!

Our skillful tie chef has whipped up a brand new exclusive foulard material and made it into a fine assortment of English patterned paisleys.

See your favorite Arrow dealer today for the top tie value of Spring, '48.

ARROW SHIRTS and TIES
UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • SPORTS SHIRTS

Kentuky Derby Set For Big Race Today

Louisville, Ky., April 30—(UP)—Everything is all set for tomorrow's running of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs.

Entries have been filed and horses have had their final workouts. Concessionaires have stocked up on the tons of hot dogs and the countless gallons of mint julep mix which will be consumed tomorrow. There's nothing to do now except wait for that familiar cry, "They're off." Post time is 6:30 p. m., E. D. T.

With few exceptions, the experts are stringing along with the double-barreled Calumet farm entry of "Citation" and Coaltown." These Calumet colts will go off at the almost prohibitive odds of one-to-ten. And there are many among the 100,000 or more who will watch the race who are betting Calumet will finish one-two.

Other Entries

In addition to the Calumet combination, today's entries included "My Request," "Grandpere," "Billings," "Galedo," and "Escadru." If all seven go to the post—which would be the smallest field in 34 years—the winner will pick up $84,400.

If either Citation or Coaltown at one-to-ten, should hit the wire first they would be the shortest priced winners in Derby history. Eddie Arcaro, looking for a record-breaking fourth Derby victory, will handle Citation. Young Newbold Pierson will ride Coaltown, his first Derby mount.

My Request is listed at four-to--one, Escadru, at eight-to-one, Billings at 10-to-one, Grandpere at 30-to-one, and Galedo at 100-to-one.

The weather forecast calls for "Considerable cloudiness with scattered thundershowers likely." The Derby record for the mile and one-quarter is two minutes, one and two-fifths seconds set by Whirlaway back in 1941.

GENERALS LOSE

Washington, April 30—Washington and Lee fell further behind North Carolina in the Southern conference baseball race here as the George Washington Colonials scored a 6-2 triumph over the Indians. North Carolina defeated N. C. State to maintain its lead.

LIFE-SAVING COURSE

The Intramural office has requested that all student who are interested in taking senior life-saving or water safety instructor's course should meet on Monday afternoon. The meeting will be at 5 o'clock in rooms 303-304 in Woollen gymnasium.

STRIKEOUT RECORD

Vinnie DiLorenzo, Carolina's stylish southpaw hurler, has been setting a fast pace in the number of strikeouts garnered by pitchers in this state. He has fanned 69 batters in 54 innings thus far this season.

GOOD NEWS—
TERRACE VIEW SUPPER CLUB
Will Be Open All Night Tonight!
We'll Open At 2
This Afternoon—
And Close When
You Say So!
TRY
Our DRAFT BEER
IN THE NEW BAR—
VISIT
The Just-Opened
TERRACE
You'll Have A Big Time—
Come On Out
TERRACE VIEW SUPPER CLUB
Greensboro Highway

Meet Deacs Today

Carolina's Tar Heels, who now are resting in first place in the Big Four race, face another major test this afternoon in the person of the Wake Forest's Deacons in a game set for Wake's Groves field. Start-time is 3 o'clock.

Frank Robinson, a four-game winner for the Tar Heels who has yet to sustain his first loss, is slated to do the mound work for Carolina and Moe Bauer, Wake Forest lefty is slated to be his opponent. These same two locked up in a thrilling hurling duel in Chapel Hill earlier this season, with Carolina winning 1-0 on Emmett Cheek's home run.

The Deacons have shown steady improvement in their recent games, with a 12-9 win over Duke being their latest conquest. Wake Forest is third in the Big Four standings.

Lineup Released For Mural Nine

The Intramural All-Star softball squad, 20 strong, went through a lengthy workout yesterday in preparation for the big Sports Carnival to be held at Duke, May 6.

Despite the fact that 20 men are working out for the honored positions, the mural office announced that left-handed hitters and outfielders are still needed.

A tentative starting lineup has been released by the mural office with the statement that this line-up is by no means final and is subject to change, should a change be warranted.

The lineup includes infielders Santes, Wood, McKiernan, and Hines. Regan, ace Misfits moundsman, is slated to start on the mound with Gibbons behind the plate. Outfielders slated to represent the Tar Heels are Thorne, Greenbaum and Goodwin.

The team will hold another important workout at 10 o'clock this morning.

—Makings— In the Majors

By United Press

AMERICAN LEAGUE

New York 6, Boston 0.
WP—Reynolds; LP—Harris.
Chicago 5, Detroit 4.
WP—Wright; LP—Newhouser.
Philadelphia at Washington (night game).
Cleveland at St. Louis (rained out).

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Boston 7, New York 2.
WP—Sain; LP—Poat.
Pittsburgh 10, Chicago 4.
WP—Sewell; LP—Rush.
St. Louis 13, Cincinnati 7.
WP—Brazle; LP—Gumbert.
Brooklyn at Philadelphia (Night game).

HOME RUNS

Souchock 2, Lindell, Johnson (Yankees), Lipon (Tigers), Holmes, Elliott, Heath (Braves), Lockman, Marshall (Giants), Musial, Garagiola (Cards).

Frosh Tennis

The scheduled tennis match today between the Carolina freshmen and Central high school of Charlotte has been cancelled. The Charlotte team was unable to make the trip to Chapel Hill this morning.

Thus the next match for the Tar Babies will not be until May 5, when the Cherry Point Marines play here. On May 8, Maury high of Norfolk will perform in Chapel Hill against the locals.

BIDS NOW ACCEPTED
For Circulation
of
The Daily Tar Heel
for summer and for the year 1948-49 (two separate contracts).
Particulars Available in
Room 212
Graham Memorial

24 HOUR SERVICE
RADIO REPRAIRS
OGBURN FURNITURE
WEST FRANKLIN ST.
Phone 5841

CLASSIFIED

ANNOUNCEMENT 1

PHOTOGRAPHS OF SIGMA CHI derby on display in Graham Memorial office today and tomorrow. Additional copies may be ordered. (1-1000-1)

FOR RENT 6A

PRACTICALLY NEW HOUSE TRAILER Sleeps four. Refrigerator, stove. Can be seen at 27 Rogerson Drive, Hill Homes Development. (ch 1x1)

FOR SALE 6B

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogers Drive. Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference, given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. Telephone F-2906. (ch 1x2)

NEW BRICK HOME VERY CLOSE IN. Immediate possession. Write or call University Cleaners for appointment. Phone 4921. (ch 1x1)

31 OAKWOOD DRIVE—ATTRACTIVE two bedroom house. Excellent location—Priced right for quick sale. Call P-3216 or come to 31 Oakwood. (1-298-1)

23 FOOT COVERED WAGON HOUSE trailer Available immediately. No. 75 Pittsboro Road Trailer Court. (1-297-1)

18 FOOT HOUSE TRAILER AND porch. Ideal for couple. Reasonably priced ($800.00). Inquire No. 83, University trailer court. (1-290-1)

TUXEDO—SIZE 37 LONG. EXCELLent condition. Too small for present owner. Yours for $15.00. See at 164 Bagley Drive, Victory Village (1-300-1)

ATTENTION TYPISTS—SOMETHING new—"End-O-Pager"—Sounds bell at any bottom margin on the typewritten page. Fits standard typewriters—(portable model not yet available). Easy to attach or detach—no screws. $2.95 postpaid (plus sales tax). Refund within 10 days if not satisfied. The Hassell Co., Box 1044, Chapel Hill. (-299-2)

24 FOOT ALMA HOUSE TRAILER IN excellent condition. Electric brakes. Sleeps four. Priced for quick sale ($1295.00) John L. Harris, B-V-P Trailer Lot No. 250. (1-352-1)

HELP WANTED 8

STUDENT HELP WANTED FOR night work—three nights a week. Apply at the Colonial House System, Rosemary St. (Ch 1x1)

SERVICES OFFERED 19

COMPLETE MODERN RADIO APpliance service shop now open and ready to serve you. We call for, deliver. Johnson-Strowd-Ward Furniture, 422 W. Franklin. Telephone F-3491. (ch 1x1)

WANTED TO RENT 24B

2 OR 3 ROOM APARTMENT, FURNished or unfurnished by veteran student and mother for permanent residence. Call 4361. (1-293-1)

TAR HEEL Advertisers—
Pledged to Good Service
Patronize Them

For Immediate Deliveries
of
Ice Cold Beer
By the Keg or Case
Call 3536
K & M
Beer Delivery Service

PATRONIZE
Tar Heel Advertisers
Today

TWO BLOCKS WEST OF CITY HALL
You'll Find A Solution To All Laundry Problems
HELPY-SELFY
AUTOMATIC LAUNDRY
Bendix Machines
W. Rosemary St.

Fine Watches Need Excellent Care . . .
A Complete Watch Repair Service at—
BLACKWOOD
ASSOCIATE STORE

University Florist
"For the Best in Flowers"
Pick Theatre Bldg.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Telephone [illegible]16

Barker Says N. C. In Now Entering New School Era

Lowe's Grove, April 30—Oscar Barker, who is seeking governorship of North Carolina, told the Parent-Teacher association here at its annual dinner meeting tonight, that school patrons can demand and obtain the kind of schools they want.

"North Carolina," he continued, "is entering upon a new era in public school education. The need is so great, and the purpose of such importance, parents cannot afford to neglect their opportunity."

Barker told his audience that parents have a right to expect the state to furnish their children qualified teachers. This can only be done by raising teaching standards to a professional level. "We must make teaching so important that boys and girls will seek the profession, and train themselves for the jobs."

Banishment of disease and disabilities among school children goes hand in hand with elimination of illiteracy, the speaker declared. He pointed out that North Carolina has embarked upon a good health program. "It is important," he continued, "to incorporate into this program a periodic physical examination for school children."

Barker declared that juvenile delinquency is a problem confronting the nation today. Many people, he said, consider it America's No. 1 problem. Parents working through the public schools can have an important part in solving the problem.

The gubernatorial candidate urged his audience to work toward the goal of "equal opportunity" for the school children of North Carolina.

ONE OF THE MANY Senate pages who appeared in the Upper Chamber wearing "Vandenberg-for-President" buttons is Henry B. Paris of Washington, D. C. The teen-ager, who is strictly a "vote-Vandy" man, wears an assortment of campaign buttons concealed beneath his lapel, "just in case."
(International)

–Pepper–

(Continued from page 1)

Greece, Turkey, and China. Unless the fundamentals of democracy are present and available to all people there and elsewhere, our foreign aid program is doomed to failure." the Senator declared.

He added that "Democracy must be in back of our dollars."

The speaker was introduced by Herbert Alexander, newly elected chairman of the CPU. An open forum session followed the address, and immediately afterwards a reception honoring Senator Pepper was held in Graham Memorial.

–Baseball–

(Continued from page 3)

slab artist, Johnson did spend several anxious moments working his way out of trouble.

While no State runners got close to third base for 10 innings, several Tar Heels found their way that far. In the third Jim Hamilton got there and was stranded. Jones got that far in the fourth and was also stranded. Likewise for Rip Ryan in the fifth. And then Johnson got hot and didn't allow another hit until the 11th.

Fielding Gems

Several fielding gems stood in the efforts of the Carolina players to keep DiLorenzo's no-hitter going. The two most outstanding came in the 10th inning by catcher Andy Tranavitch and second-baseman Hamilton.

Leading off in that stanza, Jack McComas, whose two homers led the way in State's victory last week, topped a pitch directly in front of the plate. Tranavitch pounced on the ball and his perfect peg to first nipped the speedy State star by a whisker.

Then it was Ham's turn. Don Cheek, the next man up, drove a line drive that appeared on the way to a safe landing in right field. But Hamilton speared the ball with a leaping catch and the no-hitter was safe — for another inning.

A B C Mystery Man To Be on Campus

Sometime during the next two weeks you may be stopped on the campus by one of your fellow students and asked to produce your pack of cigarettes.

The man is Mr. ABC, not a moocher. If the pack you produce is Chesterfield, he'll give you a pack to match it. If you are smoking a Chesterfield when stopped, Mr. ABC will award you two packs.

ONE OF THE notables abroad the Queen Elizabeth, when the luxury liner docked in New York, was Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. She was in London for the unveiling of a statue of her husband, the late Franklin Delano Roosevelt.
(International)

–Alumni–

(Continued from page 1)

decent living in a community of scholars, for all three of the institutions that make up the threefold University of North Carolina."

President Graham took his theme "the incomplete University" which, he said, "is struggling to become the University of the people, more complete and adequate to develop the whole personality of youth; to teach the vocational and professional skills, to transmit the noble, cultural and spiritual heritage of mankind; to find, interpret and publish the truth, both old and beyond the present frontiers of knowledge; to serve, with humility and dedication, all the needs of all the people; to provide the favorable place, the modern facilities, the high traditions and atmosphere, and the leadership and the responsible freedom for the growth of the sense of the brotherhood of all men under the fatherhood of God, whose moral sovereignty runs through the ultimate nature of the universe and the free and responsible destiny of man."

The alumni met with the University Faculty club at a luncheon session presided over by Phillips Russell, President of the club, after which Alumni Secretary J. Maryon Saunders presided over the afternoon session devoted to reports on University progress.

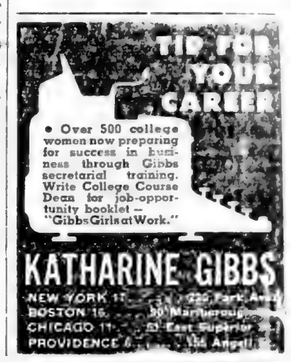
Justice S. J. Ervin, Jr., of the North Carolina Supreme Court, alumni president, presided at tonight's dinner session. Plans for 1948 graduating class' reunions were made at a morning session of class officers and alumni association officers.

Controller W. D. Carmichael, Jr., urged the need for a long-range campaign to get the alumni more conscious of the University's needs.

Pointing out that most of the higher ranking institutions of the country are now conducting fund-raising campaigns, Controller Carmichael said "we have got to get 30 or 40 million dollars in the next few years to enable us to do the job we ought to do. The per capita income in North Carolina is now double what it was a few years ago, and the University can get many substantial contributions if the needs are presented properly."

Reports were presented by Roy Armstrong, Director of Admissions; Guy B. Phillips, Director of the Summer Session; Edwin S. Lanier, Director of Central Records and Student Aid; Dr. Herman G. Baity of the Buildings and Grounds committee; W. H. Plemmons, executive secretary of the State School commission; Fred Weaver, Dean of Men; and Dr. Louis R. Wilson, professor of library science and administration.

Armstrong reported that more than 80 per cent of the students are from North Carolina. Lanier said that two-thirds of the class sections have less than 40 students, and that veterans are making 70 per cent of their grades in the A, B and C brackets as compared to 55 per cent for the student body as a whole. Dr. Wilson cited numerous examples to show that investments in research are paying big dividends.



Dean W. R. Berryhill reported that construction of the teaching hospital and additions to put the Medical School on a four-year basis is scheduled to start this fall. Roger A. McDuffie, Greensboro, and Dr. I. G. Greer, Chapel Hill, reported on the progress of the North Carolina Prahmaceutical Research foundation and the North Carolina Business foundation, respectively.

HAVING ENTERED THE U. S. from England as a stowaway 18 months ago, Ronald McDonald, 15, kisses the American flag in Walpole, Mass., as little Kenneth White admiringly looks on. Ronald, who came to the U. S. aboard the S. S. Queen Mary, may realize his fondest wish, to remain in this country, through the intercession of J. L. O'Connor, Walpole, Mass., with government immigration officials.
(International)

GENERAL COLLEGE

All students who were notified recently by General College that they were eligible to transfer to the College of Arts and Sciences this term are to check by Dean Well's office in 203 South building between May 6 and 10 for assignment of advisors and registration instructions.

Dean's List For College Of Arts & Sciences Totals 365 Students

The following list of students are those who were registered in Arts and Sciences for the Winter Quarter 1948 and those who received B or better on all courses for which they were registered.

Charles Patrick Adams, Henry Bethune Adams, Simon H. Adams, Henry Leigh Adkins, Loyer Zahner Ager, Lake Allen, Oliver Hicks Allen III, Dudley Moore Amoss, Robert Alan Andrew, Samuel Ralph Andrew, Frances Louise Angas, Ira Paul Antin, William Harris Armstrong, Isaac William Ashburn, Maurice C. Ashcraft, Leland Stanley Averett, George Stewart Aycock.

James Edward Bagwell, Roy Horton Bailey, John Brewer Baity, Calvin B. Baldwin, Robert Marshall Barr, William H. Baskin, Otis C. Beeson, Dorthea N. Belcher, Jean Irwin Benjamin, Frances Yarborough Bickett, Kenneth Black, Jr., Betty Jane Blalock, Sankey Lee Blanton, Lewis R. Bloom, Thomas Andrew Blum, Herbert Luther Bodman, John Sidney Booth, Richard Lee Bowen, Frederick O. Bowman, Wayne Francis Boyles, James Needham Bradford, Lonnie Adolphus Braxton, Wilmer A. Breedlove, King William Brett, Robert B. Broughton, Gaston S. Bruton, Edward A. Bryant, Audrey Muriel Bryson, Anne Bumgardner, Wesley Grimes Byerly.

Samuel Tinsley Campbell, Elizabeth Anne Carlton, Wilbur Lloyd Carr, Thomas Augustus Carrere, Everett W. Cheek, Fay Clements Clay, Richard Alan Cohen, Ruth Lee Collier, Mabel Kathryn Colwell, Jean Winn Conover, Gerald L. Cook, Max Hartsell Cooke, John Philip Couch, John Kelly Coughlan, Richard Garner Cox, Robert Vincent Cox, Ernest Theodore Creighton, William Emory Crow, Charles A. Cunningham, Thomas Earle Cunningham.

Particia Anne Dancy, Mary Anne Daniel, Pauline Dortch Davis, Suzanne Marden Davis, Helen Page Dees, Clarence DiChiara, Lillian E. Dillard, Charles Dennis Dixon, Edna McQuiddy Dooley, Charles Senn Doster, Hilda C. Driver, Theodore R. Dungey.

Emory Limial Eads, Jr., Mary Kearney East, Robert Harrison Edwards, Leland Caswell Ellis, Helen Ershler, Margaret Claire Evans, Ruth Bannister Evans.

Sarah Jane Farlow, Howard Lawrence Field, William Martin Finch, William Lucas Flowers, Jr., Jeanne M. Fornoff, Willis H. Fowle, Ann Garrick Fullerton, Frances E. Furr.

Carolyn Gaither, Louis Jean Gardner, James William Geiger, Victor H Gibean, Jr., Ruby Lee Gibson, John Lewis Gignilliat, Charles F. Gilliam, Frank Paul Giraffe, Donald W. Glascock, Douglas Murray Glasspool, Jacquelyn Goodwin, Irvin Howard Gordon, Paul Jules Gordon, Augustus W. Graham, Margaret Elizabeth Graham, James Franklin Graves, Etta Inez Greene, Mary Lela Grimes, Ralph Ellingwood Grimes, William Van Grimes, James Bryan Griswold, Eldene Grogan Frank F. Groseclose, Buel King Grow, Alan Sterling Gubin.

Harry Hobert Hall, Mabel Dorothy Hall, Wingate Edmund Hannah, Gustave A. Harrer, Marcella C. Harrer, Joyce Harris, Lois T. Harris, William Benjamin Harris, Judson Louis Hawk, Frank Jordan Hawley, Louis Arthur Haynes, Gordon R. Heath, Charles Samuel Heinmiller, Jerome Helprin, Wyatt Helsabeck, William Thomas Henderson, Ann Dudley Hill, William Gilliam Hill, Jeremy Hodson, Thettis E. Hoffner, Harvey Ralph Honig, William Donald Horton, Lillian Brown Hotard, Thomas Presley Houser, Jr., Charles McLain Howe, Louis Gordon Huffines, Roberta Huffman, Katherine Elizabeth Huggins, Harold Gibbs Hulon, Joel Broadus Huneycutt, Jackson B. Hunt, Mary Jane Hunter.

Harley Young Jennings, Harold Hubert Jeter, Dell Bush Johanneson, Clifton Herman Johnson, George Johnson, James Henry Johnson, Richard Earle Johnson, Leila Josephs, Benjamin H. Josephson.

John Fawcett Kenfield, Charles Edmund Kistler, Florence Edith Knight, Mary Theresa Kraus.

William Anderson Lane, Stella White Lassiter, John Joseph Lawler, Hartzel Zangwill Lebed, Charles Burkhead Ledbetter, Claudia Lee, Elizabeth Howard Leggett, George Burr Leonard, Frederick Dewhurst Lewis, William Kee Lifsey, Martha Linney, Edward Mason Little, William Graham Lloyd, Nicholas Armistead Love, Allard Kenneth Lowenstein, Dorothy Lunsford.

Josephine Biglow MacMillan, Robert Thompson MacMillan, James Leon McAllister, Robert Marcus McAllister, William Charles McClammy, Betsy Pou McClamroch, Sue Delle McDonald, Edgar Alexander McLean, James Dickson McLean, Samuel Alexander McLoon, Douglas McNair, Margaret Olivia McNeill.

Oliver W. Maddrey, Margaret Olivia Marczyk, Ann Francis Martin, Dan Anderson Martin, Miriam A. Massey, Margaret K. Mattis, William David Maxwell, Henry Hardinge Menzies, Frank Tryon Meriwether, George Wright Meyer, Arnold D. Miles, Ann Marie Miller, Luther Sigsbee Miller, Bruce Milton Minnix, Jr., Ronald Earl Mintz, John Joel Mitchell, Glenn Duntlin Mock, Mary Ellen Montgomery, Elizabeth Bryan Moore, Lucius Leo Moore, William Locke Moore, Roy Clifton Moose, E. Raymond Morris, John Thomas Morrisey, Marcus Lee Moss, Mary Louise Moulton, Patricia Muirhead, Paul E. Mullinax, William Craig Murphy, William Edgar Murray, Elizabeth Travis Myatt, Martha Jane Myers.

Helen Nye Neighbors, Robert Arthur Nelson, John De Z. Nicolls, Kai Edward Nielson, Rufus Nelson Norris, Joseph Roby Norwood, Jr.

Mildred Ione Oswalt, Robert M. Ousley.

Earle C. Page, Frederick Leon Page, III, James Howard Parker, Jane Curtis Parker, Wilburn C. Parker, Gene Blanco Parrish, Steve Edward Parrott, John Willard Patterson, James Richard Paton, William Kivy Payeff, Martha Dan Payne, James Franklin Peacock, James Harold Preedin, John Olin Perritt, Carl David Perry, Gaies Pickard Perry, Gloria Cora Peter, Joyce Peterson, Evelyn S. Pettitt, John Minnick Pfautz, Jane McDonald Pointer, Eleanor I. Ponder, Charles Williamson Porter, William Carlyle Powell, Charles J. Preslar, Cecil C. Prince.

Lawrence Talmadge Queen.

Rufus Rankin, James W. Rathburn, Claude Harvey Rayborn, James Barker Raymer, Carter C. Reaves, John Herman Recknagel, Thomas Redfern, Herbert Hampton Redmon, Helen Anne Reid, Dwight Rhyne, Robert Calvin Rice, Charles Francis Riddle, James Monroe Riley, William W. Ritter, Jr., Jean Robinson Roberts, George Albert Roesel, Anne Herndon Rogers, Jacqueline Rogers, Paul W. Rohrer, Robert Rolnik.

Alexander A. Sakhnovsky, Raymond Lester Sarbough, Harold Anthony Schiffman, Everett Hoyle Schultz, Jr., Morton Philip Seif, Ben Rowland Selzer, Walter Sharafanowich, Eugene Baxter Sharpe, Thomas Connally Shelton, Arthur Golden Sherman, Sidney Charles Shertzer, Harry George Shipman, Llewellyn Hampton Short, Jay Allen Siegel, Joe Fred Sills, Stanley Albert Simpson, Eleanor D. Singletary, John Edward Sink, Irwin William Sklarsky, Hassel Brantley Sledd, Katherine Phillip Sledge, Mary Willis Sledge, Clairborne Thwedtt Smith, James Edgar Smith, David Elliott Sobel, James Earl Somers, James Francis Southerland, Burton Sparer, Raney B. Stanford, Reginald H. Starr, Melvin Sanford Steinberg, Merle Marie Stevens, Robert Louis Stevens, Daniel Bruce Stiegman, Virginia Stoutenburg, James Howell Street, Samuel Askew Summerlin, Wilba Carr Sutton.

John H. Tandy, James M. Tanner, Marjorie Ruth Taylor, Nelson Whitford Taylor, James Madison Teresi, Louis Howard Thacker, Elizabeth Honor Thomas, Benjamin Thompson, Lewis Sumner Thorp, Bettie Ann Tillet, Mildred Tilson, Robert Lee Tomlinson, Anne Dean Tucker, Thomas Turner, III, Edith Culpepper Turpin.

Claude Charles Vache, Margaret Van de Velde, Porter W. Van Zandt, Helen V. Vaughan, Emily A. Von Borries.

Loudon S. Wainwright, Richard Isley Walker, Herschel Thomas Ward, June Decker Watson, Mary Elizabeth Webb, Neva Jackson Webb, Mary Elizabeth Wellons, Margaret Anne Wells, Myrtle R. Westbrook, Parker Whedon, David Whichard, Francis Jours White, Clarence Earl Whitefield, Alan Holder Wiley, Jack Winfield Wilkerson, John Ross Wilkinson, Nathaniel McDonald Williams, Allen Davidson Williamson, Francis Edward Winslow, Jr., Elinor Spotswood Woltz, Giles Edward Wood, Katherine Bowers Woodman, William Chapman Wooten.

Thornton Halliburton Yancey, John Early Young.

John Miles Zucker.

CAROLINA
TODAY

LATE SHOW TONIGHT
SUNDAY — MONDAY

BETTE DAVIS
has the most powerful role of her career in
"WINTER MEETING"

Invisible Resoling
Good As New

Practically as good as new, yes! And you'll get miles of wear, hours of comfort from your old shoes after we've repaired them.

CARRBORO
Shoe Shop

2 — BEAUTIFUL HOMES — 2
AND 130-ACRE FARM — 130
Cut Into
SMALL TRACTS AND BUILDING LOTS
AT AUCTION
SATURDAY May 1
FIRST SALE at 2 P.M.—In Carrboro, N. C.
On Weaver Road, and known as the Clarence Haithcock Home

This Beautiful Home has 9 Rooms, 2 Baths, and is one of the best homes in Carrboro, with large lot, several outbuildings and lots of beautiful shrubbery.

IT WILL HAVE TO BE SEEN TO BE APPRECIATED

Drive out and look this property over before the sale, then attend the sale and bid your judgment, for when the bidding stops, the property will be sold.

SECOND SALE at 4 P.M.

This Property Located 2 Miles South of Mt. Carmel Church—6 Miles from Chapel Hill on Chapel Hill-Farrington Highway

- 1 6-ROOM HOME, Practically New.
- 30 BEAUTIFUL BUILDING LOTS.
- 1 GOOD FARM with about 80 Acres, Several Tobacco and Feed Barns, about 30 Acres in Cultivation, with 4.1 Acres Tobacco Allotment for 1948.

Both of the above Properties will be Sold on Easy Terms:
½ Cash, Balance Like Rent

—We Will also Give Away CASH PRIZES—
Good Music for Your Entertainment!

UNIVERSITY AUCTION Co., Selling Agts.
GEDDIE FIELDS, Chapel Hill, N. C., Auctioneer
If you have property you want sold get in touch with us

LI'L ABNER By AL CAPP

Saturday — Shmaturday — it's HARRY'S-DAY!!

(Periodical Dept.)
University of North Carolina
Chapel Hill, N. C.
1-31-48

WEATHER
Fair and slighily warmer.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
Come The Dawn
Bogota Conference
Politicians Dilemma

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SUNDAY, MAY 2, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | 156

ROBERT ROSSFIELD AND JOSEPH MICHALSKI (left and right), local students are shown at the Drake hotel in Chicago where they placed third in finals of second annual National Intercollegiate Bridge tournament. Sixteen pairs of players, survivors of 1200 entrants from 156 colleges and universities, competed in the finals April 23 and 24.

New Twist Appears . . . . . . on 'G. W. Slept Here'

Albright's Trailer Saves Money

By Sam McKeel

There is at least one gubernatorial candidate in the Old North State who can sympathize with the many college studants who reside, or who have resided, in the numerous trailer courts on campuses these days.

Mayne Albright, 36-year-old Democratic aspirant, has been touring North Carolina in his trailer field headquarters, the "Challenger," since the present campaign began.

The "Challenger' is an aluminum trailer and has carried the candidate, and his pretty wife Frances, over some 80 of North Carolina's 100 counties.

While finding that life in a trailer hasn't been as bad as it is usually thought to be, the Albrights have found that there are numerous difficulties to be met in such a long journey.

One bright, sunny, Saturday afternoon in March the trailer was parked downtown in Greensboro, at the courthouse naturally, when a woman walked in, went over to Mrs. Albright, plunked down $2 and asked where her husband was. As startled as Mrs. Albright was, she managed to find out that the woman thought that the trailer belonged to some fortune teller.

"George" Slept Here?

Another Greensboro incident has provided the Albrights with a few laughs. At a trailer court outside of the city a sign hangs close to the entrance. Inscribed on the sign are the words, Albright Slept Here."

Albright's reason for traveling in a trailer is that it is supposed to be cheaper. Not having the cash to travel and conduct his campaign tour as some candidates do, Albright went shopping for an idea on how to conduct a cheap tour, and still visit all of the counties at least once. When the idea for the trailer came up, Albright cashed $1,300 worth of war bonds and bought the "Challenger.'

Gypsy Albright

Not only has the trailer been mistaken as the trailer of a gypsy fortune teller, but it has also been mistaken for everything up to a health mobile. Now the trailer has been painted over with a map of North Carolina on the side, marking the progress of the tour, and it rolls along its merry way, carrying the small candidate and his wife to the people.

As it rolls along the aforementioned merry way various mishaps have overtaken it. An axle broke in Dare county, and another in Minneapolis in Avery county. In Moore county at a Victory Day celebration attended by the Albrights, a window was smashed, in McDowell county the trailer hitch gave away, and as usual for so much travelling there have been many flat tires.

$30 Per Week

The average weekly living expense is around $30, with the trailer being parked overnight in some trailer camp, or else the Albrights put up at the home of some friend.

Yes the trail of the "Challenger' lengthens every day as the gubernatorial candidate speeds on his "take it to the people' tour of North Carolina. Albright has already contacted some 150,000 persons in his tour.

persons on his tour.

Negro Tells Wallace Club Meeting Conditions in Factory Deplorable

By Jim Dickinson

A Durham Negro told the Wallace-for-President club meeting in Bingham hall Friday night that he and about 60 other Negro employees of a furniture factory are striking for higher wages and better living conditions.

Roosevelt Owens, who attended the meeting with three fellow workers, described working and living conditions at the plant as deplorable and said the wage scale had not increased in accordance with the high cost of living.

Club member Bill Evans, who introduced Owens, gave a report of the committee which visited the factory and walked picket lines with strikers one day last week. The committee's findings coincided almost to the letter with Owens' report.

A collection of money was made for the strikers after Owens had climaxed his speech with, "Any help you can give us from a penny to a cigarette will be greatly appreciated."

Under direction of Mrs. Preston Lewis the club launched a campaign for getting its part of the 10,000 "valid" signatures for placing Wallace's name on the North Carolina ballot. The quota for Chapel Hill has been set at 500 names, said Mrs. Lewis.

The signatures, which must be turned in to the state Board of Elections by August 4, to be valid must be those of registered voters who have not voted in the Democratic or Republican primaries in 1948, it was disclosed.

Mrs. Lewis urged the club's members not already registered to do so between May 1 and May 15. Only those registered to vote will be permitted to sign the Wallace petition, she said.

Club member Kenneth Macrorie ended the session with a discussion of the club's participation in the Progressive party convention at Winston-Salem last week-end. He told the group he was especially impressed by the hard work exhibited by convention attendants.

Pharmacy Group Hears Dr. Waller On Folic Acids, Their Antagonists

Recent years of research resulting in the announcement of the structure and synthesis of folic acids has opened up new avenues of hope in the search for drugs that will aid in the cure of man's most dread diseases, cancer and leukemia, according to Dr. Coy W. Walker, research pharmaceutical chemist at the Lederle laboratories and nationally known authority in his field, who spoke to pharmacy students and faculty at Howell hall at the University Thursday night on "The Folic Acids and Their Antagonists."

"No one knows just yet exactly what some of the folic acids will do," said Dr. Waller, a University Pharmacy School graduate of the class of '37, "but we have already found that one of the four types, Teropterin, greatly improves the well-being of cancerous patients and lessens pain." And another, called the liver factor, has been shown "to be effective in the treatment of macrocytic anemias of nutritional origin and in pernicious anemia," he pointed out. This last acid was obtained from liver and yeast, Dr. Waller said, while the other one comes from the growth of unidentified bacteria. Both of these materials have been synthesized and made available for medicinal use.

A third folic acid, also isolated from yeast, called "Vitamin Bc conjugate" has a very complex molecule and has not been fully characterized, and the fourth, named "Rhizopterin," have no present medicinal use, Dr. Waller said.

"Folic acid antagonists are compounds which inhibit the action of folic acid—they are purely synthetic compounds," he explained. The most active one, Aminopterin, has been used successfully by Dr. Sidney Farber and associates at the Children's Hospital in Boston in the treatment of several children who had leukemia, he said.

A group of German scientists found the basic part of the folic acid molecule in butterfly wings, but the connection with folic acid was not realized by them, he said.

World Federalists Sponsor Student Trip To Washington For Building UN Power

Five UNC students will board a chartered Washington-bound bus this morning at 70:30 and become a part of North Carolina's "Students for World Government" delegation.

Some 41 students from all over North Carolina will descend on Washington in an effort to strengthen the United Nations into a world federation government.

The bus is scheduled to leave Greensboro this morning at 9:00 on the first leg of the trip with students from Western and Piedmont N. C. After picking up UNC's delegation at 10:30, it will proceed to Raleigh via Duke. The entire delegation will leave Raleigh at 11:45 and arrive in Washington this evening.

The official business of the delegation will begin Monday morning in the office of Senator Clyde R. Hoey, N. C.'s senior senator. The North Carolina Congressional delegation will be assembled in Hoey's office to welcome the visiting students.

In the afternoon the students are slated to see President Truman and high officials of he State Department. Plans also include a visit with Democratic party chairman, J. Howard McGrath if time permits. The delegation will begin the homeward journey Monday evening.

Student going from UNC are Gran Childress, Al Lowenstein, Peggie Garrison, and Sandy McEachern. Another student whose name could not be learned at press time will round out the UNC quota.

The trip is being sponsored by the Student Division of United World Federalists of N. C. According to State chairman, Russell G. Baldwin, the purpose of the trip is to impress on the President and members of Congress that students are disturbed by the repeated failures of the U. N. and demand that it be strengthened with the powers necessary to cope with all threats to world peace.

SP MEETING

The SP Exec-council will meet Monday night at 8:00 in the Horace Williams lounge.

All SP members are requested present to elect the remaining party officers at the SP meeting, 9:00 tomorrow evening in Roland Parker No. 1.

Business Manager, Editor Posts Are Open on Quarterly

The deadline for applications for business manager and editor of the Carolina Quarterly for next year has been extended by the magazine's Executive committee until next Thursday.

The Executive committee also decided that the decision on whether to pay salaries for these posts, and the amounts to be paid, should be postponed until a future date when the amount of capital for next year's operations will be known.

The final report to the student body by the committee will be issued sometime in the middle of May, according to Jonathan Marshall, chairman. The report will review all action taken by the committee, will further define future policy and will include any plans that have already been made concerning the first year of publication of the new magazine.

YWCA To Discuss Presidential Race

The Public Affairs committee of the YWCA will meet tomorrow afternoon in the Y-building at 5 o'clock, chairman Emily Baker announced today.

Heading the committee's agenda for this quarter is a study of possible nominees for the forthcoming Presidential election. In tomorrow's meeting Page Dees will report to the committee on the qualifications of Henry Wallace for president. Charles Sellers will point out wherein Eisenhower is qualified to enter the race in November's election.

Edie Knight will report on the European Relief Program conference held in New York April 16, 17, and 18, which was sponsored by Mademoiselle magazine.

MRS. DORIS C. HOLSWORTH, drama director at Atlantic Christian college in Wilson, who was recently elected president of the Carolina Dramatic association for the coming year. She succeeds C. R. Sumner, Asheville. John W. Parker of the University is executive secretary of the association.

CPU Will Discuss Bogota Meeting 8 o'clock Tonight

The Carolina Political union will discuss the Bogota conference of Inter-American states tonight at 8 o'clock in the Grail room of Graham Memorial.

Herbert Alexander, recently-elected chairman of the non-partisan group, stated that Pete Gerns will make the introductory remarks prior to the general discussion of the topic.

Visitors are welcome to attend the CPU's weekly meetings and are invited to participate in the discussion.

J. Melville Broughton Speaks Here Tuesday

Former Governor J. Melville Broughton, candidate for the United States Senate in the coming Democratic primary, will speak here Tuesday night under the auspices of the Carolina Political union in Gerrard hall at 8 o'clock.

Broughton, governor of North Carolina from 1941 to 1945, is running for the Senate against present Senator William B. Umstead. Umstead was appointed by Governor Cherry in December of 1946, to fill out the unexpired term of the late J. W. Bailey.

Although a lawyer by profession, Broughton is widely known for his participation in the farming activities of the state. In 1944, while governor, he delivered one of the principal addresses at the annual meeting of the Grange in Grand Rapids, Michigan, and in 1946 he was a speaker on the program of the National Farm bureau at San Francisco.

Not only has Broughton been a governor, lawyer, and farmer, he has also been a school teacher. Teaching for two years as principal of Bunn high school in Franklin county, he served for one year as acting county superintendent of schools in Wake county, and served for eight years as a member of Raleigh Township School committee.

Born in Wake county, Broughton has spent his entire lifetime there. He attended the public schools of Raleigh and studied law at Wake Forest college and Harvard Law school.

SENIOR TICKETS

Tickets will go on sale tomorrow in the Y lobby for seniors only to the Gene Krupa concert on May 15. Tickets will cost $.75. Other classes will be allowed to buy them on Tuesday.

Science Fiction Club Reorganizes

"All students, faculty members, and others who are interested in science-fiction, fantasy, and wierd stories are extended a special invitation to attend the meeting of the reorganized Carolina Science-Fiction association," newly-elected association Director Richard Bowen said yesterday.

At the last meeting, the members of the CSFA ratified a new constitution by unanimous consent. They also elected as officers for this quarter Richard Bowen, geology major from Athens, Georgia, as director, and Fred Burgess, sophomore from South Mills, as secretary-treasurer.

At the meeting, the members also decided to look into the holding of a state convention of science-fiction fans in the near future. A resolution was passed to commemorate Walpurgisnatcht (old German witches' Sabbath) by a moment of silence at midnight, Friday.

The meetings of the CSFA are held every Monday night in Roland Parker lounge 3 in Graham Memorial at 9:30, and all persons interested are invited to attend.

CCUN Appoints 3 To Institute

Roberta W. Stirling, Wally Robinson and George Drew have been appointed delegates to the third annual Inter-collegiate Institute on the United Nations to be held in New York June 20-26.

Lincoln Kan, state director of the Collegiate Council for the United Nations, yesterday named the three delegates from here.

Stirling is state secretary-general, Robinson is co-chairman of the Campus Organization committee and Drew is chairman of the public relations department.

Also accompanying the group as observers will be Kan and Ann Beal, who co-chairmans the campus organization with Robinson.

The Institute is an American association for the United Nations program planned to provide an intensive program of study on the UN for CCUN delegates throughout the nation.

From the five districts of CC UN in the state, Kan appointed ville - Biltmore college, Hector Venegas, High Point college; Elsie Corbitt, Meredith college; and Cecil Porter, Mars Hill college.

Discussions on CCUN policy, program, and organizations will be supplemented at the Institute by study trips to the UN headquarters at Lake Success, attendance at council and comas delegates Herb Wallace, Ashemittee meetings, and informal meetings with delegates and of Pan-Hellenic council, Caromembers of the Secretariat.

Strling is stat secretary-general,

The N. C. state CCUN organization was founded here following last year's second annual Intercollegiate Institute.

These 14 attractive girls were sponsors for leaders in the University of North Carolina spring German Club dances held Friday and Saturday nights in Woollen Gymnasium.

Tex Beneke and his 36-piece Glenn Miller orchestra furnished music for the formals and gave a concert in Memorial Saturday afternoon.

Top row, left to right: Mrs. William K. Tate, Morristown, Tenn., with William Tate, Phi Gamma Delta, president; Corinne Grimsley, Greensboro, with Henry Dowdy, High Point, Kappa Alpha; Weddy Thorpe, Rocky Mount, with Thurman Williams, Fayetteville, DKE; Ellen Fleming, Charlotte, with Carl Durham, Chapel Hill, Sigma Nu; Evelyn Smith, Durham, with Jess Jernigan Ahoskie, Sigma Nu, treasurer; and Mrs. Marge Beasley, Chapel Hill, with Bob Beasley, Zeta Psi.

Middle row: Lib Schofield, Jacksonville, Fla., with Robert MacMillan, Chapel Hill, St. Anthony Hall; Benning Burgard, Columbus, Ga., with Jim Waldron, Columbus, Ga., Phi Delta Theta; Peggy De Bardeleben, Birmingham, Ala., with Bob Boykin, Thomasville, SAE.

Bottom row: Alice Womble, Greensboro, with Kelly Bowles, Greensboro, Beta Theta Pi; Betty Dixon, Winston-Salem, with Jim Paschal, Winston-Salem, Kappa Sigma; Barbara Fehr, Charlotte, with Roy McKnight, Jr., Charlotte, Sigma Chi; Lillian Wooten, Greenville, with Dave Whichard, Greenville, Phi Gamma Delta, and Suzi Lamberton, Winston-Salem, with Jim Holt, Holly Springs, ATO.

Unitarian Committee Will Launch Summer Workcamp Program for 150

The Unitarian Service committee, in co-operation with American Unitarian Youth, will launch its most extensive workcamp program this summer with facilities for more than 150 campers.

As in the past, this year's workcamps not only will engage young Americans in the campaign at home and abroad to dispel ignorance, prejudice and poverty, but will also offer a balanced program of work, education and recreation. A few partial scholarships will be granted to qualified applicants.

Norman Village

A small, but particularly interesting overseas project will be the workcamp in the little Norman village of Les Andelys, where campers between the ages of 18-30 will live in French homes. They will convert a barracks into a youth center for the village and conduct a recreation program for the children fed once daily during the school year by the Unitarian Service committee canteen.

Other European sites considered for the campus are Holland, Denmark and England, where projects will include rebuilding of hospitals and similar work. Transportation to and from Europe is being arranged through the co-operation of the Institute of International Education.

Inter-Racial Hospital

Among the service opportunities for youth volunteers in the United States is Sydenham Hospital, the nation's only inter-racial private hospital, located in the Harlem section of New York City. Here, campers will work under professional direction as nurse's aides, ward attendants, receptionists, social service personnel and maintenance crews. The educational program will center on the Harlem problems and the integration of cultural groups within that community and city itself.

Migration Area

A survey of Mexican-American and Anglo relations in San Antonio, Texas, has been set up for college juniors and seniors majoring in sociology. Another college-age workcamp will be the construction of a community center in the migrant-inhabited area of Oklahoma City.

Further information and applications may be obtained from Unitarian Workcamps, 9 Park Street, Boston 8, Mass.

Comes The Dawn

Maybe our former columnist Bob Sain had something in his plug to see the dawn in glorious color while the madding throng is still abed.

What with most of us early risers getting up for 8 o'clocks at ten 'til and most of us late studiers giving up by 3 a.m. and old Sol putting in his appearance at some ungodly hour in between if it doesn't rain as usual, there's mighty few of us out when the little birdies in the trees start chirping their sunrise serenade.

Of course cram periods before exams are a horse of a different situation. Then there are quite a few of us who see the sun rise. There are those of us who cram all night and see it and by that time we don't give a happy hurrah whether it rises or falls. On the other hand there are those of us who prefer to get up early to cram. See it, take a bleary-eyed squint and say, I can't eat it, so I'll take breakfast for mine, thanks.

Yes, the beauties of the dawn are greatly unappreciated.

But along about this time of year when spring is springing and the buds are budding and the bees are being and a Big Dance night comes along, there are a great many of us who figure we'd like to see the sunrise just for the novelty of the thing. So we do, and its just like during cram periods, only worse.

The moral of it all is that if you haven't seen the sunrise lately and decide you want to — don't. It's really a beautiful sight but sleep will do you a darnsite more good.

Politicians' Dilemma

Although he didn't touch upon the subject himself, Senator Pepper in his Hill hall speech Friday night raised a perplexing question. Should an elected representative of the people act according to his own convictions or according to those of the people he represents. Of course, on a majority of issues convictions of both politician and people will be the same, but what should he do when they are not?

The question came up when someone asked the senator how he would vote on the civil rights bill and the Fair Employment Practices commission.

"What would you do if you were a liberal senator and had to be re-elected from Florida?" Pepper replied.

A few minutes later another member of the audience jumped the southern solon.

"Do you mean that you don't vote your convictions, Senator?" he asked in a voice of feigned incredulity.

Pepper proceeded to give his reasons for opposing the bills, but it brought up an interesting point.

If a senator votes the view of the majority of his electorate although it is contrary to his own convictions, then he has no personal integrity. If he votes his convictions above the will of his constituency, he is a traitor to the people.

The politician who solves this little dilemma correctly is well on his way to being a statesman.

Random Comments

Politicians can say some pretty sounding things while they're talking, but if you put it down in black and white to see if they said what you think they said — they didn't.

* * *

Dawn is a beautiful picture — but the DTH office window gets monotonous as a frame.

* * *

Yesterday's news said Congress soon will be asked to autorize limited shipments of arms to Western Europe. Can you think of a quicker way?

The list of people who think they can run a newspaper better than the man who is doing it is the fastest growing thing in the world. Faster than the list of those who do not like Truman any more. — Early County (Ga.) News.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $6.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y. Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ..... ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager ..... T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor . . . Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associate Editors . . . Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady, Raney Stanford
News Editor . . . Herb Nachman
Society Editor . . . Weddy Thorp
Photographer . . Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. . . . Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. C. B. Mendenhall, Chan Pegram
Subscription Mgrs. . . . Jim King
Asst. Business Mgrs. Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. . . . Randall Hudson, Don Snow

NEWS STAFF: Charlie Gibson, Sally Woodhull, Jim Dickinson, Gordon Huffines, Jack Brown, Stewart McKeel, Margaret Gaston, Dan Wallace, Charlie Craven, Mark Sumner, Emily Baker, Doris Weaver, Harriet Sipple, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.

SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Larry Fox, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher, Mel Horowitz, Faith Adams, Anne Wells.

BUSINESS STAFF: James Crews, Jackie Rogers, J. C. Brown, Joe Williams, Gladys Cottrell, Bill Peebles, Neal Howard, Jr., Vin Snell, Candy Jones, Kathryn McLean, Jim Brown, Baxter Morris, Ed Warton, Leonard Dudley, Jean Williams, Charmian Griffin.

NIGHT EDITOR: Tom Kerr???NIGHT SPORTS: Taylor Vaden

This 'n That

Is Johnson Your Choice?

By Bill Buchan

When Charles M. Johnson began his campaign for governor of North Carolina, he made an address in which he promised to devote his time during the campaign discussing his own candidacy "in the light of the issues that will confront our people in the years just ahead." Mr. Johnson continued, "The people of the State are not interested in what I think of other candidates or what they think of me. What they are interested in is the selection of what they regard as the best man to be their governor."

Such a statement is typical of candidate Johnson's actions. His platform, which includes better rural roads, better salaries for teachers, reduction of the teachers' load, review of the state's tax structure to induce new industries to come to North Carolina, elimination of some of the inequitable taxes paid by farmers, better health program, and return of surplus state funds to the people—is typical of a man who has spent many years of his life in public service for his state.

Recently the Charlotte Observer, in speaking of Mr. Johnson, said "Charles M. Johnson, who owns and uses one of the best minds in the state—he ought to be Governor—wants more "home rule" for North Carolina. That is, less from Raleigh and more from the local units—the cities and counties!"

Mr. Johnson began his career as a clerk in the state auditors office in Raleigh at a small salary. Since that time, he has steadily climbed the ladder of public service. His activities as State Treasurer have brought him national recognition for progressive advancement in the field of finance. He has a vast knowledge of state government and has dealt with all phases of the government.

When you take all the gubernatorial candidates, compare their qualifications, compare their platforms—for soundness, if nothing else, compare their methods of conducting their campaigns, you'll find after careful consideration that Charles Johnson leads the field. That is why I am supporting him, that is why I will vote for him in the primary May 29. I KNOW that if he is elected North Carolina will be assured of a capable, sincere and qualified governor.

* * *

To Bob Barnes: Just as long as you keep writing your letters to Write Away admitting, or rather not denying that the cafe owners, whom you are obviously speaking for, hoist their prices on Sunday, I will not have to devote space in my column to the subject. Thanks for the help.

And by the by, don't you think that the University and the University students patronize the merchants of Chapel Hill, rather than the merchants patronizing the University? I wonder how many of the nine eating places on Franklin Street would be in existance if the University were not here.

WHAT'S UP in Graham Memorial

On tomorrow night's dinner music program Jascha Heifitz will be heard as soloist in Prokofiev's Violin Concerto No. 2, played by the Boston Symphony orchestra under the direction of Serge Koussevitsky. An RCA Victor recording, it's a grand piece of music with excellent artists to interpret it.

Khatchaturian's popular Gayne Ballet Suite will also be heard, as played by the New York Philharmonic Symphony under the direction of Efrum Kurtz. This is the suite containing the more-than-popular Sabre Dance.

Poop For The Group

Highway With A Past

By Raney Stanford

I used to know a fellow who could drive to Durham in approximately 10 minutes.

At least that's what he said, because the one time I rode with him I wouldn't have opened my eyes for love or money, and noting the time in flight was the last thing that occurred to me. The 10 minutes flew by just like 10 years. He thought it was lots of fun, though, like throwing firecrackers from automobiles, but I guess I don't have the sense of humor he has.

Getting gay with cars on highways is bad enough, but playing games on that little gem between here and Durham is too much of a good thing. That road resembles the English Grand National steeplechase course with gruesome refinements.

Durham Herald Staff Writer Walter Carroll pointed out a few Sundays ago that this 12-mile stretch contains 52 — count 'em — 52 curves. He stated that State Highway bureau reports showed five deaths on this road in seven of the last eight years. And this doesn't take into consideration the unknown number of minor unreported accidents along the obstacle course, nor can it consider the effect the road must have had on the University student of a few years back who missed a curve, went thirty feet through the air and crossed New Hope Creek without the benefit of the bridge that the highway's builders had placed there.

Carroll goes on to point out the practically unwarned curves that just won't quit and almost meet themselves, the bridges only "as wide as the road itself", and the houses that are built almost on the road's shoulders, one of which has been actually knocked from its foundations.

Many students find out, much too late in recorder's court, that the open highway speed limit of 55 miles an hour doesn't apply to this particular stretch. The speed is supposedly at a maximum here of 40 miles an hour, with special sections that are marked even slower, but not too many care to abide by these regulations. Walk out Franklin street some afternoon and watch and listen to the potential jet fighter pilots taking the curves up and down the hill that lies on the town's outskirts.

Eventually the city fathers of Durham and Chapel Hill say they are going scrap this maze and build a highway between these two places, but it will probably be long after your and my time. So, old Tiger, (credit line Dave Garraway) how about taking it easy. The East campus of Duke and the Alpha Beta Chi house will wait for you. So kindly keep the eyes open and the head out, for quite a few of us use the road too, and we like it here.

CPU Round Table

On Bogota Conference

By Pete Gerns

(The following article deals with the Bogota Conference which will be discussed at tonight's Carolina Political Union meeting at 8 p.m., Grail room, Graham Memorial.)

The assassination of Colombia's liberal party leader Jorge Gaitan at Bogota brought the conference of the 21 hemisphere republics now in session in Colombia's capital into the limelight. At first considered a Communistic plot against Western hemisphere solidarity, the murder turned out to be a grudge affair but it caused wide repercussions especially among the delegations when it was found that the Communists took the opportunity to make the best and most of it. Genaral Marshall, United States delegation leader, emphasized that the revolt was not merely the concern of Colombia or this hemisphere, but took on world-wide importance. Indeed, the uprising solidified the delegations as never before.

Menwhile, the conference kept in session and has accomplished a good deal up to this date. Colombian foreign minister Gomez was unanimously elected president of the body when it first met and has helped keep the delegates there working in spite of the uprisings.

Many resolutions were consideded, few adopted.

One of the first actions of the conference was to approve a Mexican proposal that organic pacts of the Inter-American system be signed at Ginta de Bolivar, the house in which the Latin-American liberator lived while in Bogota. The new Pan-American body was named the "Organization of American States", and it was unanimously resolved that the American states shall henceforth be considered as a regional system within the United Nations.

One of the three resolutions introduced by the United States was adopted. It deals with easing of travel restrictions in this hemisphere and will end all except reasonable control procedures regarding visa and health certificates.

Before the conference members decided anything further, an important decision had to be made regarding technical subjects. Due to the time element it was found necessary to hold special conferences, among them a meeting on economic matters to be in Buenos Aires this fall.

Four more proposals have been approved: One stemming from the Ecuadorian delegation that prices of raw materials be in equal proportion with those of manufactured goods, a resolution strongly opposed by United States Secretary Harriman who considered the measure impractical and out of place in a treaty. The Pan-American Union governing board was also made a permanent council with powers restricted to "any matter within the limits of present pacts and Inter-American treaties . . . assigned to it by international conferences of American states, meeting of Foreign ministers, or by specific government authorization. The conference also approved the establishment of a permanent Inter-American Defense board to handle questions of hemisphere defense, and formation of new consultative defense committee composed of the highest military authorities.

Stimulated by the revolt, the delegates also approved of an anti-communist resolution submitted jointly by the United States, Brazil, Chile, and Peru, which stated that International Communism is diametrically opposed to liberty and . . . "foments civil strife, international strife and economic instability."

Write Away

Religion & Planned Parenthood

Editor:

I fail to see the appropriateness of your inclusion of the article "Birth Control is Unnatural." In the first place it concerns a bill proposed in and for the state of Massachusetts. Just what the provisions of this law are to be we are not told, other than that it has something to do with "planned parenthood" or birth control. No doubt in Boston a reader of this article would be more or less familiar with the proposed law but in North Carolina it (the law) has not become a topic of discussion. So, how about giving some information before printing such a complete condemnation (1).

Secondly, the article was undoubtedly intended primarily for Roman Catholic consumption. This church has available a most efficient organization for dessemination of information and does not need the services of the Daily Tar Heel.

It has long been a belief of this church that any form of mechanical contraception is contrary to God's will. Whether the Roman Catholic church, composed of fallible human beings, is right in dictating its interpretations of God's word to its membership is a question for it to decide. However, since the writer is "not free to form his own opinion," he cannot enter into any constructive discussion of the subject.

It would, therefore, be enlightening to know just what was the purpose of the Daily Tar Heel in printing this article. (2)

John Mitchell

(Ed. note: (1) The article was printed without comment. If there was either condemnation or approbation, it came from the reader. (2) We though the article was an interesting commentary by a student in a Catholic university upon a subject which has long been controversial.)

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Army Answers Europe

By Drew Pearson

Washington—Thorniest question facing Western European diplomats is: "Will the United States back us up militarily if we resist future Russian aggression?"

For several weeks the White House and State department officials have stalled on giving Europe a firm official answer. Not so the Defense department. Within the last few weeks the Army secretly answered European diplomats with a vigorous "yes."

Here's how it happened:

Several months ago, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg sat down with France and England to organize a five-power agreement to resist Russian aggression. It took plenty of nerve for these five powers openly to defy Russia by signing a strong military pact, and, before negotiations were concluded Washington was informally sounded out. The United States they were unofficially informed, favored such strategy.

This agreement was followed by the visit of Prince Charles of Belgium and Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak. By this time Spaak wanted more than mere informal assurances. He wanted formal and specific guarantees from President Truman of military and lend-lease support for the "Benelux countries." However, cautious Mr. Truman and the State Department failed to come through.

Impatient, the five Western powers have quietly gone ahead on their own. They have set up a tight military liaison committee in London, and are working out a coordinated military strategy to meet all emergencies.

And while the State Department was still trying to clear a mutual-aid program with Congressional leaders, the War Department deftly took the bull by the horns and secretly cinched an agreement.

Few people realize it, but there are several hundred important British Army and Navy officers working full time in the Pentagon building. They are members of the old wartime combined Chiefs of Staff which has never been officially dissolved.

Therefore it has been quite easy for American Army men to hold candid conferences with top French, Belgian, Luxembourg and Netherlands officers. They have already drawn up the paper work which would ordinarily precede signing of any alliance. Once the green light comes from the White House, the plan will go into high gear at once.

Note—What the Benelux countries chiefly want is a new lend-lease act which would standardize military equipment and provide new arms for Europe. Truman, however, is awaiting a new "crisis" before asking for a new lend-lease act.

Army Liquor Evades Tax

Coached by the big distillers, Army brass hats have worked out a neat trick to evade the law and keep officers' clubs well stocked with liquor.

The law banning liquor in officers' clubs is explicit: "The sale of or dealing in beer, wine or any intoxicating liquors by any person in any post exchange or canteen or . . . upon any premise used for military purposes by the United States, is prohibited."

But this is how many officers' clubs get around it:

An officer is appointed to handle liquor consignments on an individual basis. He takes orders from individual officers who pay in advance, following which the liquor is delivered directly to the club where it is kept for the members. In this way, the drinks technically are not sold across the bar, but are drawn from private stock.

This has the added advantage of circumventing taxes that would be charged if the club were selling liquor outright. Actually the drinks are iced and served, just as in any cocktail lounge. Only difference is that the liquor supposedly was purchased by the individual, not by the club.

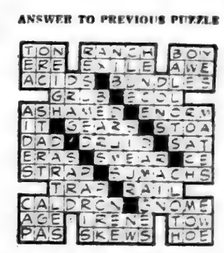
CIO Draft Movement

Two political phenomena are now taking place simultaneously in the nation. President Truman is moving heaven and earth to secure his own renomination, but with his Gallup Poll rating continuing to drop. Meanwhile, General Eisenhower continues to discourage his nomination, but with his popularity continuing to increase.

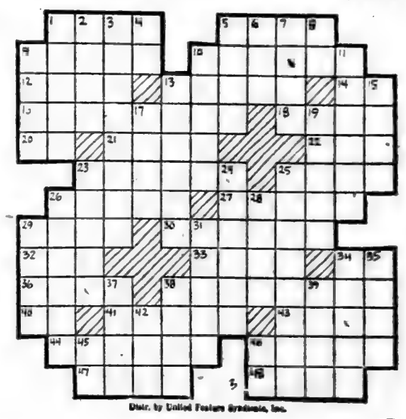
A lot of interesting backstage figures are behind Eisenhower, one of them being CIO president Philip Murray. Murray has just sent out word to every CIO steelworkers local suggesting resolutions for a "Draft Eisenhower" movement. The steelworkers convention will go on record unanimously asking Eisenhower to run, and a similar movement is already under way in most other CIO unions.

Murray also held an important secret conference in Pittsburgh with Illinois Democratic Boss Jack Arvey. Arvey has been drafted by Illinois Democrats to run their political fortunes until after the Presidential elections, and he agreed with Murray that the Democratic party's hope lay in nominating Eisenhower.

Though he hasn't been talking much, Arvey has been a very busy beaver. He was principally responsible for the violent anti-Truman demonstration at the California Jefferson Day dinner when Truman was booed so vigorously that Chairman J. Howard McGrath almost quit talking.



Also active in the draft-Eisenhower drive is former Roosevelt labor adviser, Anna Rosenberg. Mrs. Rosenberg is a close friend of Eisenhower's, also of Phil Murray, George Allen, Mrs. Roosevelt, the Rockefellers, as well as many of the ex-New Dealers. Although she denies it, Mrs. Rosenberg has had several talks with Ike, has told her friends she's convinced he is available for genuine draft.



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS

1—Taxie
5—Fish spear
9—Wire rope
10—Redder
12—Heraldic bearing
13—Coils of yarn
14—Bone
15—Pushing
18—To pound down
20—Man's nickname
21—To carol
22—To exclude
23—Nipped
25—Man's nickname
26—Hindu queen
27—Southeast wind
29—Small town (coll.)
30—Breed of English sheep
32—Seed
33—High school age
34—To leave
36—Matures
38—Shares
40—Pronoun
41—Burnt-out coals
43—Thought
44—Tool for making dots
46—Wraps
47—To peruse
48—Old

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

DOWN

1—To haul
2—Capable
3—Consecrating
4—Compass point
5—Bell
6—To inquire
7—Clenched hand
8—Iron (symb.)
9—Egyptian
10—Where buffaloes roam
11—Latins
13—Indicated
15—Nimble
17—Location
19—Concerning
23—Flat-bottomed river boat
24—Father of the Nereids
25—Drifting
26—Sturdy
28—Accustomed
29—Heavy timber used in building
31—Additions
34—Avarice
35—Glacial ridge
37—Glut
38—Shack
39—Border
42—Music, as written
45—Conjunction
46—Hawaiian lava

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Tar Heel Nine Nips Deacons, 5-4; Netters Drop 5-4 Decision To Indians

Base Hit by Andrew Drives Cheek Home With Winning Tally

By Larry Fox

Wake Forest, May 1—Coming up in the top half of the seventh inning, relief pitcher Tommy Andrew stroked a ground-ball single into the hole between third and short to drive home his batterymate, Emmett Cheek, with the winning run to gain a 5-4 victory over Wake Forest.

The Tar Heels were one run down going into the seventh when Rip Ryan opened up with a single to deep short. Rip went out on Co-Captain Jim Hamilton's fielders choice, but Cheek chased Hamilton home with a long double to right centerfield to tie up the contest. The big backstop scored a minute later when Andrew delivered his timely safety.

The Deacons took the lead in the second frame when Paul Livick blasted a four-baser to right centerfield, scoring Gene Hooks, who reached base on a smash through the box that starter Frank Robinson knocked down, but couldn't hold.

Wake Forest scored again in the fourth on a single, a base on balls, and two infield outs.

Even Count

The Tar Heels came to life their next time at bat and tallied three times to even the score. Jim Kelly opened the frame with a single past the shortstop and scooted to third on Will Hobbs' two-baser that landed smack on the leftfield foul line. Ryan struck out, but Hamilton grounded a single between third and short for Carolina's first run off Moe Bauer. Hamilton went to second when Cheek grounded out to third. Jack Brasington batted for Robinson and reached base on an error, Hobbs scoring on the play. Brasington stole second and Hamilton counted when the catcher's peg went into centerfield.

Russ Batchelor scored the final Deacon run in the bottom half of the frame. He led off with a single to left, moved to second on pitcher Bauer's sacrifice, and advanced another base when Andrew threw one into the dirt. K. Rogers received a free ticket and then the umpire called a balk on the slim righthander when he picked Rogers off first to bring in the run.

Robinson Starts

That set the stage for the Tar Heels' seventh inning rally and Andrew's game-winning blow.

Frank Robinson, in search of his fifth straight win, started on the hill for the Hearnmen, but complained of a sore elbow in the fourth inning. The speedballer finished out the inning and retired in favor of a pinchhitter, Brasington. Andrew came in and notched his second victory of the campaign against one setback.

Bauer opened for Coach Frank Novosel and for a time his southpaw hooks had the Tar Heels handcuffed. After surrendering a single to Kenny Black, who was erased in a twin killing on the very next play, he retired 11 men in a row.

Mustian for Bauer

Bauer went out for pinchhitter Woody Wrenn in the seventh and was replaced by Vernon Mustian, who proceeded to hold the Tar Heels scoreless for the two frames. Bauer was saddled with the loss.

Cheek led the Tar Heels' ninehit assault with two big doubles in four trips to the plate. Hobbs got the only other extra base hit for the Blue and White. Livick smashed a single in addition to his home run to garner slugging honors for the Demon Deacons.

Neither of the Wake Forest hurlers gave up a base on balls during the contest and each put four Ks into the scorebook opposite Carolina hitters.

As if the game didn't have enough excitement, the Carolina bench poured onto the playing field twice to protest decisions of the two arbitors. With men on first and third and one out in the fourth inning, the Tar Heels executed what seemed to be a snappy double play only to have the runner called safe at second.

BIG FOUR STANDINGS

	W	L	Pct.	G.B.
North Carolina	4	1	.800	-
N. C. State	3	2	.600	1
Wake Forest	3	3	.500	1 1-2
Duke	1	5	.167	3 1-2

Calumet Sweep . . .

Citation, Coaltown Finish One-Two in Kentucky Derby

Louisville, Ky., May 1 — (UP) — It was all Calumet Farms at Churchill Downs today as Citation and Coaltown finished one-two in the 74th running of the Kentucky Derby. The third horse in the field of six was My Request.

It marked the first time since 1926 when Bubbling and Bagenbaggage turned the trick, that an entry has finished one-two in the Derby. Three other records were broken. Eddie Arcaro on Citation became the first jockey to win the Derby for the fourth time. And by winning, Citation broke the long-standing jinx that a winner of the Belmont Futurity or the Derby trial never has taken the Derby. Now Citation has won all three.

Coaltown Grabs Early Lead

Coaltown took the early lead and held it until the stretch, when Citation turned it on and came on in to win. Citation's time for the one mile and one-quarter was 2:05.5.

Citation's time, over a track that was sloppy after intermittent rains throughout the day, was far off record of two minutes, one and two-fifths seconds set by Whirlaway back in 1941.

Arcaro's win — his fourth in the Derby — put him one-up on Earl Sande and the late Issac Murphy, both of whom entered the winner's circle three times.

At End of First Quarter

At the end of the first quarter it was Coaltown by one-half length, with Grandpere second and Citation third. Citation flashed past Grandpere at the one-half mile mark and from there on it was merely a question of whether it would be Coaltown or Citation which would hit the wire first.

After three-quarters of one mile it was Coaltown by two lengths, then came Citation, and My Request moved up into third spot. Coaltown still lead after one mile, but Citation had moved to within one-half length of his stablemate. Then going into the stretch Arcaro called on Citation for more speed — and the flashy three-year-old pride of Calumet answered nobly.

Wins Own Game!

The box:

Carolina	AB	R	H	PO	A	E
Black, cf	4	0	1	6	0	0
Hayworth, 3b	4	0	0	2	2	0
Jones, rf	4	0	1	0	0	0
Kelly, lf	4	1	1	2	0	0
Beason, lf	0	0	0	0	0	0
Hobbs, 1b	4	1	1	9	0	0
Ryan, ss	4	0	1	4	2	0
Hamilton, 2b	4	2	1	2	2	0
Cheek, c	4	1	2	2	0	0
Robinson, p	1	0	0	0	0	0
a-Brasington	1	0	0	0	0	0
Andrew, p	2	0	1	0	0	0
Totals	36	5	9	27	6	0

Wake Forest	AB	R	H	PO	A	E
Rogers, ss	3	0	0	2	1	0
Kersh, cf	4	0	0	1	0	0
Teague, 2b	4	1	2	2	5	0
Fulghum, lf	3	0	0	0	0	0
Hooks, 3b	4	1	1	0	3	1
Warren, 1b	4	0	0	11	0	0
Livick, rf	4	1	2	3	0	0
Batchelor, c	2	1	1	8	0	1
Bauer, p	1	0	0	0	2	0
b-Wrenn	0	0	0	0	0	0
c-Hoch, ss	1	0	0	0	1	0
Mustian, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	30	4	6	27	12	2

a-batted for Robinson in fifth.
b-batted for Bauer in seventh.
c-ran for Wrenn in the seventh and then replaced Rogers.

UNC	000	030	200—5
WF	020	110	000—4

Summary—Runs batted in: Livick 2, Hamilton, Warren, Cheek, Andrew. Two-base hits: Hobbs, Cheek 2. Home run: Livck. Stolen bases: Brasington, Jones. Sacrifices: Bauer, Batchelor. Double plays: Rogers-Teague-Warren. Left on bases: UNC 4, WF 2. Base on balls—off: Robinson 1; Andrew 1. Struck out—by: Robinson, 2; Bauer, 4; Mustian, 4. Hits—off: Robinson 3 in 4 innings; Bauer 7 in 7 innings; Andrew 3 in 5 innings; Mustain 1 in 2 innings. Wild pitch: Andrew. Balk: Andrew. Losing pitcher: Bauer. Winning pitcher: Andrew. Time of game: 2:10. Umpires: Carr and Gunn.

—Makings— In the Majors

By United Press

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Boston 8, New York 6.
WP—Kramer; LP—Lopat.
Detroit 10, Cleveland 3.
WP—Trout; LP—Feller.
Saint Louis 6, Chicago 2.
WP—Sanford; LP—Grove.
Philadelphia 5, Washington 1.
WP—Scheib; LP—Wynn.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Brooklyn 2, Philadelphia 1.
WP—Hatten; LP—Dubiel.
Boston 6, New York 3.
WP—Voiselle; LP—Newsom.
Pittsburgh 7, Cincinnati 2.
WP—Hughes; LP—Ostermueller.
Chicago at St. Louis in night game

FRESHMAN TRACK

The Freshman track squad will meet Raleigh high school here tomorrow in its third outing of the year in a meet that will get under way at 3:30. In their two previous meets, the yearling tracksters defeated Durham high school.

LIFESAVING COURSES

A meeting of all students interested in taking senior lifesaving or water-safety instructors' courses will take place tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock in rooms 303-304 Woollen.

This Week in Carolina Sports

BASEBALL

Tuesday—Duke, here.
Jayvees vs. Duke, Durham.
Thursday — Virginia, at Charlottesville.
Friday—Maryland, at College Park.
Saturday—Georgetown, at Washington.
Jayvees at Greensboro high school.

TENNIS

Monday—Army, at West Point.
Wednesday—Navy, at Annapolis.
Freshmen vs. Cherry Point, here.
Thursday — Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia.
Friday—Haverford, at Haverford, Pa.
Saturday—Country Club of Virginia, at Richmond.
Freshmen vs. Maury high school, here.

GOLF

Tuesday—Duke, at Hope Valley.
Saturday—Southern conference tournament at Hope Valley.

TRACK

Monday—Freshmen vs. Raleigh high school here.
Saturday—Navy, here.

Monday's Murals

SOFTBALL

3:30—Field 1: Finish of Battlers vs. Graham 2.

4:00—Field 1: Zeta 2 vs. Phi Kap 2; No. 2: Phi Gam 1 vs. Chi Phi 1; No. 3: Pi Lamb 2 vs. Chi Phi 2; No. 4: Sig Ep vs. SAE; No. 5: Phi Delt 1 vs. ATO 2; No. 6: ZBT vs Chi Psi 2; No. 7: Phi Delt 3 vs. Sig Chi 1; No. 8: Aycock vs. Graham 1; No. 9: Phi Gam 3 vs. Chi Psi 1.

5:00—Field No. 1: KA 1 vs. Phi Kap 1; No. 2: DKE 2 vs. ATO 1; No. 3: Whitehead vs. Mangum 1; No. 4: Oakwood Drive vs. Wesley Rockets; No. 5: Pi Lamb 1 vs. St. A.; No. 6: Phi Delt 2 vs. SAE 2; No. 7: Kap Psi vs. Sig Nu 2; No. 8: Beta 1 vs. PiKA 2; No. 9: Zeta 1 vs. Lamb Chi 2.

TENNIS

4:00—Courts 8, 9, 10, 11: Graham vs. Emerson.

5:00—Courts 1, 2, 3, 4: Steele 1 vs. Independent; Courts 5, 6, 8, 9: KA 2 vs. Sig Chi 3; Courts 10, 11, 12: ATO vs. Sig Chi 2.

HORSESHOES

4:00—Pits 1-3: Pi Lamb 2 vs. Phi Gam 2; Pits 4-6: Sig Chi 3 vs. Kap Sig 2.

4:30—Pits 1-3: KA 3 vs. DKE 3; Pits 4-6: Phi Kap 2 vs. PiKA 2.

5:00—Pits 1-3: Chi Phi vs. Sig Chi 2; Pits 4-6: Phi Gam 3 vs. ATO 1.

5:30—Pits 1-3: Sig Nu 1 vs. Sig Chi 1; Pits 4-6: Chi Phi 1 vs KA 1.

RIFLE FIRING

4:00—Lewis vs. Nash.
7:30—Stacy vs. Med School.

Spring Cage Drills To Start Tomorrow

Spring practice for all basketball candidates will get under way tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the main court of Woollen gym.

Coach Tom Scott has requested that all eligible varsity, jayvee and freshman players report for the drills, as well as any other aspirants for the Carolina squad. The spring session will last for three weeks.

UNC Racquet Crew Suffers Initial Loss; Moves to West Point

(Special to the Daily Tar Heel)

Virginia Beach, Va., May 1— The victory skein of North Carolina's tennis team was snapped at 16 straight by William and Mary's powerful brigade here today, but only after the Tar Heels had come within one doubles match of pulling the racquet upset of the season, finally losing by a 5-4 count.

Surprisingly holding a 4-2 lead at the end of the singles action, the Carolinians needed only one win in the three doubles engagements. And though the tandem encounters were hard fought all the way, the Indians managed to sweep all three to gain their 54th consecutive victory over a four-year span.

"Fine Tennis"

The one-match setback could almost be considered a moral triumph for the Tar Heels, who were definite underdogs and, according to Coach John Kenfield, "played a very fine brand of tennis." Minus the services of Vic Seixas, his number one star, who had to remain in Chapel Hill after an attack of glandular fever, Kenfield remarked that "Vic might have made the difference, especially in that doubles match. I'm proud of the way the boys played," he exclaimed.

The Carolina team will stay here overnight and then continue its northern swing tomorrow, heading first to West Point. The Blue and White racquetmen will be in action Monday against Army, whose top player, Charlie Oliver, downed Seixas last season.

Taylor Performs Well

Playing number one in the absence of Seixas, Carolina's Clark Taylor performed nobly today before losing to Fred Kovaleski, 6-0, 4-6, 6-2, in the feature duel. Kovaleski's running mate, Tut Bartzen, had little trouble on court two, trimming Stan Gruner, 6-2, 6-0.

It was a different story in the remaining positions, though. In the number three engagement, Carolina's Ray Morris pulled a mild upset over Howe Atwater in two overtime sets. And on court four, Charlie Rice provided another surprise by downing Bob Galloway in a tough three-set match.

The summaries:

Singles: Kovaleski (W-M) over Taylor, 6-0, 4-6, 6-2; Bartzen (W-M) over Gruner, 6-2, 6-0; Morris (C) over Atwater, 7-5, 9-7; Rice (C) over Galloway, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3; Skakle (C) over Randall, 6-0, 6-3; Alexander (C) over Macken, 6-4, 6-2.

Doubles: Kovaleski and Bartzen (W-M) over Taylor-Wilder, 2-6, 6-4, 6-0; Galloway-Doll (W-M) over Morris-Rice, 7-5, 7-5; Atwater-Macken (W-M) over Alexander-Skakle, 10-8, 7-5.

White Team Downs Blues, 32-7; Snavely, Casey Given Trophies

By Dick Jenrette

In a game that was filled with passes from beginning to end, Coach Jim Gill's White team defeated a Blue squad piloted by Max Reed in the third annual introsquad football game by a rather one-sided 32-7 margin in Kenan stadium yesterday.

A crowd approaching 10,000 fans were on hand for the affair, the proceeds of which go to the Carolina Monogram club, sponsor of the annual clash.

In halftime ceremonies, football skipper Carl Snavely was honored as the outstanding varsity coach of the past year and he was presented with a handsome trophy. Ralph Casey, assistant swimming coach, was the winner of the award given to the best assistant mentor. The choices were made by the Monogram club.

As for the game itself, the Whites proceeded to march, or more appropriately pass, their way for a quick touchdown which the Blue promptly matched. The Gill eleven, with Charlie Justice providing most of the offensive fireworks, then monopolized the scoring for the rest of the game.

The first score came before five minutes were gone. After moving to the six, mostly through the air, Justice looped a high aerial into the left side of the end zone, and Johnny Clements gathered it in for a TD. The Whites were out front, 6-0.

CARL SNAVELY
. . . wins coaching award.

With Bill Maceyko showing up very well in the passing department, the Blues came right back with a score of their own. Maceyko's passes pushed his team to within striking distance of the goal and after two running plays, Maceyko pitched to Bill Flamisch for the score. Fred Sherman's extra point gave the Blue a short-lived lead.

A combination of a pass interception by Joe Romano on the Blue 24 and a long, looping pass from Justice resulted in another White score to produce a 12-7 lead. That pass was intended for Art Weiner, but a Blue defender batted it into the air. Alert Ed Bilpuch grabbed the pigskin for the touchdown before the ball hit the ground.

All three of these touchdowns came in the first quarter, but the action slowed down in the second period, with Joe Gurtis' line plunge giving the Whites another score for a 19-7 lead.

In the second half, Weiner and Clements both accounted for touchdowns on lengthy passes to up the final score to 32-7. Justice converted the extra-point attempt after the latter score.

Head Cheerleader Norm Sper stole much of the glory from the game with his direction of the Carolina card stunts. After experiencing considerable difficulty in getting enough students to participate in his plans, he finally organized the group. The result certainly must have been gratifying to Sper for the crowd gave a loud ovation as each of the card stunts were executed.

University Florist
"For the Best in Flowers"
Pick Theatre Bldg.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Telephone 6816

Carolina Sport Shop
PRESENTS
TEX BENEKE
On Records
Encore, Cherie
Saturday Date
St. Louis Blues March
Cherokee Canyon
Strange And Sweet
Star Dust
Moonlight Serenade
POPULAR HITS
TEX BENEKE'S ALBUM
PROM DATE
Carolina Sport Shop

GRAND OPENING
MONDAY 3 MAY
SPECIALIZING ALL KINDS OF SEAFOOD
—And—
Featuring — STEAKS, CHICKEN
SEAFOOD GRILL
OPPOSITE NEW BUS STATION

PATRONIZE
Tar Heel Advertisers
Today

Daily Tar Heel Society

May Day Crowning To Top Weekend

Eye-Catching SEAM-FREE NYLONS WITH PATENTED HEEL

This hosiery of superb fit, comfort and seam-free loveliness is identified by the Seal of the DANCING TWINS. Note the exclusive, patented heel* —secret of fit, the Gussetoe—designed for comfort! And no seams to twist out of line. Sold under leading brand names at your favorite college shop or store.

*U. S. Pat. No. 2256849

By Helen Highwater

May Day today in the Forest theater will climax another of Carolina's tremendous weekends. Beneke, in all his glory, has provided the campus with some real music for the last three days, and Spring Finals this year will be long-remembered.

The concert yesterday afternoon was really "in there." Tex and his boys put on one of the finest shows Carolina has ever had the privilege of taking in. The Beneke combination sure did put punch into their swing, so much so that no one could doubt the reason for his being one of the leading bands in the nation today. All the more power to Tex; hope to be having him around again soon.

Norm Sper's card stunts, used for the first time at the Blue-White game yesterday afternoon, certainly was all that it was cracked up to be. Everyone sitting in the card section evidently was well aware that to put on a top notch performance was the main purpose of the half-time ceremonies, and they went all out to do it.

The work that Norm and the new squad put into the job really paid off, and, since this is the first time this has been used on the East coast at any university, it should be one of our biggest drawing cards next fall, something else to be proud of.

One of our own students, Ed Easter from Lexington, was given the chance of a lifetime Friday evening when he sang "I've Got You Under My Skin" on Beneke's coast-to-coast radio show. And from the way he sang, and the way the crowd applauded, he certainly didn't pass the chance up by any means. Another Carolina star has been born.

Last night's final dance was really the climax of an unforgettable weekend. Folks attending ate it up as hundreds crowded around the bandstand to drink in every iota of Beneke rhythm that could possibly be allotted them. Hundreds more, in typical fashion, let their energies run free on the dance floor, to the well-known Miller-Beneke favorites, the ones that made the organization famous.

But it's not over yet. Drop in on the May Day celebration at the Forest Theater this afternoon at 4 o'clock to top off a beautiful spring day and a wonderful weekend. Also, if you get around to it ,the big air show will get underway somewhere around 2 o'clock out at the airport, should really be terrif.

THIS MAN WANTED

. . . Height about 5 ft. 11 . . . Weight around 180 pounds . . . Age about 38 . . . Brown hair speckled with grey . . . Wears spectacles . . . Likes crowds, gin rummy, tennis and trombone . . . Known by alias "The Sentimental Gentleman" . . . He's wanted in every State in the Union consequently doesn't linger long enough anywhere . . . Carries big mob with him who carry out his orders at the wave of a hand . . . Dangerous . . . They're all armed to blast the blues away . . . Has a long record . . . On the air . . . In pictures . . . On Victor records . . . In person . . . If you sight him run, do not walk, to your nearest or dearest beau and start dancing . . . Familiar to millions as Tommy Dorsey . . . He'll be in our midst

NEXT WEDNESDAY

At Raleigh's Memorial Auditorium

Tickets for Carolina Mugs to attend are on sale at Eckerd's in Durham for only two bucks. Don't stool on this gang because it's red hot.

Just Received—

SEERSUCKER CORD

SPORT JACKETS

Regular and Longs

14.50

ALL WOOL GABARDINE

SLACKS

12.95 to 17.50

FREEMAN'S

ALL WHITE BUCKSKIN

OXFORDS

13.95

The YOUNG MEN'S SHOP

E. Main at Church

Durham

Larger Loans on Anything of Value

Durham's Newest and Best Pawn Shop

MAIN LOAN OFFICE

Located: 400 W. Main St. at Five Points

May Day Pageant Planned in Forest Theater

Society Notes

The ADPi's entertained the Phi Kappa Sigma's Tuesday night from eight until ten o'clock. At that time they presented their skit, "Red Hot Riding Hood," which took second place at the Sigma Chi derby.

The regular Chi O coffee hour will not be held this Sunday night.

Lynn Balnchard, Jean Snyder, and Anne Slack left Thursday to attend the national convention of Kappa Epsilon Honorary Pharmaceutical sorority being held in Columbus, Ohio, this weekend.

The local chapter of Pi Beta Phi joined with the Duke chapter in commemoration of the 81st year since the founding of Pi Beta Phi. The two chapters met at the saddle club in Durham for the annual dinner party there.

Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity entertained the Chi O's at an informal tea Tuesday afternoon. Bridge was played and refreshments served.

Two ADPi's were serenaded by the Sigma Chi's this week. Margaret Jean Taylor, who is pinned to Buddy Lyons, Sigma Chi, came from Asheville for the Sigma Chi weekend. She was serenaded Saturday night. Fran Angas, the new Sweetheart of Sigma Chi, was also serenaded Saturday night after the Sweetheart Ball.

Caroline Warren, ADPi alumna, of Chapel Hill, was married Saturday, April 24, at 4 o'clock, to Richard Donnan, Phi Kappa Sigma, of Rutherford, N. J. The couple will reside in Pittsfield, Mass.

The Tri Delts initiated four members into their fraternity last weekend. The new initiates are Emily Ogburn, Lillian Hotard, Jocelyn Rhyne, and Margaret Gaston.

Carolina Independent Coeds Install Officers In Impresssve Candlelight Ceremony At YMCA

An impressive candlelight ceremony marked the installation of newly elected Carolina Independent Coed Association officers Wednesday night at 7 o'clock in the "Y." The installation committee was headed by Vivian Wise of Latta, S. C., chairman; Lola Mustard of Bluefield, W. Va.; and Gloria Peters of Allentown, Pa.

The newly elected officers, dressed in white, entered the candle-lit room where the old officers and members were seated. Each new officer had her candle lighted by a retiring officer, marking the transition from the old to the new.

President Sadie B. Pearson administered the oath of office to new officers, including the following girls: Betty Long, Salisbury, president; Eloise Jacobi, Wilmington, vice-president; Joyce Harris, Bunn, secretary; Katherine Hovis, East Bend, treasurer; Genevive Trott, Newton, social chairman; and Betty Huston, Fairmont, publicity chairman.

A response to the old president was made by new president Betty Long. She thanked the members for their confidence in her and expressed appreciation of the work done by the old officers, President Sadie B. Pearson of Gastonia; Vice-president Mary Swann of Covington, Ga.; Secretary Mary Ellen Reaves of Hamlet; Treasurer Helen Xanthos of Fay; Social Chairman Anne Scott Dellinger of Ivenhoe; and Publicity Chairman Jane Mears of Asheville.

After the installation of the new officers the CICA scrap book was presented by Gwendolyn Baber of Shelby and the photograph album by Vivian Wise. The association was then served mints, cakes, and punch by the installation committee.

ATO's Augment Big Weekend With Picnic And Breaktasts

The Alpha Tau Omegas decided to be different this weekend, so the Tau faces were not seen at the usual picnic grounds at either Hogan's lake or Morgan's creek, but were hermited off to the privacy of Teeny's meadow for a fraternity-sponsored party yesterday morning.

Buffet luncheon served under the trees was followed by an exciting treasure hunt which was cut short only by the approach of game-time in Kenan stadium where all the brothers and their dates turned out to participate in Head Cheerleader Norm Sper's successful card stunts and to watch Charlie Justice's White team take an overwhelming victory over their fellow squad members on the Blue team.

A burlap sack race was the highlight of the three-hour affair, with Florida native Bill Belle winning in the men's division and Gastonia coed Margaret Gaston triumphing in the feminine half of the contest.

Also on the ATO agenda for the weekend, aside from the two Tex Beneke dances and the concert, were midnight breakfasts at the ATO house after each of the dances. Hundreds of brothers, dates and guests moved through the dining room to grab their portion of the sausage and eggs being served.

And at the ATO house, as elsewhere on the campus, everyone agreed that the 1948 spring Germans was a weekend which would not be soon forgotten.

Chi Phi Initiates Fifteen

The Chi Phi Fraternity held its spring initiations on April 13th and 14th. The newly initiated brothers are Buck Buchanan, Sylva, N. C.; Felder Graham, Dawson, Ga.; Dale Morrison, Miami, Fla.; Frank MacDonnell, Savannah, Ga.; Hamp Davis, Richmond, Va.; Les Davis, Anderson, S. C.; Herb Mitchell, Asheville, N. C.; Bob Kavanaugh, Baltimore, Md.; Bob Hasbrouck, Woppingers Falls, N. Y.; Hodge DuBose, Winston-Salem, N. C.; C. B. Mendenhall, Charlotte, N. C.; Tom Cherry, Ahoskie, N. C.; Jim White, Durham, N. C.; Dave Willis, Sanatorium, N. C.; and Wilson Yarborough, Fayetteville, N. C.

THIEVES CLEAN UP

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Thieves broke into the garage of a trucking firm, stripped trucks of tires and rims valued at $2,200 and stole tools and office equipment valued at $1,000. Then they loaded their loot on a company truck worth $3,500 and drove away, undetected.

DKE Initiates With Banquet

Beta chapter of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity held its annual initiation of pledges Monday evening in the Chapter house. The eight newly initiated members are: Peter T. Burks, III, Charlotte; George T. Dunlop III, Asheville; R. Wharton Gaul, Charlotte; H. Neal Howard, Jr., Farmville; Henry J. (Pete) Langston, Jr., Danville, Va.; Samuel P. Manning, Spartanburg, S. C.; Shahane Taylor, Greensboro; and Francis E. Winslow, Jr., Rocky Mount.

Immediately following the initiation ceremony, the initiates were honored by a formal banquet at the Carolina Inn, where Deke president Howard Walters welcomed the new members into the chapter, and George Dunlop president of the pledge class, answered on their behalf.

In the absence of Dr. W. N. Dey, faculty advisor, Jack B. Saunders gave a short address.

Garden Club Opens May Flower Show

The Chapel Hill Garden Club opened its "May Day Flower Show" in the central gallery of Person hall yesterday afternoon at 2:30. The first Garden Club May Day show since 1941, the present one will feature arrangements of large and miniature varieties, horticultural exhibits, herbs, and projects dealing with landscaping, beautification, and conservation.

Non-members are invited to bring exhibits to be entered in the non-members' section. Four classes of prize ribbons are being offered this year plus a grand prize for the person receiving the greatest number of ribbons.

Men's Glee Club

Carl Perry, Schoolfield, Va., has been elected president of the Men's Glee club to succeed Richard Cox, Raleigh. Lanier Davis, Chapel Hill, was re-elected business manager.

Other officers for the coming year are: Don Robertson, Asheville, vice-president; and Irving Silver, High Point, secretary.

Initiation Ceremonies Held At Sigma Nu

Formal initiation ceremonies were held in Sigma Nu last Wednesday night. The following men were initiated: Maurice Bunch, Edenton; Oscar Cordle, Norfolk, Va.; Jess Dedmond, Cliffside; and Rodney Foreman, Elizabeth City.

Jim Gwynn, Mexico City, Mexico; Allen Lee Harrell, Tarboro; Ralph Jonas, Lincolnton; Leslie Jones, Norfolk, Va.; J. C. Moye, Snow Hill; Neil Nelson, Rocky Mount; John Spinks, Winston-Salem; Scott Skinner, St. Louis, Mo.; Bill Weatherly, Elizabeth City.

CLASSIFIED

FOR RENT 6A

PRACTICALLY NEW HOUSE TRAILER Sleeps four. Refrigerator, stove. Can be seen at 27 Rogerson Drive, Hill Homes Development. (ch 1x1)

FOR SALE 6B

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogers Drive. Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. Telephone F-2906. (ch 1x2)

24 FOOT ALMA HOUSE TRAILER IN excellent condition. Electric brakes. Sleeps four. Priced for quick sale ($1295.00) John L. Harris, B-V-P Trailer Lot No. 250. (1-352-1)

NEW BRICK HOME VERY CLOSE IN. Immediate possession. Write or call University Cleaners for appointment. Phone 4921. (ch 1x1)

TUXEDO—SIZE 37 LONG. EXCELLENT condition. Too small for present owner. Yours for $15.00. See at 164 Eagley Drive, Victory Village. (1-300-1)

31 OAKWOOD DRIVE—ATTRACTIVE two bedroom house. Excellent location—Priced right for quick sale. Call F-3216 or come to 31 Oakwood. (1-298-1)

23 FOOT COVERED WAGON HOUSE trailer Available immediately. No. 75 Pittsboro Road Trailer Court. (1-297-1)

HELP WANTED 8

STUDENT HELP WANTED FOR night work—three nights a week. Apply at the Colonial House System, Rosemary St. (Ch 1x1)

WANTED 24

A GOOD 35MM CANDID CAMERA, with or without accessories. Chas. Elliott. 303 New West. (1-353-1)

WANTED TO RENT 24B

2 OR 3 ROOM APARTMENT, FURNished or unfurnished by veteran student and mother for permanent residence. Call 4361. (1-293-1)

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

Le Cercle Francais will meet Monday evening at 7:30 at Caldwell "Y" instead of Tuesday evening as previously scheduled.

Dr. W. L. Wiley of the Romance Language Department will speak on the province of Savoie. Dr. Wiley spent a number of months in this area during the war and will discuss the historical background of the province as well as give some idea of its status at present and during the time he spent there.

The group will meet for supper at the Carolina Inn at 6:15 before the meeting. Visitors are always welcomed.

TAR HEEL Advertisers—

Pledged to Good Service

Patronize Them

Dr. Frank Graham Will Crown Queen To Climax Pageant

The annual May Day of the campus will be held in the Forest theater this afternoon at 4 o'clock under the sponsorship of Pan-Hellenic council, Carolina Independent Coed Association, and Chi Delta Phi.

An old English round by three faculty members, Gus Harrer, Eugene Davis, and A. L. Lancaster will open the afternoon performance.

Dr. Frank Graham will climax the pageant with the crowning of the queen with a floral crown.

The pageant was written by the members of Chi Delta Phi. It's theme deals with the Prince of the Land of Somewhere and his search for a beautiful, charming, and intelligent wife.

Marcella Harrer has directed the Chapel Hill seventh graders, who will dance and portray such characters as Cléopatra and Madam Pompadour in the pageant.

John Parker will play the role of the prince, and Paul Valentine will portray the devil.

The names of the court attendants have been kept secret, and their identity will not be revealed until they appear in the pageant this afternoon.

Court attendants will wear green marquisette, off-the-shoulder dresses, draped with flowers at the hemline, and will carry nosegays of mixed spring flowers.

The two maids of honor will wear identical pink dresses, and the queen will wear white organdy, carrying a white nosegay.

The music will include a minuet which represents the famous beauties of history.

Chairmen of the May Day presentation were Ferne Hughes, Sadie Pearson, and Marcella Harrer. Sue Stokes acted as publicity chairman, Kay Holden had charge of the dresses, Edie Knight handled the budget, and Ferne Hughes had charge of the flowers.

Pinnings

Ann Martin, Easley, S. C., Alpha Delta Pi, to Royall Shannonhouse, Moncure, Delta Kappa Epsilon.

Bost Slated to Give Dye Chemistry Talk

A program on dye chemistry will be presented tomorrow night at 8:30 in 206 Venable hall featuring a talk by Dr. R. W. Bost, head of the Chemistry department.

Color movies on the manufacture and utilization of dyes will be shown. The program is one of a series presented by Alpha Chi Sigma, professional chemical fraternity, to acquaint students with chemical industry.

Fine Watches Need Excellent Care . . .

A Complete Watch Repair Service at—

BLACKWOOD ASSOCIATE STORE

All Occasions

Flowers say it better

REHDERS

CHAPEL HILL FLOWER SHOP

Opposite Post Office corner

EYES HAVE US FILL THE PRESCRIPTION for

Durham Optical Co

215 W. MAIN ST. TEL. F-2141

OPTICIANS

BIDS NOW ACCEPTED

For

Circulation

of

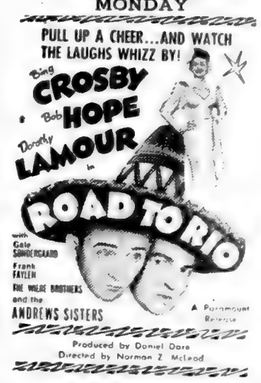
The Daily Tar Heel

for summer and for the year 1948-49 (two separate contracts).

Particulars Available in

Room 212 Graham Memorial

VILLAGE



TODAY

Douglas Montgomery

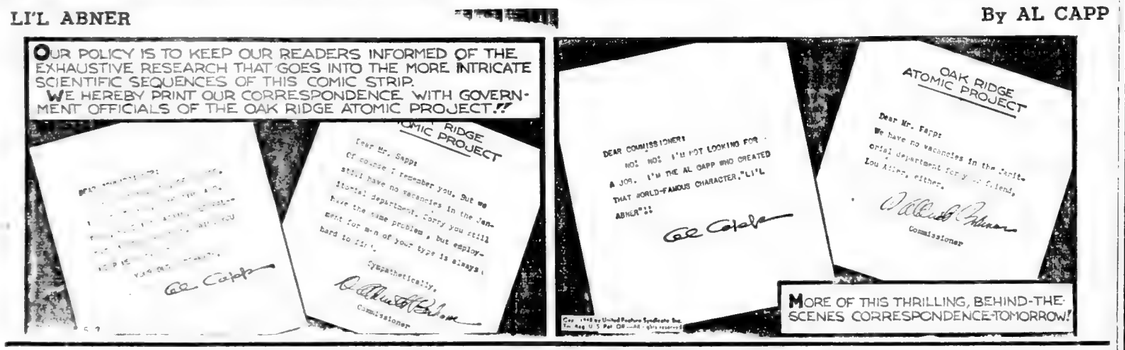
in

"Harmony Lane"

MONDAY

Van Heusen stripes

. . . an exclusive fraternity!



On no other shirts will you find patterns exactly like these exclusive Van Heusen stripes. These are truly fine fabrics, laundry-tested, Sanforized. A new shirt free if your Van Heusen shrinks out of size! In this season's smartest shades, on white and colored backgrounds. They feature the new low-setting "Comfort Contour" collar styling that's won its varsity letter on every campus in the country. Join the smart crowd today . . . in Van Heusen stripes. $3.95 and $4.95. PHILLIPS-JONES CORP., NEW YORK 1, NEW YORK.

You're the man most likely to succeed in

Van Heusen Shirts

TIES • SPORT SHIRTS • PAJAMAS

LI'L ABNER By AL CAPP

Man—oh—Man—FRIED CHICKEN—at HARRY'S

ALL I CAN HEAR IS

Meet at Sutton's

And Have a

FROSTED MALTED

Small—Medium—Large

SUTTON'S Drug Store

Complete Fountain Service

LIBRARY (Periodical Dept)
University of North Carolina
Chapel Hill, N. C.
1-31-48

WEATHER
Cloudy and cooler.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
Stop BVP Athletics
Cheers for Cheerers
Bonus for Veterans

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., TUESDAY, MAY 4, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | 157

House Group Passes Draft Bill; Would Take Men Between 19-25

Forrestal Brands Bill As 'Excellent'; UMT Not Included

Washington, May 3 — (UP) — The House Armed Services committee today approved the House draft bill by a vote of 28 to 5. The measure would call up for two years of military service young men 19 to 25 years old who are not veterans.

Passage of the proposal by the committee went through after Defense Secretary Forrestal branded it "excellent." It is, straight draft legislation with no mention of universal military training. It does not apply to 18-year-olds, who would be called up for one year of domestic training under the Senate measure.

Reserve Exemptions

Men who were in the army for more than 90 days but less than a year could be drafted, but they would be exempted if they joined an organized reserve. All other veterans would be exempt under the bill.

Drafting would begin 90 days after the bill became law. High school students under 20 years old would be permitted to graduate before their induction. College students would be allowed to finish out an academic year.

Third Year

After each draftee served a two-year tour of duty, at home or abroad, he would have to join the inactive reserves for five years. He could avoid this by signing on for another year of regular military service. The drafting would be done, as it was in World War II, by neighborhood draft boards.

Before the formal vote, Secretary Forrestal admitted he actually prefers the Senate bill, which combines the draft with universal military training.

MUNGER TO SPEAK

At the regular Tuesday night supper meeting of the married couples' and graduates' group of Wesley foundation the Rev. Bernard Munger, pastor of the Congregational church of Chapel Hill, will continue a discussion on "Modern Problems in Interpreting the Bible." The picnic supper will be held at the Methodist church at 6:45, and interested students are cordially invited to attend.

THE COEDS pictured above were selected by the Monogram club as sponsors for the annual Blue-White football game played Saturday afternoon in Kenan Stadium. From left to right they are: Bonnie Thrash, Asheville; Becky Holton, Belmont; Sara Marsh, Onley, Va.; Tenn Mason, Gastonia; Elizabeth Myatt, Goldsboro; and Lillian DeArmon, Charlotte.

Catherine Holt Is Crowned May Queen In Forest Theater Festivities On Sunday

By Weddy Thorp

Catherine Lee Holt, senior from Burlington, was crowned Queen of the May at the annual May Day festivities held in the Forest theater on Sunday afternoon.

The Queen's maids of honor were Lillian DeArmon of Charlotte and Joyce Petreson of Brooklyn, N. Y. Members of the court were Helen Barnes, Murfreesboro; Helen Compton Salisbury; Christine White, Washington, D. C.; Jane Lee Parker, Raleigh; Geraldine Williamson, Wilson; Marguerite Johnson, Charlotte; Bonnie Thrash, Asheville; and Evelyn Pettitt, Rocky Mount.

Crowned by House

Chancellor R. B. House placed upon her a floral crown climaxing the ceremonies which included a colorful pageant and the presentation of the May Court. The Queen, the two maids-of-honor, and the other members of her court had been selected from the senior class several weeks ago by a cod vote, but their identity had remained a secret until they formed the procession which filed down into the Forest theater.

The Queen wore a gown of white organdy with a short train and organdy ruffles at the hem, and carried a nosegay of white flowers.

Harrer Directs

The pageant, which was written by members of Chi Delta Phi, was under the direction of Marcella Harrer of Chapel Hill. It was enacted by members of the junior high school group of Chapel Hill.

The pageant opened with the old English ballad, "Summer Is A-Comin' In," played in rondo from by a trio of faculty members, A. L. Lancaster, Eugene Davis, and G. A. Harrer. The action took place in the land of Somewhere and represented a court scene where a prince was charged to find a bride before his 2'st birthday. The devil conjured up famous beauties of history before the prince, but they were rejected.

The May Court was announced as the attendants entered the theater; and the prince found the queen to be the one for whom he was searching.

Sponsors Listed

The May Day ceremonies were sponsored by the Pan-Hellenic council, the Carolina Independent Coed association, and Chi Delta Phi. Co-chairmen of the event were Ferne Hughes, Rainelle, W. Va.; Sarah Blair Pearson, Gastonia, and Marcella Harrer, presidents respectively of the sponsoring organizations. Committee chairmen were: publicity, Sue Stokes, Raleigh; gowns, Kay Holden, Raleigh; finance Edith Knight, Alexandria, Va.; programs and flowers, Ferne Hughes; and elections, Sarah Pearson.

Summer Students Registration Set

All general college students who expect to attend summer school, either one or both terms, will register for their courses by appointment with their advisers during the period May 10-15. Appointments may be made by signing an appointment sheet at the information desk, main lobby of South building, after 2 o'clock any day this week.

Those students who have been notified of their transferral to the upper college should not make an appointment with a general college adviser but should register in the College of Arts and Sciences or the School of Commerce.

A later announcement will be made concerning the pre-registration of those students who will return in September but who will not attend summer school.

N. C. Veterans Will Get Subsistence For 15 Days After Spring Session

Raleigh, May 3 — Wolrd War II veterans attending schools, colleges and universities in North Carolina under the GI Bill of Rights will receive automatically subsistence payments for 15 days after the spring sessions end, but will not be eligible for servicemen's readjustment allowances under the GI bill while receiving the subsistence allowances.

This announcement was made today by Henry E. Kendall, chairman of the Employment Security commission of North Carolina, which administers this provision of the Servicemen's Readjustment act of 1944 under direction of the Veterans administration.

Fine or Jail

Students under this program should make sure their GI subsistence payments have stopped before they file claim for unemployment allowances, since, in cases of deliberate attempts to defraud, there may be a fine or jail penalty for drawing "concurrent payments," as well as the forfeiture of all rights under the readjustment allowance program, Chairman Kendall explained. Incidentally, he cited 192 cases of fraud in all types of veteran claims were referred to the Federal Government for prosecution in March and April.

Veterans are reminded also that they are required to apply for jobs, be available for work, able to work and willing to take suitable jobs before they are eligible to unemployment allowances during their vacation periods. Too, they are required to show that they have acutlly sought work on their own initiative if the commission's North Carolina State Employment service division is not able to locate jobs for them.

Not Too 'Choosy"

Moreover, Chairman Kendall pointed out, veterans are not expected to be too "choosy" in the types of jobs they will accept, since at best their work will be temporary, if they plan to reenter school in the fall. Normally such jobs as those found in farming, food processing, vacation resorts, lumbering and other seasonal work will be considered suitable for temporary jobs for most student veterans.

Unemployment allowances are by no means intended as vacation pay and the status of all veterans who file claims for benefits will be scrutinized closely by personnel in local Employment Security offices, Chairman Kendall said. Veterans eligible for unemployment benefits will receive them, but every effort will be made to find and require them to take reasonably suitable jobs during the summer months, he said.

Supreme Court Upholds Negroes In White Areas

Washington, May 3 — (UP) — The United States Supreme Court ruled today that real estate covenants barring Negroes from all-white residential districts cannot be enforced in the courts.

This ruling gave a victory to American Negroes and other minority groups. The Court's decision would apply to a Negro family that moves into a neighborhood having an all-white covenant. Under the new ruling, the family cannot be forced to move out by legal action.

However, the high court maintained that private covenants are in themselves legal. In other words, if the land-owners in one area wish to join together and set up rules governing their neighborhood, the action would not be illegal although the group could not go into any court to enforce the agreement.

Other important decisions passed by the Supreme Court today included sending back to a lower court the anti-trust suit against eight big movie companies. The suits will carry the Supreme Courts suggestions for tougher penalties against the movie firms.

The Court also held that it is illegal for large grocery chains to undersell independent grocers by wholesale discount plans.

In another ruling the court upheld the right of states to impose taxes on oleomargarine.

Initiation Slated For Phi Eta Sigma

The local chapter of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman scholastic fraternity, will initiate 41 members in a ceremony to be held in the Rendezvous room tonight at 7 o'clock in Graham Memorial.

The Phi Eta Sigma fraternity the 54th of its kind, was established at the University May 29 last year. The local chapter has two initiations a year, at the end of the fall and spring quarters.

To be eligible for membership a candidate must average 95 or better one quarter of his freshman year. Last fall 22 members were initiated into the fraternity, and last spring 47 were initiated. After tonight's initiation the local chapter will have a total membership of 110.

Old members of the organization are asked to be present for the initiation.

PL 16 VETERANS

All Public Law 16 veterans are requested to call at the Veterans Administration office, 111 Peabody, today or tomorrow in order to fill out a blank requesting leave for the days on which school will not be held during the summer months. It is necessary to complete these forms whether the veteran desires to leave or not.

Broughton Will Speak Here Tonight

Chairmen Of Three Committees Are Released By Jess Dedmond

President Jess Dedmond appointed chairmen of three student government committees yesterday and released the names of newly appointed committee memberships.

Dick Gordon, business manager of the 1948 Yackety Yack has been appointed chairman of the Student Audit board; former Attorney General Scotty Venable, chairman of the Student Entertainment committee; and Al Winn has been reappointed as head of the Elections board. The appointments will be submitted to the Student Legislature Thursday night for approval.

In naming committee memberships, Dedmond appointed Ellis Hall, Anies Day, Hubert Aenchbacher, and George Strong to the Student Audit board. Billy Carmichael, Harriet Sipple, David McAdams were appointed to the Student Entertainment committee. Dedmond announced yesterday that the membership of the Elections board would be announced before the Student Legislature meets Thursday night.

The president also released the names of new appointments to the Budget committee which is headed by Secretary-Treasurer Bob Kirby. Members appointed are: Pfohla Wilmoth, Wayne Johnson, Jack Girard, Steve Millikin, Earl Fitzgerald, Cam West, Fitz Caudle, Gran Childress, John Van Hecke, and Nat Williams.

Members of the Orientation committee, which is headed by Bill Miller, are: Charlie MacRae, Tom Cunningham, Dick Boren, Page Harris, Dortch Warriner, Willie Benbow, John Stump, Pete Gerns, and Wayne Brenengen.

Playmakers Schedule 'Cyrano' For Forest Theater May 21-23

By Mark Sumner

Edmond Rostand's famous French comedy, "Cyrano de Bergerac," will be presented by a cast of 40 as the Carolina Playmakers' annual out-door production in the beautiful Forest Theater on May 21, 22 and 23. It will be the final major production of the Playmakers' 30th season, and is to be directed by Foster Fitz-Simons.

Selection of "Cyrano" was made after many requests for it had been recived. It replaces the previously announced "The Shoemaker's Holiday."

Samuel Seldon, department head, said, "We have wanted to present 'Cyrano' for several years, and the demand for it has increased steadily, but this is the first time that we have had the necessary number of trained technicians for producing the five sets of scenery needed in the short time we have on a crowded schedule."

First Given in 1897

"Cyrano de Bergerac" was first produced at the Theatre Porte Saint-Martin in Paris during 1897, and the first night audience rose to its feet at the close of each of the five acts and cheered for minutes. It was so well liked that the second night crowd caused a riot in the streets outside as people fought for tickets.

Director Fitz-Simons, who held tryouts last week, announced over thirty of the cast members. The leading role of Cyrano will be acted by Frederick Johnson, and Gloria Gunn will portray the heroine, Roxane. Both are graduate students.

Cast Listed

Members of the cast include: Martin Jacobs, Colbert Leonard, Danny Hughes, C. D. McIntyre, Charles Morel, James Geiger, Gray McAllister, III, Nat White, Pete Strader, Claude Rayburn, David Samples, A. E. Westover, III, Edsel Hughes, Irvine Smith, Sidney Shetzer, Mac Shaw, Walter Sharafnovich, Fran Echols, Ewell Stezler, and Louis Stevens.

Students to File Aid Applications

All students who wish to hold scholarships, part-time jobs or to receive any other forms of financial assistance through the University Student Aid office for the coming summer sessions or the coming school year must file an application for aid on or before June 1, according to Edwin S. Lanier, director of student aid.

Students who are now working or who are holding scholarships and who have filed applications previously will be required to file a supplemental student aid application. For those students who have never filed an application, whether they are now working or not, must file a complete student aid application before any assignment will be made to him.

Applications may be obtained in the Student Aid office, 302 South building, at any time during regular office hours. Applications must be filed on or before June 1. Each student will be notified by letter of the action taken on his application around July 1, said Lanier.

SENIOR INVITATIONS

Senior invitations will be available at the Y today from 9 o'clock until 3 this afternoon. Invitations will be held until Wednesday for those who made advance orders and then will go on general sale for the rest of the week at 25c each for paper bound and 35c for leather bound invitations.

Seniors to Plan Final Activities In Meet Tonight

Plans for Senior Week and for commencement weekend will be discussed at tonight's meeting of the senior class, to be held at 7:30 in Memorial hall. President Benson McCutcheon has asked that all seniors be present.

Senior week will begin on Wednesday, May 12, and will close with the Gene Krupa concert and dance on Saturday. Anyone who will have 160 hours at the close of this quarter will be eligible for a dance bid, to be given out later this week, McCutcheon said.

Concert tickets will be available to the entire student body, and are on sale in the Y lobby for 75 cents each. Tickets seem to be going fairly well, said McCutcheon, advising seniors, in particular, to get theirs early.

The class president also announced that those who ordered commencement invitations may pick them up and pay for them in the Y lobby.

CAMPUS PARTY TO MEET

Officers will be elected at tonight's meeting of the Campus party in Roland Parker lounge of Graham Memorial, according to Chairman Bob Haire. The party will convene at 6:30 o'clock instead of 7.

CPU Is Sponsoring Former Governor's Appearance Here

J. Melville Broughton, former North Carolina governor and candidate for the U. S. Senate in the coming Democratic primary, will speak here tonight at 8 o'clock in Gerrard hall.

Broughton's appearance here is under the auspices of the Carolina Political union, non-partisian political discussion group.

As governor of the State from January 7, 1941, to January 4, 1945, Broughton has a long record of service to education, farming, and health.

While governor, his administration achieved enactment of teacher and State employees retirement law, legislation adding 12th grade to the public school system, State aid to public libraries, re-organization of State hospitals under consolidated boards, removal of sales tax from all food for home consumption and launching of movement for broad medical care and hospital program in the State.

Phi Will Discuss Red Issue Tonight

The Phi Assembly will discuss a bill to outlaw the Communist party in America tonight at 8 o'clock in the Phi hall on the fourth floor of New East building.

Supporters of the bill will maintain that the Communist party in American is aimed to overthrow the government of the United States.

The argument of the negative side of the bill will be that the United States would be failing in its purposes if the freedom of thought and free speech are denied.

A short executive session will be held immediately following the regular meeting.

Three new members will be initiated: Stuart Bondurant, Page Dees and Ed Clinard.

DELTA PHI ALPHA

Delta Phi Alpha, German professional fraternity, will hold a re-organization meeting on Wednesday at 3 o'clock in 113 Saunders.

Application Deadline Is Thursday For Carolina Quarterly Positions

All applications for the positions of editor and business manager of the Carolina Quarterly must be turned in at the main desk in Graham Memorial by 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

The editor and business manager of the new publication are to be selected from applications by the students members of the Publications board and the Quarterly Faculty Advisory committee. The Advisory committee consists of Phillips Russell and Walter Spearman of the Journalism department, and Lyman Cotton, Harry Russell and Charles Eaton of the English department.

List Experience

Applications should list all past experience in magazine work or other publication fields, other work experience, academic major, and any other information that the applicant deems pertinent. The application should also include any ideas or plans that the candidate has for the future of the Carolina Quarterly.

Both the editor and business manager will choose their own staffs after consultation with the Advisory committee. The editorial staff will consist of the editor, an assistant editor, and a board of executive editors consisting of a makeup editor, literary, poetry, current affairs, and feature editors. There will also be an exchange editor.

The business staff of the Carolina Quarterly will be composed of the business manager, an assistant manager, advertizing, accounting, circulation, and publicity managers.

The Executive committee has made no decision regarding salaries for any position on the new magazine. Salaries will be decided upon next fall after it is known how much money the Quarterly will have for operating.

At a meeting last Friday, the Executive committee decided to put off the deadline for applications until this Thursday in order to give students more time. The committee felt that there should be more applications to ensure a fair choice for both positions.

Replaces Carolina Mag

The magazine will be a student publication although it is divorced from student government and supported by outside donations. It was organized to replace the present Carolina Magazine which will go out of existance at the end of this year.

There will be a meeting of the Executive committee and the Faculty Advisory committee of the Carolina Quarterly Thursday afternoon in the Grail room of Graham Memorial at 4 o'clock. The meeting will be open to the public, and all interested students, faculty, and townspeople will be welcome.

Morn-till-Night Work . . . . . For Slide-Rule Slaves

Damon Misses Rock-Wall Time

By Jim Dickinson

"I feel like a man without a country," was the wailing cry made Sunday by Walter Damon, former Carolina student who transferred recently to N. C. State college to study architecture.

"I'm trying desperately to divide equally my loyalty between the two leading counterparts of the Greater University," he moaned.

Damon, a Robeson county product, came over for the week-end to see the BlueWhite skirmish and "to catch up on my rock-wall time in front of BVP." He admitted a long-harbored desire to see Choo Choo Justice in action again.

"World problems — to be solved effectively — must first or last be reviewed and considered by a gathering of representatives at the rock wall on Franklin Street," said Damon philosophically.

Realizing he was veering to far from his dilemma, the State student promptly remarked, "Yes, I'm afraid I'm falling rapidly into a state of schizophrenia (split personality). When I'm here my heart is there; when I'm there my heart is here."

When prompted to make a comparison of athletics at the two institutions, he said thoughtfully, "Coach Case occupies the same pedestal position at State that Coach Snavely enjoys here. And by the same token, Dickey is no less a shining light on the State campus than Justice is here."

Damon admitted that he feels on the Carolina campus a "more casual atmosphere" than that which he senses at N. C. State. "This is due largely, I think, to the greater amount of free time the average Carolina student enjoys. It's a morn-till-night proposition at State on a six-day basis. The student there is a slave to the slide-rule," he explained.

When asked about the quality of instruction at the two schools Damon said "about on an even keel," but stated modestly that a "more studious student" then he should be asked to judge such matters.

Stop BVP Ball Playing

Not that we have anything against the fine sports of baseball or golf, but the first time one of those high flying balls hits us in the vicinity of Battle-Vance-Pettigrew Dormitory, the fireworks are going to start.

Granting it is a long walk down to proper fields in the vicinity of Woollen Gym, there is still no excuse for the BVP athletes to endanger the limbs of those passing by with uncontrolled balls.

During the past few days, we've seen two baseballs go sailing out in the middle of Franklin street. Fortunately, they didn't hit any windows in the Post Office or strike any parked cars. Still more fortunately, they didn't hit the driver of a car passing by. The racetrack around the post-office corner is bad enough without causing a mass wreck by conking a driver on the head.

This is the third time that the Daily Tar Heel has resorted to editorials to plead with the guys to stop the ball playing in the BVP area. For the safety of others, it has to be stopped, even if an official reprimand from the Legislature or Honor Council is necessary.—B.B.

Cheers For Cheerers

Cheerleader Norm Sper and those who worked with him to perfect the cheering section card stunts deserve all the praise they've been getting. As displayed at Saturday's Blue-White football game, the stunts surpassed everyone's expectations in their effectiveness.

Quite a bit of work by several people went into preparation of the show. A large measure of credit goes to Bill Harrison who drew up six of the eight designs. Darrell Byerly did the other two. Also rating a share in the plaudits for their work on the project are Marjorie Pennington, Carolyn Bishop, Jack Sharpe, Reigh Peck, Hirschel Snuggs, Mary Neely, and Tenn Mason.

Norm says what he needs now to make the stunts a great success next fall is several artists to draw up designs. He'd like to have the sketches done before summer vacation begins and wants anyone who will help out to call Miss Warren at the art department.

Only hitch to Saturday's show was the slowness of spectators in filling up empty seats in the stunt section. Everyone was intrigued by the innovation and wanted to be down front where they could watch the show. As soon as most of them decided to cooperate, the stunts went off smoothly and quickly. This will be the situation next fall, too, since it will take only about ten minutes to run off the stunts, leaving plenty of time during the half for spectators to get up and stretch.

It looks as if Norm's cheering plans will be just the spark needed to give Tar Heel fans the same spirit in the stands that the Tar Heel team will have on the field.

Bonus For Veterans?

Does America owe the veteran a living? One of the candidates for Governor of North Carolina is advocating a cash bonus for all veterans in the state. This bonus definitely would come in handy to the veterans, but is there any valid reason for continuing to hand out money to veterans simply because they are veterans?

Even this long after the war and in spite of all that veterans have said, the press, politicians and the general public still refer to "the veteran" as if he were in a class apart from the rest of society — as if he had been a paid mercenary during the war, fighting because he was hired to. The veteran is an American, just like anyone else. Part of America belongs to him just as it does to any other citizen. He fought because he liked his country as it was, and if there was any changing to be done he wanted it done by the people the country belonged to, not by somebody from the outside. That may not be the reason why the United States as a country fought the war, but that is the reason why Americans as individuals fought.

The veteran did just what any other American would have done had he been the right age at the right time. He did not begrudge doing it. Why should he be paid for it?

America does owe the veteran the chance to make a living. This responsibility the federal government has met in its educational and on-the-job training programs.

Oscar Barker, the same candidate who is campaigning for veterans bonuses, is also advocating state aid in rehabilitation disabled veterans and higher teacher pay. If there is surplus money floating around which could be used to pay bonuses, the able-bodied veteran would rather see it handed to his buddies who gave more that he did. He would rather see it used to employ competent teachers for the schools where his children will soon be. He would rather see it spent to improve health conditions in his state. Those are the things for which bonus money should be spent.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y. Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager T. E. HOLDEN

NIGHT EDITOR: Herb Nachman NIGHT SPORTS: Taylor Vaden

Carolina Carousel

Credit AVC For Hike

By R. Foo Giduz

Uncle Sam's $10 hike on the monthly $65 shakedown comes in soooo handy on the blue Monday when we are soooo broke. . .When the idea of an increase first came up a great number of dog-face students themselves opposed it, but with actual arrival of the chubbier checks, all this seems to have died. . .

Complete credit for bringing about the added sawbuck is due the American Veterans committee. . .Ever since even the old $50 a month days AVC has been pushing for a $65-plus stipend purely on the grounds that education is the best investment the govt. can make in its veterans. . .The American Veterans committee fought and lobbied for the increase for two years when all other major vet groups opposed it. . .Thanks, AVC. . .

—We hear of only one dog-face on the entire campus (and he is a she) who has successfully answered the $65 question . . .When studies got too heavy last month GI-student Reggie Kachigan determined to drop her job and live completely off her little-ol' $65. . .And stoically, perhaps, she dood it! . . .Says Reg of the raise: "Now I can buy desserts. . ."

And as if she didn't have enough troubles already, Reg relates a recent additional tale of intrigue. . .Seems she is quietly sitting up in bed one night last month in Mrs. Jennie Thurston's Rooming House For Young Ladies over on Franklin street. . .When up the steps and right to her room comes the clomp of forbidden male feet. . .Being of an adaptable-semper-paratus nature Reg calmly bids the character "Hello," and asks of his business. . ."Is she still teaching dancing," the character asks. . . Now Reggie has absolutely no idea what the guy is talking about but figures the angle is too good to drop immediately, and furthermore she is too perplexed by the whole works to give him the quick gate. . . "Well now, I'm just not sure," she answers. . .And thus continued several minutes of equally unintelligent and uninformed diatribe on whether or not an unknown "she" was "still teaching dancing. . .Being finally convinced that all this, though completely fascinating, was getting them nowhere, Reg sagely pronounced, "Well, I really guess she must not be teaching dancing anymore.". . . Whereupon the character thanked her, bid a business-like adieu, and naively and clompingly departed from the previously female-hallowed haunts of Thurston Manor. . .

(Detectivating now brings out that the guy was probably hunting Wherry Dance studios three houses down.). . .It could only happen at Carolina. . .

WHAT'S UP in Graham Memorial

Photography enthusiasts got the dope on the standard process of developing a roll of film, printing, and contact printing at last Saturday's darkroom class, conducted by Bob Coulter in the student darkroom, right next to the barbershop on GM's ground floor.

Bob says they're still looking forward to a picture-taking picnic some Friday afternoon, and if you're interested he asks that you see him in the information office from 2 to 3 any afternoon or on Saturday morning.

There are about 60 darkroom cards out now, and more can be had for the asking. No fee is charged at issuance of the permit, but with each use of the darkroom, students pay 15 cents to cover cost of developers and hypo.

Campus Forum

Room For Improvement?

By Pete Gerns

Spencer Fulp (address: Garden of Eden) suggested the other day that this column find out what people in general think about putting the major league standings and a couple of the minor leagues on the sports page of the Daily Tar Heel. So we went around to see a couple of officials up there at the office and found out that the results if printed would be a day late because they don't come over the teletype in time to be set in type.

We went our route the other day with "Is there anything that you'd like to see on the sports page that isn't there now?", asking specifically how they stood on including major and minor league scores.

"I, as a baseball enthusiast am very much interested in seeing the major league, Carolina and Tri-State league standings published in the Daily Tar Heel. This would save time from referring to other papers and also add greatly to the popularity of the sports page." Chris Bushy.

"I think the intramural sports program should be written up with more 'color' and 'life' not just covered as something to fill space. A special column devoted to intramural sports, which might be published daily or weekly, would promote interest very much.

"There are many students at UNC who are far away from home and who are not able to follow their team during the baseball season very closely. I believe results from all of the leagues in the state should be published along with other results from the important and higher leagues throughout the whole area." Oscar Lovelace.

"I like to see more and better support of the track team. Better write-ups about the stars on the team after the meet is over instead of putting in simple results like a horse race. Give some support and interest in boxing at Carolina. Use the paper's influence to return this very popular sport to the Carolina spectator. UNC has some of the best boxing material in the South. I would also like to see the Tri-State and Carolina league standings published." Rex Eatmon.

"The availability of daily newspapers on the campus and the limited space available for the Tar Heel sports page seems to preclude the putting in of the results from the major leagues or the leagues throughout the state. However, if it does not, then let's put them in and save sports fans five cents per day." Lester Carter.

"It seems to me that it would be an improvement in the sports page to include the standings of major leagues and the results of the games played." Russell L. Young.

"I believe that enough of the students are interested in standings of both the local and major leagues to require the DTH to carry them." Gene Ussery.

"I would like very much to see the National and American standings on the sports page. Also the Carolina league standings would be interesting to those of us who try to follow them." Charles Odell.

"I'd like for the sport page to be a full page of sports not like Friday's edition. Also in the giving of the major league scores—how about putting in all the pitchers—saying which one is the loser and winner (as is done now) doesn't tell who the other pitchers were. Also add the names of those hitting home-runs. The coverage of Carolina sports is very good.,, Leon Troutman...

William Tells

Campus Needs Ameche

By Wm. K. Payeff

Ed Joyner called me up yesterday and got me. You can't appreciate that unless you live in Aycock. The last completed phone call there came in 1865 when a gray-haired Confederate mother called her draft-dodging son telling him that Lee was taking ten. Then it had to be relayed from McIver.

Every now and then a party gets a telegram from someone at Harry's or Danziger's inviting him up for a beer or tassavienese (Some go too). This sort of thing has proved to be a great time saver over the phone. And the possibilities of cablegram and carrier pigeon are yet unexplored.

But as a decoration you can't beat the telephone. Enclosed in a beautiful sound-proof booth on the first floor near the head (of the stairs) it gives Aycock a rare charm not found in most Southern universities. And you think I don't hate every $@&fi hair in Don Ameche's head!?

Anyway, Ed called me up about a column. Not exactly a column but it seems that the Tar Heel had a couple of ads cancelled and he used up all the fillers. I could quote you the conversation word for word but I don't want to be investigated and in the second place I forgot what he said. Vaguely I recall: "Write something for us Bill, but don't write on politics, student government, the Mag, Tarnation, The Quarterly, Jeff's, Harry's, coeds, profs, students, athletics, the U. N., Wallace Club, UMT, fraternities, sororities, Tex Beneke. We've got those pretty well covered. And for Pete's sake don't write about yourself!"

Anybody else might have said: "Joyner, you leave me only one alternative. I'll write a column for the Duke paper." I didn't say that. I didn't say anything because we had an awfully bad connection. That means like when you talk into the receiver or the other end with equally fine resluts. But I decided then and there that I wouldn't mention telephone conditions in the men's dormitories. And I won't. After all, some natives in Africa and Tibet are still using signal drums.

I'm gonna write about veterans because my father was a veteran and also I know a few fellars who were in the Armed Forces. Personally, I thing they should be given the same consideration extended to the other minority groups on the campus.

The veterans on this campus fall into two general classifications among other things: Those who eat regularly because their records are always in order and their checks roll in punctually each month, and those upon whom the Veterans Administration bestows a special benefit that perhaps some of you know nothing about and therefore need be enlightened. For free (and without cost) some of the Vets get their money invested in Hungarian oil stock or pyrite mines, etc. The peculiarity of this investment is that the Vets get no interest on the money and thus far no one has heard of a declared dividend.

The advantage is that you get your money in one big lump sum at the end of two or three months of poverty and can really appreciate the value. Then some that are uncannily fortunate get a letter with the belated check informing them that they've been a lucky investor unknowingly.

This service cannot be requested. It falleth like the gentle rain from Heaven upon a few fortunates each month, so I'm sorry if I've encouraged any would be investors for nothing.

Your chances, tho, are best if you're from out of state. Your odds go up 150 per cent automatically, you lucky devils. I think Rube Goldberg is the smartest man in the world. He's the guy that inspired this plan, I hear. It might never replace sex or Roy Rogers but you'll have to admit it's more exciting than shuffleboard.

The Paste Pot

Grave Responsibility

(This Editorial is reprinted from the Wake Forest Gold and Black.)

For those of us whose casual perusal of the daily newspaper may well be characterized as slovenly, the time is ripe for concerted effort to read and ponder. We, as students, cannot, and must not, allow ourselves to lapse into a mental lethargy of conditions that exist beyond the boundry of our campus, or even the state and nation. In any attempt to educate ourselves, we must not fail to recognize that education carries with it definite responsibilities. Not the least of these is that of informing ourselves, from the best sources at our command, of existing conditions within the state, the nation, and the world.

Some may contend that, what with reading texts, supplementary assignments, and attending lectures they are little inclined to do added informative reading; they desire rather to be entertained. Thus it is that a conglomerate array of comics and sensational magazines consume, in many cases, far too much of the time in which students might well devote their leisure hours to reading and evaluating current news —news that is handwriting on the wall. Current news is potential history. Examine our latest history texts: They are nothing more than yesteryear's news plus, of course, the historian has taken advantage of events passed in the sense of final analyses.

America has won and has rightly assumed a position of world prominence. Beware of those cynics whose adverse criticism would emphasize her "prominence" from the point of view of the ingrates whose outstretched hands are accepting food under the administration of the Marshall Plan. America's prominence entails grave responsibilities such as that of maintaining peace on the one hand and upholding justice on the other. We, as intelligent Americans, must not fail to appreciate our duty and privilege of informing ourselves of the American scene and of American policy, both national and international. Let us, then, not remain blind to the news of today.

Write Away

Stassen is the Man

Editor:

As the Republican national convention draws nearer, more people are becoming aware of the capabilities of Harold E. Stassen candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

Mr. Stassen's victories in Wisconsin, Nebraska, and Pennsylv have changed his status from that of a dark horse to a leading contender for the Republican nomination. Those who are familiar with his experience, ability, and foresightedness can well understand these past victories, and confidently look forward to ever increasing victories for Mr. Stassen in forthcoming Republican state primaries.

The United States, at this time, has need of a president experienced in both domestic and international affairs, and Stassen is experienced in both these fields. As governor of Minnesota, he successfully coped with all administrative problems, and the Minnesota Labor Peace law, which he sponsored, has received the support of both labor and management.

His work behind the scenes at the San Francisco conference resulted in his being elected one of the two outstanding delegates at the conference. His ability to foresee conflicts which would arise enabled him to iron out, beforehand, many difficulties which might have impeded progress of the conference. He strove to remove the veto power from the United Nations charter until he was informed by the State department that under the Yalta agreement (the effects of which are now all too well known) the United States was pledged to support the veto power in the charter.

These are only a few examples of Stassen's ability and qualifications. If he succeeds in his bid for the presidency, the United States will have a leader of quality, foresight and determination, and a leader who can do most to unite this country in the coming crises.

Bill Porter

Robertson Analyzed

Editor:

Let us attempt to examine the method by which Bill (the red shrieker) Robertson produces one of his columns for the DTH.

A favorite method appears to be the following. First he selects some statement, takes it out of context, and proceeds to misinterpret it, or some convenient part of it, or its implications. He then acts as if he sincerely belived his misinterpretation and proceeds to work himself up into a state of indignation over the general unjustness of it all.

The gain in subtly transferring the argument from the specific to the general is that most everyone has some evidence of the general unjustness of it all. How many of his readers are carried along with him by the frenzy of his mixture of wishful thinking, platitudes, and vivid half-truths I wouldn't know. Never have I read such semi-plausible nonsense. I suggest that he might profitably employ his typewriter in straight fiction.

Frederick Mills

Goodby to the Hill

(Mr. and Mrs. Altschul, popular associates of Danziger's, take this opportunity to say goodbye from their many devoted friends.)

Editor:

To all our dear students of Chapel Hill:

We are leaving town and are very sorry not being able to greet each of you separately. We say goodbye and thank you for all your kindness; you brought lots of sunshine into our life here.

Best of luck for your future, we will always remember the youth of Chapel Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Altschul

On Women

Kinsey Readying New Book

A four-year-old boy with an IQ of 130 has been confined in a penal institution in the United States as a sex offender, according to Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey, author of the best selling 'Kinsey Report."

This was revealed by Dr. Kinsey in an interview with Robert van Gelder, published in the May issue of Cosmopolitan magazine.

Discussing the case histories that have come to his attention, Dr. Kinsey said:

"There are eight records of murder in our histories; there is the story of a four-year-old boy, a charming child with an IQ of 130 who has been confined in a penal institution as a sex offender.

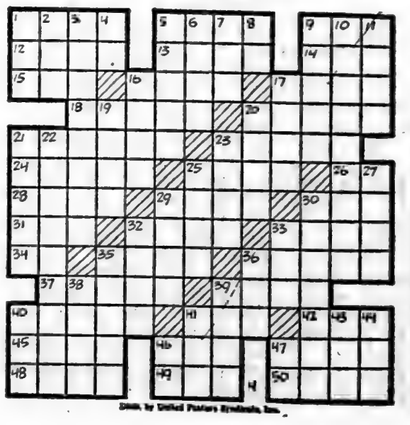
"In my mail—I receive seventy letters a day—most of them so highly confidential that no one but myself can read or answer them—there are pleas, daily, that are piteous, humble, asking for a little information a little understanding, that might salvage a life.

"Only the other day I received a bulky package mailed by a man who intended to commit suicide. 'Here, Doctor,' he said 'is my diary. I've written it as accurately and as truthfully as I know how. Perhaps in it you'll find information that will help you to help others. I know of no one else who could use it so'."

Dr. Kinsey revealed that his next volume on sex which will deal with women's sexual behavior will be ready for publication in eighteen months.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE



ACROSS

1—To discover
5—Rational
9—Conducted
12—Medley
13—Irritating person
14—Hail!
15—To supplement
16—Spoken
17—To gush forth
18—Lawful
20—Showers
21—Pitting board
23—To color
24—To get up
25—To chafe
26—Musical note
28—Traveling bag
29—Cost of ride
30—Man's nickname
31—To make believe
32—City in Alaska
33—To throw
34—Call for silence
35—Rabbit
36—Scottish shrub
37—Unsophisticated
39—Electric light
40—Full of pocks
41—Drunkard
42—Cry of triumph
45—Part of Ireland
46—The sun
47—Above
48—Fruit drinks
49—Not in
50—Man from Media

DOWN

1—Enemy
2—Kind
3—Decorator of metal
4—To perform
5—European herring
6—Russian sea
7—Nothing
8—For example (abbr.)
9—Rabbit fur
10—Without happenings
11—Moistures
16—Curved molding
17—To glide
19—Other
20—To breathe noisily
21—Rodents
22—Cobweblike
23—To peel
25—Sport
27—Poker bet
29—Golf warning cry
30—Bearded
32—Our fighting ships
33—Mountain gap
35—Tramps
36—Narrow passage
38—Land measure
39—Steel pin
40—Bible prod
41—French coin
43—Brick carrier
44—To copy
46—Thus
47—Part of "to be"

Tar Heels Meet Duke On Links, Diamond In Conference Tilts This Afternoon

Carolina Netters Edge Cadets, 5-4

CITATION WINS KENTUCKY DERBY

Shown above is Calumet Farm's Citation as he splashes across the finish line 3 1-2 lengths ahead of stablemate Coaltown to win the 74th running of the Kentucky Derby. By booting Citation home first in the famed Churchill Downs classic, Jockey Eddie Arcaro set a new record of four Derby winners. Running behind Coaltown are My Request and Billings. (International Soundphoto)

Doubles Match Proves Margin At West Point

(Special to the Daily Tar Heel)

West Point, N. Y., May 3—The doubles combination of Charlie Rice and Stan Gruner came through with a 6-2, 6-0 win in the finals doubles match to break a 4-4 tie with Army and give the Tar Heel netmen their 17th victory of the season.

The Chapel Hillians will move down to Annapolis tomorrow where they will meet the Midshipmen in their third match on their current trip.

The Carolinians dropped the first two singles events and then came back to win the next four, only to lose the two match lead at the end of the first two doubles matches. Going into the final match with the score tied, Tar Heels Rice and Gruner allowed Callaway and Stillson to win only two games out of 14.

Clark Taylor, playing in the top slot in the absence of Vic Seixas, dropped his match to Charlie Oliver, 6-1, 6-1. Stan Gruner carried his match to three sets before finally losing to Dougherty, 6-4, 2-6, 6-1.

Rice was the first one to score a victory for the Tar Heels in the singles matches. His victory came at the expense of Maihafer.

Rice's victory seemed to set off a chain reaction on the Chapel Hill crew, for the Blue and Whiters copped the next three events. Don Skakle downed Stillson, 6-3, 6-2 and Heath Alexander and Duke Wilder came through with victories over Callaway and Love.

The summary:

Singles—Oliver (A) defeated Taylor, 6-1, 6-1; Dougherty (A) defeated Gruner, 6-4, 2-6, 6-1. Alexander (C) defeated Callaway, 6-2, 6-4. Wilder (C) defeated Love, 6-2, 8-6.

Doubles — Oliver-McMullen (A) defeated Taylor-Wilder, 6-3, 6-0. Dougherty-Love (A) defeated Skakle-Alexander, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4. Rice-Gruner (C) defeated Callaway-Stillson, 6-2, 6-0.

Linksmen Battle Perennial Foe At Hope Valley

By Billy Carmichael III

The perennial battle of the fairways between neighboring Duke and local Carolina golfers will be renewed this afternoon as the two teams battle for possible conference honors at the Hope Valley country club. The first foursome will tee off at 1:30.

The feature action of the day—the match within the match—will see Holin' Harvie Ward meet his biggest collegiate test of the season and his toughest competitor since Frank Stranahan in the person of the Blue Devils' Jimmy McNair.

McNair is the Tri-State champion along with holding co-medalist honors from last year's Southern conference tourney at Winston-Salem. The Dukster is at his best on the Hope Valley course and has broken the 70-mark several times this year, as has Ward.

Ward, who had a 69 the last time out, seems to be rested from his week-long gruel at Pinehurst recently and should be at the top of his game, physically and mentally. Which points to one of the top individual competitions of the spring season.

The rest of the match will be of top-notch quality also. Coach Chuck Erickson will round out his sextet with four of his regulars and a fifth man yet to be decided. Getting the nod early will be Jack Brantley, Bob Cox, Harvey Oliver and Frank Brooks, with the remaining position to be filled by either Roy McKenzie or Dan Nyimicz.

The Carolina entry had been hitting the ball well of late and sems to be pointing for the Blue Devil engagement. The Tar Heels haven't beaten their Durham rivals in dual competition in many a year, suffering their only defeat of last year's season at the hands of the Duke squad. This defeat was later revenged, though in the loop tourney last May which the strokers of Coach Chuck Erickson won with the Blue Devils placing second.

So, it will be blood and thunder golf at the Durham club this afternoon, with the Duke team being slightly favored to win because of their depth and experience

Duke Stars . . .

IN BASEBALL. Stu Erickson, above, is one of the leading hitters on the Blue Devil nine that appears in Emerson stadium this afternoon.

IN GOLF. Jim McNair, Duke's leading linksman, will battle Harvie Ward in today's feature match. Both stars are undefeated in conference play.

Local Baseballers Seeking to Hold Conference, Big Four League Leads

By Larry Fox

Carolina's baseball team will have a chance to increase its hold on first place in both the Big Four and Southern conference races this afternoon when the Tar Heels meet Duke on Emerson stadium beginning at 4 o'clock.

The Tar Heels are currently leading the local loop by a full game and can add a half a game at the expense of the cellar-dwelling Devils. In the Southern conference the locals are two full games ahead of the field. Washington and Lee, with whom Carolina was tied at the beginning of last week, dropped two games while the Tar Heels were winning a like number.

State college and Wake Forest fell before the high-flying Hearnmen last week, both by one-run margins. The Wolfpack lost a 1-0 11-inning heartbreaker to Vinnie DiLorenzo while Carolina topped the Deacons in a rough and tumble diamond clash, 5-4.

Two in a Row

The Tar Heels will be out to make it two in a row over their neighborhood rivals. The Blue Devils lost a close 6-5 decision to the current league leaders earlier this season.

Ray Blair is due to start for Carolina, but DiLorenzo, who will be ready in the bullpen to put out any fires, may get the nod if Coaches Bunn Hearn and Walter Rabb feel that he is ready to go.

If Frank Robinson was able to take his regular turn on the mound, Blair would be sure of starting. However, the big right-hander was forced to withdraw from the game against Wake Forest when his elbow began acting up and his absence puts a crimp in the Carolina rotation.

Jim Hayworth and Kenny Black are the other two Tar Heel cripples. Hayworth was in the infirmary yesterday with an infected elbow, but will probably be at the hot corner at game time. Black has a badly skinned knee which shouldn't keep him from the lineup.

Close Slugfest

The Blue Devils won a close slugfest from South Carolina their last time out, 8-7. A total of 21 safeties were blasted off the de-

(See BASEBALL, page 4)

HANDBALL PRACTICE

The Mural office announced yesterday that there will be practice for all men who would like to represent Carolina on the handball courts in the Big Four Sports carnival this afternoon at 4 o'clock on the outdoor courts at the east end of Fetzer field.

Fine Watches Need Excellent Care . . .

A Complete Watch Repair Service at—

BLACKWOOD ASSOCIATE STORE

Ace Shortstop

Fred "Rip" Ryan smokes

CHESTERFIELDS

He says:

"From my own experience, I find that Chesterfields have been the tops with me — so smooth and mild."

Chesterfield—year after year—first choice of college men and women.

Yearling Trackmen Register 84-32 Victory Over Raleigh

While the varsity prepared for its Saturday meet with Navy, the freshman track team completely outclassed a Raleigh high school aggregation, 84-32, on Fetzer field yesterday.

Fred Ogden was the only double winner for the Tar Babies, taking the laurels in the shot-put and discus. The day's leading pointmaker, however, was Wadsworth of Raleigh, who took firsts in the 220, the low hurdles, and a second in the 100.

The summary:

Shot-put—Ogden (C), Hansen (C), Goss (R) 41 ft. 2 in.

Pole vault—Kemp (C), Blanchard (R), Tippitt (R) 10 ft. 6 in.

High Jump—three way tie: Ballou (C), Peebles (C), Teague (R). 5ft. 8 in.

Javelin—House (C), Mosley (C), Payne (C). 156 ft.

Broad Jump—Hubbard (C), Holliday (R) Montague (C). 19 ft. 7 1-2 in.

Discus—Ogden (C), Perry (C), Hansen (C). 113 ft. 10 in.

100 yd. dash—Ballou (C), Wadsworth (R), Ingram (C). 10.5.

Mile—Leonard (R), Barringer (C), Wooten (C). 4:45.

440 yd. dash—Flowers (C), Evans (C), Lane (C). 53.2.

220 yd. low hurdles—Wadsworth (R), Howell (C), Cordle (C). 23.9.

880-yd run—Carr (C), Brockman (C), Farrell (C). 2:10.

220 yd. dash—Wadsworth (R), Ingram (C), Rouse (C). 23.4.

Mile relay—UNC (White, Spain, Black, and Flowers). 3:32.3.

MONOGRAM NOTICE

The Monogram club will meet tonight at 7:30 in 304 Woollen. President Bill Pritchard also announced that there will be a picnic for all football team and Monogram members Saturday afternoon and night.

Mural Results

SOFTBALL

25	Zeta 1	Phi Kap 2	5
24	Chi Psi 2	ZBT	17
11	SAE 1	Sig Ep	4
15	Sig Chi 1	Phi Delt 3	8
11	Phi Gam 3	Chi Psi 1	4
12	Phi Kap 1	KA 1	0
14	Phi Gam 1	Chi Phi 1	10
12	Chi Phi 2	Pi Lamb 1	7
10	ATO 1	DKE 2	9
13	Mangum 1	Whitehead	7
10	O'wood Dr.	Wesley Rkts.	3
11	Pi Lamb 1	St. A	8
5	Phi Delt 2	SAE 2	1
17	Kap Psi	Sig Nu 2	4
12	PiKA 2	Beta 1	7
13	ATO 2	Phi Delt1	5

Zeta 1 forfeit over Lamb Chi 2
Graham 1 forfeit over Aycock

HORSESHOES

3	Phi Gam 2	Pi Lamb 2	0
2	KA 3	DKE 2	0
2	PiKA 2	Phi Kap 2	0
3	Kap Sig 1	KA 4	0
3	Sig Chi 1	Sig Nu 1	0
2	KA 1	Chi Phi 1	1

TENNIS

5	Emerson	Graham	0
5	Steele	Independent	0
3	KA	Sig Chi 3	2
4	ATO	Sig Chi 2	1

In the Majors

By United Press

NATIONAL LEAGUE

St. Louis 3, Chicago 1.
WP—Hearn; LP—Schmitz.
New York 5, Cincinnati 0 (Night)
WP—Koslo; LP—Vander Meer.
Other teams not scheduled.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Philadelphia-Washington, night game.
Other teams not scheduled.

ALL-STAR SOFTBALL

There will be a final practice of the 18-man all-star softball squad, which is going to represent the University in the Sports Carnival at Duke, this afternoon at 3:30.

WATER SAFETY

Today is the last day that students may enroll in the Water safety instruction and Senior life saving classes being held each Tuesday and Thursday at Bowman Gray Pool.

Fifty Cagers Report for Spring Drills

Over 50 candidates reported to Coach Tom Scott yesterday afternoon for spring basketball practice and were immediately put to work by the soft-spoken Kansan.

The loss of eight lettermen via the graduation route is going to hit the basketball squad hard, but the 1949 hardwood aggregation will probably be built around four returning varsity men.

Those returning for another year of court activities are Dan Nyimicz, who will not be out until next week due to golf, Nemo Nearman, Coy Carson, and Norm Kohler.

Included among the hopefuls are last season's entire jayvee and freshman squads. Coach Scott expressed a desire for any men who have not reported and have had past experience to come out for the team.

The next few weeks will be devoted to fundamentals and scrimmages, in which the candidates will be given a chance to show the coaches their potentialities.

Jayvee Nine Plays Duke Outfit Today

Coach Henry House's jayvee baseballers will be seeking their seventh win of the season this afternoon when they meet Duke's Blue Imps in a game in Coombs park.

Bill McGinn, Tar Baby southpaw who already has one win over the Blue Imps will start on the mound for Carolina. McGinn has a record of three wins and no defeats.

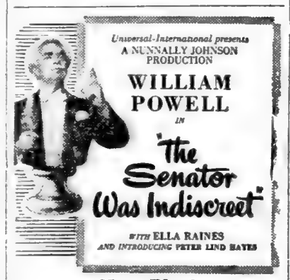
In the two previous meetings with the Dukesters, the Tar Babies dropped the first game, 8-5, but won the second, 6-2.

The starting lineup for the Tar Babies will be the same with the possible exception of first base, where Coach House is undecided as to whom he will play. The three possible men for the position are Ed Lamb, Quint Quarles, or Jake Carter.

The regular lineup includes centerfielder Zero Allen, Don Ward, leftfield, and Lamb in rightfield. The infield is made up of Carter at first, Stan Goodman on the keystone sack, Sleepy Senter at third, and Joe Brookshire at shortstop. Catcher Bill Walsh rounds out the starting nine.

FURNITURE . . .

• Upholstered • Refinished
• Repaired • Made to Order



Charles Valentine's Cabinet Shop

PHONE 9367 — PITTSBORO RD.

L'Histoire du Soldat
by Stravinsky
Played by Leonard Bernstein and the Boston Symphony Orchestra

Ab's Intimate Bookshop

Now Playing
VILLAGE

F-R-E-E ! (THIS WEEK ONLY)

Postage Paid on Mother's Day Candies and Gifts Mailed Anywhere in the U.S.A.

GIFTS for Mother

TODAY
CAROLINA

Larger Loans on Anything of Value

Durham's Newest and Best Pawn Shop

MAIN LOAN OFFICE

Located: 400 W. Main St. at Five Points

Records kept of your progress.

LEARN JITTERBUG TODAY!!

Are you one of the many who must drop meekly in the background when the band or juke box says, "Another Jitterbug folks! Swing into fun and hold onto that partner."

Everybody loves a jitterbug. Jitterbug means that you're a sparkling dancer, full of vibrant youth, and bubbling over with personality. You miss half the fun in dancing if you don't know how to jitterbug. It's easy to learn at WHERRY BALLROOM STUDIO. No matter if you're sixty you can still learn to Jitterbug. Have no fear, jitterbug was meant for all to enjoy. Yes indeed! You, too, can enjoy this glorious fun. Men and women—learn the dignified version of jitterbug—so smooth so graceful, and beautiful to watch when executed with minimum amount of energy. And here's something else to remember—especially if you're one of those older gentlemen who loves a youthful partner. You can execute and lead jitterbug with a quiet dignity while your youthful and vivacious partner swings into hilarious rhythm.

Learn other dances too at WHERRY STUDIOS. Know how to dance correctly and your fears are gone forever. You can break with confidence on any girl. WHERRY methods don't fail. Three to six hours on any one dance and you are a top notch dancer in that particular dance. Make up your mind today that you will never have to sit out any dance because you don't know how. Remember it's easy to learn at WHERRY'S.

WHERRY STUDIO

"If You Can Walk, You Can Dance"

FOX TROT JITTER BUG WALTZ
TANGO SAMBA RUMBA

6 Lessons $15 Couples—6 Lessons $25

Small Groups — Per Person — 10 Lessons $15

219 E. FRANKLIN ST. FOR APPOINTMENTS PHONE 9291

PRESCRIPTIONS

Filled Promptly

ACCURACY AND DEPENDABILITY

—at—

SUTTON'S DRUG STORE

NOW!

SWING LOW SWEET CHARMERS . . .

Every step a delight in these white low, low wedgies . . . open toe, open heel, held securely with a strap over the instep . . . You'll wear them to town by day or to party by night . . . always, wherever you are you'll be right!

$4.98

BERMANS DEPARTMENT STORE

161 East Franklin St. Chapel Hill

CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE 5B

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogers Drive. Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. Telephone F-2906. (ch 1x2)

24 FOOT ALMA HOUSE TRAILER IN excellent condition. Electric brakes. Sleeps four. Priced for quick sale ($1295.00) John L. Harris, B-V-P Trailer Lot No. 250. (1-352-1)

NEW BRICK HOME VERY CLOSE IN. Immediate possession. Write or call University Cleaners for appointment. Phone 4921. (ch 1x1)

31 OAKWOOD DRIVE—ATTRACTIVE two bedroom house. Excellent location—Priced right for quick sale. Call F-3216 or come to 31 Oakwood. (1-298-1)

MAN'S LIGHTWEIGHT COLUMBIA bicycle, good tires. Trade even with whoever found my AAF wristwatch (aluminum band). Good deal. . .either way. Phone 6856 after 7:00, Buchanan. (1-291-1)

1 HORTON MANUFACTURED WRINGer type washing machine. Used only 15 months. Priced $75. May be seen at 203 Jackson Circle. (1-355-1)

UNDERWOOD NOISELESS TYPEwriter: recently overhauled; elete type. See at 172 Bagley Drive, Victory Village, evenings. (1-354-1)

THOROBRED COCKER SPANIEL pups. Eight weeks old. Call 8851 after six or come to corner Elm and Popular in Carrboro.

FOR SALE AUTOMOTIVE 6BB

1940 OLDS CONVERT. COUPE. EXcellent shape. New top, white walled tires, black finish. All extras included. Air-brakes—$1,300. 204 Carr St. (1-C358-1)

1942 BUICK SEDANETTE. EXCELLent condition, new white sidewall tires, radio, heater. See Joe Clawson, Phi Kappa Sigma House. (1-294-1)

1942 BUICK SUPER SEDAN. EXCELLent condition, five good tires, fully equipped. Priced for quick sale. After 1:00 p. m. University Trailer Court, 65, W. H. Hicks. (1-356-1)

1937 DESOTO CONVERTABLE COUPE, motor completely overhauled, for immediate sale at low cost. Call 9881. (1-2000-1)

LOST 12

LADIES WATCH. YELLOW GOLD, square Bulova with black cord band, April 30 vicinity Graham Court or Carolina Inn. Reward. Finder call 7281 until 4 p. m., 6706 after 7 p. m., Cora P. Bomar. (1-357-1)

AT DANCE SATURDAY NIGHT A girl's diamond ring. Reward offered—phone 5241. (-1200-1)

SERVICES OFFERED 19

COMPLETE MODERN RADIO APpliance service shop now open and ready to serve you. We call for, deliver. Johnson-Strowd-Ward Furniture, 422 W. Franklin. Telephone F-3491. (ch 1x1)

ALL MAKES OF LAWN MOWERS repaired, machine sharpened. Axes, hatchets, scythes also sharpened. Tripps Lawn Mower Repair Shop or see John Tripp, Carrboro Shoe Shop. (ch 1x1)

WANTED TO RENT 24B

SUBLET FOR BOTH SESSIONS OF summer school a house in Vet Village by vet and family. Phone Black 8021 or write 102 Lewis.

Fraternity Grades Get Re-Computed By Weaver's Office

The staff of the Dean of Men's office has offered a public apology for the mistakes made in the fraternities scholastic averages which were printed in the Daily Tar Heel last week.

The scholastic averages and relative rank of men's and women's social fraternities for the winter quarter are computed on the basis of rosters of membership as submitted by the fraternities. Active members and pledges are included.

Values for the letter grades are assigned as follows: A-1:00; B-2:0-; C-3:00; D-4:00; E-5:00; F-6:00; absences-6:00; Absences excused were not computed; and incompletes, not computed.

The revised relative rank of scholastic average for the winter quarter are:

1. Pi Kappa Phi, 2.288. 2. Delta Delta, 2.498. 3. Alpha Gamma Delta, 2.518. 4. Pi Lambda Phi, 2.604. 5. Tau Epsilon Phi, 2.673. 6. Pi Beta Phi, 2.698. 7. Chi Omega 2.716. 8. Phi Gamma Delta, 2.751. 9. Alpha Delta Pi, 2.758. 10. Alpha Epsilon Pi, 2.766. 11. Delta Psi, 2.805. 12. Chi Phi, 2.881. 13. Delta Kappa Epsilon, 2.887. 14. Phi Delta Theta, 2.937. 15. Sigma Chi, 3.063. 16. Sigma Nu, 3.073. 17. Phi Kappa Alpha, 3.074. 18. Phi Kappa Sigma, 3.102. 19. Lambda Chi Alph, 3.116. 20. Sigma Phi Epsilon, 3.117. 21. Zeta Psi, 3.126. 22. Kappa Sigma, 3. 146. 23. Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 3. 152. 24. Beta Theta Pi, 3.193. 25. Chi Psi 3.234. 26 Alpha Tau Omega, 3.252. 27. Zeta Beta Tau, 3.302. 28.Kappa Alpha, 3.350.

AVC COMMITTEE

Delegates to the Southeastern regional conference of the American Veterans committee will be chosen tonight at the Chapel Hill chapter's bi-weekly meeting in the Presbyterian church at 7:30, Chairman George Tindall said yesterday.

24 HOUR SERVICE
RADIO REPAIRS
OGBURN FURNITURE
West Franklin St.
Phone 5841

One Hour for Lunch!
Enjoy Our Tempting Meals and Speedy Service
Open 6.30 A.M. to 7 P.M. except Sundays
Carrboro Cafeteria

Mother's Day
Sunday, May 9
GREETING CARDS
Now On Display
Your own — as well as your "other Mothers" — will appreciate the appropriateness and beauty of Mother's Day Greeting Cards from our extensive choice.

LEDBETTER-PICKARDS

Teague Says Village Rent Increases Not Too Large

Retroactive Raises Are Dated April 1 In Increase Move

Veterans in Victory Village need have no fear of any large increases in monthly rentals with the current boost in subsistance allowances, C. E. Teague, business manager and assistant controller of the university, reported yesterday.

In a release from the Public housing administrator of this region, it was stated that the new rental rates for Victory Village retroactive to April 1 will not increase more than three dollars in but two of the various income categories listed below.

Teague asserted that the credit for the relatively stable rentals went to Hugh Wells, chairman of the committee for the Victory Village council, University Director of Operations J. S. Bennett and others who co-operated in drawing up a proposal of new rental rates for the village which was submitted to and approved by the public housing administrator in Atlanta, Ga.

The new rental schedule, retroactive to April 1, 1948, is listed as follows:

Laurinburg type dwelling: Income category	B'rooms	Mo. rent
$1681 and above	2	$28.00
$1681 and above	3	31.00
$1441—$1680		25.00
1261— 1440		21.00
1260 and under		18.00
Wilmington type dwelling
$1861 and above		$27.00
1681—1860		25.00
1441—1680		22.00
1261—1440		18.00
1260 and under		15.00
United Kingdom type dwelling
$1861 and above		$30.00
1681—1860		25.00
1441—1680		22.00
1261—1440		18.00
1260 and under		15.00
Barracks type dwelling
$1681 and above		$25.00
1441—1680		22.00
1261—1440		18.00
1260 and under		15.00

COED SENATE

The Coed Senate will meet at 7 o'clock tonight in the Horace Williams lounge of Graham Memorial.

CPU Discusses Bogota Meet; Talk Centers on Assassination

The Bogota conference of Inter-American states was the topic of discussion for the CPU last Sunday night.

The discussion centered on the assassination of Colombia's Liberal party leader, Jorge Gaitan, which interrupted the session for a short time. Pete Gerns, in introducing the topic, pointed out that the murder was ostensibly not a Communist plot and that it has supposedly been discovered that it was a grudge killing of the popular Gaitan by one of his personal enemies.

Used by Reds

The unrest following the death of the man who had already been nominated for the presidency of Colombia in the election to take place in 1950, was, however, used by the Reds to promote general confusion Gerns said. It was further pointed out that the violence against Gaitan and its aftermath speeded up the passage of the Inter-American resolution directed against all totalitarian states.

New Organization

Other action taken by the conference which was held for the first time since it met in Lima, Peru, in 1938, included the creation of the new Pan-American body, named the "Organization of American States," a decision to call a conference to consider all economic problems this fall at Buenos Aires, and a recommendation to make the Pan-American union governing board a permanent council with powers restricted to "any matter within the limits of present pacts and Inter-American treaties, assigned to it by international conferences of American states and meetings of foreign ministers."

A further resolution placed the Inter-American states under the United Nations as a regional system.

ELECTIONS COMMITTEE

Chairman Joe Leary has called a meeting of the Elections committee at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the Grail room at Graham Memorial. The following members are requested to be present: Emily Ogburn, Marietta Duke, Al Lowenstein, Herb Alexander, John Nance, Ted Leonard, and Tom Cunningham.

O'Steen To Be Heard In Senior Recital

John O'Steen, 23-year-old music major here, who formerly held the first Kay Kyser scholarship in music, will give his senior piano recital in Hill hall tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

O'Steen has studied in Florence, Italy, under Luigi Amadeo and in Salzburg, Austria, under Franz Sauer, and is a student here of Dr. J. P. Schinhan, under whom he has also studied organ.

During the first season last summer of Paul Green's "The Common Glory" at Williamsburg, Va., O'Steen was organist for the production. He is active in student entertainments on the campus here.

Phi Betes Hear Head Of Emory University

Last night Dr. Goodrich C. White, president of Emory university, and J. G. Stipe, Dean of the Faculties, met with the executive committee of the local chapter of Phi Beta Kappa honorary fraternity at a dinner given at the Carolina Inn.

An informal discussion was held on matters pertaining to the local chapter. President White, senator for Phi Beta Kappa, is making a tour for the united chapters in the state.

YM-YWCA Picnic Set This Afternoon

There will be a picnic sponsored jointly by the YWCA and YMCA in honor of outgoing officers and cabinet members of these organizations at Claude Shotts' farm today from 4 o'clock in the afternoon to 8 o'clock in the evening.

Cars for the picnickers will be leaving the "Y" from 3:30 until 6 o'clock.

Campus Calendar

1:00 p. m.—Sociology 174, Roland Parker No. 2.
1:30 p. m.—Finance committee, Roland Parker No. 1.
3:00 p. m.—Elections committee, Grail.
4:00 p. m.—Duke vs. U. N. C. Baseball game.
4:30 p. m.—Coalition cabinet, Horace Williams.
4:30 p. m.—Picnic for In-coming YMCA-YWCA officers.
5:00 p. m.—Pan-Hellenic Council, Grail.
6:30 p. m.—Campus party, Roland Parker No. 2.
7:00 p. m.—Bridge tournament, Main Lounge, Graham Memorial.
7:00 p. m.—Coed Senate, Horace Williams lounge.
7:00 p. m.—Phi Eta Sigma, Rendezvous room.
7:30 p. m.—Senior class meeting, Memorial hall.
7:30 p. m.—Philological club, Roland Parker No. 1 and 2.
7:30 p. m.—Wilmington club, Roland Parker No. 3.
8:00 p. m.—Delta Tau Delta, Graham Memorial.
8:00 p. m.—CPU presents Ex-Governor Broughton, Gerrard.
8:00 p. m.—Phi Assembly, Phi hall, New East.
8:30 p. m.—John O'Steen in piano recital, Hill hall.
9:00 p. m.—Alpha Epsilon Delta, Graham Memorial.
9:30 p. m.—CPU reception, Main lounge, Graham Memorial.

-Baseball-

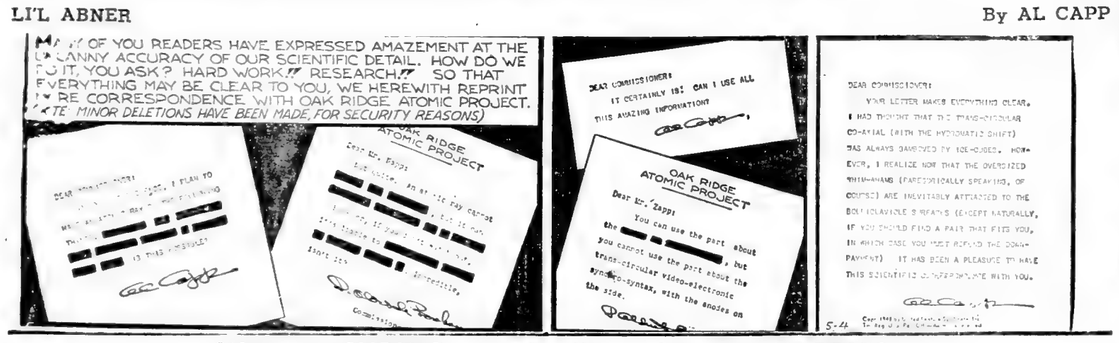
liveries of four pitchers. Ed Perini and Stu Erickson both hit homers for Duke.

John Hancock is the leading hitter for the visitors. In Duke's first five Big Four games he batted .462 to place third among the regulars in the loop. Perini is fifth in hitting with an even .400.

As another week in the Southern conference began, William and Mary, Maryland, and Wake Forest are all tied for third place behind Carolina and Washington and Lee.

Carolina	Duke
Black, cf	Hancock, 1b
Hayworth, 3b	Bergeron, ss
Jones, rf	Folger, cf
Kelly, lf	Sires, c
Gregory, 1b	Erickson, lf
Ryan, ss	Falwell, 3b
Hamilton, 2b	Perini, rf
Tranavitch, c	Frye, 2b
Blair or DiLorenzo, p	Curtis, p

University Florist
"For the Best in Flowers"
Pick Theatre Bldg
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Telephone 9816



TWO BLOCKS WEST OF CITY HALL
You'll Find A Solution To All Laundry Problems
HELPY-SELFY
AUTOMATIC LAUNDRY
Bendix Machines
W. Rosemary St.

Bull's Head Bookshop
Streener — The American Trailhound
Browse — Rent — Buy

NEXT SUNDAY is Mother's Day
WHITMAN'S
JOHNSON'S OLD DOMINION
NORRIS
Order Today
We Pack and Mail for Timely Delivery
EUBANKS DRUG CO.

Photographers
4 reasons you'll want to own the NEW G-E exposure meter
★ It's the meter with a MEMORY. You'll love it when seconds count!
★ Complete! Features exclusive Trident analyzer.
★ Reads reflected and incident light (full outdoor range).
★ Good for stills or movies.
Many other advantages. Ask us!
Type PR-1
$32.50
Fed. tax incl.

FOISTERS CAMERA STORE
119 East Franklin St. Chapel Hill

LI'L ABNER By AL CAPP

We serve SHRIMP — and tail people too — HARRY'S

PHILIP MORRIS offers the smoker an extra benefit found in no other cigarette. For PHILIP MORRIS is the ONE, the ONLY cigarette recognized by leading nose and throat specialists as definitely less irritating.
Remember: Less irritation means more smoking enjoyment for you.
Yes! If every smoker knew what PHILIP MORRIS smokers know, they'd all change to PHILIP MORRIS.
CALL FOR PHILIP MORRIS
TRY A PACK... TODAY

LIBRARY (Periodical Dept.)
University of North Carolina
Chapel Hill, N. C.
1-31-48

WEATHER
Considerable cloudiness; probable rain.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
Trouble in Texas
Czech Obituary
Taft for The Lord

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., WEDNESDAY, MAY 5, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | 158

J. Melville Broughton Condemns Communist Philosophy

PRESIDENT OF THE U. N. TRUSTEESHIP Council, Francis B. Sayre (back to camera) talks to (l. to r.): M. Eliash, G. Ruffer and Moshe, all members of the Jewish Agency, during a meeting at Lake Success, N. Y. Seated in the foreground are (l. to r.): A. Khalidi of Iraq, Jamal Hussein of Syria, and Isa Nakakleh, members of the Arab League. Jewish Agency spokesman Shertok, speaking before the General Assembly's Political Committee, urged U. N. action to halt the Arabs' threatened invasion of Palestine. (International)

Re-Organizational Meeting Is Slated Today To Revive Town Men's Group

By Chuck Hauser

The Town Men's association, the one-time strong representative of non-fraternity men living off campus, may be established here again, according to John Van Hecke, who has called a re-organizational meeting at 4:30 this afternoon in Roland Parker lounge 1 of Graham Memorial.

Van Hecke urged yesterday ers in the group were Barry Colby, Roy Strowd and Mel Jordan during the several years it remained on campus before the war finally killed it in 1944. The that all non-fraternity town men be present at this afternoon's meeting.

The association was first established in 1939 by Pat Winston of Chapel Hill. Other student leadassociation held successful dances, had high-ranking intramural teams, put representatives into the Student Legislature and had representation on the Dance committee and in the University club, according to Van Hecke.

Intramural Teams

"We hope to get representation again in the Dance committee, University club, Graham Memorial Board of Directors, and other groups," Van Hecke stated yesterday, "and we would like to see intramural teams in all sports next year.

"The reason the organization is being limited to non-fraternity men is that fraternity members already have the IFC as their representative group on campus," he continued.

Van Hecke explained that the association would strive to keep from favoring any one political party but would try to get representation on all three of the present political groups.

To Increase Interest

"Our aims are to increase town interest in student government and campus activities, and to help students who live over widely-scattered areas to get to know each other betters by frequent social functions.

"I hope that we can get organized this quarter so that by fall we will be ready to roll," Van Hecke concluded.

It was learned yesterday that student body President Jess Dedmond and Graham Memorial Director Bill Shuford have commended the proposed reorganization of the Town Men's association as a boon to student government and campus spirit.

Edie Knight, Charles Sellers Are Guest Speakers at YWCA

Monday's meeting of the Public Affairs committee of the YWCA featured two student guest speakers. In line with the agenda drawn up by the committee which designated that the group would hear various speakers discuss potential presidential candidates, Charles Sellers reported on Eisenhower's qualifications for the forthcoming elections.

Edie Knight, who represented the University at Mademoiselle's College forum in New York, told the group about the convention and discussed the speeches delivered there concerning European Relief Program.

European Aid Necessary

In discussing the convention, Edie said that of utmost importance was the general feeling that aid to Europe is necessary. Different reasons, either political, economic, or altruistic, justify this need, she said.

According to Edie, six guest speakers discussed the various phases of the E. R. P., and the 54 representatives of the various colleges questioned them after their speeches. Among the most interesting to Edie was a talk by Vera Micheles Dean, research Director of the Foreign Policy Association and author of "United States and Russia."

European Economics

She discussed the economic situation in Europe at the end of the war and the steps taken by the European countries themselves to get on their feet, together with an estimate of the progress that has been made. Miss Dean asserted that the United States would be making a beneficial economic move if it built up Europe.

Russell Hill, of the New York Herald Tribune and author of "Struggle for Germany," spoke of the "Problems of Germany." He thinks that Germany, or its Western regions, must be revived enough to provide an industrial base for the rest of Europe. Edie reported that he does not think that Germany will become a war threat.

Lewis C. Case, Jr., of the New Republic and personal advisor to

(See YW, page 4)

Fifty Local Men Invited to Attend WC May Festival

Fifty Carolina men have been extended an invitation by the Sophomore club of the Woman's college YWCA to attend May Day festivities at W. C. and have a dance given in their honor on Saturday.

Interested men may sign up in the YMCA information office, and will be accepted on a "first come, first served" basis. They will be responsible for their own transportation, but once at W. C., a full schedule of entertainment will be provided.

The men will meet their dates at 3:30 at South Spencer, the large dorm facing on Walker avenue, and will go directly to the May Day festival, held in the amphitheater near the lake. After the pageant the group will adjourn to the "Hut" for a picnic supper. An informal dance in South Spencer's game room will complete the day.

IRC Slates Seminar On Commies Tonight

The International Relations club will sponsor a seminar titled "Is Communism Being Stopped?" tonight at 8 o'clock in Gerrard hall. The speakers will be Professor Howard K. Beale, History department, John W. Myers, French department, Professor James L. Godfrey, History department, and another speaker whose name will be announced later.

Block Fee Increase Is Proposed; Elections Committee Hits Snag

Carrboro District Causes Dissension At Group's Meeting

No decision was reached on the controversial redistricting bill at a closed meeting of the Elections committee of the Student Legislature yesterday due to dissension over a proposed Carrboro voting district, according to Chairman Joe Leary.

Since the Carrboro proposal was not officially settled, the redistricting bill is not ready to be presented to the Student Legislature which meets tomorrow night.

Six out of the eight committee members were present. The proposed inclusion of Carrboro in the student voting districts was defeated by a 3 to 2 vote, with one member abstaining. However, at the end of the heated discussion members decided to adjourn without making the rejection on the proposal official. The question will be brought forth again at the next Elections committee meeting.

Before adjourniment, it was argued by the opposition that Carrboro, having only approximately 250 students residing there, should not be a separate voting district.

Members voting for the bill compared the status of Carrboro

(See ELECTIONS, page 4)

JACK GIRARD, chairman of the Finance committee of the Student Legislature, yesterday announced the committee's decision to propose a measure which would increase by 75 cents the student block fee for next year.

Finance Committee Discusses Deficit Amounting to $6,600

The Student Legislature Finance committee yesterday planned a proposed 75-cent increase in the student block fee for next year in a move to facilitate activities the committee deems necessary during that period.

The increase proposal will come out of the Finance committee at tomorrow night's meeting of the Student Legislature, announced committee Chairman Jack Girard following the meeting in Graham Memorial.

Said Girard, "The Finance committe considers this action necessary in view of the increased cost of publications and the increased number of organizations on campus. The present 1948-49 budget, as set up, will not be sufficient to take care of proposed activities and will stem the expansion of individual organizations."

A report of the committee's recent investigation of this year's budget showed a current deficit of $6,600. The committee expects $5,700 of this amount to be made up in returns, leaving a deficit of $900 for the year.

The proposed block fee for next

(See FINANCE, page 4)

Rest of 'Cyrano' Cast Is Released

Several members of the cast of "Cyrano de Bergerac," the Carolina Playmakers' production scheduled for the Forest Theater on May 21, 22, and 23, were not included in the announcement made yesterday.

The remainder of the cast members include: Bill Sessions, Karl Harrell, Phyllis Isenhour, Eleanor Woodson, Barbara Edwards, Margie Cameron, Iantha Smart, Joanna Scroggs, Catherine Berryhill, Diana Wittinghill, Meredith Stringfield, Caroline Greene, Chris White, Ellen Smith, Mildred Howard, Larry Weaver, and Andrew Griffith.

The costumes for the famous French comedy are being prepared by Irene Smart, staff designer, and Lynn Gault, technical director, is designing the five settings. Williams Ayres is assistant to the director. Lighting is to be handled by James Byrd, and Gorden Bennett is supervising the construction of Gault's scenery.

Griffith, Brinegar Will Give Recital Tomorrow Night

Andrew Griffith of Mount Airy and John H. Brinegar, Winston-Salem, music majors, will give a joint recital in Hill hall Thursday night at 8:30.

Griffith, bass, a student of Prof. Paul Young, has been prominent in musical entertainments on the campus for the last two years and is a member of the Methodist church choir.

Brinegar, tenor, also a student of Professor Young, was director of the French Broad Avenue Baptist church choir in Asheville while a student at Mars Hill college, and for the last two years has been choir director of the Carrboro Baptist church. He, too, has been active in campus musicals.

The singers will be accompanied by William Waters, Roanoke Rapids, and by Charles Stevens, Mt. Gilead, at the piano.

Di Will Discuss Anti-Lobby Bill

A bill to abolish lobbying in the national Capitol will be argued at a Dialectic Senate meeting tonight at 9 o'clock in the Di hall, third floor, New West.

All interested students and townspeople are invited to take part in the discussion on lobbying in Washington. The proposal of the evening would empower the Attorney General to prosecute all persons who advance legislation for a certain group of influential Congressmen through any means of persuasion.

Lobbyists would be subject to five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

Latest Returns Show 15 Taft Delegates, Five Stassen Men Leading in Ohio Vote

Columbus, Ohio, May 4 —(UP) —Fifteen delegates pledged to Senator Robert A. Taft and five Harold Stassen delegates were leading at midnight, EDT, in Ohio's 10 contested congressional districts, on the basis of reports from 472 of 4,834 precincts in the Republican primary. The populous 14th district at Akron had not reported in by midnight.

Early returns showed that the candidate for delegate-at-large pledged to Stassen dropped to 10th place in the primary. Only nine delegates-at-large are to be chosen.

Stassen has entered his supporters to oppose Senator Taft in 23 contests. The other 30 are generally conceded to Taft, Ohio's favorite son. The state will send 53 delegates to the GOP convention this summer, two each from 22 congressional districts and nine at large.

Election officials report heavy voting in Cleveland, the state's largest city. Here in the capital the total vote is expected to be larger than any since 1940.

Primaries also took place today in Indiana, Alabama, and Florida. The turn-out was small in the Hoosier state due to inclement weather, and the fact that no presidential convention delegates are being chosen there.

School of 15,000 . . . . . . Has No Honor System

UNC Is Compared To Columbia

By Dan Wallace

Mr. Henry Schley, controller of Columbia university, visiting here for a couple of days, outlined the administrative system at Columbia and pointed out a few of the differences in the administrative set-up of Columbia, an independent organization, and Carolina, a state-sponsored institution, in a short interview yesterday.

Presiding over Columbia's administration is a board of trustees, similar in scope to UNC's system, but unlike in that it is made up of 24 members in comparison to the more than 100 members of the UNC board of trustees, Mr. Schley related. There are only five members on the Columbia board who are not life-time trustees, and those are alumni elected for five years by other alumni and approved by the trustees.

The board is divided into six committees which work on various phases of the administrative system and report their work to the whole board. These committees are on education, buildings and grounds, honors, finance, development, and legal affairs.

The only university official who can deal directly with the board is the president of the university. Directly in line under the president is a provost who is in charge of academic administration, and two vice-presidents, one in charge of fund-raising (but does not handle the money) and the other is the controller of the university. These men work with the corresponding committees of the Board of Trustees.

The treasurer, only responsible to the board of trustees, handles all of the university finances. In this respect, Carolina's system is different since the university controller handles the finances and is also in charge of administrative duties.

When queried as to whether Columbia had a student government, Mr. Schley stated that there was one and it consisted of two groups—one which is the Student Board which governs the college and the other is the University 'Student Council which covers the entire university. But unlike Carolina, Columbia has no honor system, and Mr. Schley opined that it might possibly be a difficult thing to effect among a student body that is several times the size of Carolina's

Mr. Schley said that Columbia's campus, which takes care of 15,000 students, is about one-twentieth the size of this one.

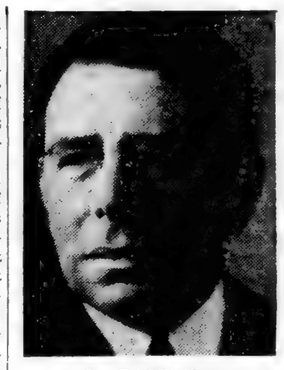
FRATERNITY PRESIDENTS

All fraternity presidents and members of the Interfraternity council are urged to be at an important meeting at 4 o'clock this afternoon in Gerrard hall.

Senatorial Candidate Says Red Party Cannot Be Constitutionally Outlawed

By Charlie Craven

With strong, calmly-spoken words, J. Melville Broughton, candidate for the United States Senate, last night condemned the current rash of Red philosophy which has shown itself in various aspects of today's politics.



During an address in Gerrard hall, the former governor of North Carolina urged veterans to take advantage of their government's educational aid not only for personal betterment but also to further the nation's progress.

"I have no sympathy for the Communist doctrine or the system it would develop," Broughton declared. "From the precinct meeting to the ballot box is the range of democratic activity as embodied in our party system," he said. "And as long as there is broad participation in party work, then I believe our democracy is secure," he continued.

The former governor expressed gratification that young people are becoming more and more concerned by the political deliberations of today.

"One of the reasons that some of the old political regimes have become impotent is because young people have tired of political machines," he said.

In answer to the question of outlawing the Communist party by federal legislation the senatorial candidate asserted that he would instinctively do so. He continued to say, however, that outlawing the Reds might cause them to flourish underground. He pointed out that many lawyers of his acquaintance have declared that outlawing the Communist party could not be done on a constitutional basis.

J. M. BROUGHTON

"We should have respect for our country's traditional past. I don't mean we should be tied to precedence. But there are many precious things embedded in the historical ideals of our nation," the speaker declared. "These ideals have given us ascendency through the years."

Touching on U. S. foreign policy, Broughton said, "In the last few years we have witnessed a complete departure from our former foreign policy. This is because our commitments have encircled the globe."

Broughton spoke under the auspices of the Carolina Political Union, non-partisan political discussion group. The speaker was introduced by Herbert Alexander, chairman of the CPU.

SP Head Brands Rumors as False That Party Is Anti-Fraternity

By Herb Nachman

In a statement following Monday night's Student party meeting, Ed Tenney, chairman of the party, reiterated the SP's stand on the anti-fraternity issue.

When questioned concerning the party's being anti-fraternity, Tenney replied, "The Student party is not anti-fraternity. It has never been anti-fraternity and statements to that effect are malicious rumors intended for political purposes and for political purposes only."

The chairman went on to say, "If there is any doubt in anyone's mind concerning this issue, I would like him to come to one of the party's meetings and find out exactly what the situation is. I am sure that mere attendance at one of the meetings would clarify any doubt or suppositions as to the party's stand on this matter."

West, Swaim, Hennessee

During the meeting Monday night, the party elected Cam West, Bill Swaim and Bob Hennessee to complete the SP slate of new officers. The three were elected party treasurer, personnel manager and publicity chairmen respectively.

Officers of the party will be advised by the Executive council consisting of D. F. Blackwell, Patsy McNutt, Al Lowenstein, Charlie Long and Gran Childress. The council was elected at the meeting along with the other officers.

Prinicpal officers elected at last week's meeting are Ed Tenney, chairman; Lindsay Tate, vice-chairman; and Emily Baker, secretary.

Reorganization

In addition to election of officers, the SP has announced a re-organizational set up which divides the party into two separately functioning groups. The first division includes the five officers of the party to be headed

(See SP, page 4)

Wallaceites Plan For Registration In Local Counties

The Wallace-for-President club met in Bingham hall Monday night and laid plans for registering all available Wallace voters of Durham and Orange counties between May 1 and the deadline date of May 15.

Phi Couch, local affairs committee chairman, appointed groups to canvass 16 Orange county precincts, three of which are in the Chapel Hill and Carrboro areas. Several club members volunteered to render extra service in the Durham precincts.

The club set next Saturday as top registration day and scheduled an overall coverage of precincts in both counties.

Mike Pochna, transportation director, announced he had arranged for 15 cars to be used by canvassing groups on Saturday.

A Wallace supporter from Duke university, Al Meolitzer, addressed the club and reported that a program is underway in Durham for registering voters and also for securing 2,000 valid signatures, the Durham quota of the 10,000 names necessary for placing Wallace's name on the North Carolina ballot.

He told the group he considers the Durham area a highly industrialized center, of key importance to the third party in its effort to nominate Wallace for the presidency, and requested that the local club send as many members as possible to augment the Durham campaign.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $5.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y. Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor — ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager — T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor . . . Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associate Editors . . . Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady, Raney Stanford
News Editor . . . Herb Nachman
Society Editor . . . Weddy Thorp
Photographer . . Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. . . . Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. C. B. Mendenhall, Chan Pegram
Subscription Mgrs. . . . Jim King
Asst. Business Mgrs. Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. . . Randall Hudson, Don Snow

NEWS STAFF: Charlie Gibson, Sally Woodhull, Jim Dickinson, Gordon Huffines, Jack Brown, Stewart McKeel, Margaret Gaston, Dan Wallace, Charlie Craven, Mark Sumner, Emily Baker, Doris Weaver, Harriet Sipple, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.

SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Larry Fox, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher, Mel Horowitz, Faith Adams, Anne Wells.

BUSINESS STAFF: James Crews, Jackie Rogers, J. C. Brown, Joe Williams, Gladys Cottrell, Bill Peebles, Neal Howard, Jr., Vin Snell, Candy Jones, Kathryn McLean, Jim Brown, Baxter Morris, Ed Warton, Leonard Dudley, Jean Williams, Charmian Griffin.

NIGHT EDITOR: Chuck Hauser NIGHT SPORTS: Bill and Bud

Trouble in Texas

Politics are ruining the chances of the University of Texas ever becoming a great institution of learning, in the opinion of members of its faculty.

Potentially the wealthiest university in the world because of the discovery of oil on part of it's two million acres, the university cannot attract top flight educators because of what critics call the reactionary attitude of the Board of Regents.

"The faculty have their own opinions on what's wrong with the University of Texas," an article in the May issue of Cosmopolitan states. "A history instructor puts it this way: 'It's okay for the important professors to criticize the administration. They can always leave and get a job at any university for more money. But new teachers like myself are honestly afraid. We've got a feeling we're being watched all the time."

Another professor at Texas University sums it up this way;

"You know what the tip-off is. We used to be able to go to Harvard and offer bright young instructors assistant professorships to come to Texas, and they jumped at it. Now they just laugh at us. Sure, you can't keep politics out of a state institution, but the people should be the politics, not the Board of Regents."

Resentment against the Board of Regents which governs Texas University has been flaming since November 1, 1944 when President Rainey was fired by the Board.

"Adolph Hitler won his first battle in Texas last night," warned Dr. Blake Smith, president of the Austin Ministerial Alliance.

"The faculty exodus that followed hurt the university," the article declares. "Top men like Professor of English Henry Nash Smith, leaving and saying, 'I can't afford to give up my academic work to carry on this kind of fight. Sooner or later the people of this state will be shocked into the realization that the university cannot be administered by the present regime.'

"When the Psychology Department decamped almost en masse, some students paraphrased the inscription on the administration building. On a marble slab they painted:

" 'They saw the truth and the truth made them flee.' "

A Czech Obituary

A recent news item in a metropolitan daily brings to our attention a development that we believe is significant as an index for the evaluation of the Communist brand of "democracy."

The Czechoslovakian Parliament has made a law of a government bill designed to nationalize the printing industry. Under terms of this new law, all books, periodicals and practically all other printed matter will henceforth be published by state-owned printing establishments.

By this action ,the Communist Czechosolvak government has credited an airtight monopoly in the most important and influential medium of information—the press. It does not take a great deal of clairvoyant ability now to forecast a complete gagging of opposition viewponts by the controlling Communists. And when this has occurred—if indeed it hasn't already—the last vestige of democracy will have disappeared from Czechoslovakia.

This then is the type of enlightened "rule by the proletariat" that the Communists have established in what once was an extremely liberal and progressive European republic. As expected, the Communist clique, and not the nebulous proletariat, is doing most of the ruling.

Nationalization of the press has been the important step taken by every totalifarian regime in the past to ensure that it might perpetuate itself in power. In the case of Czechoslovakia, the establishment of a government monopoly of information should destroy any lingering doubts that the Communist government there is not the antithesis of enlightened democratic or socialistic rule.

The action of the Parliament reaffirms our belief that democracy in Czechoslovakia is dead. And to us it also serves notice that the burial ceremony is well under way.

Guest Column

Dialectics Confusing

By Bill Patterson

When a communist-minded dialectician gets going, it is extremely difficult for the ordinary citizen to get at just what he is saying.

When Bill Robertson, for instance, in the Daily Tar Heel for May 1, 1948, says that we "have no five-year-plans for internal development and increasing prosperity of our country," what does he mean? Does he mean that a five-year-plan as practiced in the U. S. S. R. is the sine qua non for our internal development and increasing prosperity? Is it not true that the five-year-plans of the U.S.S.R. are, and have been, devices utilized in an effort to emulate, artificially, that very development and prosperity which our country has already attained, naturally, without (and possibly, because we are without) such five-year-plans?

Mr. Robertson quotes directly from a Newsgram of the U.S. News and World Report (issue not prescribed) a paragraph which he calls a prediction which, according to his obviously twisted interpretation, "says, if effect, 'the only thing we have to fear is that fear will cease!' " The effect, I assure you, is his alone, and was not conveyed to the reader by the paragraph in question. Furthermore, (1) the "prediction" was less a prediction than an estimate of current opinions; (2) Mr. Robertson committed the unforgivable (for a major in English) sin of quoting directly from a page which stated plainly at the bottom: "(No part of this or any other page may be reproduced without written permission)."

Mr. Robertson then asks, "do you remember the great and glorious Battle of Stalingrad?" Well, now, I am glad the soldiers of the totalitarian dictator, Stalin, won out over the soldiers of the totalitarian dictator, Hitler, if that is what Mr. Robertson means, because the Stalinist soldiers were, at that time, on our side. But—where do we get the "glorious" concept? Be glad, yes, anytime the forces allied with democracy win out over the forces of tyranny — but — unless we grant that the only real struggle in the world today is the struggle between Fascism and Communism, we cannot glory in the triumph of either unless we are on the side of one or the other. Mr. Robertson has plainly indicated that he not only believes such to be the nature of the conflict, but that he is on the side of Communism.

Speaking of the "logic of facts," which "no amount of arguing can alter," can you, Mr. Robertson, without denying all that you seem to stand for, take an oath of allegiance to the United States of America? Oh, sure, I will grant that there is a higher allegiance. But the logical issue from your line would be an allegiance, not to a world government of all the people, period, but an allegiance to that world government which, to follow your line of reasoning, would and could only amount to a "Pax Sovietica."

I believe that we can, with mutual profit, work toward a synthesis of liberal democracy from the present collision of extreme left and extreme right. I do not believe that Mr. Robertson, or Mr. McGirt, or Mr. Scales actually any more represent the extreme left than I represent the extreme right. If Mr. Robertson and his intellectual compatriots on this campus ever come around to a realization that it is not only possible but desirable to reach that synthesis of liberal democracy, we will have arrived at a position from which we can work together for the realization of the common good of all of the world's people.

GETS COYOTES BY AIR

Smith Center, Kan. —(UP)— Gunners in two small private airplanes bagged 132 coyotes in this area in the last two months. On a call from Kensington that five of the livestock attackers were seen, Woody Wilson flew there, shot four of the five and was back in Smith Center in 30 minutes.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Taft For The Lord

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — SEN. ROBERT TAFT, WORRIED about his poor showing in the presidential polls, has been consulting with professional opinion researchers. Their advice has been that he become known as a "liberal."

One of Taft's advisers is Dr. Claude E. Robinson of Princeton, N. J., president of Opinion Research corporation, who has collected opinions on Taft from all over the country.

"You are so busy with the practical side of government," he told the Senator, "That you have lost sight of the fact that people think in terms of goals. You should start letting people know that you are on the side of the Lord.

He suggested that Taft reveal himself in his "true role" as a liberal and stress his stand for the public good, that he start by examining the question of what is a liberal and defining it as one who believes in liberty and higher living standards. The strategy then is to show that Taft possesses the practical sense to achieve these goals.

Dr. Robinson warned that the public is still fearful that the Republican Party represents "reaction and the vested interests." He quoted a typical opinion from his surveys — that "no poor man should be a Republican." The best way to combat this, he recommended, is to set up goals and catch the eye of the common man. Taft could bid for the leadership of the true "revolutionary" movement — the revolution which started July 4, 1776, advised Dr. Robinson.

He also tried to console Taft over the results of the Gallup Poll which registers his political strength at an alarming low. Taft's standing against President Truman was just one Republican contender against the undisputed Democratic candidate, Dr. Robinson pointed out. If Taft were the sole Republican nominee, the results would be different.

It was shortly after consulting with Dr. Robinson that Taft came out with his political "new look," starting off with a speech, "What Is A Liberal?"

A SMALL-SCALE BATTLE similar to the oleomargarine feud is in the offing — this time over maple syrup.

Vermont's conscientious Senator George Aiken, who can detect pure Vermont maple syrup from all the synthetic substitutes, will crack down on restaurants that offer maple syrup on the menu, then serve corn syrup instead.

Aiken has already consulted the Food and Drug Administration and the Federal Trade Commission. He argues that if restaurants can get away with passing off corn syrup as maple syrup, they will start substituting margarine for butter as soon as the taxes on yellow margarine are lifted.

Incidentally, Aiken is a powerful member of the Senate Agriculture committee which must pass on the repeal of margarine taxes. That battle has only passed the house — is only half won.

WHILE SENATOR ROBERT TAFT WAS fighting for his political life in Ohio, he still tried to run the senate by long-distance telephone.

He kept acting Senate Leader Kenneth Wherry constantly on the end of the wire, and insisted upon holding up all controversial measures until he could get back and pass on them. As a result, the Senate was forced to recess intermittently—despite the fact that the spring log jam of bills was worse than ever.

At least one Republican, however, Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, refused to stop the legislative wheels merely because Taft was busy campaigning. Ignoring the red light from Ohio, Bridges hurried through with his vital appropriation bill, granting funds to expand the Air Force to 70 groups.

But Taft got on the phone again, and demanded that Wherry keep the bill off the floor until the Ohio primaries were over.

"It's a policy matter and must be decided by the policy committee," insisted Taft, who is policy chairman.

Obediently, "Taft's office boy from Nebraska" herded Bridges into a corner and asked him to hold off a few days. The senator from New Hampshire objected, but Wherry threatened to block the bill on the floor.

So the U. S. Air Force, which is lagging behind Russia in building new planes, was forced to wait for Taft.

TO UNDERSTAND THE RAMIFICATIONS of the oil lobby, you have to realize that it has two great goals—Arabian oil and tidelands oil. These comprise the two greatest untapped oil resources in the world.

It isn't fair to put every American oil company in the lobby, because a lot of them only suffer as a result of the bad publicity stirred up by their competitors. Actually, Standard Oil of California and the Texas Oil company are the prime movers in the lobby, with the Guaranty Trust company and some of the big bankers putting up considerable amounts of dough.

Here is a list of key officials who at one time or another worked for both sides:

Adm. Andrew F. Carter, head of the Army-Navy Petroleum Board, now with the American-Arabian Oil combine. His brother, Adm. William J. Carter, was in charge of naval purchases and ordered the Arabian oil for which the Navy paid $38,000,000 too much.

James Duce, head of the foreign division of the Petroleum Administration for war, is now vice-president of American-Arabian oil.

C. F. Snodgrass, served under Duce in the government, is now with International Corp., employed to build Arabian pipeline.

No matter how conscientious some of these may have been, it is difficult for anyone to determine the dividing line between duty to his country and duty to his company. Significantly, Ralph Davies, deputy administrator of the Petroleum Administration, later lost out with Standard of California, reputedly because he favored his country more than his company.

Student Government

It's Your $100,000

By Chuck Hauser

Let's take a quick look into the operation of the legislative branch of our student government.

The Student Legislature is composed of 50 men and coeds elected by the student body from their own voting districts, such as town men, dorm women, etc. The latest redistricting bill, if it passes, will divide the campus and town into smaller districts so that legislators will represent more definite constituencies.

The most important job of the law-making body is that of passing out approximately $100,000 to various campus organizations. The following figures are taken from this year's budget which is incorrect, but don't let that bother you. The Finance committee is now working out a solution for the budget foul-up, which was caused by: (1) Enrollment less than estimated when budget was drawn up last year, (2) Only 93 per cent of the block fees were collected, (3) All students are not paying the same block fee, i.e., graduate and professional students are putting out $3.85 per quarter while you and I, the undergraduates, pay five bucks, but we all get the DTH, the Mag, the Yack, the use of Graham Memorial, student government and all the other things that come out of the block fee, as appropriated by the Legislature.

This is the budget we are supposed to be operating under this year, as set up and approved by the Legislature:

Publications (D T H, Mag, Yack, Tarnation) — $72,922. Graham Memorial — $21,900. executive branch student government — $1,305, legislative branch — $1,781, judicial — $1,111, men's Interdorm council — $263, Student Government Record — $800, CPU — $210, IRC — $250, Di — $60, Phi — $60, class organizations — $400, donations — $750, student government haldbook — $1,100, travel and conventions — $1,100, other — $5,688.

The real work of the Legislature comes in doling out that "other," the last item of the budegt. "Other" applies to hundreds of appropriations, big and small, to organizations, for travel, for one project and another.

But money isn't the only thing the Student Legislature handles. Constitutional amendments, elections rules, and all the laws you operate under on the campus were proposed and passed at one time by the legislative branch of our student government.

There are 50 men and women representing YOU in the Student Legislature. It's your duty to get to know them, find out what they are doing and decide what you would like them to do. Their sole job is to represent you, and you should have been at the polls voting for them in the last election. If you weren't, you've fallen down on your half of the job. Let's get out and cast that ballot next time.

Write Away

Act Now For Peace

Editor:

A third world war would be more horrible than can be imagined. It would be significantly different from the others in that modern weapons are fast approaching total effectiveness! With airplanes and atomic bombs or germs alone, it is probably already possible for the U. S. to wipe out all large cities if not a whole country's population! Russia either has this same power now or soon will have.

Either world affairs can be worked out for peace or they can not be. The first thing to do is to find out whether or not they can be on a acceptable moral basis. This means talking it out with Russia. If Russia is determined to expand regardless of what happens, then either we must adopt a pacifistic stand, or war is inevitable and should be fought immediately while Russia is relatively weak and we are strong. The longer we wait, the more costly a war will be in lives and money. If, however, we find out that Russia's expansion is only out of fear of Britain and us, then we are all in a vicious circle which understanding, intelligence, tolerance, hard thinking and work can and must get us out of!!

It is not important whether or not you agree with all of these ideas, but rather that you seriously consider them along with your own knowledge of facts and ideas, come to a firm conviction of what is the best approach you can think of to bring an end to the main ticklish and dangerous situations in the world, influence your relatives, friends, and aquaintances to do likewise, and inform your congressman of your ideas. Only by such initiative from each of us can a decent solution be found. Waiting or sticking our head into the sand like an ostrich is stupidity leading to much suffering and death.

Charles W. Dubs

Thanks, Everybody

To the Student Body,

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of you who worked with me on the card stunts at the Blue-White game. And, thanks to those who devoted so much time and effort in the preparation of these stunts. The success of this whole plan depended upon your faith and cooperation; so, any credit for the success of these stunts is due to you.

Once again - thanks, thanks very much!

It was gratifying to note the spirit and cooperation displayed by you in the cheering and performance of the card stunts. With this same spirit and cooperation from the entire student body next fall, we should have a cheering section that will make people sit up, . . . listen, . . and remember . . . . CAROLINA! !

Norm Sper

Just Here

Where's That Cartoon?

By Larry Berry

Since I am somewhat off guard for the column, I will indulge in political thought today. Of course I guess no one would mind if I happened to pirate someone else's saccrine or quinine to supply my readers with. One thing I believe we agree on is that every potential crusader-for-progress is at present working to save our nation in November when we all express our political thoughts by a little mark.

On our campus the Wallaceites seem to be getting most of the publicity. Our tendency is to classify a person as either a backer of the movement or as a non-belligerent. As in all other modern wars (I believe some of our renowned politicians consider this third party to be very much of a menace to the American system as they exploit it by the Communist system as they like to think of it) the non-belligerents will suffer. At U.N.C. we have an example of the position the two existing parties assume when an aggressive new party enters their territory. The individual members make a few personal allusions to the characters in the ranks of the enemy and retire into a philosophic calm. Of course, they say there is nothing for the major parties to fear, because the public eats the entrails of the new party after making it a fad for a short time.

If the present challenger, the Progressive Party, would not try to be quite as sensational, they could throw a little sand on the grease they seem to be sliding down on. Americans can be very easily convinced that someone is an anarchist, especially when the suspected does some of the things that can be associated with revolution in any form.

I am not writing this as a rabid Wallaceite, Republican, or Democrat, but as one who would like to think that in the future something will evolve to take the place of the now extant town meeting to at least give the citizens a feeling of governing.

Every Tar Heel columnist is expected to find a particular scandal for exposure during the course of his career and now I have found mine. The facts are available for this morsel, so it is no mere puff of wind. Last Saturday the P.T.A. (Parent Teachers Association) of Chapel Hill sponsored a movie program for the benefit of school playgrounds. The program was to consist of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and a Bugs Bunny cartoon. The cartoon was not produced and on the evidence of this I am in favor of purging the P.T.A. of all capitalists. They probably sat together and watched the cartoon in ecstacy after depriving us the showing with the typically capitalistic excuse of, "It didn't come in the mail, we are sorry."

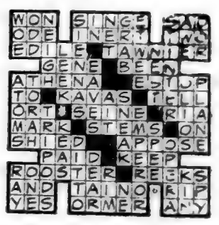
Kerr-Stares

Stuff And Nonsense

By Tom Kerr

So you're still recuperating. Those Monday morning class-rooms were like Memorial hall with a monologue. Since it just so happened that we weren't quite in on all the doings, we had to take most of it second hand on Sunday night. Couldn't put it in print, but we'll bet it doesn't take long for the stories we heard to get around the girl's schools, near and far.

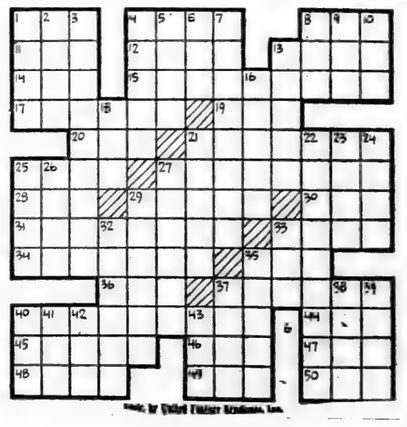
OK we had a good time, but . . . who are we to be a wet blanket . . . BUT it wouldn't do us any harm to take a little peek at the old bank account, our present supply of vim and vigor, and then try to remember as much of the weekend as we can. Maybe we'll do better, which ever way you look at it, next time.



It was brought to our attention last week by a not too ardent New Yorker who is still ardent enough though to read his weekly bible (The New Yorker) that Brown Williams of tobacco fame are springing a new brand of weed on the market. The name? "LIFE". Hate to plagarize the New Yorker's stuff, but they have it that orders are rushing in, even though the new cigarette has only been sold in the New York-New Jersey region so far.

Got us all excited; they're in between size, i.e. longer but not king size, with waterproof paper and all. So we'll wait to see what Giduz the Chesterfieldman is going to do when Life hits the campus.

Seems they can't keep Ferne Hughes under cover, much less off it (Latest Carolina Mag.) She strolled directly out of Hill hall the other evening to accost us with a lovely eighty-five cent proposition from the women's Glee club We were duly informed that our coed warblers are throwing the doors wide open come Thursday night week, intent on letting the campus know that the men haven't got the only glee club around these parts. Dropped into one of their practices the other day, and were promptly given the works. Would have been glad to have dropped eighty-five cents in the till. But we'll wait for a couple of weeks when we expect to see you there.



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS

ACROSS

1—Away
4—Pronoun
8—Camel's hair coat
11—To pay court to
12—Lasso
13—City in N. Africa
14—Conjunction
15—Dreamlike
17—Russian prairie
19—Western Indian
20—Variety of lettuce
21—Comes out of
25—Young horse
27—Distaste
28—Time past
29—Baking chambers
30—German tribal district
31—Inhabitant
33—To suspend
34—Wise woman
35—Error
36—High (mus.)
37—Thrasher
40—Civilized Indian
44—Fury
45—To bide one's time
46—Crone
47—Sister (coll.)
48—Flat plate
49—Sooner than
50—Joined

DOWN

1—Possesses
2—Bottom
3—To shut out
4—Journeys
5—Place to live
6—Wallaba
7—Skin
8—Macaw
9—To exclude
10—Rinse
13—Good jokes
16—Roman roads
18—Kitchen utensil
21—Makes the same
22—Excessive growth
23—Pertaining to dawn
24—Cosy
25—Autos
26—Curved molding
27—Sacred books of India
29—Short lyric poem
32—Iranian
33—Hawk parrot
35—Twilled worsted fabric
37—Large animal
38—Great Lake
39—To pause
40—Social mob
41—Wartime agency
43—Headland
44—Definite article

Duke Defeats Tar Heels In Golf, 25-2; In Baseball, 6-4, On Late Rally

Netters Battle Navy In Annapolis Today On Northern Trip

(Special to the Daily Tar Heel)

Annapolis, Md., May 4—Fresh from a victory over Army at West Point, the Carolina tennis team will try to give the same treatment to the future admirals here on the banks of the Severn tomorrow afternoon.

This is the halfway mark on the Tar Heels' six-match northern swing which began against William and Mary at Virginia Beach and which will end in Richmond with a match with the Country Club of Virginia.

Carolina is now sporting a 1-1 record for the trip, both matches going to the tune of 5-4. Over the season the travelling netters have a 17-1 mark. They ran up a streak of 16 wins before bowing to the Indians of William and Mary.

The Tar Heels lost this match in the doubles contest just as they defeated Army in the dual encounters. After leading 4-2 at the close of the singles, the Kenfieldmen proceeded to drop all three doubles contests and the match.

The story against the Cadets ran almost the same way. After dropping the first two singles matches, as against the Indians, the Tar Heels came back to capture the remaining four solo tilts. Army won the first two doubles matches, but the visitors took the third and deciding decision.

TENNIS MATCH CANCELLED

The freshman tennis team's match with Cherry Point which was slated to be played this afternoon has been called off.

COEDS SPORTS

In Coed softball yesterday at Kenan Field, Chi Omega and Pi Phi defeated Smith and Tri Delt. Chris White gave the Pi Phi's the 13-8 win. Tri Delt Penny Bovan suffered the loss. Final score of the Smith-Chi O slugfest was Chi 18, Smith 14.

Tomorrow Intramural coed tennis will get under way. First match is slated for 4 o'clock. Team lists must be handed in to either Lib Brown, Tennis club president, or Miss Francis Burns.

Jayvee Nine Edges Duke, 9-7; Relief Hurler Brake Gets Win

By Buddy Vaden

Relief hurler Ralph Brake, who relieved Bill McGinn in the first inning after two men were out and four unearned Duke runs had scored, scattered six hits in eight innings yesterday in Coomb's park to give Carolina's jayvee baseballers a 9-7 win over Duke's Blue Imps.

Southpaw McGinn, who started on the mound for the Tar Babies walked five men for three runs, and balked in a fourth run before he was relieved by Brake. Neither pitcher McGinn nor plate umpire Veasey could find the plate for the first frame and the Dukesters grabbed a one-run lead in their half of the frame after the Tar Babies had scored three runs on hits, one of them a double by Sleepy John Senter, and a Duke error.

Duke Leads

Duke was able to stay in the lead until the seventh frame when the Tar Heels scored three runs on three hits, a walk and a hit batsman. The Tar Heels went ahead for one-half inning in the sixth, but the Blue Imps came back in their half of the frame to take a one-run lead.

Trailing by one run going into the top of the seventh, leadoff man Don Ward singled. Senter popped out to left. Stan Goodman, next man up, singled. Ward scored and Goodman reached third on a bad peg to the plate. Goodman then came home on a passed ball by catcher Jack Clower.

Charlie Garganus walked, stole second and then Bill Walsh was hit by a pitched ball. With two men away, shortstop Joe Brookshire came through with a single to score Garganus. On the play Duke secondbaseman John Grace bobbled the ball and Walsh went to third. Pitcher Brake ended the inning with the third out.

Tar Heel Score

The Tar Heels scored three runs in the sixth when Goodman, Lamb, Garganus, and Walsh all singled.

After gaining the lead in the seventh, Brake held the Dukesters down to one lone hit, that one coming in the seventh frame. It was a long double off the bat of Govan. However, the next two men were out and Brake's two run lead was safe.

Devil May Care . . .

Carolina	AB	R	H	O	A	E
Allen, cf	5	1	1	3	0	0
Ward, lf	4	1	1	1	0	0
Senter, 3b	5	1	1	1	4	0
Goodman, 2b	5	2	2	2	0	1
Lamb, 1b	5	2	2	11	1	1
Garganus, rf	3	2	2	1	0	0
Walsh, c	3	0	2	5	0	0
Brookshire, ss	4	0	1	2	3	1
McGinn, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
Brake, p	2	0	0	1	1	0
Totals	36	9	12	27	9	3

Duke	AB	R	H	O	A	E
Baroff, cf	4	1	1	3	0	0
Grace, 2b	4	2	1	2	0	0
Murray, lf	4	2	1	6	0	0
Woodworth, 1b	2	1	0	7	0	0
Powers, 3b	5	0	1	3	1	0
Crimmans, rf	4	0	1	0	0	0
Clowar, c	5	0	0	6	1	0
Govan, ss	4	0	1	0	3	2
White, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
a Wood	1	0	1	0	0	0
Benfor, p	1	1	0	0	1	0
b Erwin	1	0	0	0	0	0
Faley, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
c Clark	1	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	34	7	7	27	6	2

a batted for White in 3rd.
b flied out for Benfor in 8th.
c grounded out for Clower in 9th.

Score by innings:

Carolina	300	003	300—9
Duke	400	003	000—7

Runs batted in: Senter, Lamb 2, Walsh 2, Woodworth, White, Crimmins, Govan, Brookshire, Garganus 2, Powers 2, Murray. Stolen bases—Allen, Lamb, Ward. Two-base hits: Senter, Grace, Powers. Base on balls—off: McGinn 6; Brake 2; White 1; Faley 1; Benfor 2. Struck out, by McGinn 1; White 1; Benfor 4; Brake 1.

In the Majors

By United Press

AMERICAN LEAGUE

New York 6, St. Louis 1.
WP—Shea; LP—Potter.

Boston 6, Detroit 3.
WP—Ferris; LP—Houteman.

Philadelphia 8, Cleveland 6. (10 inn.).
WP—Brissie; LP—Wensloff.

Washington 3, Chicago 3. (Night game. Called after 5 inn. Rain.)

NATIONAL LEAGUE

St. Louis 5, Brooklyn 4 (night).
WP—Brazle; LP—Branca.

Boston-Pittsburgh (Called off at end of 3rd. Rain.)

Philadelphia-Cincinnati, rain

Carolina Linksmen Suffer Worst Loss Of Current Season

by billy carmichael iii

Carolina's golf team couldn't make a nickel let alone many good golf shots at Hope Valley yesterday afternoon and subsequently went down to a devastating 25-2 defeat at the hands and strokes of the linksmen of Duke.

It was what might be called a complete rout with points falling to the Blue Devils all the way down the line. The Tar Heels just weren't on their game, while the Dukesters steadily pasted on the worst defeat the locals had suffered in many a round.

Harvie Ward was the first to fall and his previously hot putter just didn't have the touch of recent matches. Playing against Duke ace Jimmy McNair, who is about as steady as they come, the Tarboro Tartar had three bogeys on each nine which McNair turned into a 4 and 2 victory for the 18 holes.

Ward Misses

Ward missed two putts of less than three feet which proved to be the telling blows and generally couldn't get the ball down on the green after throwing up a fine collection of wood and iron shots. It was one of those days. Ward had a 74 while McNair carded a 72.

The rest of the way it was the same story. Harvey Oliver met the medalist for the day, Art Wall (71) at the no. 2 post, but managed to rally on the back nine to gather what proved to be a big half point for the losers. Oliver, who had a 75 for the afternoon, combined with Ward to gain a halve on the best ball on the back nine and run the Tar Heel tally to 1.

Cox Wins One

The other Carolina point came in the second foursome with Bob Cox living up to his football speciality by adding the extra point and concluding the Carolina scoring for the day. Cox had a 74 while Jack Brantley who completed the second foursome for the Tar Heels carded a 77.

Dan Nyimicz and Frank Brooks handled the clubs for the Carolinians in the third foursome, but seemed to be sharing the off-day of their teammates. They failed to score.

The action was the Tar Heels' last before the Conference tourney at Pinehurst on Saturday. That means that the charges will have to wait but four days to seek revenge.

The rain which had been threatening all day, came pouring down on the 18th to provide a fitting ending to a dismal day.

GOVERNOR PRESTON A. LANE (left) of Maryland is shown with Skip Alexander of Mid-Pines, after the latter won first prize at the Capital Open Golf tournament, held at Landover, Md., with a score of 271. Alexander collected $2,200 prize money. (International Soundphoto)

Southern Conference Track Meet Plans Near Completion

—Mural Schedule—

SOFTBALL

4:00—Field 1: KA 1 vs. Sig Nu 2; Field 2: Battlers vs. Mangum 1; Field 3: Steele vs. Whitehead; Field 4: Phi Delt 2 vs. Pi Lamb 1; Field 5: Nash vs. Clippers; Field 6: Lamb Chi 1 vs. Chi Phi 1; Field 7: Emerson vs. Graham 2; Field 8: Phi Gam 1 vs. Sig Chi 2; Field 9: Aycock vs. Wesley Rockets.

5:00—Field 1: KA 2 vs. Phi Kap 2; Field 2: Zeta 2 vs. Delt Sig 1; Field 3: Zeta 1 vs. Phi Delt 3; Field 4: AEPi vs. Sig Nu 1; Field 5: Alexander 2 vs. Old East; Field 6: Med School vs. Law School; Field 7: Phi Kap 1 vs. Lamb Chi 2; Field 8: Misfits vs. Oakwood Drive; Field 9: Kap Psi vs. Sig Chi 1.

3:30—Field 1: Battlers vs. Graham 2.

HORSESHOES

4:00 Pits 1-3 DKE 1 vs. Phi Kap 4; Pits 4-6 Sig Ep vs. Phi Kap 3.

4:30—Pits 1-3 Zeta 3 vs. Sig Nu 3; Pits 4-6 Zeta 2 vs. Sig Nu 2.

5:00—Pits 1-3 Chi Phi 2 vs. Sig Chi 1; Pits 4-6 Pi Lamb 3 vs. Phi Gam 1.

5:30—Pits 1-3 ATO 2 vs. Phi Delt 2; Pits 4-6 SAE vs. ATO 3.

RIFLE SHOOTING

4:00—PiKA vs. Kappa Sigma.

7:30—Grads vs. Emerson.

Plans are under way for the 24th annual Southern Conference outdoor track meet on Fetzer Field here May 14-15, and general information and schedule events have been mailed to member schools.

Chairman R. A. Fetzer said that indications point to one of the most successful conference meets in history, with competition wide open. Unusually good times have been reported in dual meets and instead of a few standouts, almost every team has men capable of taking first places, he pointed out.

North Carolina's Tar Heels won the meet last year, with Duke second and Maryland third.

Drawings for heats will be made in Woollen Gymnasium Friday, May 14, at 10 A. M., and a full program of events is scheduled that day, beginning at 3 P. M. Alternate schedules have been drawn up for the conference to vote on, depending on whether the teams prefer to run the semi-finals on opening day. Six men will qualify in all events in which all trials are held Friday, for the finals on Saturday.

TENNIS

4:00—Courts 8, 9, 10, 11—Phi Kap 3 vs. Sig Chi 1.

5:00—Courts 1, 2, 3, 4—Aycock 2 vs. Whitehead 1; Courts 5, 6, 8, 9—Alexander vs. Lewis 2; Courts 10, 11, 12—Stacy vs. Lewis 1.

Five Tallies in Ninth Plus Triple Play Produces 2nd Win for Duke in Big Four

By Dick Jenrette

A five-run Duke rally, a triple play, and a rain storm—all in the ninth inning—were too much for Carolina's Tar Heels as the visiting Blue Devils took a hard-fought 6-4 decision before some 5,000 fans at Emerson field yesterday.

Carolina went into the ninth inning with a 4-1 lead which appeared secure behind the effective pitching of Dean Cassell, who had tossed a neat five-hitter up to that point. But the Devils managed to get runners on first and second by means of a walk and infield single. Carolina coaches Bunn Hearn and Walt Rabb called on Vinnie DiLorenzo, of no-hit fame, to relieve Cassell, and the Dukes called upon their good luck to produce rain.

The result was five important Duke runs which were marked up before the officials decided to halt play because of the showers. George Clark, who habitually does the Tar Heels more damage in football than baseball, reversed the procedure yesterday, greeting DiLorenzo with a resounding double to right which scored the two runners already on base and thereby narrowed the Tar Heel lead to 4-3. Clark reached third on the play when the ball was fumbled in the outfield.

Duke Takes Lead

DiLorenzo, working in a steady drizzle of rain, sent Jerry Frye down swinging for the first out. A wild pitch scored Clark from third to tie the score, and then Hank Smith worked DiLorenzo for a walk. Al D'Alonzo then lined a triple to deep center to score Smith with the winning run for a 5-4 Duke lead. Bill Bergeron's one-baser to right produced the final Devil tally. At this point Umpire Powell halted proceedings for 14 minutes until the rain stopped.

After the layoff, DiLorenzo struck out Red Lucas and Bergeron was out in an attempt to steal second, thus ending the disasterous inning.

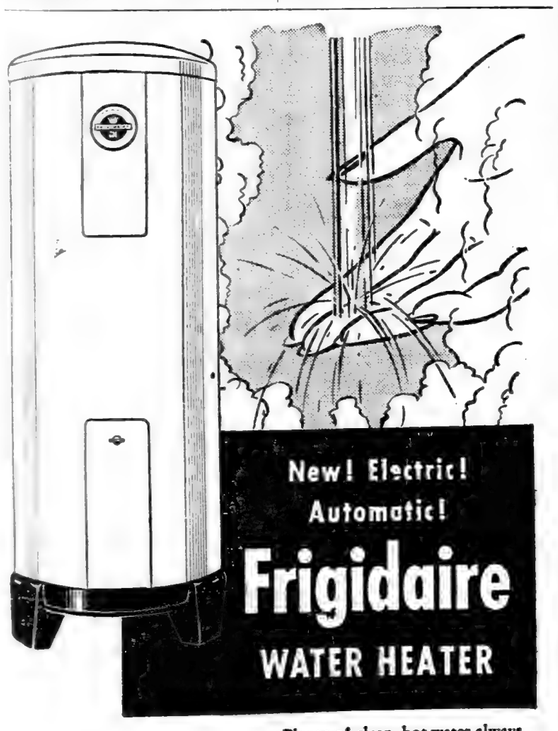
Triple Play

But the action was far from over. Sid Varney led off Carolina's half of the ninth by reaching first on an error. DiLorenzo and Kenny Black walked to load the sack with no outs. The Carolina bench and the fans who survived the rain were in an uproar by this time. Jim Hayworth, next batter, then lined a smash at Bergeron on short. The Duke player made a nifty catch for the first out, threw to Frye on second to retire DiLorenzo, and then Frye relayed the ball to Falwell on third, all in time to catch pinch-runner Ott Evans for the third out. That rare feat, the triple play, had been successfully executed and certinly it could have come at no more opportune time as far as the Blue Devils were concerned.

That play ended the game, and Carolina had gone down in its second defeat in six Big Four battles. Still the Tar Heels remain in first, however, by a half-game margin over State's Wolfpack. The locals also lost a half-game margin in the Southern conference race, but in that circuit too they retain the lead.

The Tar Heels started off fast, scoring all four of their runs in the first three innings. A single by Hayworth, Frank Jones' hit on error, and two hard singles by Jim Kelly and Will [illegible] notted two Carolina runs in the initial innings.

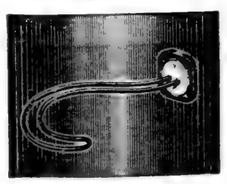
Crippling Triple . . .



Duke	AB	R	H	O	A	E
Hancock, 1b	2	0	0	2	0	0
D'Alonzo, 1b	2	1	1	4	0	0
Bergeron, ss	4	1	3	4	4	2
Lucas, cf	5	0	1	2	0	0
McCarthy, c	4	0	0	5	1	0
Erickson, lf	3	1	1	5	0	0
Falwell, 3b	3	1	1	2	0	1
Perini, rf	3	0	0	2	0	0
a Clark	1	1	1	0	0	0
Frye, 2b	3	0	1	1	3	1
Strouch, p	1	0	0	0	0	0
b Smith	1	0	0	0	0	0
Matheson, p	0	0	0	0	1	0
c Folger	1	0	0	0	0	0
Shevick, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
d Sires	0	1	0	0	0	0
Curtis, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
Karukstis, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	33	6	9	27	9	4

Carolina	AB	R	H	O	A	E
Black, cf	4	1	1	3	0	0
Hayworth, 3b	5	1	1	0	0	0
Jones rf	4	1	0	1	0	1
Kelly, lf	4	0	1	0	0	0
Hobbs, 1b	4	0	1	9	1	0
Ryan, ss	3	1	0	1	3	0
Hamilton, 2b	3	0	1	6	7	1
Tranavitch, c	2	0	0	6	1	0
e Varney	1	0	0	0	0	0
f Evans	0	0	0	0	0	0
Cassell, p	3	0	1	1	0	0
DiLorenzo, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	33	4	6	27	12	2

a batted for Perini in 9th.
b batted for Strauch in 5th
c batted for Matheson in 7th.
d batted for Shevick in 9th.
e batted for Tranavitch in 9th.
f ran for Varney in 9th.



Duke	000	001	005—6
Carolina	211	000	000—4

Runs batted in—Kelly, Hobbs, Hamilton, D'Alonzo, Bergeran, Clark 2. Two-base hits—Black, Bergeron, Clark. Three-base hits—D'Alonzo. Stolen base—Ryan. Base on balls—Cassell 5. DiLorenzo 1, Strauch 1, Matheson 1, Karukstis 1. Curtis 1. Strikeouts—Cassell 3, DiLorenzo 2. Strauch 2, Sires 1. Winning pitcher—Karukstis; Losing pitcher—DiLorenzo. Umpires—Powell and Southard. Time of game—2:14.

New! Electric! Automatic!
Frigidaire
WATER HEATER

With Exclusive Radiantube Heating Unit. Only Frigidaire Has It!

See it Today!

Plenty of clean, hot water always . . . for baths, shaving, dishwashing, showers, laundering, and many other daily household needs. No other convenience in your home gives you so much help and pleasure for so little cost. Here's why—

- No fires to light — or to forget.
- No coal to shovel.
- Temperature is always exactly as you want it.
- No "water-heater rust."
- Clean, safe, dependable.
- Fully automatic: provides hot water without even thinking about it.

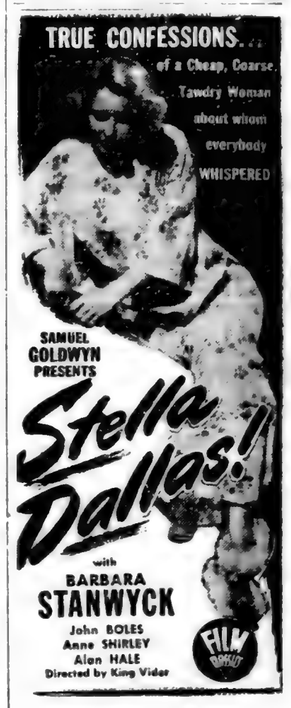
BENNETT & BLOCKSIDGE, Inc.
105 East Franklin Street — Phone 6161

You'll be Talking about this RECORD!

"Funny What a Dime Can Do"
The Mary Osborne Trio's latest Decca disc

It's a strummin', hummin' disc by the Mary Osborne Trio—and it's headed for "top billing" with the platter set.

Mary knows the songs that suit her best . . . knows her cigarettes too. As Mary says it, "I've tried them all—Camels suit me best!"



Try Camels on your "T-Zone"—T for Taste, T for Throat. Find out for yourself why, with millions of smokers who have tried and compared, Camels are the "choice of experience."

R. J. Reynolds Tob. Co. Winston-Salem, N. C.

And here's another great record:

More people are smoking CAMELS than ever before!

TODAY
CAROLINA

Students Going Into Commerce Must Attend Meet

All students who are transfering from General college to the Commerce school at the end of this quarter must attend a meeting tomorrow night at 7:30 in Memorial hall when Dean D. D. Carroll will issue necessary instructions for summer and fall registration.

According to Dean Carroll's office, this is a very important meeting, and students who are unable to attend should call in advance at the office in 114 Bingham.

DELTA PHI ALPHA

Re-organization of the local chapter of Delta Phi Alpha, German honorary fraternity, will be considered at a special meeting this afternoon at 3 o'clock in 113 Saunders.

All present and former students with good scholastic records in German are urged to attend.

DEGREE APPLICANTS

Students in the College of Arts and Sciences who have filed an application card for a degree card for June, and who think that there is a possibility that they will be unable to complete the requirements for their degree by June, are asked to notify the College of Arts and Sciences, 203 South building, by May 10 to this effect.

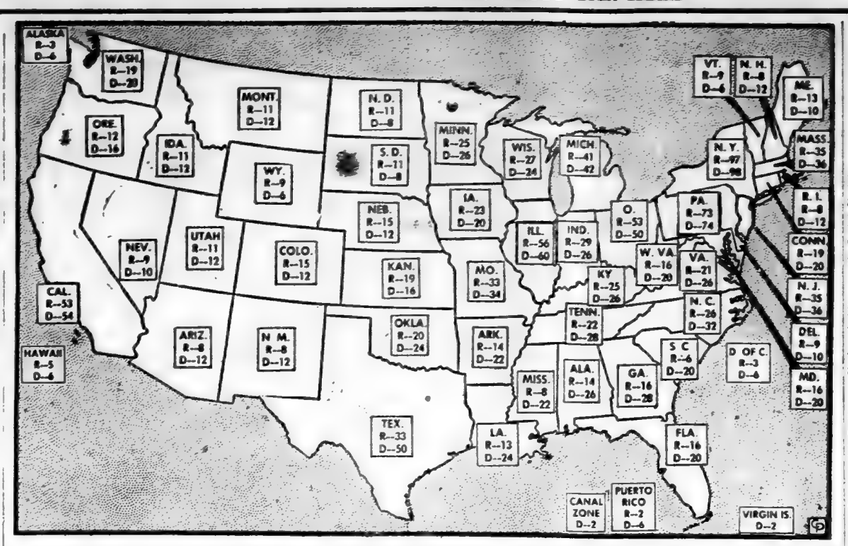
Grail Elects Gus Johnson New Delegata

Gus Johnson, chairman of the Dance committee, became delegata of the Grail Monday night, replacing Jack Fitch. In its yearly elections the Grail elected Wayne Brenengan as scribe to succeed Scotty Venable.

Jack Kirkland advanced from assistant exchequer to the exchequer position fromerly held by Johnny Clampitt and Monroe Landreth was chosen as the new assistant.

The Grail is an honorary organization which works anonymously for the good of the campus.

-Finance-



(Continued from page 1)

year would amount to payments of $4.60 each for graduate and professional students, and $5.75 each for all other students. The former group will comprise an estimated 1,500 students and the latter an estimated 5,500.

This year's deficit, as was disclosed last week, is due to three items not taken into account when the present budget was made up: (1) The present enrollment is smaller than was anticipated. (2) All fees have not been paid. (3) Graduate and professional students are paying lower fees than undergraduates.

SP LEGISLATORS

The Student party legislators will hold a caucus this afternoon in Roland Parker lounge No. 1 at 4 o'clock.

THE ABOVE MAP SHOWS the number of Republican and Democratic delegates from the 48 states and territories who will attend the national conventions of their parties in Philadelphia to select presidential and vice-presidential nominees. The GOP convention to be held on June 21 will be attended by 1,094 delegates. The Democrats will have 1,234 delegates at their meeting in the Quaker City on July 12. (International)

Defendant Says He Didn't Shoot at Tenants, Claims That It Was Just a Model-A Back-Fire

By Jim Dickinson

"I'd been putting a model-A Ford in time and it back-fired on me. They thought I'd shot at 'em," testified Clarence Brewer in Recorder's Court here yesterday in answering charges that he had fired shots at the home of James Bowman, tenant on Brewer's farm.

Judge Henry Whitfield found the defendant guilty of assault with a deadly weapon after Bowman and his wife had testified that Brewer had threatened their lives "at intervals" for several months.

Bowman told the court that Brewer always came "when he was drinking" and often had ordered the Bowmans to move away from his land. On one occasion, Brewer had fired a shot through the front door of the house, said Bowman.

The defendant was sentenced to six months confinement in the Orange county jail, the sentence to be suspended upon three years good behavior and payment of court costs. Judge Whitfield ordered that Brewer's "guns" be confiscated.

Judge Whitfield told the court that Brewer's sister had come to him mearly yesterday morning "with tears in her eyes" and asked that something be done with her brother.

In testifying she said, "I love him and I want to help him. He's been drinking a lot lately and I know he's not himself when he starts shooting at people."

Other cases heard before Judge Whitfield were:

William Caldwell, Negro, violation of beverage control act — selling beer after midnight and before 7 a.m., guilty, $50 and costs; liscense expiring May 16 revoked as required by law. Notice of appeal, bond set at $100.

Nat Farrington, Negro, drunkenness, costs.

Jim Cotten, Negro, drunkenness, costs.

Lewis Wilson. Negro, non-support of his wife and two children. Sentenced to six months in Orange county jail, suspended on condition defendant pay $10 per week into court for support of Jeanette and James Wilson.

Jessie Farrar, Negro, trespassing, warrant withdrawn on condition of payment of accrued costs.

Willie Leslie Georgia, Negro, larceny of suitcases and bed spread valued at $28, case nol pros.

James Webb, Negro, drunkenness, costs.

James E. Delaney, permitting an unlicensed driver to operate his car, costs.

June Delaney, no driver's license, case nol pros.

Roselle Williams, Negro drunkenness, costs.

Cecil W. Riley, failure to stop at stop sign, costs.

A. C. Blackwood, no tail light, costs.

Roger A. McDuffie, disorderly conduct, $5 and costs.

Hugh Calvin Rea, Jr., no tail light on motor-bike, one-half of costs.

Sarah Taylor, Negro, drunkenness, costs.

John L. Chambers, Asheville, driving while drunk; $100 and costs and license taken up.

Joe Self, Asheville, drunkenness, costs.

Freshman Group Elects Officers, Plans Projects

In the first meeting of the Freshman Work cabinet, an auxiliary of the YMCA cabinet, last weekend, officers were elected and two projects were set up.

Holding the office of chairman is Charles Fox; John Brockman was elected vice-chairman; and A. C. Mangum won the post of secretary.

Of the two main projects of the group, the first is a pre-school conference for all freshmen. John Brockman was chosen director of this project and his assistants are A. C. Mangum and Jack Grant. This pre-school conference will include a general introduction to the university.

The second project is a freshman YMCA program for the fall quarter directed by Bill Craft. This program will include the organizing of freshman into groups with sophomores as leaders. The aims of this program will be: (1) Discussion, orientation on the campus, etc.; (2) Social activities, dances arranged with WCUNC; (3) A freshman conference with students of WCUNC after two months of school.

-SP-

(Continued from page 1)

by the chairman, Ed Tenney.

The second division is the campaign organization group, headed by the campaign administrator.

Besides the treasurer, secretary and publicity chairman, the party has created the office of Personnel officer whose duty will be to attract and procure new members of the party.

Overall head and co-ordinator of administrative organizations and personnel will be the Campaign Administrator who is also a member of all campaign committees.

These committees include the Candidate committee, which will review, approach and procure candidates to present to the party for endorsement and consideration; the Campaign Publicity committee, which will handle all functions concerning party and candidate publicity; the Printing committee will collect printing fees from all candidates, contact printers and negotiate for jobs; Miscellaneous Activity committee will execute social functions of the party and perform duties at the discretion of the Campaign Administrator.

Rules of formation and election of officers of the party were also drawn up and passed at Monday's meeting.

Plunk, Plunk!

Columbus, Ohio, May 4— (UP)— A columnist on the Ohio State university newspaper, The Lantern, says this story is true.

A beginning student in English composition was assigned a 300-word theme to write.

Not being an Ernie Pyle or a John Steinbeck he couldn't think of what to say. Finally he wrote, "It rained yesterday, and the drops went plunk, plunk, plunk," and so on for 290 more plunks.

The instructor was equal to the occasion. When the paper came back it had the following notation:

"Plunk, plunk, you flunk."

-YW-

(Continued from page 1)

Henry Wallace, presented to the convention the case against the European Recovery Program. According to the University's representative, his report was very inadequate. She told the Public Affairs committee that during the question-answer period which followed his talk, that he was forced to back down on many of the points he presented.

Candidates Discussed

In discussing Eisenhower for president Charles Sellers pointed out the importance of putting the right man in office in view of the critical years ahead. He reviewed the stand adopted by the present Republican Congress, and possible Republican nominees as candidates in November's election. Sellers considered Stassen about as conservative as Taft. As far as Henry Wallace is concerned he told the committee that Wallace represents a "bankrupt foreign policy" which will not bring peace.

Sellers endorsed Eisenhower on grounds that he has the personality such a position demands, that he is a good organizer, that he is not a militerist, and that he will not give in to aggression. Sellers pointed out that Eisenhower does not want the nomination, but that he has said that no American citizen should refuse to serve the people, if they wanted him. "Our job is to get the American people to express their desire to have Eisenhower for president. If he accepts on a Democratic ticket, and the people elect him and a Democratic Congress, then the results will be in line with Roosevelts' program."

Piano Mover Is Killed in Blast Of Gas Explosion

Jamaica, L. I., May 4—(UP) A piano mover was killed today during a terrific gas explosion that wrecked a two-story house in Jamaica and injured seven other persons.

The victim was identified as Frank Lancina of Corona, L. I. Island.

The blast wrecked the house, stove in an adjoining structure and shattered glass windows throughout the community.

The moving men were taking a piano through the basement of the home when the instrument cracked a gas pipe. Heavy fumes filled the house and street before the piano movers were quick enough warn residents to leave their homes.

One of the movers summoned a Consolidated Edison gas crew and while the gas leak was being repaired the blast went off demolishing the house and cascading the area with flying bricks and glass.

WILMINGTON CLUB

The Wilmington club will meet tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in Gerrard hall. All members are asked to be present, as discussion of a party will take place.

-Elections-

(Continued from page 1)

with that of the Pittsboro road trailer camp and Victory Village official district. The opposition declared that these areas are community groups, chiefly married veterans, who are interested in student government activities.

Leary stated that the adjournment vote was carried through because all of the committee members were not present.

DTH MANAGER

CHUCK HAUSER
smokes
CHESTERFIELDS
He says:
After trying a half-dozen different brands, I know that Chesterfields are the only cigarettes for me. For mildness and taste, they can't be beat.
Chesterfield—year after year—first choice of college men and women.

Dean's List Shows 122 Non-State Names

A total of 365 students in the College of Arts and Sciences, over one-third of them from out of state, made the Dean's list for the Winter quarter.

In order to make the Dean's list a student must make a "B" or better on all courses.

Out-of-state students making the list are as follows:

Elizabeth Anne Carlton, Frank F. Groseclose, Judson L. Hawk, Thomas C. Shelton, and George B. Leonard, all of Atlanta, Ga.; Sarah Jane Farlow and George A. Roesel, Augusta, Ga.; Richard L. Bowen, Athens, Ga.; Thomas E. Cunningham, Akron, Ohio; Jeremy Hodson, Agavita, Texas; Flor-Kai E. Nielson, Allegan, Mich.; William K. Payeff, Aiken, S. C.; Gloria C. Peter, Allentown, Pa.; and Mary W. Sledge, Ada, Okla.

Frances L. Angas, Harvey R. Hoenig, Joyce Peterson, Robert Rolnick, Morton P. Seif, and Irwin W. Sklarsky, all of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Charles S. Doster, Birmingham, Ala.; Jeanne M. Fornoff, Bloomfield, N. J.; Irvin H. Gordon and Paul Gordon, Bronxville, N. Y.; Jerome Helprin and Lucius L. Moore, Baltimore, Md.; Daniel B. Stiegman, Buffalo, N. Y.; and Mary Elizabeth Webb, Bristol, Tenn.

Calvin B. Galdwin, Chevy Chase, Md.; Frederick O. Bowman, Columbus, Ohio; Martha J. Myers, Charleston, Mo.; and Neva J. Webb, Columbia, S. C.; King W. Brett, Daytona Beach, Fla.; Harry H. Hall, Dothan, Ala.; and Thomas A. Blum, Edmonds, Wyom.

Ruth B. Evans, Fort Knox, Ky.; Harold H. Jeter and Earle C. Page, Florence, S. C.; Claude C. Vache, Franklin, Va.; Dudley M. Amoss, Greenwich, Conn.; Robert V. Cox, Germantown, Tenn.; Charles A. Cunningham, Greer, S. C.; Clifton H. Johnson, Griffin, Ga.; John F. Kenfield, Glencoe, Ill.; Martha D. Payne and Hassell B. Sledd, Greenville, S. C.

Margaret Van de Velde, Houtzdale, ence E. Knight, Alexandria, Va.; Elizabeth H. Leggett, Annapolis, Md.; Pa.; Helen V. Vaughn, Hartsville, S. C.; Jean I. Benjamin, Jacksonville, Fla.; Wilbur L. Carr, Jefferson City, Tenn.; Edna M. Dooley, Johnson City, Tenn.; Robert M. Barr, Kansas City, Mo.; Ann G. Fullerton, Kent, Conn.; Virginia Stoutenburg, Knoxville, Tenn.; and June D. Watson, Kingston, N. Y.

Samuel T. Campbell, Louisville, Ky.; John W. Patterson, Lyndhurst, N. J.; William H. Baskin, John L. Gignilliat, William A. Lane, and Edith C. Turpin, all of Macon, Ga.; Henry L. Adkins, Emory L. Eads, Jr., and Alan S. Gubin, Memphis, Tenn.; James W. Geiger and Alexander A. Sakhnovsky, Miami, Fla.; Claudia Lee, Marshallville, Ga.; Miriam A. Massey, James M. Teresi, and Margaret A Wells, Milledgeville, Ga.; Mildred I. Oswalt, Moberly, Mo.; Paul W. Rohrer, Milwaukee, Wis.; and Jay A. Siegel, Miami Beach, Fla.

Ira P. Antin, Lewis R. Bloom, Walter Sharafanowich, Burton Spater, David E. Sobel, James W. Rathburn, and Loudon S. Wainwright, New York, N. Y.; Kenneth Black, Jr., Louis A. Haynes, and William W. Ritter, Jr., Norfolk, Va.; Clarence DiChiara, Newark, N. J.; Lillian B. Hotard, New Smyrna, Fla.; John T. Morrisey, Nahant, Mass.; Robert M. Ousley, North Canton, Ohio; Charles W. Porter, New Orleans, La.; and Katherine B. Woodman, New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Suzanne M. Davis, Portland, Ore.; Dorothy Lunsford, Petersburg, Va.; Bruce M. Minnix, Jr., Pleasantville, N. J.; John M. Phautz, Philadelphia, Pa.; James M. Riley, Palm Beach, Fla.; Stanley A. Simpson, Parkton, Md.; and Rufus N. Norris, Port Washington, N. Y.

Douglass M. Glasspool, Rye, N. Y.; Porter W. Van Zandt, Rochester, N. Y.; John M. Zucker, Riverdale, Md.; Robert A. Andrew, South Dennis, Mass.; Gaston S. Bruton, Sewanee, Tenn.; Gerald L. Cook, Santruce, R. R.; Robert H. Edwards, Searsdale, N. Y.; Leland C. Ellis, Sherman, Texas; Victor H. Gibeau, St. Croix, V. I.; Frank P. Giraffe, Southington, Conn.; Ralph E. Grimes, Staten Island, N. Y.; Mary Jane Hunter, South Orange, N. J.; Harley Y. Jennings, and Carld D Perry, Schoolfield, Va.; Mary T. Kraus, St. Petersburg, Fla.

Mary E. Montgomery, Savannah, Ga.; Helen N Neighbours, Stephenville, Tenn.; Mildred Tilson, Sitka, Alaska; Alen H. Wiley, Springfield, Mass; Mrs. Dorthea N. Belcher, Sweetwater, Texas; John H. Recknagel, Sarasota, Fla.; Charles S. Heinmiller, Tampa, Fla.; and Nathaniel M. Williams, Thomasville, Ga.

Robert A. Nelson, Upper Montclair, N. J.; Howard L. Field, Ventnor, N. J.; Theodore R. Dungey, Williamsville, N. Y.; Frederick D. Lewis, Winnetka, Ill.; and John H. Tandy, Westfield, N. J.

Fine Watches Need Excellent Care . . .
A Complete Watch Repair Service at—
BLACKWOOD ASSOCIATE STORE

Mark Hellinger's BRUTE FORCE
With
Burt LANCASTER Ella RAINS
TODAY
VILLAGE

Tip for YOUR CAREER
A job? Get on the "preferred list" with Gibbs secretarial training. Last year 9,611 discriminating employers asked for Gibbs secretaries. Full information from College Course Dean.
KATHARINE GIBBS
NEW YORK 17 . . . 230 Park Ave.
BOSTON 16 90 Marlborough St.
CHICAGO 11 51 East Superior St.
PROVIDENCE 6 155 Angell St.

University Florist
"For the Best in Flowers"
Pick Theatre Bldg.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Telephone 9816

Ridgeway's
OPTICIANS
Complete Eyeglass Service
Prompt attention to all mail orders
PROFESSIONAL BUILDING
Raleigh N. C.

CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE 6B

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogers Drive. Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. Telephone F-2906. (ch 1x2)

NEW BRICK HOME VERY CLOSE IN. Immediate possession. Write or call University Cleaners for appointment. Phone 4921. (ch 1x1)

UNDERWOOD NOISELESS TYPEwrifer: recently overhauled; alete type. See at 172 Bagley Drive, Victory Village, evenings. (1-354-1)

1 HORTON MANUFACTURED WRINGer type washing machine. Used only 15 months. Priced $75. May be seen at 203 Jackson Circle. (1-355-1)

THOROUGHBRED COCKER SPANIEL pups. Eight weeks old. Call 8851 after six or come to corner Elm and Popular in Carrboro.

18 FOOT PATHFINDER HOUSE trailer. Excellent condition. Priced for immediate sale. See after 5 p.m. 61a Pittsboro Road Trailer Court. (1-360-1)

OUTBOARD MOTOR—4½ H.P. ELTO, two cylinder—$60.00. Phone George Trotter, 3031. (1-361-1)

ONE ELECTRIC COKE DISPENSER in good condition. May be seen at Phi Kappa Sigma House anytime. (1-363-1)

MAN'S BALLOON TIRED BICYCLE. Good Condition—$25.00. Call F-2152. (1-364-1)

24 FOOT ALMA HOUSE TRAILER IN excellent condition. Electric brakes Sleeps four. Priced for quick sale ($1295.00) John L. Harris, B-V-P Trailer Lot No. 250. (1-366-1)

BRAND-NEW, HAND MADE, IMported silk slips sizes 36 & 40; nightgowns sizes 38 & 40. Only one each size. Ideal Mothers' Day gifts. Call F-2912. (1-367-1)

FOR SALE AUTOMOTIVE 6BB

1942 BUICK SEDANETTE. EXCELLent condition, new white sidewall tires, radio, heater. See Joe Clawson, Phi Kappa Sigma House. (1-294-1)

1937 BUICK PHEATON, RADIO, heater. Also 1929 Nash. See Walter Curtis, corner Branch and Justice Sts. (1-368-1)

LOST 12

LADIES WATCH, YELLOW GOLD, square Bulova with black cord band, April 30 vicinity Graham Court or Carolina Inn. Reward. Finder call 7281 until 4 p. m., 6706 after 7 p. m., Cora P. Bomar. (1-357-1)

WANTED TO RENT 24B

SUBLET FOR BOTH SESSIONS OF sumiaer school a house in Vet Village by vet and family. Phone Black 8021 or write 102 Lewis. (1-351-1)

URGENTLY NEED APARTMENT FOR married couple, no children, temporary or permanent residence. References furnished. Phone Mrs. Jack Barke, 7781 before 4:30 p.m.; 131 Mason Farm Rd. after 4:30. (1-362-1)

LIL ABNER By AL CAPP

Cheese blintzes—today—at HARRY's

REHDERS
CHAPEL HILL FLOWER SHOP
Opposite Post Office Corner

Whid Powell's
COLONIAL HOUSE SYSTEM
WAFFLES
GRILLED FRANKS
Weekdays
11:00 a. m. — 12 a. m.
Friday & Saturday
11:00 a. m. — 2 a. m.
Rosemary St.—Opp. City Hall

The High-Scoring Fashion
SEAM-FREE NYLONS
WITH PATENTED HEEL
For sheer, sheer loveliness here are the goal-getters: seam-free nylons identified by the Seal of the DANCING TWINS. They've an exclusive, patented heel* for ankle-hugging fit; a Gussetoe for comfort . . . no seams to twist out of line! Look for them under leading brand names at your favorite college shop or store.
DANCING TWINS
*U. S. Pat. No. 2288649

MAY'S Gift Reminder FROM . . .
Wentworth & Sloan, Jewelers
167 East Franklin Street
For Mother's Day—
AN ELGIN WATCH!
A HAMILTON Watch
SILVERWARE!
• Gorham
• International
• Wallace
28 BEAUTIFUL SILVER PATTERNS

LIBRARY (Periodical Dept.)
University of North Carolina
Chapel Hill, N. C.
1-31-48

WEATHER
Cloudy and warmer.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
Puzzle in Red
Feel a Draft?
Cyrano is Promising

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., THURSDAY, MAY 6, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361

Communists Spark Phi Discussion On Party In U.S.

By Emily Baker

A bill stating that the Communist party of the United States is detrimental to the policies of this country was passed by a 12-5 vote of the Philanthropic Assembly Tuesday night. The measure was passed by a 13-10 vote of the entire house making delegation present.

Louis Scales, head of the Chapel Hill Communist party, Bill Robertson, member of the same club, Harry Mensh and Bob McGirt, members of the Young Communist party, were the guest speakers during the evening who spoke against the bill. Ernie House and Page Harris, members of the assembly, led the discussion in favor of the bill.

180 Days and $100

The climax of the discussion arrived when Harry Mensh, who was sentenced to 180 days of hard labor and $100 in costs by an Alabama judge for disorderly conduct, stood up and asked for the floor.

Mensh said, "I am out on bail now. My defense is to beat back the forces that threaten the downfall of the entire world. Our country should remain true to such ideals as Franklin Roosevelt conceived in the UN. It would be a direct violation of the principles for which the United States stands if you allow yourself to be stampeded into supporting anything that resembles this bill." He closed his speech by defying anyone to stand up and be counted in favor of the bill.

Held Incommunicado

In answer to Bob Coulter's question as to why he was sentenced, Mensh explained, "I was held incommunicado for 20 hours before a definite charge was levied against me. Finally the judge stated that since I was giving out reprints of an article which appeared in a New York paper, I was disturbing the peace and anything that disturbs the peace is disorderly conduct."

Following a clarification of several points of the Communist party, Bill McGirt was asked by Herman Seiber if a Communist is required to take an oath of allegiance to the USSR or make a statement concerning the defense of the Soviet Union when becoming a member of the Communist party of the United States. He replied, "I had to take no oath to the Soviet Union or to make any oath of treason to the United States."

Red Constitution

Scales further elaborated on this point by reading the preamble to the Communist party constitution which was adopted on July 28, 1945. He said "We are internationalist but this does not mean we are disloyal to our own country. The Communists of America have been the advocators of progressive legislation."

Bill Robertson challenged the assembly to answer, "What would be the essential difference between outlawing the Communist party in America and outlawing similar moves in Hitler's Germany, Franco's Spain, and Fascist Italy?"

A Few Dictators

Page Harris answered, "To outlaw a party in America, a majority of the people have to decide to outlaw the party. This is not so in a Communist country where a few dictators give the command to outlaw a party."

Ernie House, speaking for the bill, said, "The Communists do not believe in majority rule. This is not the way American people play the game. Anyone who believes in an international dictatorship of the proletariat is to me a Communist. Therefore, I believe that they are dangerous and as a political party have no place in our government."

Two new members initiated into the assembly were Stuart Bondurant and Elwood Clinard of Winston-Salem.

McCutcheon Asks For Cooperation In Ticket Drive

Benson McCutcheon, president of the senior class, yesterday requested that all seniors cooperate in the drive now underway to sell tickets for the Gene Krupa concert to be held the afternoon of May 15.

Tickets are now on sale at 75 cents each in the Y lobby and are available to the public in general.

McCutcheon issued the statement after a meeting of the senior class Tuesday night attended by only 100 members. The program of Senior Week activities was changed and the schedule for class day activities on June 5 was released.

It was brought out by McCutcheon, "I feel that I should appeal to senior class members to give their support in the sale of the Krupa tickets. The Senior Prom, being a free dance for seniors, must be financed by this only source of revenue — the sale of concert tickets. The success of this dance depends largely upon the cooperation of seniors.

Senior Week activities, as disclosed at the meeting, will begin with a senior-faculty softball game on Thursday afternoon May 13.

Barefoot day will be observed on Friday, May 14, on which day all seniors are requested to leave their shoes at home.

The Senior Prom on Saturday, May 15, will feature the music of Gene Krupa and his band from 8 o'clock to 12. A concert will be held from 4 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

Carolina Coed Enters Mademoiselle Finals

Benedicta Quirino Dos Santos, of Sao Paulo, Brazil, has been notified by Nancy Garotte, College board editor of "Mademoiselle" magazine of New York, that she is one of fifty finalists chosen from a list of 900 College board members of the "Mademoiselle" staff to enter the final competition by which twenty college coeds will be selected for guest editorships.

Miss Dos Santos is a special student in journalism and has been secretary to James Street, the author, while carrying on her college courses.

Partrick Elected Chapter President Of Phi Eta Sigma

Neil Partrick, KA from Wilmington, was elected president of the local chapter of the Phi Eta Sigma, national freshman honorary society, Tuesday night in an election of officers for the forthcoming year. The society also initiated 41 new members.

Other Officers

Other officers elected at the meeting which was held in Graham Memorial are: John Ingram, Asheboro, vice-president; Earl Betts, Grensboro, secretary; H. C. Fordham, Greensboro, treasurer; and Buck Blankenship, Charlotte, historian. Officers were elected after the initiation of new members.

The local chapter, which was chartered last May, has recently undertaken a project to assist in freshman orientation on the campus.

New Members

The list of the 41 newly initiated members of the society are as follows: Theodore Adler, David M. Anderson, Jr., Earl R. Betts, Jr., Albert S. Blankenship, Jr., Rodney L. Borum, John L. Brockmann, James W. Brooks, Howard W. Childress, James E. Clement, and David E. Clinard, Jr.

Richard E. Cofield, Jr., Johnston F. Colvard, Jr., William A. Cowburn, Thomas H. Crowder, Jr., William J. Feltus, III, Henry C. Fordham, Henry G. Fricke, Willis J. Grant, Allen L. Griffiths, and Richard F. Haff.

Roy G. Hall, Jr., John R. Ingram, Richard H. Jenrette, Graham E. Jones, Thomas R. Kerr. Marshall R. Lane, James M. Mahan, Frank S. MacDonnell, Joseph E. Michalski, and Richard J. Murphy.

Cornelius T. Partrick, Robert B. Payne, David K. Schermerhorn, Herbert H. Sims, Thomas B. Smiley, Jr., George B. Staton, William H. Strickland, Robert H. Vinson, William M. Vinson, William H. White, Jr.

AQUINAS CLUB

Aquinas club members and all Catholic students are invited to attend the dance of the North Carolina State Aquinas club and the Sodality of the Cathedral parish in Raleigh tomorrow night.

The party begins at 8:30. Transportation will be provided to Raleigh at 7:30 from the Y court. Those attending are requested to place their reservations with Rudy Tropea in 23 Old West.

AVC Official Is To Make Address Here on Tuesday

Richard Bolling, national vice-chairman of the American Veterans committee, will give a public talk in Graham Memorial Tuesday, May 11, on "The Veteran in Politics," the executive committee of the local chapter of this veteran's group reported at their meeting last Tuesday evening.

The AVC official will speak in the Horace Williams lounge of the student union at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. He is passing through the University on a tour of the various AVC chapters throughout this section of the nation.

Bolling is a veteran of six years service in the South Pacific, a former student at the University of Kansas City, and has worked with the Americans For Democratic Action as well as in his current post with AVC.

Other business transacted at last Tuesday's session of the local organization included the selection of four delegates to attend the southeastern regional conference of the AVC to be held in Jacksonville, Fla., May 15 and 16. The four selected were Bob Eagle, Martha Aiken, Roland Giduz, and the chapter's chairman, George Tindall.

TMA Organized

Membership in the newly-organized Town Men's association will be restricted only to men residing in fraternity houses, according to John Van Hecke, spokesman for the organization.

At the group's first meeting yesterday, it was decided to admit all men, whether members of Greek letter societies or not, except for those who actually live in fraternity houses.

Van Hecke stated that the meeting was well attended, and that officers would be elected sometime next week.

Van Hecke, Nelson Taylor and David Sharpe were chosen as a committee to draw up a set of by-laws to present to the next meting of the group. A party to be given in the future will also be discussed at that time, it was announced.

OLD-TIMER COMES BACK

Carlsbad, N. M. — (UP) — City Clerk E. A. Roberts has his 1878 Springfield rifle back after five years' service in World War II. He lent it to the British home guard when England made a plea

Legislature Session Will Hear Proposal For Fee Increase

A resolution to increase student block fees 75 cents per quarter will come before the Student Legislature tonight. The proposal is being made by a joint Finance committee which is investigating the block fee structure.

According to the committee's proposal, graduate student fees would be raised from $3.85 to $4.70 a quarter, and undergraduate fees would be raised to $5.75. The action is being proposed to provide for a shortage of $5,426.85 that will result from errors made in drawing up the 1948-49 budget which goes into effect June 1. The proposed increases in student fees will raise student government income from $105,000 to $115,575 for the forthcoming fiscal year.

Insufficient Reserve

The budget, which was passed by the last session of the Student Legislature, has an unappropriated balance of $1.470 which the committee has declared insufficient for an operating reserve.

The investigating committee, which is composed of the Finance committee of the Legislature and the Publications board, has also reported that a deficit of $6,600 exists in the 1947-48 budget. A large part of this amount will be recovered in the form of returns from campus organizations.

Professor Poll

Abill proposing a student poll to grade University professors and instructors will also be reported out of committee tonight. According to the measure, professors would be graded on the basis of presentation of material, knowledge of subject matter, ability to arouse interest of the students, and grading procedure.

Joint Recital Is Planned Tonight

The Music department will present a joint recital by Andrew Griffith and John H. Brinegar, music majors in voice from Mt. Airy and Winston-Salem, respectively, tonight at 8:30 in Hill hall.

Griffith, bass, a student for four years of Paul Young of the Music department, has a long record of vocal achievement, having done solo work in connection with "The Seasons," given last fall by the Chapel Hill Choral club; in Handel's "Messiah" three times in Mt. Airy; with the University Methodist choir for two years, and with programs given by the University Men's Glee club.

He has also displayed considerable dramatic talent as Don Alhambra in Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Gondoliers;" as the Judge in "Trial by Jury," also by Gilbert and Sullivan; and in last summer's performance of "The Lost Colony." His latest role was in "The Mikado," in which he rendered a brilliant portrayal of Ko-Ko, the executioner. Griffith is also proficient on the guitar, ukelele, and banjor.

Brinegar, tenor, is also a student of Paul Young, having in addition been taught by Mr. W. B. Lord and at Mars Hill junior college by Mrs. Elizabeth Logan Souther. While at Mars Hill, Mr. Brinegar was soloist with the Glee club and choir and served as choir director of the French Broad Avenue Baptist church in Asheville. He will be remembered for his solo work with the Men's Glee club at Christmas concerts of the 1946-47 and 1947-48 seasons. For the past two years, Brinegar has been choir director of the Carrboro Baptist church. He has also appeared in the operas, "The Bartered Bride" and "The Mikado."

Accompanists for the program will be William Waters, piano major from Roanoke Rapids, N. C., and Charles Stevens of Mt. Gilead, also majoring in piano.

The public is cordially invited.

CP Chairmanship Goes To Worsham; Party Elects Hall As Vice-Chairman

BOB HAIRE AND JACK WORSHAM, left and right, are the retiring and incoming chairman of the Campus party respectively. Worsham, junior from Ruffin, has been elected chairman of the party replacing Haire. He will be assisted in his duties as head of the party by Ellis Hall who was elected CP vice-chairman.

Other CP Officers Are Eloise Jacobi, Ellis Daye, Shreve

By Herb Nachman

Jack W. Worsham, rising senior from Ruffin, has been elected to the chairmanship of the Campus party for the coming year, it was announced yesterday.

Worsham, who replaced former chairman Bob Haire, is the present chairman of the Archives committee and Clerk of the Student Legislature. He is also a member of the Coalition cabinet and is a Commerce major.

The CP elected Ellis Hall, sophomore from Winston-Salem, to the position of vice-chairman of the party. Hall replaces Walt Arnold in the office of vice-chairman. He is a member of the Student Audit board and is a pledge of the Delta Sigma Pi, honorary commerce fraternity.

To fill the post of secretary, the party has elected Eloise Jacobi, rising senior from Wilmington. She replaces Hall who previously held the job of CP secretary before assuming the vice-chairmanship.

She is a transfer from Woman's College in Greensboro and is a Sociology major. At WC she was a member of the Chemistry club, the Square Circle club and the Adelphian society.

Since entering Carolina she has served as vice-president of the Carolina Independent Coed association, and treasurer of the Wilmington-Carolina club.

Anies Daye, Jr., sophomore from Winston-Salem, has been re-elected treasurer of the party. Daye is an accounting major and a member of the Student Audit board.

CP Publicity chairman for the coming year will be Tom Shreve, rising junior from Leaksville. He is a pre-law student and a member of the varsity track team. He replaces Bob Orman in the publicity chairmanship.

GENERAL COLLEGE

All students who were notified recently by general college that they were eligible to transfer to the College of Arts and Sciences this term are to check by 203 South building, Dean Weil's office, between May 6 and 10 for assignment of advisers and registration instructions.

Playmaker Experimentals Are Slated for Theater Tonight

Three new one-act student-written plays will be presented by the Carolina Playmakers tonight and tomorrow night at 7:30 in the Playmaker theater. No admission will be charged, and everyone is cordially invited to attend.

The plays are "A Matter of Business" by John Wills, "Of Lucy Wren," a fantasy by Murray McCain, and "The Little Things," a comedy by Kermit Hunter.

Student directors for the plays are under the direction of Kai Jurgensen. Wills' play is directed by Louisa Mustin, and Pete Strader is stage manager. "Of Lucy Wren" is directed by Eleanor Woodson, and Frank Echols is acting as stage manager. The final play on the bill of experimental productions, "The Little Things," is directed by John Bridges and stage-managed by George Upchurch.

The action of "A Matter of Business' takes place in a southern town during the present time; "Of Lucy Wren" is set on the stage of a small college theater; and "The Little Things" occurs on the front porch of the Tate home.

Members of the cast of "A Matter of Business" include: John Rembert, Elizabeth Savage, Jenny Rembert and Hibbard Thatcher. The cast of "Of Lucy Wren" includes: Christine White, Gwyn Finley, Gene Wilkins, Kim Kinney, Mas Shaw, Ellen Smith, and Frank Echols. Actors for the third play are: John Blair, Catherine MacDonald, Gene Wilkins, Opie McKeever, Charles Norton, and George Upchurch.

ORIENTATION COUNSELORS

All students interested in being counselors in orientation next fall are urged to get in touch with Bill Miller at the SAE house as soon as possible.

Seven Represent UNC at Dinner Given for Alumni

Seven alumni represented the University at the annual alumni supper held Tuesday night at Breece's Landing in Fayetteville. The supper meeting, at which 200 were present, including respective students as guests of the alumni, featured three guest speakers from the University.

Roy Armstrong, director of admissions, reviewed the University as it is today in contrast of other days. He also discussed plans for the future.

W. D. Carmichael, Jr., comtroller of the Greater University, discussed business foundations at the University. Coach Carl Snavely reviewed activities of the football team for the past year, and briefed football experts for the coming year. After his talk football pictures were shown to the group.

Council for Religion in Life Lists Clothing Drive Agents

Solicitors for the CRIL-sponsored clothing drive to take place on the campus next week will meet in 403 Alumni at 6:50 tonight to receive details on methods of solicitation and general information concerning the drive.

One person from each dormitory, sorority and fraternity has been selected to collect for their respective residences.

Maria Davis, Ed Strain, Gene Turner and Marjorie Yokley head the committee for solicitation and collection and will advise the group at tonight's meeting.

Solicitors from coed dorms are Archer House, Tandy Lacy; McIver, Sue Stokes; Kenan, Mary Jo Cain; Alderman, Ann Carlton; Spencer, Mary Glen Slader; Smith, Nan Reid; and Carr, Dorothy Day. Collecting for sororities are Chi Omega, Jane Casstevens; Pi Phi, Katie Davis; A. D. Pi Jane Hunter; Tri Delt, Caty Holt; and Alpha Gamma Delta, Gwenn Finley.

Solicitors for men's dorms are Steele, Max Cooke; Old West, Joe Johnson; Old East, Larry Berry; Grimes, Jack DeVore; Ruffin, Griffis Worthington; Manly, John Hough; Mangum, Orman Hutcherson; Lewis, Coye Rogers; Stacy, Dick McLean; Graham, John Rosser; Aycock, John Bunch; Alexander, Bill Craft; B. V. P., Bill Porvell; B. V. P. Trailer court, Al Dail; quonset huts, Edlyn Freerks; Whitehead, John Bambill; Nash, V. L. James; Miller, Walter McCrair; University trailer court, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. F. Patterson; Everett, Don Robertson.

UNC Med School Foundation Is Launched by Alumni Group

Pinehurst, May 5—Alumni of the Medical school of the University of North Carolina, meeting here today voted unanimously and enthusiastically for a motion made by Dr. Verne H. Blackwelder, Lenoir, to sponsor a Medical school foundation to secure gifts for a Medical school endowment.

The meeting presided over by Dr. M. D. Bonner, Jamestown, was attended by 150 alumni of the Medical school who were present for a three-day meeting of the State Medical society here.

The speaker was Dean W. R. Berryhill of the University Medical school who told alumni of plans for the building of a medical school and teaching hospital at Chapel Hill and showed architects' preliminary plans. He also reported that the University Trustees Building committee has these plans and are working with the view of getting building operations underway this fall.

Dr. Ben F. Royall, Morehead City, reported for the visiting committee of alumni on the Medical school at Chapel Hill.

New officers elected were: Dr. Shahane Taylor, Greensboro, president; Dr. R. Gaddy Matheson, Ahoskie, vice-president, and Dr. Milton F. Clark, Goldsboro, secretary.

Six counsellors were elected: Dr. Harry L. Brockman, High Point; Dr. W. M. Coppridge, Durham; Dr. Paul Deaton, Statesville; Dr. George Johnson, Wilmington; Dr. Fred K. Garvey, Winston-Salem; and Dr. Charles Ashford, New Bern.

U. S. Air Force Plans to Commission Veterans Who Will Graduate in June

The United States Air Force desires to commission officers and enlisted men who served in the Air Forces during World War II, Air Force officials announced recently.

Seniors graduating in June from either the undergraduate or graduate schools if interested should contact Lt. Col. C. J. Galligan, Air ROTC (behind Law school), on Friday from 1 to 2 o'clock and Monday from 5 to 6 o'clock.

Of particular interest to the Air Forces are those now pursuing a postgradute coure in the fields of civil engineering, electricity, physics, meteorology, law, industrial and production engineering, metallurgy, physiology, and psychology.

Prior officers selected and appointed will be returned to active duty in the permanent grade of Second Lieutenant, USAF, and in the temporary grade in the AFUS as was held in the AUS immediately prior to being processed for separation. Terminal leave promotion in the Air Force Reserve will not be recognized in this connection.

Enlisted personnel selected and appointed will be returned to active duty in the permanent grade of Second Lieutenant, USAF.

Applicants must meet the following criteria: (1) Prior service in the Air Forces since December 1, 1941. (2) Must not have reached the 27th birthday except in cases wherein age above 27 is not more than the number of years, months and days of active commissioned service during the period between December 7, 1941 and September 2, 1945.

Prior record of service must indicate honorable and efficient service.

United World Federalists Will Hear Washington Delegation Report Today

The local chapter of United World Federalists will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Grail room of Graham Memorial to hear a report on the North Carolina-Students-for-World-Government delegation which journeyed to Washington May 2 and 3.

The delegation included five students from Carolina: Al Lowenstein, Sandy McEachern, Peggie Garrison, Jim Roberts, and Russell G. Baldwin.

Some 50 students from 12 North Carolina colleges and universities representing approximately 30,000 college students attended the Washington meetings. The group was received by the North Carolina congressional delegation and by representatives of the State department.

Most of the congressional delegation expressed their agreement to calling a revisional conference of the United Nations but disagreed in several respects as to what form a revitalized UN should take.

Resolutions calling for world government passed by the State Student Legislative assembly and the N. C. Methodist Student movement and various other organizations were presented to the lawmakers and to the State department.

The world government delegation was sponsored by the student division of United World Federalists of N. C., of which Russell G. Baldwin, student from Leland, is chairman.

Today's meeting is open to the public, according to a statement by Jake Wicker, chairman of the Carolina chapter. Other business will come up and all members should be present, he added.

Puzzle in Red

Bitter debate, and the term is appropriate, raged in the Phi hall Tuesday night over the question of whether the Communist party should be outlawed in the United States. At the same time Former Governor J. Melville Broughton, speaking in Gerrard hall, devoted a good portion of his speech to the same question.

Present at the Phi meeting was Junius Scales, Chapel Hill's own Red Bogey man. With him was a fellow Communist who happened to be passing through, a man who is even now free under bail pending outcome of appeal of an Alabama jail sentence for spreading Communist propaganda in that state. There were others present who are not so above-board about their allegiances.

From what these men said, it appears that the Communists are not exactly in favor of being outlawed. They called upon the American ideals, the guarantees of political freedom, freedom of thought and speech, for protection. In the mouths of men whose party is pledged to the overthrow of the very ideals upon which they called, the words were a mockery. Yet the Communists were not alone in opposing anti-Communist legislation.

Former Governor Broughton spoke for the others when he said that his natural instincts would be to legislate against the Communists, but that he questioned the wisdom of doing so. He feared that it would merely drive them underground where they would be harder to combat. Also he doubted the constitutionality of such legislation.

On the other side of the picture are those who side with Political Science Professor E. J. Woodhouse. A strong believer in the rights of individuals, Dr. Woodhouse's views are to this effect: "I have a strong feeling that legislating against the rights of any American citizen would not be quite according to the rules of the game. But the Communists refuse to play the game according to our rules, so why should we let them play in our game at all."

Communists and what to do about them form one of the most discussed issues in the nation and in the world today. Most of us agree that their objectives should be opposed. The question is the method to be used.

Do You Feel A Draft ?

Many non-veteran students who fall in the 18-20-year-old age bracket have been getting slightly worried over the prospect of having to swap school books for army uniforms as Congress moves nearer to final action on selective service legislation.

Here at the University, however, Director of Admissions Roy Armstrong feels that institution of the draft will have little effect upon the over-all enrollment of the school unless students begin a mad rush for the nearest recruiting office before actually receiving their greetings. A program of Universal Military Training might have considerable impact upon the University for about six months, Armstrong thinks, but after that the enrollment would level off again. From all indications in the news coming out of Congress, a UMT bill has little chance of passing if selective service can be made to do the job.

As passed by the House Armed Services Committee this week the House version of the draft bill would require that men 18 through 30 register, with those from 19 through 25 liable for two years' service. Ministers, divinity students and some conscientious objectors would be exempted, with the President having the job of determining deferments for schooling, dependency and occupation.

Since only 611,382 men would have to be added to the present strength of the army to bring it to the desired strength of 2,005,882, it will be necessary to draft only a few men from each section of the country. Voluntary enlistments by men trying to beat the draft will cut down this figure, so any one student's chance of being pulled out of school into the army is slight.

The best course of action for students who want to finish their education is just to sit tight until the draft actually reaches them. Chances are it won't.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y. Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor . . . Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associate Editors . . . Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady, Raney Stanford
News Editor . . . Herb Nachman
Society Editor . . . Weddy Thorp
Photographer . . . Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. . . . Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. C. B. Mendenhall, Chan Pegram
Subscription Mgrs. . . . Jim King
Asst. Business Mgrs. Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. . . . Randall Hudson, Don Snow

NEWS STAFF: Charlie Gibson, Sally Woodhull, Jim Dickinson, Gordon Huffines, Jack Brown, Stewart McKeel, Margaret Gaston, Dan Wallace, Charlie Craven, Mark Sumner, Emily Baker, Doris Weaver, Harriet Sipple, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.

SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Larry Fox, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher, Mel Horowitz, Faith Adams, Anne Wells.

BUSINESS STAFF: James Crews, Jackie Rogers, J. C. Brown, Joe Williams, Gladys Cottrell, Bill Peebles, Neal Howard, Jr., Vin Snell, Candy Jones, Kathryn McLean, Jim Brown, Baxter Morris, Ed Warton, Leonard Dudley, Jean Williams, Charmian Griffin.

NIGHT EDITOR: Tom Kerr NIGHT SPORTS: Dick Jenrette

Guest Column

A Plea For Open Minds

By R. Foo Giduz

Reaction and lack of it to the Carousel campaign in favor of the Spaulding proposal on Negro admissions to the University has been good and bad . . . Perhaps it shows a quite acquiescence to the proposal, and again it may be an example of how deeply ingrown racial prejudices are in that hardly anyone steps out to personally endorse the idea, who has not already done so . .

A few friends have jestingly pointed out to our recurrent "radicalism" and others have privately expressed greater-than-usual contempt for these writings . . . But in a final consideration of what may soon be a turning point in University history, we ask only for serious thought on the matter — NOW — by the entire student body.

Some have been thinking seriously about it: A majority of the graduate students in the history department have signed a petition endorsing the admission of qualified Negro graduate day students to their department . . . (Other grad depts. now following suit) . . . And a detailed poll of several facets of this question is now being taken in another large school of the University . . . Results of this should be released herin and in state papers early next week . . . Suffice it now to say that this poll will be interpreted as one of the first and best concrete barometers of representative student opinion yet taken on the campus concerning this tremendously important issue.

So quix yourself on the justice of this idea . . . Is it really so radical??? . . . So radical to believe in the U. S. Constitution? . . . Is the "Emory Wheel," student publication of Emory U. in the deeeeeep south of Georgia, so radical in its advocacy of this same plan . . . How does the "only college daily in the southeast" stand on this question? . . . The Daily Tar Heel can do a lot of good in clarifying this situation editorially, if it will.

As an old Tar Heel bred of many years standing now we look to the Spaulding proposal as a practical issue which can be effected now . . . (Never anywhere has such a similar plan failed when practiced.) . . The main ground of opposition to this measure has been that the people of the state will not accept it . . . Those students who are skeptical of the plan from only this standpoint have won the first battle with their consciences and are moving forward . . .

. . . Imagine for a moment that the "Spaulding Proposal" was to go into effect next week at UNC . . . What reaction would come about? . . . A very few qualified Negroes would register and be accepted for admission as day students, maybe in Law, Medicine, etc. . . A lot of studes would receive hysterical letters from parents threatening their withdrawal from school . . . The newspapers might try to play it up sensationally, but there would not be much to "Hearst" around . . . Classes would begin; nothing further would develop; the situation would quietly resolve; and a few would be disappointed that the whole thing had gone off so smoothly. . . . That's not daymaring . . . But it is probably as it will happen . . .

In closing . . . We advocate no radical measures concerning progressive equality . . . That is not the way to make positive constructive progress without harming a cause more than helping it ultimately . . . But the racial equality already attained in any degree has never come about completely through evolution . . . There were a few "radicals" in the '60's who didn't believe in slavery either . . . And if further racial progress is to be made in the South, North Carolina is the logical place we should look for it . . . God granting us open minds with which to reason.

Poop For The Group

It's Murder, He Says

By Raney Stanford

Ever so often the management of the local cinemas collects all the ten-gallon hats out of the aisles and shoos the pintos out from under the marquees and brings in a motion picture that will provide the harried student with two hours of entertainment. In this category is the British whodunit now playing at the Village, "Green For Danger".

The film involves the familiar doctor-nurse struggles to find the murderer run amok in the hospital corridors, but is distinguished by virtue of having Alistair Sim for its crime detector. As a Scotland Yard man, Mr. Sim is a rare bird. For those of us who are getting a little tired of Raymond Chandler's Phillip Marlowe solving murders rakishly with a cigarette affixed to one corner of the mouth and a blonde to the other, Mr. Sim is a more than welcome change. Playing with the characteristic British understatement, he presents one of the most amusing defective detectives that has come this way in some time, even though the officials at the Yard may frown on his ability a little bit.

The rest of the cast, Sally Gray, Gladys John, Trevor Howard, et al, perform capably as the staff of the hospital. The situations are set up skillfully, and the final denouement, which Mr. Sim arranges with the air of Philo Vance, is as much of a surprise to the audience as it is to the Scotland Yard inspector himself.

Bound To Be Read

'Fire' Follows 'Storm'

By United Press

George R. Stewart has taken a special form of literature and made it his own. He writes about the great forces that nature occasionally looses against man.

His Storm was a fascinating account of what happens when one of more than ordinary force sweeps across the land. His latest book is Fire (Random House, $3).

The villain of this book is a spark that starts a forest fire in the west. Bit by bit Stewart builds the drama by telling how human beings muster all their resources. They win in the end, of course, but what happens to them in the meantime is in this book. A Book-of-the-Month Club selection.

A Surrealist painter, Kurt Seligmann, writing from vast knowledge and research, has presented in The Mirror of Magic (Pantheon, $6) a history of the occult and the practice of magic in the western world. This volume of over 800 pages contains 250 illustrations, many of them reproductions of art now in the Metropolitan and other museums.

Mr. Seligmann's principal chapters deal with alchemy, witchcraft and demonology but he also has sections dealing with magic in the ancient countries, gnosticism cabala and the magical arts. As the story of magic unfolds itself in these pages one sees it as the effort of man to solve the riddle of the universe, to understand the whys and wherefores of life and lift himself to a higher plane.

Quench the Moon by Walter Macken (Viking, $3) is a classic account of a modern Irishman gifted with vision and strength but cursed by a violence as old as his native Connemara.

Stephen O'Riordan was born to the harshly beautiful mountains, lakes and seas of Connemara and was heir to the fierce passions of its people.

His life was molded by Martha O'Riordan, his Dublin-born mother who instilled in him her own love of beauty; by Martin O'Riordan, the brooding father he hated and pitied; by Michlin Fagan, his poaching companion; most of all by Kathleen Finnerty, whom he loved.

Touched with the beauty and grace of Irish speech, the story of Stephen O'Riordan moves with a terrible certainty to a climax that should grip your attention right down to the last word.

The world is taking sides again on the issue of totalitarianism against freedom, and Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen points the way for the western world to oppose the Communist evil with morality instead of munitions.

A Session With Sessions

'Cyrano' Is Promising

By Bill Sessions

The Carolina Playmaker production for the Forest Theater this year, "Cyrano de Bergerac", appears to be the best of a distinguished year. Foster Fitz-Simmons, the energetic director, has set a heavy, speedy schedule for his cast. Fitz-Simmons, incidentally, has sold his first novel, scheduled for publication in June, to Warner Brothers, and plans have already begun on its movie production.

Two veteran actors, both here on the campus and in the professional theater have the leads. Fred Johnson, playing the title role, has appeared in New England summer stock and recently in Paul Green's "Lost Colony." Gloria Gunn, portraying Roxane, has acted in numerous campus productions and has worked with theater groups on the West Coast. Both are graduate students in the Dramatic Art department.

Marty Jacobs and Edsel Hughes are two more of the veteran cast. Jacobs, director of the current campus musical, "Sweep It Clean," was last seen on Broadway in "Louisiana Purchase." Hughes played in the Pulitizer Prize comedy, "Life With Father" for more than a year.

Probably the most striking feature of the production will be Lynn Gault's sets. Gault has designed six original settings for the Rostand drama. These will be set for the first time in the history of the Forest Theater, on three revolving stages.

The total cast includes forty campus actors, and the dates for production are May 21, 22, and 23.

Carolina Quarterly

Another call for applications for the editorship and business manager of the Quarterly has been issued. Despite the fact that considerable interest was shown in the magazine's formation, comparatively few applications have been handed in. The need of a business manager is particularly urgent. The final deadline is Thursday afternoon, and all applications should be turned in at the main desk of Graham Memorial.

The Carolina Quarterly has a definite service on this campus where the literary talents of men like Thomas Wolfe, Paul Green, and Josephus Daniels were fostered. In view of the fact that there will be no literary publication next year, the quarterly can serve not only as an outlet for student writers, but also as a magazine that a majority of the campus will take interest and pride in.

"The Little Things"

"The Little Things," a comedy by Kermit Hunter, will be presented in the Playmaker experimentals this week. Students of Dr. George Coffin Taylor's Shakespear classes will find an interesting resemblance between the main character of the play and Carolina's renowned Shakespearian scholar. While the resemblance is by no means direct, the presentation on stage of one of the school's best loved professors should prove interesting.

The Altschuls

In yesterday's DTH, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Altschul expressed their gratitude to the students they knew here on campus. The reverse would be better. Those who came in contact with the couple in "Danzigers" or otherwise never failed to be impressed by their cordial and kindly attitude. Their personal struggle in leaving Europe before the war and then establishing themselves here in the U. S. testifies to their abundance of courage and warm spirit.

This 'n That

A Look At The Record

By Bill Buchan

The recent discussion in North Carolina, and especially on this campus of Negro education has caused a group of interested individuals to publish a mimeographed comparison between the North Carolina College Law School in Durham and the law school here at the University.

The figures aren't to our credit.

According to the published sheet, the library of the law school in Durham has 30,000 volumes, of which only 12,000 are usuable due to lack of space. The others are stored in a classroom, a garage and in the basement of the library. Here at Carolina, we have 52,000 volumes, all of which are generally usable. Nice, huh?

Law students in Durham have the use of one room for a library which can accomodate seven students, but which has no private study desks. Here, our future shysters have four well-lighted reading rooms, two of which accomodate 40 students each. Our library has a librarian and five part-time assistants. The Negro students have one librarian. Is it any wonder that they are envious of the set-up in Chapel Hill?

Law students have only general school facilities in Durham with no separate building for the law school. Only the Dean has a separate office. Here, we have permanent and temporary buildings for classes and study and offices for faculty members.

In the United States, there is one Negro lawyer to every 24,997 of Negro population. The whites have one lawyer to 702 of white population. The same thing applies in the medical profession, where there is one Negro doctor to every 44,409 of Negro population and one white doctor to every 843 of white population.

The figures used were gathered by a special committee on education affiliated with the Inter-Collegiate Council for Religion in Life, Chapel Hill. They used the following as source materials: "A Brief Study of The Tar Supported Law School Facilities of the State of North Carolina," issued by Phi Delta Phi Law Society, April, 1947, and Journal of Negro Education, and Census Reports.

The movement in progress at the present time is to allow QUALIFIED Negro graduate students to our schools as DAY students. There are a great many people who are in favor of this idea, both as an experiment for future planning and because the figures, as shown above, present a conclusive case in favor of our Negro population.

As one confirmed Southerner told me Tuesday afternoon after reading these figures, "It will be hard for many [illegible] people to admit, but I believe that this segregation problem can be worked out, gradually starting with the graduate school and slowly moving down." There are those who want an immediate lowering of the race boundaries in the South. I am opposed to such a move, both because I think white public opinion is against it at the present time and because I do not believe the Negroes as a whole want a revolutionary move at the present time.

However, I do feel that we are ready to take the first step towards bi-racial graduate schools. The regional schools suggested by the various Southern governors, would be a fine thing, except that they will take plenty of money and the Negroes will not be satisfied with them, even if they are receiving education on an equal par with any other school in the South.

The comparison between the two law schools is evidence enough that the Negro students who have a desire to do so can complain and make application to enter our schools. It is to be hoped that the Trustees when they consider any applications in the future will have figures similar to these in front of them. If they do, they cannot deny the pressing need for improvement.

Views On the News

150 Students - One Legislator

By Sam Whitehall

One interesting point about the dying redistricting bill is the statement in the Daily Tar Heel yesterday morning that "it was argued by the opposition that Carrboro, having only approximately 250 students residing there, should not be a separate voting district." Isn't there a sentence in the student Constitution somewhere that says every 150 students rate one representative in the Legislature?

* * *

Tonight, the newly elected legislators get their first real chance to go into action in the Di Senate hall. It will be interesting to watch them, and their results. With the overwhelming UP majority, some of the monotonous arguing back and forth between the two sides might be eliminated. Not that there is anything particularly wrong with it, but sometimes it is a waste of time.

* * *

The next time North Carolina has a gubernatorial race, why not conduct a primary at Carolina on the candidates. All students, regardless of age, should be allowed to vote because from observation all seem to be interested or at least have made up their minds how they would vote, if they could. Thus far, Johnson and Albright are the only two openly supported on campus, with Foo Giduz boosting Albright and Miles Smith and Bill Buchan working for Johnson. Scott is unsupported, though Barker has appointed several "veteran advisors" here. Stanley, the dreamer, seems to be alone, also.

* * *

Though Spring elections (1949, that is,) are far, far away, rumors are already creeping up about potential presidential candidates. Among those mentioned thus far are Joe Leary and Ed Davenport from the UP and Dortch Warriner, Lindsay Tate and Bob Hennessee from the SP. Then, there was the character in the University several nights ago who was promising to support any presidential candidate who would make him the vice-presidential running mate. (And I thought political races were forgotten from May to October.)

* * *

The editorial staff of the DTH has lost two editorial writers and columnists in the past week with the exodus from the Villiage of Bob Sain and Sandy Grady. Anyone who is interested in editorial work, who can put in two days a week in the office and who will write a column is invited to come up for an interview. The line forms to the right.

* * *

The "new" Tarnation staff seems busier than ever these days, taking pictures and hovering over layouts. Looks as though the next issue will be something to remember. (And maybe, just a little improvement over the last one? I still maintain that the best joke in that issue was the one reprinted from the Carolina Mag about the three little pigs.—I'm Bubbles—remember?)

* * *

And incidentally, these bums who break into the lines at Lenoir should be taken out and starved. It takes long enough to wait your turn legal-like, without half the campus breaking in between you and the serving section. There is one guy, in my twelve o'clock class, who has his tray and is served before I even move ten feet in the line EVERY day. How does he work it? Simple, his buddies merely "hold" a place for him until he gets there, regardless how near they are to the serving section.

* * *

The Chapel Hill police would do a good deed if they patrolled Franklin Street around midnight in search of partying dudes "racing" from one end to another. It just ain't safe for a guy to stagger across from the Marathon to the other side.

Fires Frequent In U. S.

Every 38 seconds fire breaks out in the United States. Every two minutes an American dwelling catches fire. Every 50 minutes a person dies in a fire or from burns.

WHAT'S UP in Graham Memorial

It's amazing what you can find in GM's information office. In addition to knowledge on all sorts of subjects (of campus interest, that is — nothing academic), there's a lost and found service which may be able to help you find what you've lost.

Right now they've got a varied assortment of articles that someone's lost: glasses (eye not highball), scarves, gloves (only one of a kind), earrings (ditto), keys, lipsticks, and notebooks.

The men of the staff are most interested in a loaded cartridge — they're wondering who was planning to bump who off — while the women are quite envious of the unknown owner of a beautiful antique pin of gold and jewels.

Tonight at 7 o'clock in the Main lounge there will be a Team of Four bridge tournament. They tell us it's not necessary to have a full team; just come with your partner and a team will be made up.

Schubert's Symphony No. 2 and Kostelanetz's album of music of Sigmund Romberg will be heard on tonight's recorded dinner music hour.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

ACROSS

1—Triumphed
4—Lean burn
9—Clumsy
12—Poem
13—Lioness
14—Pair
15—Roman official
17—Lighter brown
19—Biological factor
21—Part of "to be"
22—Min rva
24—To stop, legally
27—To ward
28—Peppers
31—7 Seas
32—Worthless scrap
34—French river
36—Inlet
37—German money
39—Haits
41—Forward!
42—Turned aside
44—To place opposite
46—Got wages
48—To hold
49—Male chicken
52—Fumes
55—Conjunction
56—Indian of Bahamas
58—To tear
59—Affirmative
60—Ear shell
61—Some

DOWN

1—Trouble
2—Unusual
3—Horse cry
4—Reddish-brown earths
5—Within
6—Clear profit
7—To seize
8—Kit (var.)
9—Rationer
10—Great wonder
11—Beetle
16—Vegetable
18—Cozy retreat
20—Edges of roofs
22—Mighty particles
23—Jewish law
25—Mixtures
26—Flat surface
29—Island
30—To steal furtively
33—Three-legged stands
35—Ruler of empire
38—Large parrots
40—German battleship
43—Also
45—Musical drama
47—Precious
49—Beam
50—Unit
51—Border
53—Family
54—Secret agent
57—Compass point

PRESCRIPTIONS
Filled Promptly
ACCURACY AND DEPENDABILITY
—at—
SUTTON'S DRUG STORE

Mother's First Choice for
MOTHER'S DAY
Martha Manning Dresses
IN "ILLUSION" HALF SIZES

Martha Manning Dresses
IN "ILLUSION" HALF SIZES

SCALLOPS lend a column-slimness

Guaranteed by Good Housekeeping

As seen in Ladies' Home Journal

Martha Manning doubles the charm of embroidered scallops on this classic dress, to define its slim fly-front and deep pockets. Purity of design... surety of line in half-size proportioned fit. Flower Blue, Petal Pink, Blossom Aqua *Sanforized cotton. Sizes 14½-20½.

Here for you at a tiny price $9.95

*Not more than 1% residual shrinkage

BERMAN'S
Chapel Hill's Family Store

Baseballers On Road; Meet Virginia Today

(Special to the Daily Tar Heel)

Charlottesville, Va., May 5 — The North Carolina baseball team didn't get a very pleasant going-away present from their neighbors, the Duke Blue Devils, but the Tar Heels will attempt to right themselves against the Virginia baseballers here tomorrow afternoon in the first game of their annual northern jaunt.

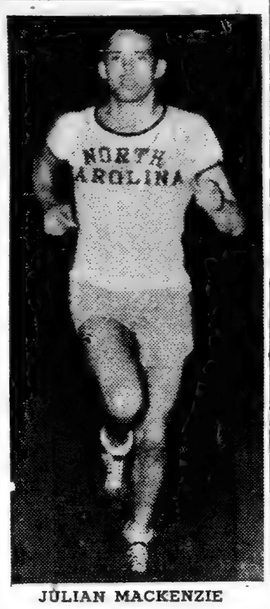
The Tar Heels went into the ninth inning of their game with Duke Tuesday leading by three runs, 4-1. However, starter Dean Cassell put two men on base and Vinnie DiLorenzo was called on to put out the fire. DiLorenzo was slightly less then effective and before he could get the side out, five runs had scored.

A triple play in the last half of the ninth nipped a Carolina rally before any damage was done and the Tar Heels lost their third game of the campaign.

Second Meeting

This will be the second meeting between Carolina and Virginia. The Hearnmen opened the season against the Cavaliers in a game played at Lynchburg. It was origmally slated to be played in Emerson stadium, but the field wasn't in good shape at that time.

The Tar Heels began the current campaign on the right foot behind DiLorenzo, who hurled a two-hitter for a 3-1 victory.



The slim southpaw fanned 10 and didn't issue any free passes while going the route. Jim Hayworth led the Tar Heel assault with two safeties in four trips to the plate.

Neil Wade opened the game for the Cavaliers and was relieved by Jack Leacham, who pitched the final four frames. Wade gave up the only walk of the contest in his five inning stint.

Ray Blair will probably do the mound chores for the visitors. Blair will be pointing for his third win of the year. The Winston-Salem righthander has yet to taste defeat.

The lineup for Carolina will be the same, except for the few positions which vary with the opposing pitcher.

After tomorrow's contest, the Tar Heels move on to College Park, Md., where they will meet Maryland and Georgetown on Friday and Saturday, respectively.

JULIAN MACKENZIE
. . . middle distance star.

Trackmen Prepare For Navy Invasion

Carolina's track team stepped up preparations yesterday for its meet with Navy here Saturday as Coach Dale Ranson sent his charges through a full afternoon's workouts.

The meet will be the Tar Heels' first in two weeks but the local tracksters have been by no means an idle crew during the lapse in competition. Ranson held a large intrasquad meet last week and the performances at that time pointed to large improvements among the Blue and White track and field lads.

The local entry has a two and one record for the season thus far, holding wins over Virginia and State while dropping a rather close meet to Georgia Tech. In Navy Saturday, the Tar Heels will be seeking to make it three in a row, but their work will be cut out for them since the Annapolis team will be sporting its usual array of talent.

Coach Ranson will have his own array of talent in a group of runners that have shown continual improvement since the beginning of the season.

Among those who has blossom-

(See TRACK, page 4)

ANNOUNCING!
The OPENING of
The Pines Drive In
COME OUT
Serving "Carolina" Better

Netters Gain Easy 8-1 Win Over Navy

Tar Babies Engage Duke Jayvee Outfit Here This Afternoon

By Larry Fox

Southpaw Bill McGinn may get another chance at the Duke jayvee baseball team this afternoon when the Blue Imps invade Emerson field to play the Tar Babies at 4 o'clock.

McGinn started against the same Blue Imps Tuesday afternoon, but was relieved in the first inning by Ralph Brake, who got credit for the 9-7 victory. McGinn had trouble with his control, walking five men for three runs and presenting Duke with another tally via the balk route before being lifted in favor of Brake.

Gaston if Not McGinn

If McGinn doesn't open, it will be Ed Gaston on the hill for Carolina. Gaston's last assignment was against the State college jayvees. He hurled five shutout innings and after tiring and giving up two runs in each of the next innings he was relieved by the selfsame Mr. McGinn.

Big Bill Walsh and Charley Garganus took the slugging honors in Tuesday's free-for-all with two safeties in three attempts. Stan Goodman and Ed Lamb each contributed two safeties to Carolina's 12-hit attack.

Five Straight

The Carolina juniors now have a 7-2 record for the campaign with the last five victories coming consecutively. In Little Three play the locals have a 4-1 slate with the only blemish being a defeat by Duke. This will be the fourth time the two outfits have met and they still have two more contests to tap.

The Tar Babies will play away from home in their next two games. They face the Greensboro Whirlies in Greensboro Friday afternoon, and Monday they climb into a bus and motor to Maxton to battle the Presbyterian Junior college nine.

Today's probable lineups:

Carolina	Duke
Allen, cf	Baroff, cf
Ward, lf	Grace, 2b
Senter, 3b	Murray, lf
Goodman, 2b	Woodworth, lf
Lamb, 1b	Powers, 3b
Garganus, rf	Crimmans, rf
Walsh, c	Clower, c
Brookshire, ss	Govan, ss
McGinn or Gaston, p	Faley, p

Six o'clock this evening is the deadline for all intramural organizations to file entries in water polo competition. Assistant Director P. A. Lee warned yesterday.

In Six Sports . . .

Big Four Mural Play Set For Duke Today

By Bill Gallagher

Duke, Carolina, State and Wake Forest, who do most of their battling in varsity athletic competition, turn to the intramural sports field today in the first annual Big Four Intramural Play Day, which opens at Duke university this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Competition will be waged in six sports — softball, volleyball, table tennis, badminton, handball, and horseshoes.

All men who will take part in the big show are asked to be dressed and ready to leave Woollen gym at 12:45 to make the trip by bus.

Carolina Lettermen

Many familiar starts of other sports will be on hand to take part in copping the honors for their schools. Len Szafaryn, erstwhile gridder; Taylor Thorne, pepper-pot cager; Jesse Greenbaum, co-captain of the Blue Dolphins; Lem Gibbons, the former wrestler; and cinder stars Bob Seligman and Don Nelson will pace the Carolina contingent in their quest for top honors.

Coach Dick Jamerson has collected a squad of 18 red-hot diamond heroes to take part in the softball competition. His probable starting outfit will be as follows: Woody Wood 2b, Taylor Thorne lf, Jesse Greenbaum cf, Bernie McKiernan ss, Bob Hines 3b, Lem Gibbons c, John Tsantes 1b, Jim Regan or Charlie Smith on the hill.

This potential power packed combine will be backed up by other stars including Spiegal, Haigler, Godwin, Jenkins, Rodman, Austin. Sobel and Ludwig.

Phi Gam Team

Bill Tate will lead the undefeated Phi Gamma Delta volleyball squad in the fight. On the team are Tom Stratford, Brad Tillery, Julius Smith, Al Phelps, Bob Hines, and Ted Schultz.

The five survivors of an elimination tournament held Monday afternoon to decide on the five Carolina table tennis players was indeed quite a battle. Men who survived the fight are Andy Lavin, Bill Murphy, Pete Hexner, Archie Goodwin and Bob Grubs.

Len Szafaryn, Jim Jordan, Bernardino Chiaverini, Tom Bethune, Lawrence Rankin and Bill Segars will hurl the horseshoes for the Tar Heel mural men.

Badminton Group

On the badminton court an eight-man group will try to capture first place for the Blue and White. The team, which is headed by John Noe, includes Gordon Sauls, William Aldridge, Bob Holmes, Wilbur Carr, Joe Stroup, Boyd Moring and Sid McAden.

The one-wall handball entry is made up of Don Nelson, Sam Hooker, Joe Zarhas and Marion Parker.

In the Majors

By United Press

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Cincinnati 5, New York 2.
WP—Peterson; LP—Jones.
Pittsburgh 3, Boston 2.
WP—Higbe; LP—Sain.
Philadelphia 13, Chicago 9.
WP—Nahem; LP—Wade.
Brooklyn-St. Louis, rained out.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Boston 4, Detroit 3. (11 inn.).
WP—Kinder; LP—Trout.
Washington 7, Chicago 0 (night)
WP—Masterson, LP—Moulder.
St. Louis-New York, Cleveland-Philadelphia, rained out.

HOME RUNS

McCarthy, Thompson (Giants); Hatton (Reds); Seminick (Phillies); Stephens (Red Sox).

Mural Results

SOFTBALL

12	KA 1	Sig Nu 2	5
23	Phi Kap 2	KA 2	21
7	Battlers	Mangum 1	4
6	Zeta 2	Delt Sig	1
22	Steele	Whitehead	9
13	Phi Delt 3	Zeta 1	11
17	Pi Lamb 1	Phi Delt 2	7
8	Sig Nu 1	AEPi	3
14	Alexander 2	Old East	4
12	Lamb Chi 1	Chi Phi 1	1
16	Med School	Law School	6
11	Emerson	Graham 2	8
24	Phi Kap	Lamb Chi 2	0
19	Sig Chi 2	Phi Gam 1	4
18	Misfits	Oakwood Drive	2
29	Aycock	Wesley Rockets	9
13	Sig Chi 1	Kap Psi	7

HORSESHOES

3	Sig Chi 2	Chi Phi 2	0
3	Sig Nu 3	Zeta 3	0
3	SAE	ATO 3	0
3	Zeta 2	Sig Nu 2	0
2	Phi Kap 3	Sig Ep	1

Phi Gam 1 forfeit over Pi Lamb 3.
Phi Kap 4 forfeit over DKE 1.
ATO 2 forfeit over Phi Delt 2.

TENNIS

3	Aycock 2	Whitehead 1	1
3	Sig Chi 1	Phi Kap 3	1
5	Lewis 2	Alexander	0
3	Lewis 1	Stacy	2

Tennis Team Moves On to Philadelphia To Encounter Penn

Annapolis, Md., May 5—Carolina's touring netters made their record 18 wins in 19 games today by turning in an 8-1 triumph over Navy.

A cold, dreary day, accompanied by light showers, failed to hamper the Southerners as they marked up their second win in three outings on their current Northern swing. The Tar Heels move on to Philadelphia on Thursday to engage the University of Pennsylvania. That match will see the Carolinians out for their sixth triumph against Ivy league teams. Already Coach John Kenfield's outfit has defeated Yale three times and Harvard and Cornell once each.

In defeating Navy today, the Tar Heels swept the three doubles engagements while losing but one of the six singles matches. Stan Gruner, performing in the number two spot, dropped a close 4-6, 6-1, 7-5 decision to Navy's Fishman in the lone loss.

Taylor Back in Form

Clark Taylor, Carolina number one man since Captain Vic Seixas has been sidelined with glandular fever, came through with his first victory of the Northern swing, easily disposing of Voigt, 6-3, 6-1. Taylor previously had been defeated in the matches against William and Mary and Army. He and Duke Wilder also teamed up in doubles to defeat Voigt and Fishman in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3.

Other matches saw Don Skakle, number four man, extend his phenominal winning streak with a 6-2, 6-2 triumph over the Middies' Allen. This victory was the 17th of the season without loss for Don, and he now has 37 wins and no defeats over a three year span.

In addition to the singles wins by Taylor and Skakle, Charlie Rice outlasted Barnes in the first set, 8-6, and then took the final set by 6-3 for a Tar Heel decision in the number three match of the afternoon. Heath Alexander, after losing his first set, rallied to defeat Tift in the fifth match, while teammate Wilder was edging out Wills, 9-7, 6-2.

Doubles wins by Alexander and Skakle and Rice and Gruner completed the Carolina scoring for the afternoon.

Singles: Taylor (C) over Voigt, 6-3, 6-1; Fishman (N) over Gruner, 4-6, 6-1, 7-5; Rice (C) over Barnes, 8-6, 6-3; Skakle (C) over Allen, 6-2, 6-2; Alexander (C) over Tift, 4-6, 6-1, 6-1; Wilder (C) over Wills, 9-7, 6-2.

Doubles: Taylor-Wilder over Vogt-Fishman, 6-4, 6-3; Alexander-Skakle over Allen-Barnes, 6-4, 6-1; Rice-Gruner over Wills-Walsh, 6-2, 6-1.

Semi Finals Set for Today In Coed Softball, Badminton

Softball, badminton and archery occupy the mid-week spotlight in the coed sports picture, with the semi-finals of two of the activities set for today.

In the softball play, four undefeated teams will battle in the round-of-four bracket at 4 o'clock this afternoon in Kenan stadium. Kenan plays Town on one diamond and Chi Omega goes against Pi Phi on the other.

Winners of the two games will play for the coed championship on May 20, and the titleholders will receive their awards that same evening at the WAA banquet. There is no truth in the rumor that the coed champs will challenge the winners of the men's mural softball program.

Semi-final action in badminton today will find Bunny Davis opposing Pat Winslow to see who reaches the finals against Doris Beasley. Miss Beasley defeated Scotty Dellinger earlier this week to gain her finals berth.

Archery news is limited to the announcement that all girls interested in signing up for the archery tournament must do so no later than Saturday. The archery competition will take place May 17 and 18.

CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE 6B

WE ARE NOW OFFERING SEVERAL more new Cape Cod bungalows just completed. Located in new development just off Raleigh Road on Rogers Drive. Priced right with attractive term arrangements. Preference given to veterans. For full particulars contact Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. Telephone F-2906. (ch 1x2)

NEW BRICK HOME VERY CLOSE IN. Immediate possession. Write or call University Cleaners for appointment. Phone 4921. (ch 1x1)

31 OAKWOOD DRIVE—ATTRACTIVE two bedroom house. Excellent location—Priced right for quick sale. Call F-3216 or come to 31 Oakwood. (1-298-1)

ENGLISH SPRINGER SPANIEL PUPpy. A.K.C. Registration. Sire: Mac Chesapeake. Five champions in four generations. $45.00. Jack Gale, call 9032. (1-374-1)

ONE ELECTRIC COKE DISPENSER in good condition. May be seen at Phi Kappa Sigma House anytime. (1-363-1)

18 FOOT PATHFINDER HOUSE trailer. Excellent condition. Priced for immediate sale. See after 5 p.m. 61a Pittsboro Road Trailer Court. (1-360-1)

OUTBOARD MOTOR—4½ H.P. ELTO, two cylinder—$60.00. Phone George Trotter, 3031. (1-361-1)

24 FOOT ALMA HOUSE TRAILER IN excellent condition. Electric brakes Sleeps four. Priced for quick sale ($1295.00) John L. Harris, B-V-P Trailer Lot No. 250. (1-366-1)

MAN'S BALLOON TIRED BICYCLE. Good Condition—$25.00. Call F-2162. (1-364-1)

BRAND-NEW, HAND MADE, IMported silk slips sizes 36 & 40; nightgowns sizes 38 & 40. Only one each size. Ideal Mothers' Day gifts. Call F-2912. (1-367-1)

REMINGTON STANDARD MODEL typewriter in excellent condition. Priced for quick sale. See R. Foo Giduz, Graham Memorial, afternoons. (1-2000-1)

MAGNAVOX RADIO-PHONOGRAPH, "Belvedere" model, $390. Drexel dropleaf table, pads, $60. Double steel cabinet, $10. Sunkist electric juicer, $15. J. R. Nelson, Box 676. Phone 6287. (1-c372-1)

74 HARLEY DAVIDSON MOTORcycle. Good tires and engine. New Paint job last fall. See at Strowd Motor Co. (1-373-1)

UNDERWOOD NOISELESS TYPEwriter: recently overhauled; alete type. See at 172 Bagley Drive, Victory Village, evenings. (1-354-1)

THOROUGHBRED COCKER SPANIEL pups. Eight weeks old. Call 8851 after six or come to corner Elm and Popular in Carrboro.

FOR SALE AUTOMOTIVE 6BB

1942 BUICK SEDANETTE. EXCELLent condition, new white sidewall tires, radio, heater. See Joe Clawson, Phi Kappa Sigma House. (1-294-1)

1942 BUICK SUPER SEDAN. EXCELLent condition, five good tires, fully equipped. Priced for quick sale. After 1:00 p. m. University Trailer Court, 65, W. H. Hicks. (1-356-1)

CONVERTIBLE CHEVROLET—$295 bargain. 1934 model in good condition. Cruises 55 m.p.h. with ease. See Walt Arnold, 218 Stacy or Sigma Chi House. (1-370-1)

HELP WANTED 8

STUDENT HELP WANTED FOR night work—three nights a week. Apply at Mar's Mickey Finn. Dam: Duchess of Rosemary St. (Ch 1x1)

LOST 12

RHINESTONE CLIP, GOLD WITH Rhine and blue stones. Between A.T.O. house and McIver Friday night. Reward. Heath Hartsell. (1-371-1)

RIDERS WANTED 18A

COMMUTERS FROM DURHAM, LEAVE vicinity Lakewood School, West Chapel Hill Street 8:30 a.m. Return time to be arranged. 15c each way. Phone Dick Rancourt, Durham R-5442. (1-369-1)

SERVICES OFFERED 19

COMPLETE MODERN RADIO APpliance service shop now open and ready to serve you. We call for, deliver. Johnson-Strowd-Ward Furniture, 422 W. Franklin. Telephone F-3491. (ch 1x1)

WANTED TO RENT 24B

URGENTLY NEED APARTMENT FOR married couple, no children, temporary or permanent residence. References furnished. Phone Mrs. Jack Burke, 7781 before 4:30 p.m.; 131 Mason Farm Rd. after 4:30. (1-362-1)

WANTED 24

ONE LARGE USED TRUNK—THE bigger the better. Also want a large bookshelf. Call L. W. Miles after 8 p.m. at 9291 if you have one. (1-375-1)

POPULAR ADPI

RITA ADAMS
smokes
CHESTERFIELDS
She says:
Since my first pack of Chesterfields I've never wanted to buy any other brand.
Chesterfield—year after year—first choice of college men and women.

University Florist
"For the Best in Flowers"
Pick Theatre Bldg.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Telephone 6816

American Sexual Behavior and the Kinsey Report by M. L. Ernst & David Loth
Toward World Peace by Henry A. Wallace
Ab's Intimate Bookshop

Dr. William Kohn
OPTOMETRIST
Phone 3686
Over Carolina Coffee Shop
Monday-Friday 9:00-5:00
Saturday 9:00-1:00

SUMMER SLACKS
COOL AND CREASE WORTHY
6.75 to 10.50
Full Range of Sizes and Colors
—at—
JACK LIPMAN'S

CPU Adds Three To Membership

Three new members were accepted into the Carolina Political union last Sunday: Bill Jernigan, senior from Louisburg, Bob Giles, sophomore from Chapel Hill, and Murray Goldenthal, sophomore from New York City.

Herbert Alexander, presiding over his first meeting since his recent election to the chairmanship, made the following committee appointments: Membership, Pete Gerns, chairman, Bill Robertson, Dick Simpson; Reception, Mary Sledge, chairman, Ken Cruse; Program: Jake Wicker, chairman, Jim Southerland.

UP LEGISLATORS

There will be no University party caucus today, according to Thurman Williams, chairman of the University party.

Ballew Services

Funeral services have been scheduled for 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Nebo Methodist church in Nebo for William Ballew, University student who was killed Sunday when his Marine fighter plane crashed and burned at an air show in Burlington.

Ballew was leader of a squadron of four planes at the show, which was sponsored by the Burlington Chamber of Commerce.

SDA MEETING

Students for Democratic Action will meet at 7 o'clock tonight in Horace Williams lounge in Graham Memorial.

The group is meeting earlier than its usual time so its members may meet at 8 o'clock with the Chapel Hill chapter of ADA.

Fine Watches Need Excellent Care . . .

A Complete Watch Repair Service at—

BLACKWOOD ASSOCIATE STORE

Larger Loans on Anything of Value

Durham's Newest and Best Pawn Shop

MAIN LOAN OFFICE

Located: 400 W. Main St. at Five Points

Coed Training Begins Tonight

The training program for student advisers begins tonight at 7:30 in room 206, Phillips hall, according to "Teeny" Royall, chairman of student advisers. Two more meetings are scheduled for the same hour on the following Thursdays, May 13, and 20.

Letters describing the program have been sent to the 53 junior women who were recently selected as advisers. At tonight's meeting Helen Bouldin, chairman of orientation, will introduce "Teeny" and she will proceed with organization plans.

The group will elect a secretary, publicity chairman, and each dormitory group will elect a chairman. According to the agenda of the meeting a discussion of last year's orientation program will be held, and details for the coming fall orientation will be made.

Attendance at these meeting is a necessary requirement for all student advisers. Anyone who cannot attend one of the meetings is requested to contact "Teeny" Royall, 319 McIver.

WOODHOUSE TO SPEAK

Dr. E. J. Woodhouse of the University political science department will speak on the Taft-Hartley bill at the Young Republican club meeting tonight at 7:30 in Roland Parker lounge.

After the lecture, the floor will be thrown open for questions and debate. All persons interested are invited to attend.

Stassen Backers Schedule Meeting 4 o'Clock Today

The Students-for-Stassen club will hold an organizational meeting this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Roland Parker lounge 1. At this time officers for the group will be elected so that the club can begin active operation to promote the nomination and election of Harold E. Stassen to the presidency of the United States.

This group has received "the necessary information, material, and go-ahead signal from Stassen's national headquarters in Minneapolis," according to Bill Porter, club spokesman. The application form to authorize Stassen followers to act officially on the University campus will be completed this afternoon with the naming of a student president and secretary.

The Students for Stassen held one earlier meeting a few weeks ago, and all who were present for that session are urged to be on hand again today with all others who are interested in Stassen's candidacy. Porter stressed that a large turnout will be necessary for successful organization immediately.

-Track-

(continued from page 3)

ed to near the extent of his expected ability is middle-distance man Julian MacKenzie. The barrel-chested lad had had trouble finding himself after a brilliant freshman year at the University, but now seems to be headed toward a successful year on the local cinders.

After Saturday, all eyes will be focused on the Conference tourney to be held in Chapel Hill the following Friday and Saturday. With Maryland and Duke sporting some of their best runners in years and with many other schools loaded with individual stars, all indications point to one of the best meets in Conference history.

Campus Calendar

3:00 p.m. — Constitutional committee, Grail room
4:00 p.m. — Jayvee baseball game with Duke, Emerson field
4:00 p.m. — Lenoir Carolina club, Grail room
4:00 p.m. — Carolina Quarterly, Roland Parker lounge No. 3
4:00 p.m. — Students for Stassen, Roland Parker lounge No. 1
5:00 p.m. — World Federalists, Grail room
7:00 p.m. — Bridge tournament, Main lounge, Graham Memorial
7:00 p.m. — SDA, Horace Williams lounge
7:00 p.m. — Stray Greeks, Alderman dormitory
7:15 p.m. — Hillel Foundation meeting, YMCA
7:30 p.m. — "A Matter of Business," "Of Lucy Wren," and "The Little Things," Playmakers' theater
7:30 p.m. — Young Republicans club, Roland Parker No. 1
8:00 p.m. Philosophy club, Roland Parker No. 3
8:00 p.m. — Catholic Round Table, Grail room

For graduation choose Parker "51"
...the world's most wanted pen

Handsomely matched Parker "51" Pen and Pencil sets, $17.50 and up

COPR. 1948 BY THE PARKER PEN COMPANY

● Success and Parker "51" just naturally go together. Leaders in every field — the world over — prefer this pen. No wonder seniors at top universities have again and again voted "51" the pen most wanted for graduation.

The way the "51" will speak of your good taste — the way it will spark your thoughts and always show you at your best — these can mean so much in the years ahead.

So plan now to graduate to a Parker "51" — the pen that "writes dry with wet ink!" Try it at your Parker dealer's. Get acquainted with its instant starting... its swift sure glide.

Choice of colors and custom points. Two sizes: regular and the new demi-size. The Parker Pen Company, Janesville, Wis., U.S.A., and Toronto, Canada.

PARKER "51"—PERFECT FOR EVERY GIFT OCCASION:

GRADUATION • FATHER'S DAY • BIRTHDAYS • WEDDINGS • ANNIVERSARIES

RADIO REPAIRS
24 Hour Service
OGBURN Furniture Co.
Phone 5841
WEST FRANKLIN STREET

LIL ABNER By AL CAPP

Tennis Players love our service — HARRY'S

Marvel Enriched DINNER ROLLS
Package of 9 Rolls 10¢ Dated Fresh Daily

A&P

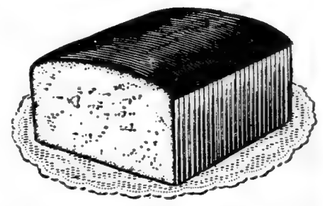
Bakery-Fresh TREATS

BUDGET-FAVORING PRICES

Jane Parker Golden Layer MOTHER'S DAY CAKE

34 OZS. PACKED IN CONTAINER 69¢

Jane Parker Sugared or Cinnamon Donuts 1-Doz. Pkg. 18c



Jane Parker ANGEL FOOD BAR Each 49c

Jane Parker Square Chocolate Cocoanut or Orange LAYER CAKE Each 29c

Home Style Sandwich or Regular Pan MARVEL BREAD 1½ Lb. Loaf 18c

REGULAR PAN ..... 16-oz. Loaf 13c

Jane Parker Plain & Marble POUND CAKE Each 27c

FRUITS & VEGETABLES

GARDEN FRESH and TENDER for YOUR TABLE

Green Topped CARROTS, 2 bunches	29c
Florida ORANGES, 8-lb. bag	33c
Large GRAPEFRUIT, 5 for	27c
Snowball CAULIFLOWER, 2 lbs.	35c
Fancy CUCUMBERS, 2 lbs.	29c
Fresh Golden Bantam Corn, 3 ears for	25c
Red Bliss POTATOES, 5 lbs.	39c
TOMATOES, lb.	25c
Large LETTUCE, 2 for	29c

SPIC and SPAN Pkg. 23c

VEL Pkg. 31c

Octagon Soap POWDER Lge. Pkg. 24c

Cashmere Bouquet SOAP 2 Bars 25c

Ajax CLEANSER Pkg. 11c

Lifebuoy SOAP Bar 10c

Lux Toilet SOAP Reg. Bar 10c 2 Bath Bars 29c

Outstanding Values AT YOUR FRIENDLY A&P

Iona Tomato Juice	3 No. 2 Cans	27c
A. & P. Fancy Apple Sauce	2 No. 2 Cans	25c
Ann Page Sparkle Chocolate or Vanilla Ice Cream Mix ..	Pkg.	5c
Ann Page Prepared Spaghetti	2 15¾-oz. Cans	23c
Pick o' Carolina Sweet Mixed Pickles	16-oz. Jar	15c
Bar Harbor Fish Roe	8-oz. Can	23c
Fine Flavor Iona Peas ...	3 No. 2 Cans	29c
A National Favorite Nectar Tea ...	¼-lb. Pkg.	29c
Sunnyfield Assorted Cereals	Pkg.	27c
Mild American Cheese	Lb.	53c
Libby's or Sultana Fruit Cocktail ...	No. 1 Can	24c
Pliofilm Prunes	1-lb. Pkg.	17c

Whitehouse Evap. MILK 3 Tall Cans 39c

Angelus or Recipe Marshmallows 10-oz. Pkg. 17c

Swift's Cleanser	Pkg.	11c
Bisquick	20-oz. Pkg.	25c
Cube Starch Staley's 2	7-oz. Pkgs.	13c
Sweetose Syrup Staley's	No. 1½ Jar	21c
Graham Crackers Sugared Honey Maid	1-lb. Pkg.	27c
Hot Roll Mix Pillsbury	Pkg.	25c
Sunnyfield Flour Self-Rising	10-lb. Bag	80c

SUPER RIGHT MEATS

SUNNYFIELD PICNICS, lb.	49c
Swift Premium FRANKS, 1-lb. pkgs.	49c
Small Average SUNNYFIELD HAMS, lb.	65c
Swift Premium, Morrell Pride or Kingan's BACON, lb.	73c
CHUCK ROAST, Bone In, lb.	59c
Boned and Rolled RIB ROAST BEEF, lb.	79c
FRESH GROUND BEEF, lb.	49c
FRYERS, Table Dressed, lb.	68c
HENS, Table Dressed, lb.	56c
Rib or Loin End PORK ROAST, lb.	49c
Cross Cut LAMB SHOULDER, lb.	49c
FAT BACK, Thick, lb.	25c
RIB SIDE, lb.	35c
Shoulder or Chuck VEAL ROAST, lb.	59c

LUNCHEON MEAT

BOLOGNA, lb.	49c
PICKLE & PIMENTO LOAF, lb.	57c
MACARONI CHEESE LOAF, lb.	57c

IN OUR FISH DEPT.

VA. ROE SHAD, lb.	35c
VA. BUCK SHAD, lb.	21c
VA. GREY TROUT, lb.	35c
VA. CROAKERS, lb.	29c
Haddock Fillets, lb.	39c
Perch Fillets, lb.	33c
T & G Whiting, lb.	23c

NO OTHER FOOD STORE OFFERS YOU MORE LOW PRICES MORE DAYS A WEEK THAN A&P

Mild and Mellow 8 O'CLOCK COFFEE 1-lb. Bag 40c • 3 Lb. Bag $1.15

A&P SUPER MARKETS Franklin Street

LIBRARY (Periodical Dept.)
University of North Carolina
Chapel Hill, N. C.
1-31-48

WEATHER
Party cloudy, moderate temperatures.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
South Carolina Poll . . .
Tchaikowsky Albums
Big Green Bucket

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., FRIDAY, MAY 7, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | 160

All Local Voters Register Tomorrow In N.C. Primary

tudents and townspeople ..ce eligible to vote in the ..h Carolina primary election ..held May 29 may register ..ow and next Saturday at ..wn hall.

In this election nominees will ..seen for the offices of United States Senator, Congressman, Governor, other state offices, ..ber of the General Assembly ..d other county offices.

Register in Person

Those who have not previously ..tered and voted in a state-..ide election must register in ..son on one of the aforementioned dates. Registration books ..ll be open from 9 o'clock in the morning until sunset.

Most students will not be able to qualify as voters in Chapel Hill since their permanent residences are elsewhere. However, many students — particularly married veterans—are eligible to register and vote here.

Any person is eligible to register and vote if: (1) He shall have reached the age of 21 by the time of the general election on November 2, 1948. (2) He shall have resided in the state one year and in his precinct four months by the time of the general election. (3) He can read and write and has not been convicted of a felony in the state courts.

Voting Places Listed

The Chapel Hill voting places are: (1) Elementary school—for those who live east of Carrboro and south of Franklin Street, north of the Chatham county line and west of Raleigh Street. (2) City hall—for those who live east of Carrboro and north of Franklin Street, plus a strip including dormitories east of Raleigh Street. (3) Lloyd Ray hardware—for those living in Carrboro.

Students Forming Douglas Groups

The drive to secure the Democratic presidential nomination for Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas received added impetus this week with the formation of "Students for Douglas," a college organization.

More than 35 chapters have been formed in two weeks of operation. Membership is estimated at 3,000 with a 700-member chapter at Harvard the largest to date.

The Douglas movement started at Chicago, where a student chapter was formed early in April. A second group at Harvard and a third in New York then joined forces and formed the college organization.

The new organization received strong support from Students for Democratic Action, the largest student political group in the country which endorsed Douglas at its national convention April 18. The majority of its members on 2200 campuses will work for Douglas' nomination.

MISS MODERN VENUS, Sarah Jane Farlow of Augusta, Georgia, was the winner of the recent Sigma Chi Derby beauty contest. A board of judges composed of Dean of Men Fred Weaver and football players Len Szafaryn and Walt Pupa picked the pretty junior, sponsored by Alpha Delta Pi sorority, after lengthy deliberations and views from all angles and curves of the entrants in the annual beauty classic. Runners-up were Claudia Lee, Marshallville, Georgia, also sponsored by ADPi, and Hilda Sharkey, Chapel Hill, a Tri-Delt.

(Photo by Roland Giduz courtesy of the News and Observer)

Veterans Warned To Report Desire For Leave Cancel

Veterans who do not desire the 15 days leave from June 7 to June 22 are requested to notify the Veterans Administration in Peabody hall immediately. This information must be sent to Veterans administration in Winston-Salem today.

This leave of absence is in the form of a 15 days extension of subsistence payments for that period and has already been granted to all veterans. Unless the above office is notified the leave will be granted, which will result in reducing the total period of eligibility by 15 days.

In this connection it is pointed out that when the veteran's period of eligibility expires before the middle of a quarter his tuition and subsistance cease as of the date of expiration.

However, should his period of eligibility expire after the middle of a quarter both tuition and subsistance are paid to the end of that quarter. The veteran should keep this in mind in deciding whether to accept or reject the proferred 15 days leave.

In cases where the veteran is entering Summer school and there is not sufficient time between the spring quarter and the summer session the 15 days leave, less the number of days between the sessions, will be added to his subsistance at the end of the summer session.

Veterans under both PL 346 and PL 16 need not report to the Veterans Adviser at the end of the Spring quarter. All veterans have been authorized subsistance payments through June 22, 1948, at which time all payments cease pending the veteran's request they be resumed.

Commencement June 7 to Hear Address by Governor Cherry

R. Gregg Cherry, governor of North Carolina, will give the principal address at the commencement exercises of the 1948 graduating class to be held at 7 o'clock Monday evening, June 7 in Kenan stadium.

Addresses will also be made by Dr. Graham, president of the Greater University, and Benson McCutcheon, president of the senior class. Chancellor R. B. House will preside over the exercises.

Approved by Seniors

Schedule of activities leading up to the final exercises were approved by the class at Tuesday night's meeting and released yesterday. The schedule, in chronological order is as follows:

Saturday, June 5: Parents and seniors luncheon and alumni class reunion banquets, 1 o'clock in the afternoon alumni reception and dance, 9 o'clock.

Sunday, June 6: Baccalaurate Sunday: Seniors gather in caps and gowns at the Old Well, 10:30 in the morning; baccalaurate sermon, Memorial hall, 11 o'clock; band concert, 5 o'clock; Mozart's "Requiem," 8:30, Hill hall, Chapel Hill Choral club and University Symphony orchestra.

Graduation Climax

Monday, June 7, graduation day: Last class meeting (caps and gowns), 10 o'clock; Gerrard hall, Faculty reception to graduates, parents and guests, 11 o'clock, Davie popular; alumni luncheon, 1 o'clock, Lenoir hall, installation of permanent officers of the class of 1948; Carolina Playmakers, 4 o'clock, Playmakers theater; academic procession for graduation forms at Morehead-Patterson bell tower, 6:30 o'clock; graduation exercises, 7 o'clock, Kenan stadium.

Fran Angas Lists New Committees For Coed Senate

Speaker Fran Angas appointed all members of committees of the Coed Senate in the Tuesday night meeting in Graham Memorial.

The following appointments were made:

Budget, Barbara Ann Covington, chairman, Jean McKeithan; Elections, Emily Baker, chairman, Alice Middleton and Emily Ogburn; Social Rules, Tandy Lacy, chairman, Kit Finney and Emily Ogburn; Ways and Means, B. A. Pope, chairman, Pat McNutt, Phyliss Bradshaw and Emily Baker; Coed Hours, Jean Roberts, Elinor Woltz, Willie Marjorie Riddick, and Jane Pointer; Subsidiary Organizations, Janie Blalock, Mary Leah Thorne, and Jean McKeithan; Constitution, Willie Marjorie Riddick and Jean Roberts; Senate Attendance, Ruth Lassiter and Sally Jackson; Quiz, Alice Middleton, Carter Taylor. Tandy Lacy, Janie Blalock and Patsy McNutt; Dance, Kit Finney, chairman, Phyliss Bradshaw, Elinor Woltz, Carter Taylor and Tandy Lacy; Publicity, Emily Baker.

The Senate will hold the next meeting at 7 o'clock Tuesday night.

Poetry Contest Rules Get Slight Revision; Judges Are Selected

Dr. Mary C. Engstrom and Dr. Lyman Cotten, professors of English here, and R. W. Madry, director of the University News bureau, have been selected to judge the 1949 Yackety Yack poetry contest, according to Yack Editor Bill Duncan.

A slight change in the contest rules has also been announced by Duncan. The poem must now include five phases of student life, the University, extra-curricular, classes, athletics and social.

According to Duncan, "Anyone wishing a fuller explanation of the idea for the poem may see me in the Yack office in Graham Memorial anytime from 3 to 5 o'clock Mondays and Thursdays."

Dialectic Senate Defeats Measure To Stop Lobbying

A bill to abolish lobbying in the national capitol was defeated by the Dialectic Senate Wednesday night. The bill defined lobbying as "the act of proposing and pushing, through any means, legislation designed to benefit a certain group or interest."

The bill was presented by Sen. Charles O. Long. Very strong opposition called such a bill 'unconstitutional" and said that it "takes away freedom of speech."

Richard Bowen offered an amendment which added that lobbying should be prohibited in the state capitols. The amendment failed.

Gran Childress called the proposed bill "a hindrance to an important function in state legislature." A substitute was proposed whereby lobbying would be permitted with certain conditions, such as in newspapers, special pamphlets, on the radio. This bill was also defeated.

Robert Nelson then proposed a substitute which would outlaw anyone trying to stop lobbying. This bill was also defeated.

Childress arose again and spoke for the original bill. He blamed his change of mind on a "change of heart." This change climaxed the evening.

The original bill was finally defeated by a large majority and the Senate adjourned.

KAPPA EPSILON

New officers for Kappa Epsilon, honorary pharmaceutical sorority were elected at a meeting Wednesday. Heading the organization will be Jean Snyder, who replaces Lynn Blanchard, as president. Virginia Callahan is vice president; Jane Bradford, secretary; and Peggy Simmons, pledge mistress.

Dance Bids to Be Given Free For Buying Two Concert Seats

By Sally Woodhull

Free bids to the Gene Krupa dance Saturday night, May 15, will be given to every student who purchases two tickets to Saturday afternoon's concert, according to Benson McCutcheon, senior class president.

Distribution of the free bids will start on Monday in the Y lobby. Students who have already purchased two concert tickets may receive their free bids by presenting the tickets at the desk in the Y lobby. Those who buy their concert tickets this week will receive dance bids at time of purchase.

Seniors Go Free

As originally planned, seniors will receive dance bids free regardless of whether or not they buy concert tickets. Any student who will have 160 hours or more by the end of spring quarter will qualify as a senior for this purpose.

Since the free dance will be paid for by the proceeds from the concert, it is necessary that all concert tickets be sold. McCutcheon has urged that seniors, in particular, support their class and make the Senior weekend a success by buying tickets to the concert.

Grand Finale

Concert and dance come as a grand finale to a series of activities included in this year's concentrated Senior week. The Krupa concert will be held in Memorial hall at 4 o'clock Saturday, and the dance which is to be semi-formal, in Woollen gym from 8 until midnight.

Other activities in Senior week include a senior-faculty softball game on Thursday, and the traditional barefoot day Friday. Cattie Holt and Meigs Golden, co-chairmen of the class social committee, have been in charge of arrangements for the activities.

Manuscripts Must Be Submitted Now For CDP Contest

Today is the final day in the spring membership contest of Chi Delta Phi, national honorary literary sorority. Manuscripts should be submitted to Sally Woodhull, 202 Alderman.

Any original work which is long enough to be indicative of the style of its author is suitable for submission. Short stories poetry, book reviews, research papers, radio scripts, and other work will be read by the committee.

Present members of the sorority will meet Monday night at 7 o'clock in Graham Memorial to begin reading manuscripts and to complete plans for the initiation banquet. According to tentative plans, the banquet will be held on Tuesday, May 18, at the Carolina Inn, with members of the Duke chapter of Chi Delta Phi as guests.

Leadership Camp Is Sending Agent For Interviews

Frank Harris, a representative from the Encampment for Citizenship located at Fieldston school near New York City, will be here today to interview students interested in attending the camp this summer from June 28 through August 7.

Those desiring conferences with Mr. Harris for this afternoon should go to the YWCA office this morning to schedule appointments. He will speak to the Presbyterian supper group at 7:30 tonight in the basement of the Presbyterian church, and everyone is invited to attend.

The encampment, which has been operating for the past two summers under sponsorship of the American Ethical union, is designed to give young people training in democratic leadership and living. About 175 young people of all races, colors and creeds go there yearly to live and study together.

Last year Mimi Massey and Al Lowenstein of the University attended the encampment and heard addresses by well-known speakers including Henry Wallace, Eleanor Roosevelt, and Rex Tugwell.

Men and women between the ages of 17 and 23 are eligible to attend the Encampment. Expenses for the six weeks are $125 and scholarships are available for those who cannot meet the financial requirement.

Last year camp groups visited various points of interest including the stock exchange, the New York Mediation board, the National Association of Manufacturers, and the National Maritime union.

Tom Jordan Elected New ATO President

Tommy Jordan, junior from Fayetteville, was elected president of the local Alpha Delta chapter of Alpha Tau Omega Wednesday night.

Jordan succeeds Bill Spurlin in the office. Vice-president of the fraternity is Bob Plumb from Washington, D. C.

Other ATO officers chosen Wednesday are: Wallace Ashley, Smithfield, scribe; Ralph W. Lee, Jr., Washington, D. C., keeper of the annals; Furman Riddle, Fayetteville, house manager; Rufus Bynum, Pottsdam, N. Y., sentinel; Pete Cochran, Newton, usher; Frank Goodrum, Greensboro, reporter for the Palm, ATO national magazine.

Student Legislature Postpones Action On Block Fee Bill

By Gordon Huffines

The Student Legislature postponed action last night on a resolution introduced by Jack Girard, chairman of the joint investigating Finance committee, to raise student fees 75 cents a quarter.

The resolution, which was sent into committee, would also give the President of the Student Body authority to consult with the University administration and Board of Trustees on the proposed increase.

The action was recommended by the Finance committee to provide for a $5,426 deficit which will result in the operation of the 1948-49 campus budget as it stands now. By raising graduate student fees from $3.85 to $4.6 a quarter and undergraduate fees to $5.75, the committee estimates that student government income for the forthcoming fiscal year will provide for errors made in drawing up the budget.

Dedmond's Statement

Appearing before the legislature, President Jess Dedmond told student representatives that, in view of constitutional limitations on raising student fees, it would be advisable to postpone any conclusive action on the postponed increase until after July 1 at which time the Audit board would have investigated general student funds.

Dedmond asserted, however, that he didn't consider the door closed on immediate action on the situation this quarter. "I am considering the advisability of an immediate increase," he stated, "but I hope that the situation will be such that a student referendum will not be necessary before next December."

Constitutional Reference

According to Article 1—Section 5 of the student constitution, "The Student Legislature shall not alter the fee structure for a given school year later than April 1 of the school year immediately preceding." The Constitution also states that total student fees for a calendar year shall not exceed $20 unless changed by a student referendum. Dedmond stated last night that he was waiting for a decision of the Student council on the $20 limit.

Girard Warns

Reporting on the budget for the forthcoming year, Girard warned legislators that the unappropriated balance of $1,420 would not permit generous contributions to campus organizations.

In a resolution read to the legislature, he urged the assembly to require financial reports from organizations expending student funds and to insist that all groups operate within their budget.

Warren Ashby Named YM Board Chairman

Warren Ashby, associate professor of philosophy, is the new chairman of the board of directors of the YMCA. Ashby graduated from Maryville college, Tennessee, and Yale Divinity school. At the present time he is writing a thesis for his Ph. D. from Yale. downfall by hitting Joe Rowell

N. J. Demeratn, associate professor of sociology, has recently been appointed a member of the Board. Other members include Charles Jones, J. C. Herrin, Rev. Charles E. Jones, Mrs. Nick Adams, Miss Nelle Morton, Fred Weaver, Pete Burks, Sam Magill, and Ed Strain.

Seminar Applicants

Applicants to attend the religious seminar in New York from June 13 to 18 should submit written statements of their qualifications to Mrs. Betsy Rose Dowden at the Y as soon as possible, according to an announcement from the Council for Religion in Life.

Music, Art, Speech, Acting Classes Will Be Offered This Summer by Roanoke Island Group

By Mark Sumner

The University Extension division, under Russell Grumman, is going all out to make summer study as easy to take as a real vacation. The extension unit has recently organized the Roanoke Island Fine Arts center which will open July 12, at Manteo, near the site of the famous "Lost Colony."

The new summer school, which will continue through August 21, will be headed by Louisa Mustin, former head of the art department of the University of Alabama and now a graduate student in the dramatic art department here.

Music courses are to be offered by Paul Young, one of the most popular members of the music department of the University, and William Meade Prince of the art department, whose illustrations have long been a familiar feature to readers of "Collier's" and "The Saturday Evening Post," will offer courses in beginning painting and design. Miss Mustin will handle the courses in appreciation of painting.

Classes in speech and acting will be taught by Elizabeth Welch of the faculty of Salem college, and Harry Coble of the dance department of the Boston conservatory will instruct classes in body training. Coble has been a member of the Ted Shawn and Charles Weidmann professional dance companies. The secretary of the new school will be Mrs. Darice Parker.

The people of Manteo have hoped to have such a center in their town for a long time, and they are opening their homes to quarter students at reasonable rates. Meals will be served in a restaurant for the students and members of the cast of "The Lost Colony" company. Further information can be obtained from the extension division.

Drummer Spends More . . . . . . Energy Than Athlete

Krupa Says Loud Swing Era Has Subsided

Gene Krupa, that ace drummer man, learned to manipulate a pair of drumsticks almost as early as he mastered the use of a knife and fork, and worried his parents because he preferred the former.

Krupa will appear here for a concert and the Senior Prom on May 15. Accompanying the drummer will be a cast of performers including singers Buddy Hughes and Dolores Hawkins, ably supported by the Jazz Trio with Charlie Kennedy on the alto sax and Teddy Napoleon at the piano.

When it comes to beating the tom-toms, Krupa is generally conceded to be the fastest man in the business, and according to health authorities, he expends as much energy in working as do athletes in pursuing strenuous sports.

Tests show that when Krupa beats out a hot swing chorus he exerts more energy than a mile runner, a fleet halfback or the fastest tap dancer. Musically speaking, drumming requires far more energy than any other instrument.

Krupa drops as much as three pounds in a day's playing, and he has to eat like a farm hand to maintain his weight of 142 pounds. He has ruined so many suits with perspiration that he has lost count.

Though the foremost exponent of the drums and cymbal, Krupa is the first to say that the era of blatant swing has subsided.

"Not that the good jazz tune is gone," says Gene, "It's still a big thing, but at least 60 per cent of the music orchestras play today should be fashioned for dancers. I believe the best thing brought out by swing was the stress put upon a good solid rhythm tune or beat. Drummers and rhythm men shouldn't bury the tune, but should play it melodiously."

Born in Chicago in 1909, Krupa attended Bowen high school and then enrolled at St, Joseph's college in Rennselaer, Indiana, to study for the priesthood. Though he tried hard, Gene could never lose the drumming itch. He finally dropped the course and signed up with Joe Kayser's band in Chicago, then toured the circuit as free lance drummer with vagabond midwestern outfits.

His big break came in 1929 when Krupa hit New York to cymbal for Red Nichols. After three years with Red, the hide-beater worked a few thousand choruses with Mal Hallet and finally landed a slot in the band of his dreams, the Benny Goodman brigade. Once there he stayed until the time was ripe to step out and organize his own group, a group which has hit big-time success with no trouble at all.

Always a hard worker, the maestro takes his job seriously, studies musical trends and public's needs, then hand-tailors selections to suit.

Critics rave over Krupa's showmanship in theaters and his glib and friendly stage manner. Offstage Gene is equally glib, never at a loss for a wisecrack or dialect story.

The master drummer is one of the best dressed band-leaders in the business, fussy to a fault about his attire. Everything from shoes to underwear is made to order and 25 pairs of suspenders dangle in his closet.

South Carolina Poll...

The University of South Carolina newspaper, The Gamecock, says that an unofficial public affairs test given at the University recently to 95 students of all levels from freshmen to graduating seniors had the following results:

Twenty-nine per cent could not name the United States Senators from South Carolina.

Forty-six per cent could not name the Congressmen from their districts.

Eighty-seven per cent could not name more than one member of the U. S. Supreme Court.

Seventy-six per cent could not name more than one member of the Cabinet.

Forty-four per cent could not name three candidates for the Republican nomination for President (Truman was named three times, Hoover once, and Wallace five).

Fifty-six percent had never head of Ben Tillman.

Eighty-four per cent could not name the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

Sixty-eight per cent could not name the Governor of a state other than South Carolina or New York.

Sixty-four per cent could name no or only one, U. S. Senator other than those from South Carolina.

This poll, we remind you, was not taken with malicious intent, but in a purely academic spirit, and its results were published in the University newspaper. It was taken among students who, since they went on to college, may be assumed to have been the "cream" of the public school system, educationally, at least.

There has been so much talk about schools and teachers lately—inadequate and unsanitary buildings; overcrowding of classes; teachers economically forced into better-paying occupations, even semi-skilled trades—that we hesitate to comment on the foregoing facts except to say that they are significant. By the fruits of our educational system shall we know it. Its plight, judging by these fruits, appears nothing short of desperate. — The Charlotte News

...Also Applies Here

Although the information in the above editorial came from the University of South Carolina the same thing might apply equally as well here at our own University. More or less the same situation exists in other colleges and is even more pronounced in the adult population of the country. Americans, living in country whose information facilities surpass those of any other nation, are deplorably ill-informed about their own government and the men who runt it.

Dr. C. B. Robson, head of the political science department, says that students here have in the past been given the annual current affairs test put out by Time magazine and other similar tests. The results, he says, compare favorably with results obtained at other schools and show that students here are considerably better informed than the average adult population.

This would tend to indicate that the educational system is not entirely to blame for the poorly-informed condition of American citizens. The blame rests to a large extent upon the individuals.

Students are inclined to confine their interests to matters of college life, with the attitude that they will inform themselves about national affairs after leaving school and becoming more directly concerned with them. Poll results show that the opposite of this is true, that they will be more poorly informed after leaving school.

Knowledge of and interest in the officials and functions of government on the part of its populace are vital to a democracy. The time for all of us to acquire that information and interest is NOW.

Movie star: For $10,000 I'll endorse your cigarettes.
Adv. Manager: I'll see you inhale first. — West Point Banter

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y. Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor . . . Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associate Editors . . . Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady, Raney Stanford
News Editor . . . Herb Nachman
Society Editor . . . Weddy Thorp
Photographer . . Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. . . . . Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. C. B. Mendenhall, Chan Pegram
Subscription Mgrs. . . . Jim King
Asst. Business Mgrs. Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. . . Randall Hudson, Don Snow

NEWS STAFF: Charlie Gibson, Sally Woodhull, Jim Dickinson, Gordon Huffines, Jack Brown, Stewart McKeel, Margaret Gaston, Dan Wallace, Charlie Craven, Mark Sumner, Emily Baker, Doris Weaver, Harriet Sipple, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.

SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Larry Fox, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher, Mel Horowitz, Faith Adams, Anne Wells.

BUSINESS STAFF: James Crews, Jackie Rogers, J. C. Brown, Joe Williams, Gladys Cottrell, Bill Peebles, Neal Howard, Jr., Vin Snell, Candy Jones, Kathryn McLean, Jim Brown, Baxter Morris, Ed Warton, Leonard Dudley, Jean Williams, Charmian Griffin.

NIGHT EDITOR: Herb Nachman NIGHT SPORTS: Larry Fox

On Records

Tchaikowsky Album Tops

By Delos Smith

New York—(UP)—Outstanding for in-the-same room realism is RCA Victor's recording of Tchaikowsky's "Sleeping Beauty" ballet music (six 12-in., alb.). It is the biggest and brightest red apple so far from experiments involving a special symphony orchestra of musicians experienced in recording requirements, Leopold Stokowski, the conductor who more than any other has mastered the techniques of electrical reproduction, and a recording studio of contrived acoustical perfection.

One suspects RCA Victor was spurred into this expensive effort by the beautiful mechanical qualities of the imported English records which have found a surprisingly large market in this country. But no matter. The record buyer will hope that all domestic recordings will soon live up to the standard of the "Sleeping Beauty" discs.

The performance is rather spectacular, too. Although a pick-up orchestra (of musicians from several symphonies), it plays with fine-sounding cohesion. And Stokowski is happy with Tchaikowsky's ballet idiom, which takes well to his flamboyant recklessness.

New Record Material

The Concert Hall Society has reissued its recording of Khachaturian's violin concerto on a new record material which looks like shellac, feels like shellac, but isn't shellac. The advantage, according to the society, is that it has all of the supposedly superior reproductive virtues of plastic but is no more expensive than shellac. This reviewer has never been too sold on the virtue of plastic —the best recordings ever made were all on shellac.

But he can say the new material sounds just as good as shellac, which probably means that the Khachaturian masters are good ones. The performance is by Louis Kaufman and the Santa Monica Symphony and was reviewed at the time of its issuance on plastic. It is pleasing. The music is Khachaturian which surely, in the current avalanche of Khachaturian, is description enough.

Childhood Scenes

By following the composer's direction—forget you are a virtuoso—Maryla Jonas has done an exquisite bit of piano-playing with Schumann's "Scenes from Childhood." (Columbia; two 12-in., alb.) Almost any piano student can play them—the test of playing them well is to draw from the score the simple straight-forwardness which Schumann by an artistic miracle put into it. Miss Jonas is to be congratulated; many a virtuoso has failed.

Schubert's "The Shepherd on the Mountain" is a thing of childlike simplicity too, floating on a typically Schubertian melody. The reviewer got a big boot from the interpretation of Dorothy Maynor, soprano, another artist who knows how to relax. (RCA Victor; 12-in., single.) It has a delightful clarinet obligato, played by David Oppenheim.

WHAT'S UP in Graham Memorial

Tonight's the night to make the Rendezvous your headquarters. Cool and comfortable, the Rendezvous has lots to offer in the way of fun and entertainment.

Johnny Hough's trio will be on hand tonight to furnish music for dancing, and a finer bunch of musicians you've never seen.

Toasted sandwiches, coffee, ice cream, and other good things to eat will be on sale at the snack bar.

Music of Mozart will be featured in the main lounge tonight at 6:30, when recordings of his Sextette in F (K.522) and his Conceetante in E flat Major.

Campus Forum

Should Cases Be Public?

By Pete Gerns

Many students have in the past mentioned to this columnist the fact that decisions handed down by Men's Council were seldom re-printed in the Daily Tar Heel during the year just past. Unable to account for any reasons for such action which they believe to be detrimental to the best interests of the student body, they express the hope that the present council will see fit to publish briefs of cases they have tried without mention of names of the offender in question.

The Forum undertook to poll the following query: "Should Men's Council regularly publish its cases (without mention of names of those involved)?" It received unanimous reply for the first time since the inception of this column: "Yes!".

"One of the finest means of bringing to attention of students the actual offenses for which they may be punished. One of the basic faults with the honor system is the lack of codification of specific offenses against the code." M. Buchanan.

"It makes the students generally more aware of the Honor system and the prosecution of offenders. It would induce more due respect for the Honor councils, I'm sure." Al Winn.

"The operation of any judicial system and of the honor system in particular, depends on the cooperation of the people involved. This cooperation cannot be gained unless people are familiar with the operation and decisions of the council in specific cases." John Zucker.

"Ths is an excellent way to clearly define for the benefit of the student body the purpose, function, and authority of the Men's Council." Stephen Millikin.

"Within certain limits of course. It has been tried before and I feel it should be done again to further acquaint the campus with the workings of the council." Gus Johnston.

"Publication of facts is the only true way of keeping the student body informed of the various violations of fellow students. This in return will allow the students to be more conscious of their wrongdoings and attempt to amend their ways." Rufus Butner.

"I think the Men's Council should publish its cases (without mention of names) because it brings to the front the actions of the Council and also gives fellow students an idea of the offenses which come before the Council." Marvin Horton.

"By publishing the cases the student body would be informed as to the happenings on campus. The name of the offender should be left out to prevent unnecessary embarrassment." Joe Pete Ward.

"I think the Men's Council should publish briefs of the cases which come under its jurisdiction. The students on the campus are entitled to know exactly what is happening in regard to the violations of the Honor Code; of course, no names would be used in these briefs." Monroe Landreth.

A copy of the text of this column has been forwarded to Page Harris, chairman of the Men's Council.

The Good Word

A Big Green Bucket

By Sandy Grady

There is much talk, Old Magnificent, that this campus is going to hell in a big green bucket.

The Graham Memorial lads moan that no one is eager about Student Government any more. The so-called "arty" bunch claims that the philistines have taken over the campus, that no one understands their work. The Publications bunch rides madly off in every direction announcing that students are apathetic and irresponsible. The Democrats rant about Glenn Taylor and the Merchant's Association curses Bill Buchan and everyone would like to blame things on the veterans except that there are too many of them and so it goes.

Perhaps it is advisable that the Administration puts Rock Throwing in the curriculum. I say let's get these things under control where we can watch them, instead of letting them continue in unfettered secrecy. Everybody — the Dirty Philistines, the Commerce Majors, the Politicians, the Tarnation staff — would be required to drink beer to the stroke of midnight, then all retire to the middle of Franklin Street for an hour's session of Rock Throwing.

Let's get all this anger and irritation under government control, get it organized.

And, Old Colossal, there is much moaning at the bars about the cliques into which the student population has broken. Disintegrated is the word. I can't see that there is any fault in this. It warms the cockles of the heart to hear talk about the old Carolina, the place where everybody was brother and sister (don't think of the complications), but that is all over.

The place is a cobble-stone metropolis now. The college has balooned to such a size that it resembles a Bumstead sandwich, just a mite too big to hold on to. It obviously is right that the population be free to float into any shape that it feels like, that students form any sore of coterie which attracts them.

There is another gripe — that Carolina is converting into an educational factory, a vocational mill, and flaunting hypocricy when it goes under the banner of liberal arts. This, Old Wondrous, is the truth.

The school is stocked with honest guys who want a degree of some sort, a certain amount of book learning and a grasp of the principles of business so that they can take hold of the old man's business back home or make a few shekels on their own. President Frank Graham says repeatedly that this must be the university of the people, to serve the needs of the people.

The GI Bill and the materialistic philosophies of our nation and age have changed the concepts of education. If the cloisters and the Greek are becoming old-fashioned, a way of life is losing out, but let there be no weeping.

People have pointed to the fall of the Carolina Magazine and similar anti-artistic tendencies on this campus. They gnash their teeth and rent their hides with Budweiser caps, saying that we are watching the death of intellectualism in the university and the advent of crass commercialism. Don't worry, Old Teriffic, the pall bearers will be empty handed for quite a while.

Those who worry about the lack of communication between the writers, painters, and musicians — and the students here must remember that this is the best audience which an artist can face. It is receptive, understanding, and agreeable to experiments. I saw a play performed here which would have been laughed off the stage at most theaters; the Carolina audience gave the playwright and actors considerate applause. The reading public is the most literate here (on the average), and a publication which fails should blame the caliber of its work or another factor but not the readers.

Well this was a parting shot, Old Magnificent Excuse the great quantities of white-wash that were sloshed about. What I want to know is — can all this grandeur perish?

The Political Spotlight

Compromise On Redistricting

By Charlie Long

Wednesday's Tar Heel carried an announcement by Legislature Elections Committee Chairman that the long contested redistricting bill would have to be recommitted to committee instead of hitting the legislature floor Thursday nite. Trouble has arisen as to whether or not Carrboro should be set up as a separate district. The S. P. members of the Committee are demanding this district instead of having it in a fraternity U. P. dominated district. It is true that it would be a very small district but, the people living in Carboro have need for representation, and it is a sure bet that the boys living on Columbia street do not represent the Carrboro area.

Oddly enough the present Leary Bill on redistricting is considered by certain quarters as being a compromise bill. The important thing is that there are still people floating around this campus and in student government offices who think that representation, fair and equitable that is, is a matter for compromise. Opposition to the bill in its present form might just happen to be due to the fact that some S. P. legislators are taking to heart the old warning "beware of Greeks bearing gifts."

From the latest rumors heard, Lenoir Hall is undergoing another periodic investigation by students. It could be that investigating Lenoir is like spring fever only with less to show for the pain. The only thing to ever come out of such investigations is a weary brain and general confustion. Last year the Fact Finding Board spent three months at the job, found out that Lenoir hall was losing money and finally gave the place a clean bill of health financially. For the record however, it should be stated that the committee never gave its okay to the food served and the way it was served or the people who served it. We refer of course to cold food, watery eggs which don't taste like eggs at all, tasteless food and the insolent manner which it is sometime handed across the counter to the customers. While food prices can't be lowered at Lenoir but, there is plenty that can be done about the food tastes when it gets to the counter. Of course there are ways have the old standbys as you can't hire "good" waiters as waiters in Chapel Hill and has become a stock answer for all the ills and sins of the community.

The above answers are valid as we well know. It is time to point out the much denied fact that too, too many people are still confused in Chapel Hill over the old hen and egg proposition. Students are looked upon and told that they are a four year transient population and should be duly grateful for what is done for them. It might be advisable if the permanent residents of Chapel Hill including the merchants to sit down and find out how much of them is real goodwill is going down the drain every day. Whether they mean to or not, they are giving the Hill a bad reputation for the future insofar as income and the student body is concerned.

One Man's Angle

Tovarisch Wants Violence

By Kennedy Gammage

One of the most hideous lies perpetrated by the Communist Party of the United States is the one which declares them to be an "American" party, with no central direction or tieup with the Kremlin. Of course, their actions belie this conclusively, in many various instances. We could cite the example of the overnight reversal of editorial policy of the New Masses and other Communist organs, on the day that word of Hitler's abrogation of the Berlin-Moscow Treaty reached the United States; and of the considerable embarrassment which it caused the Communists in this country. We could cite the Theses and Statutes of the Third International, to which the Communist Party of the United States must subscribe. And there are others too numerous to mention.

But the most conclusive proof that the Communists in this country are not loyal to this country, but to Russia, is to be found in the testimony of William Z. Foster, the present Chairman of the Communist Party of the United States, before a special committee of the House of Representatives. In Report No. 2290, 71st Congress, a transcription of the following questions and answers may be found:

Q. ". . . the workers in this country look upon the Soviet Union as their country, is that right?"

A. "The more advanced workers do."

Q. "Look upon the Soviet Union as their country?"

A. "Yes."

Q. "They look upon the Soviet flag as their flag?"

A. "The workers of this country . . . have only one flag and that is the red flag. . . ."

Q. ". . . are the communists in this country opposed to our Republican form of government?"

A. "The capitalist democracy —most assuredly. . . ."

Q. "And they desire to overthrow it through revolutionary methods?"

A. "I would like to read [illegible] the program of the Communist International. . . . The capture of power by the proletariat does not mean peaceful parliamentary majority. . . . capturing. . . .by means of violence of the bourgeoisie can only be suppressed by the stern violence of the proletariat!' "

Q. "You take your orders from the Third International do you?"

A. ". . . The Communist International is a world party based upon the mass parties in the respective countries. . . . works out its policy by the mass principles of these parties in all its deliberations. . . . when a decision is arrived at. . . . workers, with their customary sense of proletarian discipline accept it and put it into effect."

Q. "Do the Communist in this country advocate world revolution?"

A. "Yes. . . ."

Za vatache zdravstvuite,
Tovarisch

Student Government

Community Center Coming

By Dan Sapp

Words of praise are in order this week for Hugh Wells and his committee who straightened out the rent situation. Instead of aimless complaints Hugh turned up with the accomplished fact and earned the gratitude of the village.

Much doings are going on around us these days. The long time no see community center is about to become a reality. Reports from Mayor Bill Goulding have it that arrangements have been made for the building which is to come from Camp Butner as well as for transportation and finances. A canvas is being made of the village for contributions and so far the kick in has been almost a hundred percent. Several campus and civic organizations have pledged themselves to help raise money for the project also.

The center will probably be located on the hill facing the Pittsboro highway. It is to be used as a nursery, children's Sunday school and for general recreational purposes for adults. Mr. Bennet and Mr. Burch have both volunteered their services in helping to get the center constructed.

The council has announced that there will be a discussion and open hearing Monday night at seven thirty for the purpose of deciding whether King St., Johnson St. and Daniels Road are to have one way traffic. The council is anxious for as many residents of these streets as possible to be present for the hearing.

The dogs are at it again, or to be more specific, the dogs have had it again. We repeat for the benefit of those who don't know. Dogs must be registered and innoculated. Some cases of rabies have been reported in the state and there is an epidemic reported in states further south. Due to the number of stray dogs in this section an epidemic of this kind might result in the killing of many dogs who have owners if they are not properly identified. According to a bacteriologist's report to the council Monday night, the rabies treatment is not always a hundred percent effective so you can easily see the danger involved for children.

NEA CONVENTION

Pinehurst, May 6 — (UP) — The National Editorial association has opened its 63rd annual convention at Pinehurst Officials say about 400 members are present for the three-day meeting.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

ACROSS

1—High wind
5—Viper
8—Striker-tenker
12—Second caliph
13—To tell a falsehood
14—Jug
15—Assists
17—Shakespearean king
18—Writing fluid
19—Halit
20—Large black bird
21—Dined
22—To weary
23—Tongue of fire
26—To pull
27—Shred
30—Jot
31—Ugly old woman
32—To deal out
37—Obtained
34—Purpose
35—Righteous
36—Hearing organs
38—Headpiece
39—Twists
41—Small rug
42—To gossip
45—Church calendar
46—Church office
48—Ripener
49—Fuss
50—Roman poet
51—Went by car
52—Lair
53—Communists

DOWN

1—Desert in China
2—So be it!
3—Lean
4—Scopes than
5—Living
6—Location
7—Footlike part
8—Pertaining to sun
9—Smarter
10—Wings
11—Farm building
16—Destiny
20—Fight
21—Wine cup
22—Swamp
23—Tropical fruit
24—Gambling game
25—Waited upon
26—Kind of hat
28—Pilipino
29—Jellylike substance
31—Belonging to him
33—To clean
34—Land measures
35—Companion
37—To worship
38—Tenet
39—Male pig
40—Therefore
41—Biblical warrior
42—To donate
43—Sharp to taste
44—Places to sleep
46—Corrupt
47—On behalf of

Virginia Blanks Tar Heel Nine, 4-0; UNC Netmen Take 6-3 Win Over Penn

Cavaliers Ride!

Carolina	AB	R	H	O	A	E
[illegible]	4	0	1	4	0	0
Hamilton, 2b	3	0	0	1	4	1
Ellsworth, 3b	4	0	0	2	1	0
[illegible]	3	0	1	2	0	0
Gregory, 1b	3	0	0	8	0	1
Evans, ss	3	0	0	3	4	0
[illegible]	3	0	0	2	0	0
Varney, c	0	0	0	2	1	1
Blair, p	3	0	0	0	0	0
Brasington	1	0	1	0	0	0
[illegible]	1	0	0	0	0	0
DiLorenzo	1	0	0	0	0	0
Total	27	0	3	24	10	3
Virginia	AB	R	H	O	A	E
Blankenship, rf	3	0	1	0	0	0
Noe, 2b	4	1	1	3	2	0
Baer, lf	3	0	1	1	0	0
Powell, 1b	3	1	0	9	0	0
Huff, 3b	4	1	1	1	1	1
Phillips, cf	4	1	2	3	0	0
[illegible]	3	0	0	3	0	0
Patton, ss	3	0	1	2	0	0
[illegible]	2	0	0	0	3	0
[illegible]	0	0	0	0	0	0
[illegible]	0	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	29	4	6	24	9	1

Batted for Gregory in 9th.
Batted for Evans in 9th.
Batted for Blair in 9th.

Score by innings:

[illegible]	000	000	000—0
Virginia	021	000	10x—4

Summary: Runs batted in: Phillips 2, Baer, DP—Leachman, Noe and Powell; Patton and Powell. LOB—Carolina 9, Virginia 4. Three base hit: Phillips. Base on balls—off: Leachman 7, Struck out by Blair 3; Leachman 5. Hits off: Blair 6 in 9 innings; off: Leachman 3 in 8 innings; off: Wilde 0 in 1 inning. Winning pitcher: Leachman. Losing pitcher: Blair. Umpires: Milen and Milen. Time: 2:05.

Chi O, Kenan Teams Gain Softball Wins

Chi Omega and Kenan advanced to the finals of the coed spring softball tourney by virtue of victories yesterday afternoon on Kenan field.

The dormitory girls had the toughest time in winning as they outlasted hard-hitting Town to move to the championship round, 14-13. Sarah Walker was on the mound for the winners and scattered 16 hits effectively. Betsy Ann Barbee twirled for the losers.

The Chi Omegas won their game with a little more ease, trimming the heretofore potent P. Phis, 10-4. The winners scored five times in the big third inning and that was the ball game.

K. D. Durham went all the way for the victors, being capably handled by Barbara Wray behind the plate. Christy White pitched for the P. Phis, while Jane Morrison and Ruth Evans had the duties behind the plate.

DiLorenzo To Hurl Against Terrapins In Maryland Today

By Buddy Vaden

Charlottesville, Va., May 6—Jack Leachman and Neil Wade were "right" for the Virginia baseball team here today and combined to shut out the North Carolina nine on three hits, 4-0.

Leachman started the game for the Cavaliers and gave up all of the Tar Heels' safeties in his eight-inning stint. Wade hurled the final frame for the victors.

In winning today, the Cavaliers reversed an earlier victory by Carolina. The Tar Heels opened the season by downing Virginia 3-1, when Vinnie DiLorenzo, who saw action today as a pinch-hitter, hurled a two-hitter.

Non-Conference Tilt

Today's decision will not affect Carolina's Southern conference standing as it is a non-conference contest. The Tar Heels return to conference competition tomorrow by facing Maryland at College Park. DiLorenzo will pitch for Carolina.

The Cavaliers actually won the ball game in the second inning when they tallied two runs off the deliveries of Ray Blair, who went the route for Carolina.

Blair contributed to his own downfall by hitting Joe Rowell, the first batter to face him in the second. Boo Huff singled to right field and set the stage for Tom Phillips' tremendous triple to deep left centerfield.

Blair proceeded to pitch out of trouble and hold Phillips on third by striking out the next batter and forcing the next two men to pop to short and fly to Jim Kelly in left field, respectively.

Tally Once

The Cavaliers tallied once in the next frame. Sam Ellington opened the inning with a single and Chuck Noe followed with a one-baser over second base. Left-fielder Baer reached base on a fielder's choice, but Ellington was erased on the play at the plate. Catcher Sid Varney then attempted to nip Baer at second, but Co-Captain Jim Hamilton dropped the peg and Noe counted the Cavaliers' third run.

Virginia scored once more in the seventh inning and then settled down to withstand a ninth-inning uprising by the visitors.

Phillips singled and advanced on an infield out, but Jim Patton fanned. Leachman reached first on an error by firstsacker John

(See BASEBALL, page 4)

Track Team Continues Drills As Middies Arrive for Meet

Navy's track and field team arrived unexpectedly in Chapel Hill yesterday afternoon but was greeted with open arms as the local tracksters completed heavy workouts for the meet with the Midshipmen here Saturday.

The visitors have a meet scheduled with Duke in Durham this afternoon and came down early to get the feel of the track and the weather. They will remain in Chapel Hill until Sunday morning.

Meanwhile Coach Dale Ranson pushed his charges through their final shaping-up paces down on Fetzer field with the rain and dampness seeming to have little effect on the spirit and standard of performance.

Carolina won last year's meet, 66-65, with the final event—the relay—proving to be the margin of victory. This year the meet may again be decided by the relay, but the apparent lack of quarter-milers on the Tar Heel team somewhat dims the local chances of victory.

There is one promising hope in this department and that is the return of Bob Black to action to run a leg on the relay. Black pulled a tendon in his leg earlier in the year and has been completely inactive since. He will be due for a good performance against the Navy if the leg holds up.

REMEMBER MAMA

Sunday, May 9

with the GIFT SHE'LL APPRECIATE MOST

Lovely Flowers

Special Mother's Day Flowers Arranged

We Also Wire Flowers Anywhere

UNIVERSITY FLORIST

Pick Theater Bldg.

Nine to Seven . . .

Jayvees Outscore Duke For Sixth Win In Row

By Dave Ferebee

Carolina's Tar Babies won their sixth straight game yesterday by defeating the Duke Blue Imps, 9-7, on Emerson field. The win gives the local jayvees a record of eight wins and two losses.

Coach Henry House's charges had to withstand a spirited uprising by the Imps in the late innings before handing them their fourth defeat of the season. After jumping into an early 8-2 lead at the end of three innings of play, the Tar Babies saw their lead gradually dwindle as the Duksters pushed across two runs in the third, fourth, and sixth innings and then added a final run in the top of the ninth frame.

Gaston Wins

Ed Gaston, Carolina righthander who was defeated by the Imps earlier in the season, was credited with the win, his second in three starts. He gave up only six hits before retiring in favor of teammate Bill McGinn in the top half of the ninth.

The Tar Babies unleashed an amazing 18-hit barrage off two Duke hurlers. Chief stickmen of the Carolina attack were second-baseman Stan Goodman, who collected four hits in five trips to the plate; Jerry Allen, who had three for four, and big Bill Walsh, who cracked out three singles in his five times at bat. One of Goodman's hits was a home run to deep left.

Biggest inning for the Carolina jayvees was the second. A single by shortstop Joe Brookshire, along with Allen's entrance to the base paths via the hit-by-pitcher route, a Duke error, and successive singles by Jerry (Sleepy) Senter and Goodman, combined to give the Tar Babies four runs.

The fielding gem of the day was turned in by leftfielder Don Ward, who raced far back into left field to finally snag a powerfully-hit ball off the bat of Duke's Tom Powers.

Gaston Wins!

Duke	AB	R	H	O	A	E
Baroff, cf	-	1	1	2	0	0
Ingram, lf	5	0	1	2	0	0
Grace, 2b	5	0	1	5	2	1
Powers, 3b	-	1	1	1	3	2
Crimmans, rf	-	0	0	2	0	0
Caldwell, 1b	-	1	1	-	0	0
Whittaker, c	-	-	-	-	4	2
Govan, ss	-	1	1	1	2	0
White, [illegible]	2	1	1	1	0	0
a Clark	1	-	-	1	0	0
Benter, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	33	7	6	24	9	3

a Batted for White in 9th.

Carolina	AB	R	H	O	A	E
Allen, cf	4	-	-	-	-	-
Ward, lf	5	-	-	-	-	-
Senter, 3b	4	-	-	-	-	-
Goodman, 2b	5	-	-	-	-	-
Garganus, rf	5	-	-	-	-	-
Walsh, c	5	-	-	5	5	-
Brookshire, ss	4	-	-	1	0	-
Carter, 1b	4	-	1	11	0	-
Gaston, p	4	-	1	0	1	-
McGinn, p	0	-	0	0	0	-
Totals	40	9	10	27	10	-

Score by innings:

Duke	002	202	001—7
Carolina	242	000	10x—9

The summary:

Runs batted in—Baroff, Ingham, Caldwell, Govan, Allen, Senter 2, Goodman 4, Gaston, Three-base hit—Carter, Baroff, Hom. run—Goodman. Base on balls—Gaston 7, McGinn 1, Benter 1. Strikeouts—Gaston 3, McGinn 1, White 1. Umpire—Haywood. Time of game—2:37.

Hole-in-One

Bob Newell, a junior from Reidsville, registered a hole-in-one on the No. 4 hole of the Hillandale course yesterday afternoon.

Newell turned the trick with a No. 7 iron, the ball travelling 147 yards dead to the pin for an ace.

Newell was playing in a foursome with Ben Cooper, Charlie Johnson and Thad Lewallen at the time. It was his first ace.

LIMIT ON BOWLS

Knoxville, May 6—(UP)—Schools in the Southeastern conference have voted to limit post-season football play to the Sugar, Orange, and Cotton bowls, it was announced today. The Southeastern conference secretary, Dean N. W. Dougherty, polled member schools by letter and telegram.

In the Majors

By United Press

NATIONAL LEAGUE

New York 9, Pittsburgh 2
WP—Poat; LP—Bonham.
Philadelphia-St. Louis, postponed, rain.
Brooklyn-Chicago, Boston-Cincinnati—postponed by rain.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

New York 6, St. Louis 3
WP—Reynolds; LP—Fannin.
Detroit 8, Boston 3.
WP—White; LP—Kramer.
Philadelphia 8, Cleveland 5
WP—Fowler; LP—Feller.
Washington 5, Chicago 0 (night)
WP—Wynn; LP—Wight.

HOME RUNS

Mize (Giants); Stevens (Pirates); Brown (Yankees); Kelth and Gordon (Indians).

BIG WEEKEND COMING?

By calling 3536 you are sure of having

ICE COLD BEER

Phone 3536

K & M

Beer Delivery Service

Haverford Net Team Today's Opposition For Carolina Outfit

(Special to the Daily Tar Heel)

Philadelphia, Pa., May 6—Carolina's touring tennis team took its third victory in four starts on its northern trip today by downing the Pennsylvania Quakers, 6-3.

Tomorrow the Tar Heels move on to Haverford college for the next-to-last game of the tour. The Carolinians play the Country club of Virginia in Richmond after Haverford and then head home.

Clark Taylor showed signs of recovering his winning stride today when he beat Penn's number one man, Willis, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2. This is Taylor's second win of the jaunt and gives him a 2-2 slate for the trip.

Continues Streak

Don Skakle continued his victory skein by dropping Park in straight sets, 6-3, 6-2.

The bottom two Tar Heels lost their sub. encounters for two of the Quakers' points. Heath Alexander lost to Welsh, but it took the Pennsylvanian three sets to do it. Welsh won the first, 6-4, but Alexander blanked his foe in the next set, 6-0. Welsh came back to take the contest with a hard-fought third set win, Alexander lost the final canto, 6-4.

Duke Wilder was the other Tar Heel to taste defeat, but he too came very close to winning. He lost the first set to Townsend, 6-4, but triumphed in the second round 7-5. The final set went 14 games before Townsend copped the canto 8-6.

The summary:

Singles—Taylor (C) defeated Willis 6-2, 6-2. Morris (C) defeated Franco, 6-3, 6-4. Rice (C) defeated Friel, 4-6, 6-1, 6-1. Skakle (C) defeated Park, 6-3, 6-2. Welsh (P) defeated Alexander, 6-4, 0-6, 6-4. Townsend (P) defeated Wilder, 6-4, 5-7, 8-6.

Doubles — Taylor-Wilder (C) defeated Friel-Franco, 6-3, 10-8. Rice-Morris (C) defeated Welsh-Park, 6-4, 6-2. Willis-Townsend (P) defeated Alexander-Skakle, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4.

DISC JOCKEY

BOB ANDREW

smokes

CHESTERFIELDS

He says:
Spinning Records for an hour isn't easy on a disc jockey's voice, and Chesterfields treat my throat right—not just during air time, but throughout the day.

Chesterfield—year after year—first choice of college men and women.

Duke Wins First Big Four Mural Sports Carnival; Carolina Second

By Bill Gallagher

Durham, May 6—Duke's mural stars copped four of the six first places in the first annual Big Four Intramural Play Day held at Duke this afternoon to capture the team trophy with a total of 25 points.

Carolina finished in the second position with a score of 18 to edge out State who scored 17 points. Wake Forest managed to gather only 5 points to finish a poor last.

By winning the titles in badminton, volleyball, table tennis, and softball, the host team easily sewed up the victory. Scoring was figured on a 5-3-2-1 basis for first, second, third, and fourth places respectively.

Win Horseshoes

Carolina grabbed the top rung in horseshoes and also captured three second places in handball, volleyball, and table tennis.

In a real exhibition of some classy volleyball, the Blue Devils handed the Phi Gamma Delta sextet of Carolina their first defeat in over two years. After dropping their opening game to State, the Dukesters rallied to defeat the Wolfpack in the next two games. Meanwhile, Carolina [illegible]

Blue Devils Capture Four First Places

set down Wake Forest twice in a row to advance to final round match with Duke. Carolina never threatened as they went down before a 15-4 and 15-6 onslaught.

Cashing in on the strong throwing arms of "Red" Gerringer, Kyle Simpson, Len Szafaryn and company the Tar Heels mural men pitched their way to wins over State and Duke in the horseshoe competition.

State Over Carolina

The most heated action of the afternoon show naturally came in softball. State took advantage of some loose fielding to defeat Carolina in the opening round on one diamond by 7-4.

Jack Eslick hurled a neat one hitter to move Duke into the title tilt with a 5-2 victory over the Demon Deacons of Wake Forest.

In the final round of the afternoon on the softball front, Carolina scored one run in the bottom of the sixth to cop the contest with their only win in the one-wall [illegible]

3-2. Cam Rodman drove in the deciding margin for the winners.

Softball Champs

A real struggle was waged for the diamond title before Duke came through with one score in the top of the eighth frame to edge State 7-6.

State jumped into an early lead of 6-2 with five big runs in the fourth. Their lead melted away to nothing when Duke rallied for four markers in the top of the sixth. Jack Eslick doubled with the bases loaded and came in on an error to help tie the game up. He later drove in the winning run with a single in the eighth.

Carolina put up perhaps their hardest fight for the top position on the ping pong table in the title match with Duke. The match was tied up 2-all when Tar Heel Burt Brown and Blue Devil John Tapley took up their paddles. Tapley dropped the first game but rallied to sweep the next two with identical 21-17 scores.

Duke defeated Carolina and State in the round robin badminton play in which Wake Forest was not entered. State scored their only win in the one-wall [illegible]

Each time you taste ice-cold Coca-Cola, you are reminded that here is the quality of genuine goodness. Experience... many a refreshing experience... has taught people everywhere to trust the quality of Coca-Cola.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO., DURHAM, N. C.

These Prices are LOWER—

Sliced BACON, lb. 69c
Table Dressed HENS, lb. 56c
Swift's All Meats FRANKS, lb. 49c
Table Dressed FRYERS, lb. 68c
Sliced PORK LIVERS, lb. 39c
Premium WIENIES, lb. 39c

FROZEN Perch — Cod — Haddock Flounder — Fillets

FROZEN Shrimp — —Scallops

Hunt's FRUIT COCKTAIL No. 2½ can 39c
SUGAR 5 lbs. ..... 45c 10 lbs. 89c
CRISCO Lb. 41c
DREFT Pkg. 31c
WESSON OIL Pts. ..... 43c Qts. 85c
ORANGE JUICE 40-oz. can ... 25c
You SAVE at FOWLER'S!
Armour's CORNED BEEF 49c
IVORY SOAP Large ..... 19c Medium 11c
Jewel Shortening 3 lbs. $1.13
Fresh EGGS, doz. 53c
CAMAY Med. ..... 11c Large 15c

Buy Your Picnic Supplies Here

ANY POPULAR SOFT DRINKS
CHEESE & MEAT SPREADS
PICKLES — COLD CUTS
WEINER ROLLS
HAMBURGER BUNS
POTATO CHIPS
PRETZELS, OLIVES
PAPER Plates, Cups, Forks, Spoons
15½ GAL. KEG BEER
7½ GAL. KEG BEER

BEER BY THE CASE

Budweiser — Schlitz — Highlife — Ballentine — Krueger — Blue Ribbon — Ruppert — (Etc.)

WE FURNISH PUMPS AND DELIVER THE BEER COLD

We deliver any order regardless of size or price to any place within a radius of two miles of Chapel Hill for a flat rate of TEN cents.

Telephone 7416

FOWLER'S FOOD STORE

E. Franklin Street Chapel Hill, N. C.

Merry-Go-Round Slated to Feature Lunsford Ballads

Musical Merry-Go-Rund, a radio show to be given here Saturday morning at 10:45, will feature a selection of folk songs by Bascom Lamar Lunsford, widely known as the minstrel of the Appalachians.

The weekly show, one in a series of musical appreciation performances for children, will be directed by Jim Tucker, senior from Troy. Producers for the show are Tucker and Sandy Minnix, senior from Pleasantville, N. J. It is a presentation of the radio division of the communications center.

Radio station WDUK will carry the program which also will present Mrs. Tom Bradshaw of White Cross in selections from her repertoire of 40 folk songs. Bill Collins, graduate student, will serve as master of ceremonies.

Also known as the squire of Turkey creek, Lunsford has twice been invited to the White House to give demonstration of his folk songs and folk dances. On one occasion he performed there before the king and queen of England.

Known far and wide for his ability to sing from memory, Lunsford once recorded 315 folk songs at Columbia university without the aid of written words or music. He has also made recordings for the Library of Congress.

Kenan stadium will be the setting for a folk-music festival to be sponsored by Lunsford and Dr. Boggs on June 18 and 19. Featuring that event will be a square dance team from Soco Gap. Lillie Lee Baker will direct the program which will also present a Texas square dance team in folk dances of the west.

The show tomorrow is one in a series of shows featuring con- students on campus.
cert pianists, the North Carolina Symphony and performances by

RAIL STRIKE

Washington, May 6 —(UP)— President Truman says the government is doing everything it can to head off the nation-wide rail strike scheduled for next Tuesday. Mr. Truman says the

IN PARIS, Madame Poinsot-Chapius (left), France's minister of public health, tries to explain her program to one of the country's "future" voters. It looks like the minister has lost one vote. (International)

Office of Housing Expediter Says New Act Puts Limits on Landlords

The Office of the Housing Expediter here pointed out recently that the Housing and Rent Act which went into effect April 1 contains certain limitations on the eviction of tenants by landlords.

Information concerning the provisions of the law is found in the following question and answer series released by the housing office:

1. Q. Can a tenant be evicted from a rented place which is subject to federal rent controls?

A. So long as the tenant continues to pay the rent to which the landlord is entitled, he cannot be evicted by any court except for the eight specific grounds stated in the rent law.

2. Q. What are the eight grounds for eviction?

A.The following are the only grounds for eviction stated in the Housing and Rent Act of 1947 as amended:

(1) If under the state law the tenant is violating the obligation of his tenancy or is committing a nuisance, or is using the accommodations for an immoral or illegal purpose or for other than living or dwelling purposes.

(2) If a landlord or a member of his immediate family wishes to occupy the quarters.

(3) If the landlord has contracted in writing to sell the place to a purchaser for his immediate occupancy.

(4) If the landlord wishes to demolish the structure or to alter it substantially or to convert it into additional housing accommodations under specified conditions.

(5) If the landlord seeks to withdraw the housing accommodations from the rental market, such accommodations cannot thereafter be rented as such.

(6) If housing accommodations have been acquired by a state or municipality for public improvement and are rented temporarily before the construction of such improvement.

(7) If the landlord is exempt from taxation under Section 101 (6) of the internal revenue code (non-profit, religious, charitable and educational institutions) and wishes the premises for the purpose of housing staff members.

(8) If the landlord seeks to recover possession of an apartment in a cooperative apartment for the occupancy by the purchaser of stock in the cooperative, but only if at least 65 per cent of the dwelling units in the structure are occupied by stockholder-tenents. There is one exception to this provision.

3. Q. How much time does the tenant have to vacate after the landlord gives him proper notice?

A. The law provides two different types of waiting periods, depending upon the type of eviction, as follows:

(1) The time limit before eviction is governed by the local law in cases of non-payment of rent and cases cited in subsection (1) of the answer to question No. 2.

(2) In all other cases listed in subsections (2) to (8) of the answer to question No. 2, the Housing and Rent Act provides that no tenant shall be obliged to surrender possession of any housing accommodation until the expiration of at least 60 days after written notice from the landlord that he desires to recover possession of such housing accommodations for one of the purposes specified in these subsections (2) to (8).

Ufen Is Elected New President Of Delta Phi Alpha

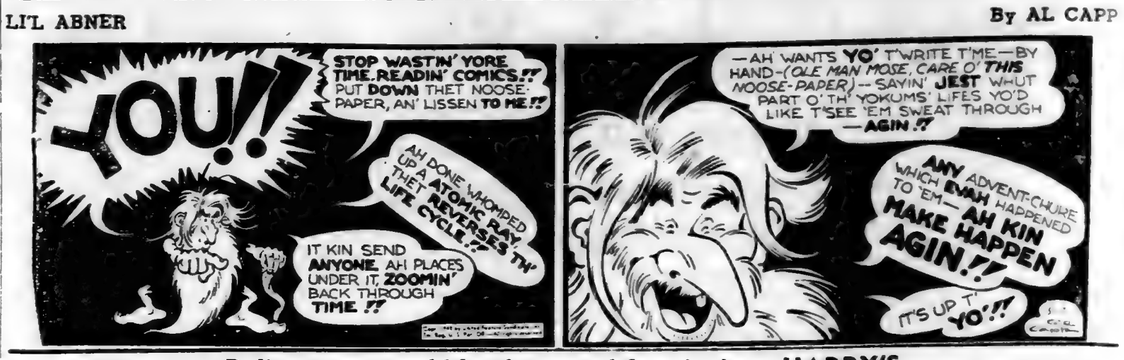
Charles Ufen, of New York city, has been elected president of the Beta Rho Chapter of Delta Phi Alpha, German honorary society. Pete Gerns, of Canton, Ohio, has been named vice-president of the fraternity which was re-organized Wednesday under the auspices of the German department after six years of inactivity. Merle Stevens, of Forest City, was chosen secretary, and Herm Sieber, of Hendersonville, treasurer of the organization.

The following additional students and faculty make up the membership of the honorary: Otha A. Barnhill, Greenville; W. C. Powell, Lumberton; Paul and Irvin Gordon, both of Bronxville, N. Y.; Jim Stallings, Charlotte; Albert Lancaster, Chapel Hill; and Morgan H. Pritchett, Baltimore, Md. Dr. Herbert Reichert has been named faculty advisor by Dr. Richard Jente, head of the German department, who is also national first vice-president of the organization.

The aims of Delta Phi Alpha, as stated in the national ritual, are: "To uphold the spirit of German classicism, the tolerance of Lessing, the folk-sympathy of Herder, the idealism of Schiller, and the nobel humanity of Goethe."

Delta Phi Alpha was first founded at Wofford college in South Carolina on May 27, 1929, and now has active chapters in every part of the country. Because of its rigid requirements of admission, the fraternity is frequently referred to as Phi Beta Kappa in the field of German studies.

-Baseball-



(Continued from page 3)

Gregory. Phillips scored when Varney dropped Gregory's throw to home.

Carolina loaded the bases in their half of the ninth with only one man retired, but failed to score when Leachman tightened up. Jack Brasington, the first of the three pinch swingers in the inning, singled and moved up one notch when Rip Ryan walked.

Emmet Cheek went in for Ott Evans and popped out to the shortstop, but Varney received a pass and the sacks were loaded with Tar Heels. DiLorenzo batted for Blair and popped up to short. Kenny Black lofted one to the second sacker to end the ball game.

LIL ABNER By AL CAPP

Delicatessen—sold by the pound for picnics—HARRY'S

UNC Officials Speaking Today

Roy Armstrong, director of admissions, and Charles Bernard, of the admissions office, will represent the University at the College day exercises held today in Newton and Greenville.

Bernard will speak in Greenville on the University housing situation, enrollment here, and qualifications for admittance into this school. Also featured on the program are talks from representatives of various vocations, which will help to guide high school students in selecting a career.

Armstrong, who represents the University in Newton, will discuss education in general, including the opportunities offered in college for high school students.

Wallaceites to Hear Report on Addresses

The Wallace-for-President club will hear a report tonight on recent speeches made by Henry A. Wallace in Iowa and Missouri. The meeting will be 8 o'clock in Bingham (Commerce) 103.

Teams gathering signatures on the petitions to put Wallace on the ballot in North Carolina will report at the meeting, and further plans for getting signatures will be discussed.

All persons and members are urged to attend. There will be a question-and-answer period following the report of Wallace's speeches.

Ben Williams Wins Oil Painting Prize At Retail Exhibit

Ben F. Williams, junior in the Art department, has taken third prize for an oil painting shown at the art exhibit of Southeastern college and university students in Columbia, S. C.

The exhibit was held in conjunction with the Southeastern Regional College Art convention, April 9 and 10, at the University of South Carolina, and was judged by Edwin Ziegfeld, head of the Department of Art, Teachers College, Columbia university. The show will circulate among colleges in the Southeast.

During the present academic year Williams has shown paintings with North Carolina artists where he won a purchase prize, the Southeastern annual at Richmond, and the Virginia-North Carolina annual at Norfolk. Last year he had a one-man show at the Mint museum, Charlotte, and at present he is representing North Carolina in the New York show called "Under Twenty-five" for young painters.

Campus Calendar

4:00 p. m.—Chapel Progressive club, Roland Parker lounge No. 3.

7:00 p. m.—Meeting of Friends of the Library, Carolina Inn Ballroom.

7:30 p. m.—Hillel, Roland Parker lounge No. 1.

8:00 p. m.—Wallace club, Bingham 103.

June 1 Deadline For Aid Blanks

All students who wish to hold scholarships, part time jobs or to receive any other forms of financial assistance through the University Student Aid office for the coming summer sessions or the coming school year must file an application for aid on or before June 1, according to Edwin S. Lanier, director of student aid.

Students who are now working or who are holding scholarships and who have filed applications previously will be required to file a Supplemental Student Aid application. For those students who have never filed an application, whether they are now working or not, must file a complete Student application before any assignment will be made to him.

Applications may be obtained in the Student Aid office, 302 South building at any time during regular office hours. Applications must be filed on or before June 1. Each student will be notified by letter of the action taken on his application around July 1.

The Nutrition Foundation maintains no laboratories but fosters education and research through grants-in-aid to universities and medical centers.

Photo-Art Posters Are Now on Display In Person Gallery

"Creative Photography" an instructional poster series published by the Museum of Modern Art, will be shown in the small gallery at Person hall through Monday. These posters illustrate photography as a creative medium using mechanical means by which the photographer-artist can record infinite detail, stop or prolong motion, create a new perspective, and extend space.

The large gallery is closed while the forthcoming student show is being arranged. However in the lobby there is a small portrait of Thomas Wolfe by Beth Anne Mills of Tyron. Miss Mills according to her catalogue is "one of America's youngest professional portrait painters of distinction." She has shown works in the Mint Museum, Charlotte, the Carnegie Hall art gallery in New York

Jerry the Tailor
OVER
N. C. CAFETERIA

Whid Powell's
COLONIAL HOUSE SYSTEM
WAFFLES
GRILLED FRANKS
Weekdays
11:00 a. m. — 12 a. m.
Friday & Saturday
11:00 a. m. — 2 a. m.
Rosemary St.—Opp. City Hall

Ridgeway's
OPTICIANS
Complete Eyeglass Service
Prompt attention to all mail orders
PROFESSIONAL BUILDING
Raleigh N. C.

The ORIENTAL
CHINESE-AMERICAN RESTAURANT
116 E. Parrish Street
Durham, N. C.

REHDERS
CHAPEL HILL FLOWER SHOP
Opposite Post Office Corner

ANNOUNCING!
The OPENING of
The Pines Drive In
COME OUT
Serving "Carolina" Better

TAR HEEL Advertisers—
Pledged to Good Service
Patronize Them

READ THE CLASSIFIEDS EVERYDAY FOR GREATER SAVINGS ! !

FOR SALE 6B

SOLD—ALL BUT A VERY LIMITED number of two-bedroom houses just completed on Rogerson Drive. These can be seen upon application to Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. (ch 1x2)

31 OAKWOOD DRIVE—ATTRACTIVE two bedroom house. Excellent location —Priced right for quick sale. Call F-3216 or come to 31 Oakwood. (1-298-1)

24 FOOT ALMA HOUSE TRAILER IN excellent condition. Electric brakes Sleeps four. Priced for quick sale ($1295.00) John L. Harris, B-V-P Trailer Lot No. 250. (1-366-1)

ONE ELECTRIC COKE DISPENSER in good condition. May be seen at Phi Kappa Sigma House anytime (1-363-1)

MAN'S BALLOON TIRED BICYCLE Good Condition—$25.00. Call F-2162 (1-364-1)

NEW BRICK HOME VERY CLOSE IN Immediate possession. Write or call University Cleaners for appointment Phone 4921. (ch 1x1)

18 FOOT PATHFINDER HOUSE trailer. Excellent condition. Priced for immediate sale. See after 5 p.m. 61a Pittsboro Road Trailer Court. (1-360-1)

74 HARLEY DAVIDSON MOTORcycle. Good tires and engine. New Paint job last fall. See at Strowd Motor Co. (1-373-1)

MAGNAVOX RADIO-PHONOGRAPH, "Belvedere" model, $390. Drexel drop-leaf table, pads, $60. Double steel cabinet, $10. Sunkist electric juicer, $15 J. R. Nelson, Box 676. Phone 6287. (1-c372-1)

SPEED GRAPHIC, 4x5 CAMERA; range finder, flash gun, and accessories thrown in. Bargain price sale Inquire Graham Memorial office afternoons. (1-2000-1)

22 FOOT HOUSE TRAILER. PERMAnent bed, oil heater, gas cooking stove, conveniently located. Priced for quick sale. Inquire any time 16 Uni. Trailer Court. (1-379-1)

6 TUBE MOTOROLA AUTOMOBILE radio for sale—$25.00. Call 205 Ruffin (1-380-1)

FOR SALE AUTOMOTIVE 6BB

CONVERTIBLE CHEVROLET—$29 bargain. 1934 model in good condition Cruises 55 m.p.h. with ease. See Walt Arnold, 218 Stacy or Sigma Chi House (1-370-1)

FOUND 6C

LARGE BLACK MALE SPANIEL found injured on campus. Call Dr Vine, 4531 for description. Owner pay for ad and hopitalization. (1-c381-1)

HELP WANTED 8

STUDENT HELP WANTED FOR night work—three nights a week. Ap- Mar's Mickey Finn: Dam: Duchess of ply at the Colonial House System Rosemary St. (Ch 1x1)

LOST 12

RHINESTONE CLIP, GOLD WITH Rhine and blue stones. Between A.T.O house and McIver Friday night. Reward. Heath Hartsell. (1-371-1)

SERVICES OFFERED 19

ALL MAKES OF LAWN MOWERS repaired, machine sharpened. Axes, hatchets, scythes also sharpened. Tripps Lawn Mower Repair Shop or see John Tripp, Carrboro Shoe Shop. (ch 1x1)

WANTED 24

ONE LARGE USED TRUNK — THE bigger the better. Also want a large bookshelf. Call L. W. Miles after 8 p.m. at 9291 if you have one. (1-375-1)

WANTED TO RENT 24B

HOUSE OR APARTMENT DESIRED by graduate couple and sixteen-month old son beginning next September John L. Tison, English Dept., University of Georgia, Athens, Ga. (1-382-1)

URGENTLY NEED APARTMENT FOR married couple, no children, temporary or permanent residence. References furnished. Phone Mrs. Jack Burke, 7781 before 4:30 p.m.; 131 Mason Farm Rd. after 4:30. (1-362-1)

LET'S SWAP 46

HAVE HOME IN ATHENS, GEORGIA available for exchange for home in Chapel Hill beginning next September. Write John L. Tison, 182 Greenwood Court, Athens, Georgia. (1-383-1)

FURNITURE . . .
• Upholstered • Refinished
• Repaired • Made to Order
Charles Valentine's Cabinet Shop
PHONE 9367 — PITTSBORO RD.

ALL AROUND FLAT APPEAL
Ask to See
STYLE NO. 2160
As Sketched
Stroll or dance, run and play in these trim little white leather beauties . . . open toe, open heel flats with delicate leaf cut-outs . . . medium platforms to give you the new look you've been waiting for!
4.95
BERMAN'S DEPT. STORE

For Real Home Cooked Foods
HARVEY'S CAFETERIA
105 EAST MAIN STREET
Durham

Fine Watches Need Excellent Care . . .
A Complete Watch Repair Service at—
BLACKWOOD
ASSOCIATE STORE

Elizabeth Arden
Blue Grass
IN FRESH SHEAVES OF FRAGRANCE
Blue Grass perfume . . . the fresh-mown fragrance of cool Kentucky meadows. It is an inspiration to those who wear this round-the-clock perfume . . . or to those who select their gifts with pride and thoughtfulness.
BLUE GRASS PERFUME, 1/8 oz. to 7 5/8 oz. 1.75 to 60.00
BLUE GRASS SACHETS, 2.00 to 8.50 prices plus taxes
SUTTON'S DRUG STORE
Cosmetics Headquarters

LIBRARY (Periodical Dept.)
University of North Carolina
Chapel Hill, N. C.
1-29-48

WEATHER
Fair and warmer in afternoon.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
Civil Rights
1945 and Today
Nash Coke Machine

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SATURDAY, MAY 8, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361

IN THIS AIRVIEW the remnants of a two-story four-family house in Flushing, New York, appear split to kindling size following a terrific gas explosion. With one person dead and eight injured, rescue workers dig in the ruins for other possible victims. The blast was caused when a piano, being moved into a basement, broke a gas connection. A number of other dwellings in the section, occupied almost entirely by veterans, were wrecked or damaged. Among vehicles at the scene are a moving van and ambulances. (International)

Merchants Producing Motion Picture Of Chapel Hill, Carrboro, University

A documentary movie of Chapel Hill, Carrboro, and the University is currently being made by Don Parisher productions of New York city under sponsorship of the Chapel Hill-Carrboro Merchants association, according to Mrs. Lois Cranford, secretary of the association.

Lloyd McComber and Ted Ramo are heading the six-man crew of camermen which began shooting scenes yesterday. These men wish to request that students and townspeople cooperate in filming the movie inasmuch as some have appeared to be a little camera-shy, they said.

The finished product, with narration by Norman Brokenshire, prominent CBS announcer, will be shown in the local theaters for about two weeks and will be retained in town for future showings.

Cameramen disclosed yesterday that the project should be completed within three or four weeks, good weather permitting.

The production will cover the various business, civic, religious, agricultural, industrial, and social activities of the community.

A considerable portion of the movie will be devoted to the University, tracing its growth and development up to the present time along with the growth of the town.

The original will be filmed on 35 mm. film for use with standard theater projection machines. In addition, a 16 mm. copy of the film will be provided in order that alumni clubs, civic organizations, and other groups here and throughout the state may view the film.

Hugh Wells Heads Slate of Officers For UVA Group

Hugh Wells, sophomore from Shelby, was elected president of the University Veterans association at the last meeting of the group. Wells replaces Johnny Clampitt in the UVA presidency.

Other officers of the association are Jim Chesnutt, from Clinton, vice-president; Fred Gates, Hillsboro, secretary; and Larry Ashby, Memphis, Tenn., secretary.

The new officers will take over on June 1. Meanwhile, Wells said that the organization is now making plans for the social program for the summer session.

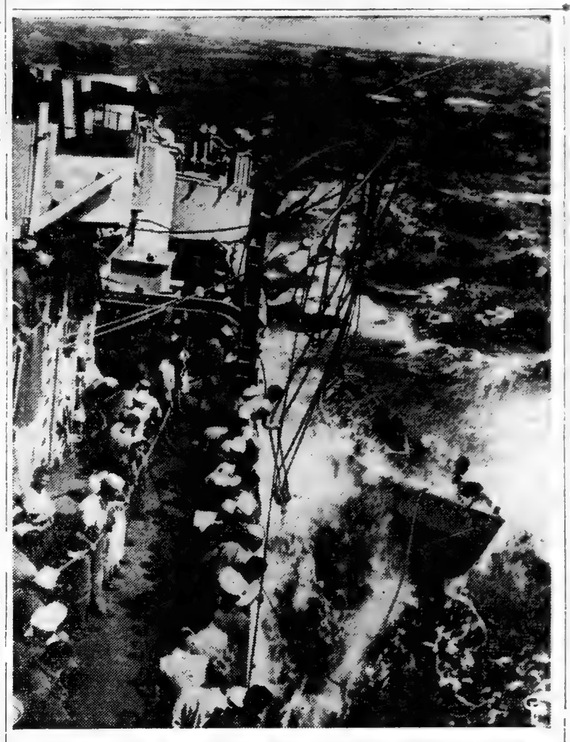
In speaking of the plans, Wells said, "We hope to make the UVA club a vital part of the social activities on campus for the summer sessions."

Students Organize Club for Stassen

Adrian W. Smith, junior from Philadelphia, Pa., was elected chairman of the Students-for-Stassen club at the organizational meeting of that club on Thursday afternoon. Babs Kerr, coed junior from Alexandria, Va. was elected secretary of the organization at the same meeting.

Plans were laid for increasing the membership of the organization and all students interested in the nomination and election of Harold Stassen are invited to attend the next meeting of the club, which will be held Thursday.

The club resolved to go on record as supporting Mr. Stassen primarily and not necessarily the Republican party. It was also urged that the club cooperate with the Carolina Political union and the Young Republicans club in an effort to bring Stassen to this campus for an address sometime in the near future.



The club decided to promote Stassen's nomination and election through both individual and group action.

AVC Seaker Cancels Public Address Here

Richard Bolling, national vice-chairman of the American Veterans committee who was scheduled to give a public talk on the campus next Tuesday on "The Veteran In Politics" practices what he preaches.

This was emphasized yesterday when George Tindall, chairman of the local chapter of this veteran's group said he had been informed that Bolling would not appear as scheduled because the South Pacific veteran has resigned his national position with AVC in order to campaign for Congress in Kansas City, Mo.

Graduate Students Being Polled On Negro Application Question

CHOPPY SEAS DASH WAVES of water over the boat which rescued three Navy fliers during maneuvers in the Mediterranean. The airmen were flying a torpedo-bomber from the U. S. S. Valley Forge when their plane crash-landed. They are shown attempting to board the destroyer U. S. S. William C. Lawe which sent out the small boat for them. (International)

SDA Hopes to Have Results by May 17 When Trustees Meet

An opinion poll of all graduaets and professional students in the University in regard to whether or not Negroes should be admitted to the various departments here, is now being made by the local chapter of the Students for Democratic Action.

A committee composed of graduate students Tom Parkinson, Kenneth Moreland and Margaret Healy are conducting the poll. The survey is designed to contact every student in the various graduate or professional departments, including medicine, law and pharmacy. There are, at present, approximately 30 of these departments.

The SDA plans to complete the survey before Monday, May 17, when the University trustees will meet in Raleigh to review three Negro applications which are now on file here. Two have been submitted for admission to the Law school, and one to the Medical school.

Contacts in the poll are being made through individual students. The faculty is not included and individual secret ballots are being used.

The ballots read, "If Negroes were admitted to graduate or professional study in my department: (1) I would not object to having them in my classes. (2) I would object to having them in my classes. (3) I have not made up my mind whether or not I would object to having them in my classes." Students are requested to check one of the three statements.

Officers of the SDA are Bob Lindsay, president, and Wilmer Dutton, vice-president.

Western Powers Accuse Soviet Union Of Stalemating Atomic Bomb Regulation

Lake Success, May 7—(UP)—The Western powers warned today that the world is doomed to live under the continued threat of an atomic war.

The United States, Great Britain, and France said the U-N would have to suspend its fruitless campaign to set up machinery for control of atomic energy until Russia alters its entire foreign policy and is willing to become part of the world community.

Because of the Soviet Union's attitude, the Western powers said the world must resign itself to an uncontrolled race for atomic armaments. The three-power report served notice that the United States would continue manufacturing A-bombs and other secret weapons until Moscow's present policies are reversed.

The report recommended that the U-N Security Council endorse the American plan for world atomic control that Russia has refused to accept. Soviet officials turned down the Bernard Baruch program on the ground that it

Students Demonstrate Against Enforcements Of Parking Rulings

Lincoln, Neb., May 7—(UP)—Police used tear gas today to disperse a crowd of more than 2,000 University of Nebraska students, demonstrating against a parking law enforcement, and some students invaded the governor's office to protest directly to him.

The demonstration began when students at classes spotted wreckers towing away students' cars that were double-parked.

They swarmed out of buildings to protest and began dismantling a wrecker.

A police squad car and a motorcycle appeared, and the car stopped. Students let the air out of a tire.

Police let go with a tear gas bomb to break up the crowd. A university official said the wind blew the gas back into the faces of the policemen.

Community Plans Worship Service For Whitsunday

"This is the Father's World" will be the subject of a community worship service to be held next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in the Episcopal church on the anniversary of Pentecost, or Whitsunday.

This is one of many similar services being held throughout America in preparation for the first meeting of the World Council of Churches in Amsterdam, Holland, August 30 to September 5. Official representatives from churches in 39 countries will meet at this Constituting assembly.

Discussion at the Amsterdam conference will center around four important areas of Christian interest: the universal church in God's design, God's design and man's witness, the church and the disorder of society, and the church and international affairs.

Dr. Shelton Smith of the Duke divinity school will be the speaker at Sunday night's service, which is given in response to a request by the American committee for the World Council of Churches. Music will be by the combined choirs of Chapel Hill churches.

GENERAL COLLEGE

All general college students who expect to attend summer school, either one or both terms, will register for their courses by appointment with their advisers during the period May 10 through 15. Appointments may be made by signing an appointment sheet at the information desk, main lobby of South building.

Those students who have been notified of their transferral to the upper college should not make an appointment with a general college adviser, but should register in the College of Arts and Sciences or the School of Commerce.

Nationwide Railroad Strike Set On Tuesday, Pending Arbitration

Washington, May 7 —(UP) — It is still touch-and-go tonight in the threatened railroad strike walkout that would be felt in almost every American home.

The three operating unions involved are still posed to walk out Tuesday at dawn. However, President Truman's top labor adviser, John Steelman, has made some headway to break the stalemate. He talked with union leaders in the White House for most of the day.

During this time, the Brotherhood chiefs secretly laid down the terms on which they would call off the coming strike. Late today, the huddle was broken off. Neither the President's labor adviser nor the union heads would give any details.

Yet Union President Alvanley Johnston of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers said Steelman has promised to talk to the railroads "and then let us know."

The White House added that the talks produced, as it puts it, "no definite results." However, the union leaders are being asked to stand by for another call tomorrow, presumably to be told management's answer.

President William Faricy of the Association of American Railroads and other top railroad men have already been summoned to tomorrow's White House meeting. No definite time has been set for this pow-wow.

Before the union leaders went into the White House talks today, the government laid down a clear-cut warning that it would seize the roads, if necessary, to keep the trains running. Johnston though, said this threat was not mentioned by Steelman.

The three unions have been demanding a 30 per cent raise, plus changes in their working rules. The railroads have been standing firm on a pay offer of 15 and a half cents an hour—the same increase already accepted by more than 1,000,000 other railroad men.

While the peace talks are going on, both the government and the carriers are getting ready for a strike. The post office has drawn up a general order covering mail handling if the emergency comes. In all, 41 railroads have embargoed shipments of livestock and food that is likely to spoil. Most of the big roads have served notice that the strike would shut them down tight as a drum.

Colleges Report Pretty Brunette Stealing Things

Fred Weaver, dean of men, received the following letter from Henry I. Stahr, president of Hood college, Maryland:

"On Tuesday, April 27, two of our residence halls at Hood college were visited in the late afternoon by a young woman who stole $237 from about 30 student rooms and also took an old yellow gold diamond ring worth about $150. Students who saw her say that the young woman has light hair, which was combed straight back; is about 5 feet 3 or 4 inches tall, and weighs about 110 to 120 pounds; that she is attractive in appearance, and has a pleasant voice. She was very clever in posing as a casual visitor and spoke in a friendly manner to the students who met her in the corridors or on the stairways. We have just learned that she got away with $112 at Dickinson college, and also stole small sums at Gettysburg college and Wilson college.

While here she wore white shoes with soft rubber soles, and a light raincoat and scarf. At Dickinson college she is reported as having worn black shoes. It is reported that the young lady is traveling in a Lincoln-Zephyr car with a California license and the Pennsylvania State police are on the alert.

We hope that she can be apprehended because she appears to be a professional who makes a business of robbing college residence halls."

North Carolina Symphony Appears Today On Coast-to-Coast Broadcast Over NBC

National recognition will be given the North Carolina symphony orchestra in a coast-to-coast broadcast of one of its programs from 2 to 3 o'clock this afternoon over the NBC network.

The program will originate in the studios of Station WSJS of Winston-Salem and will be a feature of the National Broadcasting company's popular "Orchestras of the Nation" program.

The invitation to appear on this series is regarded as a coveted honor by orchestras throughout the country, and in this case it is a high compliment to the orchestra and to the entire state. It also offers concrete proof of the increasing interest in the North Carolina symphony throughout the nation.

The purpose of the NBC series "Orchestras of the Nation," which was inaugurated in 1944, is designed to acquaint music lovers with the fine work being done by symphony orchestras, both old and new, in all parts of the United States and to indicate the part each orchestra plays in the musical life of its community.

The program planned for Saturday's broadcast will be, Rossini—Overture to The Thievish Magpie; Beethoven—Symphony No. VII in A Major, Opus 92; Bach—Andante Lento (second movement); and Powell—"Natchez on the Hill."

University Hour to Feature Life Story Of George Washington Carver Sunday

The University Hour will be aired over a state-wide network at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon in a presentation of "The Saintly Scientist," a life story of George Washington Carver, famed Negro educator. It is an original radio biography written by Robert Rolnik, senior from Brooklyn, N. Y.

The program, which will be carried by radio stations WPTF, WDUK, and WTIK, is being produced and directed by Robert Epstein, senior from New York City, assisted by Frances O. Hooks, graduate student from Whiteville. The show is being sponsored by the radio division of the communications center.

John Ehle, senior from Asheville, will play the part of Carver and the show will include a cast of nearly 30 performers, the majority being students of the University.

Carver, who became famous largely through his great work in the peanut industry, will be portrayed first as a boy and then as a man. Of significance will be Ehle's change in the middle of the script from the part of the young Carver to that of the aged man.

The show will trace Carver's life from the time of birth and will include the incident in which the young man was traded into slavery in exchange for an old horse.

The story will seek to show that Carver's incentive to work was at all times built around his profound belief in God.

Epstein presents Carver as a completely unself-centered man who turned down monetary gain in order to help the Southern people whom he loved.

The script will describe Carver's scientific discoveries and will explain his methods in extracting 307 different products from the peanut.

Music for the program will be provided by a singing group in a selection of spiritual songs.

Glee Club Tickets Are Ready For Sale

Tickets for the annual spring concert of the Women's Glee club, which will be presented in Hill hall Thursday are on sale at the glee club box office in Hill 109.

The concert, presented by the Music department and directed by Paul Young, associate professor of music, is the third and final concert of the 1947-48 glee club series. Holders of season tickets must turn in stubs for reserved seats. Single admissions are on sale at 85 cents, including tax.

Miss Mary Helen zum Brunnen, contralto, will be featured as soloist.

The program will include Brahm's six liebeslieder waltzes; standard choral works by Handel, Mendelssohn, and Liszt; opera choruses from works of Purcell, Mozart, and Moussorgsky; a group of folk songs; and modern compositions by William Schuman, Randall Thompson, and Vaughn Williams.

WC FESTIVITIES

All students interested in going to Woman's college for supper, the May festival and dance this evening are asked to call the Y information office before noon today. All persons going must furnish their own transportation. The affair will begin at 3:30 this afternoon in front of South Spencer dormitory, Woman's college.

Broughton Predicts Turnout Of Young Voters in Primary

Raleigh, May 7—(UP)—Former Governor J. Melville Broughton, campaigning at Williamston for the United States Senate, has predicted a record turnout at the May 29 primary. Broughton said more young men and women of early voting age will vote than ever before.

Broughton said the interest is not just casual. He claimed the younger voters are definitely interested in better, progressive government and are intolerant of out-dated political machinery.

The candidate cautioned young voters to study the ideals and principles of democracy so that their eagerness for progress will not result in the overthrow of what he calls "established and worthy principles."

Broughton said the nation needs the vision and enthusiasm of young people.

COMMERCE 71

The Commerce 71 book-keeping quiz scheduled for Monday will be postponed until Saturday of next week, according to the Commerce department. It will take place at 8 o'clock in the morning.

Young Reublicans Outline Program To Support Presidential Candidate

The Young Republicans club outlined a program Thursday night which is designed to give full support to the presidential candidate to be named at the Republican national convention in June.

Bill Hipple, president of the club, presided over the meeting held in Graham Memorial and attend by 66 members and visitors. Among those participating were Parrott Parrish, vice-president of the club, and Coline Smith, one of the club's founders.

The Taft-Hartley act served as the topic of a discussion by members of the club. A vote was subsequently taken in which the group voted overwhelmingly in favor of the labor measure.

In supporting the act Hipple said, "The Taft-Hartley act will establish an equitable basis for arbitration between labor and management. I believe the November election will indicate the American public strongly favors this type of legislation."

The labor bill was the first in a series of issues to be debated at the club's weekly meetings, said Hipple. "At previous meetings we have discussed candidates for the nomination in an attempt to select a specific one as the club's choice for the presidency."

"We decided recently that more could be learned about the candidates by first discussing issues, from which should evolve the exact political standings of those seeking the nomination," he continued.

The meeting disclosed that a majority of the group will attend the convention to be held in Philadelphia on June 21. Club activities from June until November will constitute a drive toward boostng the Repuiblican candidate into the White House, it was decided.

Dr. E. J. Woodhouse is scheduled to address the meeting in Graham Memorial next Thursday, the club announced.

VE, 1945 And Today

Three years ago today the Supreme Headquarters of the Allied Expeditionary Forces flashed the news to the armies to cease fire. The German High Command had capitulated and the war in Europe was over. The time had come for the fuzzy faced kids to turn the battle over to the grey headed seers of the diplomatic army. Millions of tired veterans breathed a sigh of relief and dreamed of home and beer, milkshakes and blondes.

At first there was a lot of talk about forgotten veterans. Memories of the bread lines from the first world war were revived. It didn't take long for the boys to realize that the living vets would be remembered, so they setttled down to cashing government checks and doing some forgetting of their own. In brief they forgot the fellows who didn't come back. The boys bought a piece of goods at Iwo and Metza. A piece of goods which hasn't been delivered and from the looks of the world situation isn't likely to be delivered.

Sure he gets talked about when a guy gets enough beer in him so that he doesn't mind being called a sentimental slob. Combat diary goes to press in the Harry's all over the US but, when the beer wears off the memory wears thin.

Wonder what some of those dog faces would say if they could come home and see what their buddies have bought for him. Do you suppose he would like our USA today where a man has to think twice before he speaks a conviction lest he be put in the "wrong" bracket of ism. He would probably go for this business of condemning everyone who does not believe in the "right type of one hundred percent Americanism", and he would no doubt join some of the "blue blooded groups who know just the right type of people to let into the country, as immigrants. As for peace, he would know just what to do about that because he purchased some of it himself. Sure, he had to buy it with a gun and six feet of earth but, prices are high and you don't get something for nothing.

If he could speak he would probably show a little more faith in the UN and other groups who are willing to try talking as the way to settle problems. He would, have some foolish notion about nations and people trying out the peace table for a change instead of killing off their young every generation. At any rate it does not matter what he thinks because he's dead and thank God the dead can't talk because some body wouldn't like what they had to say worth a good damn.

There's someone who can do his talking for him though and if he thinks enough of his own hide he will do it. The World War II vets seem to have forgotten pretty quickly the causes of the war that cost them several years of their life. They must have forgotten that Adolph Hitler made that war possible because there were enough fools who would go along with him and his ideas on race hatred, bigotery and intollerence. Hitler got his special ism into power by making the German people fear all other isms. We don't want to forget that little fact when the guns cut loose again because if the vets haven't got guts enough to stand up and say that they are tired of little men and little ideas then we are war bound on a jet propelled pogo stick. The time has come for the veterans to stand up on his hind legs and say that he is tired of war and the damn fools with super egoes who start them. The sands of time are running out and Atomic War I is coming closer. The vets have a duty to do and the word failure will be spelled "Greetings". So when and if the Greetings come don't look around for someone to blame it on, buddy, just take one long look in the nearest mirror. That's right, fellow, he's the cause of this damn war. Don't let it disturb you too much though because just think, there'll be another "victory" day to celebrate when its over and you come back.

—C.I.

He-Men Without Beards

By Patricia Clary

Hollywood — (UP) — A group of movie heroes has appealed to scientists for reassurance that they can be beardless and still be he-men.

The actors read in the paper that a bald head is a sign of super-virility. Gentlemen, throw away your toupees, the authorities said.

Some were bristling with brush within a week. Others when the picture started, had to be shifted to a beardless role. (Director Ray Enright is dead set against false whiskers.)

"But I wouldn't want to twit some of those guys who could not grow the whiskers," pointed out George (Gabby) Hayes, noted for his own chin foliage.

One of the men who could produce only a bit of silky down was Robert Bray, six-feet-two, 200 pounds, and a Marine master sergeant in the Pacific.

"That makes him man enough for me," Gabby Hayes chuckled.

Well, the actors want to know, doesn't that apply to downy faces too?

The question came up when Randolph Scott, Robert Ryan and 12 other actors were ordered to grow beards for RKO Radio's "Return of the Badmen."

Studio research experts already have come to the rescue of the beardless actors. They pointed out that they had specified that some of the ruthless gunmen of history, being portrayed in the "Return of the Badmen," should be beardless.

Records show that some of the rough tough badmen, even during long flights or holdups away from razors, couldn't grow beards either.

Such opinions, however, have not consoled Bray and his beardless pals. They wrote to authorities to get the scientific word on it. Are they, or are they not, he-men?

Scientists, those big brawny guys are awaiting your answer.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y. Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager T. E. HOLDEN

Editorial Board

Managing Editor . . . Chuck Hauser
Sports Editors Billy Carmichael, III, Bob Goldwater
Associate Editors . . . Bill Buchan, Sandy Grady, Raney Stanford
News Editor . . . Herb Nachman
Society Editor . . . Weddy Thorp
Photographer . . Wilson Yarborough

Business Board

Circulation Mgr. . . . Owen Lewis
Advertising Mgr. C. B. Mendenhall, Chan Pegram
Subscription Mgrs. . . . Jim King
Asst. Business Mgrs. Mary W. Sledge, Betty Huston
Asst. Circ. Mgrs. . . Randall Hudson, Don Snow

NEWS STAFF: Charlie Gibson, Sally Woodhull, Jim Dickinson, Gordon Huffines, Jack Brown, Stewart McKeel, Margaret Gaston, Dan Wallace, Charlie Craven, Mark Sumner, Emily Baker, Doris Weaver, Harriet Sipple, Sam Whitehall, Helen Highwater.

SPORTS STAFF: Morty Schaap, Dick Jenrette, Larry Fox, Taylor Vaden, Kyle Cox, Bill Gallagher, Mel Horowitz, Faith Adams, Anne Wells.

BUSINESS STAFF: James Crews, Jackie Rogers, J. C. Brown, Joe Williams, Gladys Cottrell, Bill Peebles, Neal Howard, Jr., Vin Snell, Candy Jones, Kathryn McLean, Jim Brown, Baxter Morris, Ed Warton, Leonard Dudley, Jean Williams, Charmian Griffin.

NIGHT EDITOR: Charlie Gibson NIGHT SPORTS: Bill Carmichael

Carolina Carousel

Albright's Machine

By R. Foo Giduz

"Hitched to no machine," it says . . . In fact that's what several thousand of them say in big black letters . . . The alleged "non-hitchee" is of course R. Mayne Albright, the Raleigh gubernatorial challenger . . . And the allegation is the slogan printed on the bright yellow "Albright for Governor" automobile bumper cards now flivvering out all over the state.

Now Mayne is most certainly a man of his word in every way . . . (And incidentally, good buddies, this Johnson - Scott mud-slinging is just the prescription for Dr. Albright) . . . But we put a bunch of those bumper cards on some cars yesterday, then stood off to read them, and started wondering . . . "Hmmmm, hitched to no machine . . . — Well then what is the gol-darned sign hitched onto?" — So mebbe Mayne is politically "machineless" but he's got some 5,000 neatly contradictory posters hitched to "machines" all over the state ! ! !

In one case maybe it's okay . . . C. C., the only local member of the Bicycle Safety Division of the Carolina Motor (Machine?) Club, hitched one of the sporty signs onto his velocipede yesterday . . . There it may be "hitched to no machine" but it's certainly tied onto the Carousel bandwagon ! . . . Joke about it or not, but: — 'Member Mayne, the man minus machine . . ."

. . . Hard times comin' now to "Jawbone Julia" Ross of the Natural Bridge Y Conference Embezzling Incident, and the famous Pi Phi House Money Machinations of recent . . . Worm turned, and drastically so . . . Poppa Ross sent her $85 butter and egg money this week . . . She cashed the check, went out to study (it is alleged !) . . . Next morning gentle "Jawbone Julia" found herself minus the whole $85 cash; and sez won't somebody please help little ol' her find it . . . There is a reward . . . She says the finder may keep the $85 if he will just please return her $.10 purse which contained the cash . . . Sentimental value, y'know . . . Yep, that's our "Jawbone Julia."

—One next final appeal, ladies and gents . . . Only one more day (next Saturday) to register for voting after today . . . And precinct Democratic voters meetings are being held in town today . . . So if you are a CH resident, or intend to be, don't miss out on taking a stake in the proof of your American ticket . . .

WHAT'S UP in Graham Memorial

Willing to try anything that might please the students, the staff of GM is planning a "real ole mountaineer" square dance for Saturday night in the Rendezvous.

Arnold Wilson, manager of the campus night spot and a mountaineer from way back, will act as caller. The square dancing is planned for the early part of the evening, with ball room dancing as usual later on.

If the "swing yore honey" trick proves popular with the campus, square dancing will become a regular feature of the Rendezvous, Wilson says.

"Tonight is just an experiment," he said, "to see how the Carolina crowd takes to it."

Incidentally, hope you photog fans won't forget about Bob Coulter's class in methods of developing. Meets this morning at 10:30 in the darkroom, next to the barbershop on the ground floor.

MORE BRICKS

A new, brick walk is now in the process of being construced from Swain hall to the West Gate, J. S. Bennett, director of operations announced yesterday. He said that it would probably be ready before commencement exercises begin.

Pit And The Pendulum

These Civil Rights

By Raney Stanford

It has been estimated that by this time over 60 per cent of the Southern people have heard of the report of the President's Committee on civil rights, but one wonders how many of us actually know what the report says, the facts the report is based on and the recommandations it makes. Too many of us are probably like Cotton-Eyed Joe who angrily dismisses the whole thing as "a bunch of dam' Yankee stuff (I believe that was the word he used), I'm agin it," and let it go at that.

This report was made by a 16-man group of civic leaders in accordance with a request by President Truman to recommend legislation to correct various descriminatory practices. The group, consisting of Charles E. Wilson, Sadie T. Alexander, John B. Carey, John S. Dickey, Morris L. Ernst, Roland B. Gittelsohn, Frank P. Graham, Rev. Francis J. Haas, Charles Luckman, Francis P. Matthews, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, Boris Shishkin, Dorothy Tilly, and Channing Tobias, wrote a logical concise report that has been in the public eye more or less since its release early in the year.

We cannot begin to show in this brief space the details and dirty corners the Committee explores and exposes, it is only to be hoped that all will secure a copy of the report and see for themselves. (and we do not mean all interested, we mean all.) All we can hope to do is outline some of the more outstanding points in the work in an effort to give Committee Chairman Wilson the "fair hearing . . . and serious discussion" that he requests.

Starting from the basic premises that "all men are brothers, and each man is his brother's keeper" the Committee has divided the essential rights of a citizen into four categories; the right to safety and security of the person, the right to citizenship and its privileges, the right to freedom of conscience and expression, and the right to equality of opportunity. They explore the past record of the American people as to the treatment of peoples that are "different", present injustices, outlooks for the future, and then make suggestions to safeguard the four rights mentioned.

"A minority," says the Committee, "broadly defined, is a group which is treated or which regards itself as a people apart. It is distinguished by cultural or physical characteristics, or both." Breaking this definition down one comes to the various religious minorities the Catholics and Jews predominating. There are cultral minorities consisting of people with different ancestral backgrounds. And then there are racial differences, with the largest factor here being the American Negro. But the Committee also points out the four million Mexicans in the United States, the 400,000 Indians, the Chinese, Japanese, Filipinos, Puerto Ricans and Hispanos of New Mexico as groups often descriminated against in the various parts of the country wherein they reside, groups that are often more or less overlooked by people working on this problem.

In proposing legislation to correct the abuses of what in many instances seem to be fundamental prejudices the Committee holds that the "achievement of full civil rights in law may do as much to end prejudice as the end of prejudice may do to achieve full civil rights." And laws can remove the visible monifastations of descrimination as well as inform and educate the public.

And it is up to the national government to assume the leadership in an American civil rights program "because there is much in the field of civil rights that it is squarely responsible for in its own direct dealings with millions of persons."

The Committee lists several important actions that can be taken legally to further the ends of their report; prominent among which are the restyling of the Civil Rights Section of the Department of Justice, the enactment of an an antilynching law, the abolition of poll taxes and other voting descriminations, removal of many citizenship handicaps, the passage of a federal Fair Employment Act and the elimination of segregation.

In speaking of segregation it is interesting to note the figures the Committee has gathered to show that the more different races know of each other, the less prejudice there is. "There is no adequate defense of segregation," the Committee states. They say that it is inconsistent with American ideals, that the "seperate but equal "solution" is bunk; the races are not equal, groups have less facilities than others and are branded as inferior. And finally there is "incontrovertible evidence that an environment favorable to civil rights is fostered whenever groups are permitted to live and work together."

This Changing World

"Common-ism" --- Democracy

By Bill Robertson

Recently there has appeared in our country a translation of a report by Mao Tse-Tung, Chinese Communist leader. In this report Mao Tse-Tung makes a detailed analysis of the political, economic and military situation in China. We should like to quote a sentence or two from both the beginning and end in order to give the reader the "flavor" of this report which is very sweet and pleasant. The quotation from the beginning is as follows:

This is a turning-point in history . . . from growth to extermination of the counter-revolutionary rule of Chiang Kai-shek . . . This is a great event . . . because it occurs in a country of 450,000,000 people, and because it occurs in the eastern part of the world where there is a population totaling more than a billion (half of mankind) suffering from the oppression of imperialism.

And here is the quotation from the end of the report:

All viewpoints which overestimate the strength of the enemy and underestimate the strength of the people are erroneous. Together with the democratic forces of the whole world we need only exert our efforts and we can . . . block a third world war so that it cannot take place (emphasis ours, B. R.) overthrow the oppression of all reactionaries, and win the victory of eternal peace for mankind.

Now it must be admitted that this kind of talk—reflecting a view of democratic optimism —is pretty potent stuff. To know that there will be no third world war makes the chicken dinner taste better on Sunday! It makes the kisses in the arboretum sweeter! It makes life worth living!

But yet it cannot be denied that this view is in direct contradiction to that of Hearst, Bullitt, Earle, and Harry S. Truman. (Perhaps the last named does not have an original view on the matter). Let us examine this contradiction.

In past articles we have more than hinted at the material basis of the ridiculous "war hysteria" in our country. (At the time this article is written there is a temporary "lull", but things may change by the time it goes to press —another submarine or flying saucer may be sighted!)

There is greed and fear on the part of the multi-millionaires and billionaires in America today — the greed for profits (which explains high prices) and the fear of the masses of people who have sweated to produce them (which explains attacks on civil liberties).

No wonder cynicism and despair creeps through the atmosphere! The "greedy" and the "fearful" control the radio and newspapers and we have to listen to THEIR lamentations, to THEIR swan-songs!

But the Third Party Movement is growing stronger daily. A member of the Carolina Conservative club, Mr. Paul Mullinax, has reported that Radio Moscow calls it the Popular Front of the American people. Well, why shouldn't it be a front of workers, small farmers, share-croppers, small businessmen, and the oppressed Negro people against (pardon the expression) Wall Street and the Southern Bourbons? Ain't it the truth?

To paraphrase the words of Will Rogers — "folks who ain't saying 'ain't' these days ain't happy." This is because there are so many common people everywhere — and if they ever take the notion to run things for themselves we would have "common-ism" (some people call it democracy). Then the shoe-shine boys would be going to college, and we would soon find out who is too lazy to shine his own shoes!

Sired By A Syringe

What, No Elation?

By C. Renyoz

"The free choice system of mate selection no longer works well," says an Ohio State University Professor. "In our mobile society it brings together in marriage couples who lack common background and are incompatible."

It is obvious to the thinking person of today that the old mating system, motivated solely by an animal urge which is a hold-over from the period of man's evolution, will have to go! The man of the future, when he decides he wants an heir, will simply take down his male order catalogue and fill out the blank, stating size and color, and whether or not he wishes to skirt the issue. Character traits will be rationed, but everyone will have the opportunity to get genes with the light brown hair.

In the atomic age, there will still be a few using the standard dodge, "He swore it was artificial respiration," but the majority of us will be singing, "It couldn't have been me!"

The America of tomorrow will have a fifth freedom, and already the propaganda campaign has begun to prepare us for the new Emancipation Proclamation. Freedom of Fear of Sterilization! Artificial insemination may prove the means of propagation to save the nation. If you want your yearly ration, state your name and occupation, and have your form filled out at the nearest station. (Or will they find a way to beat inflation?) Be sure to follow the regulations. This may prove the new sensation, but it'll sure play hell with race relations, but can modern man resist temptation for the good of the whole?

Anyway, it will give night baseball a new chance to replace sex!

Write Away

A Coke Machine For Nash

Editor:

I am writing to express the protest and regret of the residents of Miller and Nash Halls concerning the recent removal of Coca Cola dispensing machines from these two halls, by University officials. At the same time, I would like to pass along another idea that has been in my mind since I saw a Coke dispenser installed in Lenoir Hall for the workers. Certain uproar in the Write Away column has delayed my saying that I think Coke machines should be established in each dorm. Now the five days of having a Coke dispenser at hand has reaffirmed my conviction that they are very handy to have around. Particularly were they convenient here where the open living conditions prevent each person from keeping his own supply.

I do not know why the dispensers were taken away from these two places. They were self-sufficient and certainly not so disturbing as the vendors who come around, parading nightly through the bunks and at one time into the study hall. I suppose that perhaps the profits weren't going where they should. This doesn't matter to us. Whoever gets the paltry profit, WE WANT THE COKE DISPENSERS BACK. It is my understanding that Cokes and other items are sold in the women's dorms. I do not see how the Coke dispensers were any more in violation of the Unisted Act or any other act than the proposed dorm stores.

I believe that if sufficient interest is shown in having the machines installed, or at least a reason given as to why they can not be installed, we have Coca-Cola dispensers placed in every dorm. Consider the convenience of just going down stairs and feeding a nickel to a machine to get that "Pause that refreshes," and let keep on talking until we get dispensers or know the reason why.

Hope no one finds this letter "nauseating" or "contains charges" just because Coke dispensers are red. Perhaps the red color was the reason the University officials removed the dispensers!

Paint them blue if you wish, but they are a real convenience and we deserve and want them.

Erie Cofield

He Wants His Back Too

Dear Editor:

After enduring eight months of over-crowded conditions and numerous inconveniences as a resident of Miller Hall, I was overjoyed, as were my 100 roommates, at the installation of a Coke machine in Miller and Nash Halls. This was very convenient when you consider that Miller and Nash are probably the most remote of all University housing units. No longer did we have to trudge to the Scuttlebutt for a Coke. No longer when we were studying at night did we have to dress and walk uptown through the rain to pick up a midnight snack. Instead of the half-hour break in our studies we could be refreshed and back to our studies in less than ten minutes.

But now the University officials have taken it away, much to the sorrow of the occupants of Miller and Nash halls. If the University is afraid of the profit made by a private concern, why can't they install some of their own? The popularity of these machines has been proved by the fact that the machine has sold out each night. I think that some of the many officers we elected should investigate this situation and act to get coke machines not only for Miller and Nash, but for all dorms.

W. Norman Booker

(Editor's note: According to the Purchasing department, a university regulation prohibits the putting of vending machines of any kind in Men's Dorm. The Coke machines were placed in Miller and Nash without permission or sanction of South Building and had to be removed when they were discovered.

The machines in the Women's dorms are placed there by the YWCA and each machine is supervised by a coed. Profits from these machines go to the "Y".)

Nice Words For Carolina

Ed Note:

The following letter was received by Mr. Barret, faculty advisor on the Debate Council, from the two Oxford University debaters who were here in January:

"Dear Prof. Barrett,

"I thought that you would like to know that the following resolution was passed unanimously by the Society, at a crowded meeting held soon after our return to Oxford, and on the occasion of the Presidential debate.

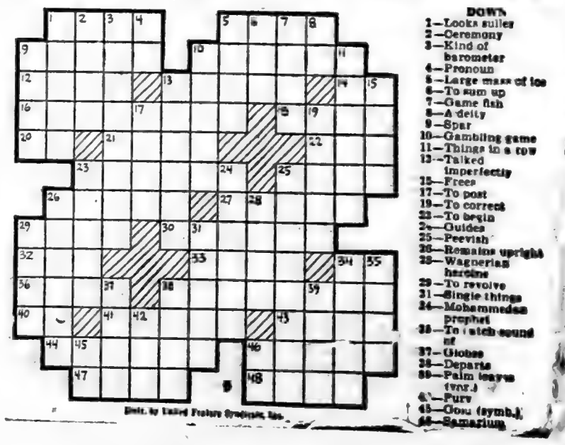
"That this House wishes to express its heartfelt appreciation and thanks to all those who extended their generous hospitality to the Union debaters during their recent visit to the U. S. A., and Canada; and looks forward eagerly to welcoming debating teams from those countries in the near future."

"Our visit to Chapel Hill, and, thanks to you, to Duke also, was one of the highlights of our tour. Best wishes and many thanks."

Signed:
Edward Boyle
Kenneth Harris

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE



ACROSS

1—Ship's bow
5—Infant
9—Kind of cloth
10—Metal disks
12—Car
13—Masters
14—Hesitant expression
15—Halting
18—Hindu sash
20—Things to be suited to
21—The Orient
22—Middle
23—Short stalk
25—Service charges
28—Greek pillar
27—Sea birds
29—Heavenly body
30—Fenced
32—Level of exchange
33—Snug retreat
34—Exclamation of surprise
36—In
38—Sunflower
40—Western state (abbr.)
41—Fixbts
43—Jug
44—Swords
46—To stain
47—Practices
48—Web

DOWN

1—Looks sullen
2—Ceremony
3—Kind of barometer
4—Pronoun
5—Large mass of ice
6—To sum up
7—Game fish
8—A deity
9—Spar
10—Gambling game
11—Things in a row
12—Talked imperfectly
15—Frees
17—To post
19—To correct
22—To begin
24—Guides
25—Peevish
26—Remains upright
28—Wagnerian heroine
29—To revolve
31—Single things
34—Mohammedan prophet
35—To watch sound of
37—Globes
38—Departs
39—Palm leaves (var.)
41—Fury
42—Ohm (symb.)
46—Samaritan

Trackmen Meet Navy Here Today; Linksmen Defend Loop Crown At Pinehurst

Runners Seeking Third Win of Season In Test With Middies at Fetzer Field

By Larry Fox

Carolina's track team will have one of its biggest tests of the season when the Tar Heels run into speedy Navy from Annapolis here this afternoon at Fetzer field beginning at 3 o'clock.

MARK BURNHAM
. running daily double.

The Middies, who are as much at home on the cinders as on board ship, faced the Duke Blue Devils in Durham yesterday. In the last meet, they triumphed over Manhattan college and Villanova in a triangular meet. Manhattan almost always produces top track aggregations as do the Wildcats.

Last season the Tar Heels took a close 66-65 decision from the future admirals and this year there will not be much more of a difference in the final tally.

Carolina Won

Carolina won the meet in the last event, when the Navy mile relay team was disqualified for passing the baton illegally. Today's meet probably won't be decided until all but the last few events have been run off.

Navy's greatest scoring punch will probably come in the 440, 880 and the mile relay. The Middies are blessed with a wealth of middle distance men led by Gunner Garibaldi. The relay quartet of Garibaldi, Elliott, Angleman, and Duncan should cop their event with little difficulty.

Jim Oberholtzer, who generally performs in the distances, will be the big threat of the visitors in the 880. However, Julian MacKenzie and John Bristow ought to score quite a few points for the Tar Heels in the half mile.

Weight Trio

Navy's weight trio includes two footballers and should make things close for Bob Seligman and Fred Ogden in the shot putt and Seligman and Larry Klosterman in the discus. Dick Scott, who took first place in the discus for Navy in their triangular meet, captained the Middy eleven last fall.

MacKenzie will double in the meet and run in the mile as well as the 880, Mark Burnham and Jimmy Miller will also run the four lap distance. Miller will see further action in the two-mile and he will head the Tar Heel entry along with Sam Magill. Dick Hall is the big man in the mile for Navy.

The lineup for Carolina this afternoon will be much the same as in the earlier meets this season.

Track Lineup

CAROLINA

Dashes—Nelson, Willis, Schultz.
440—White, Lentz.
880—MacKenzie, Bristow.
One-mile—MacKenzie, Burnham, Miller.
Two-mile—Magill, Miller.
Pole vault—Hickman, House.
High-jump—Moody, Joyner.
Broad jump—Briley, Moody.
Shot put—Seligman, Ogden.
Discus throw—Sligman, Klosterman.
Javelin—Kirk, Baldwin.
High hurdles—Taylor, Morrow, Heggie.
Low hurdles—Taylor, Morrow, Schultz.
Mile relay—Spain, MacKenzie, Black, Nelson.

NAVY

Dashes—Ambrogi, Lasley, Murray.
440—Garibaldi, Elliott.
880—Knapp, Oberholtzer.
One mile—Loomis.
Two mile—Hall.
Pole vault—Barrow, Hardy.
High jump—Davis, Brannon.
Broad jump—Fischer, McCollough.
Shot put—Smith, Beeler, Scott.
Discus throw—Smith, Beeler, Scott.
Javelin—Rudzis, Humphrey.
High hurdles—Berggren, Barrow.
Low hurdles—Kennedy, Mea...
Mile relay—Garibaldi, Elliott, Angleman, Duncan.

Louis-Walcott Battle Flames in New York

New York, May 7—(UP)—The Joe Louis-Jersey Joe Walcott heavyweight war of words has broken out again.

The other day the champion took a verbal poke at Walcott's backtracking performance in their first fight. Louis said he was looking for sparring partners who could do the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds, so they could help him "step fast."

Today Walcott had a reply. Louis needn't to worry about stepping fast, Jersey Joe said. What the champ needs is somebody to make him think fast. Louis' foot work is all right, Walcott claims, but "his brain is slow."

Navy Tracksters Top Duke in Durham Meet

Durham, May 7—The Navy track team took a 67 5-6—63 1-6 decision from the Duke Blue Devils here this afternoon in the Middie's preview to their clash with Carolina in Chapel Hill tomorrow.

The Sailors took eight of 15 first places and a total of seven seconds to win the meet.

Dick Ambrogi led the Middie scoring with 10 points from first places in the 100 and 220-yard dashes. Jim Oberholtzer tallied nine for the visitors. He copped the 880-yard run and tied for first in the mile. Oberholtzer was well out in front in the mile, but stopped short of the tape to wait for teammate Frank Raab.

Dick Hall scored the biggest win of the afternoon when he came home in the two-mile about 200 yards ahead of his nearest opponent.

BALMING IN THE PINEHURST SUN between practice rounds at the famed Sand Hill golf center are seven members of the Tar Heel golf team, five of whom will carry the Carolina colors in the Southern Conference tournament today. Left to right they are: Roy McKenzie, Dan Nyimicz, Bob Cox, Harvie Ward, Bob Whaling, Jack Brantley, and Frank Brooks. McKenzie, Cox, Ward, Brantley and Brooks will compose the Blue and White entry today along with Harvey Oliver who was absent when the picture was made.
(Photo courtesy the Durham Herald)

Ward Rated Favorite to Cop Medal Title As Duke, Wake Forest Rule Team Choices

By Billy Carmichael III

Pinehurst, May 7, — North Carolina's defending Southern conference golf champions will put their somewhat-tarnished crown on the line here tomorrow when some eight or more loop schools tee off in a 36-hole competition for individual and team honors in the annual conference go-round.

But the Tar Heels are not exactly the favorites to regain their title. They fell 25-2 before Duke on Tuesday and both Wake Forest and State, two of the other entries in the big action, hold dual meet wins making it a toss-up for the favorite for team honors.

Rest of Field

The rest of the field seems to be playing a little out of its class. Davidson is the strongest of the remaining entrants with George Washington, Washington and Lee, and VPI rounding out the field.

Team honors will be decided on the basis of the squad posting the four lowest 36-hole scores from among its six individual competitors.

Even with the evenly matched field of four top flight teams, the Dukesters will probably get the pre-tourney nod of the experts on the basis of their depth and experience. Wake Forest has what looks to be the abliest group of players, but a group that are young and somewhat-untried.

State Runs

State runs hot and cold and therefore falls in the class with the Tar Heels who could regain their title if and when they played at the top of their game.

The lads of Coach Chuck Erickson do have a chance though to cop individual honors in the tourney and that chance seems to ride on the shoulders of Harvie Ward.

Ward won the North-South amateur crown recently over the same No. 2 Pinehurst country club course that will be the scene of the competition tomorrow, and his past performance here has installed him as the favorite to capture the medalist honors.

Ward Faces

Ward will face a stiff test from several other conference stars. Notably among them are Jimmy McNair, the Duke ace, who topped the Tarboro Tartar, 4-3, at Hope Valley this week, and Wake Forest's Arnold Palmer who Ward beat by the same score in the North-South semi-finals.

The rest of the Tar Heel team entry will be the same group of faces that have been swinging the clubs for the Carolinians throughout the season. Veteran Bob Cox is the only other holdover from last year's winning team. Filling the rest of the slots will be Jack Brantley, Frank Brooks, Roy McKenzie and Harvey Oliver.

The six Tar Heels and coach Chuck Erickson along with spare Lewis Holding arrived here today and got in a practice round in preparation for the big grind tomorrow.

The morning round will see the first threesome go out at 8:30 with the afternoon round beginning at one.

Monogram Picnic

The Monogram will hold its gala spring picnic this afternoon at Hogan's Lake, it was announced yesterday by president Bill Pritchard.

The big affair will be open to all those who took part in the Blue-White football game and their dates, together with all monogram members and their ladies.

Trucks to the lake will leave the gym for the convenience of the picnickers at 4, 5, and 6 o'clock, Pritchard also stated.

Baseball, Net Teams Rained Out; Both Play Journey Finales Today

Hearnmen Play Hoyas In Nation's Capital

By Buddy Vaden

College Park, Md., May 7—Ole Jupe Pluvius smiled with disfavor on the scheduled Southern conference scrap between North Carolina and Maryland here this afternoon, with the result that the game was washed off the slate.

The Tar Heels, on what started out to be a three-game tour of Virginia, Maryland and Washington, D. C., still have one contest remaining—that against Georgetown in the Capital City tomorrow. The touring Carolinians will be seeking to snap a two-game losing streak in the non-conference encounter.

Southpaw Vinnie DiLorenzo was set to hurl today's clash, but the rainout may cause a slight change in the pitching schedule. Instead of sending their number one ace against the Hoyas tomorrow, Coaches Bunn Hearn and Walt Rabb might stick with Tommy Andrew, who was the original choice to face Georgetown in pre-tour planning.

In such a case, DiLorenzo would be saved for the Big Four and Southern conference battle with Wake Forest in Chapel Hill next Tuesday.

Today's cancellation is the first that the Tar Heels have encountered this year in their conference competition. Currently topping the 16-team standings with a 9-2 record, the Carolina club holds a 1 1-2 game lead over Wake Forest and Washington and Lee, who are tied for second with 7-3.

Tar Baby Tilts Are Cancelled

Two Tar Baby engagements—in baseball and tennis—were cancelled yesterday, thereby cutting down on the Carolina sports action for today.

The jayvee baseball journey to Greensboro to oppose that city's high school Whirlies was washed out by yesterday's rain in the Gate City. Originally slated for today, the game was moved up one day because of a schedule conflict. No arrangements have yet been made for playing off the scrap.

The freshman tennis team was also set to see action this afternoon but that encounter—against Maury high school of Norfolk—has been postponed until May 17. Unless another match is arranged in the next few days, the yearling netters will not face outside competition until that date.

The Tar Baby baseballers will not be out of action that long, however. Coach Henry House's charges travel to Maxton on Monday to play a return tussle with Presbyterian Junior college.

Later in the week, the Tar Babies are scheduled for two little Big Three games. They meet State's juniors in Raleigh on Thursday and are at home on Saturday to face Duke.

Carolina Racquetmen In Richmond Action

Haverford, Pa., May 7—North Carolina's Tar Heel tennis team missed an opportunity to notch their 20th victory of the year at the expense of Haverford college here today when the rains intervened and caused postponement.

With no match to play, the visitors from the South moved on in the direction of Richmond where tomorrow they will face the Country Club of Virginia in their last dual meet of the season.

The Tar Heels are sporting a 3-1 record for their northern swing, having downed Army, Navy, and Penn while dropping a close 5-4 decision to national champions William and Mary.

Following the match in Virginia, the North Carolinians will return home to begin preparations for the Southern conference tourney to be played in Chapel Hill next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Don Skakle is leading the invasion with four straight wins in a like number of outings.

In the Majors

By United Press

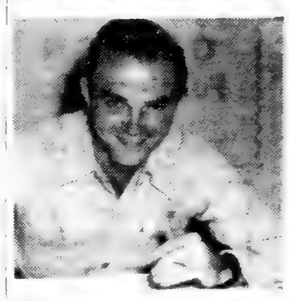
NATIONAL LEAGUE

Brooklyn 9, Chicago 5.
WP—Casey; LP—Hamner.
Boston 4, Cincinnati 3.
WP—Voiselle; LP—Blackwell.
St. Louis 7, Philadelphia 4 (night).
WP—Pollet; LP—Judd.
New York-Pittsburgh, postponed.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Cleveland 8, Washington 0 (night)
WP—Lemon; LP—Haefner.
Detroit-New York, St. Louis-Boston, Chicago-Philadelphia postponed by rain.

HOME RUNS



Elliott and Heath (Braves); Kluszewski (Reds); Gordon, and Clark (Indians); Jones (Cards).

Barron Takes Lead In Goodall Tourney

New Rochelle, N. Y., May 7—(UP)—Herman Barron of White Plains, N. Y., came through with a three-under-par 69 to take the second round lead in the $10,000 Goodall round robin golf tournament. There was to have been a third round today at the Wykagyl course here but rain forced postponement of that until tomorrow.

His 69 gave Barron 11 points today, for a plus 24 after two rounds, and a one-hole lead over Bobby Locke of South Africa.

HUMOR EDITOR

TOM WHARTON
smokes

CHESTERFIELDS

He says:
I smoke them because I like them—they stay fresher longer and suit my taste. Boy! how they satisfy!

Chesterfield—year after year—first choice of college men and women.

PATRONIZE
Tar Heel Advertisers
Today

"My demands are a two-hour week on my homework—and a pack and a half of Dentyne Chewing Gum for overtime.

"Fact is, Pop, it'll even be a treat to study overtime—for a bonus of swell, nifty-tasting Dentyne Chewing Gum! And don't forget, Dentyne helps keep my teeth white, too."

Dentyne Gum—Made Only By Adams

SPALDING SPORTS SHOW

THE TWINS OF CHAMPIONSHIP TENNIS
The SPALDING and the Spalding-made WRIGHT & DITSON Tennis Balls lead the field in official adoptions for Major Tournaments, including the U. S. Davis Cup and National Championships.

SPALDING SETS THE PACE IN SPORTS

BUSES NOW LEAVING DAILY AT
2:05 AM, 4:10 AM, 5:30 AM, 8:10 AM, 11:05 AM, 2:10 PM, 5:05 PM, 6:10 PM, 9:45 PM.
Use these convenient schedules to reach Western N. C., S. Carolina and Georgia Pts.
Chapel Hill Bus Terminal
311 W. Franklin St.
Phone 4281

CAROLINA TRAILWAYS

2 IMPORTANT LAND SALES AT AUCTION

TODAY MAY 8

First Sale at 2 P.M. in Carrboro

Here we will sell the heart of the town, subdivided into Building Lots. This is certainly the best Business Property in Carrboro, fronting 200 feet on Main Street and 300 feet on Weaver Street, adjoining the Post Office and Baptist Church property, just across from the new Bank and the Pacific Mills Property.

To you who want to make a sound investment, we think it will pay you to look this property over before the sale, then attend the sale and bid your judgment.

Second Sale at 4 P.M., Just Outside Hillsboro City Limits

Known as the Kirkland Property, on and just off Highway 70.

Here we have some of the best building lots to be found in this section of the country. We have cut these lots good and deep so you can have a garden if you want it. We also have a beautiful fish pond adjoining these beautiful lots, and purchasers of lots will have fishing rights, which is something all of us enjoy.

We want you who have been looking for a home site to look these lots over before the sale and attend the sale and bid your judgment, for when the bidding stops, we will sell the lots. Since Highway 70 is now being worked on and will be one the state's finest roads, we want you to follow the arrows to the sale.

Come Early and Get Your Ticket to the FREE Big Barbecue Supper FREE

We will have barbecue for 500 people absolutely free. We will also give away free cash prizes. Good music for your entertainment.

UNIVERSITY AUCTION CO.,
Selling Agents
Geddie Fields, Chapel Hill, N.C., Auctioneer
If you have property you want sold, get in touch with us.

ANNOUNCING!
The OPENING of
The Pines Drive In
COME OUT
Serving "Carolina" Better

Fine Watches Need Excellent Care . . .
A Complete Watch Repair Service at—
BLACKWOOD
ASSOCIATE STORE

TWO BLOCKS WEST OF CITY HALL
You'll Find A Solution To All Laundry Problems
HELPY-SELFY
AUTOMATIC LAUNDRY
Bendix Machines
W. Rosemary St.

RADIO REPAIRS
24 Hour Service
OGBURN Furniture Co.
Phone 5841
WEST FRANKLIN STREET

Call 3536 for prompt deliveries of ice cold beer by case or keg
All Popular Brands
Phone 3536
K & M
Beer Delivery Service

Are Radio Programs . . . | . . . Effective Teachers ?

U.S. Navy Project Here Working On New Fields In Communications

Project Is First Of Type Tried, Officials Declare

By William Workman

Six hundred college freshmen soon will be sitting in on an experiment that may well make history in the fields of social science and communications.

This is a project wherein the United States Navy wants to determine how much men can learn by radio and what type of radio program is the most effective teacher. For the answers the Navy has turned to the University of North Carolina.

Working together in an effort to find the answer are the Communication center and the Institute for Research in Social Science at Chapel Hill and the Department of Social Studies in the School of Engineering at State college in Raleigh.

Navy Finances

Financed by the Navy's Office of Naval Research Special Devices Center, the project is scheduled to run for 12 months.

Now in the process of organization and planning, the staff for the project is just about complete. The director is John E. Ivey, Jr., chief of the institute's division of research interpretation. Daniel O. Price, research associate in the institute, will supervise the staff will serve as assistant to the director. William R. Workman is the radio-television writer. Leo Kuper and Barbara Chartier are research assistants, and Nadine Fitcher, administrative-secretary.

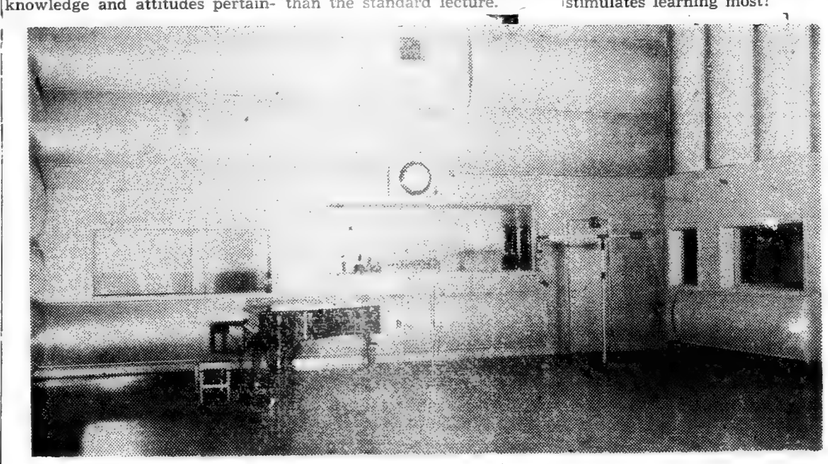
Writing and Producing

The primary responsibility for supervision of the project is being assumed by the Institute for Research in Social Science. The Institute's research staff will handle the experimental design of the project, the development and administration of the testing program, adequacy of the content for radio programs and final analyses of the data gathered The Communication center will be responsible for, and supervise. the writing and producing of the radio programs.

Present plans are that the experiment will be conducted during the fall quarter of this year. The social study classes at State college will be used as the group to be tested. Approximately 600 State freshmen will take part in the three-week experiment. Before the experiment begins the tistical aspects. Harry B. Williams group will be pre-tested on their knowledge and attitudes pertaining to a given body of information. Other information to be secured will concern family background, education and facts pertinent to the students' beliefs.

Test Students' Reactions

The University research staff for the project, consisting of psychologists and sociologists, is interested in finding how students' attitudes as well as social and economic backgrounds affect their reactions to information presented by radio. Other questions are concerned with radio listening and problems of learning; as well as the objective and critical attitudes of people toward social, economic and political problems and how radio listening might affect these attitudes.



When classes start in the fall 16 groups of students will be assigned to the experiment. All groups will receive the same subject matter. They will each be given the same number of facts, the same appeals, situations and examples. However, these will be in the form of four different types of radio programs. Meeting three times a week, these groups will listen to the radio rather than the standard lecture.

Though the subject matter might cover a lecture on American history, four groups would hear it discussed in an interview form, four in a roundtable, four in a story-dramatic, and four in a story-narrative. At the same time, a control group would be given the identical material in the standard college lecture manner.

Nine Day Experiment

The radio programs will run for 35 minutes, followed by a short daily quiz. During the nine days of the experiment, two will be taken up with pre-testing, six with radio instruction and one with an examination covering all the radio instruction material. Plus covering all the instructional material, this final exam will also show any changes which might have occurred in the students' attitudes.

The final statistics and results will provide evidence to confirm or deny the pre-determined hypotheses constructed by the research staff. These hypotheses, or statements assumed for the purpose of argument, will be concerned with such questions as: What type of radio presentation stimulates learning most?

THE MAIN STUDIO of the Communication center's Radio department. Here the dramatic programs for the Navy's radio research project will be produced.

SHOWN IN CONFERENCE are members of the radio research project being conducted by the University for the United States Navy. Seated (left to right) Earl Wynn, director, Communication center; William R. Workman, radio-writer; Harry B. Williams, assistant to the director; Nadine Fichter, administrative-secretary; and John E. Ivey, Jr., director of the research project.

What types of attitudes and experiences are barriers to learning in social science? What types of attitudes and experiences enable a person to take an objective point of view toward social situations? Does an objective point of view enable a person to learn better?

As far as is known, this is the first research project of its type ever attempted. When all the tests have been completed, processed, and analyzed, the figures may well tell an interesting and amazing story. Educators may be able to program their radio time with shows that are of greater interest and instructional value. The Navy may have evidence pointing to new directions for personnel training by radio.

This information might suggest revolutionary changes in the manner of getting information and instruction to reserve training units. For the social scientist it may help answer many questions that have gone unanswered too long.

TAR HEEL Advertisers—
Pledged to Good Service
Patronize Them

READ THE CLASSIFIEDS AND SAVE

FOR SALE 6B

SOLD—ALL BUT A VERY LIMITED number of two-bedroom houses just completed on Rogerson Drive. These can be seen upon application to Hill Homes, Inc., 27 Rogerson Drive. (ch 1x2)

22 FOOT HOUSE TRAILER. PERMANENT bed, oil heater, gas cooking stove, conveniently located. Priced for quick sale. Inquire any time 16 Uni. Trailer Court. (1-379-1)

ONE ELECTRIC COKE DISPENSER in good condition. May be seen at Phi Kappa Sigma House anytime (1-363-1)

24 FOOT ALMA HOUSE TRAILER IN excellent condition. Electric brakes Sleeps four. Priced for quick sale ($1295.00) John L. Harris, B-V-P Trailer Lot No. 250. (1-366-1)

NEW BRICK HOME VERY CLOSE IN Immediate possession. Write or call University Cleaners for appointment Phone 4921. (ch 1x1)

18 FOOT PATHFINDER HOUSE trailer. Excellent condition. Priced for immediate sale. See after 5 p.m. at Pittsboro Road Trailer Court. (1-360-1)

FOR SALE AUTOMOTIVE 6BB

INDIAN SCOUT MOTORCYCLE FOR —excellent condition. Complete engine overhaul last December. Reasonable. Phone 9367 during day or write Box 651, Chapel Hill. (1-365-1)

SERVICES OFFERED 19

COMPLETE MODERN RADIO APpliance service shop now open and ready to serve you. We call for, deliver. Johnson-Strowd-Ward Furniture, 422 W. Franklin. Telephone F-3691 (ch 1x1)

WANTED TO RENT 24B

URGENTLY NEED APARTMENT FOR married couple, no children, temporary or permanent residence. References furnished. Phone Mrs. Jack Burke, 7781 before 4:30 p.m.; 131 Mason Farm Rd. after 4:30. (1-362-1)

NOW PLAYING
CAROLINA

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger Nail Test

All panda-monium just broke loose for this little guy with the hairy ears and two black eyes. Somebody snitched his Wildroot Cream-Oil! You may not be a panda — but why not see what Wildroot Cream-Oil canda? Just a little bit grooms your hair neatly and naturally without that plastered-down look. Relieves annoying dryness and removes loose, ugly dandruff. And Wildroot Cream-Oil helps you pass the Fingernail Test! It's non-alcoholic . . . contains soothing Lanolin. Get a tube or bottle of Wildroot Cream-Oil hair tonic at any drug or toilet goods counter today. And always ask your barber for a professional application. In case there's a panda in your house — keep some Wildroot Cream-Oil handa for him!

* of 327 Burroughs Drive, Snyder, N. Y.

Wildroot Company, Inc., Buffalo 11, N. Y.

Wildroot Cream-Oil
Get it at
SUTTON'S
DRUG STORE
Your Walgreen Agency

University Florist
"For the Best in Flowers"
Pick Theatre Bldg.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
Telephone 6616

Just Received—
JANTZEN and CATALINA SWIM SHORTS
$3 to $6.50
Chose yours now while all sizes and styles are available
The YOUNG MEN'S SHOP
E. Main at Church
Durham

LEGISLATURE ABSENTEES

The following legislators have been reported to the Rules committee as having been absent from legislature meeting on May 6: Bob Allen, Kyle Barnes, Norman Black, Dick Boren, Richard Bowen, Ted Leonard, Don Robertson, Hilda Sharkey. Excuses for these absences should be turned in to Thurman Williams, DKE house, before the next regular meeting.

The Rules committee voted to excuse the following legislators for their absences on April 22: Richard Allsbrook, Bill Benjamin, Wally Robinson.

Midnite Show—Tonite
CAROLINA

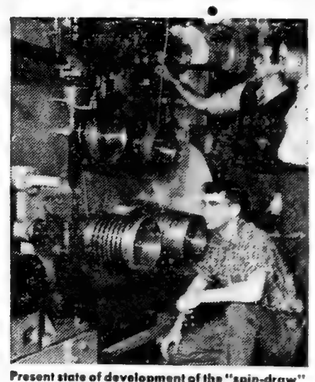
DU PONT Digest
For Students of Science and Engineering

Research Program Produces Technique for Tapering Molten Nylon Bristles

Difficult mechanical problems solved by Du Pont chemists and engineers to make nylon paintbrushes practicable

Nylon bristles used in toothbrushes and hairbrushes are uniform in diameter—that is, they are "level." But paintbrushes made from such bristles did not paint well. Studies of the best natural bristles showed that they were tapered, so a research program to produce tapered nylon bristles was started.

Some difficult mechanical problems were encountered. Level brush bristles were being made by extruding molten nylon through spinneret openings designed to produce filaments of perfectly uniform diameter. A new technique had to be found to make tapered ones. Since it was not practical to taper the filament after cooling and drawing, a precise taper had to be put in just as the nylon emerged molten from the spinneret. And it had to survive the drawing operation, in which nylon is stretched to several times its original length!

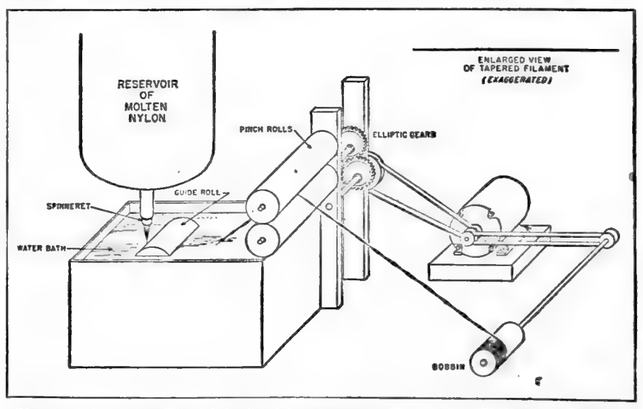


Techniques originated in laboratory

The original idea for solving this problem came from Du Pont chemists, who worked out the techniques in the laboratory, in the somewhat crude form represented in the accompanying diagram. It being largely a mechanical problem, chemical and mechanical engineers were called in to cooperate soon after the studies got under way. After further laboratory development, the engineers put the operation on a production basis.

The final result was a highly efficient process for tapering nylon bristles. As the molten filament emerges from the spinneret, pinch-rolls driven by a series of gears pull it slowly, then quickly. The size of the filament varies with the speed of pulling—thick diameters resulting at slow speeds and thin diameters at fast. Next the nylon goes to the drawing operation, where it is stretched by rollers to give it strength and resiliency.

Engineers designed special machines



Following spinning and drawing, in which many filaments are handled simultaneously, the nylon is "set." Then it goes to a special machine, designed by Du Pont engineers, which "feels out" the crests and troughs and cuts the bristle at these points. This type of design was necessary because of the unavoidable small variations in the length of individual bristles. Sorting the bristles and sandpapering their ends completes the process.

Present state of development of the "spin-draw" machine evolved from the crude laboratory apparatus shown in the diagram below.

Many techniques contributed to the development of the optimum properties of nylon in tapered bristles. At the laboratory stage, x-ray studies were made to learn the effect of various degrees of crystalization on bristle drawing and setting. Numerous devices were designed to test the bristles—for example, a machine that simulates the abrasive effect on a brush swept back and forth over a surface. Even after manufacture was established, high-speed stroboscopic photography and other stroboscopic studies were employed to improve coordination in the various operations and make a more uniform product.

The development of these bristles furnishes another striking example of the great variety of problems, often intricate, that may arise out of the discovery of a new substance like nylon.

Diagrammatic representation of the first laboratory apparatus used to establish the principle of making nylon from molten plastic. (From an early patent.)

Questions College Men ask about working with Du Pont

What are the opportunities in development work?

The conception of an idea in a research laboratory is merely the starting point at Du Pont. Men with training in mechanical, electrical, metallurgical, and chemical engineering are required to demonstrate the practicality of the laboratory findings, including small-scale operation of the new process. Even after the full-scale plant is operating, development work is continued to improve efficiency. Write for booklet, "The Du Pont Company and the College Graduate," 2518-A Nemours Building, Wilmington 98, Delaware.

DU PONT
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
BETTER THINGS FOR BETTER LIVING
...THROUGH CHEMISTRY

More facts about Du Pont — Listen to "Cavalcade of America" Monday Nights, NBC Coast to Coast

LI'L ABNER By AL CAPP

BEEROLOGY class tonite—at HARRY'S

LIBRARY (Periodical Dept)
University of North Carolina
Chapel Hill, N. C.
1-31-48

WEATHER
Cloudy with moderate temperatures.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
On Mother's Day
Ike Takes Staff
Full Moon '44

VOLUME LVI | United Press | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SUNDAY, MAY 9, 1948 | Phone F-3371—F-3361 | 162

Hill Establishes New Library Trust Fund; Other Gifts Discussed At Dinner Meeting

tablishment of a new trust fund by John Hill, Durham capitalist philanthropist and long-time member of the Board of Trustees of the University, and a number of important gifts were announced here last night at the dinner meeting the Friends of University library.

[illegible] the University's most substantial and generous benefactors, Mr. Hill has donated to it some valuable business property in Chapel Hill, and the net income from this will be used for the acquisition of materials for the North Carolina collections. The gift will be known as "The Hill Endowment of the North Caroliniana Fund."

Important gifts announced at the same time by Librarian Charles E. Rush included:

More than 4,000 books from the library of Josephus Daniels, including his collection of materials relating to Mexico, presented by his four sons, Josephus, Jr., Jonathan, Worth, and Frank Daniels.

Collection of "The Haywood Papers;" begun by John Haywood (first treasurer of North Carolina), continued by Dr. E. Burke Haywood and his son, Ernest Haywood—presented to the Southern Historical collection by Burke Haywood Bridges of Wilmington.

Six Shakespeare Books

Six significant books of research relating to Shakespeare and of his period by Dr. Hardin Craig of the University.

Recent study materials in English literature useful in both study and instruction—given by Dr. Norman Forester of Chapel Hill.

Three groups of books relating to Chinese history and travel, art criticism, and early New England history—given by Dr. George F. Horner, Chapel Hill.

Collection of 1062 items dealing with public health, medical history, travel in the Far East, Americana, North Caroliniana and fine printing—presented by Dr. William P. Jacocks of the Pulic Health department.

For Binding, Repair

One thousand dollars for the binding and repair of books presented by the donor within the past year—given by Dr. Jacocks.

Collection of the official transcripts and documents of the International Military tribunal at Nurenburg, 1945-46, collected at the trial by the donor, 1,030 items—given by Judge John J. Parker of Charlotte.

Chapel Hill Chamber of Commerce Might Have Hard Time With Small City Issue

If Chapel Hill had a chamber of commerce — and it does not — it probably could still claim for the town a village atmosphere with trees, and shrubbery and beautiful flowers in profusion, but it might have a hard time convincing folks that Chapel Hill isn't on the threshold of the small city stage.

The Junior Service league has completed a population survey and school census, one of the most ambitious projects ever undertaken here by a volunteer group, and has found, among other interesting facts, that the population of the school attendance district is 17,729, including university students. This would include Chapel Hill, Carrboro, and the close-in rural areas.

The population of Chapel Hill, which has not extended its corporate limits in 25 years, and its suburbs is reported at 3,285, including some 6,000 students living in this area.

Population of Chapel Hill within the corporate limits is 9825, including students, and 4453 if students are not included, indicating that the population increase within the town is 799 since the 1940 census.

The census, which was under the supervision of the University department of City and Regional Planning headed by John W. Parker, was made with great care be nearly 300 volunteer workers (40 section captains and 260 interviewers) and was directed by Mrs. M. R. Evans, president of the league, and Mrs. Walter Spearman, chairman of the census committee.

They and their co-workers spent several days over the cards checking and rechecking. Eric Hill, a graduate student in the University planning department, made the maps and was in immediate charge of the canvass. Daniel O. Price, associate professor of sociology, directed the classification. Members of the census committee, besides Mrs. Spearman, were Mrs. Henry Brandis, Mrs. M. M. Timmons, Mrs. W. D. Perry, Mrs. Carl Smith, and Mrs. R. L. McKee.

The report shows that the non-student population for the entire survey area (Chapel Hill corporate limits, suburbs, Carrboro and the country areas) is 9,257. Of this number, 2,743 are Negroes, making the non-student population 30 per cent Negro and 70 per cent white.

The report shows 1,451 houses in the city limits of Chapel Hill, 747 occupied by white families and 302 by Negroes. A total of 3,004 houses were reported for the entire survey area. There are 125 trailers within the city limits, mostly concentrated in areas prepared by the University for that purpose to provide housing for student families, and a total of 247 trailers in the survey area.

The census shows 855 student households, 1,116 student roomers, 3,691 students residing on the campus, and 565 in sorority and fraternity houses.

Of the total population tabulated for the entire survey, (17,729) 13,820 of them are over 18 years of age. Of these 7,435 are students. The total number of students under 18 years of age is 466.

There is a total of 3,142 motor vehicles in the survey area, 1665 in the corporate limits of Chapel Hill with 510 belonging to students, and the total for the rest of the area is 1477. The number of vehicles in the rural area alone is 980.

Y Offices Are Now Taking Applicants To Christian Meet

Student registrations are now being accepted for the Southern Student Christian conference at Berea college, Berea, Kentuckey, June 7 to 14. Interested students should apply at either the YMCA or YWCA office.

"The Task of a Christian Student in Today's World" will be the theme of the conference and approximately 400 men and women from colleges throughout the 10 southeastern states will attend.

Ruth Evans of Carolina and William Kyle of Virginia State College are co-chairmen of the conference, and Sam Magill, vice-president of the YM here, was a member of the planning council.

Rev. Mr. Charles Jones, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will be among the speakers, as will Dr. Ira Reid of Atlanta university; Dr. R. W. Edwin Espy, YM-YW executive secretary from New York; and Bill Kitchen, executive secretary of the World Student Service fund in New York.

Sponsored by the Southern division of the National Student YWCA and the Southern Area Student council of the YMCA, this conference is the first time that all students from the southern area have met together at one official conference.

MERCHANTS' HOLIDAYS

Merchants of Chapel Hill and Carrboro will observe half-holidays on Wednesday afternoons commencing June 9 and extending through September 1. The announcement came yesterday from Mrs. Lois Cranford, secretary of the Chapel Hill-Carrboro Merchants association.

HIS HONOR FINES HIMSELF

FRANKLIN, O. (UP)—Charles G. Black, council president, was acting mayor in the absence of Mayor J. T. Riley. Black received a parking ticket. The acting mayor, also serving as municipal judge, fined himself $1.

Summer Session Pre-registration Starts Tomorrow, Lasts One Week

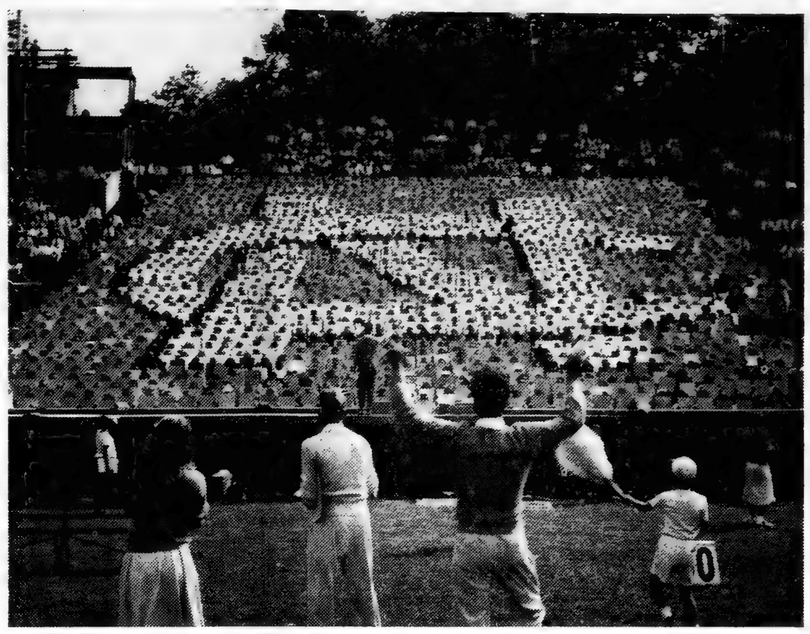
Pre-registration for the summer session will begin tomorrow, according to an announcement by Edwin S. Lanier, chairman of the Registration committee.

Only students who are registered for the spring quarter are eligible to pre-register for the summer session. Students should see their faculty advisers sometime before Wednesday to have the green forms prepared.

Deadline Set

According to Lanier, no green forms will be accepted in registration hall after Monday, May 17.

Students who do not plan to attend summer school, but who will return for the fall quarter, may pre-register for the fall session May 17-22. The procedure is the same as for the summer, from faculty advisers to the Registration hall, Venable "X".



All General college students who will not attend one or both terms of the summer school should register for the fall quarter during the period, May 17-22. Registration is by appointment with the student's General college adviser.

These appointments may be made by signing an appointment sheet at the information desk, main lobby of South building during the period May 11-15.

On Appointments

General college students who failed to make appointments for the summer school pre-registration should see Mrs. Adams in 308 South building before Wednesday.

Students who desire exemption from classes at certain hours for the summer school or the fall quarter should secure petition blanks from their deans. Students are instructed to attach the completed petition to the green form and turn both forms in at the same time to registration hall.

FOR THE BENEFIT of those Tar Heels participating in the card stunts at the Blue-White game last Saturday, here's what you were doing. The man behind the works, Head Cheerleader Norm Sper, is shown on the platform in front of the stands in Kenan stadium directing the show. The four cheerleaders pictured from the rear are Claudia Lee, Wray Farlow, Durwood Jones, and Sue Walton at the far right. The card stunts will be used for every home football game next fall. (Photo by Stan Croner)

Carl Sandburg Addresses Library Group On Value of Books, Their Inspiration

The value of books, as the inspiration for new ideas that often lead to great achievements was stressed by Carl Sandburg, noted poet, who now makes his home at Flat Rock in Western North Carolina, and who was the principal speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the Friends of the University Library, held at the Carolina Inn Friday.

More than one hundred persons attended, some of them from Durham, Raleigh, Greensboro, and other cities.

"You never can tell when some book one reads is going to give a life motivation and light the fires of imagination," said the silver-haired poet, who emphasized the importance of enlarged library facilities for this and other universities.

Sandburg also read a number of favorite poems from two of his volumes, "The People Yes" and "Poems of the Midwest", and concluded a delightful program with several songs in which he played his own guitar accompaniment.

Special guests included Dr. James W. Patton, head of the Department of History and Political Science, State college, who comes to the University next fall as assistant director of the Southern Historical collection, and Mrs. Patton; Jonathan Daniels, Raleigh editor, and Mrs. Daniels; Dr. Sylvester Green, Durham editor, and Dr. Robert W. Christ, Dr. Newman I White, and Dr. Harry Stevens of Duke University.

Dr. Louis R. Wilson, University of North Carolina, was reelected president of the organization, and Paul Green Chapel Hill; Dr. W. P. Jacocks, Raleigh, and George M. Stephens, Jr., Asheville, were named vice-presidents. Dr. Hardin Craig, UNC., was named to the executive committee, and ex-officio officers are Charles E. Rush, UNC Librarian, secretary, and J. A. Warren, UNC., treasurer.

John Sprunt Hill, Durham, was elected honorary chairman; Mrs. Lyman A Cotten, Chapel Hill, honorary secretary, and Dr. J. G. DeR. Hamilton, Chapel Hill, honorary life member.

Huffman Is Elected Phi Kap President

Floyd Huffman, Jr., of Hickory, was elected to the presidency of the local chapter of Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity at the last regular meeting, and Claude Cocker, Winston-Salem, will serve with him as vice-president.

Other officers elected at this time include: Morris Knudsen, Los Angeles, Cal., Sigma; Charles Lowrincore, Jr., Wilmington, Tau; Dan Willetts, Jr., Leland, Pi; Tom Alspaugh, Greensboro, Iota; Jack Brown, Durham, Upsilon; Bill Egeln, Sea Girt, N. J., and Charles Homan, Swedesboro, N. J., Thetas.

CHI DELTA PHI

Manuscripts to be submitted in Chi Delta Phi's spring membership contest should be submitted before Friday to Sally Woodhull in 202 Alderman. Short stories, poetry, book reviews or other forms of creative writing may be submitted as try outs for this national honorary literary society. Present members of the society will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Grail room.

Literary Magazine 'Factotum' Slated To Appear May 20

"Factotum," non-profit, non-partisan literary magazine, will come out for the first time on May 20.

The magazine will consist of 48 pages, 6 by 9 and will be priced at 35 cents. Editors of the new quarterly are O. B. Hardison, Harvey Honig and Paul Ramsey, Jr., all students at the University. The magazine is privately supported by certain residents of Chapel Hill.

Included in the first issue is an article by Norman Foerster and poems by Charles Eaton. In addition, it contains poems, short stories and critical articles by new writers. Primary purpose of the magazine is to bring work of new writers before the public.

Approximately two-thirds of the space of the first issue is devoted to writers in Chapel Hill. There are also contributions from New York, California, Georgia, Florida and Washington, D. C.

Professors, University Affiliates Are Elected to Town Precinct Posts

Six men affiliated with the University have been elected to posts in precinct politics in Chapel Hill. They are Walter Spearman, Clyde Carter, Bill Cochran, Paul Wager, W. E. Thompson and R. W. Linker.

Elections were held yesterday afternoon for precinct posts in the North and South districts of Chapel Hill. Chairman of the North precinct committee is Brack Creel, who was re-elected . Paul Wager, professor of political science, was picked as chairman of the South precinct.

Mrs. Roland McClamrock was chosen for the vice-chairman's spot in the North precinct, and the members of the committee in that area are Walter Spearman, journalism professor, Clyde Carter, economics professor, Bill Cochran, of the Institute of Government, and Mrs. J. S. Henninger, a member of the League of Women Voters.

Mrs. W. O. White is vice-chairman of the South precinct, with W. E. Thompson, Fletcher Green of the history department and R. W. Linker, French professor, on the committee.

Carl Durham, Congressional representative, and John Umstead, member of the North Carolina Assembly, spoke at the North precinct meeting, both urging a large turnout of voters for the primary May 29.

It was decided at the meetings that any member of a precinct in good standing may attend the county convention in Hillsboro and vote as an official delegate, since the 40-man quota of Chapel Hill is not expected to be officially filled.

Fag Not Needed . . . . . . in Two-Hour Exam

Weeds Start Those Trembles

ATHENS, Ga., May 8—Smoking even half a cigarette will make your fingers tremble, if you inhale. This was shown by experiments here on 100 college students of the University of Georgia, 50 of whom were smokers and 50 non-smokers.

The smokers show more finger tremor as a result of the smoking than do non-smokers. Dr. A. S. Edwards, who conducted the experiment, reports in the Journal of Applied Psychology. This he attributes to the fact that the habitual smoker generally inhales. For non-smokers, the finger trembling went up 18 per cent. For smokers the increase was 39 per cent.

In another experiment, the students took eight puffs on a cigarette in a minute. Habitual smokers showed an increase of 84 per cent. For the non-smokers, this time, it was noticed which inhaled and which did not.

The inhaler among the non-smokers averaged 129 per cent and for seven of these the average ran as high as 272.3 per cent. Compare this with 9.9 per cent for the non-smokers who did not inhale. Neither was any tremor increase noticed after the students had sat in a smoke-filled room, provided they did not do the smoking.

What causes the tremor? Is it the nicotine? To test this point, the students were given nationally advertised "denicotinized" cigarettes. Results were practically identical as with the standard tobacco. But when corn silk was used no increase in tremor resulted even after an hour of smoking. The corn silk was smoked in pipes, because the students had difficulty in making cigarettes of it.

Dr. Edwards also tested out the claim made by some students that they should not be expected to go through a two-hour examination without a smoke. After two hours of deprivation of cigarettes, the finger tremor was measured. If there was any nervousness as a result of going without smoking it did not show up in trembling finger tips.

CCUN Meeting Here Slated To Emphasize Strengthening US, UN

"The young people of the world will be the leaders of the United Nations," stated Lincoln Kan, local student who is state director of the North Carolina Collegiate Council for the United Nations, in keynoting the CCUN state-wide conference to be held here Friday and Saturday.

Colleges and universities in the five state districts of the council will be represented at the two-day meeting, which will feature radio forums, panels, discussions and speeches by distinguished statesmen of foreign nations, representatives of the U. S. State department and the office of the air secretary, according to George Drew, public relations director for the state CC UN organization.

The discussions during the fourth state conference will emphatisize strengthening the power of the United States and the United Nations as a step to insure peace in the present international situation.

The speeches are expected to concern the national and international influence on the conditions existing between the Western Bloc and the United Nations.

Main speaking events are scheduled for Friday afternoon and evening and Saturday noon. Radio coverage will be handled through the University Communications center.

A United Nations ball will be held to honor the speakers in Graham Memorial Friday night. A reception will also be held that evening in the student union.

Members of the local CCUN group expressed the hope yesterday that all students here will attend as many phases of the convention as possible. They stated that the program was planned to help inform the public of current UN problems.

GEOGRAPHY MEETING

Four members of the Department of Geology and Geography faculty attended a meeting of the Southeastern Section of the American Society of Professional Geographers at Knoxville, Tenn., Friday and yesterday.

They are: Dr. Samuel T. Emory, Dr. J. S. Gibson, William N. Turner and Thomas P. Field.

Women Choralists Slated to Present Old Compositions

Choral works ranging over four centuries of musical composition will be performed under the direction of Paul Young, associate professor of music, when the Women's Glee club presents its annual spring concert on Tuesday.

Mary Helen Zum Brunnen, contralto, will be the featured soloist on the program, according to the Music department.

Thursday's concert will begin with a group of sacred and secular work by William Byrd of Elizabethan England, Handel, Mendelssohn, and Liszt; and will continue with three choruses from operas by Henry Purcell, Mozart, and Modest Mussorgsky.

A highlight of the program will be the performance of six waltzes from Brahms' cycle of love songs. These will be followed by Randall Thompson's "Pueri Hebraeorum", a modern work by the composer of the well-received "Testament of Freedom" which the Men's Glee Club performed here last month.

Following intermission, the glee club will sing a group of folk songs and three modern choral works of Elinor Warren, Vaughan Williams, and William Schuman.

This concert is the third in the 1947-48 glee club series of concerts. Holders of season tickets are asked to present stubs for reserved seats. Single admissions are also on sale at the box office in 109 Hill. Reservations will be held until 8:20 on the evening of the concert.

YW Group Will Hold Open Meet Tomorrow

The Public Affairs committee of the YWCA will hold an open meeting tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Y building. The program features three speakers.

Mary Ann Daniels, newly elected president of the YWCA, will speak on the qualifications of Harold Stassen for president. Patsy McNutt will review Thomas Dewey's qualifications for the forthcoming presidential election. Tomorrow's meeting will also feature a talk on Vandenberg by Barbara Dalton.

Wallace Meeting Discloses Names On N. C. Ballot Petition Total 200

A meeting of the Wallace-for-President club Friday night disclosed that club members have thus far secured an estimated 200 of the 500 valid signatures set as the Orange county quota in the drive to place Wallace's name on the North Carolina ballot.

Vice-chairman Paul Morehead presided over the meeting which heard plans for continuing the program now underway for getting 2,000 signatures in Durham county and for registering potential Wallace voters in the two counties.

Sidney Shanker, graduate student from Brooklyn, N. Y., reported he had placed approximately 100 names on the Wallace petition while canvassing the Negro areas of Chapel Hill last week. By using a local map he suggested to the group his ideas for extending the drive for signatures to points of the area not previously covered.

Club member Dan Harris spoke to the club in a denouncement of the Mundt-Nixon bill now being proposed in Congress by the Un-American committee.

The group as a result appointed a committee to publicize throughout the state what it deems the unfairness of the proposed measure. Letters concerning the bill will be sent to other organizations on campus, it was decided.

Harris vehemently proclaimed, "This measure if passed would outlaw nearly all of the basic principles being advocated by Henry Wallace and the third party."

He said the measure is merely an attempt by Wall Street to intimidate the common worker and to prevent persons from verbaliy attacking the Marshall plan and Wall Street activities.

Harris said further that the bill proposes to jail any individuals who attempt to abolish Jim Crow laws.

On Mothers Day

There really was no reason for a specific day to be set aside as a tribute to the world's loveliest women — our Mothers. For ours is an ever present reverential regard and homage to the women who labored through early years, when life's impressions were kindled in stainless minds, and who now take wordless pride in the images they have created. So it is that when we salute our Mothers publicly, as we do today, it is an expression of outspoken love and devotion meant as a reminder that though they are never forgotten, we pause in our routine, especially today, to honor their names, to glorify their sanctity.

It is to be imagined that even on "her special day", our Mother's will confine their thoughts to those who are far from home. Her prayers, symbolic of every Mother's unselfishness, will be for sons and daughters not present to share in the day's blessing and tribute.

This Sunday, then, our mission will be rededication to one of the few perpetual monuments of true devotion — a Mother's love. Those few words you have written in a letter, the message in a telegram, the thoughtfulness of a gift and attendance at a special church service — these are your ways of remembering America's unconquerable pillar of strength. —B.B.

Objectives For Mr.Dedmond

On May 17, one week from next Monday, the Board of Trustees of the Greater University of North Carolina will meet in Raleigh. According to the constitution adopted by citizens of this campus in May of 1946, one of the duties of the president of the student body is to represent the students in all dealings with the trustees of the University.

When Mr. Dedmond walks into the meeting of the 17th, we hope he remembers one of the greatest needs of the campus today—a new student union. Graham Memorial is doing its best to serve 7,000 students, but the building and its facilities are obviously inadequate.

Whether or not the trustees can do anything concrete toward a new student union to replace the present overworked one is an extremely dubious question, but the matter should certainly be brought to their attention.

Another thing Dedmond must do on that Monday morning, if he is to fulfill the duties of the office he was elected to by the student body, is to explain to the trustees in no uncertain terms that we need and must have a 75-cent increase in the block fee we pay each quarter. Latest observations seem to point to the fact that Dedmond does not approve of the increase, but his job is not to express his own opinions but the feelings of the student body.

There is nothing more urgent than the need of money when an organization is operating in the red. This campus is in the red $6,600 for this year and will be in the red $5,426.85 more for the 1948-49 budget. Something must be done, and an increase in the block fee is the only practicable answer.

When President Jess Dedmond walks into the trustees' meeting on Monday, May 17, we hope that he will have two things to present to them—the need for a new student union and an increase in the block fee structure. —C.H.

State Your Opinion On The Budget

Suppose you are a veteran and that you get 75 bucks a month from Uncle Sam. Suppose that $75 is your total income. That's $2.50 a day in a 30-day month.

Now suppose it costs you 25 cents to eat breakfast, 73 cents to eat lunch and 88 cents to eat dinner. Suppose laundry costs you 20 cents a day, cleaning 10 cents, and a room to sleep in 47 cents, and you allow 7 cents a week for soap, tooth paste and razor blades. That's $2.64 a day. You're not going to any movies and you're not buying any new clothes, but still you're paying out more than you're taking in.

What would you do? You could quit eating breakfast or you could wear dirty clothes, or you could start sleeping in a tent. Rather than do any of these things, though, most of us would go to work and get some more money.

The Student Legislature is up against a like problem. It isn't declaring any dividends in entertainment to the students and it isn't buying campus organizations any new clothes, but still it is having to pay out more than it is taking in. It could make the campus go without breakfast or wear dirty clothes by cutting down appropriations to student government, publications and other organizations, or it could make some organizations live in a tent by cutting off their appropriations entirely. If the Legislature is to keep giving us the same quality of government and publications and other organizational activity, however, it must have more money.

Student fees play Uncle Sam to the Legislature. They provide its $75 a month. To give the legislature sufficient funds for operation at a normal level these fees will have to be increased. After investigating the situation, the Finance committee reported to the legislature Thursday night a bill to raise fees 75 cents a quarter. The bill was sent back to committee for further consideration. The Student Council may be called upon to rule on a point of constitutionality. If the ruling is favorable the bill will come up for a vote.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Mondays, examination and vacation periods by the Colonial Press, Inc. During the official summer terms, it is published semi-weekly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 8, 1879. Subscription price: $8.00 per college year, $3.00 per quarter.

LEASED WIRE OF UNITED PRESS

Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y. Member Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ED JOYNER, JR.
Business Manager T. E. HOLDEN

NIGHT EDITOR: Chuck Hauser NIGHT SPORTS: Bob Goldwater

Kerr-Stares

Where Oh Where Has The Ballot Run Away To?

By Tom Kerr

Hate to steal this from the news department, but we bumped into some strange doings over in the Law school. From our sources we get it that the law students chose not long ago to take a poll for the Durham Morning Herald on their thoughts and feelings on the Negroes-in-the-law-school question.

All the conscientious law students took their little ballots, filled out the three questions including an essay on the race subject, and, as instructed, put the ballots in the ballot box. All was well.

About this time some eager beaver over there decides to study late into the night. This bit of not too trustworthy info came out the next morning when our local hero claimed that the ballot box was there at his 1:30 departing time.

You guessed it. The next morning the ballot box was gone. Needless to say, this caused quite a stir among all those potential jurists. So the Manning hall "Mr. District Attorneys" pulled out their magnifying glasses and promptly set to work.

Now we wouldn't want to point an accusing finger, but very unreliable sources let us know that the Wallace club and the Carolina Conservative club have already been investigated. South building was given the once over, and even one of the Law school's efficient secretaries was questioned.

No telling what the outcome of this curious whodonit is going to be, but we take this opportunity to strongly suggest an investigation of the Heyhowyou club.

Write Away

Runts And Men

Editor:

May I call our attention to a typographical error appearing in the editorial " . . . Also Applies Here," May 7.

The phrase which reads "American's . . . are deplorably ill-informed about their own government and the men who runt it," should obviously have read "Americans . . . are deplorably ill-informed about their own government and the runts who man it."

Hale Chamberlain

WHAT'S UP in Graham Memorial

So you find it kind of hard, after a more-than-pleasant weekend, to look forward to Monday? Don't we all.

But if you can manage to make it through the day tomorrow, you can find some mighty pleasant listening in GM's main lounge at 6:30 tomorrow evening. Beethoven's Symphony No. 1 and his Twelve Contra Dances will be played on the regular recorded dinner music hour.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Ike Takes Staff To Columbia

Washington — The Republicans were right in calling the turn on General Eisenhower's use of Army personnel after his retirement from the Army. However, it's interesting that the man who called the turn was Congressman A. L. Miller of Nebraska, spearhead of the MacArthur-for-President movement. These boys don't like Eisenhower.

Also it's significant that other high-ranking generals and admirals have continued to use Army-Navy personnel after their retirement. For instance, Admiral Ernie King, now retired, used not only a Navy office but Navy clerical personnel to write a book.

And if all the money spent on Gen. John J. Pershing during his retirement were added up it would total over a million. Pershing, though retired for years, continues to be the second highest paid Government official, drawing a salary of around $26,000 a year. Only the President or the United States tops him. In addition, Pershing has a colonel as an aide, plus other Army personnel, and for years has lived at Walter Reed Hospital.

Eisenhower has a staff of three assigned to him at Columbia — Maj. Robert L. Schulz, an aide; WAC warrant officer Margaret Hayes and Master-Sergeant Leonard Dry, a chauffeur. He also draws a salary of $15,751 a year for life from the Army in addition to his salary as president of Columbia University.

Note — Pershing, though appointed by Woodrow Wilson, is the son-in-law of the Republican Chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, the late Francis E. Warren of Wyoming. The Republicans now consider Eisenhower a Democrat.

The Social Whirl

Undersecretary of Commecre William C. Foster was having heavy conferences with Dave Austin, vice president of U. S. Sttel, Adm. Ben Moreel of Jones and Laughlin, and other steel tycoons when a colored messenger brought in a note for the undersecretary.

"It's very important," he said. "I'm to wait for a reply."

The meeting came to a standstill while Foster read the note — then reread it.

"Take a look at that note," he suggested to the steel tycoons.

It was a message from Foster's wife, explaining that she had lost her key to the liquor closet. She wanted the Undersecretary of Commerce to do something about it before a cocktail party to which she had invited guests that afternoon.

Note — Foster sent his wife a duplicate key, went on talking about the steel situation.

GOP Secrecy

Democratic Congressmen were decidedly irked with their Republican colleague from California, Bud Gearhart, for demanding that hearings on the continuation of Cordell Hull's reciprocal trade treaties be held in secret. But their ire was nothing compared with the anti-Gearhart resentment of a group of ladies.

Congressmen Gearhart made the mistake of referring to these ladies as "sewing circle sisters" who wanted to make "State Department statements" about reciprocal trade treaties.

However, the so-called sewing circle sisters just happen to be members of some of the most important and respected women's organizations in the country. They include Dr. Bessie Randolph of the American Association of University Women; Mrs. Arthur F. Anderson of the YWCA; Mrs. Joseph M. Welt of the National Council of Jewish Women; and Miss Rose Schneiderman of the National Women's Trade Union League.

Indignant at the Congressman's decision to hold secret hearings over a matter affecting the entire nation, the "sewing circle sisters" got off a hot telegram of protest to the Ways and Means Committee.

Meanwhile the committeemen themselves were having a fiery fiery debate behind closed doors over the secrecy ban imposed by Congressman Gearhart.

"This is an important matter in which the public is getting interested," protested North Carolina's Bob Doughton. "The evidence should be heard in open hearings."

"We don't have time for full-dress hearings," replied Gearhart. "If the House doesn't act fast and get this legislation to the Senate by May 15 the President may not be able to sign it before June 12, when the State Department's authority to make these trade agreements with other nations expires."

"It wouldn't take any longer to hear testimony in open sessions and you know it," snapped Doughton. "Besides, the State Department prefers that the hearings be public."

"I would say that you are in a poor position to criticize the State Department for star-chamber proceedings when you're trying to conduct one yourself," hotly interrupted Democrat Aime Forand of Rhode Island.

However, the Republicans supported Gearhart. The Democrats and the women's organizations which wanted to testify were voted down. The trade hearings will be held in secret.

Battle Over Atomic Scientists

You are going to hear a lot about the personalities of the Atomic Energy Commission before the final debates are over about their reappointment.

One thing that came out during the closed-door session between atomic scientists and the Senate Atomic Committee was that Atomic Commission Chairman David Lilienthal, chief target in the political brawl, wants to resign after completing one more year of service. So does his colleague, Robert F. Bacher.

This 'n That

Full Moon in '44, Crisis in '48

By Bill Buchan

(Four years ago this July, I got very sentimental and homesick as 18 year old kids, on their way to war, have an inclination of doing.

After a long session of discussing the world's trouble with another kid from Indianapolis, I went down below (to F deck, I believe,) and put all my troubles and "dreams" on paper. After we arrived in England, I mailed the "article" home. Several days ago, while going through some old letters, I found the thing and no one else better than I knows how silly or sentimental it is. However, with the current world crisis I thought it might prove something or other to print the "dreams" of a war-headed soldier on the third anniversary of the ending of one particular phrase of that war. The headlines, from current newspapers, are added just for the kicks. Form your own conclusions.)

"We were watching the moon and thinking of other full moons we'd seen in other places. Thinking!! That's about all one has to do these days so far from home . . . think and play poker or read "Pocketbooks". Tonight I was thinking about Pinebluff and Shorty's mind was recalling the busy streets of Indianapolis . . . two places —miles apart, but connected now by the little ward "Home". One is inclined to learn just how much that little four-letter word can mean when he sails beyond the Lady enroute to a war."

HOUSE BODY PASSES CONSCRIPTION BILL FOR PEACETIME ARMY

". . . Home!! Wonder when we'll be going back? That thought must be in the minds of all the men lined up along the rail staring silently at the sky. That and another much more important one—What are we going home to?

BATTLE-READY BRITISH SPEED TO PALESTINE

"Men from New York City and other large cities joke when they discuss which corner they are going to sell pencils on. Rather a grim joke, however. Someone today suggested a bull session that when we go home the p... will "meet", "greet" and "forget".

UMT-DRAFT COMPROMISE IS APPROVED BY TRUMAN

"When we go home, depends almost pletely on the men overseas, but what w... home to, we can do nothing about but what we want. Often that doesn't do much ... Congressmen make trips overseas to see themselves how the war is progressing. N... ever suggested sending a committee of influ... men to the United States to see how Congress is progressing."

CLAY SAYS NAZIS BECOMING ACTIVE IN REICH AGAIN

"Home"—would we go home to raise son... return to Europe in twenty-five yea... another war?"

US IS OFF ON FIVE-YEAR MILITARY PLAN

". . . we'll always be counting the da... months until the time when we can ... to the United States, for there we ha... country that really is worth fighting for. ... we have a faith in one another that notwi... no matter how strong, can tear down."

TOUGH ANTI-COMMUNIST BILL FACES HOUSE VOTE

"We don't feel sorry for ourselves. I be... that there are very few men aboard who actu... ly do. We are just uneasy sometimes ab... what the future brings. The old master sergea... who was overseas in 1918 might have kno... what he was talking about when he said th... just like the first time, the people would me... greet, and forget us. . . . And yet, when one sits down and really thinks it over, he knows there is nothing to worry about."

VIOLENCE MARKS BOGGING OF PEACE PLANS IN JERUSALEM

". . . he knows that a country that has progressed so far in so few years will take care of the returning men. He knows that this time the Ameican people will see to it that a peace is made that is real and that will last."

PARIS FEELS FEAR OF WAR MORE THAN WASHINGTON OR LONDON

Tate Of The Campus

A Coed Makes The Edit Page

By Lindsay Tate

Today a coed has actually been allowed to enter the relms of the mighty fourth estate. Since the Wallace Club and Communists, decidedly minority groups, are so well publicized, perhaps it's time for the coed viewpoint on campus activities to be expressed.

Financially speaking, the condition of the campus is in the red. Various and sundry plans have been suggested by a special investigation committee and Jess Dedmond. It is to be hoped that the legislature will not deem it necessary to carry out Miles Smith's bill to drop the underwriting of the literary quarterly. There are many valid reasons for the Carolina Quarterly, and it would be extremely unadvisable for the Student Legislature to override the opinions of those 1400 students who signed a petition to sex up such a publication. There seems to be methods of economizing that would not affect appropriations already made to the Debating Council, Speaker's Bureau, and other worthy organizations. Mr. Dedmond's suggestions to the Student Legislature seem the most reasonable.

In the legislature, things were pretty quiet last week. The Smith Bill to drop the appropriation to the Quarterly and another redistricting bill to "unconfuse the Elections committee" were the only business. The Election committee is holding open meetings Monday through Wednesday afternoons. If you're interested in being represented fairly in the legislature, you might drop around. Joe Leary is more than glad to hear new ideas. Here's a hope that the question will be settled once and for all—or at least until next year.

Summer plans are growing in every quarter. Of course, there'll be a host of people back at summer-school—seems they can't bear the thought of missing a party at Hogan's Lake. Others will loaf; some few will be working. I'm putting in my bid for the Encampment for Citizenship in New York. It sounds like a worthwhile six weeks. See Al Lowensten for details.

After the Sweetheart weekend, the Sigma Chi seranaded five girls in the Alderman—Kenan—McIver triangle. Three seranades went to McIver, one each to the other dorms. Current saying is, "With men who know their coeds best, it's McIver 3 to 1.

The current GM joke is courtesy of Billy the third. It's unprintable—see him.

Commendations and a gold plaque should go to whoever is responsible for resuming bricklaying on campus walks. If the draft goes through, some freshman here now may see the completion of the project. Speaking of the draft, it's hard to believe that only three years ago, we were speaking glibly of a (quote) lasting peace (unquote).

Academically, mid-terms are over and the parties have resumed. Might mention that finals are only five weeks off and an hour or two now might save a headache later.

The Professor Has A System

Scram Bum, You're Done Typed

Greencastle, Ind. —(ACP)— Professor A. Reid Winsey of DePauw University classifies students.

"After 15 years of lecturing in a typical small liberal arts college, one collects an astonishing array of interesting types. Several weeks ago, after a delightful dinner of crabmeat and pickles they all returned to haunt me:

"1. The athletic type—The academic processes hold no terrors for the hero of the gridiron. His fraternity brothers have a complete file of my lecture notes and examinations. It's a rare treat to find him in class. So nice of him to come.

"2. The playboy type—The morning after finds him in class in his roommates shoes on the wrong foot. He drops his pipe but never quite recovers it. I hand it to him after class.

"3. The academic type—Probably the most objectionable of all. The head is attached to the spine on a hinge and nods back and forth during the entire lecture and the mouth and eyes utter continually, 'Yes, professor. Yes, professor.'

"4. The negative type—All right brother, you put me in this class now just try to teach me something. You would put me in the front row. I can hear him uttering under his breath, 'For gosh sakes let's get this over.'

"5. The lovey dovey type—Must be taken together for they are inseparable as two Siamese twins. Hearts and music, violets and poetry, these two love birds are majoring in Marriage and the Family.

"6. Camouflage—He always brings an armload of books to class to impress me, I guess. The boys are on to him, however, and someone is always picking on him. At the moment he's sitting on a tack and trying to get some one's feet off his back.

"7. The popular type—She had four fraternity pins this semester, three last, and spends her class hour twisting the ends of her beautiful hair. This little stunt is sure to drive any instructor insane.

"8. The wholesome type—Wears what every college girl should wear, acts like every college girl should act and talks like every college girl should talk—constantly. She's at it now.

"9. The clock watcher—I suppose she has wound her watch three times already. She always starts shuffling her feet and putting on her coat about 15 minutes before the end of the class.

"10. The sexy type—This would-be campus queen just loves the boys, all the boys, all the time. She doesn't care what the other girls think of her clothes, they're just jealous.

"11. The tardy type—Always bursts into the room in the middle of your most important statement. Of course, her seat is taken and the battle begins in earnest."

Hollywood Film Shop

She's Agin Editorial Writers

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Madeleine Carroll has declared her own war on editorial writers.

Miss Carroll spent six years in Europe as a Red Cross worker in war and in reconstruction. Nobody can tell her now, she says, that because she's also an actress she lacks political intelligence.

"Nobody wants actors and actresses to take any interest in politics," she said. "I say that all Americans—and I mean all—ought to take an intense personal interest in national politics and world politics as well."

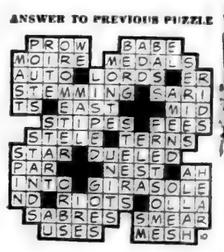
What touched off Miss Carroll's storm was a New York newspaper editorial expressing a low opinion of movie star political activity. The political intelligence of movie stars, it said, was "very, very low."

Miss Carroll got her half-Irish temper up when someone showed her the editorial on the set of her new picture, James Nasser's "An Innocent Affair."

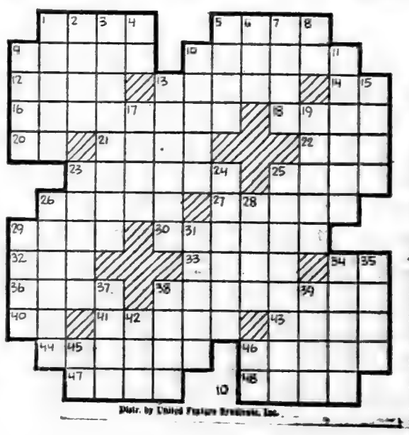
"It's so unfair," she sputtered. "Actors and actresses are just as profound, as a class, as editorial writers.

"This is an election year. I am an American citizen, although born in Britain of an Irish father and a French mother. I love France. I love freedom and the institutions for which we Americans fought.

"This man writing in the paper wants to write me and all my fellow players off as political dumbbells. Who does he think he is?"



Miss Carroll knows her qualifications as a citizen. They include years on the fighting fronts of North Africa, Italy, France and Germany.



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS

1—Refreshing substance
5—Produces
9—Black tea
10—Learned critic
12—Thought
13—To raise
14—Electrical unit
15—Honduras colns
18—Jason's ship
20—Man's nickname
21—Fight
22—Seed
23—To laud
25—Troubles
26—Large cats
27—Barrier
29—Old Chinese dynasty
30—Like a pixie
32—Emmet
33—Irish noble
34—Near
36—High hat person
38—Bloodthirsty
40—Conjunction point
41—Truck
43—In
44—Swaps
45—Mocking look
47—To remain
48—Look closely

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

DOWN

1—Portended
2—An interjection
3—Jumping game
4—Child's name for mother
5—Amounts owed
6—A number
7—Norse poetry
8—Yes (Sp.)
9—Liver juice
10—Invokes deity
11—Fastening pin
13—To cook by searing
15—Canines
17—Country in Near East
19—Germany
23—Kind of horse
24—Image
25—Like a goose
26—European finch
28—Part of Ireland
29—Group
31—Dens
34—Garden flowers
35—Norse god of thunder
37—Bleat
38—Three-spot
39—Arrow poison
42—Harem room
45—Rupees (abbr.)
46—Spanish (abbr.)

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Trackmen Take 69-62 Victory Over Navy; Carolina Fourth In SC Golf Meet

Georgetown Edges Tar Heel Nine, 7-6; Netters Triumph At Richmond

Moody's Broad Jump Win Clinches Meet For Third Victory

By Bob Goldwater

Coach Dale Ranson's countenance was decked out in its widest smile of the current track season at 3:52 P.M. yesterday down on Fetzer field when it was announced that five points scored in the broad jump had moved the Carolina point total definitely out of reach of further assault on the part of Navy's cinder squad.

The final tally, as determined after a Middie relay victory, was 69-62, which was enough to provide the Tar Heels with their third triumph of the campaign. It also served as a fine sendoff for the Carolina forces as they prepare to defend their Southern conference track crown here next weekend.

Deciding Points

The five deciding points were registered by Jumping Jack Moody, one of three double winners during the afternoon, with a classy 23 foot, two-inch leap on his fifth takeoff. Needing at least a second place to clinch top honors for his team, Moody actually won the event on his fourth try, then proceeded to do even better with his best-jump effort of the year.

The results immediately prior to Moody's second win of the afternoon — he had won the high jump much earlier — set the stage for his clinching action. That event — the 220-yard low hurdles — saw Carolina score a clean sweep to move from a two-point advantage to an 11 point lead.

Winner of the all-important race was Ted Schultz, who led all the way. But the other four points obtained from this event were gained in the final 50 yards. It was about that time that Bob Morrow passed Middie Bill Meanix, and Dick Taylor flashed past the Navy man after coming off the last hurdle to complete the sweep.

